me as you dealt with my father David when you sent him cedars to build a house to live in. 3 I am now building a house to honor Yahweh, my God, to acknowledge his holiness by burning incense of scented spices in his presence, by the loaves that are perpetually set out, by offerings morning and evening, on the sabbath. New Moon, and the solemn festivals of Yahweh our God – and this forever in Israel. 4 The house I am building will be large, for our God is greater than all gods. 5 Yet no one can really build a temple for God because the heavens and the heaven cannot contain him. And I cannot build him a house for anything more than to burn incense in his presence. 6 So send me a man skilled in working with gold, silver, bronze, iron, scarlet, crimson, violet, and the art of engraving too; he is to work with the skilled men whom my father David provided here in Judah and Jerusalem. 7 From Lebanon send me cedar wood, juniper and alghummim, since I know your servants are experts in felling the trees of Lebanon. My servants will work with yours. 8 They will prepare wood in bulk for me, since the house I wish to build is to be of astounding size. 9 For the woodmen who are to fell the trees I assign twenty thousand kors of grain, twenty thousand kors of barley, twenty thousand baths of wine, and twenty thousand baths of oil – this is for the main-

10 In a letter sent to King Solomon, Hiram king of Tyre replied, "Because Yahweh loves his people he has made you king. 11 Blessed be Yahweh, the God of Israel, who has made the heavens and the earth, and given King David a wise son, full of understanding and skill, who is going to build a house for Yahweh and a palace for himself and his court. 12 And I am also sending you a skilled craftsman, Hiramabi, 13 the son of a Danite woman by a Tynan father. He is skilled in the use of gold, silver, bronze, iron, stone, wood, scarlet, violet, fine linen, crimson, in engraving of all kinds, and in the execution of any design suggested to him. Let him be put to work with your craftsmen and those of my lord David, your father. 14 So now let my lord send his servants the wheat, barley, oil and wine, as already suggested.

15 For our part, we will cut down all the cedar trees you need from Lebanon, and bring them to you in rafts by sea to Joppa, and you will transport them to Jerusalem."

16 Solomon took a count of all the foreigners living in the land of Israel, following the census that David his father had taken; it was found there were a hundred and fifty-three thousand six hundred. 17 He impressed seventy thousand of these for carrying loads, eighty thousand for quarrying in the hill country, and three thousand six hundred as overseers to make sure the people worked.

The building of Yahweh's house

3 1 Solomon then began to build Yahweh's House in Jerusalem on Mount Moriah where David his father had a vision. It was the place prepared by David, the threshing floor of Ornan the Jebusite. 2 Solomon began building in the second month of the fourth year of his reign, on the second day. 3 The house which Solomon built was 90 feet long and 30 feet high. ⁴The Hall in front of the Great Room of the Temple was 30 cubits long across the width of the house, and its height was 180 feet. He plated it on the inside with pure gold. ⁵The Great Room he faced with juniper which he plated with pure gold, and on it set palms and festoons. ⁶He adorned the building with precious stones of great beauty; the gold was gold from Parvaim, ⁷and with this he faced the house, the beams thresholds, walls and doors; on the walls he carved cherubs.

⁸He then built the Holy of Holies; its length, across the width of the Great Room, was 30 feet, and its width 30 feet. He plated it with 25 tons of fine gold; ⁹the gold nails weighed 20 ounces. He also plated the upper rooms with gold. ¹⁰In the Holy of Holies he made two cherubs of wrought metal work and plated them with gold. ¹¹The total span of the cherubs' wings was 30 feet, each being 7 1/2 feet long, with one wing touching the wall of the room, while the other touched that of the other cherub. ¹²One wing of a cherub, 7 1/2 feet long, touched the wall of the apartment; the second, 7 1/2 feet long, touched the wing of the other cherub. ¹³The spread of these cherubs' wings was 30 feet. They stood on their feet, facing the Hall.

4 ¹He made an altar of bronze, 30 feet long, 30 feet wide and ten high. ²He made the Sea of cast metal, 15 feet from rim to rim, circular in shape and 7 feet high; a cord 44 feet long gave the measurement of its girth. ³Under it and completely encircling it were pomegranates; they went around the Sea over a length of 44 feet; the pomegranates were in two rows, of one and the same casting with the rest. ⁴It rested on twelve oxen, three facing north, three facing west, three facing south, three facing east; on these, their hind-quarters all turned inward, stood the Sea. ⁵It was a hand's breadth in thickness, and its rim was shaped like the rim of a cup, like a flower. It could hold 15,000 gallons of water.

⁹He made the court of the priests and the great court with its gates and plated the gates with bronze. ¹⁰He placed the Sea some distance from the right-hand side, to the southeast.

Thus he completed the work he had to do for King Solomon in the house of God: ¹²the two pillars; the two moldings of the capitals surmounting the pillars; the two sets of filigree to cover the two moldings of the capitals surmounting the pillars; ¹³the four hundred pomegranates for the two sets of filigree, with the pomegranates of each filigree in two rows; ¹⁴the ten stands and the ten basins on the stands; ¹⁵the Sea and the twelve oxen beneath it; ¹⁶the pots, the shovels, the forks, and all their accessories made by Huram-abi of burnished bronze for King Solomon, for Yahweh's House. ¹⁷The king made them by the process of sand casting, near the Jordan between Succoth and Zeredah. ¹⁸Solomon made all these articles in such quantities, that the weight of bronze could not be reckoned.

¹⁹Solomon placed all the furnishings he had made in the house of God: the golden altar and the tables for the loaves of offering; ²⁰the lampstands of pure gold with their lamps to burn, as prescribed, before the sanctuary, of pure gold; ²¹the floral work, the lamps, the extinguishers, of gold (and it was pure gold); ²²the knives, the sprinkling bowls, incense boats, of fine gold; the door of the Temple, the inner doors (for the Holy of Holies) and the Temple doors (for the Hekal), of gold.

The ark is brought to the temple

5 ¹So all the work that Solomon did for Yahweh's House was completed, and Solomon brought the dedicated offerings of his father David, the silver and the gold and the vessels, and put them in the Temple storerooms.

¹¹Finally the priests came out of the sanctuary. All the priests were present, for they had purified themselves whatever group they belonged to. ¹²All the Levite musicians, Asaph, Heman and Jeduthun with their sons and brothers, were stationed to the east of the altar, robed in fine linen and playing cymbals, harps, and lyres. A hundred and twenty priests accompanied them on the trumpet. ¹³All those who played the trumpet, or who sang, united in giving praise and glory to Yahweh. Lifting their voices to the sound of the trumpet and cymbal and instruments of music, they gave praise to Yahweh. "For he is good, for his love is everlasting." Just then a cloud filled the sanctuary, the building of Yahweh.

6 ¹Then Solomon said: "Yahweh has chosen to live in the thick cloud. Yes, I have built you a majestic temple, ²a place for you to live in forever."

³Then the king turned and asked God's blessing on the whole assembly of Israel, who were standing there. ⁴He said, "Blessed be Yahweh, the God of Israel, who has spoken through the mouth of David, my father and has now carried out by his hand what he said: ⁵From the day I brought my people out of Egypt until now I did not choose any city in the land of Israel as the place to build a house where my Name would be, and I did not choose anyone to be prince of my people Israel. ⁶But now I have chosen Jerusalem as the place where my Name will be, and you, David, to rule my people.' ⁷My father David had set his heart on building a house for the Name of Yahweh, the God of Israel, ⁸but Yahweh said to him, 'You have set your heart on building a temple for my name, and in this you have done well; ⁹and yet, you are not the man to build the house; your son, born of your own body, shall build me a house.' ¹⁰Yahweh has kept the promise he made: I have succeeded David my father and am seated on the throne of Israel, as Yahweh promised; and now I have built a house for the Name of Yahweh, the God of Israel, ¹¹and have placed in it the ark containing the covenant that Yahweh made with the people of Israel."

Solomon's prayer

¹²Then in the presence of the whole assembly of Israel Solomon stood before the altar of Yahweh and stretched out his hands. ¹³Solomon had made a bronze pedestal and had placed it in the middle of the court; it was 7 feet long, 7 feet wide and 7 feet high. Solomon mounted it, and knelt down on it in the presence of the whole assembly of Israel; he stretched out his hands to heaven. ¹⁴and said, "Yah-weh, God of Israel, not in heaven nor on earth is there such a God as you; you are true to your covenant and show graciousness toward your servants when they live in wholehearted obedience to you. ¹⁵You have kept the promise you made to your servant David my father; what you promised with your mouth, today you have carried out by your hand. ¹⁶And now, Yahweh, God of Israel, keep the promise you made your servant David when you said, 'You shall always have someone from your line to rule as king of Israel, if only your sons are careful how they behave, following my Law as you yourself have done.'

¹⁷So now, God of Israel, let the words come true which you spoke to your servant David my father. ¹⁸Yet will God really live with men and women on the earth? Why, the heavens and their own heavens cannot contain you! How much less this house that I have built! ¹⁹Listen to the prayer and grant the requests of your servant, Yahweh my God; listen to the cry and to the prayer your servant makes to you. ²⁰Day and night let your eyes watch over this house, where you have promised that your Name would be.

²¹Hear the prayers of your servant and of Israel your people as they pray in this place. From heaven where your dwelling is, hear; and, as you hear, forgive.

²⁴If Israel your people are defeated by the enemy because they have sinned against you, but they return to you and praise your name and humbly pray to you for forgiveness, in this house, ²⁵hear from heaven. Forgive the sin of your people Israel, and bring them back to the land you gave to them and to their ancestors.

²⁶When the heavens are shut and there is no rain because they have sinned against you, if they pray in this place and praise your name, having been humbled by you, and repent of their sin, ²⁷hear from heaven and forgive the sin of your servant and of your people Israel. Teach them to do what is right; and send rain on your land which you have given your people as an inheritance.

²⁸Should there be famine in the land or epidemic or the crops are destroyed by scorching winds or swarms of locusts, should this people's enemies lay siege to one of their cities, if there is any plague or sickness, ²⁹if any person, or all Israel your people, should, out of heartfelt sorrow, pray, stretching out his hands toward this house, ³⁰hear from heaven where your home is. Forgive, and deal with each as his conduct deserves, for you know each heart - you alone know the hearts of all humankind - ³¹that they may come to you and follow your ways as long as they live in the land you gave to our ancestors.

³²And the foreigner too, not belonging to your people Israel, if he comes from a distant country for the sake of your Name and of your mighty hand and outstretched arm, if he comes and prays in this house, ³³hear from heaven where your home is, and grant all the foreigner asks, so that all the peoples of the earth may come to know your name and, like your people Israel, revere you, and know that your Name dwells in this house I have built.

³⁴If your people go out to war against their enemies whatever way you send them, and if they turn toward the city you have chosen and toward the house I have built for your Name and pray to you, ³⁵hear from heaven their prayer and give them victory.

³⁶If they sin against you - for there is no one who does not sin - and you are angry with them and deliver them to the enemy, and they are led away captive to a land far or near, ³⁷if in the land of their exile they come to themselves and repent, and in the country of their captivity they pray to you saying, 'We have sinned, we confess how sinful and wicked we have been,' ³⁸and if they turn again to you with all their heart and soul in the country of their captivity to which they have been deported, and pray, turning toward the land you gave their ancestors, toward the city you have chosen, and toward the house I have built for your name, ³⁹hear from heaven where your home is. Hear their prayer, be merciful to them, and forgive your people the sins they have committed against you.

⁴⁰Now, O my God, may your eyes be open and your ears attentive to the prayer offered in this place. ⁴¹And now rise Yahweh God, come to your resting place, you and the ark of your power. Let your priests, Yahweh God, be blessed in all they do, and your faithful people rejoice in prosperity.

⁴²Yahweh God, do not reject the face of your anointed king and remember David your servant."

Dedication of Yahweh's house

7 ¹When Solomon had finished his prayer, fire came down from heaven and burned up the sacrifices that had been offered; and the Glory of Yahweh filled the Temple. ²The priests could not enter the temple of Yahweh's House because the glory of Yahweh filled his house. ³All the people of Israel.

seeing the fire come down and the Glory of God resting on the house, bowed down on the pavement with their faces to the earth; they worshiped and gave praise to Yahweh. "for he is good, for his love is everlasting." ⁴Then the king and all the people offered sacrifice before Yahweh. ⁵King Solomon offered twenty-two thousand oxen and a hundred and twenty thousand sheep in sacrifice; and so the king and all the people dedicated Yahweh's House. ⁶The priests stood in their places, and also the Levites who gave praise to Yahweh on the instruments that David had made to accompany the canticles of Yahweh, "for his love is everlasting." They played and sang the hymns of praise that David had composed. By their side were the priests sounding the trumpet, while all Israel stood.

¹¹Solomon finished Yahweh's House and the royal palace and successfully concluded all he had set himself to do in both of them. ¹²Then Yahweh appeared to Solomon in the night and said, "I have heard your prayer. I choose this house to be the place where sacrifices are to be offered to me. ¹³When I close the skies and there is no rain, when I command the locust to devour the land, when I send an epidemic among my people, ¹⁴and my people who bear my name humble themselves, and pray and look for me, and turn from their wicked ways then I myself will hear from heaven and forgive their sins and restore their land. ¹⁵From now on, my eyes are open and my ears attentive to the prayer that is offered in this place. ¹⁶From now on, I have chosen and consecrated this house as the place where my name will be forever; my eyes and my heart will be there forever.

¹⁷For your part, if you serve me faithfully as David your father did, if you do all that I order you and keep my statutes and my ordinances, ¹⁸I will make your royal throne secure, according to the promise I made to David your father when I said: Israel will always be ruled by one of your descendants. ¹⁹But if you turn away from me and forsake the commandments and statutes I have set before you, and go and serve other gods and worship them, ²⁰then I will cast the Israelites out from the land I have given them, and I will reject this house that I have consecrated as the place where my Name would be, so that it may be an example for all the nations. ²¹All those who pass by this place which is now so exalted, will be astounded; they will whistle and say, 'Why has Yahweh treated this country and this Temple like this? this Temple like this?' ²²And the answer will be, 'Because they abandoned Yahweh, the God of their ancestors, who brought them out of the land of Egypt, and they adopted other gods, which they worshipped and served: that is why he has brought all these disasters on them.'

Solomon's works

8 ¹Solomon spent twenty years in building Yahweh's House and his own palace. ²Then he rebuilt the towns that Hiram had given him and settled Israelites in them. ³He went against Hamath of Zobah and conquered it; ⁴he built Tadmor in the wilderness and all the storing towns which he built in Hamath. ⁵He rebuilt Upper Beth-horon and Lower Beth-horon, fortified towns with walls and gates and bars, ⁶also Baalath and all the storing towns owned by Solomon, all the towns for his chariots and horses, and all it pleased Solomon to build in Jerusalem, in Lebanon and in all the countries subject to him. ⁷Solomon employed for forced labor all those who remained of the Hittite, Amorite, Perizzite, Hivite and Jebusite peoples, that is the non-Israelites ⁸whose descendants were left in the country and had not been killed by the Israelites. Their descendants continue to be slaves down to the present time. ⁹Upon the Israelites, however, Solomon did not impose slave labor; these served as fighting men; they were officers of his chariots and commanders of horsemen.

¹⁰Solomon appointed two hundred and fifty overseers to make all these people work.

¹¹Solomon brought Pharaoh's daughter from the City of David up to the house he had built for her. For he said, "I can't let a woman live in the palace of David king of Israel; these are holy places where the ark of Yahweh has been."

¹²Solomon then offered burnt offerings to Yahweh on Yahweh's altar which he had built in front of the porch. ¹³Observing the daily rule for burnt offerings according to the requirements of Moses for sabbaths, New Moon and the three annual feasts: the feast of Unleavened Bread, the feast of Weeks and the feast of Tabernacles. ¹⁴He established the priestly orders in their duties according to the regulations of his father David. He also enforced the rules affecting the Levites who offered praise and served with the priests according to the daily ritual, and the different orders of gatekeepers at each gate, for such had been the commandments of David, the man of God. ¹⁵They did not change anything of the royal ordinances applying to the priests and the Levites, not even in the matter of treasurership. ¹⁶In this way all of Solomon's work was completed from the day when the foundations of Yahweh's House were laid, until the end - And so Yahweh's House was finished.

¹⁷Then Solomon went as far as Eziongeber and Elath on the shores of the sea, in the land of Edom. ¹⁸Hiram sent him ships manned by his own men, who were experienced sailors. These men went with Solomon's men to Ophir and from there they brought back almost sixteen tons of gold, which they delivered to King Solomon.

The Queen of Sheba

9 ¹The fame of Solomon having reached the queen of Sheba, she came to Jerusalem to test him with difficult questions. She came with immense riches, camels loaded with spices, great quantities of gold and precious stones. On coming to Solomon, she asked him all the questions that she had in mind, ²and Solomon had an answer for all her questions, not one was too difficult for him to explain. ³When the queen of Sheba saw the wisdom of Solomon, the palace he had built, ⁴the food at his table, the accommodations for his officials, the organization of his staff and the way they were dressed, his cupbearers and the burnt offerings he offered in the Temple of Yahweh, it left her breathless; ⁵and she said to the king, "What I heard in my own country about you and your wisdom was true, then! ⁶I could not believe what they told me not even half of your wisdom for the reality surpasses what I heard. ⁷How happy your wives are! How happy these servants of yours who wait on you always and hear your wisdom! ⁸Blessed be Yahweh your God who loves you and made you king to rule in his name. Because your God loves Israel and wants to preserve them forever, he has made you their king to administer law and justice."

²⁰All King Solomon's drinking vessels were of gold, and all the furnishings in the Hall of the Forest of Lebanon were of pure gold; silver was not considered valuable in the time of Solomon. ²¹And the king also had ships that went to Tarshish with Hiram's men, and once every three years the ships of Tarshish would come back bringing gold and silver, ivory, apes and baboons. ²²King Solomon was richer and wiser than any other king in the world. ²³All the kings of the earth consulted Solomon to hear the wisdom God had given him, ²⁴and each would bring his own present: gold vessels, silver vessels, robes, armor, spices, horses and mules; and this went on year after year.

²⁹The rest of the history of Solomon, from first to last, is recorded in the History of Nathan the prophet, in the Prophecy of Ahijah of Shiloh, and in the Vision of Iddo, the seer concerning Jeroboam son of Nebat. ³⁰Solomon reigned in Jerusalem over all Israel for forty years. ³¹Then Solomon rested with his fathers and was buried in the City of David his father; his son Rehoboam succeeded him.

The division of the kingdom

10 ¹Rehoboam went to Shechem where all the people of northern Israel had gone to proclaim him king. ²As soon as Jeroboam son of Nebat heard the news - he was still in Egypt where he had gone to escape from king Solomon - he returned from Egypt. ³The people of the northern tribes sent for him, and he came with the whole assembly.

And they said this to Rehoboam, ⁴"Your father placed heavy burdens on us. If you make these burdens lighter for us, we will serve you." ⁵He said, "Come back to me in three days." And the people went away.

⁶King Rehoboam consulted the older men who had served as advisers to his father Solomon and asked them, "What reply do you advise me to give to this people?" ⁷They said, "If you are kind to these people and listen to them and treat them fairly, then they will serve you forever." ⁸But he rejected the advice given him by the elders and consulted the bloody young men who had grown up with him. ⁹He asked, "How do you advise us to answer these people who have said to me, 'Lighten the burden your father put on us?'" ¹⁰These bloody young men who had grown up with him replied, "Give this answer to these people who have said, 'Your father gave us a heavy burden to bear, you must lighten it for us.' Say this to them, 'My little finger is thicker than my father's waist!'" ¹¹My father made you bear a heavy burden, but I will make it heavier still! My father beat you with whips; I am going to beat you with bullwhips!"

¹²Jeroboam with all the people came to Rehoboam on the third day according to what the king had said. ¹³"Come back to me on the third day." ¹⁴King Rehoboam, rejecting the advice of the elders, gave them a harsh answer ¹⁵and spoke to them as the bloody young men had recommended, "My father made you bear a heavy burden, but I will make it heavier still. My father beat you with whips; I am going to beat you with bullwhips!" ¹⁶The king in fact paid no attention to the people's wishes, and this was brought about by God to carry out what Yahweh had spoken through Ahijah of Shiloh to Jeroboam son of Nebat. ¹⁷When all Israel saw that the king paid no attention to their wishes, they gave him this answer: "Down with David and his descendants! What have they ever done for us? To your tents, men of Israel; let's go home. From now on let Rehoboam look out for himself!"

¹⁸So the people of Israel rebelled and Rehoboam was left with those people of Israel who lived in the towns of Judah. ¹⁹King Rehoboam sent Adoram who was in charge of forced labor, but the Israelites stoned him to death; ²⁰whereupon King Rehoboam was obliged to mount his chariot and escape to Jerusalem. And the people of Israel have been in rebellion against the family of David until the present day.

11 ¹Rehoboam went to Jerusalem and called together the tribes of Judah and Benjamin, a hundred and eighty thousand selected warriors, to fight the northern tribes of Israel and win back the kingdom of Rehoboam. ²But the word of Yahweh came to the prophet Shemaiah, ³"Say this to Rehoboam son of Solomon, king of Judah, and to all the Israelites in Judah and Benjamin, "Yahweh says this: ⁴Do not attack your fellow Israelites; let everyone go home, for what has happened is my doing." ⁵They obeyed Yahweh's command and went back, instead of fighting against Jeroboam.

Rehoboam

Rehoboam lived in Jerusalem and built fortified towns in Judah. ⁶He rebuilt Bethlehem, Etam, Tekoa, Bethzur, Socoh, Adullam, ⁸Gath, Mareshah, Ziph, Adoraim, Lachish, Azekah, ¹⁰Zorah, Ajalon, Hebron; these were fortified towns in Judah and Benjamin. ¹¹He fortified them with walls and put commanders in them with stores of food, oil and wine. ¹²In each of these towns were shields and spears. He made them very strong to keep Judah and Benjamin under control.

¹³From all the territory of Israel, priests and Levites came south to Judah. ¹⁴The Levites, indeed, abandoned their pasture lands and their holdings, and came to Judah and Jerusalem, since Jeroboam and his sons did not recognize them as the only priests of Yahweh ¹⁵and had appointed priests of his own to serve at the high places to worship the goats and the bull calves he had made. ¹⁶Members of all the tribes of Israel, people who sincerely wanted to worship Yahweh the God of Israel, followed them and came to Jerusalem to sacrifice to Yahweh, the God of their ancestors. ¹⁷These Israelites added strength to the kingdom of Judah, and gave their support to Rehoboam son of Solomon for three years, because during three years he followed the example of David and Solomon.

12 ¹As soon as Rehoboam had established his authority as king had become powerful, he and all his people abandoned the Law of Yahweh. ²In the fifth year of Rehoboam, Shishak the king of Egypt attacked Jerusalem, since it had been unfaithful to Yahweh. ³With twelve hundred chariots and sixty thousand horses and countless army of Libyans, Suckim and Ethiopians who came from Egypt with him, he captured the fortified towns of Judah and reached Jerusalem. Rehoboam and the Judean captains, at the advance of Shishak, had gathered near Jerusalem; ⁵to them came Shemaiah the prophet and he said, "Yahweh says this: as you have abandoned me, now I have abandoned you into the hands of Shishak. ⁶Then the Israelite captains and the king humbled themselves and said, "Yahweh is just!" ⁷When Yahweh saw that they had humbled themselves; the word of Yahweh came to Shemaiah. "They have humbled themselves; because of this I will not destroy them. In a little while I will grant them deliverance; my anger shall not fall on Jerusalem through the power of Shishak. ⁸Nevertheless they shall become his slaves, so that they may come to understand the difference between serving me and serving the kings of foreign countries."

¹³King Rehoboam was able to strengthen his position in Jerusalem and to govern. Now Rehoboam was forty-one years old when he became king and he reigned for seventeen years in Jerusalem, the city chosen by Yahweh out of all the tribes of Israel, as the place where his Name would be. Rehoboam's mother was Naamah, the Ammonitess. ¹⁴He did evil, because he had not set his heart on seeking Yahweh.

¹⁵The history of Rehoboam, from first to last, is all recorded in the Annals of Shemaiah the prophet and of Iddo the seer. There was constant warfare between Rehoboam and Jeroboam. ¹⁶Then Rehoboam rested with his fathers and was buried in the City of David; his son Abijah succeeded him.

Abijah

13 ¹In the eighteenth year of King Jeroboam, Abijah became king of Judah ²and reigned for three years in Jerusalem. His mother was Micaiah, daughter of Uriel, from Gibeah. Abijah and Jeroboam were at war. ³Abijah went into battle with an army of brave fighters, four hundred thousand picked men, while Jeroboam drew up his battle line against him with eight hundred thousand picked men, brave soldiers.

⁴Abijah went up Mount Zemaraim, in the hill country of Ephraim, and cried, "Jeroboam and all Israel, listen to me! ⁵Do you know that Yahweh the God of Israel has given the kingship of Israel to David forever? It is an unbreakable covenant for him and for his sons. ⁶Yet Jeroboam son of Nebat, a servant of Solomon son of David, has rebelled against his king; ⁷worthless men, scoundrels, have rallied to him and opposed Rehoboam, the son of Solomon. Rehoboam, then a young man and timid, was unable to resist them. ⁸Now you propose to subdue the Kingdom of Yahweh that he gave to David's descendants. You stand here with a huge army, but you are bringing the golden calves that Jeroboam made you for gods! ⁹Have you not driven out the priests of Yahweh, the sons of Aaron and the Levites, to make priests of your own like the peoples of foreign countries? Anyone who comes with a bull and seven rams can ask to be consecrated and become priest of what is no god at all! ¹⁰As for us, our God is Yahweh, and we have not abandoned him: the sons of Aaron minister to Yahweh, and the Levites as well. ¹¹Every morning, every evening, we burn burnt offerings to Yahweh our God, we have the incense of sweet spices, the loaves set out in rows on the pure table, the golden lampstand with its lamps that burn each evening; for we observe the ritual of Yahweh our God, that you have abandoned. ¹²See how God is with us, at our head; see his priests with the trumpets, which they will sound against you. People of Israel, do not fight against Yahweh, the God of our ancestors, for you will not succeed."

turning about, found themselves attacked from the front and the rear. They called on Yahweh and while the priests sounded the trumpets, ¹⁵the men of Judah raised the war cry. And as they raised the war cry, God scattered Jeroboam and all Israel before Abijah and the people of Judah. ¹⁶The Israelites fled before Judah and God delivered them into the power of the Judeans. ¹⁷Abijah and his army inflicted a crushing defeat on them: five hundred thousand of Israel's chosen men were killed. ¹⁸And so the people of Israel were humbled and the people of Judah were victorious because they relied on Yahweh, the God of their ancestors.

¹⁹Abijah pursued Jeroboam's army and captured towns from him: Bethel with its outlying villages, Jeshanah with its outlying villages and Ephron with its outlying villages. ²⁰So in the lifetime of Abijah, Jeroboam could no longer maintain his power. Yahweh struck him down, and he died. ²¹But Abijah grew in strength; he took fourteen wives and had twenty-two sons and sixteen daughters. ²²The rest of the history of Abijah, his conduct and his deeds, is not all this recorded in the commentary of the prophet Iddo? Then Abijah rested with his fathers and they buried him in the City of David; his son Asa succeeded him.

In his time the country was at peace for ten years.

Asa

14 ¹Asa did what is good and right in the eyes of Yahweh. ²He removed the altars of foreign worship and the High places. He broke down the sacred stones and cut down the Asherah's trunks. ³He commanded the people of Judah to do the will of Yahweh, the God of their ancestors, and to observe the Law and its commands. ⁴He removed the High places and the altars of incense in every town of Judah. The kingdom was at peace under his rule. ⁵He rebuilt the fortified towns of Judah, since the country was at peace, and there was no war during those years, for Yahweh granted him peace.

⁶He told the people of Judah, "Let us rebuild these towns and surround them with walls and towers, with gates and bars while we have control of this land, since we have done the will of Yahweh our God; and he has protected us and given us peace on every side."

⁷They built and prospered. Asa had an army of three hundred thousand Judeans armed with buckler and spear, and two hundred eighty thousand Benjaminites bearing shield and wielding the bow, all of them brave, well-trained men.

⁸Zerah the Cushite, with an army one million strong and three hundred chariots, made an incursion which reached to Mareshah. ⁹Asa marched against him and drew up his battle line in the Valley of Zephathah, at Mareshah. ¹⁰He called on Yahweh, his God, "Yahweh, no one but you can stand up for the powerless against the powerful. Come to our help, Yahweh our God! We rely on you, and fight against this huge army in your name. Yahweh, you are our God. Let no one defeat you."

¹¹Yahweh defeated the Cushites when Asa and the Judean army attacked them. The Cushites fled, ¹²and Asa pursued them with his army as far as Gerar. The Cushites fell even to the last for they had been overpowered by Yahweh and his camp. They collected great amounts of loot. ¹³They conquered all the towns in the area of Gerar, for the terror of Yahweh had fallen on these towns and they plundered them all since they were full of loot. ¹⁴They also attacked the camps of some shepherds and carried off great numbers of sheep and camels; then they returned to Jerusalem.

15 ¹The spirit of God came on Azariah, son of Obed; ²he went out to meet Asa and said, "Listen to me, Asa, and all you of Judah and of Benjamin. Yahweh is with you so long as you are with him. When you look for him, he lets you find him; when you turn away, he will abandon you. ³For a long time Israel will be without the true God, and without priest to teach the Law, ⁴but when trouble comes, they will turn to Yahweh, the God of Israel. They will look for him and find him. ⁵When that time comes, there will be no peace for anyone, for many troubles will come upon all the inhabitants of the earth. ⁶One nation will oppress another nation, and one city another city, because God will bring trouble and distress on them. ⁷But for your part, take courage, and be strong, for your deeds will be rewarded."

⁸When Asa heard these words and this prophecy, he was encouraged to do away with all the idols throughout the land of Judah and Benjamin, and in the towns he had captured in the highlands of Ephraim; he then repaired the altar of Yahweh that stood in front of the Hall of Yahweh. ⁹He gathered all Judah and Benjamin together, and also the Ephraimites, Manassites and Simeonites who had settled with them, since great numbers of Israelites had gone over to Asa's side when they saw that Yahweh was with him. ¹⁰In the third month of the fifteenth year of Asa they assembled in Jerusalem; ¹¹and they sacrificed to Yahweh that day seven hundred oxen and seven thousand sheep out of the spoil they had brought back. ¹²They made a covenant in which they agreed to seek Yahweh, the God of their ancestors, with all their heart and soul; ¹³anyone who would not seek Yahweh the God of Israel was to be put to death, young or old, man or woman. ¹⁴They pledged their oath to Yahweh aloud with shouts to the sound of trumpet and horn; ¹⁵all Judah rejoiced at the oath they had wholeheartedly taken. They sought Yahweh so earnestly that he let them find him, and granted them peace on every side.

¹⁶King Asa took from his grandmother Manahah her title of queen mother, because she had made a hideous idol Asherah. Asa cut down the idol, and burned it in the wadi Kidron. Though the High places were not abolished in Israel, the heart of Asa was blameless all his life. He deposited the offerings dedicated by his father and his own offerings too, in the house of God, silver and gold and furnishings.

16 ¹Up to the thirty-fifth year of Asa's reign, there was no war. In the thirty-sixth year of Asa's reign, Baasha king of Israel invaded Judah and fortified Ramah to blockade Asa king of Judah. ²Asa then took the silver and gold from the treasuries of Yahweh's House and the royal palace, and sent it with the following message to Ben-hadad king of Aram: who lived in Damascus, ³"Let there be a covenant between myself and you, as between my father and your father! With this I send you silver and gold. Come break off your alliance with Baasha king of Israel, so that he goes away from me. ⁴Ben-hadad agreed, and sent his generals against the towns of Israel; he conquered Ijon, Dan, Abelmaim and all the garrison towns of Naphtali. ⁵When Baasha heard this he stopped fortifying Ramah, abandoning this work. ⁶King Asa then brought all the people of Judah, who took away the stones and timber with which Baasha had been fortifying Ramah, and the king used them to fortify Geba and Mizpah.

⁷It was then that Nanani, the prophet, came to Asa king of Judah and said, "Since you have relied on the king of Aram and not on Yahweh your God, the army of the king of Aram will escape from you. ⁸Did not the Cushites and Libyans form a vast army with great numbers of chariots and horses? And were they not delivered into your power because you relied on Yahweh? ⁹Yahweh keeps close watch over the whole world to give strength to those who are devoted to him wholeheartedly. You have acted foolishly in this matter, for from now on you will have wars."

¹⁰Asa was very angry with the prophet and had him put in chains in prison, for he was angry because of these words. At the same time Asa treated some others harshly too.

¹¹The history of Asa, from first to last, is recorded in the Book of the Kings of Judah and Israel. ¹²A disease attacked Asa from head to foot in the thirtieth year of his reign; and, what is more, he turned in his sickness, not to Yahweh, but to doctors. ¹³Then Asa rested with his fathers in the forty-first year of his reign. They buried him in the tomb he had ordered to be dug for himself in the City of David. They laid him on a couch entirely covered with spices and varied ointments, products of the perfumer's skill, and lit a huge fire for him.

Jehoshaphat

17 ¹His son Jehoshaphat succeeded him and strengthened his position against Israel. ²He put troops in all the fortified towns in Judah, and appointed governors in the land of Judah and in all the towns of Ephraim captured by his father Asa.

³Yahweh blessed Jehoshaphat because he followed the example of David his father and did not worship Baal: ⁴he served the God of his father, following his commandments and not following the example of Israel. ⁵So Yahweh made the kingship secure in his hands; all the people of Judah brought gifts to Jehoshaphat, and ample riches and honor were his. ⁶He took pride in serving Yahweh and destroyed all the High places and Asherah's trunks in Judah.

¹⁰The fear of Yahweh came upon all the kingdoms surrounding Judah, so that they did not war against Jehoshaphat. ¹¹Some of the Philistines brought him gifts and silver in tribute; the Arabs themselves brought him, in small stock, seven thousand seven hundred rams and seven thousand seven hundred he-goats. ¹²Jehoshaphat became more and more powerful. Throughout Judah he built fortresses and towns with storage places.

¹⁷From Benjamin: the valiant warrior Eliada with two hundred thousand, armed with bow and shield; ¹⁸under his command, Jehozabad with a hundred and eighty thousand equipped for war.

¹⁹These were the men who served the king, not counting those the king had put in the fortified towns throughout Judah.

Jehoshaphat and Ahab

18 ¹Jehoshaphat, the, enjoyed great wealth and honour and allied himself by marriage to Ahab. ²After some years he went to visit Ahab in Samaria. Ahab slaughtered for him and for his retinue great numbers of sheep and oxen; then urged him to attack Ramoth-gilead. ³And he asked Jehoshaphat, "Will you come with me to Ramoth-gilead?" Jehoshaphat answered the king of Israel, "I am with you, my men are yours, and we will fight together."

⁴Jehoshaphat, however, said to the king of Israel, "First, please consult the word of Yahweh." ⁵So the king of Israel called the prophets who were four hundred men, and asked them, "Should we march to attack Ramoth-gilead, or should I refrain?" They replied, "Go, because Yahweh will deliver it into your power." ⁶But Jehoshaphat said, "Is there no other prophet of Yahweh here for us to consult?" ⁷The king of Israel answered, "There is one more man through whom we can consult Yahweh, but I hate him because he never tells me good things but only discouraging words. He is Micaiah son of Imlah." Jehoshaphat said, "The king should not say such things." ⁸Accordingly the king of Israel summoned one of his officials and said, "Bring Micaiah son of Imlah immediately."

⁹The king of Israel and Jehoshaphat king of Judah were both sitting on their thrones in royal garments; they sat at the threshing-floor outside the gate of Samaria, with all the prophets raving in front of them. ¹⁰Zedekiah son of Chenaanah had made himself iron horns and said, "Yahweh says this: You will gore the Arameans till you make an end of them." ¹¹And all the prophets prophesied the same saying, "March to Ramoth-gilead, for you will succeed. Yahweh will deliver it into the power of the king."

¹²In the meantime the messenger who had gone to summon Micaiah said to him, "All the prophets as one man are foretelling victory to the king. Try to speak like one of them and foretell success." ¹³But Micaiah answered, "As Yahweh lives, what my God says, that will I utter!" ¹⁴When he came to the king, the king asked him, "Micaiah, should we go to attack Ramoth-gilead, or should I refrain?" He answered, "Go and you will succeed. They will be delivered into your power." ¹⁵But the king said, "How often must I beg you to tell me nothing but the truth in the name of Yahweh?" ¹⁶Then Micaiah said, "I have seen all Israel scattered on the mountains like sheep without a shepherd. And Yahweh said, 'These have no master, let each one go home in peace.'"

¹⁷At this the king of Israel said to Jehoshaphat, "Did I not tell you that he never foretells me good things, but only what is discouraging?" ¹⁸Micaiah went on, "Listen to the word of Yahweh. I have seen Yahweh seated on his throne; all the array of heaven stood to his right and to his left. ¹⁹Yahweh said, 'Who will trick Ahab king of Israel so that he goes and falls at Ramoth-gilead? At which some answered one way, and some another. ²⁰Then a spirit stepped forward, approached Yahweh and said, 'I will trick him.' Yahweh asked, 'How?' ²¹He replied, 'I will go and become a lying spirit in the mouths of all his prophets.' Yahweh said, 'You shall trick him and succeed. Go and do it.' ²²So Yahweh has put a lying spirit into the mouths of your prophets here because he himself wants you to meet with disaster!'"

²³Then Zedekiah, son of Chenaanah came up and slapped Michaiiah's face, and he asked, "When did the spirit of Yahweh leave me, to talk to you?" ²⁴Michaiiah replied, "This is what you will find out the day you flee from house to house to hide." ²⁵The king of Israel said, "Seize Michaiiah and hand him over to Amon, governor of the city, and to Prince Joash, ²⁶and say: This is the king's order: Put this man in prison and feed him on nothing but bread and water until I come back safe and sound." ²⁷Michaiiah said, "If you come back safe and sound, Yahweh has not spoken through me."

²⁸The king of Israel and Jehoshaphat king of Judah went to attack the city of Ramoth in Gilead. ²⁹The king of Israel said to Jehoshaphat, "I will disguise myself as we go into battle, but I want you to wear your royal clothes." The king of Aram had given his chariot commanders the following order: "Do not attack anyone of whatever rank, except the king of Israel." When the chariot commanders saw Jehoshaphat, they thought he was the king of Israel. And they wheeled to the attack. But Jehoshaphat gave a shout and Yahweh came to his help. God rescued him and turned the attack away from him. The chariot commanders realized that he was not the king of Israel and called off their pursuit.

By chance, however, one of the soldiers shot an arrow which struck the king of Israel between the joints of his armor. The king said to his charioteer, "Turn around and get me out of the battle; I have been hurt." But the battle grew fiercer so that they held the king upright in his chariot facing the Aramaeans until evening, and at sunset he died.

19 ¹Jehoshaphat came back safe and sound to Jerusalem. ²Jehu, son of Hanani the prophet, went to meet him and said to king Jehoshaphat, "Should a man give help to the wicked? Should you love those who hate Yahweh? Because of this you have brought his anger on you? ³There is some good in you, however, since you have removed from your land Asherah's trunks and have set your heart on seeking God."

⁴Jehoshaphat stayed for a time in Jerusalem. After that he would again visit his people regularly, from Beersheba to the highlands of Ephraim to bring them back to Yahweh, the God of their ancestors. ⁵He appointed judges in the country in every one of all the fortified towns of Judah. ⁶He said to these judges, "Give due thought to your duties, since you are not judging in the name of men but in the name of Yahweh, who is with you whenever you pronounce sentence. ⁷May the fear of Yahweh now be on you. Keep the Law, apply it, for Yahweh our God does not tolerate fraud or partiality or the taking of bribes."

⁸In addition, Jehoshaphat appointed priests, Levites and heads of Israelite families in Jerusalem as judges in cases involving a violation of the Law or legal disputes between people living in the city. They lived in Jerusalem ⁹and Jehoshaphat gave them the following instructions, "You are to perform these duties in the fear of Yahweh, as upright and honest men. ¹⁰Whatever dispute comes before you from your brothers living in their towns: either about crimes or questions of the Law, you are to teach them the commandments, statutes or ordinances, so that they do not become guilty of sinning against Yahweh, lest his anger come on you and your brothers. Do this and you will not be guilty."

¹¹Amariah, the chief priest, will have final authority over you in all religious matters, and Zebadiah son of Ishmael, governor of Judah in all matters affecting the king. The Levites will serve as your scribes. Be courageous, carry out these instructions, and Yahweh will be there to bring success."

20 ¹After this the Moabites and Ammonites with some of the Meunites started to make war on Jehoshaphat. ²Jehoshaphat received the following message, "A large army is advancing against you from Edom, from the other side of the sea; they are already at Hazaaon-tamar, that is, Engedi." ³Jehoshaphat was frightened and prayed to Yahweh for guidance. Then he ordered that a fast be observed throughout the country. ⁴Judah assembled to seek help from Yahweh; they came seeking Yahweh's guidance from every single town in Judah.

⁵Then Jehoshaphat stood before this assembly of the people of Judah and Jerusalem in Yahweh's House, before the new court ⁶and said, "Yahweh, God of our ancestors, are you not the God who dwells in heaven? Do you not rule over all the kingdoms of the world? Such power and might are in your hands that no one can oppose you. ⁷Are you not our God, you who drove out the people who were living here before your people Israel and gave the land to the descendants of your friend Abraham forever? ⁸They have settled in it and built a sanctuary in it for your name, ⁹saying, 'Should disaster strike us, or war, punishment, epidemic, or famine, then we shall stand before this house and before you, for your Name rests on this house. From the depths of our distress we shall cry to you, and you will hear and save us.'

¹⁰Here now are the Ammonites and Moab and the folk of Seir. When Israel came out of the land of Egypt you would not let Israel invade them; instead, Israel turned away from them and did not destroy them, ¹¹and this is how they reward us, by coming to drive us out of the possessions you have given us as our inheritance. ¹²Will you, our God, not punish them, since we are helpless in the face of this large army that attacks us? We ourselves do not know what to do; but we look to you."

²⁰They rose early in the morning and left for the wilderness of Tekoa. As they were setting out, Jehoshaphat stood and said, "Listen to me Judah and all who live in Jerusalem! Put your trust in Yahweh your God and you will stand your ground; have faith in his prophets and you will be successful." ²¹Then, having held a conference with the people, he ordered some musicians to put on the robes they wore on sacred occasions and to march at the head of the army, to sing praises to him. "Give praise to Yahweh, for his love is everlasting." ²²As they began to sing their joy and their praise, Yahweh threw the invading armies into a panic and completely destroyed them. The Moabites and the Ammonites struck the people of Seir and there was a disaster. ²³For the Ammonites and Moabites turned on the mountain folk of Seir in savage fighting and after they had destroyed them, they began to kill one another.

³¹Jehoshaphat reigned over Judah. He was thirty-five years old when he became king and he reigned for twenty-five years in Jerusalem. His mother was Azubah, daughter of Shilhi. ³²He followed the example of his father Asa without wavering, doing what is right in the eyes of Yahweh. ³³The High places however, were not destroyed; the people had still not turned their hearts to the God of their ancestors. ³⁴The rest of the history of Jehoshaphat, from first to last, is recorded in the Annals of Jehu son of Hanani which have been transcribed into the Book of the Kings of Israel.

³⁵After this, Jehoshaphat king of Judah allied himself with Ahaziah king of Israel, who led him into evil ways. ³⁶He combined with him to build big ships that would sail to Tarshish. These were built at Ezion-geber. ³⁷Eliezer, son of Dodavahu of Maresah, then made a prophecy against Jehoshaphat, "Because you have allied yourself with Ahaziah, Yahweh has destroyed your plans." In fact the ships broke up and were never fit to sail to Tarshish.

Jehoram

21 ¹Jehoshaphat rested with his ancestors and was buried in the City of David. His son Jehoram succeeded him.

²Jehoram had six brothers, sons of Jehoshaphat: Azariah, Jehiel, Zechariah, Azariah, Michael and Shephatiah; these were all the sons of Jehoshaphat king of Israel. ³Their father had made them many gifts of silver, gold and jewels, and of fortified towns in Judah, but he made Jehoram his successor since he was the firstborn. ⁴When Jehoram was in firm control of the kingdom, he had all his brothers killed, as well as some Israelite officials.

⁵Jehoram was thirty-two years old when he became king and he reigned for eight years in Jerusalem. ⁶He followed the wicked example of the kings of Israel and did as the family of Ahab had done, for he had married one of Ahab's daughters; and he did what was evil in the eyes of Yahweh. ⁷Yahweh however did not intend to destroy the descendants of David, because of the covenant he had made with David, when he promised to leave a lamp for him and his sons forever.

¹²Then something written by the prophet Elijah came into his hand. It ran, "This is the word of Yahweh, the God of David your ancestor. You have not followed the example of your father Jehoshaphat or of Asa king of Judah, ¹³but the wicked example of the kings of Israel, and have caused Judah and the people living in Jerusalem to sin against Yahweh, just as Ahab and his successors did. You have also murdered your brothers, your own family, better men than yourself. ¹⁴Because of this Yahweh will strike you with a great calamity, which will come upon your people, your descendants, your wives and all your property. ¹⁵You yourself will suffer a painful intestinal disease that will grow worse day by day.

¹⁶Yahweh stirred up against Jehoram the Philistines and the Arabs bordering on the Cushites. ¹⁷They attacked Judah and invaded it, carrying off all they found in the king's palace, including his sons and his wives; the only son left him was Ahaziah, the youngest of them. ¹⁸And after all this, Yahweh brought on him a painful disease of the intestines. ¹⁹It lasted for more than one year, and when the two years were over and his last hour had come, he died in great pain. The people did not light a bonfire in mourning for him as they had for his father.

²⁰He was thirty-two years old when he became king and he reigned for eight years in Jerusalem. He passed away with no one to regret him, and they buried him in the City of David, though not in the tombs of the kings.

Ahaziah and his policy

22 ¹The people of Jerusalem proclaimed his youngest son, Ahaziah, king in place of him, since the armed band that had broken into the camp with the Arabs had killed all the elder sons. So Ahaziah son of Jehoram became king of Judah.

²Ahaziah was twenty years old when he became king and he reigned for one year in Jerusalem. His mother was Athaliah, daughter of Omri. ³He too followed the example of Ahab's family, since his mother gave him wicked advice. ⁴He sinned against Yahweh as Ahab's family had done, for they were his advisers after his father's death, and they led him to his downfall. ⁵He also put their policies into practice and went with Jeroham son of Ahab, king of Israel, to fight against Hazael king of Aram at Ramoth-gilead. But the Arameans wounded Jeroham, ⁶who returned to Jezreel to recover from the wounds that he had received at Ramoth, fighting against Hazael king of Aram.

Ahaziah son of Jehoram, king of Judah, went down to Jezreel to visit Jeroham son of Ahab because he was ill. ⁷Yahweh used this visit to Jeroham to bring about Ahaziah's downfall. On his arrival he went out with Jeroham against Jehu son of Nimshi whom Yahweh had chosen to destroy the family of Ahab. ⁸ While Jehu was busy carrying out God's sentence against Ahab's family, he came across the officials of Judah and the kinsmen of Ahaziah who were in the king's service and killed them. ⁹ He then went in search of Ahaziah who was captured while he tried to hide in Samaria. He was taken to Jehu who put him to death. But they gave him burial, for they said, "This was a son of Jehoshaphat who sought Yahweh with all his heart."

Athaliah

23 ¹ After waiting six years Jehoiada the priest decided to take action. He sent for the commanders of hundreds: Azariah son of Jehoram, Ishmael son of Jehohanan, Azariah son of Obed, Maasiah son of Adaiah and Elishaphat son of Zichri, and made a pact with them. ² They went through Judah, gathering the Levites from all the towns of Judah, and the heads of the Israelite families. They came to Jerusalem, ³ and this whole assembly made a pact with the king in the house of God. Jehoiada told them, "Here is the son of the king, let him rule as king as Yahweh has promised regarding the descendants of David!" ⁴ This is what you must do: one third of you, priests, Levites and keepers of the gate, must come in for the sabbath, ⁵ one third must be at the royal palace, one third at the Gate of Foundation, and all the people will be in the court of Yahweh's House. ⁶ No one is to enter Yahweh's House except the priests and the Levites on duty, since they are consecrated and may enter. The people must all obey Yahweh's instructions and stay outside. ⁷ The Levites must surround the king, each with his weapons in his hand; anyone who tries to enter the Temple is to be put to death. Stay with the king wherever he goes."

¹² Athaliah, on hearing the shouts of the people who were rushing to the king and acclaiming him, went to Yahweh's House where the people were. ¹³ When she saw the king standing there at the entrance beside the pillar, with the captains and trumpeters at his side, and all the people from the countryside rejoicing and sounding trumpets, and the cantors with their musical instruments leading the hymns,

Athaliah tore her clothes in distress and shouted, "Treason, treason!" ¹⁴ Then Jehoiada the priest called out the military officers and ordered them, "Take her outside the Temple, and kill anyone who follows her." And he also said, "You must not put her to death in Yahweh's House." ¹⁵ They seized her, and when she had reached the palace at the entry to the Gate of the Horses, they put her to death there.

¹⁸ Jehoiada posted sentries to guard Yahweh's House under the authority of the levitical priests. David had appointed them in Yahweh's House to offer the burnt offerings of Yahweh according to the Law of Moses, and to sing joyfully the songs of David. ¹⁹ He stationed gatekeepers at the gates of the Temple of Yahweh so that no one who was in any way unclean might enter. ²⁰ Then taking the commanders of hundreds, the notables, the ranking officials, and all the people from the countryside, he brought the king in procession from the House to the palace. They entered the royal palace through the main gate and seated the king on the royal throne. ²¹ All the people from the countryside were delighted, and the city was quiet. Athaliah was put to death.

24 ¹ Joash was seven years old when he became King and he reigned for forty years in Jerusalem. His mother was Zibiah of Beersheba. ² Joash did what is pleasing to Yahweh throughout the lifetime of Jehoiada the priest. ³ Jehoiada found him two wives and he had sons and daughters. ⁴ After that Joash decided to repair Yahweh's House.

⁵ Calling the priests and the Levites together, he said, "Go out to the towns of Judah, and collect enough money from all the Israelites to make possible annual repairs on the house of God. Do this quickly." But the Levites were in no hurry, ⁶ so the king called Jehoiada for he was their head, and said, "Why have you not insisted on the Levites collecting from Judah and Jerusalem the tax which Moses, the servant of Yahweh, required the people to pay for the maintenance of the Tent of the Meeting?" ⁷ Athaliah and her sons, whom she perverted, damaged the house of God and even used many of the sacred objects in the worship of Baal. ⁸ So the king ordered them to make a chest and to place it outside the gate of Yahweh's House. ⁹ And they announced throughout Judah and Jerusalem that they had to bring to Yahweh the tax Moses, that servant of God, had required in the wilderness. ¹⁰ All the officials and all the people came joyfully with their contribution, dropping it into the chest until all was paid.

¹¹ The chest was taken to the royal office of control by the Levites whenever they saw that there was a great amount of money in it. The king's secretary then came with representatives of the chief priest to take the chest, empty it of money and later return it to its place. They did this every day, and collected a large sum of money. ¹² The king and Jehoiada gave the money to those who were in charge of repairing the House, and they hired men, masons and carpenters, who set about restoring Yahweh's House; craftsmen in iron and bronze also worked on the repairing of it. ¹³ The supervisors having once made a start, the repairs went ahead; they rebuilt the house of God as it was before:

was solid as ever. ¹⁴When they had finished, they brought the balance of the money to the king and Jehoiada, and from this, furnishings were made for Yahweh's House, vessels for the liturgy and for the burnt offerings, incense boats and objects of gold and silver.

So, for as long as Jehoiada lived they offered sacrifices regularly in Yahweh's house. ¹⁵Then Jehoiada, growing old, had his fill of days and died. He died at the age of a hundred and thirty years, ¹⁶and they buried him with the kings in the City of David because he had served Israel well and also God and his house.

¹⁷After the death of Jehoiada, the officials of Judah came to pay court to the king, and the king now turned to them for advice. ¹⁸The Judaeans abandoned the house of Yahweh, the God of their ancestors, for the worship of sacred trunks and idols and God's anger fell on Judah and Jerusalem because of their guilt. ¹⁹He sent them prophets to bring them back to Yahweh, but when the prophets spoke, they would not listen. ²⁰The spirit of God took control of Zechariah, son of Jehoiada the priest. He stood up before the people and said, "God says this: Why are you disobeying the commandments of Yahweh? You cannot prosper. You have abandoned Yahweh and he will abandon you." ²¹They then plotted against him and by order of the king stoned him in the court of Yahweh's House. ²²King Joash, forgot the kindness that Jehoiada, the father of Zechariah, and killed Jehoiada's son who cried out as he died, "Let Yahweh see and do justice!"

²³When a year had gone by, the Aramaean army made war on Joash. They reached Judah and Jerusalem, and killed all the officials among the people, sending back to the king of Damascus all that they had plundered from them. ²⁴Though the Aramaean army was small, Yahweh delivered into its power an army of great size for they had abandoned him, the God of their ancestors.

²⁵The Aramaeans wounded Joash and when they withdrew they left him a very sick man; and his officers, plotting against him to avenge the death of the son of Jehoiada the priest, murdered him in his bed. So he died, and they buried him in the City of David, though not in the tombs of the king. ²⁶These were the conspirators: Zabad son of Shimeath the Ammonite woman, and Jehoabad son of Shimrith the Moabitess. ²⁷As regards his sons, the heavy tribute he demanded, and the restoration of the house of God, this is all recorded in the commentary on the Book of the Kings. His son Amaziah succeeded him.

Amaziah

25 Amaziah was twenty-five years old when he became king, and he reigned for twenty-nine years in Jerusalem. His mother was Jehoash of Jerusalem. ²He did what is pleasing to Yahweh, though not steadily. ³As soon as he was firmly in power, he killed those of his officers who had murdered the king his father. ⁴But he did not put their sons to death, in obedience to what is written in the Law, in the book of Moses, where Yahweh has ordered, "Fathers must not be put to death for sons, nor sons for fathers; but everyone will pay for his own crime."

⁵Amaziah called the men of Judah together and organized them in families with commanders of thousands and of hundreds for all Judah and Benjamin. He counted those who were twenty years old or older, and found there were three hundred thousand of selected warriors fit for military service, and for handling spear and shield. ⁶Next, he enrolled one hundred thousand from Israel as mercenaries, for about four tons of silver. ⁷A man of God then came to him and said, "O king, don't take these Israelite soldiers with you, for Yahweh is not with Israel or with any of the Ephraimites. ⁸If they come, whatever be the number of your men, God will still bring you down before your enemies, for God's is the power to uphold or to throw down." ⁹Amaziah answered the man of God, "And what about the four tons of silver I have given the Israelite soldiers?" The man of God replied, "Yahweh can give you far more than that." ¹⁰At this, Amaziah dismissed from his army the troops that had come to him from Ephraim and sent them home; these men were furious with Judah and went home in great anger.

¹¹Amaziah led his army to Salt Valley and defeated ten thousand Edomite soldiers. ¹²The men of Judah took ten thousand captives alive and, taking them to the top of the cliff, threw them off the top; they were all dashed to pieces. ¹³Then the Israelite troops which Amaziah had dismissed and not allowed to fight with him raided the towns of Judah, from Samaria as far as Bethhoron, but they were defeated by a troop of three thousand men who recovered great quantities of plunder.

¹⁴On returning from his defeat of the Edomites, Amaziah brought the gods of the Edomites with him and set these up as gods for himself, bowing down before them and burning incense to them. ¹⁵Then Yahweh became angry with Amaziah and he sent him a prophet, who said, "Why have you looked to this people's gods, who could not save their own people from your power?" ¹⁶He was still speaking when Amaziah interrupted him, "Have we appointed you a royal counselor? If you do not want to be hurt, be quiet!" The prophet paused; then he said, "Now I know that God has decided to destroy you, since after having acted like this, you refuse to listen to me."

¹⁷After consulting his advisers, Amaziah king of Judah sent a message to Joash son of Jehoahaz, son of Jehu, king of Israel, challenging him to fight. ¹⁸Joash king of Israel sent back word to Amaziah king of Judah, "The thornbush of Lebanon sent a message to the cedar of Lebanon, saying, 'Give my son your daughter in marriage'; but the wild animals of Lebanon trampled the thornbush down as they passed. You are very proud because you have defeated the Edomites — Boast on but stay at home. ¹⁹Why stir up trouble that will only bring disaster on you and your people?"

²⁰But Amaziah would not listen. It was God's will for him to be defeated, because he had worshiped the Edomite idols. ²¹And at Bethshemesh Judah, they made their trial of strength, Joash and Amaziah king of Judah. ²²Judah was defeated by Israel, and everyone fled to his tent. ²³The king of Judah, Amaziah son of Joash, son of Ahaziah, was taken prisoner at Bethshemesh by Joash, king of Israel who led him off to Jerusalem, where Joash tore down the city wall from the Gate of Ephraim to the Gate of the Corner, a distance of two hundred yards. ²⁴He took all the gold and silver, all the furnishings to be found with Obed-edom in the House of God, the treasures of the royal palace, and hostages besides, and then returned to Samaria.

²⁶The rest of the history of Amaziah, from first to last, is all recorded in the Book of the Kings of Judah and Israel. ²⁷After the time when Amaziah rebelled against Yahweh, there had been a plot against him in Jerusalem; he fled to Lachish; but he was followed to Lachish and put to death there. ²⁸ He was brought back by horse, and buried with his ancestors in the City of David.

Uzziah

26 ¹ All the people of Judah took Uzziah, who was sixteen years old, and made him king in place of his father Amaziah. ² He rebuilt Elath and recovered it for Judah, after the death of Amaziah. ³ Uzziah was sixteen years old when he became king and he reigned for fifty-two years in Jerusalem. His mother was Jecoliah, of Jerusalem. ⁴ He did what is pleasing to Yahweh, just as his father Amaziah had done; ⁵ he sought God in the lifetime of Zechariah, who taught him the fear of God. And for as long as he sought Yahweh, God gave him prosperity:

⁶ He went out to fight the Philistines, tore down the walls of Gath, Jabneh and Ashdod, then rebuilt the towns in the area of Ashdod and in Philistine territory. ⁷ God helped him defeat the Philistines, the Arabs, the inhabitants of Gubbaal and the Meunites. ⁸ The Ammonites paid tribute to Uzziah. His fame spread as far as the border of Egypt, since he had become very powerful indeed.

¹⁶ But, as his power increased, he became so proud that he lost what he had gained. He defied Yahweh his God by going into the House to burn incense on the altar of incense. ¹⁷ Azariah the priest followed King Uzziah in, with eighty brave priests of Yahweh, ¹⁸ to resist him. They said to him, "Uzziah, it is not for you to burn incense to Yahweh, but for the priests, the sons of Aaron, consecrated for the purpose. Leave the sanctuary; you have offended Yahweh God and you no longer have his blessing." ¹⁹ Uzziah, censer in hand for the burning incense, became angry with the priests and immediately, leprosy broke out on his forehead in the presence of the priests, in Yahweh's House, there by the altar of incense. ²⁰ Azariah the chief priest and all the other priests turned toward him and saw the leprosy on his forehead. They quickly hurried him out, and he himself was anxious to go, since Yahweh had punished him.

²² The rest of the history of Uzziah, from first to last, has been written by the prophet Isaiah son of Amoz. ²³ Then Uzziah rested with his ancestors and they buried him in the ground where the tomb of the kings is, for they said, "He is a leper." His son Jotham succeeded him.

Jotham

27 ¹ Jotham was twenty-five years old when he became king and he reigned for sixteen years in Jerusalem. His mother Jerushah, daughter of Zadok. ² He did what is pleasing to Yahweh, just as his father Uzziah had done. But he did not enter the sanctuary of Yahweh. As for the people, they went on sinning.

⁵ He fought against the king of the Ammonites. He defeated them, and that year the Ammonites gave him four tons of silver, fifty thousand bushels of wheat and ten thousand of barley. And they had to pay him the same for the second and third years. ⁶ Jotham became powerful because he faithfully obeyed Yahweh his God.

⁷ The rest of the deeds of Jotham, all his wars and his policy, are recorded in the Book of the Kings of Israel and Judah. ⁸ He was twenty-five years old when he became king and he reigned for sixteen years in Jerusalem. ⁹ Then Jotham rested with his ancestors and they buried him in the City of David; his son Ahaz succeeded him.

Ahaz

28 ¹ Ahaz was twenty years old when he became king, and he reigned for sixteen years in Jerusalem. He did not do what is pleasing to Yahweh, as his ancestor David had done. ² He followed the example of the kings of Israel, and even had Baal's idols made of metal. ³ He offered incense in the Valley of Ben-Hinnom and even sacrificed his own sons as burnt offerings to disgusting idols, copying the shameful practice of the people whom Yahweh had driven out of the land he would give to the Israelites. ⁴ He offered sacrifices and incense at the High places, on the hills and under every spreading tree.

⁹ A prophet of Yahweh, named Oded, was there and he went out to meet the troops returning to Samaria and said, "Yahweh, the God of your ancestors, was angry with Judah and so he delivered them into your power, but you have slaughtered with such fury as reaches to heaven. ¹⁰ And you intended to make the men and women of Jerusalem and Judah your slaves. But you yourselves are also guilty before Yahweh your God. ¹¹ Now listen to me: release the prisoners you have taken of your brothers, or Yahweh will punish you in his anger."

¹² Some of the Ephraimite chieftains then stood up in opposition to those who returned from the war: Azariah son of Jehohanan, Berechiah son of Meshillemoth, Jehizkiah son of Shallum and Amasa son of Hadlai. ¹³ They said, "You must not bring the captives in here for we are guilty enough before Yahweh. Will you add to our sins and to our guilt? But our guilt is already heavy and the fierce anger of Yahweh is hanging over Israel." ¹⁴ So in the presence of the officials and of the whole assembly, the army gave up the captives and the loot. ¹⁵ Four men were appointed to provide the prisoners with clothing. From the loot they clothed all those who were naked; they gave them clothing and sandals, provided them with food and drink, and washed them. Those who were too weak to walk they put on donkeys and took them back to their kinsmen at Jericho, the city of palm trees. Then they returned to Samaria.

¹⁶ It was then that King Ahaz sent asking the kings of Assyria to come to his assistance. ¹⁷ For the Edomites once again invaded and defeated Judah, and carried off prisoners. ¹⁸ The Philistines were raiding the towns in the lowlands and in the Negeb of Judah. They took Beithshemesh, Aijalon, Gederoth, and Socco with its outlying villages. Timnah with its outlying villages, Gimmzo with its outlying villages, and they settled in them.

²² During the time Jerusalem was under siege, King Ahaz sinned against Yahweh more than ever, ²³ by offering sacrifices to the gods of Damascus who had defeated him. He said, "Since the gods of the kings of Aram have been of help to them, I will sacrifice to them so that they may be of help to me." But they proved to be his downfall and that of Israel.

²⁴ Ahaz then took implements of the House and broke them in pieces; he closed the doors of Yahweh's House and put up altars at every street corner in Jerusalem: ²⁵ he set up High places in every town of Judah to offer incense to other gods, and so brought on himself the anger of Yahweh, the God of his ancestors.

²⁶ The rest of his history, his whole policy, from first to last, is recorded in the Book of the Kings of Judah and Israel. ²⁷ Then Ahaz rested with his ancestors and they buried him in the city, in Jerusalem, though he was not taken into the tombs of the kings of Israel. His son Hezekiah succeeded him.

Hezekiah

29 ¹ Hezekiah became king when he was twenty-five years old and reigned for twenty-nine years in Jerusalem. His mother was Abijah, daughter of Zechariah. ² He did what is pleasing to Yahweh, just as his ancestor David had done.

"Listen to me, Levites! Sanctify yourselves now and consecrate the house of Yahweh, the God of our ancestors, and remove from the House everything that defiles it. ⁶ Your ancestors have been unfaithful and done what is displeasing to Yahweh our God. They have abandoned him; they have turned their faces away from the place Yahweh has made his home, they have turned their backs on him. ⁷ They have even closed the doors of the Vestibule, they have put out the lamps and offered neither incense nor burnt offerings to the God of Israel in the Sanctuary. ⁸ So the anger of Yahweh has fallen on Judah and Jerusalem; and what he has done to them has shocked and frightened everyone, as you can see for yourselves. ⁹ This is why our ancestors have fallen by the sword, and our sons, our daughters, and our wives have been taken captive.

¹⁰ But now I have decided to make a covenant with Yahweh, the God of Israel, so that his fierce anger may be turned away from us. ¹¹ My sons, be negligent no longer, for Yahweh has chosen you to stand in his presence and serve him, to worship him, and offer him incense.

¹² The Levites set to work: Mahath son of Amasai and Joel son of Azariah, of the Kohathites; Kish son of Abdi and Azariah son of Jehallelel of the Merarites; Joah son of Zimnah and Eden son of Joah of the Gershonites; ¹³ Shimir and Jeuel of the sons of Elizaphan; Zechariah and Mattaniah of the sons of Asaph; ¹⁴ Jehiel and Shimei of the sons of Heman; and She-maiah and Uzziel of the sons of Jeduthun. ¹⁵ They gathered their fellow Levites together, purified them, and in obedience to the king's order and in accordance with the words of Yahweh, they began consecrating in the Temple of Yahweh.

¹⁶ The priests went inside the house of Yahweh to make it clean. They brought everything unclean they found in the sanctuary of Yahweh, out into the court of Yahweh's House, and the Levites collected it and carried it outside, into the Kidron Valley. ¹⁷ They began this consecration on the first day of the first month, and were able to enter the Hall of Yahweh on the eighth of the month; they then took eight days to consecrate Yahweh's House, and finished on the sixteenth day of the first month.

¹⁸ They then went into the palace of King Hezekiah and said, "We have purified the whole Temple of Yahweh, the altar for burnt offerings with all its furnishings, and the table on which the rows of bread are set with all its furnishings. ¹⁹ All the furnishings King Ahaz took away during those years he was unfaithful to Yahweh we have put back and consecrated; they are now in front of the altar of Yahweh."

²⁰ King Hezekiah lost no time but called the officials of the city together and went up to Yahweh's House. ²¹ They brought seven bulls, seven rams and seven lambs, with seven he-goats as a sacrifice for sin on behalf of the royal house, of the sanctuary, and of Judah. The king then told the priests, the sons of Aaron, to offer the burnt offering on the altar of Yahweh. ²² They slaughtered the bulls and the priests took up the blood and poured it on the altar. They then slaughtered the rams and poured their blood on the altar. ²³ Then they brought the he-goats, the sacrifice for sin, before the king and the assembly who laid their hands on them. ²⁴ The priests slaughtered them, and with their blood on the altar offered a sacrifice to take away the sin of all the people - since the king had ordered the burnt offering and the sacrifice for sin on behalf of all Israel.

trumpets, ²⁷Hezekiah ordered the burnt offering to begin, the hymns of Yahweh began too, and the trumpets sounded, to the accompaniment of the instruments of David king of Israel. ²⁸The whole assembly worshipped, cantors singing, trumpets sounding, until the holocaust was over.

²⁹When the offering was at an end, the king and all there with him fell to their knees and worshipped.

³⁰Then King Hezekiah and the officials told the Levites to sing praise to Yahweh in the words of David and of Asaph the prophet; they sang praises till their joy was full and then they fell down and worshipped.

³¹Hezekiah spoke again, "Now you are dedicated to the service of Yahweh. Come forward, bring sacrifices and thanksgiving offerings into Yahweh's House." The assembly brought sacrifices and thanksgiving offerings: all the generous people brought burnt offerings. ³²The number of victims for these burnt offerings was seventy bulls, a hundred rams and two hundred lambs, all as burnt offerings for Yahweh; ³³six hundred bulls and three hundred sheep were sacrificed. ³⁴The priests were too few, however, and could not slaughter all these animals, so the Levites helped them until the work was done and the other priests were sanctified; for the Levites were more educated than the priests regarding the requirements of purification. ³⁵There were indeed many burnt offerings besides the fat of the peace offerings which was to be burnt together with the drink offerings. So was completed the consecration of Yahweh's House. Hezekiah and all the people rejoiced that God had helped the people to act so promptly.

30 ¹Hezekiah sent messengers to all Judah and Israel (for he also wrote letters to Ephraim and Manasseh), inviting them to come to Yahweh's House in Jerusalem to celebrate a Passover in honor of Yahweh, the God of Israel. ²The king and his officials and all the assembly in Jerusalem had agreed to celebrate it in the second month, ³being unable to celebrate it at the proper time, since the priests had not purified themselves in sufficient numbers, and the people had not assembled in Jerusalem. ⁴The king and all the assembly were pleased with their plan. ⁵They issued a decree to be proclaimed throughout Israel, from Dan to Beer-sheba, calling all the people to come to Jerusalem and celebrate a Passover in honor of Yahweh, the God of Israel, for they had not celebrated it for a long time. ⁶Messengers went out with letters from the hands of the king and his officials for every part of Israel and Judah. They had orders from the king to say, "People of Israel, come back to Yahweh the God of Abraham, of Isaac, of Israel, and he will come back to those of you who are left and have escaped the grasp of the kings of Assyria. ⁷Do not be like your fathers and brothers who were unfaithful to Yahweh, the God of their ancestors, and whom he punished severely as you can see. ⁸Do not harden your hearts as your ancestors did, but reconcile with Yahweh and come to his house which he has consecrated forever. Serve Yahweh your God and he will turn his fierce anger from you. ⁹If you come back sincerely to Yahweh, your brothers and your sons will win the mercy of their conquerors and return to this land, for Yahweh your God is gracious and merciful. If you come back to him, he will not turn his face from you."

¹⁰The messengers went from town to town through the land of Ephraim and Manasseh, but the people laughed at them and made fun of them, ¹¹though a few men from Asher and Manasseh and Zebulun were humble enough to come to Jerusalem. ¹²But in Judah, the hand of God was upon the people and made them of one mind to obey the order of the king and the officials according to the word of Yahweh. ¹³A great number of people gathered in Jerusalem to celebrate the feast of Unleavened Bread in the second month. A very great assembly ¹⁴set to work removing the altars that had been used in Jerusalem and all the altars for burning incense, and throwing them into the wadi Kidron.

¹⁵They killed the lambs for the passover sacrifice on the fourteenth day of the second month. The priests and the Levites felt ashamed; so they sanctified themselves and were able to bring burnt offerings into Yahweh's House. ¹⁶Then they took up their places in the House according to the instructions in the Law of Moses, the man of God. The priests poured out their blood handed to them by the Levites, ¹⁷since there were many people in the assembly who had not sanctified themselves; so the Levites were to slaughter the Passover lambs on behalf of those who lacked the requisite purity in order to consecrate them to Yahweh. ¹⁸For many people, especially from Ephraim, Manasseh, Issachar and Zebulun, had not purified themselves and so had eaten the Passover without observing the regulations.

But Hezekiah interceded for them, saying, ¹⁹"Yahweh, God of our ancestors, in your goodness forgive those who seek you with all their heart, even though they are not clean." ²⁰Yahweh heard Hezekiah and left the people unharmed.

²¹For seven days the Israelites rejoiced and celebrated in Jerusalem the feast of Unleavened Bread; while each day the Levites and the priests praised Yahweh with all their might. ²²At the end Hezekiah encouraged the Levites who had shown themselves skilled in the worship of Yahweh. ²³Then all the assembly agreed to continue the celebrations for a further seven days which they made seven days of rejoicing. ²⁴Hezekiah king of Judah had provided ten thousand bulls and seven thousand sheep for the assembly, and the officials another thousand bulls and ten thousand sheep, and now the priests were ready in great numbers. ²⁵So the whole assembly of Judah rejoiced, the priests too, and the Levites, and all who had come from Israel, the refugees of Israel living in Judah and the people of Judah. ²⁶There was great rejoicing in Jerusalem, for since the time of Solomon's son of David, king of Israel, nothing like this had happened in Jerusalem. ²⁷The levitical priests began to bless the people. Their voices were heard and their prayer received in heaven, His holy dwelling place.

31 ¹When all this was over, all the Israelites who were there set off for the towns of Judah to smash the pillars, cut down the sacred trunks and wreck the High places and the altars. So they did throughout Judah, Benjamin, Ephraim, and Manasseh and did away with them. Then all the Israelites returned to their towns, each man to his home.

²Hezekiah reestablished the priestly and levitical orders, each man in his proper order according to his duties, whether priest or Levite, whether for burnt offering, peace offering, liturgical service, thanksgiving or praise, within the gates of the camp of Yahweh. ³The king set aside a portion of his own possessions for the morning and evening burnt offerings, and the burnt offerings of sabbath, New Moon and solemn feast, as laid down in the Law of Yahweh. ⁴He then told the people of Jerusalem to give the priests and the Levites their share so that they might devote themselves to the Law of Yahweh.

⁵As soon as the order had been published, the Israelites gathered in the first fruits of corn, wine, oil, honey, and all agricultural produce, and brought in a generous gift of everything. ⁶The Israelites and Judaeans living in the towns of Judah also brought in the tithe of cattle and sheep, and the tithe of the holy things dedicated to Yahweh their God, piling them up, heap after heap. ⁷They began making these heaps in the third month and finished them in the seventh.

⁸When Hezekiah and his officials saw how much had been given, they praised Yahweh and praised his people Israel. ⁹Hezekiah questioned the priests and the Levites about the heaps. ¹⁰and Azariah, the chief priest, of the family of Zadok, answered him, "Since the contributions were first brought to Yahweh's House, we have had enough to eat and still have plenty left over, for Yahweh has blessed his people; this huge pile is what is left." ¹¹Hezekiah then ordered them to have storerooms prepared in Yahweh's House. They did this, ¹²and then brought in the contributions, tithes and consecrated things, to keep them in a safe place. Conaniah the Levite was officer-in-charge of them, with Shimei his brother as his assistant.

¹⁶In addition to this, there was the organization by related groups of all those men thirty years old or older who went to Yahweh's House, by daily rotation, to perform the ritual duties appropriate to their orders. ¹⁷There was also the organization of priests by families; as also that of Levites twenty years old or older, by duties and orders. ¹⁸There was also the organization of all their families for the whole assembly, since they were busy with the holy ministry. ¹⁹As regards the priests, the sons of Aaron, who lived in the pasture lands belonging to their towns, or in the towns themselves, appointed men, distributed the food to very male among the priests and also to the inscribed Levites who were enrolled.

²⁰Hezekiah enforced these arrangements throughout Judah. He did what is good and right and loyal before Yahweh his God. ²¹He was successful, because everything he did for the Temple or in observance of the Law, he did as one seeking God with all his heart.

Invation of Sennacherib

32 ¹After Hezekiah had faithfully done all this, Sennacherib king of Assyria invaded Judah. He pitched camp before the fortified towns and gave orders for his army to break their way through the walls. ²Hezekiah realized that Sennacherib intended to attack Jerusalem also, ³so he summoned his officers and champions and they decided to cut off the water supply from the springs situated outside the city. ⁴So a large number of people banded together to block all the springs and cut off the watercourse flowing through the fields. They said, "Why should the king of Assyria find plenty of water when he arrives?"

⁵Hezekiah strengthened his defenses: he had the broken parts of the wall repaired, built towers on it, constructed a second wall on the outer side, strengthened the Millo of the City of David and made quantities of spears and shields. ⁶He then appointed generals to command the people, had them assemble in the square by the city gate and spoke as follows to encourage them, ⁷"Be strong and stand firm; be fearless, be confident when you face the king of Assyria and the whole army he brings with him, since he that is with us is stronger than he that is with him. ⁸He has only an arm of flesh, but we have Yahweh our God to help us and fight our battles." The people were encouraged by the words of Hezekiah king of Judah.

⁹Next, Sennacherib king of Assyria, who was then outside Lachish with all his army, sent his servants to Jerusalem, to Hezekiah king of Judah, and to all the Judaeans who were in Jerusalem. They said, ¹⁰"Hear the message from Sennacherib king of Assyria, 'What gives you the confidence to stay in Jerusalem under siege? ¹¹Is not Hezekiah deceiving you? Is he not condemning you to die of hunger and thirst when he says: 'Yahweh our God will save us from the king of Assyria? ¹²Is not Hezekiah the very man who has destroyed the High places and the altars of Yahweh, and given the order to Judah and to Jerusalem: 'Before one altar only are you to worship, and on that alone offer incense? ¹³Do you not know what I have done, I and my ancestors, to all the peoples of other countries? Have the gods of any nation in those countries ever been able to save them from me? ¹⁴Who among all the gods of those nations was able to save his people from me? ¹⁵Do not let Hezekiah deceive you. Do not let him mislead you like this. Do not believe him, for no god of any nation or kingdom has been able to save his people from me or from my ancestors. No more will your god be able to save you from me.'"

¹⁶His officials were still speaking against Yahweh God, and his servant Hezekiah, ¹⁷when Sennacherib wrote a letter insulting Yahweh the God of Israel. This is what he said about him, "Just as the gods of the nations in other countries have failed to save their peoples from me, so will the god of Hezekiah fail to save his people." ¹⁸They shouted this out in the language of Judah, to the people of Jerusalem who were on the city wall, to confuse and frighten them, and so that they might capture the city. ¹⁹They spoke of the God of Jerusalem in the same way they talked of the gods of the peoples of the world, the work of human hands.

²⁰Then King Hezekiah and the prophet Isaiah son of Amoz prayed and cried out to heaven. ²¹And Yahweh sent an angel who made all the mighty warriors, commanders and officers die in the camp of the king of Assyria. So the emperor went back to Assyria very ashamed. And as he came into the temple of his god, some of his own sons struck him with their swords. ²²So Yahweh saved Hezekiah and the people of Jerusalem from the power of Sennacherib king of Assyria and from everyone else, and he gave them peace on every side. ²³Many people brought grain offerings to Yahweh in Jerusalem and gifts for Hezekiah king of Judah; since then all the nations held Hezekiah in honor.

²⁴In those days, Hezekiah fell ill and was at the point of death. He prayed to Yahweh, who heard him and granted him a sign. ²⁵But Hezekiah did not show gratitude for what Yahweh had done for him; his heart grew proud and Judah and Jerusalem suffered for it. ²⁶Finally, however, Hezekiah and the people of Jerusalem humbled themselves, and so Yahweh did not punish the people until after Hezekiah's death. ²⁷Hezekiah enjoyed immense riches and honor. He built himself storerooms for gold, silver, precious stones, spices, gems and every sort of valuable. ²⁸He had storehouses for his returns of corn, wine and oil, buildings for his different sorts of cattle, and sheep runs for his sheep, ²⁹and, further, acquired donkeys and enormous herds and flocks. God had indeed given him very great riches.

³⁰It was Hezekiah who stopped the upper outlet of Gihon Spring and channeled the water down to the west side of the City of David. Hezekiah succeeded in all he undertook. ³¹However, when the authorities in Babylon sent to him to inquire about the extraordinary thing that had taken place in the country, God abandoned him only to test him, and to discover the secrets of his heart.

³²The rest of the history of Hezekiah, and his deed of piety, are recorded in the Vision of the prophet Isaiah son of Amoz and in the Book of the Kings of Judah and Israel. ³³Then Hezekiah rested with his fathers and they buried him on the slope going up to the tombs of the sons of David. At his death, all of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem did him honor. His son Manasseh succeeded him.

Manasseh

33 ¹Manasseh was twelve years old when he came to the throne and he reigned for fifty-five years in Jerusalem. ²He did what was evil in the eyes of Yahweh, and followed the disgusting practices of the nations that Yahweh had removed from the land before giving it to Israel. ³He rebuilt the High places his father Hezekiah had wrecked; he set up altars to the Baals and made sacred trunks. He worshipped the whole array of heaven and served it. ⁴He built altars in Yahweh's House of which Yahweh had said, 'In Jerusalem shall my Name be forever.'

⁵He built altars to the whole array of heaven in the two courts of Yahweh's House. ⁶He caused his sons to pass through the fire in the Valley of Benhinnom. He practised soothsaying, magic and witchcraft, and introduced necromancers and wizards. He did many things displeasing to Yahweh, thus provoking his anger. ⁷He placed the idol he had made in the house of which God had said to David and to his son Solomon, 'In this house and in Jerusalem, the city I chose out of all the tribes of Israel, I will give my Name a home forever. ⁸I will no longer turn Israel's footsteps away from the land I assigned to their fathers, provided they observe all I have ordered them in accordance with the whole Law, the statutes and the ordinances, given through Moses.' ⁹Manasseh led Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem astray, so that they did more evil than those nations Yahweh had destroyed before the sons of Israel. ¹⁰Yahweh spoke to Manasseh and his people, but they paid no attention.

The rest of the history of Manasseh, his prayer to God, and the words of the seers who spoke to him in the name of Yahweh the God of Israel, can be found in the Annals of the Kings of Israel. His prayer and how God heard his prayer, all his sins, his unfaithfulness, the sites where he built High places and set up sacred trunks and idols before he humbled himself are recorded in the Annals of Hozai. Then Manasseh rested with his palace. His son Amon succeeded him.

²¹Amon was twenty-two years old when he became king and he reigned for two years in Jerusalem. ²²He did what was displeasing to Yahweh, as Manasseh his father had done. Amon offered sacrifice and worship to all the idols Manasseh his father had made, ²³but he did not humble himself before Yahweh like Manasseh his father had done; instead he made the guilt of Judah worse. ²⁴His officers plotted against him and killed him in his palace. But the people of the nation struck down all those who had plotted against King Amon and proclaimed his son Josiah as his successor.

34 ¹Josiah was eight years old when he became king and he reigned for thirty-one years in Jerusalem. ²He did what was pleasing to Yahweh, and walked in the ways of his father David, without turning aside.

³In the eighth year of his reign, when he was still a youth, he began to seek the God of his father David. In the twelfth year he began to purge Judah and Jerusalem of the High places, the sacred trunks and the molten idols. ⁴He looked on while they smashed the altars of Baal, and he himself tore down the incense altars near them. He reduced to dust the symbols of Asherah and the other idols and then threw the dust over the graves of those who had sacrificed to them. ⁵He burned the bones of their priests on their altars, and so purified Judah and Jerusalem. ⁶He did the same in the towns of Manasseh, Ephraim, Simeon, and as far as Naphtali, and in the devastated areas around them. ⁷There too he destroyed the altars and symbols of the goddess, smashed the sacred trunks and the idols and ground them to powder, and tore down all the altars of incense throughout the land of Israel. Then he returned to Jerusalem.

⁸In the eighteenth year of his reign, with the object of purifying land and Temple, he sent Shaphan son of Azaliah, Maaseiah governor of the city and the herald Joah son of Joahaz, to repair the house of Yahweh his God. ⁹These men went to the high priest Hilkiah and handed over to him the money that had been brought to the house of God. The Levite gatekeepers had collected this money from Manasseh, Ephraim and all the rest of Israel, and from all the Judeans and Benjaminites and from the people living in Jerusalem. ¹⁰They handed it over to the masters of works of Yahweh's House and these men used it for the repair and restoration of the House. ¹¹They gave it to the carpenters and builders for buying the stones and timber for the beams and framework of the buildings which the kings of Judah had let go to ruin.

¹²The men worked conscientiously. Over them were set Jahath and Obadiah, Levites of the sons of Merari; together with Zechariah and Meshullam of the sons of Kohath, as supervisors. These Levites were all skilled liturgical musicians; ¹³but they also directed the carriers and the masters of works of the various jobs. Other Levites were scribes, clerks and gatekeepers.

The book of the law discovered

¹⁴When they were taking out the money that had been brought to Yahweh's House, Hilkiah the high priest found the book of the Law given through Moses. ¹⁵At once Hilkiah told Shaphan the secretary, "I have found the book of the Law in Yahweh's House." And Hilkiah gave the book to Shaphan. ¹⁶Shaphan took the book to the king, and reported to him, "Your servants are carrying out the commands you gave them; ¹⁷they have melted down the silver which was in Yahweh's house and have handed it over to the supervisors and masters of works." ¹⁸After which Shaphan the secretary informed the king, "Hilkiah the priest has given me a book"; and Shaphan read from it in the king's presence.

¹⁹When the king heard the book being read, he tore his garments, ²⁰and gave the following order to Hilkiah, Ahikam son of Shaphan, Abdon son of Micah, Shaphan the secretary and Asaiah the king's minister, ²¹"Go and consult Yahweh, for me and for the people who still remain in Israel and Judah, about the words of the book that has been found. Great indeed must be my anger of Yahweh to be poured down on us because our ancestors did not observe the word of Yahweh nor to according to what is written in this book."

²⁶And you will tell the king of Judah who sent you to consult Yahweh, that thus answers Yahweh, the God of Israel, regarding the words you have heard: ²⁷Since your heart has been touched and you have humbled yourself before God on hearing what he has threatened against Jerusalem and those who live in it, since you have humbled yourself before me and torn your garments and wept before me, I for my part have heard - this is Yahweh's word. ²⁸The punishment which I am going to bring on Jerusalem will not come until after your death. I will let you die in peace." They took this answer to the king.

²⁹The king then had all the elders of Judah and of Jerusalem summoned, ³⁰and the king went up to Yahweh's House, with all the people of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, priests, Levites and all the people, great and small alike. In their hearing he read out everything that was said in the book of the covenant found in Yahweh's House. ³¹The king stood beside the pillar, and in the presence of Yahweh he made a covenant to follow Yahweh and to keep his laws and commands with all his heart and soul, as written in that book. ³²He committed everyone there in Jerusalem or in Benjamin to obey the requirements of the covenant of God, the God of their ancestors. ³³Josiah removed all the disgusting idols throughout the territories belonging to the people of Israel. His whole life long he made sure that every member of Israel served their God. They did not fail to follow Yahweh, the God of their ancestors.

35 ¹Josiah then celebrated a Passover in honor of Yahweh in Jerusalem and they killed the passover lamb on the fourteenth day of the first month. ²He appointed certain functions to the priests and let them discharge the duties of Yahweh's House. ³Then he said to the Levites, who were to instruct all Israel and who were consecrated to Yahweh, "The holy ark has been put in the house built by Solomon son of David, king of Israel, and it is no longer a burden for your shoulders. So you shall serve Yahweh your God and Israel your people in this way. ⁴Stand in the holy place by families and orders, according to the written decree of David king of Israel and his son Solomon, ⁵and let some be available to help each family of the people of Israel; for the Levites are to have a portion in each family. ⁶Kill the animals for the festival, sanctify yourselves, and be at the disposal of your brothers in acting in accordance with the word of Yahweh which was spoken through Moses."

⁷Josiah then provided for the use of the people, lambs and kids from the flocks to the number of thirty thousand, all as Passover offerings for all who were present, and three thousand bulls as well; all these animals came from the king's possessions. ⁸His officials, for their part, made provision for what the people, the priests and the Levites would use. The senior officials of the house of God, Hilkiah, Zechariah and Jehiel, also gave the priests two thousand six hundred lambs and kids and three hundred bulls as Passover victims. ⁹The heads of the Levites, Conaniah, She-maiah and his brothers Nathanel, Hashabiah, Jeiel and Jozabad, provided five thousand lambs and kids and five hundred bulls as Passover victims for the Levites.

¹⁰When everything for the Passover had been prepared, the priests took their posts, and the Levites also in their orders as commanded by the king. ¹¹They killed the lambs and goats, and while the priests sprinkled the blood they received, the Levites cut up the victims. ¹²They put aside the animals for the burnt offering and distributed to family groupings of the lay people, giving to each his offering to Yahweh, as is written in the Book of Moses; they did the same with the bulls. ¹³They roasted the passover, as ordained, and boiled the sacred foods in pots, dishes, and pans, carrying them speedily to the people. ¹⁴Afterward they prepared the passover for themselves and for the priests. Because the priests, the sons of Aaron, had been busy till nightfall offering the burnt offering and the fatty parts, the Levites prepared the passover for themselves and for the priests, the sons of Aaron. ¹⁵The musicians, the sons of Asaph, were at their places, in accordance with the ordinances of David; neither Asaph, Heman, Jeduthun the king's prophet, nor the keepers of each gate had to leave their duties, since their brothers the Levites made all the preparations for them.

¹⁶So the whole service of Yahweh was prepared that day to celebrate the Passover and to offer burnt offerings on the altar of Yahweh, in accordance with the ordinances of King Josiah.

¹⁷The Israelites who were present celebrated the Passover and, for seven days, the feast of Unleavened Bread. ¹⁸No Passover like this one had ever been celebrated in Israel since the days of the prophet Samuel; no king of Israel had ever celebrated a Passover like the one celebrated by Josiah with the priests, the Levites, all of Judah and of Israel who were present, and the people of Jerusalem.

The tragic end of the reign

¹⁹This Passover was celebrated in the eighteenth year of the reign of Josiah. ²⁰After all this, when Josiah had already repaired the House, Neco king of Egypt came up to fight at Carchemish on the Euphrates and Josiah marched out to stop him. ²¹Neco sent him messengers to say, "There is no quarrel between me and you, king of Judah. I have not come today to attack you, but to fight my enemies, and God has told me to hurry. Do not oppose God who is with me, lest he destroy you."

²²But Josiah continued to challenge him for he was determined to fight him, and would not listen to what God was saying through Neco. So he went out to fight in the plain of Megiddo. ²³Egyptian arrows struck King Josiah, and the king said to his followers, "Take me away; I am badly wounded." ²⁴His servants lifted him out of his own chariot, transferred him to another one and took him back to Jerusalem, where he died. He was buried in the tombs of his ancestors. All Judah and Jerusalem mourned for Josiah. ²⁵Jeremiah composed a lament for Josiah which all the women singers use when speaking of Josiah in their laments to this day; this has become a custom in Israel; the song is found in the collection of laments.

²⁶The rest of the history of Josiah and all his good deeds according to the Law, and his acts from the first to last, are recorded in the Book of the Kings of Israel and Judah.

The last Kings

36 ¹The people of the nation took Jehoahaz, son of Josiah and made him king in Jerusalem in succession to his father. ²Jehoahaz was twenty-three years old when he became king and he reigned for three months in Jerusalem. ³The king of Egypt took him prisoner and made the people of Judah pay 7,500 pounds of silver and 75 pounds of gold as tribute. ⁴The king of Egypt then made Eliakim, brother of Jehoahaz, king of Judah and Jerusalem, and changed his name to Jehoiakim. Neco took his brother Jehoahaz to Egypt.

⁵Jehoiakim was twenty-five years old when he became king and he reigned for eleven years in Jerusalem. He did what was evil in the eyes of Yahweh his God. ⁶Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon attacked him, put him in chains and carried him off to Babylon. ⁷Nebuchadnezzar also carried off to Babylon some of the treasures of the House and put them in his palace at Babylon. ⁸The rest of the history of Jehoiakim, the disgusting things he did and those discovered to his discredit, these are recorded in the Book of Kings of Israel and Judah. His son Jehoiachin succeeded him.

⁹Jehoiachin was eight years old when he became King and he reigned for three months and ten days in Jerusalem. He did what was evil in the eyes of Yahweh. ¹⁰When spring came, King Nebuchadnezzar sent for him and had him taken to Babylon as a prisoner, with the treasures of the temple and made Zedekiah, his brother, king of Judah and Jerusalem in his place.

¹¹Zedekiah was twenty-one years old when he became king and he reigned for eleven years in Jerusalem. ¹²He did what was evil in the eyes of Yahweh his God. He did not listen humbly to the prophet Jeremiah, accredited by Yahweh himself. ¹³He also rebelled against King Nebuchadnezzar who had forced him to swear in God's name that he would be loyal. He became stubborn, and obstinately refused to return to Yahweh the God of Israel.

Conclusion

¹⁴Furthermore, all the heads of the priesthood, and the people, too, were exceedingly unfaithful, following the disgusting example of the nations around them, and so they defiled the house which Yahweh himself had made holy. ¹⁵Yahweh, the God of their ancestors, continued to send prophets to warn his people, since he had compassion on them and on his dwelling place. ¹⁶But they mocked the messengers of God, ignored his words, and laughed at his prophets, until at last the anger of Yahweh rose so high against his people that there was no further remedy.

¹⁹They burned down the house of God, broke down the walls of Jerusalem, set fire to all its palaces, and destroyed everything of value in it. ²⁰The survivors were deported by Nebuchadnezzar to Babylon; they were to serve him and his descendants as slaves until the kingdom of Persia came to power. ²¹This is how the work of Yahweh was fulfilled that he spoke through Jeremiah, "The land will lie desolate for seventy years, to make up for its Sabbath rests that have not been observed."

²²And in the first year of Cyrus king of Persia, to fulfill what he had said through the prophet Jeremiah, Yahweh stirred up the spirit of Cyrus king of Persia to issue the following command and send it out in writing to be read aloud everywhere in his kingdom: ²³"Thus speaks Cyrus king of Persia: Yahweh, the God of heaven, who has given me all the kingdoms of the earth, has ordered me to build him a house in Jerusalem, in Judah. Now, all of you who belong to his people, go there and may Yahweh your God be with you."

HISTORICAL INFORMATION

The books of Samuel and Kings related five centuries of Israel's history without interruption, from David to the Babylonian Exile.

Then came the seventy years of "Captivity," or Exile. Not all the people were deported. Most of the people were small farmers who remained in the land. But, they had neither leaders nor spiritual people in charge and then did nothing to put the nation back on its feet. The nation revived, thanks to the exiles who came back to the land with Zerubbabel and who, after difficult beginnings, reorganized under the leadership of Ezra and Nehemiah.

IEZRA's REFORM

Not all the Jews returned to their land. Many of them had emigrated abroad before the Exile and they remained in the countries where they were living: Egypt, Assyria, Persia. Others, who had been deported, did not come back from Babylon, for they had succeeded in overcoming their miserable situation with one another's help, and now held good positions there. But those who returned arrived as families and organized groups; they were the Jews who had best assimilated the prophets' message, urging them to rebuild a purified and holy Israel.

For them, a first danger was that by settling in their homeland among foreigners and Jews not too attuned to their mission, they might lose their enthusiasm. That is why the work of Ezra and Nehemiah was very important in keeping the Jews united among themselves and apart from everyone else. See especially the problem of the mixed marriages (Ezra 9-10; Nehemiah 9:2 and 13:10-30).

Later, in his biblical work Ezra played a decisive role in collecting the books and putting together for the first time, and then in making the Sacred Book the basis of their religion. Until that time, the existing books of the Bible were only kept in palaces or in the hands of the priests; and it was enough for the people to attend the traditional Temple ceremonies. It was Ezra who started a new form of worship through which the communal reading of the Bible would become the basis of the people's religious life, bringing them to a more grounded faith. See Nehemiah 8. Ezra's role in the formation of the Bible is remembered in 2 Mac 2:13-14.

Ezra's reform gave the Jewish community of the post-Babylonian exile its unique features. The people of God became a holy people, namely, consecrated to God and separated from others by the many barriers of their Law. Their reason for being was to maintain the worship of the only God and, since they did not have national independence, in the name of God their priests held both civil and religious power.

THE BOOK OF EZRA AND NEHEMIAH

At first, these two books formed only one book. They provide us with some information concerning the work accomplished by these two men. The following steps toward the restoration of the Jewish community can be seen:

- Beginning with the decree of Cyrus in 538 B.C. several groups of exiles come back to Jerusalem where Zerubbabel rebuilds THE TEMPLE (See Ezra 1:1 to 4:5 and 4:24 to 6:2).
- Then, the enemies of the Jews try to prevent the reconstruction of THE CITY (See Ezra 4:7-23).
- In 458 perhaps, Ezra comes to organize the community, imposing the Law of Moses as a rule (See Ezra 7 to 10).

- In 445 Nehemiah comes from Persia and he rebuilds THE WALLS. Then he administers Jerusalem for twelve years (See Nehemiah 1 to 7).
- Finally, there is Nehemiah's second mission in 425: (See Nehemiah 13,.

Cyrus helps the Jews return to Jerusalem

1 In the first year of Cyrus, king of Persia, Yahweh willed to fulfill the word he had said through the prophet Jeremiah, so he moved the spirit of Cyrus, king of Persia, to issue the following command and send it out in writing to be read aloud everywhere in his kingdom, ² "Thus speaks Cyrus, king of Persia: Yahweh, the God of heavens, who has given me all the kingdoms of the earth, has ordered me to build him a Temple in Jerusalem, in the land of Judah. ³ To everyone belonging to his people, may his God be with him! Let them go up to Jerusalem with the help of their God and there build the House of Yahweh, the God of Israel, the God who is in Jerusalem. ⁴ In every place where the rest of the people of Yahweh live, let the people of those places help them for their journey with silver, gold and all kinds of goods and livestock. Let them also give them voluntary offerings for the House of Yahweh which is in Jerusalem."

⁵ Then they rose up – the heads of the families of Judah and Benjamin, the priests and the Levites, and all those whose spirit God had stirred up – and they decided to go and build the House of Yahweh. ⁶ And all their neighbours gave them all kinds of help: gold, silver, livestock and precious objects in great quantity, besides every kind of voluntary offering.

⁹ This is the list: golden cups for the offering, 30; silver cups 1,029; other cups of gold, ¹⁰ 30; of silver, 410; other vessels, 1,000.

¹¹ Total number of golden and silver vessels: 5,400. All this was brought out by Sheshbazzar when the exiles were allowed to return to Jerusalem from Babylon.

The list of the returning exiles

2 ¹ These were the people of the province who returned from captivity and exile. After being deported to Babylon by Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, they returned to Jerusalem and to Judah, each to his own town. ² They arrived with Zurubabel, Jeshua, Nehemiah, Seraiah, Reelaiah, Nahamani, Mordecai, Bilshan, Mispar, Bigvai, Rehum and Baanah.

o The Persian emperor, Cyrus, takes the initiative of sending the Jews who had been exiled in Babylon back home.

Although Cyrus does not worship the true God, he is a good example of religious tolerance and the Bible presents him as the liberator of the people oppressed by his predecessors.

We note that only those who accept "being liberated" will be sent home. There can be no liberation or external help for the indifferent.

Those who return are those whose spirit had been aroused by God.

To understand the book of Ezra, it might be helpful to know that, from an administrative viewpoint, Jerusalem remained under the rule of Samaria, in spite of Cyrus' decree. And so there would be difficulties since the Samaritan aristocracy did not want to be surpassed by the eminent people of Judah who were coming back home after fifty years in exile.

⁶⁴ The whole assembly numbered forty-two thousand three hundred and sixty people, ⁶⁵ not counting their slaves and maidservants to the number of seven thousand three hundred and thirty-seven. They also had two hundred male and female singers. ⁶⁶ Their horses numbered seven hundred and thirty-six, their mules two hundred and forty-five, ⁶⁷ their camels four hundred and thirty-five and their donkeys six thousand seven hundred and twenty.

⁷⁰ The priests, Levites and part of the people settled in Jerusalem; the gatekeepers, Temple musicians, workmen and all the other Israelites, in their own towns.

Rebuilding the altar

3 ¹ After six months, the Israelites were already settled in their cities. Then all the people gathered in Jerusalem.

² Joshua, son of Jozadak, with his fellow-priests, and Zerubbabel, son of Shealtiel, with his brothers, began rebuilding the altar of the God of Israel, to offer the sacrifices upon it, as it is written in the Law of Moses, the man of God.

³ They built the altar in the same place, in spite of the fear they had of the people of the land, and they offered burnt offerings upon it, and the morning and evening sacrifice. ⁴ They celebrated the Feast of the Tabernacles as it is written, and offered burnt offerings daily according to the established ritual. ⁵ Then they continued offering the perpetual sacrifice and the sacrifices on the sabbaths, the new moon and all the solemnities of Yahweh, besides what everyone would offer voluntarily to Yahweh.

⁷ They gave money to those who were working in stone, the masons and the carpenters. They also gave food, wine and oil to the Tyrians to bring cedar lumber from Lebanon to Joppa by sea, according to the authorization of Cyrus, king of Persia. ⁸ In the second year, after their arrival at the House of God in Jerusalem, in the second month, Zerubbabel, son of Shealtiel, and Joshua, son of Jozadak, with the rest of their brothers, the priests, the Levites and all who had returned to Jerusalem from exile, began the work: they appointed the Levites who were twenty years old and upward to supervise the work in the House of Yahweh.

⁹ Joshua, his sons and his brothers, Kadmiel and his sons, and the sons of Henadad, all together agreed to supervise those who worked in the House of God. ¹⁰ When the workers had laid the foundation for the sanctuary of Yahweh, the priests, clothed in fine linen, came forward with trumpets, and the Levites, sons of Asaph, with cymbals, and they sang to Yahweh the psalms of David, king of Israel.

¹¹ They gave thanks to Yahweh, singing and praising: "For he is good, for his love for Israel is eternal."

All the people shouted aloud the praises of Yahweh for the foundation of the House of Yahweh had now been laid. Many of the priests, Levites and older heads of the families who had known the first house wept with great lamentation as the foundation was laid. ¹² But others raised their voices with shouts of joy, ¹³ and the people could not distinguish the shouts of rejoicing from the cries of weeping, for the people shouted so loudly that the noise was heard afar.

The rebuilding is interrupted

■ 4 ¹ When the enemies of Judah and Benjamin learned that those who had returned from exile were building the sanctuary of Yahweh, the God of Israel, ² they approached Zerubbabel, Joshua and the heads of the families, and said to them, "Allow us to help you in the work of reconstruction for we are also concerned about your God. We have offered him sacrifices from the time of Esar Haddon, king of Assyria, who brought us here."

³ Zerubbabel, Joshua and the heads of the Israelite families answered them, "We cannot let you join us in rebuilding it, as Cyrus, king of Persia, has commanded."

⁴ Then the people of the land set about discouraging the workers of Judah and frightened them to keep them from building. ⁵ They hired some counsellors of the royal court to

+ For the Jews, the restoration of the Temple became an opportunity to rediscover how they were different from all the other nations in that they were serving the only God. It also allowed them to affirm their identity as Jews among the people of the country, since working together strengthens unity.

We will also note that, when they first arrived from exile, they generously offered to provide all that was needed to build the Temple (2:68). Yet, twenty years will go by and the intervention of the prophets Haggai and Zechariah will be needed to implement the projects agreed upon in the enthusiasm of their return.

■ With the support of the prophet Haggai (see Haggai 2:10) the Jews refuse Samaritan cooperation in rebuilding the Temple. They do not want to mix anything unclean in this religious endeavor. To put it differently, they are determined to build a community based on the practice of the Law and they cannot accept that unconverted people should have any claim on the Temple.

The same thing happens now as well. Even though we might wish to welcome everyone, we cannot surrender holy things nor the leadership of the communities to unconverted people. Neither can the Church accept political support which would compromise its freedom.

The story begun in 4:1-5 continues in chapters 5 and 6. The Jews remain steadfast, and Providence helps them. They are assisted by Tattenai, the Persian governor of the province West-of-Euphrates, including all of Palestine with Samaria as the capital.

make the project fail, and they did this all through the time of Cyrus, king of Persia, until the reign of Darius, king of Persia.

An unrelated document

◆ In the beginning of the reign of Xerxes, they lodged a complaint against the inhabitants of Judah and Jerusalem. ⁷ Again in the time of King Artaxerxes, king of Persia, Bishlam, Mithredath, Tabeel, and the rest of their colleagues wrote to Artaxerxes. The letter was written in Aramaic and translated. So it began this way:

⁸ From Rehum, the governor, and Shimshai, the secretary, ⁹ and from the rest of their colleagues, the judges and the legates, and all Persian officials, the people of Erech, Babylon and Susa, that is, the Elamites, ¹⁰ and from the rest of the nations whom the great Assurbanipal deported and settled in the cities of Samaria and in the rest of the province at the other side of the River . . .

¹¹ This is a copy of the letter they sent to King Artaxerxes:

"Your servants, the people beyond the River, send greetings.

¹² It should be made known to the king that the Jews who came up from your side to ours and have gone to Jerusalem are now building this rebellious and wicked city. They are now rebuilding the walls and have laid the foundation. ¹³ Be it known, then, to the king, that if this city is rebuilt and its walls finished, they will no longer pay taxes, tributes or toll duties, and in the end, this city shall bring harm to the kings. ¹⁴ Now, as we eat the salt of the palace and we do not wish to see the king dishonoured, we are sending this information to the king. ¹⁵ If you look into the records of your fathers, you will find that this city is a rebellious city. It has disturbed the kings and the provinces, and has fostered sedition from of old. It is precisely because of this that it was destroyed. ¹⁶ We make known to the king that if this city is rebuilt and its walls restored, you will soon lose your territories on that side of the River."

¹⁷ The king wrote this in reply:

"To Rehum, the governor; to Shimshai, the secretary; and to the rest of their colleagues who are in Samaria and in the other places at the other side of the River: greetings.

¹⁸ The letter you sent to me has been read word for word in my presence. ¹⁹ I have given orders to inquire into these things, and it has been found that from ancient times that city has rebelled against the kings, and that sedition and rebellions have happened there.

²⁰ There were powerful kings in Jerusalem, masters of all the land at the other side of the River, to whom tribute, taxes and toll duties were paid.

²¹ Therefore, order the people to stop work; they shall not rebuild that city without my authorization. ²² Do not neglect this grave concern, lest further harm be done to the kingdom."

²⁴ So the work on the House of God in Jerusalem was interrupted and not begun until the second year of the reign of Darius, king of Persia.

5 ¹ The prophets Haggai and Zechariah, son of Iddo, addressed the Jews who lived in Judea and Jerusalem in the name of the God of Israel, who was with them. ² Upon hearing them, Zerubbabel, son of Shealtiel, and Joshua, son of Jozadak, decided to rebuild the House of God in Jerusalem. The prophets of God were with them, supporting them. ³ Then Tattenai, the governor of the province at the other side of the River, and Shethar Bozenai came with their counsellors and said to them, "Who has ordered you to build this House and its walls?" ⁴ And they also asked, "Who are the men working on the construction of this building?"

⁵ But the favor of God was with the leaders of the Jews, for these people did not oblige the Jews to stop the work while the matter was being referred to King Darius and they were waiting for his answer.

⁶ This is a copy of the joint letter to King Darius from Tattenai, governor of the province of the other side of the River, Shethar Bozenai and his counsellors, the Persians at the other bank of the River:

⁷ "To King Darius, peace.

⁸ We wish to inform the king that we went to the province of Judea, to the House of the Great God. They are now building the Temple with hewn stones and timber to reinforce the walls; the work is being done with great care and progresses quickly at their hands. ⁹ We questioned the Elders, and asked them: Who has ordered you to build this House and finish this Sanctuary? ¹⁰ We also asked them their names and wrote down the names of their leaders for your information.

¹¹ They gave us this answer: We are the servants of the God of heaven and earth, and we are rebuilding the House that was built many years ago. A great king of Israel built and furnished it. ¹² But then, our fathers angered the God of heaven, so he gave the children into the hands of the king of Babylon, Nebuchadnezzar, who destroyed this house and exiled them.

¹⁷ Now, if it seems good to the king that inquiries be made into the royal archives there in Babylon, to verify whether a decree was indeed issued by King Cyrus for the rebuilding of the House of God in Jerusalem, then may the king inform us of his will in this matter."

Darius helps build the Temple

6 ¹ Then King Darius commanded that inquiries be made in the house of the archives in Babylon, where the records were kept. ² And in Ecbatana, a fortress in the province of Media, a scroll was found on which the following was written:

³ "In the first year of his reign, King Cyrus has issued this decree concerning the House of God in Jerusalem: Let the foundation of that House be laid and the House be rebuilt in order that sacrifices be offered in it. The said House shall be thirty meters high and thirty meters wide, ⁴ with three layers of hewn stones and one of wood. The expenses shall be paid for by the king. ⁵ Moreover, the vessels of gold and silver which Nebuchadnezzar took out of the temple of Jerusalem, to the place where these used to be kept in the House of Yahweh.

⁶ Now therefore, I say this to you: Tattenai, governor of the province at the other side of the River, Shethar, Bozenai, and their Persian counselors living at the other side of the River do not interfere in this matter. ⁷ Let the governor of the Jews together with their leaders build the House of God on its former site.

⁸ This is the command I give as to what you should do to help those Jewish leaders rebuild the House of God: pay the expenses in full and without delay, with the income from taxes of the province at the other side of the River which is allotted to the king. ⁹ Then, upon the request of the priests of Jerusalem, give them daily and without fail what is needed for the sacrifices to the God of Heaven: young bulls, rams, lambs, wheat, salt, wine and oil. ¹⁰ With these, they shall offer sacrifices acceptable to the God of heaven, and pray for the life of the king and his sons. ¹¹ Moreover, I command the following: if anyone opposes these ordinances, a beam shall be pulled out of his house and he shall be hung on it, and his house reduced to a heap of ruin as punishment for his rebellion. ¹² And may the God who makes his Name dwell there crush every rebel, king or people, who goes against this and tries to destroy the House of God in Jerusalem. I, Darius, give this command. Let it be carried out at once."

¹³ Tattenai, governor of the region beyond the River, Shethar Bozenai, and his counselors acted in conformity with the order of King Darius. ¹⁴ And the leaders of the Jews continued to make progress in building, encouraged by what Haggai, the prophet, and Zechariah, the son of Iddo, had said; and they finished the work according to the command of the God of Israel and the decrees of Cyrus and Darius.

¹⁶ The children of Israel, the priests and the Levites, and the rest of those who had returned from exile celebrated the consecration of this House of God with rejoicing, ¹⁷ offering on this solemnity one hundred young bulls, two hundred rams and four hundred lambs; and twelve he-goats as a sin-offering for all Israel, according to the number of the tribes of Israel.

¹⁸ Then they installed the priests according to their ranks, and the Levites according to their classes, for the service of the house of God in Jerusalem, as it is written in the book of Moses.

¹⁹ Those who had returned from exile celebrated the Passover on the fourteenth day of the first month, ²⁰ for the priests and the Levites had purified themselves together, and all of them were clean. So, they slaughtered the Passover lamb for all who had returned from exile, for their fellow-priests and for themselves.

²¹ The Israelites who had returned from exile ate the Passover lamb with all those who had separated themselves from the people of the land and joined the returned exiles to seek Yahweh, the God of Israel. ²² They celebrated the Feast of Unleavened Bread joyfully for seven days; the reason for their joy was that Yahweh had turned the king of Assyria to look favorably on them so that they had been allowed to continue the work of re-building the House of the God of Israel.

Ezra comes to Jerusalem

7 ¹ After this, in the reign of Artaxerxes, king of Persia, Ezra, the son of Seraiah, came from Babylon. He was a descendant of Azariah, Hilkiah, ² Shallum, Zadik, Ahitub, ³ Amariah, Azariah, Meraioth, ⁴ Zerachiah, Uzzi, Bukki, ⁵ Abishua, Phinehas, Eleazar, and Aaron, the high priest.

⁶ This teacher, well-educated in the law given to Moses by Yahweh, the God of Israel, went up from Babylon, and as the hand of Yahweh, his God, was upon him, the king granted him all he asked. ⁷ Many children of Israel, priests, Levites, singers, gatekeepers, and temple servants, also came to Jerusalem in the seventh year of King Artaxerxes.

⁸ Ezra came to Jerusalem in the fifth month of the seventh year of the king. ⁹ He had left Babylon on the first day of the first month, and arrived in Jerusalem on the first day of the fifth month, for the good hand of his God was upon him. ¹⁰ Ezra had indeed dedicated himself with all his heart to put into action the Law of Yahweh and teach his commandments and precepts to Israel.

¹² "Artaxerxes, King of kings, to Ezra, priest and teacher, learned in the Law of the God of heaven, peace.

¹³ I have given orders so that all the Israelites who are in my kingdom and are ready to go with you to Jerusalem may leave with their priests and Levites. ¹⁴ As for you, you shall go as the representative of the king and of his seven counselors to see to it that the Law of God which is in your hands is observed in Judah and Jerusalem, ¹⁵ and to bring there the gold and silver which the king and his counselors have generously offered to the God of Israel, whose House is in Jerusalem. ¹⁶ You shall also bring all the silver and gold you can gather in Babylon with the voluntary offerings of the people and the priests for the House of God in Jerusalem.

¹⁷ With this money, take care to buy young bulls, rams, lambs, and everything needed for the grain offerings and the libations, which you shall offer upon the altar of the House of your God in Jerusalem. ¹⁸ Do whatever seems best to you and your brothers with the rest of the silver and gold, according to the will of your God.

¹⁹ Place before God in Jerusalem the vessels given to you for the service of the House of your God, ²⁰ and take from the treasuries of the king whatever is needed to pay for other expenses for the House of your God.

²¹ I, King Artaxerxes, command all the treasurers in the region at the other side of the River to do exactly all that Ezra, priest and scribe, learned in the Law of the God of heaven, may ask of them, ²² giving him up to a

o Almost sixty years passed between what is related in chapter 6, the Passover of 515 and Ezra's mission. Ezra may have come in 458. But he may also have come in 427 after Nehemiah's first mission. Then, these chapters 7-10 should be read after Chapter 6 of Nehemiah.

Ezra was in the Persian province of Babylon as the person responsible for Jewish religious affairs. He was a priest and belonged to the groups who had meditated on the Law of Moses under the influence of Ezekiel. They had gathered the different texts and may even have edited the biblical books forming "the Law" – from Genesis to Deuteronomy – in their final version. These priests understand that Israel is beginning a new phase of its history. The Jews who had returned from the Exile must be guided by God's Law.

This law, which separates Jews from non-Jews and regulates all the details of life will become the foundation of a religious community – and later also of a political community – making them a united people.

Upon coming to Jerusalem with an official mission, Ezra wants to impose the Mosaic Law edited in its final form; the Jewish people are reborn as the people of the Law.

The Law will transform the Jewish people into a more faithful and responsible people, serving God in every detail. But this will also entail the risk of confusing authentic faith with external practices. A people who only equate serving God with Temple worship and religious practices can become indifferent to what is most important in life.

hundred talents of silver, a hundred sacks of wheat, a hundred measures of wine and a hundred measures of oil; salt shall be given him without measure. ²³ Everything commanded by the God of heaven should be done with great care for the House of the God of heaven in order that his wrath may not come upon the kingdom, the king and his sons.

²⁴ We also make it known that taxes, contributions or toll duties cannot be collected from any of the priests, Levites, singers, gatekeepers, ministers and servants of this House of God.

²⁵ And you, Ezra, according to the wisdom of your God, appoint judges and magistrates to administer justice to all the people at the other side of the River, to all who know the Law of your God; and teach it to those who do not know it.

²⁷ Blessed be Yahweh, the God of our fathers, who inspired the King with this will to exalt and glorify the House of Yahweh in Jerusalem, ²⁸ and who let me win the favour of the King, of his counselors and of all his important officers. For my part, I took courage, since the hand of my God was with me, and I gathered together the leaders of Israel to go up with me.

List of the Jews returning with Ezra

8 ¹ These are the heads of clans who set out from Babylon with me in the reign of King Artaxerxes: — their ascendants are named

² Of the clan of Phinehas: Gershom; of the clan of Ithamar: Daniel; of the clan of David: Hattush ³ son of Secaniah; of the clan of Parosh: Zechariah, with whom one hundred and fifty males were registered; ⁴ of the clan of Pahath-moab: Eliehoenai, son of Zerariah, and with him two hundred males; ⁵ of the clan of Zattu: Shecaniah, son of Jahaziel, and with him three hundred males; ⁶ of the clan of Adin: Ebed, son of Jonathan, and with him fifty males; ⁷ of the clan of Elam: Jeshaiah, son of Athaliah, and with him seventy males; ⁸ of the clan of Shephatiah: Zebadiah, son of Michael, and with him eighty males; ⁹ of the clan of Joab: Obadiah, son of Jehiel, and with him two hundred and eighteen males; ¹⁰ of the clan of Bani: Shelomith, son of Josiphiah, and with him a hundred and sixty males; ¹¹ of the clan of Bebai: Zechariah, son of Bebai, and with him

twenty-eight males; ¹² of the clan of Azgad: Johanan son of Hakkatan, and with him a hundred and ten males; ¹³ of the clan of Adonikam: the younger sons, whose names are: Eliphelet, Jeiel and Shemaiah, and with them sixty males; ¹⁴ and of the clan of Bigvai: Uthai, son of Zabud, and with him seventy males.

¹⁵ I gathered them by the river that runs to Ahava, and there we encamped for three days; and having searched among these people, I did not find anyone from the tribe of Levi. ¹⁶ So I called for the leaders — Eliezer, Ariel, She-maiah, Jarib, Elnathan, Zechariah and Meshullam — Joarib and Elnathan. ¹⁷ I gave them orders concerning Iddo, the leader who was in Casiphia; I gave them the message they ought to relay to Iddo and his brothers, the helpers, in Casiphia, to send us ministers for the House of our God.

■ ²¹ There at the banks of the river Ahava, I proclaimed a fast to humble ourselves before our God, to implore him for a safe journey for ourselves, our children and our goods. ²² I was ashamed to ask the king for soldiers and horsemen to protect us against the enemy on the way; and we had said to the king, "The hand of our God is for good, upon all who seek him; and the power of his wrath upon all who abandon him." ²³ So we fasted and prayed to our God for this intention, and he listened to us.

²⁴ I chose twelve of the leaders of the priests, besides Sherebiah and Hashabiah and ten of their brothers. ²⁵ I weighed out before them the silver and gold, the consecrated vessels given by the king, his counselors and his leaders, and by all the Israelites who were there, for the House of our God. ²⁶ And I entrusted into their hands six hundred and fifty talents of silver, silver vessels worth a hundred talents, ²⁷ twenty bowls of gold worth a thousand darics, and two vessels of fine bright bronze as precious as vessels of gold. ²⁸ Then I said to them, "You are consecrated to Yahweh, these vessels are sacred objects, and that silver and this gold are voluntary offerings made to Yahweh, the God of our fathers. ²⁹ Take care of them and keep them until you weigh them before the leaders of the priests, the Levites and the families of Israel in Jerusalem, in the dwelling places of the House of Yahweh."

³⁰ Then, the priests and the Levites received all that we had weighed: the silver and gold, and the vessels, to bring them to Jerusalem to the House of our God.

³¹ We left the banks of the river Ahava to go to Jerusalem on the twelfth day of the first month. The hand of God was with us and he kept us from all attacks and ambushes from our enemies throughout our journey. ³² We arrived in Jerusalem where we rested for three days.

³³ On the fourth day, we weighed in the House of our God, the silver, the gold and the vessels, turning over everything to the priest Meremoth, son of Uriah, and to Eleazar, son of Phinehas, with the Levites Jozabad, son of Joshua, and Hoadaiah, son of Binnui. ³⁴ After counting and weighing everything again, the total weight was written down.

³⁵ The Jews who had returned from exile offered sacrifices to the God of Israel: twelve young bulls for all Israel, ninety-six rams, seventy-seven lambs, and as a sin-offering, twelve he-goats. All these were burnt offerings to Yahweh. ³⁶ And the decrees of the king were delivered to his governors and officials of the province beyond the River, who helped the people and the House of God.

9 ¹ After all this was finished, the leaders approached me and said, "The people of Israel, the priests and the Levites have not departed from the pagan peoples and are now serving the idols of the Canaanites, the Hittites, Perizzites, Jebusites, Ammonites, Moabites, Egyptians and Amorites. ² For they took women from among these people for themselves and for their sons, and mixed their holy race with that of the pagan people. Even the leaders and magistrates were the first in committing this sin."

³ When I heard this, I tore my garments and my mantle, pulled hair from my head and beard, and sat down very much grieved. ⁴ All who remembered the words of the God of Israel gathered around me; they were afraid because of this sin committed by the men who had returned from exile. ⁵ I remained seated and dismayed until the evening sacrifice; and then, at the time for the evening offering, I rose from my prostration, and with my clothes and mantle torn, I knelt down, spreading out my hands to Yahweh, my God.

⁶ I said, "my God! I am ashamed and confused, my God, I do not dare raise my eyes to you for our sins have increased over our heads and our crimes reach up to the heavens.

⁷ From the days of our fathers to this day, we have been in great guilt. We, our kings and priests have been given into the hands of foreign kings because of our crimes; we have been delivered to the sword, to captivity, to plunder, and put to shame as at this day.

¹⁰ But now, our God, what shall we say when, in spite of all this, we have abandoned your commandments? ¹¹ You have said through your servants, the prophets: The land you are entering to take possession of was defiled by the impurities of its inhabitants; they made it entirely unclean from one end to the other with their idolatry. ¹² Therefore, do not give your daughters as wives for their sons, nor take their daughters as wives for your sons. Do not work with them for their prosperity and well-being. Be strong, eat the best fruits of the land, and leave it as an inheritance to your sons forever.

♦ The Jews were intermingled with people who did not share their religion and suffered the danger of losing their identity. Ezra thinks that the Jewish community will succeed in being stronger and more conscious of their unique identity if they avoid any kind of sharing with the rest of the people. And so, to avoid the influence of other religions, marriages with non-Hebrews are forbidden.

But, without realizing it, Ezra promotes racism in spite of the teachings of the prophets who, in the previous century, had proclaimed that all the nations would enter into the people of God. The strict observance of the Law is, at first, a safeguard against the pagans; but with time, it becomes a wall that isolates the Jews from the rest of the people.

¹³ After all that has come upon us for our evil deeds and our sins, you, our God, have pardoned our wickedness, since you allowed all who are here to survive. ¹⁴ How could we despise your commandments once more and intermarry with these wretched peoples? Will you not be angry with us and destroy us without leaving any remnant or survivors?

¹⁵ Yahweh, God of Israel, you are just; see that we are a remnant of survivors. We are here in your presence with our sins, but we cannot remain so in your presence."

The foreign wives are cast out

² Then Shecaniah, son of Jehiel, of the sons of Elam, said to Ezra, "We have treated our God badly, by marrying foreign women away from the peoples of this land, but Israel is not without hope because of this. ³ Let us make a covenant with our God, and send these women away with their children according to the statement of my Lord and all of us who respect the commandment of our God, ⁴ let the Law be obeyed. We are with you. Have courage and command."

⁵ So Ezra arose and made the leaders of the priests, the Levites and of all Israel swear that they would do what had just been said, and so they swore. ⁶ Then, Ezra withdrew from the House of God and went to the chamber of Jehohanan, son of Eliashib, but he did not eat bread or drink water there, for he was much afflicted by the sin of those who had returned from exile. ⁷ A proclamation was made throughout Judah and Jerusalem that all who had returned from exile should assemble in Jerusalem, ⁸ and if anyone would not come within three days, according to the decision of the leaders and of the local elders, all his property would be confiscated and he himself banned from the assembly of those who had returned from exile.

⁹ All the men of Judah and Benjamin assembled in Jerusalem within the three days. It was the twentieth day of the ninth month, and all the people were in the open square of the House of God, trembling because of this matter and because it was raining.

¹⁰ Then the priest Ezra stood up and said, "You have been rebels in marrying foreign women, and have increased the offence of Israel. ¹¹ Now then, acknowledge your sin before Yahweh, the God of your fathers, and carry out his will; separate yourselves from the peoples of this land and from your foreign wives." ¹² The whole assembly answered with a loud voice, "Yes, we shall do as you say. ¹³ But the people are so numerous and we are now in the rainy season; we cannot endure the inclement weather, and besides, this matter cannot be settled in a day or two, for we are many who have committed this sin. ¹⁴ Our leaders can represent the whole assembly: those in our cities who have married foreign women shall come at appointed times, accompanied by the local leaders and judges of every city, until we have turned aside from us the anger of our God because of this matter."

¹⁵ The only ones who opposed this option were Jonathan, son of Asahel, and Jahzeiah, son of Tikvah, who were supported by the Levites Meshullam and Shabbethai. ¹⁶ But those who had returned from exile complied. In accordance with what the priest Ezra ordered, they selected a family head for every family group, each of them designated in a personal way, and they sat down to resolve the matter on the first day of the tenth month.

¹⁷ On the first day of the first month, they finished attending to all the cases of Jews who had been married to foreign women.

The list of the guilty

¹⁸ Among the members of the priestly clans, these are the names of those who were found to have married foreign women: among the clan of Jeshua, son of Jozadak, and among his brothers: Maaseiah, Eliezer, Jarib and Gedaliah; ¹⁹ they pledged their word to put their wives away and, for their sin, offered a ram as a sacrifice of reparation;

tive and we may see the will of God in that. The Jewish people resisted very harsh persecutions (see Maccabees). Then, after the coming of Christ, they were dispersed and they had to live for almost twenty centuries among officially Christian countries that usually persecuted them or tried to convert them to the Christian faith through all kinds of means. And yet, the Jewish people have remained something unique in history – in part, thanks to their faithfulness to the Law. We have to think that Christians can also draw a lesson from all of this. If we are called to be yeast for the masses, co-existing without prejudices with people of different creeds, we also need demands and external practices, accepted by all who join this community.

See what is said to the effect in Nehemiah 13!

How Nehemiah felt called

1 The words of Nehemiah, son of Hacaliah.

In the month of Chislev, in the twentieth year of King Artaxerxes, I was in the citadel of Susa when ² Hanani, one of my brothers, came with some men from Judah. I asked them about the Jewish survivors who had returned from exile and about Jerusalem.

³ They answered me, "The people now live there in the province, in the midst of great poverty and shame. The wall of Jerusalem is broken down and its gates burned."

⁴ When I heard these words, I sat down and began to weep. I mourned for days, keeping watch and praying before the God of heaven. ⁵ And I said,

"O Yahweh, God of heaven, you are fearsome and great. You keep your covenant and your fidelity towards those who love you and fulfill your commandments. ⁶ May your ears be attentive and your eyes open to listen to the prayer of your servant!

I am now in your presence day and night, for your servants, the children of Israel. I confess to you the sins we children of Israel have committed against you. I myself and the family of my father have sinned. ⁷ We have acted very badly. We did not fulfill your commandments, laws and instructions which you gave to your servant Moses.

⁸ But remember, too, what you said to Moses: If you are not faithful to me, I will scatter you among the nations. ⁹ But if you fulfill my commandments and put them into practice, I shall again lead you back to the place where I have chosen to dwell. I shall gather you, though you be dispersed to the ends of the world."

¹⁰ So then, Lord, do not forget that they are your servants; they are your people, whom you have saved with your great power and strong hand.

¹¹ Listen to my prayer and to the prayer of those who only wish to honour your Name. I ask you to help me now. May I be well received by the king."

I was then in charge of preparing the drinks of the king.

Nehemiah gives up everything to go to Jerusalem

+2 ¹ In the month of Nisan, in the twentieth year of King Artaxerxes, I was doing my duty as cupbearer. I took up the wine and gave it to the king. I had never been sad before the king in the past. ² So, the king said to me, "Why do you look sad? You don't look sick. Is there something that bothers you?"

I became hesitant. ³ And I said, "May the king live forever! How could I afford not to be sad when the city where my fathers are buried lies in ruins and its gates burned?" ⁴ The king said to me, "What do you want, then?" I asked help from heaven and ⁵ said to the king, "If it seems good to the king and if he is pleased with my work, then may he send me to the land of Judah, to the city where my fathers are buried, that I may rebuild it."

⁶ The queen was sitting beside the king, and the king asked me, "How long will you be gone? When will you be back?" I told him the date and he allowed me to leave. ⁷ And I said to the king, "If it pleases the king, may you give me letters for the governors of the province at the other side of the River to make it easy for me to travel to Judah, ⁸ and also a letter to Asaph, the caretaker of the king's forest, for I would need wood for the gates of the citadel near the Temple, for the walls of the city and for the house where I shall live."

The good hand of God was supporting me, so that the king gave me what I asked. ⁹ I went to the governors at the other side of the River, and

o Nehemiah served in the palace of King Artaxerxes as cupbearer, a high position at a time when kings were afraid of being poisoned.

He is a man whose future is assured: yet, he is going to leave everything to serve God.

Nehemiah's vocation comes from:

- His great trust in God's promises.
- An understanding of history which only a believer can have: Israel must not blame anyone else for their difficult situation. Their own sins are the cause of their misfortunes. And so, they must not expect their national restoration to come from the kindness of more powerful countries, but from their own conversion.

Nehemiah is the example of all those who are able to recognize the voice of the Lord through events and who do not wait for a special call to get to work. There is no doubt that every Christian, if he trusts in God, is called to discover and achieve what God expects of him for the salvation of the world, just as Nehemiah did.

+ Nehemiah asks and receives because he is not a nuisance, and his years of loyal service have earned him affection and esteem. His discretion and initiative are underscored and his fervent words encourage the skeptics whom he persuades.

Was it necessary to build the walls of Jerusadelivered to them the letters of the king. The king had ordered that I be accompanied by officers of the army and horsemen.¹⁰ But in Jerusalem, Sanballat, the Horonite and Tobiah, the Ammonite servant came to know of my arrival and it displeased them that someone had come to help the Israelites.

¹¹ I came to Jerusalem and was there for three days.¹² Then I arose in the night, accompanied by a few men, without telling anyone what I planned to do in Jerusalem according to what my God had inspired me to do.

Bringing along only the horse on which I rode,¹³ I went out by night by the Gate of the Garbage Dump, I inspected the ruined wall of Jerusalem and the burned gates.

¹⁴ I went on to the Fountain Gate and the King's Reservoir, but my horse could not pass through anywhere.¹⁵ So I went up, in the night, by the ravine. I inspected the wall and turned back entering by the Valley Gate.

So I returned to the house.¹⁶ The counselors did not know where I had been or what I was doing. Until that time I had not yet told any of the Jews or the counselors, or the priests or the nobles, or any of those in public office.

¹⁷ Then I said to them, "You yourselves see the misery we are in because Jerusalem lies in ruins and its gates burned. Come, let us rebuild the walls of Jerusalem, and put an end to this humiliating situation."¹⁸ And I recounted to them how the good hand of God had helped me, and what the king had told me. Everyone said, "Let us begin the work." And they encouraged one another to make this good work a reality.

¹⁹ Sanballat the Horonite, Tobiah the Ammonite and Geshem the Arab heard of this. They laughed at us and came to tell us, "What are you doing? You are rebelling against the king!"²⁰ I answered them, "The God of heaven shall grant us success. We, his servants, are now going to work. But as for you, you have neither right nor inheritance nor anything to do with Jerusalem."

They begin to build the wall

3¹ The high priest Eliashib and his brothers, the priests, were entrusted with the building of the Sheep Gate. They built it, set its doors and continued as far as the Tower of Hananel.² The people of Jericho worked at their side, and farther on, Zaccur, son of Imri.³ The Fish Gate was assigned to the sons of Hassenaah. They set up and fixed its doors, bolts and bars.

⁶ The Old Gate was repaired by Joiada, son of Paseah, and Meshullam, son of Besodeiah. They set up and fixed the gate with its bolts and bars.

⁷ Next to them worked Malatiah of Gibeon and Yadan of Meronot with the people of Gibeon and Mizpah, beside the house of the provincial governor.⁸ Next to them worked lem? In fact, more than the restoration, the Bible stresses the way it was achieved: in calling for everyone's cooperation. Nehemiah builds up the spirit of the Jerusalem community.

Uzziel, of the jeweller's guild workshop. Next were Hananiah, of the perfumers' guild: they strengthened Jerusalem as far as the Wall of the Square. ⁹ Next to them repairs were carried out by Rephaiah son of Hur, ruler of half the district of Jerusalem. ¹⁰ Next to them Jedaiah son of Harumaph worked opposite his own house; next to him repairs were carried out by Hattush son of Hashabneiah. ¹¹ Malchijah son of Harim and Hasshub son of Pahath-moab repaired the next section as far as the Tower of the Furnaces. ¹² Next to them worked Shallum son of Halloheh, ruler of half the district of Jerusalem, he and his daughters. ¹³ Hanun and the inhabitants of Zanoah repaired the Valley Gate; they restored it, constructed its framework and set its doors, bolts and bars in place, and repaired a thousand cubits of wall up to the Dung Gate. ¹⁴ Malchijah son of Rechab, ruler of the district of Bethhaccherem, repaired the Dung Gate, he and his sons: he set its doors, bolts and bars in place. ¹⁵ Shallum, son of Colhozeb, ruler of the district of Mizpah, repaired the Fountain Gate; he restored it, covered it, and set its doors, bolts and bars in place. He also rebuilt the wall of the conduit cistern, adjoining the king's garden, as far as the steps coming down from the Citadel of David. ¹⁶ Next to him, Nehemiah son of Azbuk, ruler of half the district of Bethzur, worked up to a point opposite the tombs of David, the artificial pool and the House of Heroes. ¹⁷ Next to him worked the Levites: Rehun son of Bani and next to him Hashabiah, ruler of half the district of Keilah, for his own district. ¹⁸ Next to them worked their brothers: Binnui son of Henadad, ruler of half the district of Keilah; ¹⁹ next to him, Ezer son of Jeshua, ruler of Mizpah, opposite the slope up to the Armoury, towards the Angle.

²⁰ Next to him Baruch son of Zabbai worked from the Angle as far as the door of the house of Eliashib the high priest. ²¹ Next to him Meremoth son of Uriah, son of Hakkoz from the door of Eliashib's house to its farther end. ²² Next to him worked the priests who lived there. ²³ Next to them worked Benjamin and Hasshub, opposite their own houses. Next to them Azariah son of Maaseiah, son of Ananiah, beside his own house. ²⁴ Next to him Binnui son of Henadad from the house Azariah as far as the Angle. ²⁵ Next to him Palal son of Uzai worked opposite the corner of the tower jutting out over the upper palace of the king near the prison courtyard. Next to him Pedaiah son of Parosh worked ²⁶ as far as the Water Gate, in an easterly direction and up to a point opposite the projecting tower. ²⁷ Next to him the men of Tekoah worked opposite the great tower as far as the wall of Ophel.

²⁸ From the Horse Gate onwards repairs were carried out by the priests, each opposite his own house. ²⁹ Next to them worked Zadok son of Immer opposite his own house. Next to him Shemaiah son of Shecaniah, keeper of the East Gate. ³⁰ Next to him Hananiah son of Shelemiah and Hanun sixth son of Zalaph. Next to him son of Berechiah worked opposite where he lived. ³¹ Next to him Malchijah, of the goldsmiths' guild, repaired as far as the quarters of the helpers and the merchants, opposite the Watch Gate as far as the high chamber of the corner. ³² And between the high chamber of the corner and the Sheep Gate repairs were carried out by the goldsmiths and the merchants.

The enemies try to discourage Nehemiah

■ ³³ When Sanballat heard that we were rebuilding the wall, he became angry. He ridiculed the Jews ³⁴ and said before his brothers and the lords of Samaria, "What are those miserable Jews trying to do? Are they perhaps going to rebuild, finish and celebrate the inauguration in a single day? Do they think they can make stones out of heaps of ruins?"

³⁵ Tobiah the Ammonite who was by him said, "Let them build, for if any fox goes up on their wall it will surely collapse."

³⁶ Listen, O our God, for we are despised! May their insult fall back upon their own heads; give them up to contempt in a land where they shall be exiled! ³⁷ Do not cover their guilt nor

36. Jer 18, 23

■ Later, Nehemiah's work arouses jealousy and suspicion. Nothing unusual in that. The firmness of this man alone was enough to inspire everyone. At that very moment, building the Jerusalem walls was the specific task without which sacred history would stop. Had the Jewish people given in and delayed, they would have lost the means to their independence and the meaning of their mission. Similarly today, although the mission of the Church is mostly spiritual, our fidelity to the Lord depends upon our attitude in the face of violations and betrayals of the truth in very specific things of social life.

¹⁸ The people worked with all their hearts and we finished half the wall's height.

4¹ Sanballat, Tobiah, the Arabs, the Ammonites and the residents of Azotus saw that the repair of the wall was advancing, and that we had begun covering the holes.² They were greatly enraged, and all of them agreed to attack Jerusalem and humiliate me.

³ So we prayed to our God, and set a guard day and night.⁴ The people of Judah said, "The strength of the leaders is already failing, and much debris still remains: we can never rebuild the wall."⁵ And our enemies said, "We will take them by surprise before they know it. We will kill them and their project will be spoken of no more."

But some Jews who lived with them came to notify us about this. Ten times they said to us, "From all the places where they live, they shall set out against us."

⁷ So I ordered that people be stationed behind the wall, there in the lowest part. I stationed them by families, with their swords, spears, and bows.⁸ They were afraid, but I stood up and said to the nobles, the counselors and the rest of the people, "Remember the Lord, great and magnificent, and fight for your brothers, sons and daughters, wives and homes."

⁹ When our enemies learned that we had been notified, that God would that their plans be thwarted, we all returned to the wall, each one to his work.

Beside me was the man assigned to sound the trumpet.¹³ I told the nobles, the counselors and the rest of the people, "The extent of the work is great and we are scattered along the wall, far from one another,¹⁴ so when you hear the sound of the horn, come to our aid at once and our God shall fight for us."

¹⁵ So we scheduled the work from daybreak till the stars came out, half of us with weapons in hand.¹⁶ I also said to the people, "Everyone shall spend the night within Jerusalem, with his servants. So we may keep guard by night and work by day."

¹⁷ Yet my brothers, my men, the men of the guard who followed me, and I did not take off our clothes when we slept. Everyone kept his weapon with him.

The rich must share the sacrifices of the poor

5¹ The common people and their wives presented very serious complaints against their Jewish brothers.

² Some of them said, "We have big families and we need wheat to eat for strength to live."³ Others cried out, "We have to mortgage our fields, vineyards and houses to get grain because of this famine."⁴ Others said,

◆ We belong to the same race as our brothers. The rulers keep saying that the reconstruction requires sacrifice. But the Jewish people demand that the sacrifices be really shared by all.

Those who have enough for today must cancel the debts of those who have nothing.

And now are you buying your brothers back? Nehemiah defends the most humble, and

"We have borrowed money on account of our fields and vineyards in order to pay the tax to the king.⁵ Though we are of the same race as our brothers and our children are not different from their children, we have to give our children as slaves; even many of our daughters are not regarded as concubines. And we do not have any other solution, inasmuch as our fields and vineyards have passed on to others."

⁶ Those complaints and accusations filled me with indignation. ⁷ After reflecting on the matter, I brought this to the attention of the nobles and the counselors,⁸ saying to them, "Why do you not have compassion on your brothers?"

Because of this, I held a great assembly and said to them, "We have rescued, according to our resources, our Jewish brothers who were slaves. But are you now buying your own brothers?"

They remained silent. They could not answer.⁹ And I continued, "What you do is not good. Should you not live in obedience to our God lest we be put to shame by our pagan enemies?¹⁰ My brothers, my relatives and I have also lent money and wheat. Now then, let us forget everything they owe us,¹¹ returning to them at once their fields, vineyards, and olive groves, and cancelling their debts in money, wheat, wine and oil."¹² They answered me, "We will return these and demand nothing from them. We will do as you have said."

So I called the priests, and before them, made all of them swear an oath that they would fulfill their promise.¹³ Then I shook out the folds of my mantle, saying, "So may God shake out of his house and his inheritance all who do not fulfill this word, and may he be so shaken that nothing is left of him." The whole assembly answered, "Amen" and praised Yahweh. And the people fulfilled their promise.

¹⁴ King Artaxerxes had appointed me governor of the land of Judah in the twentieth year of his reign. Until the thirty-second year, or rather, for twelve years, neither I nor my brothers ever demanded to be given the governor's bread.¹⁵ But the former governors had collected forty pieces of silver per day from the people. This pay was a burden to the people, besides the abuses their servants had committed.

¹⁶ As I dedicated myself to rebuilding the wall, I did not buy fields; and all my men were there helping.¹⁷ At my table a hundred and fifty men, leaders and counselors were seated, besides those who came to us from neighbouring nations.¹⁸ A male calf, six choice rams and fowls were slaughtered daily, and every ten days a great quantity of wine was brought. But though all these were charged to my account, I never asked for the governor's bread, because the people denounces the sin the rich have committed without realizing it: driven by the logic of debt and credit, they have come to submit their brothers to slavery.

Do you want to imitate our enemies' customs? We rightfully seek a liberation from exploitative and from anti-social governments. Finally the exploitative spirit in each one of us is the last thing to be uprooted.

• Sanballat uses every means to discourage Nehemiah:

3:33 – mockery and insults.

4:2 – threat of attack.

6:2 – psychological warfare.

6:6 – accusations.

6:14 – bribing the false prophets.

There will always be people who take advantage of God's word to support governments or to deceive the people.

Note the expression in 6:13: to frighten me and lead me to sin. Quite often, fear is a slippery way leading to sin.

were already burdened enough with the task of reconstruction.

¹⁹ Remember for my good, my God, all that I have done for this people!

Further opposition to rebuilding

6 ¹ Sanballat, Tobiah, Geshem the Arab, and the rest of our enemies learned that I had rebuilt the wall of Jerusalem. There was no hole left in it, although the doors had not been set up yet. ² Then Sanballat and Geshem sent me a message saying, "Come and let us talk in Keriphim, in the lowland of Ono."

They intended to do me harm; ³ but I sent messengers to them, saying, "I am much occupied in a very important work. I cannot come down to meet you, for the work would stop if I left it." ⁴ They invited me again four times, but I gave them the same answer every time.

⁵ Then Sanballat invited me for the fifth time. His servant brought an open letter which said the following, ⁶ "Do you know the news that circulates among those who are not Jews? Gashmu says that you and the Jews are planning to rebel and that is why you are rebuilding the wall. ⁷ And you also wish to become their king, and have already chosen prophets to proclaim you king of Jerusalem. The king shall know of this, so come that the two of us may talk."

⁸ But I sent to him, saying, "There's nothing true in what you say; all are the inventions of your own mind."

⁹ For they all wanted to frighten us, saying: "Let us discourage them that they may not finish the work."

But I, on the contrary, worked with greater strength. ¹⁰ Then I went to Shemaiah, son of Delaiah, son of Mehetabel, since he could not leave his house. He said to me, "Let us meet together in the House of God, within the sanctuary, and then close its doors, for they are coming to kill you, and strike you this very night."

¹¹ But I answered him, "Should a man like me flee? Why should a man like me seek sanctuary to save my life? I will not go." ¹² I understood then that Semaiah had not been sent by God but that Tobiah and Sanballat had brought him ¹³ to frighten me. In hiding in the sanctuary, I would have committed an offence, and this would have damaged my reputation and put me to shame.

¹⁴ O my God, remember Tobiah and Sanballat, for what they have done; and also the prophetess Noadiah and the rest of the prophets who tried to frighten me.

¹⁵ The wall was finished on the twenty-fifth day of Elul, in fifty-two days. ¹⁶ When our enemies and the neighbouring nations knew about it, they were afraid and lost courage. They had to recognize the work of God in this.

¹⁷ During that time, several distinguished Jews often wrote to and received letters from Tobiah. ¹⁸ Tobiah had many friends in Judah for he was the son-in-law of Shecaniah, son of Arah, and because his son Jehohanan was married to the daughter of Meshullam, son of Berechiah. ¹⁹ They even came to speak well of Tobiah in my presence, and recounted to him all my words as well. And it was he – Tobiah – who sent letters to frighten me.

7 ¹ When the wall was finished and the doors were in place, gatekeepers were designated to keep watch. ² Then I set my brother Hanani as governor of Jerusalem, and Hananiah as head of the citadel, for he was a faithful man and true servant of God.³ Then I said to them, "Open the gates of Jerusalem only when the sun begins to get hot, but while it is still day, close and bar the doors while the guards are still at their posts.

And during the night, the inhabitants of Jerusalem shall come out to keep guard, some in their places and others in front of their houses."

The new population of Jerusalem

⁴ The city was spacious and wide, but it had few inhabitants and many houses had not been rebuilt. ⁵ God inspired in me the idea to assemble the leaders, the counselors and the people to take a census. I found the registry book of the census of those who had returned from exile in the beginning. I found the following written in it:

⁷ These are the Israelites who came with Zerubbabel, Jeshua, Nehemiah, Azariah, Ramiah, Nahamani, Mordecai, Bilshan, Mispereith, Bigvai, Nehum, Baanah; here are the numbers:

³⁹ The priests: the sons of Jedaiah of the house of Jeshua, 973; ⁴⁰ those of Immer, 1,052; ⁴¹ those of Pashhur, 1,247; ⁴² those of Harim, 1,017.

⁴³ The Levites: the sons of Jeshua, of Kadmiel, of the sons of Hodevah, 74.

⁴⁴ The singers: the sons of Asaph, 148.

⁴⁵ The gatekeepers: the sons of Shallum, of Ater, of Talmon, of Akkub, of Hatita, of Shobai, 138.

⁴⁶ The temple servants: the sons of Ziha, of Hasupha, of Tabbaath, ⁴⁷ of Keros, of Sia, of Padon, ⁴⁸ of Lebana, of Hagaba, of Shalmai, ⁴⁹ of Hanan, of Giddel, of Gahar, ⁵⁰ of Reaiah, of Rezin, of Nekoda, ⁵¹ of Gazzam, of Uzza, of Paseah, ⁵² of Besai, of Meunim, of Nephushesim, ⁵³ of Bakbuk, of Hakupha, of Harhur, ⁵⁴ of Bazlith, of Mehida, of Harsha, ⁵⁵ of Barkos, of Sisera, of Temah, ⁵⁶ of Nezia, of Hatipha.

⁷² The rest of the people gave 20,000 gold drachmas and 2,000 silver minas, and 67 priests' garments.

⁷³ The priests, the Levites, the gatekeepers, the singers, some of the people, the temple servants, and all Israel lived in their cities.

And when the seventh month came, the sons of Israel were in their cities.

Ezra reads the law

+8 ¹ In the seventh month, all the people gathered as one man in the square before the Water Gate, and they asked Ezra to bring the Book of the Law of Moses, which Yahweh had given to Israel. ² Ezra brought the Law before the assembly, both men and women and all the children who could understand what was being read. It was the first day of the seventh month. ³ Ezra read the book before all of them from early morning until midday in the square facing the Water Gate; and all who heard were attentive to the Book of the Law.

⁵ Ezra opened the book in the sight of all the people, for he was in a higher place; and when he opened it, all the people stood. ⁶ Ezra blessed Yahweh, the great God; and all the people lifted up their hands and answered, "Amen! Amen!" And they bowed their heads to the ground.

⁷ The Levites Joshua, Bani and the rest of their brothers explained the Law to the people who were standing. ⁸ They read from the Book of the Law of God, clarifying and interpreting the meaning, so that everyone might understand what they were hearing.

⁹ Then Ezra, the teacher of the Law, said to the people, "This day is dedicated to Yahweh, your God, so do not be sad or weep." He said this because all wept when they heard the reading of the Law. ¹⁰ Then he said to them, "Go and eat rich foods, drink sweet wine and share with him who has nothing prepared.

This day is dedicated to the Lord, so do not be sad. The joy of Yahweh is our strength."

¹¹ The Levites also calmed the people down, saying, "Do not weep. This day is a festival day. Do not be sad."

¹² And the people went their way to eat, drink and share, and they had a great feast, because they had understood the words that had been proclaimed to them.

¹³ On the second day, the heads of the families, the priests and the Levites came together to Ezra, the teacher of the Law, in order to learn the Law. ¹⁴ There they read that Yahweh had commanded the children of Israel that they should dwell in huts during the feast of the seventh month. ¹⁵ Then they proclaimed in all the cities and in Jerusalem: "Go to the mountains and bring branches of olive, pine, myrtle,

14. Lev 23, 33

+ This first public reading of the Law marks a very important date of sacred history. Until that time, the people of Israel lived their faith through praying and taking part in the Temple ceremonies. Decisions and preaching came to them through priests and prophets. They did not feel the need to read a Bible.

Several books of our Bible were already in existence but they were kept in the Temple or the kings' palace: they were not within the reach of the people nor were they the foundation of their faith. Now, however, new demands are made and they no longer have prophets as before. Ezra understands that in the future, the Jewish community will grow through the reading, meditation and interpretation of the sacred book. Ezra himself tries to gather and complete the sacred books, and a new age is beginning wherein the Bible will be everyone's book and the basis of their faith.

This religious and cultural transition is similar to what affected the Church in recent years. People were going to church; they were praying and they were being taught, but the Bible was foreign to them. However, now the Christian faith can only become strong through the word of God read and heard in the community. Indeed we are behind time: this renewal should have started four centuries ago when Protestantism began.

The assembly gathered by Ezra will serve as the model for the religious life of the Jewish community. The solemn worship of the Jerusalem Temple is not suppressed, but, from then on, in every city the Jews will have a synagogue, that is, a meeting place where they will gather on the Sabbath to hear God's word and to sing psalms.

¹⁷ The whole assembly of those who had returned from exile built huts and dwelt in them, a thing the Israelites had not done since the days of Joshua, son of Nun. And there was great rejoicing.

¹⁸ They read the Book of the Law of God daily, from the first day to the last day of the feast. The feast lasted for seven days and ended on the eighth day with an assembly.

The Israelites confess their sins

9 ¹ On the twenty-fourth day of that same month, the Israelites assembled to fast. They put on sackcloth and sprinkled dust upon their heads. ² The race of Israel separated themselves from all foreigners; they stood and confessed their sins and those of their fathers.

³ They stood up in their place and read from the Book of the Law of Yahweh, their God, for three hours. For another three hours, they confessed their sins and bowed before Yahweh, their God.

⁴ Joshua, Bani, Kadmiel, Shebaniah, Bunni, Sherebiah, Bani and Chenani stood on the platform of the Levites and cried out with a loud voice to Yahweh, their God. ⁵ Then the Levites: Joshua, Bani, Kadmiel, Hashabneiah, Sherebiah, Hodia, Shebaniah and Pethaliah said, "Arise, bless Yahweh, our God, forever and ever. Blessed be your glorious Name which is beyond all blessing and praise."

Prayer of Ezra

⁶ Then Ezra said, "You, Yahweh, you alone made the heavens, the heaven of heavens, and all their army, the earth and all that is on it, the seas and all that is in them. You give life to all, and all the angels of heaven adore you.

⁷ You, Yahweh, are the God who chose Abram; you brought him out of Ur of Chaldea, and gave him the name Abraham.

⁸ You found him faithful to you and made with him the Covenant to give to him and his descendants the land of the Canaanite, the Hittite, the Amorite, the Perizzite, the Jebusite and the Girgashite. And you have fulfilled your word, for you are just.

⁹ You saw the affliction of our fathers in Egypt and listened to their cry by the Red Sea.

¹⁰ You worked signs and wonders against Pharaoh, his ministers and all his people, for you knew that they had treated us harshly, and you have received fame to this day.

¹² You guided them by day with a pillar of cloud, and by night with a pillar of fire to light before them the way they should follow.

¹³ You came down upon Mount Sinai and spoke with them from heaven; you gave them just laws, norms that express truth, excellent precepts and commandments.

13. Ex 19

■ We must relate this penance ceremony with chapters 9 and 10 of Ezra. It deals with asking forgiveness for the sins which separate people from God's law and are harmful to the race of Israel. They insist especially on the sin of marrying women of another race and a different religion: the Bible knows that marrying someone of another religion often brings a person to move away from his own religious community. This was Solomon's sin.

After publicly confessing the faults of the community, they remember God's mercy: it is useless to know the sins if feelings of inner repentance are not aroused in remembering how God always forgives generously. Following, we have a summary of sacred history showing God's mercy with his people.

At the conclusion of the ceremony, several commitments are made: these are necessary to help the weakness of the will, and to struggle against laxity. But it is not all a question of rules; the risk consists in paying more attention to external observance than to the spirit of the Law.

¹⁴ You taught them to consecrate the sabbath to you; you gave them commandments, precepts and the Law, through the hand of Moses, your servant.

¹⁶ But our fathers became proud and hard-headed, and they did not listen to your commands.

¹⁷ They refused to listen or to remember all the marvels you did for them. They hardened their hearts rebelliously and wanted to go back to their slavery in Egypt. But you, God of forgiveness, merciful and gracious, slow to anger and rich in kindness, did not abandon them.

¹⁸ They even made for themselves a molten calf and said: 'This is your god, Israel, who brought you out of Egypt, and had terribly insulted and blasphemed you.

²⁰ You gave them your good Spirit to instruct them; you gave them manna so they could eat, and water to quench their thirst.

²¹ Forty years you cared for them in the desert and they lacked nothing, neither did their clothes wear out or their feet swell.

²² You gave them kingdoms and lands; you allotted to them the frontier lands. They took possession of the land of Sihon, king of Heshbon, and the land of Og, king of Bashan.

²³ And you multiplied their sons as the stars of heaven, bringing them to the land you promised their fathers.

²⁶ But then, they were disobedient and they rebelled against you. They threw your Law behind their backs, killed the prophets who admonished them to return to you, and committed grave sins against you

²⁸ But when they were at peace, they did evil against you, and again you gave them over to the hands of the enemies who oppressed them. Once more they cried to you, and you listened to them from heaven, and by your great kindness you saved them many times.

²⁹ Insistently, you asked them to return to your Law, but they were very proud, so they did not listen to your commands and ordinances. They did not observe what a man should fulfill to have life. They turned their backs and did not listen to you for they were hard-headed.

³⁰ You were patient with them for many years. You admonished them by your Spirit through the mouth of the prophets; but they did not listen.

³¹ Then you gave them over to the power of other peoples. But because of your great kindness, you did not let them be destroyed, nor did you abandon them, for you are a God of kindness and mercy.

³² Now then, our God, great, powerful and fearsome God, who keeps your covenant and your love, take into account this misery which has come upon us, upon our kings and leaders, our priests and prophets, upon our fathers and all your people since the time of the kings of Assyria to the present day.

³³ You have shown yourself just in all that has happened, for you have faithfully fulfilled your promises, but we have sinned.

³⁴ Our kings and leaders, our priests and our fathers did not keep your Law, they did not follow your commandments or the norms you gave them.

³⁶ See, we are now slaves, enslaved in the land you gave to our fathers to enjoy its fruits and its goodness.

³⁷ The abundant fruits of the land go to the kings you have set over us because of our sins. They do what they please with us and our livestock, and because of this we live in great distress.

Promises made by the community

10 ¹ In accordance with all this, we make a firm commitment in writing. The document has been signed by our leaders, our Levites and our priests.

¹⁵ The leaders of the people: Parosh, Pathmoab, Elam, Zattu, Bani, ¹⁶ Bunni, Azgad, Bebai, ¹⁷ Adonijah, Bigvai, Adin, ¹⁸ Ater, Hezekiah, Azzur, ¹⁹ Hodiah, Hashum, Bezai, ²⁰ Hariph, Anathoth, Nebai, ²¹ Magpiash, Meshullam, Hezir, ²² Meshezabel, Zadok, Jaddua, ²³ Pelatiah, Hanan, Anaiah, ²⁴ Hoshea, Hananiah, Hasshub, ²⁵ Halloheshe, Pilha, Shobek, ²⁶ Rehum, Hashabnah, Maaseiah, ²⁷ Ahiah, Hanan, Anan, ²⁸ Malluch, Harim, Baanah.

³¹ We decided not to give our daughters in marriage to the men of the land nor take their daughters as wives for our sons. ³² If the people of the land bring goods or any foodstuff whatsoever to sell on the sabbath day, we will not buy anything from them on the sabbath day or on any other sacred feast day. We will leave our fields uncultivated in the seventh year, and cancel all debts owed to us.

³³ We consider it our obligation to give one-third of a shekel yearly for the service of the House of Yahweh, ³⁴ for the bread presented as a perpetual offering and holocaust, for the sacrifices on the sabbath, on the new moon, on feasts for other sacrifices, for the expiation of the sin of Israel and for everything necessary in the House of God.

³⁵ Among the priests, Levites and people of the town, we have drawn lots for the offering of firewood that each family shall bring by turn to the House of Yahweh every year to keep the fire burning at the altar of Yahweh, our God, as it is written in the Law.

³⁶ We will bring the first fruits of our fields and of our fruit trees to the House of Yahweh through all the years. ³⁷ Our firstborn sons and the firstborn of our animals, as it is written in the Law, the firstborn of our cattle and sheep we will set aside for the House of Yahweh and for the priests who serve in the House of our God. ³⁸ We will bring the best of our cereals, the fruit of every tree, the wine and the oil to the priests to be kept in the chambers of the House of our God; we will also bring the tent from our fields for the Levites. The Levites themselves will collect the tithes from all the agricultural towns. ³⁹ A priest, a son of Aaron, will go with them when they collect the tithes. The Levites will bring the tenth part of the tithes into the storage rooms of the House of God where the treasures are kept, ⁴⁰ since the Israelites and the Levites bring to these storage rooms what they owe in wheat, wine and oil. In these rooms are also found the supplies for the Sanctuary, for the priests who are on duty, and for the gatekeepers and the singers.

So we will no longer neglect the House of our God.

11 ¹ The leaders of the people settled in Jerusalem. The rest of the people drew lots so that for every ten men, one would live in Jerusalem, the Holy City, with the remaining nine settling in other cities. ² The people blessed all the men who volunteered to live in Jerusalem.

³ These are the provincial leaders who resided in Jerusalem. And in the cities of Judah, everyone settled on his property, in the city of this family: the people of Israel and their priests and Levites, ministers and the sons of the servants of Solomon.

The Jewish population in Jerusalem

⁴ In Jerusalem there lived some of the tribe of Judah and some of the tribe of Benjamin.

Of the tribe of Judah: Athaiah son of Uz-ziah, grandson of Zechariah, son of Amariah, son of Sephatiah, son of Mehalalel, of the descendants of Perez; ⁵ Maaseiah son of Baruch, grandson of Colhozeh, son of Hazaiah, son of Adaiah, son of Joiarib, son of Zechariah, descendant of Shelah. ⁶ The total number of the descendants of Perez living in Jerusalem was four hundred and sixty-eight adult men.

⁹ Joel son of Zichri was their leader, and Judah son of Hassenuah was second in command of the city.

¹⁰ Of the priests: Jedaiah son of Joiakin, son of Seraiah, son of Hilkiah, ¹¹ grandson of Meshullam, son of Zadok, son of Meraioth, son of Ahitub, who was the High Priest, ¹² and his kinsmen who were responsible for the Temple liturgy: eight hundred and twenty-two; Adaiah son of Jeroham, son of Pelaliah, son of Amzi, son of Zechariah, son of Pashhur, son of Malchijah, ¹³ and his kinsmen, heads of families: two hundred and forty-two; and Amashai son of Azarel, grandson of Ahzai, son of Meshillemoth, son of Immer, ¹⁴ and his kinsmen, adult men: one hundred and twenty-eight.

Zabdiel son of Haggadol was in charge of them.

¹⁹ The gatekeepers: Akkub, Talmon and their kinsmen, who kept watch at the gates: one hundred and seventy-two.

²¹ The workmen lived at Ophel; Ziha and Gishpa were in charge of the workmen. ²² The head of the Levites in Jerusalem was Uzzi son of Bani, grandson of Hashbiah, son of Mattaniah, son of Mica, he belonged to the clan of Asaph who were responsible for the chanted parts of the liturgy in the Temple of God; ²³ there were royal regulations stating how the clans should take turns in leading the Temple music each day. ²⁴ Pethahiah son of Meshezabel, belonging to the clan of Zerach and the tribe of Judah, was the king's commissioner for all such matters as concerned the people.

²⁰ The rest of the Israelites, priests and Levites made their homes throughout the towns of Judah, each man in his own inheritance, ²⁵ and in the villages situated in rural districts of their own.

Some of the tribe of Judah made their homes in Kiriatharba and its outlying villages, in Dibon and its outlying villages, in Jekabzeel and its outlying villages, ²⁶ in Jeshua, Moladah, Beth-pelet, ²⁷ Hazar-shual, in Beer-sheba and its villages, ²⁸ in Ziklag, in Meconah and its villages, ²⁹ in Enrimmon, Zorah, Jarmuth, ³⁰ Zanoah, Adullam and their villages: thus, they settled from Beersheba as far as the Valley of Hinnom.

³¹ Some of the tribe of Benjamin made their homes in Geba, Michmash, Aija, in Bethel and its villages, ³² Anathoth, Nob, Ananiah, ³³ Hazor, Ramah, Gittaim, ³⁴ Hadid, Zeboim, Neballat, ³⁵ Lod and Ono, and the Valley of the Craftsmen.

³⁶ Some groups of Levites settled in Judah as well as in Benjamin.

12 ¹ These are the priests and the Levites who came back with Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel, and with the High Priest Jeshua:

⁸ And the Levites: Jeshua, Binnui, Kadmiel, Sherebiah, Judah, Mattaniah – the latter with his kinsmen, directed the hymns of thanksgiving ⁹ while Bakbukiah, Unno and their kinsmen in their respective groups formed an alternate choir.

¹⁰ Jeshua was the father of Joiakim father of Eliashib, Eliashib father of Joiada, ¹¹ Joiada father of Hohanani, and Johanan father of Jaddua.

¹² In the days when Joiakim was High Priest the heads of the priestly clans were: clan of ¹³ Seraiah, Meraiah; of Jeremiah, Hananiah; of Ezra, Meshullam; of Amariah, Jehohanan; ¹⁴ of Malluchi, Jonathan; of Shebaniah, Joseph; ¹⁵ of Harim, Adna; of Meremoth, Helkai; ¹⁶ of Iddo, Zechariah; of Ginnethon, Meshullam; ¹⁷ of Abijah, Zichri; of Miniamin,...; of Moadiah, Piltai; ¹⁸ of Bilgah, Shammua; of Shemaiah, Jehonathan; ¹⁹ also: of Joiarib, Mattenai; of Jedaiah, Uzzi; ²⁰ of Sallai, Kallai; of Amok, Eber; ²¹ of Hilkiah, Hashabiah; of Jedaiah, Nethanel.

²² In the days of the High Priests Eliashib, Joiada, Johanan and Jaddua, the heads of the priestly families were recorded in the Book of the Chronicles up to the reign of Darius the Persian.

²³ The sons of Levi.

²⁴ The heads of the Levite families were recorded in the Book of the Chronicles, but only up to the time of Johanan, grandson of Eliashib.

The heads of the Levites: Hashabiah, Sherebiah, Jeshua, Binnui, Kadmiel; and their kinsmen forming an alternate choir for the hymns of praise and thanksgiving, in accordance with the instructions of David the man of God, in alternating groups. ²⁵ Mattaniah, Bakbukiah, Obadiah, Meshullam, Talmon and Akkub were gatekeepers and stood guard at the storehouses near the gates.

²⁶ These lived in the days of Joiakim son of Jeshua, grandson of Jozadak and in the days of Nehemiah, the governor and of Ezra, priest and scholar of the Law.

Dedication of the wall of Jerusalem

³⁸ The second choir marched to the left: I followed it with half the leaders of the people long the top of the wall, passing through the tower of the Furnaces and as far as the Wide Wall.³⁹ over the Gate of Ephraim, the Fish Gate, the Tower of Hananel, as far as the Sheep Gate, and we stopped at the Watch Gate.

⁴³ Great sacrifices were offered that day and the people rejoiced, for God had bestowed great joy on them: the women and the children also participated in the feast. And the shouts of joy of Jerusalem could be heard far away.

⁴⁴ At that time, I appointed supervisors to guard the storage rooms where the contributions, the firstfruits and the tithes were kept. They were to store in them the portions from the different cities of the territory required by the Law for the priests and Levites. For the people of Judah rejoiced to see the priests and Levites doing their duty.

⁴⁵ They performed the liturgy of their God and the ceremonies of purification with the singers and the gatekeepers, as commanded by David and his son Solomon.⁴⁶ For from the beginning, from the days of David and Asaph, there had been song leaders and songs of praise and thanksgiving to God.

⁴⁷ The whole of Israel, in the time of Zerubbabel and Nehemiah, gave the singers and the gatekeepers what was necessary for each day. The sacred objects were entrusted to the Levites, and what was for the sons of Aaron was given to them.

13 ¹ At that time, the book of the Law of Moses was read in the presence of the people, and they found this written in it: "The Ammonite and Moabite will never enter the assembly of God,² for they did not welcome the sons of Israel with bread and water.

They gave money to Balaam to curse them, but our God turned their curse into a blessing."

³ When they heard this Law, they excluded from Israel all those of foreign descent.

Second mission of Nehemiah

⁴ Before this, the priest Eliashib had been caretaker of the chambers of the House of God. Since he was related to Tobiah,⁵ he had allotted to him a spacious chamber which used to be the storage room for the offerings, incense, utensils, tithes of the wheat, wine and oil, that is, for what belonged to the Levites, singers and gatekeepers, and the contributions for the priests.

⁶ I was not in Jerusalem when this happened, because in the thirty-second year of Artaxerxes, king of Babylon, I had gone to see the king. Then after some time, the king allowed me to return.⁷ I returned to Jerusalem and I was informed of the evil Eliashib had done just to please Tobiah, allotting to him a chamber inside the court to the House of God.⁸ This made me very angry. So I threw all of Tobiah's furniture out of the chamber and⁹ ordered the chamber to be purified, and had the utensils of the House of God, the offerings and the incense put back in place.

¹⁰ I also learned that the portions were not given to the Levites. And because of this, the Levites and the singers in charge of the ceremonies had gone back to their fields.¹¹ I was angry with the counselors and said to them, "Why is the House of God abandoned?" Then I gathered together the Levites and the singers, and sent them back to work according to their respective duties.

¹² With this, all the Jews turned over to the storehouses the tenth part of their wheat, wine and oil.¹³ I entrusted the administration of the storehouses to the priest Shelemiah, to the teacher of the Law Zadok, to the Levite Pedaiah, and to Hanan, son of Zaccur, as assistant. I appointed them since they were regarded as

o In this last chapter Nehemiah intervenes so that the law adopted by Ezra will be respected, and thus he takes new and more drastic measures (observance of the Sabbath, racial and religious purification, etc.). This attitude had great advantages; thanks to their organization and the solidarity among Jewish brothers, the people of God were able to survive and not wander away from their faith.

However, we can also see the problems against which the Gospel will stumble: attachment to the past, fanaticism for sacred places, and aggressiveness against non-conformists. It is a fact that in the following centuries, the religious consciousness of the Jews developed more through contacts with the Greek culture than through their efforts at inner organization.

If we want to be faithful to the biblical message, Christian communities and the Church at large will have to seek growth by opening up to and facing the world.

responsible men. Their work consisted in distributing the food to their brothers.

¹⁴ My God, remember the things I have done. Do not forget the good works I did for your House and its ceremonies.

¹⁶ Some Tyrians who had settled in Jerusalem brought in fish and every sort of merchandise to sell to the Jews on the Sabbath day. ¹⁷ So I reprimanded the leaders of Judah, saying to them, "You have done great evil by not respecting the sabbath day.

¹⁸ When your fathers did not observe the sabbath, our God brought all those misfortunes on us and on this city. You increase the wrath of God against Israel by not respecting his sabbaths.

¹⁹ So I ordered that as the shadows were falling on the gates of Jerusalem in the evening before the sabbath, the gates were to be closed and not to be opened until after the sabbath was over. Moreover, I also stationed some of my men by the gates so that no goods would be brought in on the sabbath day.

From then on, they did not return any more on the sabbath day. ²² I also ordered the Levites to purify themselves and come to guard the gates in order to sanctify the sabbath. For this, too, remember me, my God, and have pity on me according to your great mercy.

²³ In those days, I also saw that some Jews had remarried Ashdodite, Ammonite and Moabite women, ²⁴ and half of their children spoke Ashdodite and did not know our own language. ²⁵ I reprimanded them and cursed them: I had some of them flogged and tore out their hair, and made them swear in the name of Yahweh, saying to them: "You shall not marry your daughters to the sons of those people, nor take any of their daughters as wife, neither you nor your sons. ²⁶ Did Solomon, king of Israel, not sin in this? Among the many nations, there had not been a king like him. He was loved by God, and God made him king of all Israel. But foreign women also made him sin. ²⁷ Will it also be said of you that you committed the same grave crime by rebelling against our God in marrying foreign women?"

²⁸ I also sent away from my side one of the sons of Jehoiada, son of the high priest Eliashib, who was the son-in-law of Sanballat, the Horonite. ²⁹ Remember this people, my God, for they defiled the priesthood and your covenant with the priests and Levites.

³⁰ So I purified them from everything foreign. And I established regulations for the priests and the Levites defining the tasks of everyone. ³¹ I also fixed the time for the wood offering and for the firstfruits.

Remember me, my God, for my good!

INTRODUCTION

After Ezra and Nehemiah, the Judean province, at the extreme end of the Persian empire, lived on the fringe of history for three centuries. Those with greater initiative dedicated themselves to trading and they left their country to settle in all the urban centres round the Mediterranean. Yet, one hundred years after Nehemiah, in 333 B.C., Alexander the Great was beginning to go through the middle East countries, defeating all the enemy armies and overthrowing the kings. Although he died when he was thirty years old, his triumphs opened the way for Greek culture with its longing for growth, its confidence in men's potential and an open spirit which surpassed national individualism.

Alexander's generals parceled out his age empire among themselves. The Ptolemies, who dominated Egypt and Palestine, were understanding and did not disturb the Jews because of their religion and customs. But when the Antiochians of Syria defeated the Egyptians in 197 and took Palestine away from them, they began to force their pagan religion on the Jews.

This fierce persecution caused the uprising of the Jews headed by the Maccabean family. The first book of Maccabees – acknowledged as one of the most perfect books of ancient history – relates the events in the war and the deeds of the five Maccabean brothers, from the year 170 to 130 B.C.

HOLY WAR, LIBERATION WAR

The book of Maccabees shows us a people who want to live and for whom faith is more valuable than life itself. When all had grown used to living without conflicts, persecution begins. Many convince themselves they can do nothing against such a great power and that the risks are too great. But the Spirit of God makes new heroes appear and, thanks to them, the people recover their sense of dignity, fighting for those rights without which there are neither men nor believers.

The Jewish people found themselves alone against their oppressors and their Roman allies did not help much. They relied on their own strength and God helped them.

The Maccabean wars were models of holy wars. But they also showed that the holy war did not solve everything. Caught up in military problems, and so in political games, the Maccabees' descendants soon became materialistic to the point of governing without faith or morals.

o ¹ Everything began with the conquests of Alexander the first, son of Philip, the Macedonian. Setting out from Greece, he defeated Darius, king of the Persians and the Medes, and ruled in his place. He became the first ruler of the Greek world. ² After fighting many battles, conquering strongholds and putting to death the kings of those nations, ³ he reached the ends of the earth and plundered several nations. And when the world became quiet and subject to his power, he became proud. ⁴ He gathered a strong army, ruled over provinces and nations, and rulers paid him taxes. ⁵ But he fell sick, and knowing he was going to die, ⁶ he summoned his generals and the noblemen who had been brought up with him from his youth; and while still alive, he divided his kingdom among them. ⁷ Alexander had reigned for twelve years when he died.

⁸ His generals assumed power, each one in the region assigned to him. ⁹ And immediately after Alexander's death, they made themselves kings and their sons after them, filling the earth with evil for years to come. ¹⁰ From their descendants there came a godless offshoot, Antiochus Epiphanes, son of King Antiochus, who had been held as hostage in Rome. He became king in the one hundred and thirty-seventh year of the Greek era, (175 B.C.).

¹¹ It was then that some rebels emerged from Israel, who succeeded in winning over many people. They said, "Let us renew contact with the peoples around us for we have had to endure many misfortunes since we separated from them."

o This first paragraph summarizes the period of history from Alexander until Antiochus Epiphanes, king of Syria. Note the passage 1:11-15 where the beginning of the moral crisis in Judah is emphasized.

Two things characterize the Greek civilization of the Syrians:

- Art and the multiplicity of statues which,

Antiochus despoils the Temple

²⁹ After two years, the king sent to the cities of Judah the chief tax collector and he came to Jerusalem with a strong army. ³⁰ He spoke to the people with words of peace in order to deceive them. But when he had gained their confidence, he suddenly fell on the city and dealt it a terrible blow, killing many Israelites. ³¹ He plundered the city, burning and destroying the palaces and the surrounding walls.

³² He took women and children captive and seized the livestock. ³³ Then they rebuilt the city of David with a high and solid wall proected by strong towers, and this became their fortress. ³⁴ There they set evil men and apostates who defended it. ³⁵ They stored up weapons and provisions, and everything they looted in the city, posing a constant threat. ³⁶ It became an ambush for the sanctuary, a grave and constant threat to Israel. ³⁷ They shed innocent blood around the sanctuary and defiled the sanctuary itself.

³⁸ The inhabitants of Jerusalem fled because of them. She became a colony of strangers, and was a stranger to her children who abandoned her. ³⁹ Her sanctuary became empty as the desert, her feasts became days of mourning, her Sabbaths were ridiculed, and her fame became an object of contempt. ⁴⁰ As her glory had been great, so now was her dishonour, for her greatness was turned into grief.

pressed. It also ordered that Sabbaths and sacred feasts be like ordinary days. ⁴⁶ The sanctuary and its ministers were no longer to be regarded sacred, ⁴⁷ instead, altars, sacred enclosures and temples were to be dedicated to idols. They were to offer pigs and unclean animals in sacrifice, ⁴⁸ and not perform on their sons the rite of circumcision. To sum up, they were to defile themselves by all kinds of impurity and profanity ⁴⁹ in order to forget the Law and change all their customs. ⁵⁰ The decree finally declared: "Anyone who does not fulfill the king's order shall die."

⁵¹ The king published this obligation throughout the province and inspectors appointed by him went around the land of Judea. They saw to it that sacrifices were offered in all cities. ⁵² Many Israelites joined them, abandoned the Law and committed countless evils ⁵³ obliging the true Israelites to find places of refuge to hide themselves.

⁵⁴ On the fifteenth day of the month of Chislev, in the year one hundred and forty-five, Antiochus erected the "abominable idol of the invaders" on the altar of the temple. Pagan altars were built throughout the whole land

54. Dn 9, 27; 11, 31; 12, 11; Mt 24, 15

+ This chapter presents two aspects of the crisis:

1) A moral crisis. The Jews were in contact with a more advanced, though pagan, civilization. Could one adapt to and take advantage of his culture without giving up one's faith?

At that time the Jews were about to pay for the error they had made in keeping apart from the cultural progress of neighbouring nations. For three centuries they had emphasized that all the laws and customs of Israel came directly from God and that they could not be revised. And so, when modern currents emerged, the most open among them went through a conscience crisis: could they perhaps change the customs without betraying God? But it was so difficult to open up to Greek civilization without being seen as a renegade, that those who wanted to be modern, not only changed their life-styles, but also abandoned their religion. Think about what happens today when young people, educated in super-conservative colleges or parishes, discover revolutionary currents which inspire them.

2) Then comes organized persecution. The powerful kings want to unite all the groups within their empire. They say that religion is divisive. And free men's consciences seem dangerous to them. This is why the kings struggle against those who want to serve God and to follow their consciences.

The people are worried: up to what point can one endure the undermining and making fun of one's religious practices?

In 1:54, there is mention of the "abominable idol of the invaders," also mentioned in Daniel 9:27. This is the way they refer to a pagan altar built on the site of the ancient altar of the Temple. Jesus will give a new meaning to this expression in Mk 13:14.

of Judea; ⁵⁵ incense was offered at the doors of their houses and in the squares. ⁵⁶ There wicked men tore up the books of the Law they found and burned them. ⁵⁷ They killed anyone they caught in possession of the book of the Covenant and who fulfilled the precepts of the Law, as the royal decree had ordered. ⁵⁸ And being men in power, they pursued the Israelite rebels they found month after month in the cities. ⁵⁹ On the twenty-fifth day of every month, they offered their sacrifices on the new altar they had built upon the altar of the Temple.

⁶² But in spite of all this, many Israelites still remained firm and determined not to eat unclean food. ⁶³ They preferred to die rather than to make themselves unclean with those foods (prohibited by the Law) that violated the Holy Covenant. ⁶⁴ And Israel suffered a very great trial.

Mattathias unleashes the Holy War

■ ¹ In those days Mattathias, son of Simon, a priest of the family of Yoarib, left Jerusalem and went to settle in Modein. ² He had five sons: John, known as Gaddi, ³ Simon called Thassi, ⁴ Judas called Maccabeus, ⁵ Eleazar called Avaran, and Jonathan called Apphus.

⁶ Mattathias saw the blasphemies committed in Judah and Jerusalem, ⁷ so he said: "Alas! Was I born just to witness the ruin of my people and the destruction of the holy city? Shall I sit by while she is in the hands of her enemies and her sanctuary in the power of foreigners?"

¹⁴ Mattathias and his sons tore their clothes, put on sackcloth and observed deep mourning. ¹⁵ In the meantime, the king's representatives who forced the Jews to give up their religion came to Modein to organize a sacred gathering.

¹⁶ While many Israelites went to them, Mattathias and his sons drew apart.

¹⁷ The representatives of the king addressed Mattathias, and said to him: "You are one of the leaders of this city, an important and well-known man, and your many children and relatives follow you. ¹⁸ Come now and be the first to fulfill the king's order, as the men of Judah have already done, and the survivors in

■ The entire book will deal with the war under the leadership of the Maccabean family, namely, Mattathias' sons. Here we have the story of the rebellion of Mattathias, the priest who suddenly becomes the leader of the persecuted.

My sons, my brothers and I will remain faithful to the Covenant. Their motive is religious and national at the same time: Mattathias risks everything against a totalitarian power. Once again, God shows his kindness toward his people, by making the needed leader emerge, a man who, like Moses, sides totally with the people, when he could have easily obtained the favour of the powerful.

Jerusalem as well. You and your sons will be named Friends of the King and the king will send you gold, silver and many more gifts."

¹⁹ But Mattathias answered in a loud voice: "Even if all the nations included in the kingdom should abandon the religion of their fathers and submit to the order of King Antiochus, ²⁰ I, my sons and my family will remain faithful to the Covenant of our fathers. ²¹ May God preserve us from abandoning the Law and its precepts. ²² We will not obey the orders of the king nor turn aside from our religion either to the right or to the left."

²⁴ When Mattathias saw him, he was fired with zeal, his heart was stirred, and giving vent to his righteous anger, he threw himself on the Jew and cut the man's throat on the altar. ²⁵ At the same time, he killed the king's representative who was forcing the people to offer sacrifice, and then tore down the altar. ²⁶ In doing this he showed his zeal for the Law, as Phinehas had done with Zimri, son of Salu.

³² A strong force of the king pursued and overtook them. They surrounded them and prepared themselves for an attack. It was the day of the Sabbath. ³³ And they said to the Jews: "Enough of this! Come out and obey the king's order if you wish to save your lives." ³⁴ But they answered: "We will neither come out nor obey the king's order to violate the day of the Sabbath."

³⁵ So they attacked them at once, ³⁶ but the Jews did not defend themselves, nor did they try to close the entrance of their place of refuge. ³⁷ They said: "We shall die with a clear conscience but heaven and earth will remember that we were murdered." ³⁸ The king's men attacked them on that Sabbath, and they all died – men, women and children – a total of more than a thousand, not counting the livestock.

³⁹ When Mattathias and his friends came to know what happened, they went into deep mourning. ⁴⁰ They said to one another: "We cannot do as our

26. Num 25, 6

28. Lk 1, 65; Mk 13, 14

Some decide only on the basis of God's Law, or rather, the interpretation of the Sabbath law; it was forbidden to fight on that day dedicated to God. They let themselves be killed heroically. Others use their heads and their consciences and choose to defend themselves.

The book does not condemn anyone. However, it becomes obvious that believers cannot act only by looking at books and the past. We always find ourselves in new situations which demand new reflection: "Man was not made for the Sabbath" (Mark 2:27). In verse 42, we hear of the Hasideans. This movement for spiritual renewal, from which the Pharisees and the Essenes will later emerge, existed before Mattathias' rebellion. They joined him, but later they separated when Mattathias' sons, the Maccabees, got lost in politics.

brothers have done; we shall fight against the pagans to defend our life and our customs; otherwise, they will quickly destroy us." ⁴¹On that day, they resolved to defend themselves against anyone who attacked them on the day of the Sabbath, and not let themselves be killed, as had happened with their people in the hiding place.

⁴²At that time, a group of Hasi-deans (the Devout), valiant Israelites who devoted themselves sincerely to the Law, joined them. ⁴³All those who wanted to escape from oppression joined them, and in this way they grew strong. ⁴⁴They succeeded in forming an army; then they began to do justice to the sinners and renegades. These men had to flee to other lands for safety. ⁴⁵Mattathias and his friends made expeditions during which they destroyed the altars, ⁴⁶imposed the rite of circumcision on the children they found uncircumcised, ⁴⁷and pursued all the arrogant. The undertaking prospered in their hands. ⁴⁸They defended the Law against foreigners and their kings, and subdued the renegades.

Mattathias' death

⁴⁹When Mattathias neared his death, he said to his sons: "Now the insolent and the violent are in power; it is a time of upheaval in which God releases his anger. ⁵⁰So, my sons, be zealous for the Law and risk your lives defending the Covenant of our fathers. ⁵¹Remember the deeds our fathers fulfilled in their time, that you too may have fame and glory.

⁵²Remember Abraham who proved himself faithful in the hour of trial, and how God held him to be a righteous man. ⁵³Joseph, at the time of his misfortune observed the commandment of God and so became the lord of Egypt. ⁵⁴Phinehas, our father, because of his great zeal received the priesthood for himself and for his sons forever. ⁵⁵Joshua became head of Israel because he carried out God's command. ⁵⁶Caleb received his inheritance in this land because he had proclaimed the truth before the assembly. ⁵⁷And David was given a lasting kingdom because of his devotion. ⁵⁸Elijah because of his zeal for the Law was taken up into heaven. ⁵⁹Hananiah, Azariah and Mishael were saved from the flames because of their faith. ⁶⁰Daniel was rescued from the lion's mouth because of his righteousness. ⁶¹Consider, then, how throughout the centuries those who trust in God are never disappointed.

⁶²Do not fear the threats of an impious man, for his glory shall end in dung and worms. ⁶³Today he is exalted, but tomorrow he shall perish; he shall return to dust from where he came, and nothing shall remain of his plans. ⁶⁴Have courage, my sons, and remain steadfast in the Law for in this you will receive glory.

⁶⁵I know that among you, Simon is a man of sound judgment; listen to him and he shall take your father's place. ⁶⁶Judas Maccabeus has been valiant from his youth: let him be your general and conduct the war against foreigners.

⁶⁷Now, call all those who fulfill the Law to join you and defend our people. ⁶⁸Retaliate against the pagans and fulfill the ordinance of the Law."

⁶⁹Mattathias blessed them and then went to join his fathers. ⁷⁰He died in the year one hundred and forty-six and they buried him in the tomb of his fathers at Modein; and all Israel mourned him deeply.

Judas Maccabeus

3 ¹Mattathias' son, Judas Maccabeus, succeeded him. ²His brothers and all who had followed his father gave him their support and they continued the war with determination.

o After the death of Mattathias, his son Judas heads the resistance.

For three centuries the attention of the believers had been exclusively focused on worship activities. Priests and Levites appeared as the only models of faith. Now, because of circumstances, there is a change. Suddenly the Jewish people are looking at the days of the Judges or of David. For many of them, the model believer becomes the armed fighter who risks his life to liberate his people.

Actually the brutal persecution brought them to such a point where refraining from fighting meant renouncing everything which had made the Jewish people different from all others.

Before the unequal struggle, we have Judas' profession of faith: God can give victory to a few fighting a multitude. This is the way David spoke when he faced Goliath (1 Sam 14:6 and 17:47).

famous. He put on his breastplate and girded himself with the armor of war like a giant; he fought many battles and protected his camp with his sword.

⁴ He was like a lion when he attacked, like a lion's whelp roaring over its prey.

⁵ He pursued the renegades in their secret places and consigned to the flames those who troubled his people.

⁶ All the renegades feared him, all evil-doers were confounded, and liberation was his intent.

⁷ Many kings feared him, while the people of Israel rejoiced in his deeds.

His memory shall be blessed forever. ⁸ He went through the cities of Judah utterly destroying the impious.

⁹ He freed Israel from their oppressors and saved those about to perish. For this, his fame resounded to the ends of the earth.

First successes

+ ¹⁰Apollonius also gathered together men from the pagans and a good number of Samaritans to fight Israel. ¹¹ When Judas learned of this, he went out to meet him in battle; he defeated and killed him. Many of the enemy fell and the rest fled. ¹² They seized the plunder and Judas took the sword of Apollonius, and from then on, he always used it in battle.

¹³ Seron, the commander of the Syrian army, learned that Judas had gathered many men and that the whole community of believers was at his side. ¹⁴ He thought: "This is now the opportunity for me to make myself famous and be an important man in the kingdom. I will go to fight Judas and his men who do not obey the king's order." ¹⁵ So he did, and a strong army of pagans went up with him to help him take vengeance on the children of Israel.

¹⁶ As Seron approached the slope of Beth-horon, Judas went out to confront him with a small company of warriors. ¹⁷ But on seeing the enemy advancing against them, Judas' men said to him, "How can we, few as we are, fight against so many? And besides, we feel weak for we have not eaten anything today."

¹⁸ But Judas declared: "A multitude shall easily fall into the hands of a few, for Heaven can equally win over with the help of many or few."

¹⁹ Victory does not depend on the number of those who fight, but on Heaven which gives us strength. ²⁰ They come against us moved by their pride and lawlessness to seize us and take possession of our wives and children and to take everything away from us. ²¹ But we are fighting for our lives and our laws. ²² God will crush them before us; so do not be afraid."

²³ As soon as he finished speaking, he suddenly rushed against the enemies. Seron and his army were defeated. ²⁴ They pursued them down the slope of Beth-horon to the plain. And about eight hundred of Seron's men fell and the rest escaped to the land of the Philistines.

²⁵ With this, fright and fear of Judas and his brothers seized the pagans who lived around them. ²⁶ The fame of his name reached the

+ The books of Maccabees repeatedly stress that the Jews fought, above all, to defend their Holy Place. This Temple was the symbol of the whole Law, that is, of their whole religion.

We must all fight for the things that give meaning to our lives and without which a secure future would be meaningless. For the Jews of those days, to give up their customs and their worship was like renouncing their faith, since they were the only ones entrusted with the divine promises. Though the Temple itself was no more than stones and wood, with some precious metal, they could not abandon it without losing their human dignity and their vocation as believers.

The Maccabees were not very different from those who, today, dare to remind us of the rights of the poor and to demand the participation of all in modern societies founded on injustice. They are arrested, tortured and they die to demand political change, but in so doing, they defend their own faith, because if they kept quiet, they would lose their human dignity and they would renounce the spirit of justice and freedom (Gal 5:11-12).

Antiochus prepares for war

²⁷ When this news reached King Antiochus, he was furious, so he ordered all the forces of his kingdom to assemble for he had a powerful army. ²⁸ He opened his treasury and paid the troops a year's salary, ordering them to be prepared for any eventuality. ²⁹ But he found that the money in the treasury had run short, for the taxes of the provinces had decreased due to dissension and disaster which he himself had caused in the land by changing the laws that were in force from the earliest days. ³⁰ He feared that as before, he would not have enough funds for the expenses and gifts he used to give more lavishly than preceding kings. ³¹ So great was his need that he decided to go to Persia to collect the taxes from those provinces and raise considerable funds.

³⁸ Lysias chose from among the Friends of the King, Ptolemy the son of Dorymenes, Nicanor and Gorgias — all influential men.

⁴¹ The merchants of the region heard of their arrival, so they went to the camp with large amounts of silver, gold and fetters, proposing to buy the Israelites as slaves. The Syrian army and those from the province of the Philistines also joined the troops.

⁴² Judas and his brothers understood that the situation was becoming worse, because the enemy had encamped in their territory. So when they learned of the king's order to destroy and crush the people, ⁴³ they said, "Let us raise our people from their miserable situation and fight for them and for the Holy Place!"

⁴⁴ The whole community assembled to prepare for war, and they prayed and asked God for mercy and compassion.

⁴⁵ Like a desert, Jerusalem was left without inhabitants. None of her children went in or out. The temple was profaned, and foreigners lived in the city which had become a dwelling-place for the pagans. There was no more rejoicing for Jacob, no flute or zither was heard.

The Jews gather at Mizpah

⁴⁶ So they gathered and went to Mizpah opposite Jerusalem because Mizpah had been a place of prayer for Israel. ⁴⁷ They fasted that day, put on sackcloth, sprinkled ashes on their heads and tore their garments. ⁴⁸ They opened the Book of the Law to look for an answer to their questions, in the same way as the pagans consult the images of their idols. ⁴⁹ They brought the vestments of the priests, the first-fruits and the tithes, and they brought in the Nazirites who had completed the days of their consecration; ⁵⁰ they cried aloud to Heaven and said: "What shall we do with this people, and where shall we take them?" ⁵¹ For your sanctuary has been trampled and profaned, your priests are in mourning and are humiliated. ⁵² And now the pagans have gathered together to destroy us. You know what they are plotting against us. ⁵³ How can we resist them, if you do not come to help us?" ⁵⁴ Then they sounded the trumpets and made a great outcry.

⁵⁵ After this, Judas appointed officials to lead his people: leaders of a thousand men, leaders of a hundred, of fifty, and of ten. ⁵⁶ Then he said to those who were building houses, those about to marry, those who were planting vineyards, and those who were afraid, to return to their homes, as the Law allowed. ⁵⁷ Next the army marched out and encamped to the south of Emmaus. ⁵⁸ Judas told them: "Prepare your weapons; be valiant and be ready to fight in the morning against those foreigners who have joined forces to crush us and remove our Holy Place from this land. ⁵⁹ It is better to die fighting than to live and see the misery of our nation and of the Holy Place. ⁶⁰ May Heaven's will be done in everything."

Battle of Emmaus

4 ¹ Gorgias took with him five thousand infantry and a thousand picked cavalry, and moved out by night ² to fall upon the Jews and take them by surprise. He had asked men from the Citadel to guide his troops. ³ But Judas learned of this, so he went out with his men to attack the king's army in Emmaus ⁴ while the enemy troops were still dispersed outside the camp. ⁵ Gorgias arrived at the camp of the Jews by night but found no one there. He then began to search for them in the mountains, for he thought: "They are running away from us."

⁶ Yet at daybreak, Judas appeared on the plain with three thousand men who had not the armour or swords they would have liked. ⁷ They saw the camp of the pagans with its strong fortifications and the calvary surrounding it – all trained men in war. ⁸ Judas said to his men: "Do not fear the number of the enemy or be afraid of their attack. ⁹ Remember how our ancestors were saved at the Red Sea when Pharaoh's army pursued them. ¹⁰ Cry out to God, for if he so wishes he will remember his Covenant and destroy that army before us this very day. ¹¹ And all the nations will know that Someone saves and liberates Israel."

¹² The pagans looked up and saw the Jews coming down against them, ¹³ so they came out of their camp to face them in battle. Judas had the trumpets sounded ¹⁴ and his men attacked. The pagans were defeated and fled to the plain, ¹⁵ but all the rear-guard fell by the sword. They pursued them to Gazara, to the plains of Idu-mea, of Azot and Jamnia and killed about three thousand of the enemy.

²⁵ That day was a great victory for Israel. ²⁶ The pagans who had escaped went to Lysias and told him what had happened. ²⁷ When he heard this, he was dismayed and depressed because things in Israel had not gone as expected, and he had not carried out the king's command.

²⁸ The following year, he organized an army of sixty thousand men and five thousand cavalry to confront

♦ They sent Apollonius, a colonel, against Judas: Judas killed him. They sent a general, Seron: Judas defeated the general. This time, king Antiochus sends a tremendous army with two generals against the Jews. Judas is victorious at Emmaus.

Note Judas' words: God is faithful.

For three centuries, the Jews had been taught their own history as a series of God's marvellous interventions (see the books of Chronicles). They insisted so much on God's help that men's courage seemed useless. Judas knows that they must act without waiting for a miracle or a revelation. After the victory, everyone will realize that God is the one who saved them. To ask God for peace, food, justice, without removing oppressive structures, would be a lie.

the Jews. ²⁹ They advanced into Idu-mea and encamped at Bethzur. On that place, Judas came out with ten thousand men to meet them in battle. ³⁰ When he saw their military strength, he prayed, "Blessed are you, Saviour of Israel, who broke the warrior's strength by the hand of your servant David, and handed over the camp of the Philistines to the power of Jonathan, son of Saul, and to his armour-bearer.

³⁴ Both sides attacked, and five thousand men from the army of Lysias fell dead. ³⁵ Lysias saw that his army was disheartened while Judas and his men grew bolder and were ready to live or to die nobly. So he retreated to Antioch, where he recruited mercenaries to strengthen his army, for he planned to return to Judea.

Judas purifies the temple

o ³⁶ Then Judas and his brothers said: "Our enemies are defeated, so let us go up and purify the Holy Place and consecrate it again." ³⁷ And all the army assembled and went up to Mount Zion. ³⁸ There they found the sanctuary abandoned, the altar profaned, the gates burned, bushes growing in the courtyard as in a forest or on a mountain, and the rooms destroyed. ³⁹ They tore their garments and wept bitterly. Some sprinkled ashes on their heads ⁴⁰ while others prostrated themselves on the ground. They sounded the trumpets and cried aloud to Heaven.

⁴⁴ They held a council to decide on what should be done with the altar of the holocausts which had been defiled. ⁴⁵ And they decided to destroy it, so that shame brought about by the pagans might not remain with it. ⁴⁶ They deposited the stones of the said altar in a convenient place on the temple hill until a prophet should appear to settle the matter.

⁴⁷ Then they took uncut stones as the Law prescribed, and built a new altar like the former one. ⁴⁸ They repaired the sanctuary, and the interior of the house, and consecrated the courts.

o Because of Judas' victories, Antiochus Epiphanes IV signs a treaty by which he grants autonomy to the Jewish province (April 164 B.C.). The Jews are triumphant and their first concern is to purify the Temple which had been profaned by the pagans (December 167).

The Jews are aware of being different from other people. It is God who decides the future.

In a given opportunity, they solve what is most urgent while waiting for a prophet to indicate to them what they must do as we see in verse 46. Yet, the situation is paradoxical. There were prophets at other times when the Israelites refused to listen to them. But now that they want to hear a message, there are no prophets, and there will be no prophet until John the Baptist.

up the curtains – bringing to completion all that had been decided.

⁵² On the twenty-fifth day of the month of Chislew, in the year one hundred and forty-eight (164 B.C.) ⁵³ they arose at dawn and offered the sacrifice prescribed by the Law on the new altar of holocausts which they had built. ⁵⁴ It was precisely at that same time and date that the pagans had profaned it before; but now they consecrated it with songs accompanied by zithers, harps and cymbals. ⁵⁵ All the people fell prostrate and blessed Heaven that had given them happiness and success.

⁵⁸ There was no end to the celebration among the people, and so the profanation of the temple by the pagans was forgotten. ⁵⁹ Finally, Judas, his brothers and the whole assembly of Israel agreed to celebrate the anniversary of the consecration of the altar annually for eight days, from the twenty-fifth of the month of Chislew in high festivity.

⁶⁰ At that time, they built around Mount Zion high walls and strong towers to prevent the pagans from coming in to occupy it as they had done before. ⁶¹ Judas stationed a garrison there to defend it. He also fortified Bethzur so that the people might have a fortress against Idumea.

Judas goes to rescue the scattered Jews

◆ ⁵ When the pagans who lived around them learned that the altar had been rebuilt and the temple restored as before, they became very angry. ² They determined to destroy the descendants of Jacob who lived among them; so they began killing and driving away the Jews.

³ This is why Judas declared war on the sons of Esau in Idumea and in the province of Akkrabattene, for they surrounded Israel. He dealt them a mortal blow – he humbled them and looted them. ⁴ Then he remembered the wickedness of the gangs of Baean who were a plague and a permanent source of trouble for the Jews with their ambushes on the roads. ⁵ So Judas after blockading and besieging them in their towers, took an oath to exterminate them; he then burned the towers with all who were inside.

⁶ From there he crossed over to the land of the Ammonites where he encountered a large and well-organized army under the command of Timotheus. ⁷ He engaged them in many encounters, defeated them and crushed them. ⁸ He attacked and captured the city of Yazer with its neighboring villages and then returned to Judea.

⁹ The pagans of Gilead gathered together to destroy the Israelites who lived in their territory. But the Israelites took refuge in the fortress of Dathema, ¹⁰ and sent a letter to Judas and his brothers which said, "The pagans around us have joined forces to crush us ¹¹ and are now preparing to storm the fortress where we have taken refuge. Timothy is their leader. ¹² Come at once and rescue us from their hands since many among us have already died; ¹³ all our brothers living in the land of Tobias have been murdered, their women and children taken captives; about a thousand men have been killed."

¹⁴ They were reading this letter when other messengers arrived from Galilee tearing their garments as they gave this message: ¹⁵ "The people of Ptolemais, Tyre, Sidon and the whole of heathen Galilee have united to destroy us!"

¹⁶ When Judas and his men heard this news, they summoned a great assembly to determine what could be done for their brothers and sisters in distress who were fighting for their lives. ¹⁷ Judas said to his brother Simon: "Choose your men: go and free our brothers in Galilee; I and our brother Jonathan will go to Gilead."

²⁰ Three thousand men were assigned to Simon for the campaign in Galilee, and eight thousand men to Judas for Gilead. ²¹ Simon left for Galilee and defeated the pagans in many encounters,²² and pursued them to the gates of Ptolemais. About three thousand of the pagans fell, and Simon seized their spoils.²³ Then he took away with him the Jews who were in Galilee and Arbatta as well as their women and children, and all they had, and brought them into Judea with great rejoicing.

²⁴ Meanwhile, Judas Maccabeus and his brother Jonathan crossed the Jordan and journeyed through the desert for three days. ²⁵ There they encountered the Nabateans who received them in a friendly way and told them all that had happened to their brothers in the region of Gilead. ²⁶ They gave them the news that many Jews were imprisoned in Alema, Chaspho, Maked and Carnaim, all large and fortified towns in the vicinity of Bozrah and Bosor. ²⁷ They also related that Jews were also blockaded in other cities of Gilead, and that the pagans had decided to attack their strongholds on the following day intending to destroy all of them in one day.

³¹ Judas saw that the attack had begun; from the city an uproar rose up to heaven with shouts and trumpet blast. ³² He said to his men: "Let us now fight for our brothers." ³³ Then he divided his troops into three groups, and attacked the enemy from behind, sounding the trumpets and praying out loud. ³⁴ When the army of Timothy recognized that it was Maccabeus, they began to escape, but Judas dealt them a heavy blow, and about five thousand of the enemy fell that day.

³⁵ From there, Judas went to Alema; he attacked and occupied the city, killed all the men and seized the booty, and then he burned the city. ³⁶ From there, he captured Chaspho, Maked and Bosor and the remaining towns of Gilead.

³⁷ After these events, Timothy gathered a new army and encamped opposite Raphon, at the other side of the stream. ³⁸ Judas sent men to explore the camp and they brought back the following information: "All the pagans of this region have joined forces under Timothy, forming a powerful army. ³⁹ They have also hired Arab mercenaries as auxiliaries, and they are now encamped at the other side of the stream, ready to attack you." So Judas set out to confront them in battle.

⁴⁰ Timothy saw that Judas was approaching the stream with his army, so he said to the captains of his troops, "If he crosses first and advances against us, he shall attack us with such great force that we will not be able to withstand him. ⁴¹ But if he hesitates and encamps at the other side of the river, then we shall cross over to attack and defeat him."

⁴⁵ Judas gathered together all the Israelites from the region of Gilead, small and great, their women and children and their belongings, an immense multitude, to take them into the land of Judea. ⁴⁶ They reached Ephron, a strong and important town, situated by the road. It was impossible to go around it either to the right or to the left, so they were forced to go through it, ⁴⁷ but the inhabitants denied them passage and blocked the entrance with stones. ⁴⁸ Judas sent them a message of peace saying: "Allow us to go through your land as we go back to ours; we will simply walk through and none of us will do you any harm." But they refused to open the gates to him.

⁴⁹ So Judas gave orders to his army for everyone to take up his position where he was.⁵⁰ The men of war took up their positions, and Judas attacked the city all day and night until it fell into his hands.⁵¹ He put all the male inhabitants to the sword, razed the city and took its plunder.⁵² Then they passed through the city over the bodies of the dead and came to the great plain after crossing the Jordan opposite Bethshan.

⁵³ Throughout the journey Judas kept on encouraging his people and rallying those who fell behind until they reached the land of Judah.⁵⁴ They went up to Mount Zion joyfully and well contented, and they offered holocausts because they had returned safe and sound, without losing a single man.

Joseph and Azariah are defeated

+ ⁵⁵ While Judas and Jonathan were in the land of Gilead, and their brother Simon was encamped in Galilee opposite Ptolemais, ⁵⁶ Zechariah's son Joseph, and Azariah were in command of the army. When they heard of their exploits and how well they had done in battle, ⁵⁷ they said, "We also have to win renown, so let us go and fight the pagans who live around us."

⁵⁸ So they gave orders to their army to march against Jamnia. ⁵⁹ But Gorgias came out of the city with his men and attacked them. ⁶⁰ Joseph and Azariah were defeated and pursued as far as the borders of Judea, and about two thousand Israelites fell that day. ⁶¹ The people suffered this great defeat because the Jewish commanders did not listen to Judas and his brothers thinking they themselves were capable of great deeds. ⁶² They did not belong to those to whom the deliverance of Israel had been entrusted.

⁶³ The valiant Judas and his brothers were greatly honoured in Israel and became famous among the foreigners who heard of them, ⁶⁴ and many came to congratulate them.

⁶⁵ Judas with his brothers went to the Negeb to fight the Edomites. He seized Hebron and its villages, demolished its walls and burned its defending towers. ⁶⁶ Then he left for the land of the Philistines, passing through Marisa. ⁶⁷ That day some priests who wanted to be valiant fell because they imprudently attacked the enemy. ⁶⁸ From there Judas turned towards Azotus in the land of the Philistines. He destroyed their altars, burned the statues of their gods, plundered the city and then returned to Judah.

Last days of Antiochus Epiphanes

6 ¹ When King Antiochus was making his way through the upper regions of Persia, he received news about Elymais, a city renowned for its wealth in silver and gold. ² They kept in the wealthy temple of their city golden armour, breastplates and weapons left there by the Macedonian king, Alexander the son of Philip, the first sovereign of the Greeks. ³ So Antiochus went there but the inhabitants came out armed against him when they learned of his intention, so his attempt to take the city failed. ⁴ He had to turn back, and he returned much embittered to Babylon.

⁵ While he was still in Persia, it was reported to him that the armies sent to Judea had been defeated. They told him ⁶ that although Lysias had gone with a strong army, he had to flee before the Jews who had been strengthened with the weapons and the abundant booty taken from the neighbouring armies. ⁷ He heard too that the Jews had destroyed the abominable idol he had erected on the altar in Jerusalem, and had rebuilt the temple walls to the same height as before, and had also fortified the city of Beth-zur.

⁸ When he received this news, he was terrified and deeply upset. He fell sick and became greatly depressed because things had not turned out the way he had planned. ⁹ So he remained overcome by this terrible anguish for many days. He felt that he was dying, ¹⁰ so he called his friends and said to them, "Sleep has fled from my eyes and I am greatly crushed by my anxieties. ¹¹ And I keep on asking why such grief has come upon me – I who was generous and well-loved when I was in power – and now I am so discouraged.

¹² Now I remember the evils I did in Jerusalem, the vessels of gold and silver that I stole, the inhabitants of Judea I ordered to be killed for no reason at all. ¹³ I now know that because of this, these misfortunes have come upon me, and I am dying of grief in a strange land. ¹⁴ The king then summoned Philip, one of his friends, and appointed him administrator of his whole kingdom. ¹⁵ When he had entrusted him with the crown, robe and signet ring, with the charge of educating his son Antiochus and preparing him for the throne, ¹⁶ Antiochus died there in the year one hundred and forty-nine (163 B.C.). ¹⁷ As soon as Lysias learned of the king's death, he proclaimed his son Antiochus as his successor, for he himself had trained him from childhood and had named him Eupator.

¹⁸ The men from the Citadel were blockading the Israelites around the temple and did not let an opportunity pass of harming them on behalf of the pagans. ¹⁹ Judas decided to wipe them out, ²⁰ so he gathered together all the people to besiege them. The troops assembled and laid siege to the Citadel in the year one hundred and fifty, building firing platforms and siege engines. ²¹ But some of the besieged broke through the blockade and together with renegade Israelites ²² went to tell the king, "How much longer will you wait to do us justice and avenge our brothers?" ²³ We took the side of your father, we obeyed his orders and observed his laws. ²⁴ The result is that we are now besieged in the Citadel by our own people and treated as foreigners. All of us who were caught have been killed and they have seized our property. ²⁵ And they are fighting not only against us but in the neighbouring lands as well.

²⁶ Right now, they are encamped against the Citadel in Jerusalem to capture it, and they have fortified the temple and the city of Beth-zur. ²⁷ If you do not take the lead now, they will do greater things and then you will not be able to control them."

²⁸ The king was enraged when he heard this news, and he summoned all his Friends, the generals of the army and the commanders of the cavalry. ²⁹ From other kingdoms and islands of the sea, he recruited mercenary troops. ³⁰ His forces numbered a hundred thousand infantry, twenty thousand horsemen and thirty-two elephants trained for battle. ³¹ They came through Idumea, besieged Beth-zur and attacked for days, using engines of war. But the besieged made a sortie and burned their engines and bravely kept up the resistance.

Battle of Beth-Zechariah

³⁸ The rest of the cavalry were stationed on the right and left flanks of the army to harass the enemy and protect the battalions. ³⁹ When the sun shone on the shields of gold and bronze, the mountains glittered and gleamed like flames of fire. ⁴⁰ One part of the king's army was deployed up in the mountains and the other on the plain. All advanced confidently and in good order. ⁴¹ The Jews trembled when they heard the great noise of this vast multitude, the marching of that mass and the clanking of their weapons. It was indeed an army extremely numerous and powerful.

⁴² Nevertheless Judas and his army advanced to give battle; and about six hundred men of the king's army fell.

⁴³ Eleazar, called Avaran, saw one of the beasts protected with armour which excelled all the others, so he supposed that it must be the king's.

⁵¹ He encamped before the temple for a long time and set up firing platforms, crossbows, engines, fire-throwers, catapults, scorpions to discharge arrows, and slingers. ⁵² The defenders also constructed engines as their attackers had done and they fought for a long time. ⁵³ But they had no food in storage, as it was the seventh year and because the Israelites who came to Judea from the pagan lands had consumed the last of their reserves. ⁵⁴ So, few men were left in the temple because of the famine; the others had dispersed.

The king grants religious freedom

+ ⁵⁵ Meanwhile, Philip to whom King Antiochus during his life had entrusted the education of his son Antiochus to prepare him for the throne, ⁵⁶ had returned from Persia and Media with the army that had accompanied the king to those regions, and was planning to seize power. ⁵⁷ This is why Lysias hastily gave orders to depart, saying to the king, the generals of the army and the soldiers, "We are losing strength every day, we are short of food and the place we are besieging is well fortified; we are moreover diverting our attention from the affairs of the kingdom. ⁵⁸ Let us, then, offer the hand of friendship to these men, and make peace with them and with their nation. ⁵⁹ Let us permit them to live according to their customs as before, since all this came to be because we suppressed their laws, and they have risen in defense of them."

⁶⁰ These words pleased the king and the generals, ⁶¹ so the king sent messengers to make peace with the Jews, and the Jews accepted it.

When the king and the generals had committed themselves with an oath, the Jews came out of the fortress. ⁶² The king went up to Mount Zion and when he saw the defenses, he broke his oath and ordered the surrounding wall to be demolished. ⁶³ Then he hurriedly left and returned to Antioch where he found Philip already in control of the city. So he fought him and took the city by force.

7 ¹In the year one hundred and fifty-one, Demetrius the son of Seleucus escaped from Rome. He sailed with a few men to a port of the kingdom where he arrived and proclaimed himself king. ²As soon as he entered the kingdom of his fathers, the army arrested Antiochus and Lysias to hand them over to him. ³When Demetrius heard this, he said: "I do not want to see their faces." ⁴So the army executed them and Demetrius took the throne.

⁵At once all the Israelites without law or religion came to him. They were led by Alcimus, a man who sought the office of chief priest for himself. ⁶And they began accusing their own people before the king, "Judas and his brothers have murdered all your Friends and have driven us away from our land. ⁷Send one of your trustworthy Friends, to see the havoc they have caused us and our province which belongs to the king. Let him punish all who support them."

Expedition of Bacchides and Nicanor

⁸The king chose Bacchides, one of his Friends and a distinguished man of the kingdom, the governor of the western province of the Euphrates. ⁹He also sent with him Alcimus whom he had appointed chief priest, and ordered them to punish the Israelites.

¹⁰They set out with a large army. On reaching Judea, they sent messengers to Judas and his brothers with treacherous proposals of peace. ¹¹But the Jews who knew that they came with a powerful army, did not trust them.

¹²However a commission of teachers of the Law presented themselves to Alcimus and Bacchides to seek a satisfactory solution. ¹³These men from the group of the Hasideans, the first to seek peace in Israel, ¹⁴reasoned like this: "A man in the line of Aaron has come with the army, he will surely deal with us in fairness." ¹⁵Bacchides, moreover, sent them a friendly message and assured them under oath: "We do not wish any harm on you and your friends." ¹⁶They believed him. But he arrested sixty of them and executed them the same day, according to the word of the Scripture: ¹⁷Around Jerusalem, they have scattered the dead bodies of your saints; they have shed their blood, and there was no one to bury them.

¹⁸All the people were terrified. And they said, "These men are evil and insincere, for they have violated the agreement they made with an oath."

¹⁹Bacchides left Jerusalem and encamped at Beth-zur. From there, he ordered the arrest of many prominent men who had deserted to him as well as some of the people. He had them beheaded and thrown into a deep pit.

²⁰Then he placed the province in the hands of Alcimus, leaving him with an army to help him and he returned to the king. ²¹Alcimus struggled to have the Israelites recognize him as chief priest, ²²and all who disturbed the peace of the people joined him. They became masters of the land of Judea and did great harm to the Israelites.

²³Judas saw that Alcimus and his men were an even greater menace to Israel than the pagans had been. ²⁴So

he went throughout the territory of Judea to do justice to those traitors and to prevent them from going about the country.

²⁹ He indeed came to Judas and they greeted each other peaceably, but the enemy was prepared to seize him. ³⁰ Judas was told that Nicanor had come to him treacherously, so he withdrew from Nicanor, and would not see him again. ³¹ When Nicanor saw that his plans had been discovered, he went out to look for Judas, and this time to fight him. He found him near Capharsalama. ³² About five hundred of Nicanor's men fell and the rest fled to the city of David.

Nicanor is defeated

³⁴ But he mocked them, he scorned and insulted them ³⁵ and angrily swore this oath: "If you do not deliver Judas into my hands immediately, as soon as I have destroyed him, I will return and burn this temple." And he went away furious.

³⁶ The priests entered the temple, and they stood weeping before the altar and the sanctuary. They said, ³⁷ "You, Lord, chose this House that your name may be invoked in it, that it may be a house of prayer and petition for your people. ³⁸ Take vengeance on this man and on his army; let them die by the sword. Remember their insults and do not delay in punishing them."

³⁹ Nicanor left Jerusalem and encamped in Beth-horon where the Syrian army joined him.

⁴² So now, crush this army before us, so that all the rest may know that this Nicanor has blasphemed against your temple. Judge him according to his wickedness."

⁴⁷ Then the Jews seized the plunder and booty; they cut off Nicanor's head and the right hand he had so arrogantly stretched out, and they displayed them at the entrance to Jerusalem within sight of all. ⁴⁸ The people were elated and ⁴⁹ celebrated their victory annually on the thirtieth of the month Adar.

⁵⁰ The land of Judah enjoyed peace for a short time.

8 ¹ In the meantime Judas was informed about the Romans. He was told that the Romans were valiant in war and that they showed goodwill towards all who sided with them; they offered their friendship to all who approached them, ² and they were a strong ally in war.

He was told of their wars and of their exploits among the Gauls whom they conquered and forced to pay taxes, ³ and of all they had done in Spain to gain possession of the silver

o The prophets had insisted on the fact that because the Jewish people were God's people, they had to trust God without seeking any other help. To try to make alliances with the pagan people would have meant to mistrust God. Judas has a different concept and he seeks alliance with the Romans.

The first victories had inspired great hope.

and gold mines,⁴ and how they had conquered that land by dint of intelligence and perseverance despite its great distance from their own land. He also learned how they had defeated the kings who came from the ends of the earth to attack them, how they managed to conquer and crush them. There were others who paid them an annual tax.

⁵ They had defeated and subjected Philip and Perseus, the kings of Macedonia and others who opposed them. ⁶ They had vanquished Antiochus the Great, king of Asia, who went to fight the Romans with one hundred and twenty elephants, cavalry, chariots and a very strong army. But he was defeated⁷ and fell into their hands. He and his successors were forced to pay an enormous amount in tax, to surrender hostages, and to cede some of their best provinces⁸ like India, Media and Lydia which afterwards the Romans gave to King Eumenes. ⁹ The Greeks had planned to come and destroy the Romans,¹⁰ but hearing of it, the Romans sent a single general against them. They killed a great number of Greeks, took their women and children, destroyed their fortresses and enslaved them to this day.

¹¹ In the same way, they also destroyed and subdued other countries and islands, as well as others who opposed them. ¹² But they usually remain faithful to their allies and to those who relied on them.

The Romans were really powerful. They conquered kingdoms far and near, and all who heard their name feared them. ¹³ They appointed as kings those who were to their liking and deposed those who were not.

¹⁴ But in spite of all this, not one of them had himself crowned or dressed as a king in order to be exalted. ¹⁵ They had created a senate and three hundred and twenty men deliberated on daily matters relating to the good of the people and the maintenance of order. ¹⁶ Every year they would choose one man to rule over them and govern the empire, and all obeyed him without envy or jealousy.

¹⁷ So Judas sent Eupolemus the son of John, and Jason the son of Eleazar to Rome, entrust-ing them with the mission to make a covenant of friendship with the Romans. ¹⁸ Since the Greeks treated the Israelites as slaves, Judas hoped to liberate them from oppression in this way.

¹⁹ The envoys from Judas went to Rome, where they arrived after a long journey. When they entered the Senate they addressed the assembly: ²⁰ "Judas Maccabeus, his brothers and the people of Israel have sent us to you to conclude a covenant of peace with you and to be numbered among your allies and friends." ²¹ The Romans approved this proposal, ²² and this is the copy of the letter they wrote on bronze tablets which they sent to Jerusalem as a memorial of peace and alliance:

²³ "May all go well with the Romans and the Jewish people at sea and on land forever, may both sword and enemy be far from them! ²⁴ If war comes first to the Romans, or to any of their allies in any part of its empire, ²⁵ the Jewish nation shall enter the war wholeheartedly, as circumstances permit. ²⁶ The Jewish nation will not supply the aggressors with wheat or weapons, or money, or ships as Rome has decided. They must fulfill their obligations without recompense.

²⁷ In the same way, if the Jewish nation is attacked, the Romans shall fight at her side with all zeal as circumstances may allow. ²⁸ The Roman allies will not receive wheat or weapons, or money, or ships as Rome has decided, but the Romans shall fulfill their obligations without deception. ²⁹ On these terms the Romans conclude their alliance with the Jewish nation.

³⁰ If after these terms have taken effect, either party should wish to add or delete anything, the said party shall do so in common agreement with the other party, then what has been added or deleted shall be binding.

³¹ And concerning the harm King Demetrius does to the Jews, we have written to him as follows, 'Why do you lay such a heavy yoke upon the Jews, our friends and ally?' ³² If they complain about you again, we shall defend their rights and attack you by sea and land."

22. 14, 18

The Jews had never recovered their autonomy since the exile and now, Judas and his companions think that the time to restore the ancient kingdom of Solomon and David has come.

Judas is a great admirer of the organization and the power of the Romans and he thinks that their protection will lead to the restoration of the kingdom of David.

But the prophets were right: those who seek the kingdom of God and justice must not rely on the rich and the powerful. The Romans, whom Judas admires so much, will become enemies. And two centuries later, in Jesus' days, they will destroy the Jewish nation.

+ Then comes the moving story of Judas' death. He dies with the glory of his faith and heroism, like the many who "were hoping for the restoration of Israel" and died for this hope.

We can see God's grace for him in this premature death. The path that he had begun because of his faith, was going to end up in

Death of Judas Maccabeus

9 ¹ When Demetrius was informed of the death of Nicanor and the defeat of his army, he sent Bacchides and Alcimus back to Judea with the best troops of his army. ² They took the road to Galilee and besieged the city of Mesaloth in the Arbela region. They captured it and killed many. ³ In the first month of the year one hundred and fifty-two, they encamped before Jerusalem. ⁴ From there twenty thousand infantry and two thousand cavalry set out for Berea. ⁵ Judas had his camp in Elasa with three thousand picked men. ⁶ When they saw the huge number of the enemy, they were terrified. Many slipped out of the camp, and only eight hundred men were left. ⁷ Judas saw the dispersal of his army and this crushed his spirit. The battle was imminent but he had no time to group them together. ⁸ Yet in spite of being dismayed, he did his best to encourage those who remained with him: "Let us fight our enemies. We may yet be able to defeat them."

⁹ They tried to dissuade him, "We cannot do anything now but save ourselves. We can come back later with our brothers and fight. But now we are too few." ¹⁰ But Judas answered them, "God forbid that I should run away from them. If our time has come, then let us die as valiant men for our brothers, without tarnishing our glory."

chides was on the right wing. At the sound of the trumpets, they advanced on both sides. The Jews also sounded the trumpets. ¹³ And the earth trembled with the noise of the armies, and a battle began which lasted the whole day.

¹⁴ Judas saw that Bacchides and the main strength of his army was on the right. The most courageous of the Israelites went with him, ¹⁵ and they defeated the right wing of the enemy, pursuing them up to the hills. ¹⁶ But when those on the left wing saw the right wing being defeated, they attacked Judas and his men from the rear. ¹⁷ They fought bitterly and many fell on both sides. ¹⁸ Judas also fell, and the rest fled.

²² The other deeds of Judas, his battles, exploits and heroism were not written for they were many.

Jonathan succeeds Judas

23 After the death of Judas, the renegades reappeared throughout the territory of Israel and the evildoers took courage. ²⁴ At the same time, there was a severe famine, and the country went over to their side. ²⁵ Bacchides chose renegade men and made them masters of the land. ²⁶ These men traced and searched out all the friends and supporters of Judas and brought them before Bacchides who punished and humiliated them in a thousand ways. ²⁷ It was a terrible trial for Israel such as had never been experienced since the disappearance of the prophets.

²⁸ So the friends of Judas came together and said to Jonathan, ²⁹ "Since your brother Judas died, we haven't found anyone like him compromises for his descendants and in the corruption which often accompanies political power.

■ Jonathan, chosen to succeed his brother Judas, must flee to the desert with his people. He sends his brother John with the baggage to bring to head the resistance against the enemy, against Bacchides and all the enemies of our nation.³⁰ So we now choose you to take his place, to be our head and lead us in our wars." So from that day on,³¹ Jonathan accepted the leadership and succeeded his brother Judas.

Let us return to Bacchides.⁴³ He arrived with a strong army on the sabbath day at the banks of the Jordan.⁴⁴ So Jonathan said to his men, "Courage! Let us fight for our lives, for today things are going to be serious.⁴⁵ Dangers surround us – we have the waters of the Jordan on this side, the marshes and the thickets on the other side – there is no place to turn.⁴⁶ So cry out to Heaven for deliverance from our enemies."

⁴⁷ And the battle began. Jonathan stretched out his arm to strike Bacchides, but he eluded him and withdrew.⁴⁸ So Jonathan and his men leapt into the Jordan, swimming to the other side; but their enemies did not follow them.⁴⁹ On that day, about a thousand of Bacchides' men fell.

⁵⁰ Bacchides returned to Jerusalem. Then he began to build fortified cities in Judea – the strongholds of Jericho, Emmaus, Beth-horon, Bethel, Timnath, Pharathon and Tephon – with high walls and barred gates,⁵¹ and a garrison stationed in each of them to harass the Israelites.⁵² He also fortified the cities of Beth-zur, Gazara and the Citadel, and placed troops in each of them with supplies of provisions.⁵³ He took the sons of the leaders of the land as hostages and imprisoned them in the Citadel of Jerusalem.

⁵⁴ In the year one hundred and fifty-nine, (159 B.C.) in the second month, Alcimus ordered the demolition of the wall of the inner court of the temple. This meant no less than destroying the work of the prophets.⁵⁵ Alcimus did in fact begin the demolition but soon after suffered a stroke, so the work was suspended. Alcimus was no longer able to speak, not even to rule over his household.⁵⁶ After a while, he died in great agony.⁵⁷ Because of his death, Bacchides returned to the king and the land had peace for two years.

⁵⁸ Then all the renegades agreed on a plan: "Jonathan and his people now live in peace without any fear at all. Let us bring Bacchides back; he can arrest them all in one night."

⁵⁹ They went to Bacchides, and when they had convinced him,⁶⁰ he set out with a large contingent. He secretly sent letters to his supporters in Judea instructing them to seize Jonathan and his men. But their plot was found out and their plan foiled.⁶¹ Instead the supporters of Jonathan arrested fifty Jewish leaders of this conspiracy and had them executed.

⁶² Jonathan and Simon then withdrew with their men to Bethbasi in the desert; they rebuilt the ruins and fortified it.⁶³ When Bacchides heard this, he assembled all his men and notified his adherents in Judea.⁶⁴ He went to attack Bethbasi, besieged it for many days and built engines of war.⁶⁵ Then Jonathan left his brother Simon in the city and went out into the countryside with a handful of men.⁶⁶ He defeated Odomera and his brothers and the people of Phasiron in their camp.⁶⁷ Then they

it to a safe place beyond the Jordan. There, they are the victims of an ambush. Then, Jonathan goes to the other side of the Jordan to avenge them. When he comes back, he finds that Bac-

turned back and began to attack the troops who had laid siege to the city. Meanwhile, Simon and his men went out of the city and burned the engines. ⁶⁸ They attacked Bacchides who was defeated and dismayed by the failure of his expedition. ⁶⁹ He was greatly enraged against the renegades who had advised him to return to the Jewish country; he executed many of them, and decided to return to his land. ⁷⁰ When Jonathan learned this, he sent messengers to him to make a treaty of peace and to exchange prisoners.

⁷¹ Bacchides accepted his terms. For Bacchides' part, he fulfilled his promises and swore that henceforth and until the day of his death, he would never harm him in any way. ⁷² He turned over to Jonathan the prisoners earlier in Judea. Then, he returned to his own country and never came back again to the territory of Judea. ⁷³ So there was peace in Israel, and Jonathan resided in Michmash where he began to govern the land, and the renegades disappeared from Israel.

War between Alexander Balas and Demetrius

10 ¹ In the year one hundred and sixty (160 B.C.), Alexander Epiphanes, son of Antiochus, sailed for Ptolemais and occupied it. He was well received and he began to reign. ² When Demetrius heard this, he assembled a very large army and marched out to fight him. ³ At the same time, he sent a letter of friendship to Jonathan and offered him vast power. ⁴ For Demetrius thought: "Let us make the first move in making peace with him before he makes peace with Alexander against us, remembering all the wrongs we have done to him, his brothers and his nation."

⁶ So Demetrius authorized Jonathan to organize an army and manufacture arms; he named him his ally and ordered the release of the hostages who were in the Citadel of Jerusalem. ⁷ Jonathan went at once to Jerusalem and read the letter before all the people and those in the Citadel. ⁸ They were afraid when they heard that the king had authorized Jonathan to organize a great army, ⁹ and they released the hostages to Jonathan who handed them back to their families. ¹⁰ Jonathan resided in Jerusalem and began rebuilding and restoring the city. ¹¹ He commanded the builders to build the walls and the defenses of Mount Zion with hewn stones. And they did so.

◆ ¹⁵ King Alexander was informed of the promises Demetrius had made to Jonathan; he was also given an account of the battles and exploits of Jonathan and his brothers and the trials they had endured. ¹⁶ So Alexander declared: "Shall we ever find another man like him? Let us make him our ally and friend." ¹⁷ And he wrote him a letter: ¹⁸ "King Alexander to our brother Jonathan, peace. ¹⁹ We have heard of you, that you are a valiant man and most worthy of our friendship. ²⁰ Therefore, we now appoint you High Priest of your nation and bestow on you the title Friend of the King (he also sent him a purple robe and a golden crown). So we invite you to watch over our interests and maintain friendly relations with us."

²² When Demetrius heard what had happened, he was greatly displeased and said, ²³ "What have we done that Alexander is ahead of us in gaining the friendship of the Jews? ²⁴ I will also write them kind words and promise them honour and gifts to win them to my side."

²⁵ So he wrote to the Jews:

"King Demetrius greets the Jewish nation. ²⁶ You have kept your agreement with us and have remained as our friends, and have not joined our enemies. We have heard of it and so we rejoice. ²⁷ Therefore, continue to be faithful and we will grant you privileges in return for all you do on our behalf. ²⁸ I will free the Jews from many taxes and grant them royal

◆ Before Alexander, Jonathan represents the Jews, but with what title? The Jews had not had a king since the Exile, and what is more, they would not have accepted any king who was not a descendant of David. Since the time of Ezra and Nehemiah, priests ruled over the Jewish community. And so Jonathan must be the High Priest and to be able to represent the Jewish people, he is to receive this charge from Alexander. This starts a moral crisis for the Jews since no one could proclaim himself high priest, but became one only through family rights (see Lv 8).

Jonathan's appointment caused division among the most religious Jews. Many opposed him, among whom were the Hasideans (7:13) who would later give rise to the Pharisees.

privileges and exemptions. ²⁹ And from now on and for ever, I now free all Jews from payment of tribute, salt dues and crown levies. ³⁰ I give up from this day and henceforth the third of the harvest and half of the fruit of the trees which I have the right to exact from the region of Judea and the three districts annexed to it from Samaria and Galilee. ³¹ From this day on and for all time, Jerusalem shall be a Holy City and be free with all its territory, with the right to collect tithes and tributes. ³² I also give up control of the Citadel of Jerusalem and turn it over to the High Priest that he may choose the men he wants to defend it. ³³ I grant freedom without ransom to all the captives taken from Judea into any part of my kingdom. I free everyone from the taxes they owe me for their livestock.

³⁴ All feasts, sabbaths, new moons, special days and the three holy days before and after a feast shall be days of exemption for all the Jews in my kingdom. ³⁵ No one shall have the right to pursue or molest them for any motive whatsoever. ³⁶ I also decree that they be accepted into the king's army to the number of thirty thousand Jews who shall receive the same salary as the rest of the king's forces. ³⁷ Some of them shall be stationed to guard the king's fortresses, and positions of trust shall be given to some of them; their officers shall be chosen from among themselves and they will live according to their laws as the king has prescribed in the land of Judea.

³⁸ The three districts of Samaria annexed to Judea shall be considered part of Jewish territory; to avoid any conflict of power, these shall be subject to no authority other than that of the High Priest. ³⁹ I give the city of Ptolemais and its territory as a gift to the temple of Jerusalem to cover the expenses of public worship. ⁴⁰ Henceforth, I will give fifteen thousand pieces of silver annually for the maintenance of the temple which shall be taken from the royal revenues from appropriate places. ⁴¹ Moreover, I give all that should have been paid to me by the administrators in previous years.

tributes to the temple, and give them to the priests in charge of public worship. ⁴³ Anyone who takes refuge in the temple of Jerusalem or in any of its enclosures because of his debts on royal taxes or because of any other debts, shall not be disturbed and his possessions anywhere in my kingdom shall be duly protected.

⁴⁶ When Jonathan and the people heard such proposals, they did not believe or accept them, for they remembered the great wrongs Demetrius had done to Israel and the ill-treatment to which he had subjected them. ⁴⁷ They decided in favor of Alexander, for he was the first to propose peace, and they became his faithful allies. ⁴⁸ King Alexander assembled a great army and encamped opposite Demetrius. ⁴⁹ The two kings began the battle and the army of Demetrius was routed. Alexander pursued him until Demetrius was defeated. ⁵⁰ The battle lasted until sunset, and on that day Demetrius died.

⁵¹ Then Alexander sent messengers to Ptolemy the king of Egypt with the following message: ⁵² "I am now again in my kingdom and have assumed power after defeating Demetrius and all his army. ⁵³ Now I occupy the throne of my fathers as master of all the land. Let us be friends. ⁵⁴ Give me your daughter in marriage, and I will become your son-in-law, and I will give you, and her, gifts worthy of you."

⁵⁵ King Ptolemy replied as follows: "Blessed be the day when you returned to the land of your fathers and ascended to their throne! ⁵⁶ I will without delay do for you as you have proposed. But meet me in Ptolemais. There we shall see one another and I will receive you as my son-in-law as you have requested."

⁵⁷ Ptolemy left Egypt with his daughter Cleopatra in the year one hundred and sixty-two, and arrived at Ptolemais. ⁵⁸ Alexander went to meet him and Ptolemy gave him his

o Jonathan gets more and more involved in politics and this chapter does not hide how dirty politics can be, the way it is usually practiced. So, what we said earlier about Judas is confirmed (9:1): the time to restore a kingdom of God which would be a nation among nations had gone.

The mission of Christians is to be involved in politics as yeast among the masses, in spite of the fact they will find temptations and errors among many unscrupulous people. But the Church must be careful not to go back to seeking success through a compromise with partisan forces, since its own mission cannot be confused with any political program. Moreover, it does not divide people into good and bad, friends or enemies, according to their positions in social struggles.

Political liability of Jonathan

o ⁵⁹ King Alexander also wrote to Jonathan to come and meet him. ⁶⁰ So Jonathan went to Ptolemais with great pomp and met the two kings. Then he gave them and their Friends much silver and gold and many other gifts. ⁶¹ The renegades, the pest of Israel, gathered together to accuse Jonathan, but the king paid no attention to them. ⁶² The king even gave orders that Jonathan remove his garment and be in purple and it was done. ⁶³ The king also seated him by his side, and said to his captains: "Go with him into the centre of the city and proclaim that no one is to accuse Jonathan under any pretext, and no one is to molest him for any reason." ⁶⁴ When his accusers saw the public honour given to Jonathan and that he was clothed in purple, they all fled. ⁶⁵ The king did him great honour and enrolled him among his first Friends, and appointed him general and governor. ⁶⁶ So Jonathan returned to Jerusalem happy and secure.

⁷⁰ "Are you the only one who resists our authority? And am I to be ridiculed because of you? Why do you stand against our authority in your mountains? ⁷¹ If you have confidence in your forces, come down to the plain and let us measure each other's strength there, for I have with me the army of the cities.

⁷² Inquire and find out who I am and who are those who support me. Men will tell you that you cannot resist us, for your fathers were twice defeated on their own land. ⁷³ Nor will you be able to withstand the cavalry, and so great an army on the plain where there are no stones or rocks offering a refuge."

⁷⁴ When Jonathan heard Apollonius' message, he was greatly aroused. So he left Jerusalem with ten thousand picked men, and his brother Simon came to his help. ⁷⁵ They encamped near Joppa, but the inhabitants of the city closed the gates to them, as Apollonius had a garrison there. ⁷⁶ So Jonathan gave the order to attack. The people in the city were so afraid that they opened the gates to him, and

Jonathan occupied Joppa. ⁷⁷ When Apollonius learned it, he mobilized three thousand cavalry and a large army. Then he set out towards Azotus, pretending to march through the land, but in fact his troops were spreading out in the direction of the plain, since he had a great number of cavalry on which he relied. ⁷⁸ Jonathan pursued him towards Azotus and they began to fight. ⁷⁹ Apollonius had left a thousand picked horsemen hidden behind Jonathan, ⁸⁰ but Jonathan was informed of the ambush.

The horsemen surrounded Jonathan's men and shot their arrows from morning till evening. ⁸¹ But the Israelites faced them as Jonathan had commanded until the horses of the enemy tired. Once the cavalry were exhausted, ⁸² Simon and his men advanced and attacked the infantry. The enemy was defeated and fled.

⁸³ The cavalry scattered over the plain and those who fled went to Azotus, where they entered the temple of Dagon, their idol, to save their lives. ⁸⁴ But Jonathan set fire to Azotus and the surrounding towns, and plundered them. He also burned down the temple of Dagon with all who had taken refuge in it. ⁸⁵ There were about eight thousand men who either fell by the sword or were burned to death. ⁸⁶ Jonathan then left for Askalon where the inhabitants received him with great honour. ⁸⁷ From there, Jonathan and his men returned to Jerusalem laden with booty.

11 ¹ But the king of Egypt assembled an army as numerous as the sands of the seashore, with many ships, for he intended to trick Alexander, take his kingdom and add it to his own. ² He went to Syria with words of peace, and the inhabitants of the cities opened their gates to him. They came out to meet him, as Alexander had ordered, ³ because Ptolemy was his father-in-law. But as soon as Ptolemy entered the cities, he stationed garrisons in them. ⁴ When he reached Azotus, he was shown the burnt temple of Dagon, Azotus and its surroundings in ruins, the scattered corpses that had been abandoned, and the charred remains of those whom Jonathan burned to death in the battle, piled in heaps along the king's way.

⁵ They recounted to King Ptolemy everything Jonathan had done. They were hoping that the king would disapprove, but he said nothing. ⁶ Jonathan went with great pomp to Joppa to meet the king. They greeted each other and spent the night there. ⁷ On the following day, Jonathan accompanied the king as far as the Eleutherus river, and then returned to Jerusalem. ⁸ King Ptolemy for his part seized the coastal cities as far as Deleucia by the sea, for he had made plans against King Alexander. ⁹ He sent this message to Demetrius: "Come and let us forge an alliance. I will give you my daughter who was married to Alexander, and you will reign on the throne of your fathers. ¹⁰ The fact is I now regret having given him my daughter, for he has tried to kill me." ¹¹ He accused Alexander because he wanted to take his kingdom. ¹² Ptolemy took his daughter away and gave her to Demetrius. In this way, his enmity towards Alexander became public. ¹³ Ptolemy then entered Antioch and took for himself the crown of Asia. So he held two kingdoms: the kingdom of Egypt and the kingdom of Asia.

¹⁴ At that time, Alexander was in Cilicia trying to quell a rebellion. ¹⁵ When he heard what had happened, he returned to fight Ptolemy. Ptolemy went out to meet him in battle with a strong army, and Alexander was defeated. ¹⁶ As he fled to Arabia and sought refuge there, ¹⁷ Zabdiel the Arab cut his head off and sent it to Ptolemy. ¹⁸ But after three days, Ptolemy died, and immediately the Egyptian soldiers who guarded the fortified cities were killed by the local inhabitants. ¹⁹ In this way, Demetrius became king in the year one hundred and sixty-seven (167 B.C.).

²⁰ In those days, Jonathan assembled the Jewish army to attack the Citadel in Jerusalem which was occupied by the Syrians, and he prepared many siege engines. ²¹ But some wicked men who were traitors to their country, informed the king. ²² When the king heard of it, he became angry and immediately set out for Ptolemias. From there he wrote to Jonathan telling him to stop the siege and to come to see him as soon as possible. ²³ Jonathan received the message, but he ordered the siege to continue. Then he decided to risk himself, and went to see the king with the elders and priests of Israel. ²⁴ Bringing gold, silver, fine garments and other presents, they went before the king in Ptolemias and won him over. ²⁵ Some traitors accused them. ²⁶ But the king in the presence of all his Friends treated Jonathan as kings before had treated him. ²⁷ He confirmed Jonathan's office as high priest with all the privileges he already had. And he numbered him among his first Friends.

and promised him three hundred talents in return. ²⁹ The king agreed and wrote to Jonathan regarding the matter in these terms: ³⁰ "King Demetrius to Jonathan, to his brothers and to the whole Jewish nation, peace. ³¹ We are sending you a copy of the letter we have written to our kinsman Lasthenes that you may know: ³² King Demetrius greets his kinsman Lasthenes. ³³ Because of their fidelity to us, we have decided to do favours to the Jewish nation, who are our friends and who act correctly with us. We wish to reward their fidelity. ³⁴ We confirm the possession of the territory of Judea and the three regions of Aphairema, Kydda and Ramathaim which have been annexed to Judea from Samaria, with all their dependencies. And to all who go up to Jerusalem to offer sacrifice, we grant exemption from the tax the king formerly received from them annually until now, from the produce of the soil and from the fruit of the trees.

³⁵ In the same way, they shall also be exempt from the other taxes due to us, especially from the taxes on the produce of the salt mines, and the gold crowns they formerly offered us. ³⁶ None of these privileges shall ever be annulled. ³⁷ Have a copy of this decree made and delivered to Jonathan to be displayed on the Holy Mountain in a conspicuous place."

⁴¹ Meanwhile, Jonathan asked King Demetrius to withdraw the troops from the Citadel in Jerusalem and to call back the garrisons from the fortresses, since they were always fighting Israel. ⁴² Demetrius answered him, "I will not only do this for you and for your people, but as soon as I have the occasion to do so. ⁴³ For the present, you would do well to send me reinforcements, for all my soldiers have deserted me."

⁴⁴ Jonathan sent off three thousand valiant men to Antioch: they presented themselves before the king, and this made him very happy. ⁴⁵ About a hundred and twenty thousand rebel inhabitants gathered at the centre of the city intending to do away with the king. ⁴⁶ Demetrius took refuge in the palace while the residents occupied the streets of the city and began to attack. ⁴⁷ The king then called on the Jews to help him, and the Jews rallied round him. Then they spread out through the city and killed a hundred thousand men on that day. ⁴⁸ They burned the city, seized a great deal of plunder, and saved the king. ⁴⁹ The Jews took control of the city. And the inhabitants were so discouraged that they begged the king. ⁵⁰ "Forgive us and stop the Jews from maltreating us and the city."

⁵¹ They threw down their arms and made peace. With this, the Jews merited the admiration of the king and they became famous throughout the kingdom. Then they returned to Jerusalem laden with booty. ⁵² But when Demetrius felt secure on his throne and the land was in peace, ⁵³ he forgot his promises and changed his attitude towards Jonathan. He did not treat him with the same kindness as he had done before, but began to treat him very harshly.

⁵⁷ Then the young Antiochus sent Jonathan this letter: "I confirm your office as High Priest and make you governor of four districts, and I include you among the Friends of the King." ⁵⁸ He sent him a service of gold plate, and granted him the right to drink from gold vessels and to be in purple and wear the golden brooch. ⁵⁹ He also appointed Jonathan's brother Simon as general from the Ladder of Tyre to the frontiers of Egypt.

⁶⁰ Jonathan then began to make rounds of the region and the cities on the western side of the Euphrates. The whole Syrian army came to his aid. He came to Askalon and the inhabitants of that city went out to receive him with full honours. ⁶¹ From there he went to Gaza, but the people there closed their gates on him. So Jonathan laid siege to it and burned the suburbs of the city, plundering everything. ⁶² Then the people of Gaza sought peace, and he made peace with them. But he took the sons of their elders as hostages and sent them away to Jerusalem. Then he travelled through the province until he reached Damascus. ⁶³ Jonathan then received news that the generals of Demetrius were in Kadesh of Galilee with a great army and planned to capture him. ⁶⁴ Leaving his brother Simon in Judea, he went out to meet them in battle. ⁶⁵ Simon encamped against Beth-zur and laid siege to it for many days. ⁶⁶ The inhabitants sued for peace, which he granted them. But he expelled them from the city and occupied it, and stationed a garrison there.

⁷³ So the troops who had abandoned him came back to his side, and altogether they pursued the enemies as far as Kadesh where the enemy camp was, and there they, too, pitched camp. ⁷⁴ About three thousand pagans perished that day. Then Jonathan returned to Jerusalem.

Jonathan renews the alliances with the Spartans and Romans

12 ¹ Jonathan saw that circumstances were to his advantage. So he chose men and sent them to Rome to confirm and renew the alliance of friendship with the Romans. ² He also sent letters to the Spartans and to other places for this same purpose. ³ Those who went to Rome entered the Senate and delivered this message: "The High Priest Jonathan and the Jewish nation have sent us to renew with you the friendship and alliance that formerly united us." ⁴ The Senate gave them letters of recommendation to the authorities of each region, enabling them to journey safely back to the land of Judah.

⁵ This is the copy of the letter Jonathan wrote to the Spartans: ⁶ "Jonathan, High Priest, the senate of the nation, the priests and the whole country of the Jews, to the people of Sparta, their brothers: peace. ⁷ In the past, our high priest Onias received from Areios, your king, a letter stating that you are indeed our brothers, as the enclosed copy attests. ⁸ Onias received the envoy with great honour and accepted the letter which clearly spoke of friendship and alliance.

⁹ Though we are not in need, for we have our consolation in our Sacred Books,¹⁰ we have decided to send ambassadors to you to renew our fraternal bonds and friendship in order not to become strangers to you, for it has been a long time since you wrote us.

¹¹ For our part, we constantly remember you in all circumstances, on special days, in the sacrifices we offer, as well as in our prayers; for it is but right and proper to remember our brothers,¹² and greatly rejoice at your prosperity and fame.¹³ For our part, we have been involved in many trials, in misery and wars, for neighbouring kings have attacked us.¹⁴ However we did not want to be a burden to you or to the rest of our allies and friends during these wars,¹⁵ for our help comes from Heaven. Finally we have been freed from our enemies who have been humbled.

¹⁶ So we have chosen Numenius, son of Antiochus, and Antipater, son of Jason, and sent them to the Romans to renew our former friendship and alliance with them.¹⁷ We have also ordered them to go to you, greet you and deliver this letter to you on our behalf, with which we wish to renew our alliance.¹⁸ We shall be glad to receive a favourable response."

¹⁹ This is a copy of the letter which Onias had received:²⁰ "Areios, king of the Spartans, to Onias the High Priest.²¹ We have found in one of our documents that the Spartans and the Jews are brothers, for both are of the race of Abraham.²² Now that we have come to know this, we shall be grateful if you send us news of your welfare.²³ And we say this to you: our livestock and our possessions are yours, and similarly all that are yours are ours. This is what we have instructed our envoys to say to you."

afraid and discouraged; for this reason, they kindled fires in their camp and fled.²⁹ But neither Jonathan nor his army knew of their withdrawal until morning, for they saw the fires burning the whole night.³⁰ Jonathan pursued them but was not able to catch up with them, for they had crossed the Eleutherus river.

³¹ So Jonathan went back against the Arabs called Zabadeans, defeated them and plundered them.³² After breaking camp, he went to Damascus and travelled throughout the region. Meanwhile,³³ Simon had also set out and gone as far as Askalon and the neighbouring fortresses. He then proceeded to Joppa and occupied it,³⁴ for he had heard that the inhabitants of that city planned to hand the Citadel over to the supporters of Demetrius. And he stationed a garrison there to hold it.

³⁵ On returning, Jonathan summoned the elders of the people. The assembly decided to build fortresses in Judea,³⁶ to make the walls of Jerusalem still higher, and to erect a barrier between the citadel and the city, to separate it from the city and to isolate it and prevent its defenders from going out to buy or sell.

³⁹ Trypho wanted to reign in Asia, and to do away with King Antiochus in order to be king himself.⁴⁰ But he feared that Jonathan might not allow him to do so, and might even come to attack him. He set out and came to Bethshan.⁴¹ At once Jonathan went out to meet him with forty thousand men, and he, too, came to Bethshan.

Jonathan is taken by deceit

+ ⁴² When Trypho saw that Jonathan had come with a large army, he was afraid to begin the assault.⁴³ So he received Jonathan with honour, presented him to all his Friends, gave him gifts, and instructed his Friends and his troops to obey Jonathan as

+ After Judas and two of his brothers, Jonathan will die in the liberation war. Simon, the last of the brothers will replace him.

The book continues with the story of Simon's rule and deeds until the year 134 B.C. when he is murdered.

Simon will be successful in his wars. He is very clever in taking advantage of the rivalries among the various kings struggling to settle in the kingdom of Persia. His victories and the peace which he achieved will dampen the enthusiasm for the faith which had started the liberation wars. Si-

they obeyed him. ⁴⁴ Then he asked Jonathan, "Why have you bothered to come with so many men? Are we perhaps enemies?" ⁴⁵ Send them back to their homes and remain here with some of them. Then you will come with me to the city of Ptolemais because I wish to hand it over to you, as well as the other fortresses and to place the rest of the troops and their officers at your disposal. Then, I will return home, for I have come only for this."

⁴⁶ Jonathan believed him and did as Trypho had asked him. He dismissed his men who then returned to the land of Judea, ⁴⁷ and three thousand men remained with him. Of these, he left two thousand in Galilee and only a thousand accompanied him. ⁴⁸ But as soon as they had entered Ptolemais, the inhabitants closed the gates. They seized him and killed all who had come with him.

⁴⁹ Trypho sent troops and cavalry to Galilee and to the Great Plain to wipe out all of Jonathan's men. ⁵⁰ On receiving the news that Jonathan and his companions had been seized and killed, his soldiers encouraged one another and prepared to face their pursuers. ⁵¹ When their enemy saw them ready to fight for their lives, they turned back. ⁵² So the men of Jonathan reached the land of Judea safe and sound. They wept for Jonathan and his companions, and all Israel was in mourning. And there was great fear among the Israelites. ⁵³ Then all the neighbouring nations planned to destroy them on seeing that they were now without leader or ally. And the pagans said: "This is now the opportunity to wipe out the remembrance of them from among men."

Simon succeeds Jonathan

13 ¹ Simon heard that Trypho had assembled a great army to invade Judea and devastate it. ² As the people were frightened and apprehensive, he went up to Jerusalem. ³ There he called the people together and encouraged them with this exhortation:

"All of you know what I, my brothers, and the family of my father, have done for the laws and for the Holy Place. You also know the wars and the hardships we endured. ⁴ All my brothers died for Israel and now I alone am left. ⁵ God forbid that I should seek my own safety when things go wrong! For my life is not of more worth than the lives of my brothers. Now that all the nations have united in their hatred in order to destroy us, ⁶ I will defend my nation and the Holy Place, your wives and your children."

⁷ All were encouraged with these words ⁸ and they exclaimed in a loud voice: "Be our leader in place of Judas and your brother Jonathan. ⁹ Lead us in the war and we will obey your commands."

¹⁰ So Simon assembled all the men able to fight and hastened to finish building the walls of Jerusalem, which was fortified on all sides. ¹¹ Then he sent Jonathan, son of Absalom, with a strong army to Joppa. They drove out those who occupied it and remained there.

¹² Meanwhile, Trypho left Ptolemais with a large army to invade Judea, taking with him Jonathan as prisoner. ¹³ Simon encamped in Adida facing the plain. ¹⁴ But when Trypho learned that Simon had taken command in place of his brother Jonathan and was prepared to fight him, he sent some envoys to him with this message: ¹⁵ "We have in our custody your brother Jonathan because of the money he owes to the royal treasury for the offices he held. ¹⁶ So, send a hundred talents of silver and two of his sons as hostages lest he slip away when we release him, and come back against us. Then we shall let him go."

¹⁷ Simon knew that Trypho was deceiving

mon, the liberator, becomes Simon the dictator at the end of a process often repeated in history. To that effect, see 14:41-47; 15:32.

When Jesus comes one hundred and fifty years later, Simon's descendants will be the chief priests, the most materialistic group among the Jews (the Sadducees).

Note what is briefly mentioned in 13:41-42 and in 15:3. After four centuries of dependence, the Jews become a nation once again.

This new and exalting experience explains why, a century and a half later, in Jesus' days, they could not stand Roman domination.

him, but he still sent for the money and the boys so as not to draw upon himself the anger of the people of Israel who might say: ¹⁸ "They killed Jonathan because Simon refused to send Trypho the money and the boys." ¹⁹ He therefore sent the boys and the hundred talents, but Trypho broke his word and did not set Jonathan free.

²⁰ After this, Trypho advanced to invade Judea and plunder it. He moved along the way to Adora, but Simon and his army kept confronting him wherever he went. ²¹ Then the men in the Citadel sent messengers to Trypho urging him to come at once to their rescue by way of the desert and to bring them food.

²² Trypho prepared his entire cavalry to go, but it snowed so heavily that night that he was not able to go. So he left for Gilead ²³ and when he approached Baskama, he killed Jonathan and buried him there. ²⁴ Then Trypho returned to his own land. ²⁵ Simon sent men to look for the remains of Jonathan, his brother, and he buried him in Modein, the city of their fathers. ²⁶ All Israel deeply mourned and wept for Jonathan for many days.

³³ Now Simon rebuilt the fortresses of Judea, surrounded them with high towers and great walls with barred gates, and stored food in them.

³⁶ "King Demetrius greets Simon, High Priest and Friend of the King, the elders and the Jewish nation. ³⁷ We have received the golden crowns and the palm you have sent us and we are disposed to make with you a lasting peace, and to write to the officials to grant you remission from your debts. ³⁸ All our concessions in your favour are definitive and the fortresses you have built are yours.

³⁹ Moreover, we pardon all errors and offenses committed to this day, as well as the crown tax you owe. From now on, any other tax that used to be paid in Jerusalem shall no longer be collected. ⁴⁰ If any of your men are qualified to enlist in our army, they can do so. And let peace reign between us."

⁴⁵ The inhabitants with their wives and children went up on the walls, tore their garments cried out in a loud voice to Simon and sought peace. ⁴⁶ They said to him, "Treat us not as our wickedness deserves, but according to your mercy." ⁴⁷ Simon was reconciled with them and did not treat them according to the rigor of war. But he expelled them from the city and purified the houses where idols were kept. He then entered the city singing hymns of thanksgiving.

⁴⁹ The men who occupied the Citadel in Jerusalem could no longer come out or go into Jewish territory to buy or sell. So they were desperately in need of food, many of them dying of hunger. ⁵⁰ They begged Simon for peace, and he granted it to them. But he expelled them from there and cleansed the Citadel from all that reminded them of the presence of the pagans. ⁵¹ On the twenty-third day of the second month of the year one hundred and seventy-one (171 B.C.), the Jews entered it with songs and palm branches to the accompaniment of zithers, cymbals and harps, and with hymns and songs, for a great plague had been crushed and removed from Israel. ⁵² Simon decreed that this day be celebrated as a day of annual rejoicing. He strengthened the fortifications of the Temple hill by the side of the military Citadel, and dwelt there with his men.

⁵³ John, son of Simon, had come to manhood, so his father appointed him general in command of all the troops, and John lived in Gazara.

Simon rules victoriously over Judah

⁴ Judea had peace as long as Simon lived. He worked for the well-being of his country; his rule pleased the people, and he enjoyed much renown as long as he lived. ⁵ To add to his glory, he took Joppa and made it a harbour, opening a way to communicate with the islands of the sea. ⁶ He extended the frontiers of his land and was lord of his nation. ⁷ He brought back many captives, conquered Gazard, Beth-zur and the Citadel and cast out everything pagan that was in it. No one was able to resist him.

¹⁶ When the news of Jonathan's death reached Rome and Sparta, these people, too, were deeply grieved. ¹⁷ But as soon as they heard that his brother Simon had succeeded him as High Priest and was in command of the country and the cities in it, ¹⁸ they wrote to him on bronze sheets to renew the alliance and friendship they had made with his brothers Judas and Jonathan.

¹⁹ The letter was read in Jerusalem before the whole assembly. ²⁰ This is a copy of the letter sent by the Spartans,

"The leaders and the people of Sparta to Simon, High Priest, and to the elders, to the priests and to all the Jewish people, their brothers: greetings. ²¹ The envoys you sent to our people informed us of the successes and prosperity of your nation. We rejoiced at their coming. ²² We have recorded their declaration in our public acts as follows: 'Numenius, son of Antiochus, and Antipater, son of Jason ambassadors of the Jews—have come to renew their relationship with us.' ²³ It has been a pleasure for the people to receive them with honour and deposit a copy of their statement in the public archives as a remembrance for the people of Sparta.' And they made a copy of all this for the High Priest Simon."

²⁵ When the people came to know these events, they said, "What favour can we do for Simon and his sons?" ²⁶ It was he and his brothers and the family of their fathers who strengthened the resistance; they have fought the enemies of Israel and restored its freedom." ²⁷ So they engraved an inscription on bronze sheets and set it up on pillars on Mount Zion. This is a copy of the text:

"On the eighteenth of the month Elul in the year one hundred and seventy-two, the third year of Simon, the High Priest, ²⁸ in the grand assembly of the priests of Israel, the leaders of the nation and the elders of the people, the following was proclaimed:

³³ He fortified the cities of Judah and Bethzur on the frontiers of Judea, where the enemy arsenal had been and stationed a Jewish garrison there. ³⁴ He also fortified Joppa by the sea, and Gazara on the borders of Azotus, which was formerly inhabited by enemies, and established Jewish colonies there, providing them with all they needed. ³⁵ The people saw Simon's faith and the glory he had resolved to win for his nation. They made him their commander and High Priest because of the services he rendered, the justice and faithfulness he showed to his nation, and because he sought in every way to increase the honour of his people.

³⁶ In his days, the Jews managed to root out the pagans from their land, especially from the city of David, Jerusalem, where they had built a Citadel from which they went out to profane the surroundings of the temple and to violate its holiness. ³⁷ He settled Jewish soldiers in it and fortified it for the security of the region and the city, and built the walls of Jerusalem higher. ³⁸ And for this, King Demetrius confirmed him in his office as High Priest, ³⁹ made him one of his Friends and bestowed high honours on him, ⁴⁰ for he had heard that the Romans had considered the Jews their friends, allies and brothers, and had received Simon's envoy with honour.

Simon: high priest and dictator

⁴¹ The king also took into account that the Jews and the priests had agreed that Simon be their leader and High Priest until a prophet worthy of trust appeared.

⁴² They wanted him to be their general and take charge of the Holy Place, and to appoint men to supervise the works, to administer the country, the army and the fortresses.

⁴⁵ Whoever opposes these decisions or violates any of these shall be liable to punishment."

⁴⁶ All the people agreed to grant Simon the right to act in accordance with these provisions. ⁴⁷ And Simon accepted and agreed to assume the office of High Priest and to be the general and leader of the Jews and of the priests, and to preside over all.

⁴⁸ They decided that this decree be engraved on bronze sheets and set up in a conspicuous place in the sacred enclosure, ⁴⁹ and that copies be deposited in the Temple treasury and made available to Simon and his sons.

15 ¹ Antiochus, son of King Demetrius, sent from the islands of the sea to Simon, the High Priest and leader of the Jews, and to the whole nation, ² the following letter: "King Antiochus to Simon, high priest and leader, and to the Jewish nation: peace!

³ Since wicked men have seized the kingdom of our fathers, I now intend to recover it and to re-establish it as it was before. I have gathered a very large army and have equipped warships ⁴ to make a landing in the country and take revenge on those who devastated our land and laid waste many cities in my kingdom. Now, therefore, ⁵ I confirm in your regard all the tax exemptions and all other privileges granted you by my royal predecessors. ⁶ I authorize you to mint your own coinage for your nation. ⁷ I accept the autonomy of Jerusalem and the Holy Place; all the arms you have manufactured as well as the fortresses you have constructed and those you have occupied are yours. ⁸ From this day on, I cancel all debts to the king and everything you may owe in the future. ⁹ And when I have taken possession of my kingdom, I shall bestow great honours on you, your nation and on the Temple, making you famous throughout all the earth."

¹⁵ Then Numenius and his companions arrived from Rome, carrying letters addressed to the kings and to the nations in the following terms: ¹⁶ "Lucius, consul of the Romans, to King Ptolemy: peace! ¹⁷ The Jewish people sent by the High Priest Simon and by the Jewish people have come to us as our friends and allies to renew our friendship and alliance of old.

¹⁸ They have brought us a gold shield weighing a thousand minas. ¹⁹ It is our desire to write to the kings and the peoples that they should not harm the Israelites nor injure them or their cities or their land, nor ally themselves with their aggressors. ²⁰ We have accepted with pleasure the shield that the Jews sent us. ²¹ Now, if some wicked Jews who have fled from their land are in your country, hand them over to the High Priest Simon that he may punish them according to their Law."

²² The same letter was sent to King Demetrius, to Attalus, Ariarathes and Arsaces, ²³ and to all the nations, to Sampsames, the Spartans, Delos, Myndos, Sicyon, Caria, Samos, Pamphylia, Lycia, Halicarnassus, Rhodes, Phaselis, Cos, Side, Aradus, Gortyna, Cnidus, Cyprus and Cyrene. ²⁴ They also sent copies of these letters to the High Priest Simon.

War with the Syrians renewed

³⁰ Restore, then, the cities you have seized and the taxes of the places you now occupy beyond the borders of Judea. ³¹ Or pay me five hundred talents of silver as compensation for the damage you have caused and another five hundred talents for the taxes of the cities. If not, then I shall declare war against you."

³² Athenobius, the Friend of the king, arrived in Jerusalem and when he saw the magnificence of Simon, his plates of gold and silver and the pomp that surrounded him, he was amazed. But he delivered the king's message. ³³ Simon answered him, "We have not occupied any foreign land nor seized any foreign property: this is the inheritance of our fathers. It was our enemies who seized this for some time, ³⁴ but now that we have a favourable opportunity, we are only recovering the inheritance of our fathers.

³⁵ Joppa and Gazara, which you claim, did great harm to our people and laid waste our land; but we are prepared to give you a hundred talents for them."

Athenobius did not say anything, ³⁶ but went back to the king very angry and reported to him Simon's reply. He also told him of Simon's magnificence and everything he had seen. So the king became furious.

³⁷ Meanwhile, Trypho fled to Orthosia on a ship. ³⁸ The king appointed Cendebeus as general and gave him part of the troops and the horsemen. ³⁹ He ordered him to encamp against Judea, rebuild Kedron and fortify its gates and make war on the people. The king then went on pursuing Trypho. ⁴⁰ Cendebeus arrived at Jamnia and began to disturb the people. He invaded Judea, imprisoned some people and put them to death. ⁴¹ He fortified Kedron, stationed horsemen and troops there to make sorties and to patrol the roads to Judea, as the king had commanded him.

16 ¹ At that time, John went up from Gazara to relate to his father what Cendebeus was doing. ² So, Simon called his two elder sons, John and Judas, and said to them: "I and my brothers and the family of my father have fought the enemies of Israel from our youth until today. And many times, we were able to liberate Israel. ³ But now I am old, while you – thanks be to Heaven – are already mature men. Take my place and my brother's, and go out to fight for our country. May Heaven's help be with you!"

⁴ Then he chose a thousand men and horsemen from the country whom he sent against Cendebeus. And they spent the night in Modein. ⁵ They arose early in the morning and advanced into the plain and saw what a large army, both infantry and cavalry, was coming to meet them.

A stream lay between them, ⁶ and John with his troops drew up against the enemies. His troops were afraid to cross the stream, so he crossed over first. On seeing this, his men crossed after him. ⁷ He divided his army into two groups and set the horsemen in the center for the enemy's cavalry was very numerous.

⁸ They sounded the trumpets, and Cendebeus and his army were defeated. Many of them fell, and those who remained fled to the fortress. ⁹ Judas, the brother of John, fell wounded, but John pursued the enemies until Cendebeus reached Kedron which he had fortified. ¹⁰ The enemy also went to take refuge in the towers in the fields of Azotus, but John burned these down. About two thousand of the enemy perished. And after this, John returned safely to Judea.

¹¹ Ptolemy, son of Abubos, had become general in command of the plain of Jericho. He had much silver and gold, ¹² besides being the High Priest's son-in-law. ¹³ He became too ambitious and thought of becoming the leader of his nation. So he looked for ways to do away with Simon and his sons. ¹⁴ Simon was then making the rounds of the cities of Judea and attending to their administration. In the eleventh month called Shebat, in the year one hundred and thirty-four (134 B.C.), Simon came to Jericho with his two sons, Mattathias and Judas. ¹⁵ The son of Abubos received them treacherously into the small fortress called Dock which he had built. He gave them a grand banquet, but had set men in hiding. ¹⁶ When Simon and his sons were drunk, Ptolemy and his men reached for their weapons and rushed on Simon in the midst of the banquet. They

¹⁸ Ptolemy then made haste to send a letter to the king to inform him of what had happened, asking Antiochus to help him in handing over to him the cities and the country. ¹⁹ He also sent other men to Gazara in order to kill John, and asked the commanders of the Jewish troops in a letter to defect to him, promising them silver, gold and gifts. ²⁰ He then sent others to seize Jerusalem and the Temple hill.

²¹ But a man ran and reached Gazara before them, informing John that his father and brothers had been killed. And he added, "He has also sent some people to kill you." ²² John was shocked by the news. So he arrested the men who had been sent to kill him and put them to death, for he knew that they had come with this purpose.

²³ The rest of the deeds of John, his battles, his exploits, the walls he built and all his other achievements ²⁴ are written in the annals of his pontificate from the day he succeeded his father as High Priest.

2. MACCABEES

The second book of Maccabees is not the continuation of the first book.

Whereas 1 Maccabees presents the history of the Jewish people during those critical years in a global and balanced way, 2 Maccabees focuses on a series of facts – and at times, commentaries and legends – allowing it to emphasize the hopes and suffering of the persecuted believers. This second book, less interesting than the first for historians, is, nevertheless, extremely important in the Bible because of its profound vision of suffering and death and also of God's justice. This book – as Daniel and the Wisdom books – is the first in the Bible to state the belief in the resurrection of the dead.

First letter to the Jews in Egypt

1 Greetings to our brothers, the Jews in Egypt, from their brothers, the Jews in Jerusalem and in the region of Judea – may you have peace and happiness. ² May God fill you with every good and remember his covenant with Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, his faithful servants. ³ May he give you all a heart to worship him and to fulfil his will with generosity and a well-disposed spirit. ⁴ May he incline your hearts to listen to his law and precepts, and give you peace. ⁵ May he hear your prayers and be reconciled with you, and not abandon you in time of misfortune. ⁶ This is what we now pray for you.

⁷ In the year one hundred and seventy-nine, when Demetrius was king, we Jews wrote to you during the most critical moment of trials that we had to endure during those years. And we said to you: "Jason and his associates have betrayed the cause of the Holy Land and of the Kingdom. ⁸ They have burned the Temple gateway and shed innocent blood."

But we prayed to the Lord and were heard. And now we have just offered a sacrifice with wheat flour, lighted the lamps again and set out the loaves of bread. ⁹ So we write to you again that you may celebrate the Feast of Tents in the month of Chislew in this year one hundred and eighty-eight.

Second letter to the Jews in Egypt

¹⁰ The inhabitants of Jerusalem and Judea, their senators and Judas, to Aristobulus, teacher of King Ptolemy, belonging to the family of the anointed priests, and to the Jews in Egypt: greetings and prosperity

¹¹ Having been saved by God from great dangers, we give him thanks because he came to our help against the king himself. ¹² God drove out those who fought against the Holy City; ¹³ their leader left for Persia with a seemingly invincible army, but the priests of the goddess Nanea laid a trap for them and killed them in her temple.

¹⁴ Antiochus and his friends came to that place under the pretext of marrying the goddess, but in reality they wanted to seize its great treasures as a dowry. ¹⁵ The priests of Nanea had set out the treasures and Antiochus entered the sacred enclosure with a few men. But as soon as Antiochus had entered, they closed the temple ¹⁶ and opened a secret door in the ceiling. Then they threw stones down and crushed the leader and his men. They then dismembered the bodies, cut off their heads and threw them to those outside. ¹⁷ In all these things, may our God be blessed for he has handed over the impious to death.

¹⁸ As we are about to celebrate the purification of the Temple on the twenty-fifth day of Chislew, it seems good to us to inform you, so that you, too, may celebrate the Feast of Tents and remember the fire that appeared when Nehemiah, who built the Temple and the altar, offered sacrifices. ¹⁹ For when our fathers were deported to Persia, the devout priest of the time took some of the fire from the altar and hid it secretly in the hollow of a dry well, with such caution that the place remained unknown to everyone.

²⁰ Many years had passed, when in God's own time Nehemiah, who was commissioned by the king of Persia, sent the descendants of the priests who had hidden the fire to look for it. ²¹ But they reported that they did not find the fire but instead a thick liquid. So Nehemiah ordered them to draw it out and bring it to him.

When the sacrifice had been prepared on the altar, Nehemiah ordered the priests to sprinkle the liquid on the wood and the victims placed on it. ²² They did so and after some time the sun which had previously been clouded over, shone. At once such a great fire blazed up that all were astonished.

3. Dt 29, 3; Jer 24, 7	9. 10, 1; 10, 6	13. 1 Mac 6	18. 1 Mac 4, 36
------------------------	-----------------	-------------	-----------------

The Jews of Palestine write this letter after having overcome their oppressors. When they are about to celebrate the Purification of the Temple retrieved from the enemy forces, they inform the Jewish communities dispersed in Egypt about it.

The letter deals with several rumors. We single out the legend according to which the Ark (which had in fact been destroyed in the fall of Jerusalem in 587) had been saved and hidden. This was to express the great faith of the people: none of the things that God had done in the time of their fathers could be lost.

Note 2:13-15. This fact, not totally reliable, completes what we read in 1 Chr 29:29-30; 1 Chr 9:29; 16:11... Ezra 7:25-26; Neh 8; regarding the formation of the nucleus of the Bible, a task which was achieved not by Nehemiah, but rather by Ezra.

²³ While the sacrifice was being consumed, the priests together with all those present prayed. Jonathan led while Nehemiah and the rest responded. ²⁴ This was their prayer:

"Lord, Lord God, Creator of all things, dreadful and strong, just and merciful, you are the only good king, ²⁵ you alone are generous, just, all-powerful and eternal. You who save Israel from many evils, who chose our fathers and sanctified them, ²⁶ accept this sacrifice on behalf of all your people Israel. Protect your heritage and sanctify it.

²⁷ Gather our scattered people together, set free those held in slavery among the nations, turn your eyes on those who are despised and crushed; so the pagans may know that you are our God. ²⁸ Afflict those who oppress us, who insult and treat us with contempt. ²⁹ Plant your people in your holy place, as Moses said."

³⁰ The priests sang the hymns, ³¹ and when the sacrifice was all consumed, Nehemiah ordered that the remaining liquid be poured over some large stones. ³² This was done, and a flame flared up but it was outshone by the fire from the altar. ³³ This matter became known, and it was reported to the king of the Persians that the liquid with which Nehemiah and his companions had burned the sacrifice was found in the place where the exiled priests had hidden the fire. ³⁴ So, after verifying the facts, the king ordered that a fence be built to enclose the place and decreed that it be a sacred place.

2 ¹ It is found in the archives that the prophet Jeremiah ordered the exiles to take the fire, as we have already said. ² After giving them the Law, he exhorted them not to forget the precepts of God and not to let themselves be dazzled by the idols of silver and gold with all their adornment. ³ He spoke to them of many similar things, admonishing them never to lose their love for the Law.

Popular beliefs

⁴ It is also said in these writings of the past that the prophet Jeremiah fulfilling orders from Heaven, commanded that the ark of the Covenant with its tent be brought with him. And he went to the mountain which Moses had climbed before and from where he had seen the promised land. ⁵ There Jeremiah found a cave; and he brought in the ark, the tent that covered it and the altar of incense. Then, he closed up the entrance with stones

⁶ Some of those who followed him returned to mark out the way, but they could not find it anymore.

⁷ When Jeremiah learned this, he reproached them and said, "This place is to remain hidden until God has compassion on his scattered people and gathers them together. ⁸ Then the Lord will reveal these things again and his Glory shall appear through the cloud as it appeared in the time of Moses and when Solomon asked God to come and consecrate his house."

⁹ It was also reported in these archives how Solomon, inspired by his wisdom, offered the sacrifice of the dedication and completion of the Temple. ¹⁰ And as fire had come down from heaven through the prayer of Moses to consume the offerings and the sacrificial victim, so through the prayer of Solomon, fire also came down from heaven and burned up the holocausts. ¹¹ And what Moses had said was fulfilled: Inasmuch as the sin-offering was not eaten, the fire consumed it. ¹² Solomon celebrated the feast, too, for eight days.

¹³ This also can be read in the archives and in the Memories of Nehemiah's time. It is recounted there that Nehemiah founded a library and collected the books dealing with the kings and the prophets, the writings of David and the letters of the kings about offerings.

¹⁴ In the same way, Judas has just gathered all the books dispersed on account of the war we suffered, and they are now in our possession. ¹⁵ So, if you need any of them, send someone to get them for you.

¹⁶ We said we are now about to celebrate the feast of the purification of the Temple; you will do well to celebrate these feast days also, ¹⁷ for God has saved all his people and returned to everyone his own land. He let us recover the kingdom, the Temple, and the worship rendered to him in that Temple, ¹⁸ as is commanded in his Law. God himself, as we do hope, will soon have mercy on us and gather us together from everywhere to the Holy Place, since he has rescued us from great evils and has purified this Place.

Author's preface

¹⁹ The story of Judas Maccabeus and his brothers has been written by Jason of Cyrene. He narrated the purification of the Temple of the Most High, the dedication of the altar, ²⁰ the wars against Antiochus Epiphanes and his son Eupator, ²¹ and the heavenly manifestations in favour of those who fought bravely and gloriously for Judaism. Although they were few in number, they liberated the whole land and put to flight hordes of foreigners. ²² They regained the Temple renowned throughout the world, liberated the city and re-established the laws which were nearly abolished, for the Lord was gracious to them in his great kindness. ²³ All this, which has been set forth in five volumes by Jason of Cyrene, we shall now attempt to sum up in a single book. ²⁴ We recognize that these books contain many figures, and that it is difficult for those who wish to understand this history because of so many facts. ²⁵ So we have concerned ourselves to offer something engaging for those who simply want to read, which is easily committed to memory, and profitable for anyone who reads it.

²⁹ For just as the architect of a new house has to be concerned about the whole construction, while the painters and decorators are concerned only about what relates to their task, so it is with us. ³⁰ The analysis of details and discussion on disputable points belongs to the historian. ³¹ But for one who tries to condense a report, his task is to summarize and not present a complete narration of facts and events.

³² So let us begin our narrative without going on at length about what has been said before, for it would be senseless to expand the preface while cutting short the narration of the history itself.

Heliodorus attempts to seize the temple treasures

3 ¹ While the Holy City enjoyed complete peace and the laws were observed as perfectly as possible through the piety of Onias the High Priest and his hatred for all wickedness, ² it came about that kings honoured the Holy Place and made the High Priest richer by their magnificent gifts. ³ Even Seleucus, king of Asia, paid from his own account for the expenses of the sacrificial services. ⁴ But a certain Simon, a priest of the tribe of Bilgah and the Temple administrator, came into conflict with the High Priest because he claimed that the inspection of the city markets should fall under his jurisdiction. ⁵ But he could not prevail over Onias. So he went to Apollonius of Tarsus, the governor of Coele-Syria and Phoenicia, ⁶ and reported to him that the treasury in Jerusalem was full of untold wealth, that there was a great amount of money which had nothing to do with the expenses required by the sacrifices, and that all this could easily be brought under the control of the king.

⁷ Apollonius met with the king and told him about the wealth that had been disclosed to him. The king then sent Heliodorus, who was in charge of his affairs, with a letter that authorized him to transfer the treasures. ⁸ Heliodorus at once set out on his journey, pretending that he was going to visit Coele-Syria and Phoenicia, but with the intention of carrying out the king's order.

⁹ On his arrival in Jerusalem, he was hospitably received by the city and the High Priest to whom he related the report that had been made. He revealed the reason for his coming and asked the High Priest if the report was really true. ¹⁰The High Priest explained that there were some deposits belonging to widows and orphans. ¹¹Some belonged to Hyrcanus, son of Tobias, a person of very prominent position, who had also been affected by these slanders. All in all, the treasury had four hundred talents of silver and two hundred of gold. ¹²Finally, Onias pointed out that it was utterly impossible to cheat those who had put their confidence in this Holy Place and in the inviolable majesty of that Temple venerated throughout the world.

¹³But, following the orders of the king, Heliodorus insisted that all those treasures should be turned over to the king. ¹⁴So, on the day set for Heliodorus to draw up the inventory, there was great disturbance in the city. ¹⁵The priests in their sacred vestments stood before the altar and called upon Heaven: he who had given the law governing deposits should now preserve them for those who had deposited them.

¹⁶None could look at the face of the High Priest without being deeply touched, for his appearance and his paleness revealed the anguish of his soul. ¹⁷A kind of fear overwhelmed him that made him tremble from head to foot, showing to those who saw him the sorrow of his heart. ¹⁸People rushed out of their houses in great confusion to pray together because the Holy Place was about to be profaned. ¹⁹The women, girded with sackcloth below their breasts, thronged into the streets. The younger girls who were not yet allowed to go out into the streets ran to the doorways, and some climbed the walls and others looked out from the windows. ²⁰All raised their hands to heaven and joined in prayer. ²¹It was touching to see such a crowd prostrate in disarray on the ground and the High Priest in great anguish.

²²While they were praying to the All-powerful Lord to protect the deposits of the Temple and keep them safe for those who entrusted them to the High Priest, ²³Heliodorus began to carry out what had been decided upon.

²⁴He had already come near the Treasury with his bodyguard, when the Lord of the spirits and of every power caused so great a manifestation that all who had dared accompany Heliodorus were astonished before the power of God, and they lost their strength and courage. ²⁵There appeared to them a horse with magnificent gear and on it was a fearsome rider. It rushed furiously at Heliodorus and struck at him with its forefeet. The rider appeared to have an armour of gold. ²⁶And two young man, strong and very beautiful and magnificently clothed, also appeared. They stood on each side of Heliodorus, and flogged him continuously, inflicting stroke after stroke.

²⁷Heliodorus fell to the ground, enveloped in great darkness; then his men took him up and put him on a stretcher. ²⁸So he was carried away, powerless even to help himself, he who but a moment before had proudly entered the treasury with a great retinue and all his bodyguard. Everyone clearly recognized the power of God. ²⁹Because of the divine intervention, Heliodorus became mute and lost all hope of saving his life. ³⁰Meanwhile the Jews blessed the Lord who had glorified his Holy Place. The Temple, which a little while before had been filled with terror and fear, now overflowed with joy and gladness because of the extraordinary manifestation of God.

³¹ Then some of Heliodorus' companions begged Onias to call upon the Most High to grant the grace of life to him who was at the point of death.

³³ While the High Priest was offering the sacrifice of atonement, the same young men, clothed in the same way, again appeared to Heliodorus, and standing before him, said, "Thank Onias the High Priest, for through him the Lord grants you the grace of life. ³⁴And as for you, who have been scourged by heaven's command, make known to all how great is the power of God." Having said this, they vanished.

³⁷ The king asked Heliodorus who could be sent again to Jerusalem to carry out what he failed to do. Heliodorus answered him, ³⁸ "If you have some enemy whom you wish to eliminate, send him there and you will see him return well flogged; that is, if he ever returns at all, for surely, divine power is in that place. ³⁹ He himself who dwells in heaven watches over the place and defends it, striking to death those who come to profane it."

⁴⁰ This was what happened to Heliodorus and how the Treasury was saved.

4 ¹ The Simon mentioned before as the informer about the treasures of the Temple, who was traitor to his country, spoke evil of Onias, accusing him of a plot against Heliodorus and saying that he was responsible for all the troubles. ² He even dared to accuse Onias of conspiring against the state, Onias who was the great benefactor of the city, the defender of his compatriots and a zealous observer of the laws. ³ The hostility between them reached such proportions that crimes were even committed by some of the supporters of Simon.

Cultural crisis

⁴ Onias recognized the dangers involved in such an unbearable rivalry. Even Apollonius, son of Menestheus, governor of Coele-Syria and Phoenicia, was instigating Simon to evil. ⁵ So Onias went to the king, not to accuse his fellow citizens, but for the good of the whole nation. ⁶ For he saw that it was impossible to maintain peace and stop the foolishness of Simon without the king's intervention.

¹⁰ With the consent of the king and using the power at his disposal, he at

7. 1 Mac 1, 10

+ We single out this paragraph which vividly describes the penetration by Greek culture. Should it be seen as progress or cultural colonization? See what is said to that effect in 1 Mac 1:4. Since the priests were better formed, they received the first shock of the cultural and spiritual crisis. Unfortunately for the Jews, at the time of the crisis, personal interests and politics are introduced in the appointment of the religious leaders.

once set about encouraging his fellow citizens to adopt the customs of the Greeks.¹¹ He suppressed the privileges that kings had granted to the Jews through John, the father of Eupolemus, who had established friendship and an alliance between the Romans and the Jews. He overthrew lawful institutions and introduced new customs contrary to the Law.

Greek customs were so much in vogue,¹⁴ that priests no longer showed any interest in serving at the altar. They despised the sanctuary and neglected the sacrifices and as soon as the discus throw began they would run to the stadium to take part in athletic competitions prohibited by the Law.¹⁵ They did not value anymore the customs of their fathers, but held in highest esteem the values of the Greeks.

¹⁶With this, they themselves were put in a difficult situation, for those whom they took as models and whose customs they wanted to imitate in everything proved to be their enemies and tyrants.¹⁷ They could not break the divine laws with impunity as the following episodes will show.

¹⁸When the quinquennial games held every five years were going on in Tyre before the king,¹⁹ the wicked Jason sent as envoys some "citizens of Antioch" from the inhabitants of Jerusalem and he entrusted to them three hundred drachmas of silver allotted for the sacrifice to Hercules.

When these envoys came, they decided that it was not fitting to spend the money on the sacrifice, but preferred to spend it on other things.²⁰ So through the sole initiative of those sent to spend the money for the sacrifice to Hercules, the amount was used instead for the construction of trireme ships.

²¹Antiochus had sent Apollonius, son of Menestheus, to Egypt to represent him in the enthronement of King Philometor. But when Antiochus learned that Philometor had become his political adversary, Antiochus was worried about his own safety.²² So, he left Joppa, and went to Jerusalem where he was well received by Jason and the whole city, entering the city in the midst of acclamations and torches. Then, he went with his troops to Phoenicia.

²⁷Menelaus held the office but did not pay the amount he promised to the king,²⁸ although Sostratus, the commander of the Citadel, demanded the payment, since the king had entrusted to him the collection of revenue. The two of them were then summoned by the king because of this.²⁹ Menelaus left his brother Lysimachus as his substitute, and Sostratus left Crates, the commander of the Cypriots.

Murder of Onias

³⁰Meanwhile, the inhabitants of Tarsus and Mallus revolted because their cities were given as a gift to Antiochis, the king's concubine.³¹ The king set out at once to re-establish order, leaving Andronicus, one of his ministers, in his place.³² Menelaus thought of taking advantage of the opportunity, and stole some of the golden vessels from the Temple, which he then gave to Andronicus as gifts. He also managed to sell others in Tyre and in the neighbouring cities.

³³ When Onias had clear evidence of what Menelaus had done, he sought refuge in Daphne near Antioch, a place of asylum, and from there denounced him. ³⁴ For this reason, Menelaus met Andronicus in private and urged him to kill Onias. Andronicus went to Onias and deceitfully gained his confidence, offering Onias his right hand in oath. He was able to persuade Onias, in spite of the latter's suspicion, to come out of his place of refuge. Then, Andronicus at once killed him, without any regard for justice.

³⁶ When the king returned to the regions of Coele-Syria, the Jews of Jerusalem, together with the Greeks who were for justice, went to see him and complained about the murder of Onias.

³⁷ The king was touched and became sad, and even wept as he remembered the personality and noble conduct of the departed. ³⁸ He became angry with Andronicus and immediately removed him from office. Then he ordered that Andronicus be divested of his purple robe, tore his garments off him, and led him all around the city up to the place where Andronicus had murdered Onias, and right there the king ordered that he be put to death – God dealing out to him the punishment he deserved.

⁴³ Because of all this a charge was brought against Menelaus and ⁴⁴ when the king arrived at Tyre, three men sent by the council of the elders of Jerusalem told him of Menelaus' cruelty. ⁴⁵ Seeing his ruin, Menelaus promised a great amount of money to Ptolemy, son of Dorymenes, in order to have the king in his favour.

⁴⁶ Ptolemy then went with the king privately to a colonnade for some fresh air, and persuaded him to change his mind. ⁴⁷ The king actually dismissed all the accusations against Menelaus, the cause of all this evil, while he condemned to death Menelaus' unfortunate accusers who would have been acquitted had a tribunal of barbarians judged them. ⁴⁸ So those who had defended the cause of the city, the people and the sacred vessels were executed at once.

⁴⁹ Some Tyrians were so enraged by that crime that they prepared a magnificent funeral for them. ⁵⁰ But through the corruption of the rulers, Menelaus remained in power, growing in wickedness and becoming a tyrant towards his own people.

Antiochus sacks the Temple

5 ¹ By this time, Antiochus was preparing a second expedition against Egypt. ² And for nearly forty days, there appeared throughout the city, galloping through the air, horsemen dressed in gold. ³ Troops with swords drawn and formed in squadrons, cavalry squadrons in order of battle, attacks and charges from this side and that, movements of shields, many spears, arrows, missiles, the glitter of golden outfits and armour of all kinds. ⁴ Everyone prayed that these apparitions would be an announcement of something good about to happen.

⁵ As a false rumor spread that Antiochus had died, Jason gathered together about ten thousand men and launched a surprise attack on the city. The troops upon the walls defended the city, but once these were taken, the whole city fell into the hands of Jason, while Menelaus took refuge in the citadel. ⁶ Jason cruelly massacred his fellow citizens, without realizing that his victory against his own nation was the greatest defeat. He seemed to believe that he was winning over enemies when, in reality, these were his own people. ⁷ But he did not stay in power for long and after obtaining nothing but shame for himself, he had to flee once again to the land of Ammon. ⁸ Finally, he had a very unfortunate end. Accused before Aretas, the king of the Arabs, fleeing from city to city, pursued by all, scorned as a renegade from the law and hated as the executioner of his country and fellow citizens, he was banished to Egypt. ⁹ And he, who had exiled so many from their own country, died in exile: for he went as far as Lacedemonia in the hope of finding protection there because of the kinship between that people and ours. ¹⁰ He, who had deprived so many of burial places, died with no one to mourn him, no funeral rites nor place in the tomb of his fathers.

¹¹ When news of these events reached the king, he thought that the whole of Judea had risen in rebellion. He became furious and, leaving Egypt, went to take Jerusalem by force. ¹² He ordered his soldiers to kill without mercy everyone they encountered and behead as well all those who took refuge in their houses. ¹³ Young and old perished; men, women and children were massacred, and infants and virgins were put to the sword. ¹⁴ Within only three days, there were eighty thousand victims – forty thousand perished in the slaughter and as many were sold as slaves. ¹⁵ Not content with this, Antiochus boldly entered the holiest Temple in the entire world, guided by Menelaus, the traitor to the law and country.

¹⁸ For, had the city not been sinful, Antiochus would have been flogged the moment he entered, as Heliodorus who was sent by Seleucus to rob the treasury had been. And he would have also repented of his audacity. ¹⁹ But God had not chosen the people for the Temple, but the Temple for the sake of the nation.

²⁰ Therefore, the Temple also shared in the nation's misfortune, as it also shared afterward in its restoration. As it had been abandoned in the time of the wrath of God, it was again restored to its glory when the Most High Lord was appeased.

²⁷ Judas Maccabeus, however, withdrew into the desert with about nine others willing to live like the wild beasts. There they fed on clean vegetables, for they did not want to eat unclean meat.

First victims of persecution

■ 6 ¹ After a while, the king sent an older Athenian to force the Jews to abandon their ancestral laws and live no longer according to the laws of God. ² And to have them also profane the temple in Jerusalem and dedicate it to the Olympian god. In the same way, he wanted them to dedicate the temple in Mount Gerizim to the hospitable god, according to the wishes of the inhabitants of the place.

³ This worsened the evil and made it difficult and unbearable for all.

■ Religious persecution as it is experienced by the people means:

- obligatory suppression of religious customs;
- sexual licentiousness disguised as cultural progress;
- violence against those who remain faithful to God;
- abandoning the humble and women faced with the cruelty of the law and of the people.

The moral crisis continues in the wake of the trials that good people are going through: How can God allow this?

An answer is given: the goal of these trials is to correct God's people. The Jews know that God's mercy is present in the trial.

⁴ The Temple was profaned by the orgies of the pagans who went there to have a good time with prostitutes, and had sexual intercourse in the sacred enclosures. And besides, they brought into the Temple things not permitted by the Law;⁵ the altar was laden with unclean victims prohibited by the law.⁶ It was no longer allowed to celebrate the sabbath or observe the customs of our fathers, or even to declare oneself a Jew.⁷ But, on the contrary, they were led by bitter necessity to celebrate the king's birthday with a monthly sacrifice.

And when the feast of Dionysus came, they were also forced to follow the Dionysus procession and wear floral wreaths.

⁸ At the suggestion of the inhabitants of Ptolemy, a decree was sent to the neighbouring Greek cities ordering them to treat the Jews who lived there, in the same way and oblige them to participate in the sacrifices.⁹ Those who would not adopt the Greek customs were to be beheaded. So it was easy to foresee the fatal outcome.

¹⁰ Two women were charged of having performed the rite of circumcision on their sons. They publicly paraded the women throughout the city with their babies hung at their breasts. Then they hurled them down from the city wall.¹¹ Others who had assembled in a cave to celebrate the sabbath were denounced to Philip and they allowed themselves to be burned. Because of the holiness of the sabbath day, they had scruples about defending themselves.

¹² I now ask the readers of this book

not to be shocked by these calamities. Bear in mind that this did not happen for the destruction of our race, but rather for our education.

¹³ God is showing his kindness when he does not let sinners continue on their way for a long time, but punishes them at once.¹⁴ As for the other nations, the patient Lord doesn't punish them until they reach the full measure of their sins. But he deals with us in a different manner:¹⁵ he does not wait until we have reached the full measure in order to punish us.¹⁶ Therefore he never withdraws his mercy from us, and does not abandon his people, even when he punishes us with some adversity.

¹⁷ After reminding our readers of these truths, let us continue the story.

The martyrdom of Eleazar

◆ ¹⁸ Eleazar, one of the prominent teachers of the Law, already old and of noble appearance, was forced to open his mouth to eat the flesh of a pig.¹⁹ But he preferred to die honourably than to live in disgrace and voluntarily came to the place where they beat him to death. He spit out bravely the piece of meat,²⁰ as should be done by those who do not want to do things prohibited by the Law, even to save their life.

²¹ Those in charge of this impious banquet took him aside, since they had known him for a long time, and tried to convince him to pretend to be eating the meat, but in reality, to eat something allowed by the Law and prepared by himself.²² In this way, he could escape death, and be treated

◆ How noble are Eleazar's words:
- He does not want to hide his faith.
- He prefers honor to life.
- Above all he fears God.
- To die out of faithfulness to divine laws sets a noble example for young people.

- Eleazar suffers physically, but he dies happy.
We have in him the prototype, the model of the martyr.

²³ But he preferred to make a noble decision worthy of his age and of the irreproachable life he had led from childhood. Above all, showing respect for the holy laws established by God, he answered that he would rather be sent to the place of the dead. And he added, ²⁴ "It would be unworthy to pretend at our age, and to lead many young people to suppose that I, at ninety years, have gone over to the pagan customs. ²⁵ If I led them astray in this way I would bring disgrace to my old age. ²⁶ Even if I could now be saved from men, I cannot – whether living or dead – escape from the hands of the Almighty. ²⁷ I prefer to bravely sacrifice my life now, as befits my old age. ²⁸ So I shall leave an excellent example to the young, dying valiantly for the sacred and holy laws."

Having said this, he gave himself over to death.

²⁹ Those who escorted him considered his words foolishness, so their previous gentleness turned into harshness.

³⁰ When he was almost at the point of death, he cried out, "The Holy Lord, who sees all, knows that though I could have saved myself from death, I now endure terrible sufferings in my body. But in my soul, I suffer gladly because of the respect I have for him."

³¹ In his death, he left a noble example and a memorial of virtue and strength, not only to the young but to the whole nation.

Martyrdom of the seven brothers o7 ¹ It happened also that seven brothers were arrested with their mother. The king had them scourged and flogged to force them to eat the flesh of a pig which was prohibited by the Law.

⁵ When he had been thoroughly mutilated, the king ordered that while still breathing, he be brought to the fire and roasted alive. While the smoke from the pan spread widely, the other brothers and their mother encouraged one another to die bravely. And they said, ⁶ "The Lord God sees all, and in reality, has compassion on us, as Moses declared in his song, and clearly said: The Lord will have pity on his servants." ⁷ When the first had left the world in this way, they brought the second for execution. After stripping the skin with the hair from his head, they asked him: "Which do you prefer: to eat the flesh of a pig or to be tortured limb by o In relating the martyrdom of those seven brothers, whose names are unknown, the author places on their lips the declaration of their faith in immortality. This is the most valuable message of the book.

In the previous centuries, God's promises had been for the people as a whole. The believer was only hoping for the life and prosperity of his race.

Here, we have a giant step in the faith: the resurrection of individuals. It is not only the hope for the survival of the spirit, or the soul: the believer thinks he will be raised as a person to meet God. In Ezekiel 37, in the vision of the dry bones, God was promising to raise his people who had died. Here, every person hopes to rise, body and soul, to share the happiness that God promised and will give on the final day.

If martyrs are not raised, how could God achieve justice?

limb?" ⁸He answered them in the language of his ancestors, "I will not eat." And so he, too, was tortured.

⁹At the moment of his last breath, he said, "Murderer, you dismiss us from this present life, but the King of the world will raise us up. He will give us eternal life since we die for his laws."

¹⁰After this, they punished the third. He stuck his tongue out when asked to, bravely stretched forth his hands, ¹¹and even had the courage to say: "I have received these limbs from God, but for love of his laws I now consider them as nothing. For I hope to recover them from God." ¹²The king and his court were touched by the courage of this young man, so unconcerned about his own sufferings.

¹⁵They took the fifth at once and tortured him. But with his eyes fixed on the king, ¹⁶he said to him, "Though you are mortal, you have authority over people and are able to do what you will. But do not think that our race has been abandoned by God. ¹⁷Wait, and you shall see his great power when he torments you and your descendants."

¹⁸After this, they took the sixth who, at the point of death, said, "Don't be mistaken. We suffer all this because of ourselves for we have sinned against our own God; so these astonishing things have come upon us. ¹⁹But do not think that you are going to remain unpunished, after having made war with God."

²²"I wonder how you were born of me; it was not I who gave you breath and life, nor I who ordered the matter of your body. ²³The Creator of the world who formed man in the beginning and ordered the unfolding of all creation shall in his mercy, give you back breath and life, since you now despise them for love of his laws."

²⁴Antiochus thought that she was making fun of him and suspected that she had insulted him. As the youngest was still alive, the king tried to win him over not only with his words, but even promised to make him rich and happy, if he would abandon the traditions of his fathers. He would make him his Friend and appoint him to a high position in the kingdom. ²⁵But as the young man did not pay him any attention, the king ordered the mother to be brought in. He urged her to advise her son in order to save his life. ²⁶After being asked twice by the king, she agreed to persuade her son. ²⁷She bent over him and fooled the cruel tyrant by saying in her ancestral language:

"My son, have pity on me. For nine months, I carried you in my womb and suckled you for three years; I raised you up and educated you until this day. ²⁸I ask you now, my son, that when you see the heavens, the earth and all that is in it, you know that God made all this from nothing, and the human race as well. ²⁹Do not fear these executioners, but make yourself worthy of your brothers – accept death that you may again meet your brothers in the time of mercy."

³⁰When she finished speaking, the young man said, "What are you waiting for? I do not obey the king's order but the precepts of the Law given by Moses to our fathers. ³¹And you who have devised such tortures against the Hebrews, shall not escape the hands of God. ³²Know that we perish because of our sins. ³³Our living Lord punishes and corrects us for a short time because he is angry with us, but he shall again be reconciled with his servants.

³⁴And you, the most wretched and impious man, do not be proud or be carried away by your vain hopes. Do not raise your hand against the sons of Heaven, ³⁵for you have not yet escaped the judgment of the almighty God, who sees everything. ³⁶My brothers after brief suffering, have entered everlasting life in the friendship of God. But you, for your part, shall suffer the punishment you deserve for your arrogance.

³⁷With my brothers, I give up my body and my life for the laws of my fathers, calling on God that he may at once have pity on our race, and that by trials and afflictions, you may come to confess that he is the only God. ³⁸Through me and my brothers, may the wrath of the Almighty which has justly fallen on the whole of our race come to an end."

³⁹The king was even more infuriated at him than at the others because of his mockery and he dealt more cruelly with him. ⁴⁰So the youngest also died undefiled, putting his whole trust in God. ⁴¹After all her sons, the mother also died.

⁴²This is enough to make known what happened regarding the pagan sacrifices and the tortures beyond all imagination.

First exploits of Judas Maccabeus

8 ¹Meanwhile Judas, also called Maccabeus, and his companions, would enter secretly into the villages, all their relatives, summon those who has remained faithful to Judaism, and they finally assembled about six thousand men. ²They prayed to the Lord to turn his countenance on his people oppressed on all sides, to take pity on the Sanctuary profaned by impious men, ³to have compassion on the city – destroyed and on the point of being levelled – to listen to the cry of the blood reaching out to him; ⁴and they asked that he not forget the unjust killing of innocent children and show his indignation against those who had insulted his Name.

⁵The Lord's anger turned into compassion, and as soon as Maccabeus had organized his troops, they became invincible against the pagans.

Judas generally took advantage of the night for his military campaigns. ⁶So he attacked them by surprise, set cities and villages on fire, captured strategic positions, and put to flight many of the enemies. ⁷And people everywhere talked about him and his bravery.

⁸When Philip saw that Judas was making progress little by little and his victories increased from day to day, he wrote to Ptolemy, the military commissioner of Coele-Syria and Phoenicia, to come and help him under the king's service. ⁹Ptolemy at once appointed Nicanor, son of Patroclus, one of the king's first Friends, and sent him at the head of some twenty thousand men coming from all nations, with the order to wipe out all the Jews. At his side, he put Gorgias, a general of much experience in matters of war.

¹⁰Nicanor intended to raise two thousand talents by the sale of Jewish slaves in order to pay for the tribute the king owed to the Romans. ¹¹So he extended an invitation to all the coastal cities to come and buy slaves for a talent, without any regard for the punishment of the Almighty that might come upon him.

¹²When Judas learned that Nicanor had come with a great army, he told his men about this. ¹³So the cowardly and those who had no confidence in divine justice took to flight. ¹⁴Still others sold everything they owned and asked God to deliver from the impious Nicanor those who had been sold even before any battle. ¹⁵They prayed that if the Lord would not save them because of their own merits, that at least out of consideration for the covenant he made with their fathers and for that great venerable Name with which he had blessed his people, he would do so.

¹⁶Maccabeus gathered and reorganized his troops, numbering about six thousand, and exhorted them not to fear the enemy but to fight bravely against their unjust aggressors, despite their great number. ¹⁷He reminded them how those men had profaned the Holy Place, slaughtered the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and removed their traditional institutions. ¹⁸He said to them, "They come with confidence in their weapons and their boldness, but we trust in the almighty God, who is able to wipe out in one stroke all who invade our land and even the whole world." ¹⁹He recounted to them all the occasions when God had come to help their fathers, especially when he wiped out one hundred and eighty-five thousand men under Sennacherib. ²⁰He also reminded them of what had happened in Babylonia, in the battle against the Galatians. On that day, eight thousand Jews fought side by side with four thousand Macedonians, and as the Macedonians were hard pressed, their Jewish allies alone killed twenty thousand of the enemies' troops with heaven's help and seized a great booty.

²¹Judas encouraged them with these words, and made them ready to die for their laws and country; then, he divided the army into four groups. ²²He assigned his brothers Simon, Joseph and Jonathan to each lead one division with fifteen hundred men in each. ²³He ordered that the Sacred Book be read, and he gave them their watchword "Help from God;" then, he himself led the first battalion, fell on Nicanor, ²⁴wounded and crippled many, and put the rest to flight.

²⁵They seized the money of those who had come to buy the Jews, and pursued them for a good while. But it was nearly evening, ²⁶so they had to return because it was the vigil of the sabbath. That is why they stopped pursuing their enemies. ²⁷They gathered the weapons and the plunder of their enemies, and celebrated the sabbath on that day when God had begun to show them his mercy. ²⁸After the sabbath, they divided part of the booty among those who had been tortured, the widows and the orphans; and they divided the rest among themselves and their men. ²⁹Having done this, they asked the Merciful Lord during a public prayer to be fully reconciled with his servants.

³⁰Then, in an encounter with the army of Timotheus and Bacchides, they killed more than twenty thousand men, and took control of the fortified cities. They divided the abundant plunder into equal shares among themselves, those who had been tortured, the orphans, the widows and the aged.

³⁴The thrice-as-wretched Nicanor, who had brought thousands of merchants to buy the Jews, ³⁵found himself humbled with God's help by those same men he had despised before. Having discarded his splendid robe he fled across the country as a fugitive, and reached Antioch, very much relieved that he had not perished with his army.

³⁶He who had intended to pay the tribute owed to the Romans by selling the Jews, now affirmed that the Jews were invincible and invulnerable, and that Someone fought for them, provided they were obeying the laws prescribed by him.

Death of the persecutor

9 ¹By that time, Antiochus had to return with haste from the regions of Persia.

²When he entered a city called Persopolis, and tried to plunder the temple and seize the city, its inhabitants rebelled and took up arms against him. This people threw Antiochus and his men out. They fled very much humiliated. ³When Antiochus came to Ecbatana, he was informed of what had happened to the two generals – Nicanor and Timotheus – in Israel. ⁴He was infuriated and determined to take revenge on the Jews for the offense he had just received in Persepolis when they forced him to flee.

He ordered the chariot driver to hurry up and not to stop until the journey's end. But the judgment of God was coming upon him, for he said in his pride, "As soon as I arrive in Jerusalem, I shall turn it into a cemetery of the Jews."

⁵Then the Lord who sees all, the God of Israel, punished him with an incurable sickness of an internal nature. He had barely finished speaking when he felt an unbearable pain in his stomach and began to be afflicted all over his body.

⁸Not long before, in his conceit and sense of superiority he thought of reigning from the mountains to the seas. Now he had to be brought on a stretcher, giving to all a clear testimony of the power of God. ⁹So decayed was his body that it was full of worms and though he was still alive, his flesh tore off into pieces, leaving him in agonizing pain. The stench of his decay was so intolerable that his whole army shunned him. ¹⁰No one went near him who not long before thought he could touch the stars of heaven with his hand. ¹¹Only when he was afflicted with those wounds did he begin to shed his arrogance. His pains grew worse, and he realized this was the punishment of God. ¹²He himself could no longer endure his stench. He said, "It is right to submit to God. Mortal man should not try to be equal with him." ¹³And the wretch entreated the Lord who would no longer take pity on him.

¹⁴He had marched to Jerusalem to level it and turn it into a cemetery. But now he even promised to reconstruct and declare it a free city. ¹⁵Moreover, he who before had refused burial to the Jews and wished to throw them with their children to the wild beasts, now offered to make them equal with the Athenians. He had plundered the temple and profaned the Sacred Place; ¹⁶but now he promised to decorate it lavishly, to return a great number of the sacred vessels, and to pay for all the expenses of the sacrifices. ¹⁷And he promised to become a Jew and to proclaim everywhere the power of God.

¹⁸His pains however did not diminish for the just judgment of God had come upon him. He lost hope of recovery and wrote to the Jews this letter of supplication, ¹⁹"To the honourable Jewish citizens, good health, prosperity and all good things from the king and general, Antiochus. ²⁰If you and your children are well and your wishes are fulfilled, we give thanks to Heaven, for we remember your token of affection and kindness. ²¹On my return from Persia, I became gravely ill, and because of this, I thought it necessary to be concerned for the common security of all of you. ²²I do not despair of my condition, and even have great hope of recovering from this illness. ²³But I thought of how my father would designate his successor whenever he set out for any military expedition into the uplands, ²⁴so that his subjects would not be upset if anything unexpected should happen or any misfortune should befall him. Everyone would know who is in power. ²⁵I am aware that neighbouring kings and provinces are watching the turn of events and waiting for an opportune time. Therefore, I have designated my son, Antiochus, as king. I already presented and commended him to most of you, when I set out for the northern regions. And now I communicate to him this letter I am sending you. ²⁶I ask you, then, to take into account the favours each and every one of you has received from me and maintain the same kindness toward me and my son. ²⁷I am sure that following my own policies of moderation and humanity, he shall live in good accord with you."

²⁸In this way that blasphemer and murderer ended, suffering terrible torments. He

+ The way God does justice. Antiochus' death is told differently in 1 Mac 6, which leads us to think that everything is not correct in this popular story. However, the author made no mistake in showing the change that illness and suffering bring about in the powerful.

At that moment, they see what they really are, and they become aware of their pride. They discover the connection between their present humiliations and those they inflicted on others. They promise to change their ways, though a bit late, as long as God grants them life.

The end of the persecutor shows that, if indeed God's real punishment is for the after life, there are also sins so abominable that they are punished in this world, to be an example for others and to console the afflicted and the oppressed.

died miserably in the mountains of a foreign land. ²⁹His companion, Philip, brought his body and then withdrew to Egypt to the court of Ptolemy Philometor, because he feared the son of Antiochus.

⁵ The purification of the Temple took place on the same date on which the foreigners had profaned it, that is on the twenty-fifth of the month of Chislev. ⁶ For eight days they celebrated the feast with rejoicing, in the same way that they celebrated the Feast of the Tabernacles remembering how, not long before on that same date, they were hiding in the mountains and caves like wild animals.

⁷ Then, carrying leafy branches and palms, they chanted hymns to Him who had brought the cleansing of his own Holy Place to a happy end.

⁸ They also decided by public vote that this event would be commemorated annually by the whole Jewish nation.

Victories of Judas in Idumea

⁹ We have just said how Antiochus, called Epiphanes, died. ¹⁰ We shall now proceed to narrate the events that happened under Antiochus Eupator, son of the impious, and to relate briefly the calamities brought about by the war.

¹¹ In fact, once he inherited the kingdom, he appointed Lysias to be in charge of his affairs and act as high commissioner for Coele-Syria and Phoenicia. ¹² Now Ptolemy, called Macron, was the first governor to do justice to the Jews. He was upset by injustices done against them, so he tried to solve all their problems satisfactorily. ¹³ But the Friends of King Eupator made use of this to accuse him before the king. They continually called him a traitor, reminding him that he had once abandoned the land of Cyprus, which had been entrusted to him by Philometor, in order to go over to Antiochus Epiphanes.

Since he could not discharge his high office with dignity, he was driven to despair and committed suicide by poisoning himself.

¹⁴ It was then that Gorgias was appointed military commissioner of those regions, and began to pay soldiers to harass the Jews and, ¹⁵ gathering the fugitives from Jerusalem, managed to prolong the war.

²⁰ Yet the men of Simon were tempted by greed, and let themselves be bought with the silver of those in the towers. So in exchange for sixty thousand pieces of silver, they allowed a number of them escape. ²¹ As soon as Maccabeus learned this, he assembled the leaders of the people and accused those men of having sold their brothers for money by letting their enemies escape. ²² He condemned them to death as traitors, and proceeded at once to capture the towers. ²³ He killed more than twenty thousand men in those two towers, successfully bringing to an end the undertaking they had begun.

²⁷ After praying, they armed themselves and advanced from the city. They stopped when they came close to the enemy. ²⁸ Right at daybreak, the battle was settled. One side placed their confidence in their Lord as the pledge of success and victory besides their bravery, while the others were moved by hatred. ²⁹When the battle was at its height, there appeared from heaven before the enemies, five radiant men riding on horses with golden bridles, who put themselves at the head of the Jews.

³⁰They surrounded Maccabeus and defended him with their weapons, making him invulnerable. At the same time, they rained arrows and thunderbolts on the enemy, who in turn fell and were dispersed in great disorder, blinded and confused. ³¹Twenty thousand five hundred infantrymen and six hundred horsemen died.

³⁷They killed Timothy who had hidden in a well, and his brother Chereas, and Apolophanes. ³⁸When all this was over, they chanted hymns and praises to the Lord who had exalted Israel and had given them victory.

First campaign of Lysias

11 ¹After a while, Lysias, the king's tutor and kinsman, who was head of the government, was much displeased at the turn of events, ²and gathered together about eighty thousand men and his entire cavalry. They advanced against the Jews intending to make the city of Jerusalem a Greek colony and ³to convert the Temple into a source of revenue, as they had done with other sanctuaries of the pagans, and to put the office of high priest up for sale every year.

⁶When the men of Maccabeus learned that Lysias had begun laying siege to their strong cities, they prayed to the Lord together with all the people, with tears and lamentations, that the Lord might send a good angel to save Israel. ⁷Maccabeus himself was the first to take arms and exhort the rest to go with him to face the danger and help their brothers and sisters. They set out together, full of enthusiasm. ⁸While they were still near Jerusalem, a horseman dressed in white with golden armour appeared and stood at the head of them. ⁹So with one voice, everyone blessed the merciful God. They were strengthened and prepared not only to face men in battle but even the most savage beasts and walls of iron.

¹³Lysias, being an intelligent man, reflected on the defeat he had suffered and understood that the Hebrews were invincible because the powerful God fought for them. ¹⁴So he sent a messenger to convince them to accept peace with every kind of just condition. And he even promised to persuade the king to make peace with them, too.

¹⁵Maccabeus, thinking of the common good of all, accepted Lysias' offer of peace. And in fact, the king granted all the demands that Maccabeus had presented to Lysias in writing. ¹⁶Lysias wrote to them as follows:

"From Lysias to the Jewish people, greetings. ¹⁷John and Absalom, your envoys, have delivered to us your written petitions, asking us to respond. ¹⁸I have set forth before the king everything that needed his attention; and I have granted everything that was within my competence. ¹⁹Therefore, if you maintain your good will toward the State, I will also try in the future to work in your favour. ²⁰As for the details, I have given orders for your envoys and my own representatives to discuss these with you. ²¹May everything go well with you. In the year one hundred and forty-eight, the twenty-fourth day of the month of the Corinthian God."

²²The king's letter was as follows: "King Antiochus greets his brother Lysias. ²³From the day we succeeded to the throne of our father, who has gone to the dwelling place of the gods, it has been our desire that all our subjects live undisturbed so that everyone may dedicate himself to his own work.²⁴ Learning that the Jews do not wish to adopt Greek customs, as it was the will of my father, but prefer their own way of life and ask that they be allowed to live according to their laws,²⁵ and since it is our desire that this nation live in peace, we have decreed that the Temple be restored to them and that they be allowed to live according to the laws and customs of their fathers.

²⁶ You will do well, therefore, to send envoys to conclude a treaty of peace with them. May they come to know our constant aim, so they may be reassured and dedicate themselves with joy to their own occupations."

²⁷ This was the king's letter to the Jewish people: "King Antiochus to the Council of Elders and to the Jewish people: greetings! ²⁸ If you enjoy good health, we are happy for you; we ourselves are also well.

²⁹ Menelaus has told us that you wish to return to your homes and occupations. ³⁰ Therefore, I have issued a decree of amnesty for all who would go home before the thirtieth of the month of Xanthicus. ³¹ The Jews from now on may live according to their own customs concerning their food, and be governed by their own laws as before. None of them is to be molested in any way for anything done in the past. ³² I have ordered Menelaus to reassure you of all this. ³³ I wish you good health. In the year one hundred and forty-eight, the fifteenth day of the month of Xanthicus."

³⁴ The Romans also sent them a letter which read as follows: "Quintus Memmius and Titus Manius, ambassadors of the Romans, send their greetings to the Jewish people. ³⁵ Everything that Lysias, the king's kinsman, has granted you, we also approve. ³⁶ As for the matters about which Lysias considered it necessary to inform the king and take up with him, we ask that you study them carefully and send someone to us at once, so we can explain everything to the king to your advantage, for we are now leaving for Antioch.

³⁷ Lose no time, therefore, in sending someone to us, that we may know your plans. ³⁸ We wish you good health. In the fifteenth of the month of Xanthicus in the year one hundred and forty-eight."

Victories against neighbouring peoples

12 ¹ After these agreements had been concluded, Lysias returned to the king and the Jews began to return to their fields.

² But the commanders of the different regions, Timotheus and Apollonius, the son of Geneus, as well as Hieronymus and Domophenes, and Nicanor, the leader of the Cypriots, would not let them live in peace and quiet.

⁸ Meanwhile, he learned that the inhabitants of Jamnia wanted to deal in the same way with the Jews who lived there. ⁹ He also attacked the people of Jamnia by night, and set the harbour and ships on fire. The blaze was so great that the glow could be seen even from Jerusalem, some fifty kilometres away.

¹⁰ From there, they set out and marched against Timotheus, but when they had marched for about two kilometres, five thousand Arabs supported by five hundred horses, attacked them. ¹¹ A bloody battle took place, and the men of Judas emerged victorious with the help of God. The defeated Arabs sued for peace, and promised to give them livestock, and to help them in the future. ¹² Judas, convinced that they could indeed be useful to them, made peace with them. Then the Arabs withdrew to their camps.

¹³ Judas attacked a city strongly fortified with ditches and walls. The city was called Caspin. People of every race lived there. ¹⁴ The besieged, confident in the strength of their walls and because they had their storehouses full of provisions, underestimated the men of Judas and behaved most insolently toward them. They also shouted insults, blasphemies and sacrilegious words at them. ¹⁵ The men of Judas called on the great Sovereign of the world who had demolished the walls of Jericho without engines of war during the time of Joshua, and then rushed furiously upon the walls.¹⁶ God willed that they should take possession of the city, and they slaughtered so many that the nearby lake, five hundred meters wide, seemed filled with blood.

The battle of Carnaim

¹⁷ After marching for one hundred and fifty kilometres, they arrived in Charax, where the Jews were known as Tubians.¹⁸ They did not find Timotheus there, for he had gone without having achieved anything; but he had left a strong garrison in one place.¹⁹ Dositheus and Sosipater, leaders of the troops of Maccabeus, marched against them and destroyed the garrison of more than ten thousand men left behind by Timotheus.

²³ Judas pursued Timotheus in fury and ardour, putting to the sword those wicked men and killing about thirty thousand of them.

²⁴ Timotheus himself fell into the hands of Dositheus' and Sosipater's troops. He very cunningly pleaded with them to let him go, for, as he said, he had the parents and brothers of most of the Jews in his power and they would surely be put to death if he were to be killed.

²⁵ When he had convinced them by the strength of his words that he would let their brothers return safe and sound, they let him go.

²⁶ Then Judas left for Carnaim and Atargateion, and killed twenty-five thousand men there.²⁷ After defeating and destroying these enemies, he led an expedition against the walled city of Ephron, where Lysias had taken refuge with people of every race. Strong young men were stationed outside the walls and they fought bravely. And there were stores of war engines and missiles inside.

²⁸ After calling on the Lord almighty to crush the forces of the enemy, the Jews seized the city and killed more than twenty-five thousand of the people inside.²⁹ Moving off from there, they went to Scythopolis, a city one hundred and twenty kilometres from Jerusalem.³⁰ But as the Jews who lived there assured Judas that the inhabitants of that city had always treated them well and had received them favourably in times of persecution,³¹ Judas and his men thanked these people and asked them to extend the same kindness to his race in the future. Then they returned to Jerusalem, since the feast of Weeks of Pentecost was approaching.

³⁵ Dositheus, a horseman from Bachenor's troops, a very valiant man, grasped Gorgias by the cloak, and forcibly dragged him along, wanting to take that criminal alive. But a Thracian horseman rushed upon Dositheus and slashed his shoulder, so that Gorgias was able to flee to Marisa.³⁶ Judas saw that the men of Esdrias were exhausted because they had been fighting for a long time. He, therefore, prayed to the Lord to show himself as their ally and lead them in battle.³⁷ Then, he chanted a battle hymn in the language of their fathers, charged against the troops of Gorgias all of a sudden, and defeated them.

Sacrifice for the fallen

o ³⁸ Judas reorganized his army, and then went to the city of Adullam. Since it was the week's end, they purified themselves and celebrated the sabbath there.³⁹ The next day they

o Judas' soldiers feel encouraged in their faith when they find that their companions who died in the war deserved it because of some sin. Before, as for example in the days of Joshua, believers were resigned to accept God's justice and they were not concerned about their guilty brothers (see Jos 7).

Now, Judas' companions are concerned: did those who sinned stop being our brothers? They belonged to God's people as we do: being raised to life, will they not share a happy future with us?

Hence, Judas' initiative and the prayer for the dead. They have just discovered the solidarity among the members of God's people, the living and the dead.

came to Judas to have the bodies of the dead taken away and buried with their relatives in the tombs of their fathers. ⁴⁰ They found under the tunic of each of the dead men objects consecrated to the idols of Jamnia, which the Law forbade the Jews to wear. So they realized why these men had died.

⁴¹ Everyone blessed the intervention of the Lord, the just Judge who brings to light the most secret deeds; ⁴² and they prayed to the Lord to completely pardon the sin of their dead companions. The valiant Judas urged his men to shun such sin in the future, for they had just seen with their own eyes what had happened to those who sinned. ⁴³ He took up a collection among his soldiers which amounted to two thousand pieces of silver and sent it to Jerusalem to be offered there as a sacrifice for sin.

They did all this very well and rightly inspired by their belief in the resurrection of the dead. ⁴⁴ If they did not believe that their fallen companions would rise again, then it would have been a useless and foolish thing to pray for them. ⁴⁵ But they firmly believed in a splendid reward for those who died as believers; therefore, their concern was holy and in keeping with faith.

⁴⁶ This was the reason why Judas offered this sacrifice for the dead – so that the dead might be pardoned for their sin.

Antiochus invades Judea

13 ¹ In the year one hundred and forty-nine, the men of Judas learned that Antiochus Eupator had come against Judea with countless troops, ² together with Lysias, his tutor who was head of the government. Each of them was in command of a Greek army of one hundred and ten thousand infantrymen, five thousand and three hundred horsemen, twenty-two elephants and about three hundred chariots of war with scythes.

So the king ordered that Menelaus be taken to Berea and executed according to the custom of the place. ⁵ There is a tower in that place, twenty-five metres high, full of burning ashes, provided with a revolving device on top, which sloped on all sides into ashes. ⁶ Whoever robbed any sacred thing or committed any other notorious crime was brought up to the tower, and then, pushed into the ashes. ⁷ In this way, Menelaus died without even a burial. ⁸ This was indeed a just punishment for him who had committed so many offences against the Altar whose fire and ashes were sacred; and so, he met his death in ashes.

⁹ The king came with a heart full of evil designs, prepared to be more cruel to the Jews, than his father had been. ¹⁰ When Judas learned of this, he ordered his army to call on God day and night, so that as God had done in other circumstances, he would now also help those ¹¹ who were in danger of being deprived of their Law, their country and their temple. God could not let his people, who had hardly begun to breathe freely, fall once again into the hands of blasphemous pagans.

¹⁷ All this happened just as day was dawning, for God's help protected them.

²⁰ Judas supplied the defenders of the city with everything they needed.

²⁴ The king took leave of Maccabeus and named Hegemonides as governor from Ptolemais to the land of the Gerarites. ²⁵ When he came to Ptolemais, he found the inhabitants were indignant over that treaty; they were so angry they wanted to annul its terms. ²⁶ But Lysias came up to the tribunal to defend what had been decided; he convinced and appeased them, winning their goodwill before he set out for Antioch. This was what happened with the king's expedition and retreat.

³ A certain Alcimus, who had been High Priest before, but was disgraced during the time of the rebellion, realized that there was no way for him to be restored to the ministry at the sacred altar. ⁴ So, he went to King Demetrius in about the year one hundred and fifty-one, and offered him a golden crown, a palm and even some olive branches from the Temple. On that day, he did not ask for anything. ⁵ But he found a proper occasion for his evil designs when he was called to a meeting of the king's council. When he was asked with what disposition and spirit the Jews were to be confronted, he answered, ⁶ "There exists a party called Hasmoneans among the Jews, headed by Judas Maccabeus, that keeps up war and rebellion, and hinders the re-establishment of peace and order in the land. ⁷ Because of them, I have been deprived of the dignity of my ancestors, that is, the office of High Priest. And I came here, ⁸ concerned for the king's interests above everything else, but for my compatriots as well, since the fanaticism of those men has plunged our people into great misery.

⁹ You know all this, O King, so look upon our land and nation which is hard-pressed on all sides, with that same kindness you have for all. ¹⁰ For as long as Judas lives, it is impossible for the State to find peace."

¹⁴ The pagans who had earlier escaped from Judea for fear of Judas, flocked in great number to Nicanor, thinking that the misfortunes and defeat of the Jews would mean victory for them.

Treaty of peace

between Nicanor and Judas

¹⁵ When the men of Judas learned that Nicanor was coming and about the invasion of the pagans, they sprinkled dust upon their heads, and called on Him who had established his people forever, and had each time protected his people by wonderful manifestations. ¹⁶ Then, at their leader's command they set out to march, and the battle began near Dessau. ¹⁷ Simon, the brother of Judas, had attacked Nicanor, but his men were suddenly confounded by the enemies, suffering a slight setback.

¹⁸ However, as Nicanor had heard of the courage of Judas and his men and of how bravely they fought for their country, he feared resolving the situation by bloodshed. ¹⁹ So, he sent Posidonius, Theodotus and Mattathias to arrange for peace. ²⁰ After a thorough consideration of the conditions, he communicated this to his troops and it seemed that they were unanimous about it. The treaty of peace was accepted.

²³Nicanor spent some time in Jerusalem without doing any harm, and even dismissed the people that had gathered around him. ²⁴He always had Judas with him, for he had a high regard for him. ²⁵He advised him to get married and have children, so Judas got married and enjoyed a peaceful life.

²⁶When Alcimus saw the good understanding between the two, he secured a copy of the signed accord and went to Demetrius, accusing Nicanor of acting against the interests of the State, inasmuch as he had appointed Judas, the enemy of the kingdom, as his minister.

²⁷The king was infuriated and stirred up by the slanders of that wicked man. He wrote Nicanor telling him how indignant he was over the treaty and ordering him to put Maccabeus in chains and to send him to Antioch at once.

³⁰Maccabeus noticed that Nicanor had become more reserved towards him and more unpleasant in their usual meetings, so he understood that this did not promise well. He began to gather some of his men, but did not make this known to Nicanor. ³¹When the latter became aware that Judas had escaped without being disloyal, he appeared in the holy Temple while the priests were offering the ritual sacrifices, and demanded that they hand Judas over to him. ³²The priests declared on oath that they did not know where he was to be found. ³³Then, he stretched out his hand to the sanctuary and made this oath: "If you do not hand Judas over to me in chains, I shall raze this place consecrated to God, destroy the altar, and right here build a splendid temple to Dionysus." ³⁴And after saying this, he left.

The priests stretched forth their hands to heaven and called on him who had unceasingly defended our nation, saying ³⁵"O Lord of the universe, though you do not need anything, it has pleased you to put among us this temple as your dwelling place. ³⁶So now, keep undefiled forever this house that has just been purified."

³⁷Razis, one of the elders of Jerusalem, was denounced to Nicanor as being a very patriotic man, well known as "father of the Jews" because of his kindness. ³⁸In the time before the rebellion, he had been accused of Judaism and with much enthusiasm he had totally given himself to the defense of Judaism.

³⁹Now then, Nicanor, wishing to show his hatred towards the Jews, ordered more than five hundred soldiers to take him prisoner. ⁴⁰He thought that by putting him in prison, he would deal a great blow to the Jews.

⁴⁵Still alive, and aflame with valor, he stood up in spite of the blood that gushed forth and the wounds he had, and came running through the soldiers. ⁴⁶He stood on a steep rock and there, with his blood almost completely drained from him, he took hold of his intestines with both hands and hurled them at the crowd. Then calling upon the name of the Lord of life and spirit to give them back to him again one day, he died.

Victory for Judas and death of Nicanor

15 ¹Nicanor was informed that the men of Judas were in the neighbouring villages of Samaria, so he prepared to safely attack them on the day of the sabbath. ²The Jews, who were forced to accompany him, said to him, "Do not destroy them so savagely and barbarously, but show respect for the day of the sabbath, for He who sees all has honoured this day and sanctified it." ³But the wretch asked if there were indeed a sovereign in heaven who had commanded that the sabbath be holy. ⁴They answered "It is the living God himself, the Sovereign in heaven, who has commanded us to celebrate the seventh day."

⁶Nicanor was so sure of victory, that he planned to build a monument with the mortal remains of Judas and his men. ⁷But Maccabeus, for his part, felt confident and put his trust in God's help. ⁸He encouraged his men not to fear the attack of the pagans, and not to forget the times God had come to their help, confident that even now God would give them victory.⁹ He roused their spirit with the words of the Law and the Prophets, reminding them of previous triumphs.¹⁰ Encouraging his men more and more, he finished by showing them the evil of the pagans and how they had betrayed their oath.

¹¹ So he armed them not with the sword or shield but with the certainty that comes from noble words. Then he made them all full of joy by telling them what he saw in a true dream.

¹⁷ Encouraged by these beautiful words of Judas, which were able to encourage righteous people and strengthen young souls, they determined not to set up camp with defenses. They decided instead to rush out bravely and take the offensive to settle the matter by fighting bravely for the Holy City of Jerusalem, their religion and the Temple were in danger.¹⁸ They considered of secondary importance any concern for their wives, children and friends; because they feared above all for the Temple consecrated to God.¹⁹ Regarding those who had stayed in the city, their anxiety was by no means little, since they were worried about the battle that was about to begin in the camp.

²⁰ Everyone waited for the imminent outcome as the enemies attacked. They had set their troops in place, led the elephants to strategic positions and had the cavalry in the wings.²¹ Then Maccabeus could see this multitude with their weapons of every kind and the ferocious elephants. He stretched forth his hands to heaven and called on the Lord who works marvels, for he knew that God gives victory to those who deserve it, and this does not depend on weapons, but on the will of God.

²² So Judas said in prayer, "O Lord, you sent your angel in the days of Hezekiah, the king of Judah, and he wiped out one hundred and eighty-five thousand men of the army of Sennacherib."²³ So now, O Lord of Heaven, send your good angel, before us too, to fill our enemies with fear and terror.²⁴ Show your power and let your arm strike those who insult you and who come to destroy your holy people." With this, he ended his prayer.

²⁸ When the battle ended, and they returned rejoicing, they found Nicanor dead, lying on the ground with all his armour.

³¹ There he summoned his compatriots and priests. He stood before the altar and ordered them to send for those in the citadel.³² He showed them the head of that wretch, Nicanor, and the hand which that wicked man had raised in pride above the house of God.³³ He ordered that Nicanor's tongue be cut into pieces and given to the birds, and the hand be hung in front of the sanctuary as punishment for his arrogance.³⁴ Then they blessed Heaven saying, "Blessed be he who did not let his Sacred House be defiled!"

Nicanor. As from those days, the city remained under the power of the Hebrews. I end my account here. ³⁸If the narration has been good and well composed, that is indeed what I desired; but if it has been ordinary and indifferent, it is what I was able to do. ³⁹The readers' pleasure depends on how the account was arranged, just as it is with one who drinks. It does not do any good when one drinks only pure wine or water but wine mixed with water is tasty and delightful. Let this, then, be my last word.

Israel's period of glory and prosperity was very short indeed. The kingdom of David, the kingdom of God among the sons of Israel, had become a very small nation, no different from the rest of the small nations that were trying to survive in the midst of powerful neighbours. The Israelites had believed in their mission as long as good fortune had been on their side. But when it became obvious that they could no longer dominate other people and maintain their own privileged situation, the Israelites lost the sense of their privileged situation and began to live like the rest.

Israel knows that Yahweh, their God, is the "God of gods" because of their books and because the old people have told their children; the Israelites go up to Jerusalem to offer sacrifices and follow the religious customs of their elders. But, as Isaiah will reproach them, all of this is nothing more than men's laws, a religion that is learned and does not spring from the heart. The processions are well attended, the clergy is powerful, but behind this show, there is no life, and with a little push the official religion would fall apart.

This has happened because people need an "experience" of God, in order to come to real faith, and when a people only tell and retell the religious experience of their elders, their faith becomes anaemic. In those days, Isaiah was a man who lived this experience and encountered the Living God. This young man from a noble family "had seen Yahweh" (chapter 6) and he never stopped speaking in the name of the God who was present in Israel though Israel ignored him.

What do we find in the following poems?

- Echoes of days of anguish.

Judah, quite small, is squeezed in between two great nations, Ashur (Assyria) and Egypt, and the politicians wonder which of the two they must allow to swallow them up. Isaiah responds:

"Seek first the kingdom of God and see to it that you practice justice among yourselves. And God will make you stronger than the powerful."

– A persevering struggle to arouse the faith of men deprived of vision.

The externals of religion abound, but there is very little sense of responsibility, not much love for God, and little concern about doing his will. Isaiah will repeat: "Believe in him, he is holy, he is the Rock, the greatest power in the world hidden in Jerusalem, and if you do not become strong by relying on him, he will crush you."

– God's promises to David's descendants.

But, whether the rulers are good like Hezekiah or evil like Ahaz, they are mediocre men to be trusted with such great promises. Yet, in the darkest hours, Isaiah will declare that the Lord has chosen Jerusalem and David, his king. From David's line, Christ, the king of Peace, will be born.

SOME FACTS ABOUT ISAIAH'S TIME

Beginning in the year 740, the northern nation of Ashur rises up and begins its conquests. All the peoples of the Middle East are afraid and try to resist with the encouragement of Egypt, another great power. In this conflict the northern nation of Israel will disappear; Samaria, its capital, will be captured and its residents deported in 720.

In 736, northern Israel and their neighbours from Aram try to force the kingdom of Judah to join them against Ashur. Then Ahaz, the king of Jerusalem, call for the help of the Assyrian armies, in spite of Isaiah's warnings. The Assyrians destroy both Israel and Aram, and also plunder the land of Judah.

In the years 701-691 Sennacherib, king of Assyria, comes to subdue Judah. King Hezekiah, encouraged by Isaiah, resists the enemy, and the famous miraculous liberation of Jerusalem takes place.

THE BOOK OF ISAIAH

The book of Isaiah and his disciples (see the following paragraph) is the most important of the prophetic books. It is the one which Jesus and his apostles will always recall and quote.

Isaiah's words are found in chapters 1-39 of the book bearing his name. The second part of the book, namely, chapters 40-66, brings together the words of other prophets who wrote a century and a half later.

• Verse 1 introduces the prophecies of the first twelve chapters: we find messages proclaimed on different occasions, over a long period of time but they are not arranged according to the time they were spoken.

I raised children and they have risen against me. We often think that God demands what is due to him, but it is not so: the Lord is a Father, a neglected Father. He feels hurt in his love, not because of any particular sin, but because his children live stupidly and irresponsibly: my people do not understand.

Perverved children. Men must hear the prophets' harsh words, because the power of their interests, their passions and propaganda is such that they get used to accepting everything, except the truth and the vocation of man to be, to do and to think as a son of God.

From the sole of the feet to the head. Isaiah denounces the general situation of the country without attributing it to one particular group more than to another. They are all guilty of bringing about oppression and poverty and they all find reasons not to live in the truth.

Shall I strike at you again and again? Scar-city, bad laws, defeat are not in themselves the punishment of God; we prepare them ourselves. But if those who are suffering are God's children, he is committed to them, yet God does not spare them because only suffering can teach them. So, in another sense, it is true that God is the one striking them.

Here we have several things which are repeated in the following pages:

The daughter of Zion means the city of Zion, or Jerusalem. Zion was the area of Jerusalem where David had established his residence.

The Holy One of Israel. In chapter 6, God will reveal himself as the Holy One, that is to say, God whose mystery is inaccessible and whose brilliance causes the death of any creature blemished by sin. Isaiah will be the prophet of the Holy God.

Yahweh Sabaoth or the Lord of Hosts: it is an ancient title for Yahweh. It means both the God who leads Israel's armies to victory and the God who rules the heavenly hosts, the angels, the stars and the forces of the universe.

Against thoughtless people

o1 ¹This is what Isaiah son of Amoz foretold concerning Judah and Jerusalem in the days of Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah, kings of Judah.

²Listen, O heavens!
Give heed, O earth!
For the Lord speaks:

"I raised children,
I brought them up,
but they have risen against Me.

³The ox knows its master and the ass its owner's manger,
but Israel does not know me,
my people does not understand.

⁴A nation of sins,
a people weighed down with iniquity,
a wicked race, perverted children!
They have turned away from
Yahweh
and despised the Holy One of Israel.

⁵Shall I strike you again and again?
You will only rebel the more,
for your whole head is diseased and your whole heart is afflicted.

⁶From the soles of your feet – to the top of your head wounds and bruises, sores uncleaned and unbound, undressed with soothing ointment

⁷Your country lies desolate, razed by fire are your cities.
Raped and sacked is your land,

laid waste before your very eyes,
as when besieged by alien hordes.

⁸The Daughter of Zion is abandoned

like a shanty in a vineyard, like a hut in a melon field,
like a town hamleted.

⁹Had not Yahweh of hosts left us a small remnant,
we would be like Sodom,
we would be like Gomorrah.

¹⁰Hear the warning of Yahweh, rulers of Sodom.
Listen to the word of God,
people of Gomorrah.

+ ¹¹"The number of your endless sacrifices—
What do I care about them?"
says the Lord.

"I have had more than enough of whole-burnt offerings of rams and the fat of fatlings;
the blood of bulls and lambs and he-goats
does not delight me anymore.

¹²When you come to trample my courts,
who asked you to visit me?

¹³I do not need your oblations.
Your incense is an abomination.
New Moons and Sabbaths and meetings,

evil with holy assemblies,
I can no longer bear.

¹⁴New Moon and appointed feasts have become a burden

2. Dt 30, 19; 31, 28; Ps 50, 4; Hos 2, 1	3. 11, 1	5. Jer 5, 3; Hos 6, 1	6. Lk 10, 34
10. Gen 18, 20; Dt 29, 22	13. Am 5, 22; Hos 6, 6; Jer 7, 22; Ps 50, 8		14. Jer 15, 6

+ What do I care about your many sacrifices? The condemnation of external worship that does not express a true surrender to God is characteristic of the prophets. The sacrifices and the festivals in question here were required by the law of God; yet God says that he detests them, because when done without the proper dispositions, they are a lie. (see Ps 40:7 and 50:16. also, Matthew 5:23).

Give the fatherless their rights. The Mosaic commandments condemned theft (Ex 20:14). The prophets are denouncing a social system which crushes the lowly.

Some people are fond of great ceremonies, others of their own devotions and prayers and still others, of doing generous and philanthropic works. When doing this, we may be disguising the injustice we do every day.

Come and let us reason together. Suddenly God appears as merciful and as a saviour. God does not want to punish but rather to find someone with whom to dialogue, someone to love. The prophets keep repeating: "Come, return to me."

¹⁵ When you stretch out your hands
I will close my eyes;
the more you pray,
the more I refuse to listen.
Your hands are bloody;
¹⁶ wash and make yourselves clean.
Remove the evil of your deed out of my sight.
Put an end to your wickedness
¹⁷ and learn to do good.
Seek justice,
give hope to the oppressed;
give the fatherless their rights and defend the widow."

¹⁸ "Come," says the Lord.
"let us reason together.
Though your sins be like scarlet,
they will be white as snow;
though they be as crimson red,
they will be white as wool.
¹⁹ If you are willing and obedient, you will eat the good things of the earth;
²⁰ but if you resist and rebel,
the sword will eat you instead."
Truly the Lord has spoken.

You became a harlot

◆ ²¹ Zion, the faithful city, has become a harlot!
She who abounded in justice,
a lodging of righteousness,
has become a hideout of murderers!
²² Your silver has become dross your best wine diluted with water.
²³ Your rulers are tyrants, partners of thieves.
They love a bribe
and look around for gifts.
No one protects the orphan,
or listen to the claim of the widow.
²⁴ This is why the Lord speaks,
Yahweh Sabaoth,
the Mighty One of Israel:
"I will take vengeance on my foes and exact payment from my enemies.
²⁵ I will turn my hand against you,
I will smelt away your dross, and I will remove your impurities.
²⁶ I will restore your judges,
I will give back your counselors,
as it was then in the beginning.

21. Ex 16; Hos 1, 2
26. 56, 5; 60, 14; Jer 23, 6

◆ Jerusalem is the city chosen by God. As the groom chooses his bride, so did Yahweh choose this people. Now, they are a harlot, because with their crimes, their trampling on the poor, they are being unfaithful to Yahweh. Those who forget God and run after their own interests, without caring for their brothers and sisters, are adulterers.

It is a question of justice. Justice is one of the words most often used by the prophets. In the Bible, the "just one" is the one who lives according to the truth, that is, he remains faithful to the Covenant with God. What the prophets are asking with such insistence is that justice be profound righteousness and not just an external observance of the laws. Finally with Jesus, we come to the "justice" of the Holy Spirit, meaning the holiness of God deep in the heart of man.

In a world in which so much is said about justice, we know there is a vast difference between knowing what is just and doing it.

Zion will be redeemed with justice. We will find this theme again in other parts of Isaiah. Israel, plundered and ruined, prays for salvation, but is not prepared to listen to God. But God says: "My salvation means punishing what you are doing". In fact, the salvation, or the liberation that God grants us, does not mean entering a world without problems, a new earthly paradise, but rather, to begin to live under God's demanding expectation.

You shall be called the city of righteousness. Happiness is promised to all the "just", namely, those freed from sin, and this will be only partially achieved in this world. There are, of course, events in our world which image and anticipate the definitive salvation. In some way, the Rule of Justice is already coming when decisive steps are taken in the struggle for the promotion of all men, when an entire people feel liberated. It happened in sacred history, in the circumstances of that time (see Is 37, or even Exodus; see also Mark 9:1). But also, and perhaps more frequently, the times of distress are those that bring the Kingdom of God forward, through crises and revolutions. And they prepare the Kingdom, not so much by the good they bring, but rather because they overthrow ancient structures in which social sin had settled (Lk 21:28 and Rv).

● This passage deals with the pagan cults which were practised in groves and woods

Then you will be called
The City of Righteousness,
The Faithful City."

¹⁷ Zion will be redeemed when I come to judge.
There will be a remnant: the just ones.

¹⁸ But rebels and sinners side by side will be destroyed, and those who desert the Lord will likewise perish.

¹⁹ Yes, you will be ashamed of your sacred oaks which have given you delight;
you will blush for your gardens which you have chosen.

²⁰ For you will be like an oak the leaves of which wither, and like a garden
which runs out of water.

²¹ The strongman will be as tinder and all his work a spark:
both will burn together
and no one will quench the fire.

God promises lasting peace

+2 ¹ The vision of Isaiah, son of Amoz, concerning Judah and Jerusalem.

29. 17, 10; 57, 5; Hos 4, 13 30. Ps 1, 3
Ps 122, 4 4. Hos 2, 20; Zac 9, 10 5. 10, 17

where they used to sleep with the prostitutes consecrated to the Baals.

+ This is apparently unreal vision and yet it is being fulfilled and will be fulfilled.

The small hill overlooking the city of David and on which Solomon's temple is built, has become in this vision the center of the universe.
All the nations are going there. Why are they going there? Because they know they need the word of God. And, after having exhausted the resources of science, economy and politics, they realize they need a Teaching, that is to say, a Revelation from God. The word "Torah", which in later days will mean the "Law", is designated, at first, the Instruction given by God as we translate it here.

The Law of God is, above all, a teaching about the meaning of man and about his mission. And the answer to such questions is finally found in the person of Christ, Son of God, made man and the model for his brothers and sisters. Recall how Jesus also went up a mountain to be transfigured before his apostles. It is there that they were given the Law and the Teaching: "Listen to him".

² In the last days, the mountain of Yahweh's house shall be set over the highest mountains and shall tower over the hills.

³ All the nations shall stream to it, saying, "Come, let us go to the mountain of the Lord, to the house of the God of Jacob, that he may teach us his ways and we may walk in his paths.
For the Teaching comes from Zion, and from Jerusalem the word of Yahweh.

⁴ He will rule over the nations and settle disputes for many peoples.
They will beat their swords into plowshares and their spears into pruning hooks. Nation will not raise sword against nation; they will train for war no more.

⁵ O nation of Jacob, come, let us walk in the light of the Lord!

Hide in the dust

■ ⁶ You have forsaken your people,
the land of Jacob,
for it was full of diviners.

2. Zac 14, 4 3. 60, 3; 66, 20; Zac 14, 16;

Let us go up to the house of the God of Jacob. The Kingdom of God will be formed around the people of Jacob-Israel and their kings, the descendants of David. Throughout the ages God preserves a Center in the world, the visible focus of the invisible kingdom: first, Israel, then, the Church. Today, the Church reveals itself as a sign upon a mountain, open to the contemplation of both believing and unbelieving people.

It is true that the Church has many human features (in the negative sense of the word) and, often, it is not found among movements for renewal at the present time. But, perhaps we fail to discern the profound riches which the Church develops in sincere believers. In the world, they are those who keep the fire that Christ lit, burning, and who create a network of more human relationships and more authentic life around them. And this, in the final analysis, is what prepares for the coming of a new world. Isaiah alone has done more for the moral development of the world than all the kings of Assyria with their armies, their victories and their laws. In the same way, the sincere actions of the least among believers can be more effective in bringing prog-

and the mortal fallen,

against all that is lifted up or great,

into the hollows of the rocks,
into the caverns of the earth,
from the terror of Yahweh,
from the splendor of his majesty,
when he arises to terrify the earth.

men will throw to the moles and to the bats
their idols of silver and gold, which they made for themselves to worship.

leaven of authentic civilization is what, one day, will be placed "on the high mountains", or "on the lampstand" to enlighten the world. (See Mt 5:14).

This text is not addressed to Jerusalem (capital of Judah), but to the northern kingdom (Samaria is the capital) which bears the name of their ancestor Jacob-Israel.

At the time, the northern kingdom enjoyed years of prosperity. It followed that idols multiplied. In those days, those who became rich did not know what to do with their gold other than making statues and ornaments which they dedicated to some god from whom they expected security and protection. Isaiah foresaw the disaster which was approaching for those unconcerned people.

In speaking about the destruction of war and the fear of the defeated, Isaiah considers this disaster as an encounter of materialistic-minded men with their God who comes to judge them.

Their land is full of idols. An idol in our life is like a cancer in the body; it is something overly important which consumes our real life. This is what science, progress, conveniences, a house, a car or money do, when they are no longer a means of fulfilling God's plans but have become instead an "idol" to which we devote all our energy and hope.

Note the refrain in 3:11-17: Man's pride will be brought low. Pride of the great, of the wise, pride of the mediocre and of the falsely humble.
The pride of the religious man who believes he knows God because he knows how to speak about him. Pride of the mortal creature coming to the end of his days without having encountered the living God. More than folly, pride is an

The child or the car. A test for the worshippers of idols and for social development – and for Christian faith.

3 ¹ See how the Lord,
Yahweh Sabaoth,
takes away provisions and men from Judah and Jerusalem –

² the hero and the soldier,
the judge and the prophet,
the diviner and the elder,

³ the captain and the man of rank,
the counselor, the sorcerer,
and the enchanter.

⁴ I will make striplings their princes and raw lads their rulers.

⁵ People will oppress each other – every man his fellow man, every neighbour his neighbour;
the young will bully the old and the base will insult the honourable.

⁶ When that day comes,
a man will take hold of his brother
in the house of his father and say, "You have clothes, then be our leader
and rule over this heap of ruins."

⁷ But he will cry out in protest:
"I cannot undertake to be a healer of all this,
when in my own house
there is neither food nor clothing;
do not make me leader of the people."

⁸ See how Jerusalem crumbles and Judah falls,
for their words and deeds
have been a defiance of the Lord,
a provocation in his glorious presence.

Alas for the wicked!

■ ⁹ The look on their faces denounces them: they do not hide their sin: instead, they parade it, like Sodom: Woe to them! They bring about their downfall!

¹⁰ Say, "Fortunate are the righteous, they will eat of the fruit of their deeds."

¹¹ But woe to the wicked: the evil that their hands have done shall be done to them!

¹² O my people, spoiled by your rulers, dominated by your creditors!
O my people, your leaders mislead
you, and confuse your paths.'

¹³ Yahweh takes his place in court and stands to try his people. ¹⁴ Yahweh calls to judgment the elders and the princes:

"You have devoured my vineyard.
The spoil of the poor is in your houses. ¹⁵ What right have you to crush the people and to grind down the poor?" declares Yahweh Sabaoth.

How haughty are these women!

◆ ¹⁶ Yahweh says, "Haughty are the women of Zion, walking with their heads held high, with mincing steps, flirting with their eyes, ornaments tinkling on their ankles."

¹⁷ But Yahweh will cover the heads of Zion's women with scabs and make their scalps bald.

¹⁸ On that day the Lord will take away the ankle ornaments, the head-

■ The prophets live their faith in the midst of the events of their times, not forgetting the historical reality in order to speak only about "poverty". In Isaiah's view, the poor are poor because the others are oppressors. The sin is in the laws and in those who have forgotten God to the point of taking power into their own hands.
Isaiah denounces the sin of the leaders in order to save the entire people from God's judgment.

◆ Isaiah lashes against the elegant women of Jerusalem:

– With their rings, necklaces, and their clothing they resemble the idols: made to seduce men.

– They have their share in injustice: What luxury is not paid for by the poor? How many men can offer gifts with pure hands?

Today we are far more familiar with luxury and we know the astronomical amount of money which is wasted for example, on dogs, on drugs and on pornography in a starving world.

The end of the discourse is in 4:1. After the death of their husbands, widows will at any cost, look for a man to give them, at the very least, legal protection.

In Amos 4:1 we found similar criticism against the women whom the prophet calls "fat cows."

bands and the crescents, ¹⁹the pendants, the bracelets, and the scarves, ²⁰the headdresses, the armlets, the sashes, the perfume bottles and the amulets, ²¹the signet rings and nose rings, ²²the festal robes, the mantles, the cloaks, and the handbags, ²³the garments, the turbans, and the veils.

²⁴Instead of fragrance, there will be stench, instead of girdle, rope; instead of well-set hair, baldness; instead of jeweled gown, sackcloth; and instead of beauty, shame.

²⁵Your men will fall by the sword; your heroes, in battle.

²⁶The city gates will lament and mourn as Zion, ravaged, sits on the ground.

4 ¹On that day, seven women will fight over a single man. "We will eat our own food," they will say, "we will wear our own clothing, only let us be called by your name and take away our disgrace."

A remnant saved on Mount Zion

o ²On that day the Shoot of Yahweh will be beautiful and glorious; and the Fruit of the earth will be honour and splendour for the survivors of Israel.

³Those who are left in Zion and remain in Jerusalem will be called holy – all who are recorded among the living in Jerusalem, ⁴when Yahweh washes away the filth of the women of Zion and purges Jerusalem of the bloodstains in its midst with the blast of searing judgment and the blast of destruction.

⁵Then will Yahweh create over the whole site of Mount Zion and over its assemblies a cloud of smoke by day and a glow of fire by night.

⁶For over all, the Glory of the Lord will be a canopy and a pavilion, a shade from the scorching heat by day, a refuge by night from the storm and rain.

The song of the vineyard

+5 ¹Let me sing for my beloved a love song about his vineyard.

My beloved had a vineyard on a fertile hillside.

²He dug it up, cleared the stones, and planted it with the choicest of vines.

He built there a watchtower

o In the turbulent history of nations, God allows a small and insignificant people to take shape. From among them a chosen group called "Remnant" appears and takes root. As a pyramid is gradually reduced to a point, so is this remnant reduced, until it becomes only one man, the Saviour. Here, he is called the fruit of the earth. He is also called sprout, because he will be the sprout of the new humanity.

Notice here, as in 1:27, the description of the Kingdom of God begins with a judgment. When we do our best to destroy the oppressive forces and our own complicity with them, we are cooperating in this purification. However, this task is beyond our own strength: Christ is the one who judges the world (John 12:31) and the one who grants it forgiveness of sins (John 20:22).

Also, as in 2:2, the Kingdom of God is a place where God becomes present to his people: see the Cloud and the pillar of fire in Ex 13:21.

Above Mount Zion which symbolizes the Church, God will be a shade from the heat of the day.

- He will provide rest for the weary: "Come to me and I will refresh you" (Mt 11:28).
- He will give his strength to the young of every generation who have many illusions and are soon burned by the sun: that is to say that evil, corruption and opposition discourage them and leave them embittered.
- Christ will be their protection from exhausting heat and from sweeping storm.
- The new trends in the world can harm the unwary and the isolated but not those who live in the church community.

and hewed out a winepress as well.
Then he looked for a crop of good grapes,
but it yielded only wild grapes.

³ Now, inhabitants of Jerusalem and men of Judah,
judge between me and my vineyard.
⁴ What more was there to do that I have not done for my vineyard?

Good grapes was the yield that I expected,
but why did it yield,
only sour grapes?

⁵ Now I will let you know what I am going to do with my vineyard:

I will remove its hedge
and it will be burned,
I will break down its wall
and it will be trampled.

⁶ I will make it a wasteland,
I will neither prune nor hoe it,
and briars and thorns will grow
there.

I command the clouds, as well,
not to send rain on it.

only a bushel of grain."

11. 56, 12; Am 6, 4

However large the Church may be, it will always have the features of a "remnant". Jesus called his followers "little flock" (Luke 12:32). In our days the reduced number of active and courageous participants is the little remnant and at the same time the hope for the future.

+ Song of the "love" of God who at the end, threatens to destroy those who despise him. Isaiah knows this well because he had encountered God whose love is tender and terrible.

The prophets readily replace the language of religion with the language of passionate love. Friend, Lover, Husband: The Lord does not resemble God as depicted by the Jews.

The vineyard is the people whom Yahweh reared over the centuries of their history and among whom so many prophets worked, watering it with their sweat, when it was not with their blood. Perhaps we should not look for a specific meaning in every detail of the parable: the tower, the wine press. In a somewhat similar text, in Micah 6:1-5, God reminds us of all he has done for his people.

After seeing how considerate the Lord has been, Isaiah denounces the injustice and oppression which rule daily life in Jerusalem. In that, he sees proof that the law, the miracles and the blessings of the Lord have been in vain. Their history shows that the kingdom of David is already a failure and Judah will be destroyed.

The same image of the vineyard appears in Isaiah 27:2 and in Jeremiah 2:21. Jesus will recall it in John 15.

■ The Bible shows that God does not tolerate that some occupy all the land when so many are without a plot to allow them to live (see Lv 25:8). There is no justification either for a society leaving all the capital in the hands of owners so that most of the workers cannot benefit from the riches of their own country. Isaiah's words also condemn those who take over all the real power in a society, preventing others from exercising their human responsibilities in the nation and in workers' unions.

The six woes point to the same people: to rich and the noble who are unwilling to shoulder their responsibilities with regard to their people and who squander money.

Because they are acting against all justice,

to run after strong drink,
and tarry late in the evening till they are inflamed with wine.

¹² They have lyres and harps, timbrels and flutes,
and wine at their banquets;
but they have no thought for the deeds of the Lord,
nor see what he is planning.

¹³ Thus my people go into exile for want of understanding, their dignitaries dying of hunger,
their masses parched with thirst.

¹⁴ Therefore the grave has enlarged its throat
and opened its mouth immeasurably;
into it descend both masses and nobility with their throngs and their revelry.

¹⁵ Man shall be humbled
and the mortal fallen,
and the eyes of the haughty cast down.

¹⁶ But Yahweh Sabaoth will be exalted when he comes to judgment;
and the holy God will show himself holy in his righteousness.

¹⁷ Then will the lambs graze as in pasture, fatlings and kids will browse among the ruins.

¹⁸ Woe to those who draw iniquity with cords of deceit,
to those who draw sin as with cart ropes,

¹⁹ to those who say, "Let God hurry, let him speed up his work
so that we may see it.

Let the plans of the Holy One of Israel

draw near and come true
so that we may know what they are."

²⁰ Woe to those who call evil good, and good evil,

who put darkness for light
and light for darkness, who put bitter for sweet and sweet for bitter.

²¹ Woe to those who are wise in their own eyes
and cunning in their own sight.

²² Woe to those who are valiant in mixing drinks

and heroes at drinking bouts, ²³ but acquit the guilty for a bribe and deprive the innocent of his right.

²⁴ Therefore, as the tongues of fire lick up stubble,
as dry grass sinks down in the flames,
so their roots will rot,
and their flowers be blown away like
dust,

for they have rejected the law of Yahweh Sabaoth
and scorned the word of the Holy One of Israel.

²⁵ Therefore the Lord,
his wrath burning against His people, raised his hand against them
and struck them down.
The mountains quaked:
the corpses are like refuse in the streets.
Yet for all this
his anger does not subside,
his hand is still raised, ready to strike.

²⁶ He gives a signal to nations afar,
He whistles to them from the ends of the
earth;
speedily and swiftly they come.

their own judgment has become corrupt:

- they make fun of what the prophets say;
- they do not follow the laws of the Lord.
- they call good, evil and they manage to convince others to accept injustice or keep quiet.

When false values are imposed on a society it culminates in evil. This is the social scandal which Jesus addressed in Matthew 18:7.

Isaiah predicts the exile without hesitation. It would have been wiser to understand the will of God and the way in which he rules over events. But the people make use of their intelligence only to advance their own interests or to excel in the empty games of the rich.

Do we not see today in our own society how many people with some advantage of education seek first to enjoy a comfortable standard of living while they allow their own people to sink into poverty?

◆ On that day, in the year 740, Isaiah is in the Temple, or rather, he sees himself in the Temple, in spirit. In the innermost room, where the Ark is kept, there is only the divine presence: Yahweh seated as king, the train of his cloak filling the anteroom, as if to express the overflow of holiness and the power of God over the holy place and the city of Jerusalem.

During this brief moment, Isaiah encounters God in an intimate, authentic way, and this encounter will mark him for his entire life. This cannot be expressed, nor can he try to describe Yahweh who communicated with him in a spiritual way. The vision he had, the images and none stumbles

none slumbers or sleeps;
not a waist belt is loosened,
not a sandal thong is broken.

²⁸ Their arrows are sharp,
all their bows are strong;
their horses' hoofs seem like flint,
their chariot wheels like the whirlwind.

²⁹ They roar like young lions;
they growl as they seize their prey,
no one to rescue as they carry it off.

³⁰ On that day
they will roar over their prey like the roaring of the sea.
Just look at the land – darkness and distress,
the light flickering out in shadows, darkened finally by the clouds.

The call of Isaiah

◆ 6 ¹In the year that King Uzziah died I saw the Lord seated on a throne, high and exalted, the train of his robe filling the Temple. ²Above him were seraphs, each with six wings: two to cover the face, two to cover the feet, and two to fly with.

³They were calling to one another:
"Holy, holy, holy
is Yahweh Sabaoth.
All the earth is filled with his Glory!"

⁴At the sound of their voices the foundations of the threshold shook and the Temple was filled with smoke. ⁵I said, "Poor me! I am doomed! For I am a man of unclean lips living among a people of unclean lips, and yet I have seen the King,
Yahweh Sabaoth."

⁶Then one of the seraphs flew to me, in his hands a live coal which he had taken with tongs from the altar.
⁷He touched my mouth with it and said,

27. Na 3, 18
Is 14, 29; 30, 6; Eek 1, 11

30. 8, 22; Jl 2, 2; Zep. 1, 15
3. Ps 29, 9

2. Num 21, 6; Dt 8, 15;
7. Ex 29, 36

the words that he heard are like flashes emerging from this mysterious and unspeakable encounter.

Isaiah speaks of the holy God, that is to say, totally other, infinitely different from any creature. At the very moment of becoming present, he is out of our reach. Holy God is a way of saying that God is mystery. Isaiah continues to hold on to the presence of God and at the same time he is invaded by a fear which is not frightening.
In the presence of the Holy One man experiences himself as a sinner, not because of a particular sin, but because of his very nature: he feels incapable of placing himself in the hands of God who surrounds him with his presence.

Poor me! I am doomed! because God has said: "Man cannot see me and live." (Ex 33:20). But God draws near; the Seraph approaches Isaiah with coals signifying externally an interior purification through divine fire. Isaiah is forgiven in the very instant he responds by an act of faith and completely accepts his mission.
From then on, Isaiah will know and will say that it is necessary to choose: either believe in the Lord or else be destroyed by contact with the Holy One.

Seraphim, that is, the burning ones. Since their days in the desert, the Israelites had preserved the belief in good and evil spirits. According to them, some of these spirits appeared under the form of burning serpents; read Nm 21:4-9 and 2 Kgs 18:4 on the subject. These texts help us to understand why Yahweh appears surrounded by fantastic Seraphim with human faces. Being superior to men, these beings can live close to God, but they must shield themselves from the splendour of his glory.

The Glory of God is the radiance coming from God, who is present in the Jerusalem Temple, as in the center of the world, radiating his power from one end of the earth to the other.
Thus, God remains a mystery, but his energy is present everywhere, and at every moment.

Isaiah receives his mission:

- He will be God's spokesman.
- Instead of believing, the people will harden their hearts.
- This will be the cause of Judah's ruin. All that will remain will be the root from which something new will spring forth.

Let them be deaf. These verses apply not only to Isaiah's mission but to Jesus himself (Mark 10:4) and after him, the apostles. (Acts 28:26 and Jn 12:40) They will remember these words to express the result of their own mission.
Challenged by the word of God many people and social groups close themselves and refuse the message which could have saved them. The word of God is for our rising or our downfall, depending on how we welcome it. (Lk 2:34)

Everything is expressed in Hebrew which makes it difficult to render certain shades of meaning.

- "Dull the minds of the people" or "you will be the occasion for their minds to become

"See, this has touched your lips;
your guilt is taken away
and your sin is forgiven."

⁸ Then I heard the voice of the Lord, "Whom shall I send? And who will go for us?" I answered, "Here I am. Send me!" ⁹ He said, "Go and tell this people: 'Much as you hear, you do not understand; much as you see, you do not perceive.'"

¹⁰ Let their hearts be hardened, make them deaf and blind, lest they hear and see and their hearts understand.
Yet if they came back to me,
I would have them healed."

"Then I said, "For how long, O Lord?" And he answered,

"Until towns have been laid waste and left without inhabitant;
until the houses are deserted and the fields ruined and ravaged.

¹² For Yahweh will send away the men
and the fields will be left deserted.

¹³ Even though a tenth in it remain, it will be burned. Yet there will be a stump like of a fallen oak; this stump is a holy seed."

First warning to Ahaz

7 ¹ When Ahaz son of Jotham, the son of Uzziah, was king of Judah, King Rezin of Aram and Pekah son of Remaliah, king of Israel, laid siege to Jerusalem but they were unable to capture it.

² When the news reached the house of David, "Aram's troops are encamped in Ephraim", the heart of the king and the hearts of the people trembled as the trees of the forest tremble before the wind.

⁴ Say to him,
Stay calm and fear not; do not lose courage before these two stumps of smouldering firebrands – the fierce anger of Rezin the Aramean and the blazing fury of the son of Remaliah. You know that ⁵ Aram, Ephraim and Remaliah's son have plotted against Judah, saying: ⁶ Let us invade it, and scare it and seize it and put the son of Tabeel king over it. ⁷ But the Lord Yahweh says:

It shall not be so,
it shall not come to pass.

^{8a} For the head of Aram is Damascus and Rezin is only lord of Damascus ^{8b} the head of Ephraim is Samaria, and Remaliah's son is only the lord of Samaria.

^{9a} Within five or six years now Ephraim will be shattered and will no longer be a people.

^{9b} But if you do not stand firm in faith, you, too, will not stand at all."

dull" is rendered the same way in Hebrew.

– "So that they will neither understand nor be converted" or "in such a way that they will neither understand nor be converted" are said the same way in Hebrew.

Therefore, some translate these verses with words suggesting that Yahweh orders Isaiah to "dull the minds of the people" and "in order that" the people will not be converted, which is foreign to the text.

■ The passage 7:1-9 summarizes the situation which occurred in 736 when the people of Aram and Israel (the northern kingdom with its capital, Samaria) invaded the kingdom of Judah and Jerusalem (the southern kingdom). Several names may make this text difficult to understand: Rezin, king of Aram and Pekah, Remaliah's son, king of Israel (also called Ephraim: 7:9), are the enemies.

King Ahaz thinks of everything except the help of God who had committed himself to David's heirs as long as they trust him and seek justice.

Isaiah opposes the king: if the Assyrians intervene, there will be as much destruction in Judah as in Israel and Aram, even if Ahaz is the ally of the Assyrians. The king must rely on the Covenant and Yahweh's protection.

+ The prophecy about the Virgin giving birth is one of the most important in the Bible even though it leaves some questions unanswered.

To support his warnings already expressed in 7:4-9, Isaiah offers a miraculous sign to the king: Ask the Lord... (v. 11). Ahaz refuses piously to hide his determination not to turn back (v. 12). Then, the prophet explodes in anger: these descendants of David whom God has always protected are useless! Another descendant of David will be able to bring salvation to God's

The Virgin is with child

+ ¹⁰ Once again Yahweh addressed Ahaz. ¹¹ "Ask for a sign from Yahweh your God, either to come from the deepest depths or from the heights."

¹² But Ahaz answered, "I will not ask. I will not put Yahweh to the test."

¹³ Then Isaiah said, "Now listen, descendants of David. Have you not been satisfied trying the patience of men, that you also try the patience of my God? ¹⁴ Therefore the Lord himself gives you a sign:

The Virgin is with child and bears a son and calls his name Immanuel. ¹⁵ He will live on curds and honey by the time he learns to refuse the bad and choose the good. ¹⁶ For before the child knows how to reject evil and choose the good, the land of the two kings that you abhor will be deserted. ¹⁷ Yahweh will bring a time much worse than any since Ephraim broke away from Judah. He will bring upon you the king of Assyria.

¹⁸ On that day Yahweh will whistle for flies from the farthest streams of Egypt and for bees from the land of Assyria.

¹⁹ They will come and settle in the steep ravines, in the clefts of the rocks on all the bush lands and on all the water holes.

²¹ On that day a man will raise a heifer and a couple of sheep, ²² and from the abundance of milk people. Yahweh is preparing to send him. His mother (called here the Virgin: see what follows) gives him the name he will deserve (v. 14). This future king will be raised humbly (v. 15), and will bring peace. Before that Ahaz and his followers' absurd politics will certainly bring total ruin to the country.

Now a few points need to be clarified.

1. Immanuel means God-with-us. This child does not only give us God's blessings, or miraculous and divine liberation, but through him, God becomes present among humankind and the promises heard so many times come true: I will be their God and they will be my people. (Nos 2. 25; Ez 37:27; Rv 20:3).

2. Why is The Virgin mentioned? The term used in Isaiah does not actually mean the Virgin but rather the young girl and when it was used as such, it simply referred to the young queen. Here Isaiah is referring to the future mother of the King-Messiah, and we know that she was the Virgin Mary. But, even before this amazing birth of the Virgin's son, many believing Jews suspected that the Messiah's origin would be extraordinary. If God was constantly reproaching believers for not loving him exclusively, how could the Messiah's mother be a woman of many loves?

Besides, according to an expression in their language, they used to say the Virgin of Israel or the Virgin daughter of Zion to refer to the people and to the holy city (Is 37:22). And so to them, the verse: the Virgin will give birth sounded like: the believing community will give birth to the Messiah. Mary had to be a virgin, but she also represented all the believers who had hoped for the Saviour with a virgin heart (see Lk 1:31). It is worth noting that, even before Jesus, the Greek translation of the Bible had already substituted the virgin for the original term young girl.

3. It may surprise us to have Isaiah announce this liberation of God's people as an answer from God to Ahaz, or, as something that would happen within a few years. But Isaiah was speaking as a prophet who combines in one vision events of the same nature, although occurring at different times. In some sense, those gloomy years were announcing future crises, misfortunes and sins which formed one whole with the tragedies that would precede the coming of the kingdom of God.

Isaiah gives the sign to King Ahaz, to his heirs, David's descendants (1:13), and to all who live in a world devastated by sin, and this sign points to Christ. Just as in the lost earthly Paradise, we have the image of a woman, or of the son of a woman who will crush the serpent's head, here we have another image, that of the virgin with her son, God-with-us. Immanuel suffers for his brothers' sins, and that is why he can reconcile us with God.

Isaiah's contemporaries, obviously, did not understand all of this. It is only with time that the many meanings of this 'sign' will be understood.

those who survive in the land will feed on curds and honey.

²³On that day every place planted with a thousand vines worth a thousand silver shekels will be covered with briars and thorns.

²⁴Men will go there armed with bows and arrows, for the whole country
will be covered with briars and thorns.

²⁵To all the hills which used to be cultivated with hoe, no one will dare come for fear of briars and thorns.

There cattle will be let loose and sheep left to graze.

The waters of Shiloah gently flowing o 8 ¹The Lord said to me, "Take a large cylindrical seal and write on it in ordinary characters: Hurry to Sack-Spilling is Close. ²Do this before Uriah the priest and Zechariah the son of Jeberechiah my reliable witness."

³I went to my wife; she conceived and gave birth to a son. Then Yahweh said to me, "Call him Quick to plunder—Booty is Close, for this is Yahweh's word:

⁴Before the child knows how to call his father or mother, the wealth of Damascus and the booty of Samaria will be carried off by the king of Assyria."

⁵Again Yahweh spoke to me; ⁶"Because this people refuses the gently flowing waters of Shiloah, and cowers in fear before Rezin and the son of Remaliah, ⁷therefore the Lord will bring against them the waters of the River, deep and mighty – the king of Assyria with all his pomp.

It will rise over all its channels and overflow all its banks;
"it will sweep on to Judah;
flow over it and pass on reaching up to the neck.

It will spread its wings over the whole breadth of your land,

O Immanuel!

⁹Know it, O you nations,
Hear, O you distant lands,
gird yourselves for war and be dismayed!

¹⁰Devise a plan and it will be thwarted, make a resolve and it will not stand,
for God-is-with-us.

Yahweh, a hidden God

■ ¹¹Thus Yahweh spoke to me when his hand took hold of me;
he warned me not to walk
in the way of these people:

¹²"Do not speak of conspiracy whenever these people dread conspiracy;

do not fear what they fear
nor be in dread with them.

¹³Only Yahweh Sabaoth must you hold in veneration, only him must you fear, only him must you dread.

¹⁴He will be a sanctuary and yet a stumbling-stone, the rock of offense
for both nations of Israel.
He will be like trap and snare for the people of Jerusalem.

The word sign as used by Isaiah, can also be translated as a marvelous event.

● Prophets teach through their words and also through their actions. Here, the strange name that Isaiah gives his son serves as a warning for everyone. Such a name, along with Immanuel form a pair in this chapter, and they complement each other in pointing both to the invasion caused by Ahaz and to the liberation which will come later.

The waters of Shiloah (8:6) are the only source of water supply for Jerusalem, located on a plateau. They symbolize the secret protection of the Lord, present in the midst of his people and in whom all should place their faith. Whereas the king of Assyria whom Ahaz called to help, will be like the river whose raging waters will flood everything. He will destroy Judah's enemies, but he will also leave Judah in ruins. In this, we also have the prophecy of the destiny of modern nations believing they will solve their internal problems by jumping on the bandwagon of more powerful nations.

■ When his hand took hold of me. Isaiah is referring to one of those decisive encounters when God made him his prophet and he was under the rule of God's Spirit.

Do not speak of conspiracy! The first thing God did was to free him from the narrow mindedness of most people who, in difficult times, are led by their fears instead of looking for new ways. From then on, he will not even be stopped by his people's misfortune, but rather the bar across their shoulders,

the rod of their oppressors,

⁴Every warrior's boot that trampled in war,
every cloak that rolled in blood,
will be thrown out for burning,
will serve as fuel for the fire.

⁵For a child is born to us, a son is given us;
the royal ornament is laid upon his shoulder,
and his name is proclaimed:
"Wonderful Counsellor, Divine Hero, Everlasting Father, Prince of Peace."

⁶To the increase of his powerful rule in peace, there will be no end.
He will reign on David's throne
and over all his kingdom, to establish it and to uphold it with justice and with righteousness from this time onward and forever.

The zealous love of Yahweh Sabaoth will do this.

5. 7, 14; Lk 2, 11; Jn 3, 16; Ps 110, 2; Rev 19, 12; Ps 2, 6; Ps 45, 7; Ps 72, 17; Dt 10, 17; Mt 5, 4; Zac 9, 10

ing to their custom, the Assyrians took part of the people to the other extremity of their empire. They resided in the territory of Zebulun and Naphtali (see previous paragraph) which, centuries later, would become Galilee. Dispersed among the pagans, they were coming out of Sacred History to enter into darkness.

The liberation promised to them is presented as a crushing victory of the Lord, inaugurating a reign of peace, related to Emmanuel, the new born baby.

The people walking in darkness... The Gospel (Mt 4:15) sees in that people the crowds whom Jesus addresses:

- A people dominated by all kinds of oppressors.
- A people seeking the light and without hope.

A child is born to us, the man who will rule the earth and who will crush the pride of nations. The Prince of Peace burns military gear.

Wonderful Counselor, that is to say that he is part of the heavenly Council where God makes decisions.

Father of a new race, as Abraham was: a Hero as David the warrior king had been.

This new prediction of a definitive liberation and of a Saviour does not specify the 'when'. In 7:10-15, we already mentioned that the fulfilment of God's promises may be delayed longer than we think.

WE DO NOT ABANDON HOPE

In the Bible, there are many earlier promises related to this divine promise which appear as if they were to happen immediately.

- Abraham is promised a son and Isaac is born; but the true heir is Christ. Abraham is promised a land for his children who will, in fact, occupy Canaan; but the true land is the kingdom of God.
- David is promised an heir and a lasting kingdom, but Christ is the definitive king, not Solomon.

On this subject, we should read chapter 11 in the letter to the Hebrews: it shows that men keep looking for the lasting city throughout the ages.

In fact, the Bible teaches us to hope. It presents to us a series of goals we must long for and attain and, in so doing, we are growing until we focus only on the inheritance after death which God promised. But then, in any happy event - as for example the birth of a newborn child - believers may see a sign of the kingdom of Peace which God gives us.

+ The poem beginning here and ending in 10:4 was written years before the one we just saw. It is addressed to the people of Israel who although weakened by their defeats, remain unconcerned and indifferent to God.

What the prophet condemns on God's behalf is their social injustice.

Threats against Israel

+ ⁷ Yahweh sent a word against Jacob;
the sentence fell upon Israel.

* The people of Samaria and Ephraim saw,

and they said in pride

and in arrogance of heart:

* "The bricks have fallen down,
but we will rebuild with hewn stones;
the sycamores have been cut down,
but in their place we will plant cedars."

¹⁰ Therefore Yahweh raised their foes and stirred up their adversaries:

¹¹ from the east, Arameans, from the west, Philistines—with mouth open, they devoured Israel.

Yet for all this

his anger does not subside,
his hand is ready to strike.

¹² For the people have not come back to him who has smitten them; they have not sought Yahweh Sabaoth.

¹³ Therefore Yahweh has cut off from Israel both head and tail, palm branch and reed in a single day—

¹⁴ the elders and prominent men are the head, the tail is the prophet of lies.

¹⁵ The guides of these people misled them, and the sheep were lost. ¹⁶ The Lord, therefore,
will not spare their young men or have compassion on their orphans and widows. Everyone has become evil and ungodly; every mouth speaks in folly.

Yet for all this

his anger does not subside,
his hand is ready to strike.

¹⁷ For wickedness has burned like fire and consumed both thorn and brier;
it raged and set thickets ablaze,
and all of them vanished like smoke.

¹⁸ By the wrath of Yahweh Sabaoth
the land is set aflame,
the people are burned like fuel for fire.
No one spares his brother:

hungry;

snatching here and there they remain unsatiated.

Each one devours his neighbour's flesh.

²⁰ Manasseh devours Ephraim, Ephraim devours Manasseh;
and against Judah, together they march.

Yet for all this

his anger does not subside,
his hand is ready to strike.

Legal injustice

10

¹ Woe to those who enact unjust laws and issue oppressive decrees!

² Woe to those who rob the poor of their rights and deprive my people of justice!

They prey on grieving housewives and widows.
They terrorize the orphans and the helpless.

³ What will you do on the day of punishment when disaster comes from afar?
Where will you flee for help?

To whom will you leave your wealth?

⁴ You can do nothing but cringe among the captives and exile or fall down among the slain.

Yet for all this Yahweh's anger does not subside,
His hand is still raised, ready to strike.

Assyria instrument of God

■ ⁵ Woe to Assyria, the rod of my anger,
the staff of my fury!

⁶ Against a godless nation I send him, against a people who provoke my wrath
I dispatch him,
to plunder and pillage,

1. Pro 22, 22 2. Ex 22, 22; Dt 24, 17; Job 31, 14

to tread them down like mud in the streets.

⁷ But his mind is far from this, his heart harbours other thoughts; what he wants is to destroy, to make an end of all nations.

⁸ For he says:

"Are not my commanders like kings?

⁹ Was it not the same for Calno as for Carchemish, for Hamath as for Arpad,

and for Samaria as for Damascus?

¹⁰ Just as my hands have seized idolatrous kingdoms, whose graven images excelled those of Samaria and Jerusalem.

¹¹ Just as I have dealt with Samaria and her idols, shall I not do to Jerusalem and her idols?

¹² When Yahweh has finished all his work on Mount Zion, in Jerusalem, he will punish the king of Assyria for his wilful pride and arrogant insolence. ¹³ For the king says:

"By my own strength I have done this and by my own wisdom, for I am clever. I have moved the frontiers of peoples, I have plundered treasures, I have brought inhabitants down to the dust,

I have toppled kings from their thrones.

¹⁴ As one reaches into a nest, so my hands have reached into nations' wealth.

As one gathers deserted eggs, so have I gathered the riches of the earth. Not one flapped a wing or opened its mouth to chirp a protest."

¹⁵ Does the axe claim more credit than the man who wields it? Does the saw magnify itself more than the man who uses it?

Then this would be like a rod wielding the man who lifts it up, or like a cudgel controlling one who is not of wood.

¹⁶ Therefore the Lord, Yahweh Sabaoth, will send a wasting sickness upon the king's sturdy warriors.

Beneath his plenty, a flame will burn like a consuming fire.

¹⁷ The Light of Israel will be a fire and his Holy One a flame-- to burn and devour his thorns and briars all in a single day.

¹⁸ His rich forests and fruitful land Yahweh will completely destroy, as when a sick man wastes away.

¹⁹ The remnant of the trees in his forest will be so few, so easy to count, that a child could make a list of them.

A remnant will return

◆ ²⁰ On that day, the remnant of Israel and the survivors of the people of Jacob will no longer rely upon the man who struck them down, but instead will truly rely upon the Holy One of Israel.

²³ For the Lord, Yahweh Sabaoth will make a full end, as decreed by Him, all over the earth. ²⁴ Thus says the Lord, Yahweh Sabaoth,

"O My people who dwell in Zion, do not be afraid of the Assyrians who strike you with the rod and lift up their staff against you as did the Egyptians.

²⁵ In a little while my anger against you will be over and will be directed to their destruction.

²⁶ Yahweh Sabaoth, will lash at them with a scourge, as He did with the Midianites at the rock of Oreb. His rod will be over the sea, and He will raise it as He did in Egypt.

²⁷ On that day, their burden will be lifted off your shoulders, their yoke lifted off your neck. The yoke will be destroyed.

■ This poem addresses the Assyrians when they were a threat, perhaps in the campaign of 701 (see the commentary on chapter 31).

◆ In 8:3 we already mentioned Isaiah's son whom he had called: "Soon-plunder-quick-booty".

Here, his other son's name, mentioned in 7:3: "A-remnant-will return" is explained. Several times in the Bible we find Remnant to refer to the Remnant of Israel, namely, the small group who will remain after God punishes Israel for their infidelity (see Amos 5:15).

From the time God spoke to Elijah of the "seven thousand men" (1 Kings 19:18), the prophets are constantly saying that the sins of Israel will not cancel God's plans. A remnant will remain when Israel is destroyed, and they "will return". This has a double meaning:

– they will return from the countries where they were deported.

They have gone up from Rimmon

²⁸ and have come to Aiath;

they have passed through Migron and stored supplies at Michmash.

²⁹ They have crossed over the pass and now camp at Geba for the night.

Ramah is in terror;

Gibeah of Saul has fled.

³⁰ Lift up your voice, O daughter of Gallim,

let it be heard at Laishah and answered at Anathoth.

³¹ Madmenah is in flight;

the people of Gebim flee for their lives.

³² This day the invaders will halt at Nob;

they will shake their fists

at the mount of the Daughter of Zion, at the hill of Jerusalem.

³³ Behold, the Lord, Yahweh Sabaoth lops off the boughs with terrifying violence.

The tall trees are hewn down,

the lofty ones are brought low.

³⁴ With an axe he cuts down the thickets;
and Lebanon, the majestic one, falls.

The Prince of Peace

o 11

¹ From the stump of Jesse a shoot will come forth;
from his roots a branch will grow and bear fruit.

² The spirit of the Lord will rest upon him –
a Spirit of wisdom and of understanding,

a Spirit of counsel and of power,

a Spirit of knowledge and of fear of the Lord

³ – that he may rule in the fear of the Lord.

Not by the appearances will he judge,

nor by what is said must he decide,

⁴ but with justice he will judge the poor and with righteousness decide for the meek.

Like a rod, his word will strike the oppressor,
and the breath of his lips slay the wicked.

⁵ Justice will be the girdle of his waist,

– they will return to their God interiorly: will convert to the Lord in their hearts.

• Those who have read the New Testament know that the Jews of Jesus' time were expecting a Messiah. This, however, had not always been the case. From Abraham to David, the Israelites were looking for the land promised by God and they conquered it. After David, they thought that a better king could not be found and, during the two and a half centuries that followed, they were only hoping that their present and future kings would resemble David. The very promise that God made to David about his descendants (2 Sam 7:14) was not understood as the announcement of a future Messiah.

Isaiah is the first to announce the Messiah, namely, a king like David but better. Here he is presented as a shoot coming from the stump, once the tree has been felled. Thus, he suggests that the present kings, who are sinners and without much faith, are going to disappear. More than a descendant of David, Emmanuel will be a new David (he is called son of Jesse like David).

The Spirit of the Lord will rest on him as he did on the prophets and more so. The prophets were inspired by a mysterious power called "Spirit of God", but not at all times. In him, the Spirit will always dwell.

– A spirit of wisdom and intelligence, as with Solomon.

– A spirit of prudence and strength, as with David.

– A spirit of knowledge and respect for the Lord, as with Moses and the Patriarchs.

To do justice for the meek was and continues to be the first function of kings. The Messiah-King will be God's deputy, attentive to the poor, and he must receive the Spirit, or Breath of God for this endeavor. We must not oppose material liberation to spiritual liberation as if believers were to let others build a more just world. God's work that saves persons, can never be separated from educating the people: it demands the repression of the oppressors and ruling in the fear of the Lord.

It would be wrong to think that, with Christ, truth the girdle of his loins.

⁶ The wolf will dwell with the lamb,
the leopard will take rest with the kid,
the calf and the lion cub will feed together and a little child will lead them.

⁷ Befriending each other, the cow and the bear will see their young ones lie down together.

Like cattle, the lion will eat hay.

⁸ By the cobra's den the infant will play.

Into the viper's lair the child will put his hand.

⁹ No one will harm or destroy over my holy mountain, for as water fills the sea
the earth will be filled with the knowledge of the Lord.

+ ¹⁰ On that day the Root of Jesse will be raised as a signal for the nations. The people will come in search of him, thus making his dwelling place glorious.

¹¹ On that day Yahweh will again raise his hand to reclaim the remnant of his people from Assyria, from Egypt, Pathros and Ethiopia, from Elam, Shinar, Hamath and from the coastlands of the sea.

¹² He will set up a signal for the nations, and assemble the exiles of Israel; He will gather the scattered people of Judah from all the corners of the earth.

¹³ Then Ephraim will cast off its jealousy and Judah will be rid of its enemies. Ephraim will not envy Judah nor Judah be hostile to Ephraim.

¹⁴ But the two will sweep down together upon the shoulder of Philistia to the west and plunder the people to the east. They will lay their hands upon Edom and Moab and make the children of Ammon their subjects.

¹⁶ There will be a highway for the remnant of His people coming back from Assyria, as there was for Israel coming out of Egypt.

Song of the saved

12 ¹ On that day you will say:
"I give thanks to you, O Lord.
Although you have been angry with me

your anger has been appeased and you have consoled me.

² God is indeed my salvation;
in him I trust and am not afraid,
for the Lord God is my strength.

this longing for justice is over. The love and forgiveness that Jesus proclaims bring about the salvation of humankind through truth, justice and shared food. Should we forget these requirements, "spiritual" and naive love would be nothing but illusions.

The renewal of God's people will be manifested in nature: the lion will eat grass. We could put this in modern terms: thanks to technology and a greater cooperation between people, nature's hostile forces will be placed at the service of man.

Beginning with Isaiah, the prophets will see the Messiah, or the future king anointed by God, as the man of the Spirit. See the second part of Is 42:1. Luke's Gospel will say this of Jesus: "The Spirit of God is upon me" (Lk 4:18). When the Spirit of God is conferred on believers through the sacrament of confirmation, the church recalls the Spirit of wisdom, intelligence, strength, etc.

+ This poem in 11:10-16 was written later at the time of the exile. It was placed here to develop the prophecy concerning the "stump of Jesse."

In verses 10 and 12 note the theme of the "signal for the nations," found also in Lk 2:35, though in a different form.

Then we have a song of thanksgiving. About the fountains of salvation, see Is 55:1 and the story of the Samaritan woman in Jn 4:1.

He is my song:
 he has become my salvation."
³ You will draw water with joy from the fountain of salvation.
⁴ On that day you will say:
 "Give thanks to the Lord, acclaim his name; among the nations proclaim his work and make known how exalted is his name."
⁵ Sing to the Lord, the Magnificent, Wonders he has done all over the
 earth.
⁶ Sing for joy,
 shout with exultation,
 O people of Zion,
 for great in your midst
 is the Holy One of Israel."

Against Babylon

■ 13 ¹ An oracle concerning Babylon.

seen by Isaiah, son of Amoz:

² On a bare hilltop raise a banner;
 cry aloud to them,
 wave a hand for them to enter the Gates of the Nobles.
³ I have ordered my sacred knights,
 I have summoned my mighty warriors—
 all those who rejoice in my triumph—
 I have commanded them to carry out my wrath.
⁴ Listen, a rumbling on the mountains
 as of a great multitude!
 Listen, a tumultuous uproar
 as of kingdoms massing together!
 Yes, Yahweh Sabaoth is mustering an army for war.
⁵ From faraway lands,
 from the ends of the heavens,
 they come – Yahweh
 and the instruments of his wrath—
 to destroy the whole earth.
⁶ Wail, for the day of Yahweh is near;
 it will come as destruction from the Almighty.

⁷ Every man's arm will go limp,
 every man's heart will fail him,
⁸ Every one will be gripped with terror.
 Pain and sorrow, taking hold of them,
 men will be in anguish
 like women in travail.
 They will look aghast at each other,
 their faces aflame as with fever.

⁹ See how the day of Yahweh comes:
 it is a cruel day
 coming with wrath and fierce anger.
 It will make the earth desolate;
 it will destroy sinners within it.

¹⁰ The stars and constellations at night will send forth no light, the moon will not shine; in the morning the sun will be dark as it rises.

¹¹ I punish the world for the evil it does,
 and the wicked for the sins they do.
 I make the arrogance of the proud cease;
 I end the haughtiness of the ruthless.

¹² I will make men scarcer than gold and mankind more rare than the gold of Ophir.

¹³ I will make the heavens tremble and the earth shake its foundation, at the wrath of Yahweh Sabaoth on the day of his burning anger.

¹⁴ Like a hunted gazelle, or like a flock without a shepherd
 each man will return to his own people, each one will flee to his native land.

¹⁵ Whoever is captured will be butchered,
 whoever is caught will be slaughtered.
¹⁶ Their babies will be dashed to pieces before their eyes,
 their houses will be looted,
 their wives will be raped.

¹⁷ Against them I will stir up the Medes, who take no pleasure in silver and find no delight in gold.

¹⁸ Their bows and arrows will strike down young men.
 Without mercy or compassion,
 they do not spare infants and children.

¹⁹ Babylon, the jewel of kingdoms, pride and glory of the Chaldeans, will be like Sodom and Gomorrah
 when overthrown by God.

²⁰ She will never be inhabited,

■ Chapters 13 to 33 are a series of oracles against the neighbouring people. The Bible calls them The nations, and since none of these people knew the only true God, they were pagans. And so, whenever we read "the nations" in the Bible, we could translate "the pagans" or

 "the foreigners".

The poem of 13:1-22 was written later in the days of the exile. The same is true of 14:1-2 and 14:22-23.

nor dwell in from age to age.

There no Arab will pitch his tent,
no shepherd will tend his flock.

²¹ There wild beasts of the desert will lie, howling creatures will fill the houses, owls and ostriches will dwell there and wild goats will leap about.

²² There mad dogs will cry out in her strongholds,

and jackals in her palaces.
Her time is close at hand;
her days are now numbered.

14 ¹ The Lord will take pity on Jacob, he will choose Israel again and settle them in their own land. Then foreigners will join them and be counted with the people of Jacob.

² Nations will take them and bring them to their own place. And the family of Israel will adopt in Yahweh's land those male and female captives and make of them servants and maids.

Thus the people of God will make captives of their captors and rule over their oppressors.

How you have fallen, shining star!

◆³ On the day Yahweh gives you rest from your suffering and turmoil, from your fear and your cruel bondage ⁴ you will take up this taunt against the king of Babylon:

How has the oppression ceased?

How has the strongman ended?

⁵ Yahweh has broken the staff of the wicked,

the scepter of the tyrant

⁶ who struck down the people with blow after blow, who ruled the nations in anger,
with unrelenting persecution.

⁷ The whole earth is at rest and at peace,

breaking forth into song.

⁸ Even the cypresses exult and the cedars of Lebanon say:

"Now that you have fallen,
no loggers come to cut us down."

⁹ The grave below is all astir to meet you when you come.
It stirs up the dead to greet you—
all who were leaders of the world.
It raises from their thrones—all who were kings of the nations.

¹⁰ They all speak and say to you:
"You say you are strong, but you are a weakling

you are as weak as we are;
in fact, you have become like us!

¹¹ All your pomp has been brought down to the grave, along with the sound of your harps;
maggots spread out beneath you and worms are your blanket.

¹² How are you fallen from heaven,
O Lucifer, son of the morning!
How are you cast down to the ground,

you who mowed down the nations!

¹³ You said in your heart,

"I will ascend to heaven,
I will raise my throne higher than the stars of God;
I will sit on the Mount of Assembly,
in the far recesses of the North.

¹⁴ I will climb up above the clouds;
I will be like the Most High!"

¹⁵ But down to the nether world you go,
to the deep recesses of the Pit.

¹⁶ All who see you stare at you and ponder over your fate:

"Is this the man who shook the
earth,

who made kingdoms quake, ¹⁷ who made the world a waste,
who overthrew its cities

◆ The poem in 14:3-21 was spoken by Isaiah on the occasion of the death of an Assyrian king. The prophet describes the fallen king as equal to his victims after his death.

It is worth noting how those empires of Assyria, Babylon and Egypt which dominated the world and made the Jews tremble disappeared without leaving a trace.

and would not give its captives release?"

¹⁸ All kings of nations lie in state,
each in his own tomb.

¹⁹ You are nevertheless cast out of the tomb,
like an untimely rejected birth,
like a trampled corpse buried under the slaughtered,
under those cut down by the sword,
thrown to the common grave.
²⁰ You were not given a monument for you have brought your land to ruin,
and caused your people to be slain.
May the descendants of evildoers never be mentioned again!
²¹ Go up, slaughter the sons for the sins of their fathers, lest they rise and possess the land and cover the earth with their cities.

²² "I will rise up against them, says
Yahweh Sabaoth.
I will cut off from Babylon her name, her remnant, offspring and posterity,"
says the Lord.

²³ "I will turn her into a swampland, into a habitation of reptiles and crocodiles;
I will sweep her with the broom of destruction," says Yahweh Sabaoth.

²⁴ Yahweh Sabaoth has sworn:
"As I have planned, so will it be!
As I have decided, so will I do

²⁵ I will destroy the Assyrian in my land, trample him down on my mountains;
take his yoke off my people's neck, and remove his burden from their shoulders.

²⁶ This is the plan proposed for the whole earth: this is the hand stretched out over all nations. ²⁷ Yahweh has made a decision, and who will annul it? His hand is stretched out, and who can turn it back?

Warning to the Philistines

²⁸ In the year King Ahaz died this oracle was proclaimed:

²⁹ "Rejoice not, all you Philistines, that the rod which smote you is broken;
from the root of the snake will come forth
a viper,

and its offspring will be a flying dragon.

³⁰ The cattle of the poor will have the best,
and the beggar will rest in safety.

But with famine I will kill your root
and slay even your remnant.

But with famine I will kill your root
and slay even your remnant.

³¹ Wail, O gate! cry, O city!
tremble in fear, all you Philistines!
For smoke comes from the north—
a great army sweeps down on you.

³² What answer will then be given to the messengers of the nation?

"Yahweh has laid the foundation of Zion, and there his afflicted people will take refuge."

Lament for Moab

15 ¹ An oracle concerning Moab: Laid waste in a night. Ar of Moab is ruined!

Laid waste in a night, Kir of Moab is ruined!

² The people of Diman have gone to the high places, to weep.
Over Nebo and Medeba, Moab wails.
Every head is shaved,
every beard is shorn.

³ In the streets they wear sackcloth;
on the rooftops and in the squares
every one wails,
every heart melts in tears.

⁴ Heshbon and Elealeh cry out;
their howling is heard as far as Jahaz;
the armed men of Moab cry aloud and their hearts are faint.

⁵ My heart cries out for Moab;
her fugitives flee as far as Zoar,
as far as Eglath-shelishiyah.
At the ascent of Luhith
they go up weeping;
on the way to Horonaim their cries are heart-rending.

21. Gen 11:24, 10:5 27. Dn 4:35 29. Am 5:19; 1. Jer 48:29-38 2. Am 8:10; Jon 3:6

• The following poems mostly celebrate the defeats of the various people forming the world around Judah. Isaiah's mission consisted in seeing and justifying the slow collapse of his nation. He delighted also in seeing that the pagan empires, driven by purely human ambitions, were going to their ruin. Isaiah judges in God's light.

In the world around him, he sees only human pride and God's infallible designs.

However, in 18:7 and 19:16-24, note two additions placed there much later. One of the Jews who settled in Egypt wrote these lines showing his conviction that one day the pagan nations would convert to the true God.

⁶ The watered fields of Nimrim have become a wasteland;
the turf is dried up,
the grass is withered,
the verdure is gone.

⁷ Now they carry away their possessions,
the wealth they have stored,
to the Brook of the Willows.

⁸ Their cry rings round the border of Moab,

resounds as far as Eglaim, reaches as far as Beer Elim.

⁹ The waters of Dimon flow with blood,
but worse is yet in store,
for I will bring lions upon Dimon,
upon those who escape from Moab,
and upon those who survive in the land.

cast out of their nests, the daughters of Moab stay at the fords of Arnon.

² They send lambs to the ruler of the land,
from Sela across the wilderness,
to the mountain of the Daughter of Zion.

³ Take counsel, render decision with justice.
Even at high noon
let your shade be like the night to hide the fugitives.
Do not betray the refugees.

⁴ Let the outcasts from Moab sojourn among you;
be a refuge to them
against the destroyer.

When the oppressor is no more and the destruction is over and those who trample the land underfoot have gone,

⁵ a throne will be established steadfast in love.

One from the House of David in all truth, will sit on it;
he will administer justice swiftly and judge the people righteously.

⁶ We have heard of the pride of Moab, of her arrogance and insolence,
of her empty pretensions.

⁷ Let her wail then,
and let every one wail for her.
Mourn for the raisin-cakes of Kirhareseth.

⁸ The fields of Heshbon languish, the vines of Sibmah wither.
The tyrants of the nations have trampled down the choicest vines,

those that once reached Jazer, spreading towards the desert, stretching out as far as the sea.

⁹ Therefore I weep as Jazer weeps for the vines of Sibmah.

I drench you, O Heshbon,
O Elealeh, with my tears!

For over your fruit and your vintage have been heard loud battle cheers.

¹⁰ But they are gone: joy and gladness have now vanished from your orchards.

In the vineyards
no more singing is heard,
no more shout of joy is raised.
In the winepresses
no foot treads out wine,
no voice shouts in exultation,
no heart sings a vintage song.

¹¹ Like a lyre, therefore,
my soul moans for Moab;
my heart pines for Kir-areseth.

¹² When Moab appears on the high places,
she will only grow weary;
when she goes to pray at the sanctuary,
it is to no avail.

¹³ This is the word which Yahweh has spoken against Moab in the past. But ¹⁴ now Yahweh says, "Within three years, as a servant bound by contract takes note of time, the glorious power of Moab will have ceased to command respect, her survivors will be very few and feeble."

Against Damascus

17

"Damascus will cease to be a city and will become a heap of ruins.

² Her towns will be abandoned and left as pasture for flocks;
there they will lie down afraid of no one.

³ Ephraim will be left undefended,
Damascus will no longer be a kingdom.

The remnant of Aram will have the same glory as the glory of the children of Israel."
This is Yahweh Sabaoth speaking.

⁴ On that day
the glory of Jacob will fade:
the fat of his flesh will waste away.

⁵ It will be as when a reaper gathers the standing grain and lops off the stalks, or as when they gather the gleanings
in the Valley of Rephaim.

⁶ Yet some gleanings remain, as when an olive tree is beaten—two or three olives are left on the topmost bough,
four or five on the fruitful branches,
— says Yahweh, the God of Israel.

⁷ On that day
man will look to his Creator.
his eyes turned to the Holy one of Israel.

⁸ He will not look to the altars,
to the work of his hand,
the sacred pole or the incense stand which his fingers have made.

⁹ On that day
your cities will be like the cities of the Hivites and the Amorites which they abandoned to the Israelites, as the neglected or forsaken boughs are abandoned to thickets and underbrush.

All will be desolation.

¹⁰ For you have forgotten the God of your salvation,
you have failed to remember the Rock of your refuge.

You may plant the finest plants,
you may plant vines from abroad,

¹¹ you may make them grow on the day you plant them, you may make them blossom
on the day you sow,
yet the harvest will be as nothing in the day of trouble, and on the day of grief and pain
the evil will be incurable.

The upsurge of nations

¹² Oh, the rage of many peoples—they rage like the raging sea!
Oh, the thunder of many nations—they thunder like the thundering of mighty waves!

¹³ But God rebukes them,
and far away they flee, swept away like chaff
on the hills before the wind, whirled away like eddying dust
before the thunderstorm.

¹⁴ At eventide they sow terror;
before morning they are no more.
Such is the portion of our despoilers, such is the lot of our plunderers.

Against Ethiopia

18 ¹ Woe to the land of whirling wings
beyond the rivers of Cush,

² which sends ambassadors by the sea in papyrus boats over the waters!

Go, swift messengers,
to a people tall and bronzed,
to a nation feared far and wide,
a nation conquering and strong,
whose land the rivers divide.

³ All you inhabitants of the world,
all you who dwell on earth,
when a banner on the mountain is raised look!

when a horn on the hill is sounded, listen!

⁴ For thus Yahweh spoke to me:
"From where I dwell, I gaze untroubled, like heat shimmering in the sunshine, like a cloud of dew in the heat of harvest."

⁵ For before the vintage,
when the flowers end,
and the blooms become ripened grapes,
I will shoot and prune and hew away spreading branches.

⁶ They will be left to the birds of prey and to the beasts of the earth.
The birds will feed on them all summer,
and the beasts all winter.

⁷ At that time, tall and bronzed people from a country traversed by rivers — a conquering and strong nation feared far and wide — will bring offerings to the Lord, to Mount Zion, for this is where the name of Yahweh Sabaoth dwells.

Against Egypt

19 ¹ An oracle concerning Egypt:
Yahweh rides on a swift cloud and comes to Egypt.

The idols of Egypt tremble before him;
the heart of Egypt melts within it.

² I will stir Egyptians against each other:
brother will fight against brother, friend against friend,
city against city,
kingdom against kingdom.

³ The Egyptians will be demoralized for I will confound their plans;

they will consult idols and sorcerers, ghosts and necromancers.

⁴ I will deliver the Egyptians into the hands of a cruel master, and a tyrant will be their ruler.
It is Yahweh Sabaoth who speaks.

⁵ The waters of the river will dry up;
the river bed will be parched

⁶ and the canals will become foul dry;
and the tributaries of Egypt's Nile cease to flow and dwindle.

The reeds and rushes will wither.

⁷The plants on the banks and at the mouth of the river, and all the crops along the Nile will dry up.
blow away and be no more.

⁸The fishermen will mourn,
all who cast hook in the Nile will groan,
and those who throw nets upon the waters will lament.

⁹The flax worker will be in despair,
the combers, too, and white cloth weavers;

¹⁰the spinners will be crushed;
the hired laborers despondent.

¹¹The princes of Zoan are utter fools, and brutish is the counsel of the wisest of Pharaoh's counselors.
How can you say to Pharaoh,

"I am one of the wise men, a disciple of ancient kings?"

¹²Where are your wise men?
Let them come forward now,
let them explain to you what Yahweh will do against Egypt.

¹³The princes of Zoan have become fools;
the princes of Memphis have been deceived;

Egypt is led astray by the chiefs of her tribes.

¹⁴Yahweh has poured into them a spirit which makes Egypt err in all her undertakings,
as a vomiting drunkard errs.

¹⁵And Egypt will never succeed in anything it undertakes by head or by tail, by palm or by reed.

Egypt will be converted

¹⁶On that day the Egyptians will be like a woman trembling in fear whenever they see the hand of Yahweh Sabaoth raised against them. ¹⁷Judah will be a terror to Egypt. Whenever they come to think of Judah, the Egyptians will be terrified because of the terrible fate Yahweh Sabaoth has in store for them.

¹⁸On that day there will be five cities in the land of Egypt speaking the language of Cana-an, in which people will call upon Yahweh Sabaoth. One of them is called the City of the Sun.

¹⁹On that day there will be an altar to Yahweh in the center of the land of Egypt and a sacred pillar to Yahweh at its border. ²⁰It will be a sign and a remembrance of Yahweh Sabaoth in the land of Egypt, so that they may call to him when in oppression, and he will send them a savior to defend and deliver them.

²¹Yahweh will reveal himself to the Egyptians. They will acknowledge him on that day and worship him with sacrifice and burnt offerings. They will make vows to Yahweh and perform them. ²²Yahweh will strike Egypt and then cure it. When they convert to him, he will heal them and heed their supplications.

²³On that day there will be a highway from Egypt to Assyria. Assyrians will come to Egypt, and Egyptians to Assyria, for the Egyptians will serve the Assyrians.

²⁴On that day, Israel will be a third party with Egypt and Assyria – a blessing on earth.
²⁵And Yahweh will bless them, saying,
"Blessed be Egypt my people, Assyria my creation, and Israel my heritage."

Isaiah goes as a prisoner

+20 ¹In the year that the general sent by Sargon, king of Assyria, made an assault upon Ashdod, capturing it, ²Yahweh gave a warning through Isaiah, the son of Amoz, saying, "Hang the sackcloth from your hips, take off your sandals and go." He did so, and walked naked and barefoot.

³Then Yahweh said: Just as my servant Isaiah has walked naked and barefoot for three years as a sign and portent for Egypt and Ethiopia, ⁴so will the king of Assyria lead away captives from Egypt and exiles from Ethiopia, both the young and the old, naked and barefoot, their buttocks uncovered, to the disgrace of Egypt.
⁵Those who pinned their hope upon Ethiopia and made a boast of Egypt will be frightened and put to shame.

⁶On that day the inhabitants of this

+ We can easily imagine the impact of this symbolic gesture. Egypt was among the powerful of the time. Compared with Assyria, representing military power, Egypt was the richer country, with a more refined civilization. The Jews were counting on Egypt and were asking for help: chariots and horses.

"Alas for those who trust in man" (Jer 17:5).

coastland will say, "Look at what happened to those we trusted and fled to for help and deliverance from the king of Assyria! What are we going to do now to save ourselves?"

Fall of Babylon

21 ¹An oracle concerning the Desert by the Sea:

A fearful vision is shown to me:
As whirlwinds sweep over the Negeb, coming in waves from the desert,
from the fearful land

² the traitor betrays,
the plunderer plunders,
"Go up, O Elam!
Lay siege, O Media!"

³ I have silenced all my groaning,
for this I am in anguish;
my body is wracked with pain
as a woman in travail.
I am so bewildered that I cannot hear,
I am so dismayed that I cannot see.

⁴ My mind reels,
my heart falters in fear:
the twilight I longed for has become a horror.

⁵ They set the tables,
they spread the rugs,
they eat and drink.
Arise, O princes,
oil the shield!

⁶ For this is what Yahweh said to me,
"Go, post a watchman and make him report what he sees.

⁷ If he sees riders:
horsemen in pairs,
men mounted on camels,
men mounted on donkeys,
let him observe diligently,
let him listen attentively."

⁸ Then the watchman shouted,
"On a watchtower, O Lord, I stand through all the watches of the day, and at my post I stay through all the watches of the night.
⁹ and look, here come riders,
horsemen in pairs."
And he spoke up again:

Fallen is Babylon, fallen,
and all the graven images of her gods lie shattered on the ground!"

¹⁰ O my people, threshed and winnowed,
I announce to you what I have heard from Yahweh Sabaoth, the God of Israel.

Against Edom and Arabia

¹¹An oracle concerning Dumah:
Someone calls to me out of Seir,
"Watchman, what of the night?
Watchman, what of the night?"

¹² The watchman answers,
"Morning comes, but soon
it will be night again.
Come back and ask,
if you want to ask again."

¹³An oracle concerning Arabia:
In the forest of Arabia lodge
the Dedanites' travelling companies.

¹⁴ Those who dwell in the land of Tema, went to meet the fugitives:
bring bread for the hungry and water for the thirsty.

¹⁵ These people have fled from the sword,
from the whetted swords,
from the bent bows,
from the fury of battle.

¹⁶ For thus Yahweh says to me, "In a year's time, as a worker bound by contract would reckon it, all the glory of Kedar will come to an end. ¹⁷ Few of Kedar's archers and warriors will remain." Yahweh God of Israel has spoken.

22 ¹An oracle concerning the Valley of Vision.

What ails you now,
that you have all gone up to the housetops,

² you with your hustle and bustle
a tumultuous city, a wanton town?
Your slain men

have not been killed by the sword nor have they died in battle.

³ Together your leaders have fled;
they were captured under the threat of the bows.

Your valiants were caught together,
they had fled far away.

⁴ That is why I say,

9. Jer 51, 8; Rev 18, 2

10. 41, 15

4. Jer 9, 17; 8, 19

■ Against the Valley of the Vision, namely, the cursed valley "Gehenna", bordering Jerusalem to the south. All the people went up to express their delight. Hezekiah's military victory or costly surrender to the Assyrians? Isaiah knows that this meager success means tomorrow's defeat and humiliation. If they had listened to him instead of relying on their strength and their diplomacy, the Lord would have saved them.

"Look away from me.
I will weep bitterly.
Do not try to comfort me over the ruin of the daughter of my people."

This day of trampling and rout is from the Lord Yahweh Sabaoth.
In the Valley of Vision they undermine the walls and the cries for help ascend to the mountains.

⁶ Elam bears the quiver with charioteers and horsemen;
Kir uncovers the shield.
⁷ Chariots are all over your choicest valleys;
horsemen are stationed at the gates.
⁸ Judah is stripped of her defenses.

Let us eat and drink!

◆ On that day you turned your eyes to the arsenal at the Palace of the Forest. ⁹ You saw the many breaches in the defenses of the city of David.
You gathered together the waters of the lower pool.

¹⁰ You counted the houses of Jerusalem and tore down some of them to strengthen the wall. ¹¹ You built a reservoir between the two walls for the water of the old Pool.

But you gave no thought to its Maker. You had no regard for him who had planned it long ago. ¹² On that day the Lord Yahweh Sabaoth called you to weep and mourn, to shave your head and put on sackcloth.

¹³ But look, instead of all this, there is wanton revelry; oxen are butchered and sheep are slaughtered. You eat meat and get drunk, saying, "Let us eat and drink for tomorrow we die."

¹⁴ What you did and said has reached the ears of Yahweh Sabaoth.
"Surely this sin will not be forgiven, until you die," says the Lord Yahweh Sabaoth.

Against a minister

¹⁵ Thus says the Lord Yahweh Sabaoth: Go and talk to this man Shebna, who is the palace steward. Ask him:

¹⁶ What are you doing here?
What right have you to carve a resting place on the heights, to cut out a burial place
for yourself here in the rock?
¹⁷ Look here, O you, strongman, Yahweh will seize you;
He will carry you away in captivity and take firm hold of you.

¹⁸ He will roll you up,
toss you like a ball,
then violently hurl you down
into a large open land.
There you will perish,
with the chariots of your glory,
O you, the shame of your master's house!

¹⁹ You will be deposed, strongman.
I will hurl you down from where you are.

²⁰ On that day I will summon my servant Eliakim, son of Hilkiah.
²¹ I will clothe him with your robe,
I will strengthen him with your girdle,
I will give him your authority,
and he will be a father to the inhabitants of Jerusalem and to the people of Judah.

²² Upon his shoulders I will place the key of the House of David:
what he opens, no one can shut;

◆ The Jews have been dragged into a new coalition against Assyria (705-701). Hezekiah reinforces Jerusalem's defenses before Sennacherib's arrival.

Isaiah looks at the restlessness of those men who refused to hear the call of Yahweh: he was asking them to stay out of fruitless struggles and to dedicate themselves to bringing about justice.

Neither Assyria nor Egypt is the saviour that Israel needs. Assyria and Egypt, fighting against each other for predominance, are not preparing a civilization for the future. In the days of Isaiah, no one knew that Assyria and Egypt were about to disappear, or to lose their influence. People could not guess that the following centuries would be dominated by new cultures based on moral values (Buddhism) or on a new sense of man's creative personality (Greek culture). And Israel will also create one of these cultures thanks to its sense of responsibility, in response to the demand for justice and its obedience to God's word which Isaiah is proclaiming.

Seemingly Isaiah knows nothing about politics and forgets what is needed for the security of his country, too small to survive without help. But, in fact, he indicates the most pressing poli-what he shuts, no one can open.

²³ I will fasten him like a peg
in a sure spot,
and he will be a seat of honour
in the house of his father.

²⁴ (Upon him will hang all the glory of his father's house – offspring and descendants, all the little vessels from bowls to jars.

²⁵ On that day, says Yahweh Sabaoth, the peg fastened in a sure spot will give way; it will be cut down and the load hanging on it will fall.
(Thus Yahweh has spoken.)

'Against Tyre

o23 ¹ An oracle concerning Tyre:

Wail, O ships of Tarshish, for Tyre is destroyed!

When you return from Kittim
you will hear the news and wonder.

² Keep silent, merchants of Sidon
all you inhabitants of the coast.
Your messengers passed over the sea;
the grain of Shihor,

³ came across the wide oceans,
the harvest of the Nile.

were your income
and became the wealth of the nations.

⁴ Be ashamed, O Sidon, refuge on the sea,

for the sea has spoken.

"Have I not had labor pains and brought forth children?

Have I not nourished young men and brought up daughters?"

⁵ Those in Egypt will be in anguish when they learn the fate of Tyre.

⁶ You who dwell on the coastlands, wail as you pass over to Tarshish.

⁷ Is this the antique city, your pride, whose feet had carried her afar to found colonies in distant lands?

⁸ Who has planned this against Tyre, the imperial city whose merchants are princes, whose traders are among the great ones of the world?

⁹ It is Yahweh Sabaoth who planned this,
to humble the pride of all majesty,
to bring down the glory of the great ones of the world.

¹⁰ Till your land like the valley of the Nile

O Daughter of Tarshish,
you have no more shipbuilding yard.

¹¹ Yahweh has stretched out his hand over the sea to make kingdoms tremble.
He has ordered the destruction of the fortresses of Phoenicia.

¹² He has said, "Rejoice no longer, ravished virgin daughter of Sidon.
Arise, pass over to Cyprus;
even there you will find no rest.

¹³ Look at the land of the Chaldeans,
a people now of no account.
The Assyrians have destined the land to be a place for wild beasts.

They have erected siege towers and demolished her bastions, razed her palaces, completely reducing her to ruins.

¹⁴ Wail, O ships of Tarshish, for your haven is destroyed.

¹⁵ On that day, Tyre will be forgotten for seventy years, about the span of a king's life.
Then at the end of seventy years, it will happen to Tyre as in a harlot's song:

¹⁶ Take a harp, go about the city, forgotten harlot, sing your sweetest song, play your best melody, that they may remember you.

¹⁷ At the end of seventy years, Yahweh will visit Tyre. She will return to her hire and once again play whore with all the kingdoms of the world on the face of the earth. ¹⁸ But her wages and activities as harlot will be dedicated to Yahweh, instead of being stored or hoarded.
Her profits will go to those who live in the presence of Yahweh, that they may have abundant food and beautiful clothes.

tical needs when he speaks of establishing national life on just and moral bases. This is the way to prepare for an unknown future, knowing that God is the one who has planned history long ago.

The people are having a good time in order to forget their tragedy. Let us eat and drink, for tomorrow we die: Paul recalls these words in 1 Cor 15:32.

• The poems found in this chapter are not Isaiah's. They were written much later.

+ When Isaiah was announcing the coming of Emmanuel and a new "victory of Midian," he

³ Ravaged, ravaged is the land, ruined, ruined is the world,
for Yahweh has spoken.

⁴ The earth mourns and withers,
the world pines and fades,
both heaven and earth languish.

⁵ The land lies polluted, defiled by its inhabitants who have transgressed the laws, violated the ordinance,
and broken the covenant.

⁶ Therefore a curse consumes the land and its people burn for their guilt.
Few of its inhabitants are left.

⁷ The new wine mourns,
the vine pines away,
all the revellers groan.

⁸ Stilled are the merry timbrels,
ended is the noise of the revellers, silenced are the harps and lyres.

⁹ No more will they drink wine with a song:

strong drink tastes bitter to the drinker.

¹⁰ Broken down is the city of confusion, barred is the entrance to every house.

¹¹ In the streets there is a cry for wine:
all joy is gone,
all cheer has left the land.

¹² The city is left in distress its ruined market is deserted.

¹³ So will it be on earth and among nations,

as at the beating of the olive trees,
as at the gleaning of the grapes
at the time of the vintage.

¹⁴ But those from the west lift up their voices and sing the majesty of Yahweh.

¹⁵ Those from the west give glory to
Yahweh,
in the coastlands of the sea,
to the name of Yahweh, the God of Israel.

¹⁶ From the remotest part of the earth
we hear songs of praise:
"Glory to the Righteous One."

But "Enough, enough," I say.
"I pine away, I pine away.
Woe to me! The traitors betray!
With treachery, the traitors betray!"

¹⁷ Terror, pit and snare await you, inhabitants of the earth.

¹⁸ He who flees at the cry of terror falls into the pit,
and he who climbs out of the pit
gets caught in the snare.
For the floodgates of heaven are opened and the earth shakes to its foundation.

¹⁹ The earth is broken down,
the earth is in convulsion.

²⁰ The earth reels like a drunkard,
it sways like a hut in the storm, weighed down by its transgression,
and it falls, never to arise again.

²¹ On that day Yahweh will punish the host of the heavens above, and the kings of the earth below.

²² They will be gathered together as prisoners are gathered in the pit;
they will be shut up in a dungeon and after a time, punished.

²³ Then the moon will be confounded and the sun ashamed, when Yahweh Sabaoth reigns on Mount Zion and in Jerusalem, and lets his Glory be shown to his elders.

Thanksgiving

25 'Yahweh, You are my God;
I exalt You and praise Your name.

You have done wonderful things faithful and true, planned long ago.

² You have made the city a heap,
the massively defended city a ruin.

is a city no more nor will it ever be rebuilt.

was expecting this soon. He could see that events were heading for a crisis in which God would give victory to his people.

However, after the exile and the return to Palestine, when nothing was happening, many Jews despaired because history was following its usual course. They lost trust in human power to bring about something really new and placed all their hopes in a divine intervention that would shake the world order.

This expectation is expressed in these chapters 24-27 which were inserted into the book of Isaiah long after him, when the Jews returned to their land. The poems are interrupted by psalms and prayers.

- 25:6-9: The banquet of the saved after Judgment. John will use these images in Revelation 7:17 and 21:4.
- 27:2-5: A song about the vineyard in contrast with the threatening song of 5:1-7.
- 26:7-21: Psalm of hope which we highlight.

³ Therefore a strong people glorifies You; the head of a great nation holds You in awe.

⁴ For you have been a refuge to the poor, a haven to the needy in time of distress, a harbor in the storm,
a shade from the heat.
For the blast from the ruthless is like an icy storm,
like the heat in a dry place.

You silence the noise of foreigners;
you subdue the singing of the despot and the proud.

⁶ On this mountain Yahweh Sabaoth will prepare for all peoples a feast of rich food and choice wines, meat full of marrow,
fine wine strained.

⁷ On this mountain he will destroy the covering cast over all peoples, this very shroud
spread over all nations,

⁸ and swallow up death in victory.
The Lord Yahweh will wipe away
the tears from all cheeks and eyes;
he will take away
the reproach of his people from all over the world;
for Yahweh has spoken.

⁹ On that day you will say: This is our God;
we have waited for him to save us;
we hope and rejoice in his salvation.

¹⁰ For on this mountain
the hand of Yahweh rests.

Moab will be trodden down,
as straw trodden down on a dunghill.
¹¹ He will stretch forth his hands there,
as a swimmer spreads out his hands.
But Yahweh will strike down their pride together with their falsehood.
¹² He will raze the high-walled fortress;
He will bring it down to the level of the ground, as dust.

Song of victory

26 ¹ On that day
this song will be sung
in the land of Judah:
We have a strong city,
he himself has set it up in safety with walls and fortification.
² Open the gates!
Let the righteous nation enter,
she who is firm in faithfulness.
³ You keep in perfect peace
the one of steadfast mind,
the one who trusts in You.
⁴ Trust in Yahweh forever, for the Lord God, Yahweh,
is an everlasting Rock.
⁵ He brought down those who dwell on high,
he layed low the lofty city,
he razed it to the ground,
to the level of the dust,
⁶ and there it is trampled
by the feet of the destitute,
by the footsteps of the oppressed.

Psalm of Hope

■ This psalm of hope was written long after Isaiah. It shows Jewish piety in the centuries after their return home, following the exile.

While they were in exile, they were subject to foreigners (13-14); they acknowledged their mistakes and they began to be more consistent in their faith (16). They hoped for their liberation (17). They believed that upon return, they would build a better world, but this apparently did not happen (18), since the pagans remain in the Holy Land and they continue to make the life of believers difficult (10-12). And so the people pray to God for the time of their restoration. And God, being just, will not only grant them the liberation of the living, but he will also raise the innocent victims who trusted in him, so that they may also know God's peace (19-21).

O Yahweh, we hope in you; your name and your memory are all the desire of our hearts.

⁹ My soul yearns for you in the night; for you my spirit keeps vigil. When your judgment comes to earth, the world's inhabitants learn to be upright.

¹⁰ When favour is shown to the wicked, he does not learn to be righteous. He does evil in a land of integrity and fails to see Yahweh's majesty.

¹¹ Yahweh, your hand is lifted up, but they fail to see that. Let them see your zeal for your people, that they may be put to shame. Let your enemies be burned in the fire of your anger.

¹² Yahweh, please give us peace; for all that we accomplish is your work.

¹³ O Yahweh, our God, other lords besides you have ruled us, but it is your name alone that we honour.

¹⁴ They are now dead, never to rise again, for you have destroyed them. You have wiped out all remembrance of them.

¹⁵ You have enlarged the nation, O Yahweh; you have given glory to your name; you have widened the borders of the country.

¹⁶ Yahweh, we sought you in distress, while we cried out in anguish under your chastisement.

¹⁷ As a woman in travail moans and writhes in pain, so were we in your presence.

¹⁸ We conceived, we had labor pains, but we gave birth to the wind. We have not brought salvation to the land, and the inhabitants of a new world have not been born.

¹⁹ Your dead will live! Their corpses will rise! Awake and sing, you who lie in the dust!

Let your dew fall, O Lord, like a dew of light, and the earth will throw out her dead.

²⁰ Come, my people, enter your rooms and shut the doors behind you; hide yourselves for a short time until his wrath is over.

²¹ For look, Yahweh is coming out of his dwelling to punish the inhabitants of the earth for their sins. The earth will reveal the blood shed upon her and will not conceal her slain any longer.

The vineyard of Yahweh

27 ¹ On that day, with his fierce, strong, and powerful sword,

Yahweh will punish Leviathan, the twisting serpent always fleeing; he will slay the dragon of the sea.

² On that day, he will say, "Praise my fruitful vineyard! ³ I, Yahweh, am its keeper; I water it every moment. So that no one will harm it, day and night I guard it."

⁴ "I have no wall, who will cleanse me from thorns?"

"I myself will march against them, I will burn them altogether. ⁵ Or if they come to me for refuge, let them make peace with me, yes, let them make peace with me."

⁶ In the days to come Jacob will take root, Israel will blossom and bear many a shoot and fill the face of the earth with fruit.

⁷ Has Yahweh beaten them as he beat those who beat them?

Has he slain them as he slew those who slew them?

⁸ With expulsion and exile the city has been punished; with a blast as fierce as a storm from the east,

* By this, therefore, the guilt of Jacob will be expiated and he will atone for his sins when he pulverizes all the altar stones like chalkstones crushed to pieces. No more Asherah poles or incense altars!

¹⁰ For the fortified city is abandoned: it lies deserted now, a forsaken habitation left like a wilderness.

There the calves graze, there they lie down, and there they strip bare its branches.

¹¹ Its dry boughs are broken women come and make fire with them. This is a people without understanding; therefore their Maker will not spare them; he will not show compassion for them.

¹² On that day, between the Euphrates and the Wadi of Egypt,

Yahweh will thresh out the grain. One by one you will be gleaned O people of Israel.

¹³ On that day a great trumpet will blow, and those who were perishing in the land of Assyria and those who were driven out to the land of Egypt will return to worship the Lord on the mountain in Jerusalem.

The irresponsible rulers

◆ 28 ¹ Woe to the drunkards of Ephraim proudly adorned, that fading flower of luxurious beauty on the head of a rich valley – all are dizzy with wine.

² Look, the Lord is sending a powerful and strong one. Like a downpour of hail, like a destructive tempest, like flooding water in torrential rain, He will cast it down to the ground ³ that proud ornament of the drunkards of Ephraim.

He will trample it underfoot – ⁴ that fading flower of glorious beauty on the head of a rich valley. It will be like an early fruit which ripened before summer: as soon as someone sees it he picks it, and while it is yet in his hand he eats it.

⁵ On that day, Yahweh Sabaoth will be a glorious ornament, a diadem of beauty, to the remnant of His people. ⁶ He will be a spirit of justice to him who sits in judgment, a source of strength to those who turn back the enemies at the gate.

Scoffers beware

⁷ But they also have erred through wine, reeling and stumbling from strong drink. Priests and prophets stagger, befuddled with wine, reeling when seeing visions, stumbling when rendering decisions. ⁸ All the tables are full of vomit; there is not a spot without filth.

⁹ "Who does he think he is teaching? Who does he think listen to him? Babies just weaned from their mother's milk? Babies just taken from their mother's breast?"

◆ Chapters 28-35. In these chapters we find a mixture of many poems from very different sources.

- 28:1-14 Oracles against Samaria: spoken in the period immediately before its destruction (721); see commentary on 2:6-19. Note in verses 9-13: the priests and the false prophets make fun of Isaiah; they say that his words are no more than warnings to little children. Isaiah tells them: since you do not want to understand the Lord's clear message, he will speak to you loudly through events which will upset you (also in 29:14).

Two oracles recalled in the Gospel: 28:16 and 29:13.

Several oracles spoken during the 701 crisis.

- 28:14-15 and 28:18-19: against the king's evil advisers: they oppose God's will.
- 30:1-17: against Egypt.
- 29:1-12; 30:27-33 and 33:7-16: against Assyria and its king, Sennacherib: "Ariel" or "Lion of God" means Jerusalem.
- 30:18-26 and 32:15-20: about future prosperity.

Several poems from the days of the Exile or much later.

¹⁰ Who cares to hear his Keep quiet, Keep quiet!
Wait a little, wait a little!"

¹¹ Yes, surely with stammering lips and in a strange tongue,
he will talk to this nation,

¹² he who once said to them,
"This is rest, give rest to the weary";
and, "This is repose."
But they would not listen.

¹³ That is why Yahweh now says:
Keep quiet, Keep quiet!
Wait a little, wait a little!

so that when they have to go forward,
they will instead fall backward;
they will be injured and snared and taken captive.

¹⁴ Therefore, listen to the word of Yahweh, you scoffers who rule these people of Jerusalem.

¹⁵ Because you make a boast;
"We have made a covenant with death;
we have made a pact with the nether world.

When the flood passes by
it cannot harm us,
for we have made lies our refuge and falsehood our hiding place."

o ¹⁶ Therefore the Lord Yahweh says this:
See, I lay in Zion a granite stone,
a precious cornerstone,
a sure foundation;
he who believes shall not be put to shame.
¹⁷ I will make justice the measure and righteousness the plumb line.

Violent hail will sweep away the refuge of lies and raging waters will overflow the hiding place.

¹⁸ Your covenant with death will not stand,
your pact with the nether world will be annulled.

When the overwhelming flood passes
you will be crushed by it.

¹⁹ Morning after morning,
by day and by night,

the scourge will seize and crush you.
If you understood this message,
you would be terrified.

²⁰ The bed is too short to stretch out on,
the blanket too narrow to wrap around
you.

²¹ Yahweh will arise as on Mount Perazim,
he will rouse himself as in the Valley of Gibeon,

to work his work – his singular work;
to do his deed – his strange deed.

²² Put an end to your mocking, or your bonds will be tightened, for I have heard the destruction decreed against the whole earth
by the Lord Yahweh Sabaoth.

Parable of the farmer

²³ Listen to my words, pay attention and understand what I say.

²⁴ Does the ploughman do nothing but plow, loosen the earth, pulverize the clods with a harrow?

²⁵ After levelling the soil, does he not begin to sow caraway and scatter cummin, wheat and barley in its place and spelt in the border.
²⁶ For his God instructs him on what to do, He gives him guidance and discretion, too.

²⁷ For caraway is not threshed nor cummin rolled, but caraway is beaten, and cummin also with the stick.

²⁸ Is the wheat milled in the threshing floor? Is it threshed without end? They put in movement chariot and horses but do not grind
it.

²⁹ All comes from Yahweh Sabaoth whose advice is excellent, whose wisdom is wonderful.

Hurricane on Jerusalem

29 ¹ Woe to Ariel – Ariel, the city against which David encamped.

After a year or two,
after the feasts have made their full round,

introduction to chapter 24).
– 35: the return from Exile, similar to Isaiah 40-41.
– 33:17-22: Dream of an era of peace.

o The Lord builds the foundations of the new Jerusalem. On the cornerstone we read: "He who leans on it will not be shaken". The new people of God will be a believing people and so no power will dominate them. Even before

² I will lay siege on Ariel and there will be grief and mourning.
To me she will be like an Ariel.
³ I will send warriors against you;
they will encircle you with outposts and raise siegeworks against you.
⁴ Thrown down, you will speak from the ground:
from the dust your words will come muffled,
your voice will rise as a ghost's, your speech will be a whisper in the dust.
But in a flash,
⁵ the horde of your enemies will be like
dust,
the horde of tyrants, flying chaff.
⁶ For suddenly, Yahweh Sabaoth will come with thunder, earthquake and great noise,
with whirlwind and thunderstorm
and flames of consuming fire.
⁷ The hordes of all nations that fight against Ariel, that attack and besiege her fortress,
will vanish like a dream,
like a vision in the night.
⁸ As when a hungry man dreams he is eating and awakens with an empty stomach, or when a thirsty man dreams he is drinking and awakens with a parched throat, so will the horde of nations that make war against Zion.
⁹ Be irresolute, be stupefied, lose your sight and remain blind!
Be drunk but not from wine,
stagger but not from beer.
¹⁰ For Yahweh has poured out on you
a spirit of deep sleep;
He has shut your eyes – the prophets;
He has covered your heads – the seers.

¹¹ The revelation of all this has become for you like the words of a sealed scroll. When someone gives it to another and says, "Read this," the other one answers, "I cannot," ¹² it is sealed." When the scroll is given to one who cannot read and commanded, "Read this," he answers "I cannot read."

Christ, the Jews understood this "cornerstone" to refer to the Messiah (see Psalm 118:22).
Jesus applied the term to himself (see Mt 21:42 and Eph 2:21). Paul also recalls this new foundation in 2 Tim 2:19.

+ Reproaches against those who only pay lip

This people honours me in words

+ ¹³ Yahweh has said; "These people approach me in words; they honour me with lip-service, while their hearts stay afar. They worship me in routine observance of men's precepts.

Now therefore, ¹⁴ I will perform marvels on them once more: I will make the wisdom of their wise men perish; I will make the understanding of their prudent men vanish.

¹⁵ Woe to those who hide deep from Yahweh their plans, who work in the dark and say,
"Who will know, and who will see us?"

¹⁶ You turn things upside down, as though the potter were the clay,
and of him it could say,
"He did not make me; he knows nothing."

¹⁷ In a very short time, Lebanon will become a fruitful field and the fruitful field will be as a forest.

¹⁸ On that day
the deaf will hear the words of the book, and out of the dark and obscurity
the eyes of the blind will see.

¹⁹ The meek will find joy and the poor among men will rejoice in the Holy One of Israel.

²⁰ For the tyrant will be no more and the strongman gone forever, and all who plan
to do evil will be cut down –

²¹ those who by a word make a man guilty those who for a bribe can lay a snare and send home the just empty-handed.

²² Therefore Yahweh, Abraham's redeemer, speaks concerning the people of Jacob:
No longer will Jacob be ashamed;
no longer will his face grow pale.
²³ When he sees the work of my hands,
his children again in their land,
they will sanctify my name,
they will sanctify the Holy One of Jacob,
and stand in awe of the God of Israel.

service without deepening their faith. Against religion passed on like past customs or taught as a school program. God then will teach them through unforeseen events which disturb their short-sighted wisdom. See Mt 15:8 and 1 Cor 1:19.

²⁴Those who err in spirit will understand;
those who murmur will learn.

Do not rely on the great powers

30 ¹"Woe to the rebellious children,"
says the Lord;

"they make plans which are not mine,
they form alliances I did not inspire,
and thus add sin upon sin.

² They go down to Egypt without my advice to take refuge in Pharaoh's protection and seek shelter in the shadow of Egypt.

³ Therefore Pharaoh's protection will be your shame

and Egypt's shadow your confusion.

⁴ For when your officials reach Zoan and your ambassadors come to Hanes,

⁵ they will all be put to shame by a people who can do nothing for
them,
who can give neither help nor benefit but only disgrace and reproach."

⁶ An oracle concerning the beasts of the Negeb:

Through a distressed and troubled land
of lions and lionesses,
of vipers and darting snakes, the envoys carry their riches upon the shoulders of young asses, their treasures upon the humps of camels,

to a people that is of no use to them.

⁷ For the Egyptians will help in vain and to no purpose.

Therefore I call Egypt
Scarecrow, the Do-Nothing.

Just tell us pleasant things

⁸ Now go, write it down as a record for them, inscribe it on a scroll for them to keep, to be an everlasting accusation against them:

⁹ "These are a rebellious people, their children deceitful. They do not listen to Yahweh's instruction.

¹⁰ To the seers they say, "See not," and to the prophets, "Do not prophesy the truth. Just tell us pleasant things, see illusions and prophesy deceits." ¹¹ Stray out of the path, out of your way! Take away from us the Holy One of Israel!"

¹² Therefore the Holy One of Israel says,
"Because you despise this word, and you trust rather perverseness and oppression, choosing to stay with it, ¹³ therefore this guilt of yours will be like a breach on a high wall, cracked and bulging, ready to fall; the crash will come suddenly and instantly.

¹⁴ It will be like the breaking of a potter's vessel, smashed so ruthlessly that among its fragments not one shard remains big enough to scoop cinder out of the hearth or ladle water out of the cistern."

¹⁵ For thus said the Lord Yahweh,
the Holy One of Israel:
"Conversion and calmness are your salvation,

quietness and trust will be your bravery."
But you would have none of these.

¹⁶ Instead you said,
"No, we will flee on horses!"
Very well then, flee!

And you added,
"We will ride on swift steeds."
Your pursuer will be swifter.

¹⁷ At the threat of one, a thousand will flee,
at the threat of five all will flee, till what is left of you will be like a staff on a mountaintop, like a banner on a hill.

The coming prosperity

grace; he rises to show you compas-

■ A poem condemning the alliance with Egypt.

Note in verses 8-15: Isaiah keeps quiet after the failure of his mission, as in 8:11. A man of faith is not impressed by dangers; he only trusts in the word of God.

o God loves us and teaches us. This poem speaks of all the marvels to be discovered when meeting God through tears.

You will see that your idols are unclean.
They have become aware that they are serving false gods. Idolatry does not mean only keeping carved gods, but also trusting people, serving institutions and envying the things that these images represent. Following Ezekiel we can see:

- The idolatry of the Egyptians: confidence in a super-organized state giving food to everyone, but depriving them of freedom.
- The idolatry of the Assyrians: worship of power and male-centeredness.
- The idolatry of the Babylonians: the longing for money and routine work have invaded all of their lives. Men have no time to live and they do not question the meaning of their lives.

sion. For Yahweh is a God of justice. Blessed are all who wait for him.

¹⁹ O people of Zion, who dwell in Jerusalem, you will weep no more. When you cry, he will listen; when he hears, he will answer.

²⁰ When the Lord has given you the bread of anguish and the water of distress, he who is your teacher will hide no longer. ²¹ Your own eyes will see him, and your ear will listen to his words behind you: "This is the way, walk in it."

²² You will see the uncleanness of your idols and images overlaid with silver and gold. You will throw them out like menstrual cloth. "Away with you then!" you will say to them.

²³ He will then give rain for the seed you sow and make the harvest abundant from the crops you grow. On that day your cattle will graze in large pastures. ²⁴ Your beasts of burden will eat silage tossed to them with pitchfork and shovel.

²⁵ For on the day of the great slaughter, when fortresses fall, streams of water will flow on every mountain and lofty hill.

²⁶ The light of the moon will be as the light of the sun, and the light of the sun will be seven times greater, like the light of seven days, when Yahweh binds up the wounds of his people and heals the bruises inflicted by his blows.

Assyria will be sacrificed

²⁷ Look, from afar
the Name of Yahweh is coming burning in anger,

with a heavy hand
Filled with fury are his lips,
like a consuming fire is his tongue.

²⁸ Like a rushing torrent is his breath rising up to the neck, shaking the nations
as in a sieve of destruction, putting the bit of his bridle between the jaws of the peoples and thus causing them to err and stray.
²⁹ You will have singing, as on the night of a holy solemnity;
your hearts will rejoice
as when people go up with flutes to the mountain of the Lord, to the mighty One of Israel.

³⁰ Yahweh will make his majestic voice heard

and show his arm descending in devastating fury and consuming fire, with sweeps of wind and bursts of thunder.

³¹ At the voice of Yahweh, Assyria will be battered;
at the blows of his rod,
it will be shattered.

³² Every beat of the punishing rod will be in rhythm with timbrels and lyres.

Yahweh will fight against him with outstretched hand

³³ For the pyre has long been ready, prepared for the king.
Broad and deep is its fire pit piled up with dry grass and wood.
The breath of the Lord,
like a stream of brimstone,
will set it ablaze.

Look to the Holy One of Israel

31 ¹ Woe to those who go down to Egypt for help, who pin their hopes on cavalry, putting their trust in chariots because they are many, relying on horsemen because they are strong.

Why did they not look to the Holy

◆ This text continues the poem of 30:1 and presents the three protagonists of political power. There are two "great powers" and between them, the small Jewish nation trying to survive. The kings call on Egypt against Assyria and then, on Assyria against Egypt.

Isaiah's teaching is firm: before getting in-involved in dangerous political games, the king must be just and the people must be faithful to the commandments. Then, all will be able to rely on God, their Rock. The word of God continues to be meaningful today:

- for the dominated people of the third world.
- for the church when it feels threatened.

One of Israel or consult Yahweh?
²And yet he is very wise, and from him disgrace will come.

He does not go back on his word; he will rise against the evildoers, and cut off the help the wicked waited for.

³The Egyptians are men, they are not God; their horses are flesh, and not spirit. When Yahweh stretches forth his hand, the one who is helped and his helper will fall, and perish together.

⁴For thus the Lord has spoken: Just as a lion or a lion cub growls over its prey and is neither frightened nor disturbed by the noise of the shepherd, so will Yahweh Sabaoth descend to fight on Mount Zion.

⁵Like birds that hover, so will Yahweh Sabaoth shield Jerusalem:

he will protect and deliver, rescue and save.

⁶Return, O children of Israel, to him you have so wickedly betrayed.

⁷On that day each one of you will throw away the idols of silver and gold that his sinful hands have made.

⁸Assyria will fall by a sword not wielded by a man; he will be devoured by a sword not handled by a mortal; he will flee before the sword, his young men will be captured and put to forced labor.

⁹They will desert their post and the officers, in terror, will abandon the standard." It is Yahweh who speaks, whose fire is in Zion and whose furnace is in Jerusalem.

A king will reign with justice

¹A king reigns with justice and princes in righteousness.

²Each is like a shield from the wind and a shelter from the rain, like streams of water in a dry, parched land,

 like the shade of a rock in a weary land.

³The eyes of those who see will not be shut; the ears of those who hear will not be stopped.

⁴The mind of the rash will not judge hastily; the tongue of stammerers will speak clearly.

⁵No more will the fool be taken as noble, nor the scoundrel be considered honorable.

⁶For the fool speaks folly and his mind thinks sinfully; he practises wickedness and takes pride in godlessness; he lets the hungry go without food, he lets the thirsty go without drink.
⁷The ways of the scoundrel are also evil, scheming wickedly against the poor, destroying the needy with lies when the cause they plea is just.
⁸But the noble man's plans are noble, and his deeds are noble also.

Tremble you idle women

⁹Rise up, women who are at ease; hear my voice, carefree daughters; give heed to my words.

¹⁰In a little over a year, you who feel complacent will be shaken, for harvest will not come and the vintage will fail.

¹¹Tremble, you women who are at ease; be troubled, you carefree ones.

Can my life be torn from you?
What do I live on?
Who will come to pull the wall down?
As for myself, be sure
I never shall feel defeated.
Whom have I to fear?

You have put to death
my people.

Saying this,
I haven't lost hope.

You know,
There is no land in sight now,
but there is sky everywhere.

Stop "giving to the poor." Give them the Word that they may become and live as true persons.

¹⁵ He who walks uprightly and speaks righteously, who spurns profits from oppression, who shakes his fists at graft and corruption,
who stops his ears against suggestions of bloodshed and closes his eyes to opportunities for committing evil deeds.
¹⁶ This is the man who will dwell on the heights,
his stronghold a fortress of rocks;
bread is given to him
his water will not fail.

After the oppression

+ ¹⁷ Your eyes will behold a king in his splendor and a land that stretches afar.

¹⁸ Yet your mind may still dwell on its old fears: Where is the oppressor who counted and weighed the taxes and enrolled our sons?

¹⁹ But you will see no more of those fierce people with obscure speech you cannot comprehend, with stammering tongue you cannot understand.

²⁰ Look to Zion, the city of our festivals, see Jerusalem, a peaceful abode, a tabernacle never to be destroyed. Not one of its stakes ever to be removed nor any of its ropes to be severed.

²¹ But there is Yahweh mighty for our sake, in place of broad rivers and streams. Here you see no galley with oars; no stately sailing ship. ²² But Yahweh is our judge, Yahweh is our king; he will save us.

²³ The rigging hangs loose:
it cannot hold the mast firm,
it cannot keep the sail spread out.
Such are the prey and spoil that even the lame carries it off.

²⁴ No one apologizes, "I am sickly."
The people who dwell there, have been forgiven their sins.

The end of Edom

■ 34 ¹ Come, O nations, hear and take heed, O peoples!
Listen, O earth and all that is in you:
listen, O world and all that comes from
you.

² The wrath of Yahweh is upon all nations.

His fury is upon all their armies.
He has doomed them.
He has given them over for slaughter.

³ Their slain will be thrown away, stench coming from the carcasses, mountains will flow with blood.

⁴ The heavens will dissolve and the skies roll up like a scroll,
all their host shall fall,
as the leaf falls from its vine,
as the fruit falls from its tree.

⁵ My sword waited in the heavens;
and look, it descends upon Edom,
to judge the people I have doomed.

⁶ The sword of Yahweh is bathed in blood, and covered with fat –
the blood of goats and lambs,
with the fat of the saddle of rams.
For Yahweh has a sacrifice in Bozrah,

+ This poem, inserted in the book of Isaiah later, emphasizes the hope for peace when oppression will be only a memory.

Zion, Jerusalem, is the tent which will never be moved. It enjoys Yahweh's secret protection, already mentioned in 8:1 in the image of the waters of Shiloah. A silent presence, yet more powerful than the presence of the great nations. These are on the shores of large rivers (Babylon, Egypt and also Tyre, on the seacoast) and they are always proud of their large boats.

In Zion, the city without power or riches, but under the Law of God, believers feel secure in facing the events.

Look to Zion, the city of our festivals, the secure home. This is the way the believer looks at the church where he finds Christ. If he stays on the fringe of the church, without being committed with her, he can easily criticize. But if he really comes in and shares her life in depth, he discovers that only the church can communicate strength, peace and God's presence to everyone.

a great slaughter in the land of Edom.

⁷ Wild oxen will fall with them and young steers with the bulls.

Their land will be drenched with blood;
their soil will be enriched with fat.

⁸ For Yahweh has a day of vengeance,
Zion's defender has a year of recompense.

⁹ The streams of Edom will become pitch, her soil will be turned into brimstone,
her land will be burning pitch.

¹⁰ Never will its fire be quenched, night or day,

forever will its smoke go up.

From generation to generation the land will lie desolate

and none will ever pass through it.

¹¹ It will be the haunt of pelican and wild hog,

the dwelling place of the owl and the hawk.

God has decided to make it empty,
he has destined it to be desolate.

¹² There will be no more kings to be proclaimed.

no princes to be acclaimed,
for the nobility will vanish
in a kingdom doomed to perish.

¹³ Thorns will grow over the castles, nettles and brambles over the citadels;
the place will be a haunt of reptiles,
an abode of owls and ostriches.

¹⁴ Wild beasts will meet there, wild goats will call one to another;
there will the night creatures alight to find for themselves a resting place.

¹⁵ There will the great owl make her nest to lay and hatch and also find rest.
There will the vultures gather,
each with its mate.

¹⁶ Seek and read from the book of Yahweh:
not one of them will be missing,
for his mouth has given the order and his spirit has brought them together.
¹⁷ He has cast the lot for them.

His hand has divided it among them.
They will possess the land forever,
and from generation to generation dwell
there.

The return of the exiles

35

¹ The wilderness and the arid land will rejoice;
the desert will be glad and blossom.

² Covered with flowers, it will sing and shout with joy, adorned with the splendor of Lebanon,
the magnificence of Carmel and Sharon.
They, my people, see the glory of Yahweh,
the majesty of our God.

³ Give vigor to weary hands and strength to enfeebled knees.

⁴ Say to those who are afraid:

"Have courage, do not fear.

See, your God comes, demanding justice.
he is the God who rewards,
the God who comes to save you."

⁵ Then will the eyes of the blind be opened and the ears of the deaf unsealed.

⁶ Then will the lame leap as a hart and the tongue of the dumb sing and shout.
For water will break out in the wilderness and streams will gush forth from the desert.

⁷ The thirsty ground will become a pool,
the arid land springs of water.

In the haunts where once reptiles lay,
grass will grow with reeds and rushes.

⁸ There will be a highway which will be called the Way of Holiness;
no one unclean will pass over it nor any wicked fool stray there.

⁹ No lion will be found there nor any beast of prey.

Only the redeemed will walk there.

¹⁰ For the ransomed of Yahweh will return:
with everlasting joy crowning their heads,
they will come to Zion singing, gladness and joy marching with them,
while sorrow and sighing flee away.

Sennacherib's invasion

◆36 ¹In the fourteenth year of King Hezekiah's reign, Sennacherib, king of Assyria attacked all the fortified cities of Judah and captured them. ²From Lakish the king of Assyria sent his field commander with a large army to King Hezekiah in Jerusalem. They halted at the channel of the Upper Pool on the highway of the Fuller's Field. ³So Eliakim son of Hilkiah, the palace administrator, went out to him together with Shebna the secretary and Joah son of Asaph the recorder.

⁴The field commander said to them, "Give Hezekiah this message of the great king of Assyria: How can you be so confident? ⁵You thought that words replace strategy and military strength? On whom are you relying to rebel against me?"

⁶You rely on Egypt, a broken staff which pierces the palm of him who leans on it. Such is Pharaoh, king of Egypt, for all who rely on him. ⁷Yes, you may say to me: 'We rely on Yahweh our God'. But isn't he the one whose altars and high places Hezekiah has removed when he commanded Judah and Jerusalem: 'You shall worship before this altar'?

⁸Come now, make a bargain with my master, the king. I will give you two thousand horses if you are able to supply riders. ⁹How could you ever repulse one of the least of my master's generals? And you rely on Egypt for chariots and horsemen! ¹⁰Do you think that I have come to attack and destroy this land without consulting Yahweh? He himself said to me: 'Go up to this land and conquer it!'

¹¹Then Eliakim and Shebna and Joah said to the field commander, "Speak to your servants in Aramaic, we understand it. Do not speak to us in Hebrew in the hearing of these people on the walls."

¹²But the field commander said, "Do you think that my master sent me to speak these words only to your master and you. Isn't it also to the men on the walls who with you will have to eat their own dung and drink their urine?"

¹³Then the field commander stood and cried out with a loud voice in Hebrew, "Hear the words of the great king of Assyria: ¹⁴Do not let Hezekiah deceive you! No, he will not be able to help you! ¹⁵Do not listen to him

8, 37, 30

10, Job 17, 11

12, Job 7, 6

◆ The next two chapters repeat chapters 18 and 19 of 2 Kings, and relate the siege of Jerusalem by Sennacherib's army. The first story was taken up in the commentary on 2 Kgs 18:17.

Now, we look at the second event:

Isaiah encourages resistance even though there is no human hope of being able to resist. He promises an intervention from God which happens in the form of an epidemic wiping out the Assyrian army. The angel of Yahweh went and struck one hundred eighty five thousand men in the camp.

In 22:8 we remarked on Isaiah's opposition to any compromise with the great powers – a seemingly negative attitude for a small nation unable to resist. Here he relies solely on the power of faith – as Elijah had done before – and he saves his nation.

when he tells you to trust in Yahweh, saying, "Yahweh will save us; this city will not be given over to the king of Assyria." ¹⁶ Do not listen to Hezekiah but to what the king of Assyria says, "Make your peace with me" ¹⁷ and surrender. So I will let each of you eat of your vine and of your fig tree and drink the water of your cistern until I come again. Then I will take you to a land like your own land, a land of grain and new wine, of bread and vineyards.

¹⁸ Hezekiah is misleading you when he says that Yahweh will save you. Have the gods of the nations rescued their lands from the hands of the king of Assyria? ¹⁹ Where are the gods of Hamath and Arpad? Where are the gods of Shepharvaim? And have the gods delivered Samaria from my hand? ²⁰ Who among all the gods of these nations has been able to save his country from me? Do you think that Yahweh should deliver Jerusalem from my hand?"

²¹ The people were like deaf men and remained silent for the king had commanded them not to answer him.

²² Then Eliakim with Shebna and Joah came to Hezekiah with their clothes torn and told him what the field commander had said.

King Hezekiah consults Isaiah

37 ¹ When King Hezekiah heard this he tore his clothes, covered himself with sackcloth and went to the house of Yahweh. ² He sent Eliakim, Shebna and the elders among the priests, all wearing sackcloth, to the prophet Isaiah, son of Amoz.

³ And they said to Isaiah, "This is what Hezekiah says: 'Today is a day of distress, rebuke and disgrace, as when children come to birth and there is no strength to deliver.' ⁴ Your God may hear the words of the field commander, whom his master the king of Assyria has sent. May Yahweh your God rebuke him for the words he said, insulting the living God. I therefore offer a prayer for the few of us that are left."

⁵ When King Hezekiah's officials came to Isaiah, ⁶ he said to them: "Tell your master this word of Yahweh: Do not fear because of what you have heard and how the servants of the king of Assyria have insulted me. Listen! ⁷ I will let him be disturbed by certain news, so he will return to his country and there I will have him slain by the sword."

⁸ The field commander returned and found the king of Assyria fighting against Libnah, he had heard that the king had left Lachish. ⁹ This was because King Sennacherib had heard that Tirhakah, the Cushite king of Egypt, was going out to fight him.

Again Sennacherib sent messengers to Hezekiah with these words, ¹⁰ "Say to Hezekiah king of Judah that his God in whom he trusts might deceive him in saying that Jerusalem will not be given into the hands of the king of Assyria. ¹¹ Surely you have heard what the kings of Assyria have done to all the lands they have destroyed! And will you be spared? ¹² Have the gods saved the nations that my fathers destroyed? Gozan and Haran, Rezeph and the sons of Eden who were in Telassar? ¹³ Where is the king of Hamath, the king of Arpad, the king of the city of Sepharvaim, of Hena and Ivvah?"

¹⁴ Hezekiah took the letter from the messengers and when he had read it he went to the house of Yahweh where he unrolled the letter ¹⁵ and prayed saying, ¹⁶ "O Yahweh, God of hosts and God of Israel, enthroned above the cherubim! you alone are God over all the kingdoms of the earth, give ear Yahweh and hear! ¹⁷ Open your eyes and see! Listen to all the words of Sennacherib who has sent men to insult the living God!

¹⁸ It is true, Yahweh, that the kings of Assyria have laid waste all the countries of the earth. ¹⁹ They have thrown their gods into the fire and destroyed them, for they were not true gods but made of wood and stone by human hands. ²⁰ Now, O Yahweh our God, save us from his hand and let all the kingdoms of the earth know that you alone, Yahweh, are God."

²¹ Then Isaiah, son of Amoz, sent word to Hezekiah: "You have called upon Yahweh and he has heard your prayer regarding Sennacherib, king of Assyria. This is what Yahweh has spoken against him:

²² The Virgin Daughter of Zion despises and scorns you; the Daughter of Jerusalem shakes her head behind you.

o It is important to underscore the following in Isaiah's prophecy:

– God cannot stand the pride of the powerful who, by despising the poor who trust in and lifted up your eyes?

Against the Holy One of Israel!

²⁴Through your servants
you have insulted Yahweh.

For you have said:

With my numerous chariots,

I have ascended the heights of the mountains,

the topmost recesses of Lebanon.

I have felled its tallest cedars and its choicest fir trees.

I have reached the remotest heights of its border,

the best of its forests.

²⁵I have dug wells and drunk
waters;

I dried up with the sole of my foot
all the streams of Egypt.

²⁶But have you not heard how I decreed it long ago?

I have just brought to pass what I planned from days of old:

to lay waste fortified cities,
to turn them into ruinous heaps.

²⁷Shorn of power, their inhabitants have been dismayed and confounded;

they have been as the grass and green plants in the field, as the grass on the housetops,
as corn blasted before it has grown.

²⁸I know whenever you rise or sit, whenever you go out or come in;
and I know your rage against me.

²⁹Because of your rage against me and of your arrogance that has reached my ears

I will put my hook in your nose and my bridle in your mouth, and I will turn you back on the way by which you came.

³⁰This will be a sign for you, O Hezekiah: This year you will eat the gleaning of the fields and next year the self-sown grain, but in the third year sow and reap, plant vines and eat the fruit.

³¹A remnant of the people of Judah shall take root below and produce fruit above. ³²For a remnant will come from Jerusalem and survivors from Mount Zion. The zeal of Yahweh of hosts will accomplish this. That is why Yahweh has spoken concerning the king of Assyria. ³³He shall not enter this city nor shoot his arrows.

³⁴He shall not raise a shield to oppose it or build a siege ramp against it. He shall leave by the way he came and he shall not enter the city, word of Yahweh.

³⁵I will protect this city and so save it for my own sake and for the sake of David, my servant.

³⁶That night the angel of Yahweh went and struck one hundred and eighty-five thousand men in the Assyrian camp. When the people rose early next morning there lay all the corpses.

³⁷So Sennacherib, king of Assyria departed, returned home and lived in Nineveh.

³⁸While he was worshipping in the temple of his god, Nisroch, his sons Adrammelech and Sharezer slew him with the sword and then escaped to the land of Ararat. And Esarhaddon, his son, succeeded him as king.

riences this protection when it is reduced to a persecuted minority.

²Hezekiah turned his face to the wall and prayed to Yahweh, ³"Ah Yahweh! remember how I have walked before you in truth and wholeheartedly, and done what is good in your sight." And Hezekiah wept bitterly.

⁴Then the word of Yahweh came to Isaiah, ⁵"Go and tell Hezekiah what Yahweh, the God of his father David, says: I have heard your prayer and I have seen your tears. See! I am adding fifteen years to your life ⁶and I will save you and this city from the power of the king of Assyria. I will defend it for my sake and for the sake of David my servant. ⁷And this shall be for you a sign from Yahweh, that he will do what he has promised. ⁸See! I shall make the shadow descending on the stairway of Ahaz go back ten steps." So the sunlight went back the ten steps it had covered on the stairway.

²¹Isaiah then said, "Bring a fig cake to rub on the ulcer and let Hezekiah be cured!"

Canticle of Hezekiah

⁹Canticle of Hezekiah king of Judah after his illness and recovery:

¹⁰Once I said: In the noontime of my life I go:

I am sent to the land of the dead,
where I am consigned

for the rest of my years.

¹¹I said: Never again shall I see Yahweh in the land of the living;
never again shall I look upon man among the inhabitants of the earth.

¹²Like a shepherd's tent, my dwelling has been pulled down and thrown away; like a weaver, he rolled up my life and cut it from the loom:
from day to night he made me waste away.

¹³I have cried for help until morning. Like a lion, he has broken all my bones.

¹⁴I have uttered shrill cries like a swallow or a crane,
I have moaned like a dove,
my eyes all the while are growing weary as I looked up to the heavens:
Come and help me, O Lord!
for I am troubled.

¹⁵But how can I speak and what shall I say to him if he himself is doing this to me?
I will have to walk all my years bearing this anguish of my soul.

¹⁶O Lord, give me back my health and give me back my life!

¹⁷My anguish has turned to peace; you have retrieved my life from the pit of corruption;
you have cast all my sins behind you.

¹⁸For the dead cannot give you thanks, death cannot give you praise;
those who go down to the pit cannot hope for your kindness.

¹⁹The living, the living alone can give you thanks and praise, as I do, fathers will tell their sons of your fidelity.

²⁰O Yahweh, come and save me!
We will sing, accompanied by harps, in the Temple of Yahweh all the days of our life.

Isaiah offers to cure him on God's behalf and with the promise of protecting and defending the Holy City. Yahweh's perspective is much broader than that of the pious Hezekiah. If God cures him it is with a view to his own plan of salvation for all.

Hezekiah's canticle is a psalm of thanksgiving like those we find in the book of Psalms. It expresses the profound feelings of the believers of the Old Testament for whom dying meant losing everything and who tried to convince God that he would gain nothing in letting his faithful people disappear forever.

◆ This final incident related in the book of Isaiah comes from 2 Kings 20. It emphasizes the meanness of Isaiah's own friends.

Isaiah continues to be God's servant, constant in his faith. As for Hezekiah, in spite of having been favored by God, he remains egotistical and irresponsible.

Hezekiah seems to have been moved more by fear than a man of deep faith. This may explain why his son, Manasseh, became the worst of all the kings of Judah: we know that, many times, those who are the worst enemies of faith, were born from families in which there was more external religious practice than deep faith and commitment to others.

Babylonian Embassy

39¹ At that time Merodach-Baladan, son of Baladan, king of Babylon, sent letters and a gift to Hezekiah after hearing that he was recovering from an illness.² Hezekiah was pleased and showed the envoys all that was in his treasure house, the silver, gold, spices and fine oil, his entire armory and all that was in his treasury. In fact there was nothing in his palace or in his kingdom that Hezekiah did not show him.

³ Isaiah the prophet came to Hezekiah and asked him, "What did these men say and from where did they come?" Hezekiah answered, "They came to me from a distant country – from Babylon."

⁴ And Isaiah said, "What have they seen in your palace?" Hezekiah replied, "They have seen everything in my palace; there is nothing among my treasures that I did not show them."

⁵ Isaiah then said, "Hear this word of Yahweh, the God of hosts: 'Behold the days are coming when all that is in your palace and which your fathers have treasured to this day, will be carried off to Babylon. Nothing will be left. ⁷ And some of your descendants, born of you, will be taken and become eunuchs in the palace of the king of Babylon.'"

⁸ Hezekiah then said to Isaiah, "The word of Yahweh which you have spoken to me is good!" For he thought: there will be peace and truth in my lifetime.

BOOK OF CONSOLATION THE HOUR OF GOD THE REDEEMER

The following chapters refer to events which enabled the Jews exiled in Babylon to come back home. These events are related at the end of the book of Kings and the beginning of the book of Ezra.

This book apparently deals with a new liberation, a repetition of what happened at the beginning of sacred history when God brought his people out of Egypt. Yet, this time, it is fitting to speak of REDEMPTION because the word redemption, with its meaning of rescue, implies above all that someone, or some people who had become lost, are saved.

God the Liberator had come to seek a people who did not know him and did not know themselves. These men whom God brought out of Egypt were not even a people. God was new to them and they were new to him. While God the Redeemer is God leading a nation in ruins, a nation which had wasted its own wealth. He speaks to a sinful people who, having known God, disobeyed him to the point of losing themselves.

Thus, the word Redemption expresses the overflowing love of God who personally bends down towards his people rebellious and lost, old and sick through their own fault. He restores health to them, giving them hope, and teaching them the meaning of their sufferings. At the very center of this book dedicated to God the Redeemer, will be the portrait of CHRIST, THE REDEEMING MAN.

And so when the Jews returned to their own land with a clearer realization of their sins, they started to look towards new horizons which the forgiving God opened up for them. They were not only to restore their nation, but to become instruments for the UNIVERSAL RECONCILIATION of men with God and of men among themselves.

Book of Consolation

HISTORICAL DATA

The Jews, exiled in Babylon and enlightened by the teaching of Jeremiah and Ezekiel, knew they were to be the remnant through whom God would uplift the people of Israel. But they could only hope for the hour of God.

As can be seen throughout the Bible, God sends prophets when important things are taking place. He sends them to explain the events and to show the way. For Israel in exile, "the" event was Cyrus, king of Persia. In 549 Cyrus rebels against the Medes to whom he had been subject. Five years later he gathers Medes and Persians under his authority, and in another five years he conquers Lydia. In competing for the leadership, he has one final alternative: confronting Babylon.

This is the time when, from among the Jews who had left their country, there appeared a great prophet, whose name is unknown. As the political scene was getting more disturbed, God revealed to him the time of liberation.

Besides this, God revealed a mysterious fact: the Lord had now forgiven his people and cancelled their past accounts and he announced that he was coming soon. There are the foundations of the happy message placed after the prophecies of Isaiah in chapters 40-55 of what is called "the book of Isaiah."

A CONSOLING MESSAGE

This is a message of Good News, which in Greek is translated as Gospel. To his companions, the prophet proclaims this first Gospel, a prelude to the Gospel which will come later. Briefly:

- He invites them to have faith. Yahweh has not been conquered in the defeat of his people. He is the only Lord of the universe and is in charge of present events.
- He calls them to hope. They must get ready to return to Jerusalem and rebuild it, since it is there that humankind will meet God.
- He never tires of showing them the love and tenderness of Yahweh, so similar to that of a mother.

Among the poems in this book those referring to the servant of Yahweh stand out: 42,12:50, 43:52:13. In these poems the prophet depicts how God reconciles the world through the faithfulness of a servant who represents at the same time Christ, the people of God, and the countless innocent victims of this world.

o ¹Be comforted, my people,
be strengthened, says your God.

²Speak to the heart of Jerusalem, proclaim to her that her time of service is at an end, that her sin has been paid for,
that from the hand of Yahweh
she has received double punishment for all her iniquity.

³A voice cries,
"In the wilderness prepare the way for Yahweh
Make straight in the desert a highway for our God.

⁴Every valley will be raised up;
every mountain and hill will be laid low.
The stumbling blocks shall become level and the rugged places smooth.

⁵The Glory of Yahweh will be revealed, and all men together will see it;
for the mouth of Yahweh has spoken."

⁶A voice says, "Cry."
and I say, "What shall I cry?"
"All flesh is grass,
and all its beauty is as the flower of the field.

⁷The grass withers, the flower wilts,
when the breath of Yahweh blows upon it.

⁸The grass withers, the flower fades,
but the word of our God will forever stand."

o The prophet very discreetly tells about his being called. As Isaiah, he is introduced in the Heavenly Council, where God, surrounded by his angels, makes his decisions. There, something mysterious is revealed to him:

Speak to Jerusalem and tell her that her guilt has been paid. Yahweh has forgiven his people, and because of this he is going to re-establish them in the Promised Land. They should not be overwhelmed by the prestige of the invincible Babylon where they live as exiles. All flesh (all mortals) is like grass: means that the famous city is only a human construction and it will pass like men's ambitions (see James 1:10); but God's promises will always be fulfilled.

Angels are told to prepare the return of the exiles. The arid and dangerous road of the desert will be levelled for them. They will have a triumphant return. To all people (all flesh) in the world, the wonders will be so obvious that they will discover the glory of the one God and they will recognize Yahweh.

Then, across time and space, the prophet addresses the new community which is going to be born, in order to announce the Good News to them. This is the first time these words appear in the Bible.

Comfort is another new word. In the Bible, does not mean that God brings us to resignation or to passive observance, but rather encourages us so that we can continue our mission. Thus, in the following chapters, the prophet will encourage the Jews to return, in spite of difficulties. Paul's letters, we will find the words to comfort and encourage countless times. But like the other authors of the Bible, in recalling God's promises, Paul invites us to struggle against the forces of evil with perseverance.

in the desert prepare the way for Yahweh
The prophet saw Yahweh walking ahead of his people to guide them to their definitive homeland. But when the exiles returned to Palestine they realized that they had not found God nor a definitive homeland; something was still missing which would be fulfilled centuries later. In fact, at the appointed time, John the Baptist appeared preaching in the desert, and after him came God "so that all mankind would see him", as the Gospel points out (Luke 3:4).

⁹Go up onto the high mountain, messenger of Zion lift up your voice with strength, fear not to cry aloud when you tell Jerusalem and announce to the cities of Judah:
Here is your God!

¹⁰Here comes your God with might;
his strong arm rules for him;
here with him is his reward,
and here before him is his booty.

¹¹Like a shepherd he tends his flock:
He gathers the lambs in his arms,
he carries them in his bosom,
gently leading those that are with young.

¹³Who has probed the spirit of Yahweh or as a counselor advised him?

¹⁴Who has he consulted to enlighten him to teach him to govern with justice and make him know knowledge?

With whose image will you compare him?

¹⁹To an idol cast by a craftsman, covered with gold by a goldsmith and adorned with silver chains?

fashioned by a skilled craftsman into an image that cannot move?

+ In later chapters, we will read other poems resembling this one, stressing the greatness of the Lord of creation. This insistence should not surprise us. The prophet repeats the same arguments against idols, not so much to convince us, as to delight in repeating the same praise of the one God.

In Babylon where the Jews did not have a temple or organized worship, they saw the splendor of pagan worship. The imperial city was calmly stating the superiority of its secular gods and its famous temples. It was then, when the Jews were dispersed among foreign nations, that they discovered that their faith could conquer the world: they alone knew where the world came from and where history was going.

At the beginning of this century, believers paid special attention to God, creator of the universe, who planned the laws of nature and society. They did not reflect much on the historical events to see the saving work of God in them. Thus, it was necessary to emphasize the fact that God reveals himself to men if they concern themselves with bringing justice to the world, and with saving their oppressed brothers. But the Jews followed the reverse order. First, they experienced the presence of a God who was saving them and demanding a social life based on justice. Then, they understood that Yahweh, their God, was no other than the master of the world and its laws, the God of all people. From that time on, they felt the obligation to give to the world the light that would save it.

In this there may be a lesson which we still need since we can see that many people are very enthusiastic about the person of Christ, without caring to know who he is. They are not even concerned about the historical Jesus as the Gospels present him, and they are satisfied that his portrait stand out among all men. Yet, men taught by modern science know they are in solidarity with the whole universe; they know that the same movement, the same law governs the stars, the atom and even the very promptings of the heart. Such men cannot be satisfied with Christ, "the first revolutionary", nor with a Christ "great idealist", or a Christ "superman". They will not surrender to Christ if they do not see him greater than the world, and if they cannot adore him as the very Creator become man.

so great his strength,
that not one of them is missing.

²⁷ How can you say, O Jacob,
how can you complain, O Israel,
that your destiny is hidden from me,
that your rights are ignored by Yahweh?

will renew their strength.
They will soar as with eagle's wings;
they will run and not grow weary;
they will walk and never tire.

■ The first verses of the poem (1 to 3) present Cyrus, the conqueror who is progressing in his conquest of the Middle East. In previous times, pagan kings were sent by Yahweh to punish his people. Now, one of them is chosen by God to save his people. This is a lesson in humility for believers: God is saving them through a non-believer whom he makes his instrument. God does not always pick saints or believers to liberate nations.

Verses 6-7 concerning idolatry, are out of place, just as occurred in 40:19-20.

◆ For centuries the Jews had looked upon their past, always expanding the memory of the wonders worked by God in their departure from Egypt. Now, they must look to the future. This time, a new departure is being prepared from Babylon, and it will be accompanied by wonders greater than those of the first Exodus.

What emphasis! The Bible continues to present magnificent hopes in the midst of ordinary events. In fact, the return to Palestine was going to be in small groups and the only miracle would be that of their persevering faith.

¹⁰ fear not, for I am with you;
be not dismayed, for I am your God.
I will give you strength,
I will bring you help,
I will uphold you will be put to shame and disgrace, all who fight against you will perish and come to nothing.

¹² You will seek but will not find

¹⁴ Fear not, Jacob, poor worm, and you, men of Israel.
I am your redeemer, says Yahweh,
the Holy One of Israel, your helper.

¹⁵ I will make you a thresher, new and with sharp double teeth:
you will thresh hills and mountains, crushing them and reducing them to chaff.

¹⁶ You will winnow them,
the wind will carry them off and the storm will scatter them.
But you will rejoice in Yahweh and glory in the Holy One of Israel.

¹⁷ The poor and the afflicted seek water, and find none.
Their tongues are parched, with nothing to drink.
But I, Yahweh, will hear them;
I, the God of Israel, will not forsake them.

¹⁸ I will open up streams over the barren heights and let the rivers flow through all the valleys;
I will turn the desert into lakes and brooks and the thirsty earth into a land of springs.

¹⁹ I will plant in the wilderness the cedar,
the acacia, the myrtle and the olive;
I will plant in the wasteland fir, cypress and pine –

Thus, this text is also addressed to us, the believers of today, courageous enough to be more than passive hearers in the church. When we are united in small communities and try to revive a church with limited resources or when we commit ourselves in an effort to uplift society, God himself invites us to be hopeful. Patience, hope and optimism.

o This passage celebrates Cyrus between two victories. When we read these verses, we understand that the prophet had anticipated the ²⁴ See, they are nothing, their work is nothing,

and to choose them is foolishness.

²⁵ From the north I have called him, and he comes;
from the east I have summoned him, for he calls upon my name.

He tramples kings and princes down
as if they were mortar,
as if he were a potter working the clay.

²⁶ Has anyone announced this from the beginning, so we might know, or foretold it long ago, so we might say, "It is true"?

No one among you foretold it,
no one proclaimed it.
No one heard a word from you.

²⁷ I was the first to announce to Zion:
"Look, here they come!"
and I sent a messenger to Jerusalem.

²⁸ But when I looked, there was no one,
there was not a single counsellor among
them
who, if asked, could give an answer.

²⁹ All of them are nothing, emptiness are their works;
their images are wind and nothingness.

Here is my servant

+ 42

¹ Here is my servant whom I uphold,
my chosen one in whom I delight.
I have put my spirit upon him,
and he will bring justice to the nations.

² He does not shout or raise his voice in the streets.

³ A broken reed he will not crush, nor will he snuff out the light off the wavering wick.

He will make justice appear in truth.

⁴ He will not waver or be broken until he has established justice on earth;
the islands are waiting for his law.

successes of the liberator when no one could foresee them. Thus, God revealed future events to his prophets as a proof that he himself was the real saviour of his people. He had planned that Cyrus should come from far away to restore freedom to the Jews.

+ Here we have the first of the Songs of the Servant of Yahweh (see the introduction to this book). This song may have celebrated Cyrus, chosen by God to save the Jewish people. This conqueror appeared when, for already two centuries, the people of the Middle East had endured sufferings impossible to describe: endless wars, repression, killings and torture, and almost constant hunger for the small nations crushed by Assyria and Babylon. Cyrus gathered them all into one empire and was able to earn their trust through his respect for the beliefs and customs of every nation.

In Cyrus, the prophet sees the initiator of a new age when God would reveal himself to humankind and he saw him as little less than the Messiah. All he says about Cyrus can be applied to Christ, the real Messiah, and when the age of the Gospels arrives, the apostles will recognize the announcing of Jesus and his salvation in this poem (Mt 12:18).

Here is my servant. More than anyone else, Jesus was the servant of God, his Father, being the son of Mary who proclaimed herself the maidservant of the Lord (Lk 1:38).

My chosen one, in whom I delight. These are the very words which we will hear at the Baptism and the Transfiguration of Jesus (see John 1:19; Luke 3:22; Matthew 17:5).

I have put my Spirit upon him. See Is 11:2 and 61:1; Jn 3:34.

He will bring justice to the nations, namely, his decision to bring about justice in the world. He does not shout or raise his voice. To save the world, Christ will not use such human means as propaganda, demagoguery, violence; he will be humble of heart, the master to whom those seeking "rest" come (see Matthew 11:29).

In the text there is a play on the words broken and waver. The servant is understanding with those who are broken or who have doubts, but

⁵ Thus says God, Yahweh, who created the heavens and stretched them out,
who spread the earth and all that comes from it,
who gives life and breath to those who walk on it:

⁶ I, Yahweh, have called you for the sake of justice;
I will hold your hand to make you firm;
I will make you a covenant to the people,
and as a light to the nations, ⁷ to open eyes that do not see,
to free captives from prison,
to bring out to light those who sit in the darkness.

⁸ I am Yahweh, that is my name
I will not give my glory to another;
or my praise to graven images.

⁹ See, the former things have come to pass, and new things do I declare:
before they spring forth I tell you of them.

Song of victory

■ ¹⁰ Sing a new song to Yahweh;
sing his praise from the ends of the earth.
Let the sea and all that it holds,
let the coastlands and their inhabitants resound with song and praise of him.
¹¹ Let the wilderness and the cities lift up their voice,
together with the villages of Kedar.
Let the inhabitants of Sela sing,
and shout from the top of the mountain.
¹² Let them give glory to Yahweh and praise him in the far islands.

¹³ Yahweh comes like a mighty warrior,
he stirs up fury like a warlord.
He threatens, he raises the battlecry,
and he triumphs over his enemies.

¹⁴ "For a long time I have held my peace;
I have kept still and restrained myself.
But now I cry out like a woman in labor,
I will destroy and devour!

¹⁵ I will lay waste mountains and hills and wither out all their vegetation;
I will turn rivers into wasteland

he, himself does not hesitate, nor does he allow himself to be broken: he is strong and understanding with the weak.

I called you to open eyes that do not see and to free captives from prison. The Servant of Yahweh will begin by saving Israel. He will give sight, that is, faith, to the blind who do not believe (see Is 35:5 and 32:3). He will bring captives out of prison, that is out of Babylon. And because God's first covenant with Israel on Sinai was broken by the rebellious people, now Yahweh prepares a new covenant for a people of believers: to reconcile my people (the text says more explicitly: so you will be a covenant of the people).

The light for the nations (see Luke 2:32). Recall what was said in the introduction and about 40:12. The Jews dispersed among foreign people are aware that the God of all people will not save them without at the same time achieving the reconciliation of all the nations.

■ Cyrus' steps are God's victory. Yahweh marches as a warring God (see Judges 5:4), but inspired by maternal love.

The poem recalls the mission entrusted to Isaiah (6:9): "Through you the hearts of these people will be hardened and their eyes blinded." Yahweh has forgiven and he wants to heal this people who do not know how to see and who are already called blind in 42:7. After their being liberated they will be the witnesses of the God who saves.

At times, it seems to us that the prophets were mistaken in announcing so many times God's coming as being very close, when they were still in an earlier stage of history. In fact, they were not very different from us, when we believe we have gained everything with the victory of one of our own people, whether in an election, or a sports event. We do not abandon Christ, the only saviour and the only hope, when we struggle for very human hopes and become and dry up the pools.

¹⁶ I will lead the blind by ways which they do not know; along unseen paths I will guide them. I will turn darkness into light before them and make the rough ground smooth. These are the things that I will do, and I will not forsake them.

¹⁷ But those who trust in graven images, and say to idols, "You are our gods" will be turned back in utter shame.

o ¹⁸ Listen, O deaf, that you may hear; look, O blind, that you may see!

¹⁹ Who is blind, but my servant, or deaf as the messenger I send? Who is blind but the one I am lifting up, Who is deaf but the servant of Yahweh? ²⁰ You see many things without observing your ears are open but without hearing.

²¹ It pleased Yahweh, the Just One, that his Law receive glory and fame.

²² But this is a people robbed and plundered all of them ensnared in pits or languishing in prison. They have become a prey, with no one to rescue them they have become a spoil, with no one to order, "Send them back."
²³ Who among you will give ear to this? Who will listen and hear for the time to come?

²⁴ Who handed Jacob to the spoilers and Israel to the plunderers? Was it not Yahweh, against whom we have sinned, in whose ways they would not walk, and whose law they would not obey?

²⁵ Therefore he poured out on them the fury of his anger—the violence of war. It blazed round about them, and they failed to know what it meant; it burned and consumed them, and they remained in bewilderment.

In the midst of the flames,
you shall not be burned

43 ¹ But now, thus says Yahweh, who created you, Jacob, who formed you, Israel:

Fear not, for I have redeemed you;
I have called you by your name;
you are mine.

² When you pass through the waters, I will be with you.

When you pass through the rivers, they will not sweep over you. When you walk through the fire, you will not be burned; neither will the flames consume you.

³ For I am your saviour, I, Yahweh, your God, the Holy One of Israel.

I give Egypt for your ransom, Ethiopia and Seba in exchange for you

⁴ Since you are precious in my sight, and important – for I have loved you, I give men in exchange for you and people in return for your life.

⁵ Fear not, for I am with you: I will bring your children from the east and gather you from the west.

⁶ I will say to the north, "Give them up!" and to the south, "Do not hold them!"

Bring back my sons from afar, my daughters from the ends of the earth,

⁷ all those called by name, all I have created for my glory.

⁸ Let go off my people – who have eyes but are blind, who have ears but are deaf.

⁹ Let the nations gather together, let the people assemble.

Who among them can foretell this or declare to us the things to come?

Let them bring their witnesses to prove them right;

Let others hear so that they may say, "It is true."

excited about human saviours. We walk with them part of the way, and then, we let go of them to move forward, to wherever Christ calls us.

o This passage could be entitled: Exploited Peoples.

◆ The reliability of the triumphant God is even more obvious than in the previous poems: I, I Am... Someone said that this "I" is detestable on men's lips, but it does befit God: "I Am" was God's revelation to Moses in the burning bush (Ex 3). And Jesus will also say many times: "I Am" to reveal who he is (John 8:12).

Such is the God who lifts our spirits. When you walk through the fire you will not be burned. Everything is possible, including living according to the Gospel in a materialistic environment.

In exchange for you, I will give many people. With this figurative expression, Yahweh's unique love for his children is re-affirmed. He is ready, at any cost, to be reconciled with this people whom he chose and who became lost through their own fault.

In the end, 43:16-21, we hear this once again: the new Exodus from Babylon will sur-

◆¹⁰ You are my witnesses, says
Yahweh.
you are my servant whom I have chosen,
that you may know and believe me and understand that I am He:
before me no god was formed,
neither will there be one after me.

¹¹ I, I am Yahweh,
there is no saviour but me.
¹² It is I who have foretold;
I have saved and made it known,
I, not any strange god among you.
Therefore you are my witnesses
– it is Yahweh who speaks,

¹³ I am God; this day too I am He:
There is no one who can deliver from my hand,
and what I do no one undoes.

¹⁴ Thus says Yahweh,
your redeemer, the Holy One of Israel:
For your sake I send an army to Babylon to bring down all their nobles.
The Chaldeans' shout of joy will turn into lamentation.

¹⁵ I am Yahweh, your Holy One,
the Creator of Israel, your King.

¹⁶ Thus says Yahweh, who opened a way through the sea
and a path in the mighty waters,

¹⁷ who brought down chariots and horses,
a whole army of them,
and there they lay, never to rise again,
snuffed out like a wick.

¹⁸ But do not dwell on the past, or remember or the things of old.

¹⁹ Look, I am doing a new thing:

it springs forth now.

Do you not see?

I am opening up a way in the wilderness
and rivers in the desert.

²⁰ The beasts of the land will honour me, jackals and ostriches,
because I give water in the wilderness
and rivers in the desert
for my chosen people to drink.

²¹ I have formed this people for myself;
they will proclaim my praise.

○ ²² You have not called upon me, O Jacob, indeed you were tired of me, O Israel;

²³ neither have you brought me sheep for burnt offerings

nor honoured me with your sacrifices.
I have not burdened you with offerings nor wearied you asking for incense.

²⁴ You have not spent money on sweet frankincense for me, neither have you satisfied me with the fat of your sacrifices.

Instead you have burdened me with your sins

and wearied me with your offenses.

²⁵ I it is, I am he who blots out your offenses for my own sake,

and remembers your sins no more.

²⁶ Remind me about the past;
let us argue together.

Speak up and prove your innocence.

²⁷ Your first father sinned,
your mediators have rebelled against me.

²⁸ Therefore I have disgraced the dignitaries of your temple,

I have consigned Jacob to destruction,
Israel to scorn.

44 ¹ But now listen, Jacob my servant,
Israel whom I have chosen.

² This is what Yahweh says –
he who made you and will help you,
he who formed you from the womb:

25. 1 Cor 1, 20 ... 28. 40, 11; Eze 1, 1 ...
pass that of Egypt: you have done enough looking at the past; now look to the future.

○ People are ungrateful by nature. They usually manage so that serving God will not deprive them of time or money. Many people only think about God to complain to him. Yet, the love of God will be stronger than their lack of gratitude: He will pour out his Spirit upon the human race.

You have not brought me sheep as victims. The exiled Jews had neither temple, nor rituals in Babylon. On the basis of this, Yahweh tells them: "If I come to save, it is not because you have bought my favors with your sacrifices". God saves them, though they have not given up anything for him, and they have not even called on him.

I am the one who blots out your offenses and no longer remember your sins. You burdened me with your sins. After what he said through Jeremiah and Ezekiel, God keeps declaring his love that is scorned by men. In spite of their differences, all the prophets use the language of passionate love. This allows them to better express what sin is: not just a fault against sacred laws, but rather a rejection of God's love.

Fear not, O Jacob my servant,
Jeshurun, whom I have chosen.

³ For I will pour water upon the thirsty land

and streams on the dry ground.
I will pour my spirit upon your race and my blessing upon your offspring.

⁴ They will spring up like grass, like poplars beside the flowing streams.

⁵ One will say, "I belong to Yahweh"; another will call himself by Jacob's
name.

On his hand another will write "Yahweh"
and take the name of Israel.

⁶ This is what the Lord says –
Israel's King and Redeemer, Yahweh
Sabaoth:

I am the first and I am the last,
and there is no other God besides me.

⁷ Who then is like me?

Let him stand up and speak,
let him argue it with me.

Who from the beginning has foretold the future,

and revealed to us what was to come?

⁸ Do not be afraid or be troubled.

Have I not proclaimed and foretold this long ago?

You are my witnesses:
Is there a God besides me or another Rock? I would know him.

Mockery against those who worship idols

⁹ Good for nothing are all idol makers, and useless are the works they prize so much.
Their witnesses, blind and ignorant, will be put to shame. ¹⁰ Whoever fashioned a worthless god or cast a useless idol? See how its devotees will be ridiculed, for its craftsmen are but men.

¹¹ Let them all assemble, let them come to court; they will be both terrified and scorned.

¹² The blacksmith works on an iron image over the fire and beats it into shape with a hammer. At the same time, he drinks no water and gets hungry and exhausted.

¹³ In like manner, the wood carver takes the measurement and marks the outline of an idol, carves it with chisels, giving it a bodily form and a human face that it may live in a shrine.

¹⁴ He cut down cedars or perhaps took an oak or cypress from the forest or maybe he planted a cedar which the rain caused to grow. ¹⁵ For the common man, that means fuel which he uses to warm himself and to cook his food. But the craftsman carves out of the tree trunk an idol which he worships and before which he bows down. ¹⁶ The remaining portion he burns to warm himself; over its live embers he roasts meat and is satisfied. He says, "Well and good, I feel warm and enjoy the light." ¹⁷ The other portion which he has made into an idol he worships and bows before it, praying "Rescue me, for you are my god."

¹⁸ They have no knowledge, no discernment. For they have shut their mind to understanding, their heart to all reason. ¹⁹ Not one of them has the intelligence to reflect and the sense to say, "Half of the log I burned, and on its embers I baked bread and roasted meat.
Shall I then make an abomination of what remains? Am I to worship a block of wood?"

²⁰ Only the one of deluded mind can hold on ashes. Will he not save himself at least and confess, "What I hold is only a lie?"

²¹ Remember this, Jacob, for you are my servant, O Israel,
I have formed you to be my servant;
Israel, Do not forget me

²² I have blotted out your offenses as a thick cloud;
I have brushed away
your sins as a mist.
Return to me for I am redeeming
you.

²³ Sing gladly, O heavens,
for Yahweh has done this.
Shout aloud, O earth below!
Burst into song, you mountains,
you forests with all your trees!
For Yahweh has redeemed Jacob and shown his glory to Israel.

²⁴ Thus says Yahweh, your redeemer, who formed you from the womb:
I am Yahweh who made all things.

+ The passage 9-20 – placed here, though coming from someone else – should be read separately: it ridicules the makers of idols. We will find other similar examples of irony in the Bible. They may still be of value today when people who are proud of scientific discoveries, maintain quite a few superstitions. See the commentary on Is 30:22 and Jer 2:13.

I alone stretched out the heavens, and spread out the earth. Who helped me?

²⁵ I am he who thwarts the omens of false prophets, who makes fools of diviners,
who turns wise men back and makes nonsense of their knowledge.

²⁶ I confirm the word of my servant and carry out the plan announced by my messengers.

I am he who says of Jerusalem,
"It shall be inhabited,"
and of the towns of Judah,
"They shall be rebuilt; I will restore their ruins."

²⁷ I say to the ocean, "Be dry,
I will dry up your wellsprings!"

²⁸ I call on Cyrus, "My shepherd!"
and he goes to fulfill my will.
He will say to Jerusalem, "Be rebuilt!"
and see: the cornerstone is laid.

■ 45

¹ Thus says Yahweh to his anointed, to Cyrus:
"I have taken you by the right hand to subdue nations before you and strip kings of their armor, to open the gateways before you so that they will be closed no more.

² I will go before you to level the slopes,
I will break the gates of brass
and destroy the iron bars;

³ I will give you treasures hidden in darkness and riches stored in secret places,
so that you may know that I am Yahweh,
the God of Israel who calls you by your name.

⁴ For the sake of Jacob my servant,
of Israel my chosen one,
I have called you by your name
and given you your mission
although you do not know me.

⁵ I am Yahweh, and there is no other;
there is no God besides me.
I have armed you when you did not know me,

⁶ so that, from the rising to the setting of the sun,
all men may know

that there is no one besides me;
 I am Yahweh, and there is no other.
⁷I form the light and create the dark;
 I usher in prosperity and bring calamity.
 I, Yahweh, do all this.

◆ ⁸Let the heavens send righteousness like a dew and the clouds rain it down.

Let the earth open and salvation blossom,
 so that justice also may sprout,
 I, Yahweh, have created it.

⁹Woe to him who argues with his Maker being but a pot among pots.

Will the clay say to him who fashions it,
 "What are you making? You have no skill."

¹⁰Woe to him who asks a father, "What have you begotten!"
 or a mother, "To what have you given birth?"

¹¹Thus says Yahweh, the Holy One,
 he who fashions Israel:
 Is it for you to question me about my children,
 or decide the work of my hands for me?

¹²I am He who made the earth
 and created man upon it.

I am He who stretched out the heavens with my own hands and gave order to their whole array.
¹³I have raised Cyrus for the sake of justice

 I will direct his ways
 and make him rebuild my-city.
 He will send my exiles home without ransom or indemnity.
 It is Yahweh Sabaoth who speaks.

+ ¹⁴Thus says Yahweh:
 The peasants of Egypt,
 the traders of Ethiopia and the tall men of Seba will pass near you in chains,
 and bow down facing you.
 In worship they will say,

6. 54, 8; Lam 1, 19

8. Rev 18, 29

1. Dt 6, 13; Jer 5, 2; Zac 8, 8

4. Ex 32, 9; Dt 9, 6

There is here something unique in the Bible: this pagan king is called the anointed one of God, just like the sons of David, and even Christ "the Anointed of God". An incredible thing for the Jews used to thinking that Yahweh was only their God! History tells us that Cyrus was a "father" to his people, and the Bible will remember that his first deed, after the capture of Babylon, was to restore freedom to all those living there in exile (see Ezra 1:1).

Thus, we are asked to see the work of God being fulfilled in the world by people who do not know him. Christ will also act through men who do not believe in him. Political and cultural changes, though they appear at times to be against the church, serve in the long run to destroy many superstitions and false gods.

◆ Here, we have a magnificent expression of the work of God, the saviour. As we said in reference to Is 11:1, it is not a question of opposing or separating the salvation coming from God from that which men can achieve. Rather, God's work and men's cooperation are joined in this unique endeavor of bringing us to the end of our labors.

Justice is man's total uprightness. We could express it briefly: a life according to truth and love. Such justice must come from God, the only one who can create a new man. In fact, it will come in the person of Christ, the Just One (John 16:10), the one who is born among us as the first shoot of a renewed humanity. Christ will not break into the world, coming down in glory from heaven, but rather, he will be the blossom of our earth, being born a Jew to the Jews, true man born of a virgin mother. Neither will Christ alone accomplish the work of our salvation for it must be realized in the course of history: Justice and Salvation will be the fruits of humanity made fertile by divine mercy.

Salvation here means man's complete liberation.

This text is complemented by Psalm 85 where another image is used: two hands are joined, one coming down from heaven and another lifted up from the earth, to achieve the definitive covenant of God and men in Love and Faithfulness (see John 1:17).

• The same themes are continued with different expressions.

45:9-13: the Lord, free Creator of all, is also in charge of history. Let us note in Jeremiah 18:1 that the comparison of the potter and his clay is developed with a very different meaning.

"Surely God is with you.

There is no one else
There is no other god."

¹⁵ Truly you are the God who remains hidden.

the God of Israel, the Saviour.

¹⁶ All idolmakers will be put to shame,
they will go away humiliated.

¹⁷ But Israel will be saved by Yahweh – delivered with an everlasting salvation.
You will never be put in disgrace for everlasting ages.

¹⁸ Yes, this is what Yahweh says,
He who created the heavens,
who is God Himself,
who formed the earth,
and made and established it,
who did not create it in vain
but formed it to be inherited:
I am Yahweh, and there is no other.

¹⁹ I have not spoken in secret,
nor from a dark place of the earth.
I have not said to the sons of Jacob:
"Seek me groping."

I, Yahweh, speak the truth.
What I declare is always right.

²⁰ Come, gather together, fugitives from among the nations.
In ignorance, you have erected idols of wood

and prayed to gods that cannot move.

²¹ Take counsel together, come here and declare:
Who announced this from the beginning,
who foretold it in the distant past?
Am I not Yahweh?

There is no other God besides Me, a Saviour, a God of justice –
there is no other one but Me.

Every knee will bend

²² Turn to me and be saved,
all you from the ends of the earth,
for I am God and there is no other.

²³ By my own self I swear it, and what comes from my mouth is truth,

a word that will not be revoked.
Before me every knee will bend,
by me every tongue will swear, ²⁴ saying, "In Yahweh alone are righteousness and strength."
All who have raged against him will come to him in shame.

²⁵ But through Yahweh there will be victory
and glory to the sons of Israel.

Difference between God and the false gods

46 ¹ Bel bows down, Nebo stoops low, their carriages weighed down with load,

their idols borne by beasts of burden and upon the shoulders of weary men.

² They cringe and crouch together, powerless to save those who carry them,
as they themselves are taken captives.

³ Hear me, O people of Jacob, and all who remain of Israel, whom I have cared for since you were conceived,

and carried since you were born.

⁴ Even to your old age, I am He and I will sustain you even when your hair turns gray.
It is I who have done this,
and who bear the burdens,
I will sustain and save you.

⁵ To whom will you compare me or consider me equal?

Against whom will you match me,
as though we were alike?

+ The prophet looks upon the powerful of yesterday, now conquered by Cyrus. The conquered Egyptians and Ethiopians go back to Palestine in chains along the same road by which they had proudly come. As they go by Jerusalem, they see it glorious and filled with God's favours, and falling to their knees facing Jerusalem, they beg God to save them too.

The liberation of Israel is God's way of revealing himself to the world; they will recognize Yahweh by the way he restored a dead people. They will come to adore the Lord of the Universe "hidden" in a people without countenance.

The same thing can be seen in the church when it is scorned. One day those who mocked it discover God there. Some day, people will see that the church kept the fire of God in the world.

■ The prophet foresees the fall of Babylon. He imagines the Chaldeans carrying their idols in their flight. Israel, on the other hand, does not before which they bow and worship.

⁷ They carry it upon their shoulders and set it up in its place;
and there it stands, unmoving and silent.
They cry out to it, but it does not answer, it delivers no one from distress and disaster

⁸ Bear it well in mind, you rebels,

⁹ recall those things of long ago.

I am God, and there is no other;

I am God, and there is more like me.

¹⁰ From the beginning I foretell the outcome,

from ancient times, what is yet to come.

I say that my plan will stand;

and what I wish, I accomplish.

¹¹ From the east I call forth a bird of prey,

from a distant land, a man to carry out my plan.

Yes, I have spoken, it will be done;

I have planned, it will be executed.

¹² Listen to me, you without hope you who are deprived of any right.

¹³ I am bringing my justice, it is not far away;

my salvation will not delay.

I will make salvation appear in Zion, upon Israel I will bestow my glory.

47

¹ Come down and sit in the dust,
O virgin daughter of Babylon!

You have no throne, sit on the ground,
O daughter of the Chaldeans, no longer will you be called dainty and delicate.

² Take the millstone and grind meal;
uncover your hair, bare your legs;
strip to the thighs and pass over the rivers.

³ Your nakedness will be exposed,
your shame will be uncovered.

I will spare no man.

⁴ Our Redeemer – Yahweh Sabaoth is his name –
is the Holy One of Israel.

⁵ Go creep into the shadows and sit in silence, O daughter of the Chaldeans, for no more will you be called sovereign lady of the kingdoms.

⁶ Angry with my people, I had left my inheritance;

I gave them into your hands, you showed them no mercy.

You laid a very heavy yoke, even on the aged.

⁷ You said, "I will be sovereign lady forever:"

But you did not take this to heart or ponder on what would be the outcome.

⁸ Listen, therefore, you wanton woman.
lounging in security and deluding yourself. "I am, and there is none besides me. I will never be a widow or suffer the loss of children."

⁹ But these two things will come to you in a moment, on a single day – loss of children and widowhood.

They will come upon you in full measure,

in spite of all your witchcraft,
in spite of the power of your spells.

¹⁰ You have trusted in your wickedness, saying, "Nobody sees me."

Your intelligence and knowledge have perverted you, for you have said:
"I am, and there is none besides me."

¹¹ Evil, suddenly, will come your way though you do not know it.
Disaster will fall upon you,
and no ransom will ward it off;
a catastrophe you cannot foresee will come upon you suddenly.
¹² Keep on, then, with your magic spells and with the multitude of your sorceries, which you have laboured at since your youth.

Do you think they will help you now?

Do you think they will cause terror around you?

¹³ Yet you are wearied with so many advisors.

Let your astrologers stand up, your stargazers

who foretell each month what will happen;

have to carry its gods: Yahweh is the one who carries his people (46: 1-7). God gives life to his people, whereas those who do not believe waste their energy carrying idols.

◆ We stress 47:1-15 as a song of affliction over Babylon which will become the image of the impious city. This is why in the Apocalypse (chapters 17-18) St. John calls the Roman empire which persecutes the Christians, Babylon.

Virgin daughter of Babel is Babel (or Babylon) according to the Hebrew way of designating capitals. It says: I will never be a widow; this can mean: I will never be without my gods, or I will never be without my famous kings; or I will never know defeat. It thought it could assure its future through its magicians, famous in Eastern

let them save you from what is to come upon you.

¹⁴ Look, they will be like stubble and the fire will burn them.
They cannot even save themselves from the power of consuming flames.
Here are no embers to warm anyone,
no fireside to sit by.

¹⁵ That is your lot and of your wizards with whom you have labored from your youth.

Now each will go his own way – powerless to save you.

o 48 ¹ Listen to this. House of Jacob called by the name of Israel and born out of Judah's womb, you who swear by the name of Yahweh and invoke the God of Israel though not in truth or righteousness – ² calling yourselves after the holy city, and relying on the God of Israel
whose name is Yahweh Sabaoth.

³ From long ago I revealed the former things:
they went forth from my mouth;
I declared them. Then suddenly I acted and the word came to be.

⁴ Because I know that you are stubborn, your head as hard as iron,
your forehead as bronze,

⁵ So I foretold you about them;
before they took place
I let you hear of them, lest you should say: "My idols did these,
my graven image, my molten image, commanded them."

⁶ Now that you have heard,
look at all this.
Will you not admit it?

From now on I will tell you new things, even hidden things you have not known before.

⁷ They are created now and not long ago;
up to this day you have not heard of
them
lest you should say, "I already knew."

⁸ You have not heard nor understood:
nor were your ears opened before,
for I knew how treacherous you were – from the womb you have been called a rebel.

⁹ For my name's sake I delayed my anger,
for my honour's sake I restrained it,
lest I destroy you.

¹⁰ Now see how I have refined you,
but not as silver
I have tested you in the furnace of affliction.

¹¹ For my own sake I have acted, yes, for my own sake.
For how could I let my Name be defiled?
Never will I yield my glory to another.

¹² Listen to Me, O Jacob,
Israel whom I have called,
I am the same, I am the first,
and I am also the last.

¹³ My own hand founded the earth
my right hand spread out the heavens.
When I call on the stars
they all stand forth together.

¹⁴ Assemble, all of you, and listen.
Who of them has foretold these things?
The beloved of Yahweh will do what pleases him
with Babylon and the people of Chaldea.
¹⁵ I, yes, I myself have spoken;
and I have called him,
I have brought him.
He will prosper in his way.

If you had obeyed my law

¹⁶ Come near me and listen to this:
From the beginning I have not spoken in secret; from the time that it happened there I am. Know then, that Yahweh, the Lord, with his Spirit sent me!

¹⁷ Thus says Yahweh, your Redeemer, the Holy One of Israel: I, Yahweh, your God, teach you what is best for you; I lead you in the way that you must go.

countries. They pretended to know the future through their horoscopes.

This text can be adapted to materialistic civilization, nations which pretend to achieve all that they need through their technologies.

You laid a very heavy yoke upon the aged.
Prophets are always using this criterion to express the value of a civilization: they do not look at the military power, nor the economic level, but they ask rather: How do you treat people when they can no longer serve?

o In 48:17-22 the prophet looks at Israel's past. This resembles what we read about in the lost Paradise. If they had obeyed, God's desi r to ¹⁸ Had you paid attention to my commandments, your peace would have been like a river, your righteousness like the waves of the sea.

¹⁹ Your descendants would have been like the sand, and those born of your stock like its grains, their names never cut off nor blotted out from my presence.

²⁰ "Go forth from Babylon, flee from Chaldea!" Declare this with shouts of joy, make this known to the ends of the earth. Proclaim: Yahweh has redeemed his servant Jacob!

²¹ Those he led through the desert were never thirsty. He made water flow for them from the rock; he split the rock and water gushed out."

²² There is no peace for the wicked, Yahweh says.

Yahweh called me from my mother's womb

¹ Listen to me, O islands, pay attention, peoples from distant lands.
Yahweh called me from my mother's womb;
he pronounced my name before I was born.
² He made my mouth like a sharpened sword.
He hid me in the shadow of his hand.
He made me into a polished arrow set apart in his quiver.

³ He said to me, "You are Israel, my servant,
in whom I am glorified."

⁴ But I thought, "I have labored in vain,
I have spent my strength for nothing."
Yet what is due me is in the hand of Yahweh, and my reward is with my God.

⁵ I am important in the sight of Yahweh, and my strength has been my God.

⁶ And now Yahweh has spoken,
He who formed me in the womb to be his servant,
to bring Jacob again to him,
to gather Israel to him.

⁷ He said: "It is not enough for you to be my servant,
to restore the tribes of Jacob, lavish his blessings upon them would have been fulfilled, as well as God's promises to Abraham.

But God will intervene again as the Redeemer of his people.

In 48:12-15, note that Cyrus is praised again. The beloved of Yahweh will do what pleases him: I have called him. As we remarked about 42:10, the prophet always goes beyond the present reality. The conqueror Cyrus is a saviour and thus, his mission and his person are somehow blended with that of the only Saviour, Christ.

+ This song, like 42:1-9, refers to a servant of God, but this time, he is called, Israel (49:3). It does not mean the people of Israel as a whole since in 49:5 it is given the mission of gathering this people. Perhaps this symbolic name Israel designates the most faithful minority of the Jewish people in exile, the communities which keep the hope in the Saving Lord alive in Babylon. They are the true Israel who will bring the light of salvation, first to their own people, and then, to the whole world (49:6).

However, as we already mentioned in 42:1,

my Lord has forgotten me."

¹⁵ Can a woman forget the baby at her breast and have no compassion on the child of her womb?
Though she may forget, I will not forget you.

¹⁶ See, I have written your name upon the palm of my hands;
your walls are ever before me.

¹⁷ Your sons hurry back, and those who laid you waste hasten to depart from you.

¹⁸ Lift up your eyes,
look around and see: your sons are all assembling and coming to you.
As I live, says Yahweh,
you will wear them all as your jewels;
they will adorn you as brides are adorned.

¹⁹ Your lovely places and your ruins your wastelands and devastated country, will now be too small for your people, while those who destroy you will be driven off.

²⁰ The children you will have,
after those you lost,
will also say in your hearing,
"This place is too small for us.
Give us more space to live in."

²¹ You will then say in your heart,
"Who has borne me these?
I was bereaved and barren,
and who has brought these up?
I was left alone; but these – where have they come from?"

²² Thus speaks the Lord Yahweh:
See, I am to make signs to the nations;
and to raise my banner to the peoples,
that they bring your sons in their arms,
your daughters upon their shoulders.

²³ Kings will be your foster fathers, their queens your nursing mothers.
They will bow down before you with their faces to the ground;

they will lick the dust of your feet.
Then you will know that I am Yahweh and that those who hope in me will not be put to shame.

²⁴ Can booty be taken from a warrior, or captives be rescued from a tyrant?
But thus says Yahweh:

²⁵ Yes, captives will be taken from warriors
and booty rescued from a tyrant:
for I will fight against those who fight against you and I will save your children.

²⁶ I will make your oppressors eat their own flesh
and be drunk with their own blood, as with wine.

All mankind will know that I, Yahweh, am your saviour,
your redeemer, the Mighty One of Jacob.

50 ¹ Thus says Yahweh:
Where is the writ of divorce with which I dismissed your mother?
Or to which of my creditors have I sold you?
It was for your sins that you were sold,
for your crimes that your mother was dismissed.

² Why was there no one when I came?
Why did no one answer when I called?
Is my hand too short to reach out and save?
Have I not the power to deliver?
See how at my threat the sea dries up,
the rivers turn into desert,
their fish dying, for lack of water.

³ I clothe the heavens in mourning;
I make sackcloth their covering.

having returned to their land, the Jews became missionaries of the One God in all the countries of the Greek and Syrian world. Later, these promises would take a new meaning for the church which Christ established as a New Jerusalem. At times, this new Jerusalem seems downhearted and lifeless, and it even disappears in some parts of the world. Yet, God brings it new children from other continents. He invites us to look beyond our communities to those who have not yet received the Kingdom.

The church experiences this fruitfulness wherever it lives in poverty and trust in God who loves it with maternal love. There it can attract and convert adults instead of focusing on children. The church waits for people coming from afar, that is to say, the new layers of society which seem alienated; the technicians, scientists, artists who do not come near because little understanding was shown to them; the working classes that perhaps have found the Church indifferent to their just ambitions. Though Christians often increased their efforts in the promotion of the poor individually, few of them grasped the need to promote the working classes as such.

Yahweh has opened my ear

+⁴ The Lord Yahweh has taught me to speak and I know how to sustain the weary.
Morning after morning he wakes me up to hear, to listen like a disciple.

⁵ The Lord Yahweh has opened my ear.
I have not rebelled,
nor have I withdrawn.

⁶ I offered my back to those who strike me,
my cheeks to those who pulled my beard;
neither did I shield my face from blows, spittle and disgrace.

⁷ I have not despaired,
for the Lord Yahweh comes to my help.
So like a flint I set my face,
knowing that I will not be disgraced.

⁸ He who avenges me is near.
Who then will accuse me?
Let us confront each other.
Who is no my accuser?
Let him approach.

⁹ If the Lord Yahweh is my help,
who will condemn me?
All of them will wear out like cloth;
the moth will devour them.

¹⁰ Let anyone among you who fears
Yahweh
listen to the voice of his servant.
Whoever walks in darkness and has no light to shine for him, let him trust in the name of Yahweh,
let him rely upon his God.

¹¹ All of you who kindle flames and carry about burning torches, go to the flames of your own fire
and in the sparks you have kindled.

This will befall you from my hand,
you will lie down in torment.

God will save the children of Abraham

51 ¹ Listen to me, you who pursue justice,
you who go in search of Yahweh.
Look to the rock from which you were hewn,
to the pit from which you were quarried.

+ About whom is the prophet speaking: himself, someone else? Perhaps, the servant symbolically meant the minority among the exiled believers, as in 49:1-6. But, the prophet may have been speaking about himself.

Former prophets had met with the same opposition. Moses had had to endure a rebellious people; Jeremiah had been persecuted and imprisoned (see Jer 20:7 and 37). On the basis of these examples, we see the profile and the mission of the perfect servant of Yahweh. This will be Jesus, but every one of his prophets can attribute all these words to himself.

Note the beginning of the poem. The Servant will be able to transmit the word and to encourage on behalf of God because he himself listens every morning and he keeps his ears open. To sustain those who are tired, we must be taught by God: the true prophet is a man of prayer, open to the Spirit of God. "No one knows the secrets of God except his Spirit and we have received this Spirit in order to know what comes from God" (1 Cor 2:11).

² Look to Abraham, your father, and to Sarah, who gave you birth.
He was alone when I called him;
but I blessed and increased him.
³ Truly Yahweh's compassion is for Zion.

His mercy is upon all her ruins.
He will make her deserts like Eden,
her wastelands like Yahweh's garden.
In her will be found joy and rejoicing, melody and song of praise and thanksgiving.

⁴ Listen to me, you peoples, hear me, O nations.
I am to give you my law,
my justice will be a light to the nations.
⁵ Suddenly my justice will appear,
my salvation is on the way,
and my arm will bring justice to the peoples.

The islands will wait in hope for me and lay their trust upon my arm.

⁶ Lift up your eyes to the heavens and look upon the earth beneath.
Like smoke, the heavens will vanish,
and the earth wear out like a garment:
its inhabitants will fall like flies.
But my salvation will last forever,
my justice will never fail.

⁷ Hear me, you who know righteousness,
you who have my law in your hearts:
do not fear the reproach of men or be terrified by their mocking.

⁸ For they will be like garments eaten by moths,
like wool consumed by grubs.
But my justice will last forever and my salvation, for all generations.

Awake, Yahweh

o ⁹ Awake, awake, put on strength, O arm of Yahweh!

Awake as in ancient days,
in times of generations long ago.
Was it not you who split Rahab in two and pierced the dragon through?

¹⁰ Was it not you who dried up the sea,
the waters of the great deep,
to make a way on the seabed
for the redeemed to pass over?

¹¹ The redeemed of Yahweh will return and come to Zion singing with joy, crowned with everlasting gladness,
while sorrow and mourning flee away.

¹² I, yes, I am who am your comforter.
How then can you be afraid of man who dies, of the son of man whose fate is as the fate of grass?

¹³ You forget Yahweh who made you, who stretched forth the heavens and laid the foundations of the earth.

Why live every day in constant fear of the fury of the oppressor
as if he might destroy you?
And where is the fury of the oppressor?

¹⁴ The captive exiles will soon be free;
they will not die in a deep prison,
nor will they want for food.

¹⁵ I am Yahweh, your God,
the one who stirs the sea,
making its waves roar.

My name is Yahweh Sabaoth.

¹⁶ I have put my words in your mouth;
I have shielded you in the shadow of my hand,

as I stretched out the heavens,
laid the foundations of the earth,
and said to Zion: "You are My people."

¹⁷ Awake, awake!

Arise, O Jerusalem,
you who drank at the hand of Yahweh
the cup of his fury,
the cup which made you stagger that you drank to the last drop.

¹⁸ Among all the sons she bore,
she has no one to guide her;
among all the sons she reared,
she has no one to take her by the hand.

¹⁹ These double calamities have befallen
you –

ruin and destruction, famine and sword.
Who is there to console you?

²⁰ Your sons lie helpless
at the corner of every street,
like wild bulls in a net.
They are filled with the fury of Yahweh, with the wrath of your God.

²¹ Therefore hear this now, you afflicted one,
you who are drunk but not with wine.

²² Thus says your Lord Yahweh, your God, defender of your people's cause:

See, I am taking out of your hand the cup of trembling;

the cup of my anger –
you will drink of it no more.

²³ But I will put it into the hands of your tormentors, those who ordered you to bow down,
that they might trample over you,
while you laid your body as a pavement,
as a street for them to walk over.

Put on your strength, O Zion, put on your glorious garments, O Jerusalem, holy city.

For never will the uncircumcised or the unclean enter you again.

² Shake the dust off yourself and rise up, O Jerusalem.
Loose the bonds from your neck,
O captive Daughter of Zion.

³ For thus says Yahweh:
You were sold for no amount,
you will be redeemed without money.

⁴ Thus says the Lord God:
In the beginning
my people lived as aliens in Egypt;
then Assyria oppressed them without reason.

⁵ But now, what am I doing here? says
Yahweh,
my people have been carried off for no money

and their masters make a boast of it;
all day long my name is scorned.

⁶ Therefore my people will know my
name;
therefore they will know on that day that it is I who says: "Here I am!"

o This poem is a double call to Yahweh and to Jerusalem that they may awaken. Yahweh is called as a hero asleep and Jerusalem as a humiliated and discouraged woman.

They are both called at the same time because the restoration of Jerusalem will be a joint endeavor:

- Yahweh is the one indicating the timing, preparing the historical conditions to make it feasible, and infusing hope in the hearts of men.
- First, the children of Jerusalem must want their own liberation and then they must go to rebuild the city.

God seems absent from the world as long as people manage it according to their own whims. God seems asleep until his hour comes. That does not mean that we are to be fatalists and think that problems will be solved when God so decides. The task of believers is to keep calling for God to awaken; and while we are active in preparing the future, we ask God to bring about the necessary conditions to be able to move forward.

Who is God encouraging? Defeated men who are suffering the evil they deserve. He is not speaking to saints but to sinners and he tells them that by forgiving them their past sins, he is strengthening them to build the Holy City.

It is easy to criticize these realistic and primitive biblical expressions concerning Yahweh of Hosts. But, we must not replace the image of the Conqueror with that of a calm and unruffled God more in keeping with a conservative mentality. The events which were announced here were going to overturn the course of history.

Note the expressions redeemed and sold which were already used in 50:1. Man belongs to God and he finds his freedom in obeying him. If he rejects this dependence, he falls into another since man is not created to enjoy freedom apart from obedience and commitment. Christ

+⁷How beautiful on the mountains are the feet of those who bring good news,
who herald peace and happiness,
who proclaim salvation and announce to Zion: "Your God is king!"

⁸Your watchmen together raise their voice in praise and
song;

they see Yahweh face to face returning to Zion.

⁹Break into shouts of joy,
O ruins of Jerusalem for Yahweh consoles his people and redeems Jerusalem.

¹⁰Yahweh has bared his holy arm
in the eyes of the nations;
all the ends of the earth, in alarm,
will witness God's salvation.

¹¹Depart, depart
from that nation, come out!
Touch nothing unclean.
Purify yourselves, you who bear
all Yahweh's holy vessels.

¹²Yet not in escape, or in flight will you come out,
you will not leave in headlong flight;
for ahead is Yahweh, your vanguard, and behind, the God of Israel, your rearguard.

Through his punishment, we are made whole

■¹³See, my servant will succeed;
he will be exalted and highly praised.

¹⁴Just as many have been horrified at your disfigured appearance:
Is this a man? He has no human likeness.

¹⁵So will nations be astounded, kings will stand speechless,
for they will see something never told,
they will witness something never heard of.

53

¹Who could believe what we have heard,
and to whom has the strength of Yahweh been revealed?

²Like a root out of dry ground,
like a sapling he grew up before us,
with nothing attractive in his appearance,
no beauty, no majesty.

³He was despised and rejected,
a man of sorrows familiar with grief,
a man from whom people hide their face,

"purchases" us, or rescues us from every slavery
as it is written in Isaiah 53:10. (Rom 6:15).

+ The prophets calling Jerusalem are presented as those messengers whom a new king would send throughout the provinces to announce to everyone his coming to the throne.
Thus also, Paul will present the Christian apostles as those who, on behalf of God, are going to tell the world that now, Christ is Lord (see Romans 1:1-5 and 2 Cor 2:14).

■ See how my servant will be exalted. This is the fourth and last song about the Servant of Yahweh. It may be loftiest Old Testament expression concerning Redemption.

This song develops and expands what was sketched previously in 49:1-6 and 50:4-9. God is saving the world through a savior who takes upon himself the sins of others.

For thousands of years men used to sacrifice animals – and at times human beings – thinking spurned and considered of no account.

⁴Yet ours were the sorrows he bore, ours were the sufferings he endured, although we considered him as one punished by God, stricken and brought low.

⁵Forsaken because of our sins,
 he was crushed for our wickedness.
 Through his punishment we are made whole;
 by his wounds we are healed.

⁶Like sheep we had all gone astray,
 each following his own way;
 but Yahweh laid upon him all our guilt.

⁷He was harshly treated,
 but unresisting and silent,
 he humbly submitted.
 Like a lamb led to the slaughter or a sheep before the shearer
 he did not open his mouth.

⁸He was taken away by detention and judgment –
 what an unthinkable destiny!
 He was cut off from the land of the living,

4. Mt 8, 17; Heb 2, 10

they could unload their own sins on them, and and so be rid of them. But these sacrifices or this getting rid of those thought to be responsible for God's anger never interrupted the cycle of violence. Here, however, we are presented with God's answer to our sins: he saves us through the suffering of the innocent and even more, through the willing sacrifice of the one who accepts to take the sin of the world upon himself.

In writing this, the prophet had in mind the small group of the faithful Jews exiled in Babylon: they were nothing more than despised people. Yet, they had not deserved their humiliation because of their own sins, rather they were carrying the sorrows of the violent, sinful world in which they lived. These believers were punished for the crimes of their people, Israel; but God would transform them into the seed of a holy people: they would see their descendants and they would enjoy a long life. This wonder of God would surpass all the others and, in seeing it, kings would stand speechless.

But this song is for our own amazement as well. The prophet, writing five centuries before Christ, was apparently referring to the humiliation of God's people who, then as now, are the instrument of salvation; but his poem outlined beforehand the image of God made man, who humbled himself even to death on the cross. When we read the Passion of Christ in the Gospel, we realize that the evangelists themselves were struck by the similarity between Jesus' trial and death and what was announced by the prophet. And many times, in presenting Jesus, the apostles would refer to this text. See Acts 8:32; 1 Pt 2:24.

Who will believe what we have heard? How would the hearers of Peter, Paul or John accept their proclamation of Jesus, the crucified saviour? See Jn 12:38; 1 Cor 1:22; Rom 10:16. And in our day, perhaps many Christians do not understand why so many innocent people die as victims of injustice and Christians are especially persecuted.

In him there was no beauty or majesty. Some people came to the wrong conclusion that Christ was unattractive. All we are told is that the saviour is presented with none of the traits which seduce people.

You made his life as an offering for sin. In several passages of the Bible we are invited to adopt this same attitude when we suffer unjustly (1 Pt 1:20; 4:13). But Christ alone perfectly fulfilled this redemptive mission from the beginning to the end of his life (Heb 10; Jn 2:29; Rom 5:6).

My servant will justify many: that is to say, he will make them just and holy. Many: in Hebrew "the many" means the multitude. Jesus refers to this text at the Last Supper: "my blood poured out for many", or for everyone (Mk 14:24). There Jesus clearly says that his death is the free and perfect sacrifice foretold in this song.

⁹They made his tomb with the wicked;
they put him in the graveyard of the oppressors,
though he had done no violence nor spoken in deceit.

¹⁰Yet it was the will of Yahweh to crush him with grief.

As you have made his life an offering for sin,
he will have a long life and see his descendants.

Through him the will of Yahweh is done.

¹¹For the anguish he suffered he will see the light and obtain perfect knowledge.

My just servant will justify the multitude;
he will bear and take away their sins.

¹²Therefore I will give him his portion among the great,
and he will divide the spoils with the strong.

For he surrendered himself to death and was even counted among the wicked, bearing the sins of the multitude and interceding for sinners.

Rejoice, O barren woman

¹Rejoice, O barren woman who have not given birth;
sing and shout for joy, you who never had children,
for more are the children of the rejected woman than the children of the married wife, says Yahweh.

◆ This concludes the songs in which Isaiah addressed Jerusalem: 49:14; 51:17).

Jerusalem is a grandiose vision, the people of the future, the people reborn from the ruins of the love of God, our infidelity, our sin. The Bible describes the mistakes of men, and then the infidelity of the people loved by God. But the prophets announce the New Jerusalem, Yahweh's bride which will never again be abandoned. We know that the Church is this new People united to God in an eternal covenant.

I had abandoned you for a moment. Here we have the story of God's love for us: the total love of God, our infidelity, our sin. The Bible describes the mistakes of men, and then the infidelity of the people loved by God. But the prophets announce the New Jerusalem, Yahweh's bride which will never again be abandoned. We know that the Church is this new People united to God in an eternal covenant.

It is quite true that there are wrinkles on the face of the church: dull parishes, existing but not really alive; institutions where one would look in vain for the Spirit of Jesus; leaders of the church subservient to the powerful ... Somehow the New Jerusalem is in the church of Christ, but it is also true that we continue to look for it. Therefore, we are open to hearing and meditating upon this proclamation of the merciful love of God.

Shout with joy, you who have no children. The Jewish people collapsed as a result of their errors and they no longer have a future, humanly speaking. But this suits God. If they lack the means to be great, God is going to bend down to them.

Your Maker will marry you. The people of God have no self-assurance: they are not a church accepted and privileged by governments, they do not have a religion known and considered for its accomplishments; so Yahweh is going to be their husband to give them a new fruitfulness. The great and cold churches will be replaced by more fervent communities to which will come those new children seeking God.

All your children will be taught by Yahweh and fear will not come near you. This is the church founded on the Rock and taught by its profound fidelity to Christ, the Lord.

It is by meditating on these poems that we best understand how God makes virginity fruitful. It is not by accident that Jesus was born of a virgin mother; rather his birth came as the culmination of the expectation of "Jerusalem, the bride of God": see Is 17:14.

stretch out your hangings, lengthen your ropes and strengthen your stakes, ³ for you will spread out to the right and to the left;
your descendants will take possession of the nations and inhabit cities that have been abandoned.

⁴ Do not be afraid for you will not be deceived,
do not be ashamed for you will not be disgraced.
You will forget the shame of your youth;
no longer will you remember the disgrace of your widowhood.

⁵ For your Maker is to marry you:
Yahweh Sabaoth is his name.
Your Redeemer is the Holy One of Israel:
He is called God of the whole earth.

⁶ For Yahweh has called you back as one forsaken and grieved in spirit.
Who could abandon his first beloved? says your God.

⁷ For a brief moment I have abandoned you,
but with great tenderness I will gather my people.

⁸ For a moment, in an outburst of anger,
I hid my face from you,
but with everlasting love
I have had mercy on you, says Yahweh, your Redeemer.

⁹ This is for me like Noah's days when I swore that Noah's waters will no more flood the earth;
so now I swear not to be angry with you and never again to rebuke you.

¹⁰ The mountains may depart and the hills be moved,
but never will my love depart from you nor my covenant of peace be removed, says Yahweh whose compassion is for you.

¹¹ O afflicted city, lashed by storm and uncomforted,
I will set your stones with turquoise,
your foundations with sapphires.

¹² I will crown your walls with agate, make your gates crystal,
and your ramparts of precious stones.

¹³ All your children will be taught by Yahweh, and they will prosper greatly.

¹⁴ Justice will be your foundation; tyranny and the fear of oppression will never come near you.

¹⁵ If ever you are attacked,
it will not be of my doing;
and your attacker will surely fail.

¹⁶ Look, it is I who created the blacksmith, who fans the burning coals and forges his weapons. But I have also prepared the one who makes them useless.

¹⁷ No weapon forged against you will succeed, and all who speak against you will be silenced. Such is the lot of the servants of Yahweh, and such is the right I grant them – says Yahweh.

Come to the water

55 ¹ All you who are thirsty, come to the water. All who have no money, come.

Yes, without money and at no cost,

come, buy and drink wine and milk.

² Why spend on what is not food and labour for what does not satisfy?
Listen to me, and you will eat well;
you will enjoy the richest of fare.

³ Incline your ear and come to me;
listen, that your soul may live. I will make with you an everlasting covenant, I will fulfil in you my promises to David.

⁴ See, I have given him for a witness to the nations, a leader and commander of the people. ⁵ Likewise you will summon a nation unknown to you, and nations that do not know you will come hurrying to you for the sake of Yahweh your God, the Holy One of Israel,
for he has glorified you.

⁶ Seek Yahweh while he may be found;
call to him while he is near.

⁷ Let the wicked abandon his way,
let him forsake his thoughts,
let him turn to Yahweh for he will have mercy,
for our God is generous in forgiving.

⁸ For my thoughts are not your thoughts,
my ways are not your ways, says Yahweh.

⁹ For as the heavens are above the earth,
so are my ways higher than your ways,
and my thoughts above your thoughts.

¹⁰ As the rain and the snow come down from the heavens and do not return till they have watered the earth, making it yield seed for the sower
and food for the eater,

¹¹ so is my word that goes forth out of my mouth:
it will not return to me idle,
but it shall accomplish my will,
the purpose for which it has been sent.

o The book concludes with a call to hope.
55:1-3: Are you not tired of all the happiness you thought you would get effortlessly in the place of exile?

God is the one who gives and he always gives first. He only hopes that we will open the door for him. Jesus will offer us rest (Matthew 11:28);
he will give us the bread of life (John 6) and he will give himself as "the" friend (Rv 3:20).

55:4-5: A universal mission awaits Israel in the homeland, after their return.

55:6-9: Allow yourselves to be conquered by the love of the Lord who is forming you much more than you can imagine. Paul will use a similar language in his letter to the Romans (5:1-11).

55:10-11: Here the word of God appears powerful and even personified. It is already much more than the words spoken by the prophets. This word which comes from the Father and returns to him will be presented by the apostle John in the first chapter of his Gospel: it is Christ. See also in 45:8.

¹² Yes, in joy you will depart, in peace you will be led forth: mountains and hills will break into song before you, trees of the countryside will clap their hands.

¹³ Instead of the thornbush, the cypress will thrive; instead of briers, the myrtle. This will make Yahweh famous and remain as an everlasting witness to him.

THIRD PART OF THE BOOK OF ISAIAH

The Jews have come home, but the miracles announced in chapters 40-55 of this book did not occur. A poor community tries to organize itself and to solve all kinds of problems stemming from the fact that during the seventy years of the exile, others had taken their place.

A prophet, whose name we do not know, witnesses these beginnings. He announces that God comes to take revenge on his enemies, both those within Israel who do not want to give up their sins, and those outside. Above all God comes to save those who return to him, not only the members of the Israelite community, but strangers as well. In his own style this prophet continues the enthusiastic description of Zion-Jerusalem, and the Messiah: she is God's beloved and the wedding feast will be soon. The Messiah will come with the Spirit of Yahweh to deliver his Gospel to the poor.

The poems of this prophet are in chapters 56-66 of the book of Isaiah, there is a metrical arrangement of the poems with the announcement of the new Zion at the center:

56:1-8	The people of God welcome everyone	66:18-24.
56:9-58	Reproaches, warnings and promises	65 and 66:1-17.
59:1-4	Confession of sins	63:7-64,11.
59:15-20	God's vengeance	63:1-6.
60	The new Jerusalem	62.
61	The Spirit of the Lord is upon me.

God calls everyone

+ 56 ¹ This is what Yahweh says:
Maintain what is right and do what is just,
for my salvation is close at hand,
my justice is soon to come.

² Blessed is the man who does this, and puts his trust in it, who does not defile the sabbath and who refrains from evil.

³ Let no foreigner say "Surely Yahweh will exclude me from his people." Neither let the castrated man say, "I have become a mere dry tree."

⁴ For this is what Yahweh says: To the castrated men who keep my sabbaths, who desire to do what pleases me and remain faithful to my covenant:

⁵ I will give them in my house and within its walls,

a memorial and a name that are worth more than sons and daughters;
I will give them a name
that will never die away or be forgotten.

⁶ Yahweh says to the foreigners who join him, serving him and loving his name, keeping his sabbath unprofaned and remaining faithful to his covenant:

⁷ I will bring them to my holy mountain and give them joy in my house of prayer. I will accept on my altar their burnt offerings and sacrifices, for my house will be called a house of prayer for all the nations.

⁸ Thus says the Lord God, Yahweh, who gathers the exiles of Israel: There are others I will gather besides those already gathered.

Reproaches

o⁹ All you wild beasts, come and devour, all you beasts of the forests!

¹⁰ Blind are Israel's watchmen:
they all see nothing.
they are dumb watchdogs
they are unable to bark.

Lying down and dreaming,
they love to slumber.

¹¹ Greedy dogs that are never satisfied;
shepherds of no discretion,
they all turn their own way,
everyone of them to his own gain.

¹² "Come, bring wine," they say,
and let us all get drunk,
and tomorrow will be as today,
or perhaps even a more enjoyable day."

and no one cares about it.

Devout men are taken off,
and no one gives it a thought.
No one understands that the righteous man is taken off from the calamity that comes;
² he enters into peace.

Reposes on his bed
He who walked in the right way

³ But all you sons of a witch, come here, you offspring of the whore and the adulterer.

⁴ Whom are you mocking?
At whom are you making faces, opening wide your mouth
and sticking out your tongue?
You are children of sin,
offspring of deceit and falsehood, ⁵ burning with lust among the bushes,
under spreading branches, sacrificing your children by the streams,
in the clefts of rocks.

⁶ Your heart is with your idols, the smooth stones of the wadis to which you have poured out drink offerings
and brought oblations of grain.

Can I tolerate this?

⁷ You have made your bed
upon a high and lofty mountain.
You went up there to offer your sacrifice.
⁸ You have set up your domestic idols behind your doorposts and your doors.

Deserting me, you have uncovered your bed,
climbed into it and spread it wide.
You have bargained yourself to those whose bed you enjoy,
and you have gazed at their nakedness.
⁹ With perfumed oil, you made yourself look your best for Molech;
you put up envoys far afield –
the children you sent to your pagan god through a sacrificial death.
¹⁰ Although wearied with your misdeeds,
you have never given up;
you have never tried nor weakened,
but instead found your strength revived.

¹¹ Who was it you dreaded so much that you should lie and disown me, refuse me a place in your heart and not remember me?

Have I held my peace so long that you do not fear me any more?

¹² But now I will tell your merits and your deeds,
it will not be for your advantage.

¹³ When you cry out in distress,
let your idols save you!
The wind will blow them all away;
a whiff of a breeze will carry them off.
But he who takes refuge in me will take possession of the land,
my holy mountain his inheritance.

¹⁴ And it shall be said:
"Prepare, prepare, open up a way, remove all obstructions from my people's way."

¹⁵ For thus says the Most High,
he who is enthroned for ever,
he whose name is holy.

+ The Jewish law – reflecting the thinking of the times – excluded foreigners in certain circumstances, as well as eunuchs, that is to say, castrated men, from their religious assemblies. The prophet reveals that such exclusion means nothing to God.

o 56:9-57: Here we have poems against the leaders of Judah and against idolatry very similar to those of Jeremiah.

■ We are fasting and you are not. The people of Judah fast so that God may hear their petitions. These may be public prayers to ask for rain. Those people resemble many people complaining today: "God does not exist, because there is so much misery".

Is it true that they seek me as a people that does what is right? In spite of having a clear conscience, they are concerned because of God's silence. They may have committed some sin without knowing it? Perhaps, God likes to see humiliated people ask for favors? And so, they lie in sackcloth and ashes. And they resemble

There is no peace without justice

"I reign exalted and holy but I am also with him who is contrite and humble in spirit, to give the contrite a heart revived and the humble in spirit a new life.

¹⁶For I will not contend forever,
nor will I be always angry,
lest the spirit of man faint before me,
the very breath that I have created.

¹⁷His wickedness enraged me for a time,
I smote him and hid my face,
for he wanted not to hear but his own will.

¹⁸But from now on I will console,
I will heal and comfort him to the full,
and to those of his people who mourn,

¹⁹I will bring smiles to their lips. Peace!
Peace to him who is far and to him who is near.
I will indeed heal you," Yahweh says.

²⁰But the wicked are like a turbulent sea that finds no rest
and whose waters cast up mire and slime.

²¹"There is no peace," says my God,
"for the wicked."

The kind of fast that pleases me

58

¹Cry out aloud for all you are worth;
raise your voice like a trumpet blast;
tell my people of their offenses,
Jacob's family of their sins.

²Is it true that they seek me day after day, longing to know my ways, as the people that does what is right and has not forsaken the word of its God?

They want to know the just laws and not to drift away from their God.

³"Why are we fasting" they complain,
"and you do not even see it?"

many Christians satisfied with "being practicing" without seeing that the kind of practice that God seeks is efforts to bring about the liberation of all his people.

Is it perhaps just a matter of bowing the head? God neither wants the death of the sinner nor the humiliation of his creature. God loves people, but he loves them all and not only the little landowners of Judah fearful for their crops; he also loves the laborers and the slaves of these little landholders. God's demands are clear: doing away with unjust chains and sharing with the rest.

To unfasten the thongs of the yoke. Here we have a glimpse of the tremendous effort demanded of all to end with every form of slavery: from the small privileges that working companions compete for to the laws keeping

We are doing penance and you never notice it."
Look, on your fastdays you do not lose anything and you force your laborers.

⁴Yes, you fast but end up quarrelling, striking each other with wicked blows.

Fasting as you do
will not make your voice heard on high.

⁵Is that the kind of fast that pleases me,
just a day for a man to humble himself?
Is fasting merely bowing down one's head,
and making use of sackcloth and ashes?

Would you call that fasting,
a day acceptable to Yahweh?

⁶See the fast that pleases me:
To break the fetters of injustice and unfasten the thongs of the yoke, to set the oppressed free
and break every yoke.

⁷Fast by sharing your food with the hungry, bring to your house the unsheltered needy, clothe the man you see naked and do not turn away from your own kin.

⁸Then will your light break forth as the morning and your healing will come speedily.
Your righteousness will be your vanguard,
the Glory of Yahweh will be your rearguard.

⁹Then you will call and Yahweh will answer,
You will cry and he will say, I am here.

If you remove from your midst the yoke,
the threats and the wicked word, ¹⁰if you share your food with the hungry, — and give relief to the oppressed, then your light will rise in the dark,
your night will be like noon.

¹¹Yahweh will guide you always and give you relief in desert places.
He will strengthen your bones;
he will make you as a watered garden,
like a spring of water
where the waters never fail.

entire groups marginalized. Breaking the yoke of the domination of husband over their wives, to the disputes between neighbours when nobody wants to take the first step.

To unfasten the thongs of the yoke. It is not enough to "convert" to God "from the heart", but conversion occurs by changing both structures and institutions. These make us share in the injustices and sins of the society in which we live. An incredible number of sins—corruption, prostitution, violence—are due to colonialism and the economic and cultural dependence that goes with it.

Sharing with the hungry. To achieve solidarity whereby everyone works for the good of all. Your light will break forth as the morning. We see the leaders of the nations get together, discuss and study in order to solve the urgent problems of humanity. But no light breaks forth. It is a known fact that the research of a scientist does not bring him directly to great discoveries. Rather, he often finds the solution suddenly where he did not expect it. In the same way, human problems resist theoretical solutions, but unexpected ways will be found when every nation and every segment of society accepts sharing and no longer oppresses others.

¹² Your ancient ruins will be rebuilt,
the age-old foundations will be raised.
You will be called the Breach-mender,
and the Restorer of ruined houses.

¹³ If you stop profaning the sabbath and doing as you please on the holy day, if you call the sabbath a day of delight and keep sacred Yahweh's holy day, if you honor it by not going your own way,
not doing as you please and not speaking with malice,

¹⁴ then you will find happiness in Yahweh, over the heights you will ride triumphantly.

on the inheritance of your father Jacob you will feast joyfully.

The mouth of Yahweh has spoken.

Penitential psalm

59 ¹ Yahweh's arm is not too short to save nor his ear too dull to hear.

² It is your sins, rather,
that separate you from God.
It is your iniquities that veil his face,
so as not to hear you.

³ for your hands are blood-stained,
your fingers blotted with crimes;
your lips have spoken lies,
your tongues have uttered deceit.

⁴ No one fights for a right cause;
no one makes a truthful plea.
They all tell lies and rely on vanity;
they conceive mischief and bring forth iniquity.

⁵ They hatch vipers' eggs
and weave spiders' webs.
Whoever eats their eggs dies;
and from an egg that is crushed
a venomous snake is hatched.

⁶ Their thread gives useless cloth their works are of help to no one.
Their plans are evil plots executed in deeds of violence.

⁷ Their feet rush to do evil;
they are quick to shed innocent blood.
Their minds are full of wicked thoughts, leaving in their wake ruin and havoc.

⁸ They do not know the way of peace;
from them no one can expect justice.

They have made their roads tricky and crooked

so that he who follows them is lost or waylaid.

⁹ So, far away from us lies justice, and beyond reach is righteousness.
We look for light but behold darkness;
we long for brightness but walk in gloom.

¹⁰ Like the blind we grope for the wall,
like those without eyes we feel our way.
We stumble at noon as at twilight;
We are dead in the midst of our sins.

¹¹ We are like bears that growl;
we are like doves that moan.
We look for justice and find none;
we wait for salvation that never comes.

¹² For our offenses before you are numerous,
and our sins bear witness against us.
We acknowledge our offenses;
we know all our iniquities.

¹³ Yes, we have betrayed and deceived
Yahweh,

turning away from following our God.
We have planned violence and rebellion;
we have thought and murmured lies.

¹⁴ Justice has been withheld, righteousness stands aloof
for truth has fallen in the public square and integrity is not allowed to enter.
¹⁵ There is no sincerity and honesty.
The man who turns from evil is despoiled.

◆ Yahweh has seen this and is aggrieved that justice does not exist.

¹⁶ Appalled at seeing that there was no one to intervene,

his own arm brought about the victory,
his justice giving him its support.

¹⁷ He put on righteousness as a breastplate, and salvation as a helmet upon his head.
He wrapped himself in garments of vengeance and put on a mantle of fury.

¹⁸ To each he will pay his due—wrath to his enemy, reprisal to his foe.

¹⁹ Those in the west will fear the name of Yahweh;

those in the east will see his glory.
For it will come like a pent-up stream driven by the breath of Yahweh.

²⁰ But to Zion he will come as redeemer, and to those of Jacob who turn from sin.
This is Yahweh speaking.

²¹ For my part, this is my covenant with them, says Yahweh. My spirit which I have poured out on you, and my words which I have put in your mouth will never leave you, nor your children, nor your children's children forever and ever.

¹ Arise, shine, for your light has come.
The Glory of Yahweh rises upon you.

² Night still covers the earth and gloomy clouds veil the peoples, but Yahweh now rises

and over you his glory appears.

³ Nations will come to your light and kings to the brightness of your dawn.

⁴ Lift up your eyes round about, and see: they are all gathered and come to you together, your sons from afar,
your daughters carried in arms.

⁵ This sight will make your face radiant, your heart throbbing and full;
the riches of the sea will be turned to you,
the wealth of the nations will come to you.

⁶ A flood of camels will cover you, caravans from Midian and Ephah.
Those in Sheba will come,
bringing with them gold and incense,
all singing in praise of Yahweh.

⁷ The flocks of Kedar will be gathered for you,
the rams of Nebaioth put at your service:
they are acceptable offerings on my altar and will enhance the glory of my house.

flying like doves to their cote?

6. Mt 2, 11

– Justice. Here it means the power of God who comes to bring justice on earth.

– Salvation. This is man's total liberation in order to make him holy.

– Zeal. This is the jealous love of God for his faithful people.

The book of Wisdom will use these words in 5:17 and so will Paul in Eph 6:14.

• The prophet looks at the humble Jerusalem which is barely rising from its ruins. Suddenly, the city is transfigured by the light of the future Jerusalem, filled with the Lord's riches, the city that will be the bride of the Lord.

It is there that all the aspirations of a humanity purified and gathered in the light of God will be achieved (see Rv 21). There, all people will delight in the fulness of all they longed for.

These promises point to the goals on which the church must focus. It is in the church that all the real riches of humanity – faith, understanding, brotherhood – are and must be gathered.

"Raise your head, O Jerusalem. Contemplate the great multitude of those who are building and seeking. In laboratories and through studies, in deserts and in factories, in the enormous social melting pot.

"Do you see all these men who are working hard? Well then, all that is bubbling in them, in the arts, science and thoughts, all of this is for you! Come now, open your arms and your heart and welcome this surge, this overflowing of human vitality as your Lord Jesus! Welcome this sap because, without its baptism, you will fade without aspirations, like a flower without water; and save it because, without your sun, it will be scattered in sterile branches" (Teilhard de Chardin).

for the islands now trust in me.
They bear your sons from far away
and bring their gold and silver with them, for the name of Yahweh your God,
for the Holy One of Israel,
for he has glorified you.

¹⁰ Foreigners will rebuild your walls,
and their kings will attend to you.
For though in anger I have struck you,
in love I will have mercy on you.

¹¹ Your gates will forever be open and never be shut by night or day, that you receive the wealth of the nations,
their kings leading them in procession;

¹² for the nations and kingdoms that refuse to serve you will perish;
yes, they will be utterly laid waste.

¹³ The glory of Lebanon will come to you,
the pine, the fir and the cypress, too,
to adorn the place of my sanctuary,
to give glory to the resting place of my feet.

¹⁴ The sons of those who oppressed you will come bending low;
all who despised you will fall before your feet.

They will call you the City of Yahweh,
Zion of the Holy One of Israel.

¹⁵ Though you have been forsaken, hated and avoided,

I will make of you an everlasting pride,
a joy for all generations.

¹⁶ You will suck the milk of nations and be nursed at royal breasts.

You will know that I, Yahweh, am your saviour,

• your redeemer, the Mighty One of Jacob.

¹⁷ Instead of bronze I will bring you gold;
instead of iron I will bring silver;

instead of wood, bronze;
instead of stones, iron.
Peace will be your overseers,
justice your taskmasters.

¹⁸ Violence will no more be heard in your land,
nor ruin and destruction within your borders.

You will call your walls Salvation,
and your gates Praise.

¹⁹ No more will the sun give you light by day,

nor the moon shine on you by night.
For Yahweh will be your everlasting light and your God will be your glory.

²⁰ No more will your sun go down, never will your moon wane.
For Yahweh will be your everlasting light,
and your days of mourning will come to an end.

²¹ Your people will be upright; forever they will possess the land—
they the shoot of my planting, the work of my hand—
in them I shall be glorified.

²² The least among you will become a clan,
the smallest a mighty nation.
I Yahweh will do this,
Swiftly, in due time.

The Spirit of the Lord is upon me

+ The prophet recalls the mission he received from God, similar to that of the author of the Book of Consolation (Is 40). His responsibility is very clear: to announce to the Jewish pioneers who returned to Jerusalem that God will bless their efforts. The ruins will be rebuilt; the freedom to those languishing in prison;

² to announce the year of Yahweh's favour and the day of vengeance of our God;
 to give comfort to all who grieve;
³ to comfort those who mourn in Zion and give them a garland instead of ashes, oil of gladness instead of mourning,
 and garment of praise instead of despair.

They will be called oaks of integrity planted by Yahweh to show his glory.

⁴ They will rebuild the ancient ruins and repair cities laid waste, left desolate for many generations.

⁵ Strangers will stand to feed your flocks, foreigners to be your ploughmen and vinedressers.

⁶ But you will be named priests of
 Yahweh,

you will be called ministers of our God.
 You will feed on the wealth of nations and bathe in the splendor of their riches.

⁷ Since my people's shame has been twofold

and disgrace has been their lot, they will possess a double portion of inheritance in their land.
 I will give them everlasting joy.

⁸ For I, Yahweh, love justice;
 I hate robbery and oppression
 I will give them their due reward and make an everlasting covenant with them.

⁹ Their descendants shall be known among the nations
 and their offspring among the peoples.
 All who see them will acknowledge that they are a race Yahweh has blessed.

¹⁰ I rejoice greatly in Yahweh, my soul exults for joy in my God, for he has clothed me in the garments of his salvation,

he has covered me with the robe of his righteousness,

like a bridegroom wearing a garland,
 like a bride adorned with jewels.

¹¹ For as the earth brings forth its growth, and as a garden makes it seeds spring up, so will the Lord Yahweh make justice and praise
 spring up in the sight of all nations.

Your God will rejoice in you

62 ¹ For Zion's sake I will not hold my peace,

for Jerusalem's sake I will not keep silent,

until her holiness shines like the dawn and her salvation flames like a burning torch.

² The nations will see your holiness and all the kings your glory.

You will be called by a new name which the mouth of Yahweh will reveal.

³ You will be a crown of glory
 in the hand of Yahweh,
 a royal diadem in the hand of your God.

⁴ No longer will you be named Forsaken;
 no longer will your land be called

Abandoned;

but you will be called My Delight
 and your land Espoused.

For Yahweh delights in you and will make your land his spouse.

brothers will come back in great numbers from the countries where they were exiled; those who doubt or are discouraged must persevere because, soon, God will come to visit his people.

Speaking in the synagogue of Nazareth, Jesus read this text and said: "Today it is being fulfilled" (Luke 4: 16). And the people who heard him were saying: "God has visited his people"

And yet, we who come after him wonder: If Christ brought God's salvation twenty centuries ago, why are so many people still waiting for the good news of their liberation?

It is because the Gospel is a seed and the Resurrection does not immediately bring about the transformation of the world. If the Jewish people endured fifteen centuries of searching and trials before their Saviour came, how will other people obtain the definitive Peace of the Kingdom of God without first passing through the great trials preceding Christ's return? We are already quite blessed to have him in our midst and his Spirit upon us.

To heal, console, sing happy songs: authentic liberation brings lasting happiness, and motivates people to live and hope.

⁵ As a young man marries a young woman,
so will he who made you marry you;
and as a bridegroom rejoices in his bride,
so will your God rejoice in you.

He who sows reaps

⁶ Upon your walls, O Jerusalem,
I have stationed watchmen;
all the day and throughout the night
they will not be silent.
O you, criers of Yahweh,
give yourselves no rest;
⁷ and give him no rest either till he restores Jerusalem and makes of it the pride of the earth.

⁸ Yahweh swears by his right hand and by his mighty arm:
Never again will I give your grain
as food for your enemies, nor will foreigners drink the wine

for which you have laboured.
⁹ But those who toil will eat the harvest, and praise Yahweh;
and those working for the vintage shall drink of the wine
in the courts of my sanctuary.

¹⁰ Pass through, pass through the gates, prepare the way for the people.
Build it up, bank up the highway,
clear it of stones;
raise up a standard for the peoples.

¹¹ Yahweh proclaims to the ends of the earth:

Say to the daughter of Zion,
here comes your salvation!
Yahweh brings the reward of his victory,
his booty is carried before him.

¹² You shall be called the holy people,
the redeemed of Yahweh.
And you shall be called The Sought majestically arrayed in crimson garments from Bozrah,

I who am powerful to save."

and your garments like those of men who tread in the winepress?

1. Rev 19, 13

■ What was said on the subject in chapter 60 can be applied here. In a new way, this song repeats what was said about the future Jerusalem in 4:2 and in chapters 40-55.

Jerusalem, the lasting city of the children of God, the bride of the Lord, filled with his riches and the delight of her God. Why does God remind us so many times of those wonders which have yet to happen?

– So that we may maintain hope in trials and dark times (this is how Paul encourages us in Rom 8:16). Also, when things are going well and we are filled with earthly hopes, the same wisdom must help us to be detached from all this, in the knowledge that something much better still awaits us.

– On the other hand, the heavenly Jerusalem is already present. Those who have come into the church already have the favours promised to David and of which we have just spoken; they already enjoy them if they have received the gifts of the Holy Spirit (see Acts 13:34). These pages are an invitation to discover hidden riches in the church and to see God at work in the world through the Church.

◆ The poem beginning here is wildly beautiful. The neighbouring people of Edom had taken not one of my people was with me.

 I trampled them in my anger,
 I trod them down in my wrath,
 their lifeblood spattering my garments,
 staining with crimson all my raiment.
⁴For I had decided a day of vengeance and my year of redemption had come.
⁵I looked about: there was no one to help.
 I was appalled: there was no one to give support.
 My own arm, then, brought about the victory,
 and I was supported by my own fury.
⁶I crushed the peoples in my anger,
 I trampled them down in my wrath,
 and on the earth I poured their lifeblood."

Rend the heavens and come down

^o ⁷I will sing praises of Yahweh's kindness and of the wonder of his glorious deeds, according to all that he has done for us, his great goodness to the family of Israel. He has granted us mercy in the abundance of his steadfast love.

⁸For he said: "Surely they are my people, sons who will not be disloyal." So he proved himself their Saviour ⁹in all their affliction.

It was not a messenger or an angel but he himself who delivered them. Out of his love and mercy, he re-deemed them, lifting them up and carrying them as in the days of old.

¹⁰Yet they rebelled, giving grief to his holy Spirit. So he turned and became their enemy, fighting against them.

¹¹His people then remembered the days of old, the days of Moses. Where is he who brought out of the sea the shepherd of his flock?

Where is he who in the midst of them poured out his holy Spirit, ¹²who sent his own power to accompany Moses, who divided the waters before them winning for himself eternal renown, ¹³who made them go through the depths as easily as a horse in the wilderness? ¹⁴Like cattle going down the valley, they did not stumble.

The spirit of Yahweh led them to their rest; you guided your people, winning for yourself glorious renown.

¹⁵Look down from heaven, look down from your holy and glorious throne. Where is your zeal and your strength, the yearning of your heart and your compassion? How long will you ignore our pain? ¹⁶For you are our advantage of the ruin of Jerusalem to join its wreckers and take part in the looting. And so, the simple mention of it was enough to arouse a desire for revenge in the Jews. The prophets did want the destruction of a nation in which sin was obvious and which had no mission in God's plans. This poem imagines God relating his victory over the pagans.

Believers reading this poem after Christ understood it in another, figurative sense: in the hero rescuing his people, they saw Christ covered with his own blood (see Rv 19:13). This was God's real victory and his way of restoring justice.

o This passage 63:7-64 is a psalm asking the forgiveness of Yahweh. The wonders of the past are recalled, and the anxious expectation of new blessings is expressed. Note especially 63:19-64:3 which would be understood later as asking for the coming of Christ.

Father, whereas Abraham does not know us nor has Israel any knowledge of us. But you, O Yahweh, are our Father, from the beginning you are our redeemer: this is your name.

¹⁷ Why have you made us stray from your ways? Why have you let our heart harden so that we do not fear you? Return for the sake of your servants, the tribes of your inheritance.

¹⁸ Why have irreligious people invaded your sanctuary? Why have our enemies trampled it down?

¹⁹ For too long we have become like those you do not rule, like those who do not bear your name.

Oh, that you would rend the heavens and come down! The mountains would quake at your presence.

64 ¹As when fire sets brushwood ablaze and causes water to boil, and make the nations know your name, and your enemies tremble.

² When you did terrible things that we could not expect ³ and that no one had ever perceived.

No eye has ever seen any God besides you who works for those who trust in him.

⁴ You come to the help of those who act righteously and keep your ways in mind. But You are angry, when they sin; how, then, shall we be saved?

⁵ All of us have become like the unclean; all our good deeds are like polluted garments; we have all withered like leaves, blown away by our iniquities.

⁶ There is no one who calls upon your name, no one who rouses himself to lay hold of you. For you have hidden your face, you have given us up to the power of our evil acts.

⁷ And yet, Yahweh, you are our Father; we are the clay and you are our potter; we are the work of your hand.

⁸ Do not let your anger go too far, O Yahweh, or think of our sins forever.

See, we are your people: please consider this, we pray!

⁹ Your holy cities have become a wilderness, Zion has become a wasteland, Jerusalem a desolation.

¹⁰ Our holy and glorious house, where our fathers used to pray to you has been razed to the ground, and all that we treasure lies in ruins.

¹¹ Can you still remain unmoved, O Yahweh, before all this? Will you punish us further with your silence?

God's response

+ 65 ¹I have been sought by those who did not ask for me; I have been found by those who did not seek me. I said, "Here I am, here I am," to a nation who did not call on my name.

² I have stretched out my hands all day to a rebellious people who chose the evil way, following their own wishes.

³ These people provoked me face to face, continually, sacrificing in gardens, burning incense on bricks, ⁴ living in tombs and spending nights in dark places; a people who eat the flesh of swine and broth of abominable meat.

⁵ They cry out, "Keep off, do not come near, for I am too sacred to be touched." Such men and their acts arouse my anger like fire that burns all day.

⁶ Look, all this is written in my book, I will not keep silent till I have settled my account

+ Chapters 65-66 announce the judgment of the Lord on the earth. He will create a new heaven and a new earth in which his servants with them ⁷ for their crimes and the crimes of their fathers as well, Yahweh says. Because they burned incense on the mountains and blasphemed against me on the hills, I will pay them back to the full.

God saves and blesses the just ⁸Yahweh says, "When people find juice in a grape, they say: 'Do not destroy it, there is a blessing here.' So I will do with my servants; I will not destroy the whole of them.

⁹I will create a new race from Jacob and they will own the hills of Judah. My chosen people will inherit them, and my servants will dwell there.

¹⁰Sharon will be a pasture for flocks, the Valley of Achor a resting place for herds; they will be for my people who have sought me.

¹¹But as for you who have forsaken Yahweh, you who have forgotten my holy mountain, you who spread a table for Fortune and fill cups of mixed wine for Destiny, ¹²I have destined you to the sword. All of you will kneel for the slaughter.

For I called and you did not answer
I spoke and you did not listen.
Instead you did what was evil in my sight
and chose that in which I had no delight.

¹³Therefore thus says the Lord Yahweh:
Look, my servants will eat
but you will go hungry;
my servants will drink
but you will be thirsty;
my servants will rejoice
but you will be disgraced;

¹⁴my servants will sing with gladness of heart, but you will cry with grief in your heart and wail in anguish of spirit.

¹⁵My chosen ones will use as a curse the name you will leave behind, as I strike you dead and give my servants a new name.

¹⁶Whoever invokes a blessing in the land will receive the blessing from the God of truth; whoever takes an oath in the land will swear by the God of truth. For the past troubles will be forgotten, and I will see them no more.

A new heaven and a new earth

■ ¹⁷I now create new heavens and new earth, and the former things will not be remembered, nor will they come to mind again.

¹⁸Be glad forever and rejoice in what I create; for I create Jerusalem to be a joy and its people to be a delight. ¹⁹I will rejoice over Jerusalem and take delight in my people.

The sound of distress and the voice of weeping will not be heard in it any more.

²⁰It will no longer know of dead children or of a grown man not completing his days. He who reaches a hundred years will have died a merciful youth, but he who fails to reach a hundred will be considered accursed.

²¹They will build houses and dwell in them; they will plant crops and eat their fruit. ²²No longer will they build houses for others to dwell in; no longer will they plant for others to eat the harvest.

For as the days of a tree will the days of my people be; my chosen ones will long enjoy the work of their hands.

²³Their labour will not be in vain, nor will they bear children destined for misfortune, for they will be a people blessed by Yahweh, and their descendants with them.

²⁴Before they call, I will have answered them; while they are yet speaking, I will have heard them.

²⁵The wolf and the lamb will feed together, the lion will eat straw like the ox, (but the serpent will feed on dust.) They will not destroy nor do any harm over all my holy mountain, says Yahweh.

■ No one could imagine the New Heaven that God is preparing for us (Mk 12:18). Yet, let us rejoice over the prophet's description in these concrete examples. In doing so, he shows us what we must do so that our earth can move toward this transcendental goal:

- a world in which there are no under-nourished children.
- a world where man does not exploit man, a world without wars.

True worship of Yahweh

Heaven is my throne and earth my footstool. What house, then, could you build for me, and what could you offer as my resting place?

² My hands have made all this and it is all mine, but what I am looking for is the meek and contrite of heart, the one who has fear of my word.

³ They sacrifice an ox, then they murder a man. They sacrifice a lamb, then they break a dog's neck; They bring a cereal offering, then they offer swine's blood. They burn incense, but they burn it for idols. Since they have chosen their own ways and taken delight in their own abominations.

⁴ I will likewise choose afflictions for them that they fear and abhor.

For when I called no one answered,
when I spoke no one listened.
Instead they did what was evil in my sight
I will choose for them afflictions
and chose that in which I had no delight.

⁵ Hear the word of Yahweh, you who have fear of his word: Because of my name your brothers hate and reject you, saying, "Let Yahweh show his glory, that we may see your joy."

These mockers will be put to shame.

⁶ Listen, an uproar from the city, a voice from the temple! It is the voice of Yahweh avenging and paying back his enemies.

Birth of the new Jerusalem

⁷ Before being in travail,
she has given birth;
before having labour pains,

she has been delivered of a son.

⁸ Has anyone ever heard of such a thing?
Has anyone seen the like of it?

How could a land spring forth in one day?

How could a nation be formed in a moment?

Yet Zion had not so much as been in travail when she gave birth to her children.

⁹ Yahweh says, "Do I allow to conceive and yet not give birth? And can there be birth if I did not allow to conceive?"

¹⁰ Rejoice for Jerusalem and be glad for her,

all you who love her.
Be glad with her, rejoice with her,
all you who were in grief over her,
¹¹ that you may suck of the milk from her comforting breasts, that you may drink deeply from the abundance of her glory.

¹² For this is what Yahweh says:
I will send her peace,
overflowing like a river;
and the nations wealth
rushing like a torrent towards her.
And you will be nursed and be carried in her arms and be fondled upon her lap.

¹³ As a son comforted by his mother,
so will I comfort you;

¹⁴ At the sight of this, your heart will rejoice;

like grass, your bones will flourish.
For it shall be known that Yahweh's hand is with his servant, but his fury is with his enemy.

◆ Announcing the day when Yahweh will conquer the pagan nations united against him, and that he will then save them by gathering them into his new people.

Be careful to understand the expression "I am going to gather". We already saw in Is 6:9 how the Jews spoke about God because they were convinced that God rules everything. When someone undertook something they would say that God had moved him to do it, and when someone was doing something evil that later God would use it for his own ends, they would say that God had driven him. Here, "I am going to gather" means "they will gather but I will use this to achieve the salvation of my people."

The nations unite against Jerusalem as in the days of Sennacherib (see Is 31:4-9) and they are defeated in a miraculous way: but this time, the survivors, witnesses of the miracle, will reveal the true God everywhere. They will be admitted to God's people and they will share the privileges of the Jews ("from among them I will take priests and levites"). The poem concludes with the vision of a world judged by Yahweh:

- within the city, those who have dedicated themselves to his service and come to adore him in his temple;
- outside, the corpses of those who were exterminated; they will always remain as the sign of God's invincible justice.

What a tremendous vision! But it would be vain to seek escape by thinking that things may work out and that God, being so good, will not be able to condemn us definitely. Jesus refers to this text in Mark 9:48.

¹⁵ Look, Yahweh will come in fire, his chariots like the whirlwind, to release his anger with fury
and this threat with flames of fire.

¹⁶ For by fire will Yahweh execute judgment,
and by his sword, against all mankind.
Those slain by Yahweh will be many.

¹⁷ As for those who sanctify and purify themselves by going to the gardens and following the priestess in the midst – those who eat the flesh of pigs, reptiles and rats – their deeds and thoughts will suddenly come to an end, says Yahweh.

The pagans enter the kingdom of God

◆ ¹⁸ Now I am going to gather the nations of every tongue, and they will witness my glory, ¹⁹ for I will perform a wonderful thing on them.
I will send some of their survivors to the nations – Tarshish, Put, Lud, Moscheck, Rosh,

Tubal, and Javan – to the distant islands where no one has ever heard of me or seen my glory.
They will proclaim my glory among the nations. ²⁰ They will bring all your brothers from all the nations as an offering to Yahweh on horses, in chariots, in litters, on mules, on camels to my holy mountain in Jerusalem, says Yahweh, just as the Israelites bring oblations in clean vessels to the house of Yahweh.
²¹ Then I will choose priests and Levites, even from them, says Yahweh.

²² Yahweh says, "As the new heavens and the new earth that I will make shall endure before me, so will your name and your descendants also endure.

²³ From new moon to new moon, from sabbath to sabbath, every mortal will come to worship me, says Yahweh. ²⁴ And on their way out they will see the corpses of those who rebelled against me. Their worms shall not die, nor their fire be quenched, and they will be abhorrent to all.

INTRODUCTION TO JEREMIAH

THOSE WHO MAKE HISTORY

Kings and generals are busy on the political stage; priests and charlatans provide the people with the kind of truth they want to hear; wars and famines have brought people to their knees:
who is carrying forward the mission of Israel, the instrument of God in the world?

God, then, looks for someone to whom he may give authority not over Israel, but over all the nations, and he entrusts him, not with the mission to speak, but tou-p-root and destroy, to build and to plant. In a word, God gives him the mission to speed history up. This man will be Jeremiah, a boy from Anathoth, coming from a family of priests.

What matters is not that Jeremiah spoke the discourses found in this book, but rather that he cooperated with God in his sovereign decisions about ruling over history.

If indeed history is made by workers, militants, thinkers and all kinds of responsible people;
it is God who draws everything together and guides events in such a way that one fails while another succeeds. God is at work in history through the works, words, writings and prayers of countless people. But he also stirs up more profound forces that shake up lifeless hearts and strengthen the yearning for justice in the world. In the spheres of activity which God has reserved for himself, only people of faith cooperate with him, especially the few ones who are totally surrendered to him.

God's friends share in his sovereign rule over the events: Abraham (Gen 18:16), Moses (Ex 32:14), the martyrs (Rev 20:4). Jeremiah, the quiet and peaceful lad from Anathoth became one

f them because he was emptied of his own will to such an extent that God could reveal to him his jealous love for Israel and his anger over sin. So he was able to utter condemnations of Israel which would become reality and to foretell the times of the New Covenant.

The Jews of later times believed that, after his death, Jeremiah was present before God interceding for them (2 Mc 2:1 and 14:14). When prophets after him spoke of a suffering saviour, they remembered Jeremiah's trials.

HISTORICAL BACKGROUND

Between Isaiah's last prophecies (690 B.C.) and Jeremiah's call from God (around 626) there is a span of sixty years, almost fifty of which correspond to Manasseh's reign. He had done what he could to destroy the faith of the Jews (2 Kgs 21). Then in 640 a child, Josiah, comes to the throne and, slowly, the embers of faith are rekindled.

This is the time when the discovery of the book of the Law brings about religious renewal, Josiah's Reform (2 Kgs 22). But, a few years before that, God had called Jeremiah.

Then, the events which followed and which Jeremiah witnessed, took a tragic turn. They are related in 2 Kgs 23, 25 and repeated in Jer 39.

OUTLINE OF THE BOOK OF JEREMIAH

Jeremiah's words are not recorded according to the time at which they were proclaimed. The book has four parts:

Prophecies against Judah and Jerusalem: chapters 1-25.

Prophecies against the nations. Announced at the end of ch. 25, they form chapters 46-51.

Promises of happiness: chapters 29-35.

Jeremiah's sufferings: chapters 36-45.

1 ¹ These are the words of Jeremiah son of Hilkiah, one of the priests at Anathoth in the territory of Benjamin. ² The word of Yahweh came to him in the thirteenth year of the reign of Josiah son of Amon, king of Judah. ³ It came again during the reign of Jehoiaquim son of Josiah, king of Judah, down to the eleventh year of Zedekiah son of Josiah, king of Judah, five months after the people of Jerusalem had been deported.

The call of Jeremiah

⁴ A word of Yahweh came to me, ⁵ "Before I formed you in the womb I knew you; before you were born I set you apart, and appointed you a prophet to the nations!"

⁶ I said, "Ah, Lord Yahweh! I do not know how to speak; I am a child!"

⁷ But Yahweh replied, "Do not say: 'I am a child.' Go now to all those I send you; and say what I command you." ⁸ Do not be afraid of them, for I am with you to protect you – it is Yahweh who speaks!"

⁹ Then Yahweh stretched out his hand and touched my mouth and said to me,

"Now I have put my words in your mouth. ¹⁰ See! Today I give you authority over nations and over kingdoms to uproot and pull down, to destroy and overthrow,

to build and to plant."

¹¹ A word of Yahweh came to me again, "Jeremiah what do you see?" I said, "I see the branch of a watching tree." ¹² And Yahweh said to me, "You have seen well. I too am watching to fulfill my word." ¹³ The word of Yahweh came to me a second time, "What do you see?" I replied that I saw a boiling cauldron coming from the north. And Yahweh said to me, ¹⁴ "Disaster will boil down from the north on all the people of the land.

¹⁵ I am calling all the kingdoms of the north – it is Yahweh who speaks.

Each of them will come and encamp at the entrance to the gates of Jerusalem; against all its surrounding walls and against all the cities of Judah.

¹⁶ I will pass judgment on my people because of the evil they do in forsaking me and offering incense to foreign gods and worshipping gods their hands have made.

¹⁷ But you, brace yourself for action; stand up and say to them all that I command you. Have no fear of them or I will make you afraid in their presence!

¹⁸ See, I will make you a fortified city, a pillar of iron with walls of bronze, against all the nations, against the kings of Judah and their princes, against the priests and the people of the land. ¹⁹ They will fight against you but shall not overcome you, for I am with you to rescue you – it is Yahweh who speaks."

o Jeremiah does not say much about his vocation. We have no flashing revelation from God. The two visions of the branch of the watching-tree (the almond tree), and the boiling cauldron seem quite ordinary for such a transcendental mission. It shows that what matters in this calling is something interior.

I put my words in your mouth. Jeremiah is made a prophet: from now on, he will proclaim the word of God. That does not mean that God will always tell him what he must announce, rather, since he now thinks and feels like the Lord, every time he speaks, he will be able to truly say "the word of Yahweh."

To all those I send you, you will go. From now on, Jeremiah will be guided by the power of the Spirit; he will obey, whatever the risks and in spite of the resistance of his timid nature. Have no fear before them, or I will make you afraid in their presence. This is the amazing revelation of the demanding love of Yahweh. He has decided to make this lad his chosen one and he forces him to overcome and to forget his human weakness.

I am with you to rescue you. Yahweh repeats what he said to Moses when he called him (Ex 3, 12) and what he will also say to Paul (Acts 26, 17). Moreover, Jeremiah is assured that the Lord destined him to this mission, of which he had never thought, and which frightens him:

Before you were born, I set you apart, I knew you from your mother's womb. Later, the same will be said of John the Baptist (Lk 1:15), of Christ (see Is 49) and of Paul (Gal 1:15).

These words spoken to Jeremiah are, somehow, also meant for us: we are not the product of chance. In Eph 1, Paul praises this foreknowledge of God who called us from eternity to know Christ and to have a share in the divine riches. But what is said to Jeremiah urges us to reflect that God in his eternal designs, clearly sees those – next to Christ, who are given a more transcendental mission. It will be difficult for them to escape God's irresistible call.

God appears to force Jeremiah's freedom, but he does it as the one who gives him that very freedom. Yahweh's tremendous demands will break down all Jeremiah's hopes for happiness, but they will also lead him to transcendent greatness.

I give you authority over the nations; you will uproot and destroy. From now on, Jeremiah will carry Yahweh's creative word. In the first years, this word seems rather destructive. Jeremiah knows that when he pronounces a condemnation, he expresses God's judgment which will shortly take place.

Jeremiah's mission: "To uproot and destroy to build and to plant" will be the mission of any worker in the Lord's vineyard. There can be no

The infidelities of Israel

2 ¹ A word of Yahweh came to me, ² "Go and shout this in the hearing of Jerusalem. This is Yahweh's word:

I remember your kindness as a youth,
the love of your bridal days,
when you followed me in the wilderness,
through a land not sown.

³ Israel was holy to Yahweh,
the first-fruits of his harvest.
All who ate of it had to pay and misfortune fell on them –
it is Yahweh who speaks.

⁴ Hear the word of Yahweh, people of Jacob,
all you families of the nation of Israel.

⁵ What wrong did your fathers find in me that they strayed far from me?
Why did they pursue what is worthless and become worthless themselves?

⁶ And they did not say: 'Where is Yahweh who brought us out of Egypt and led us in the wilderness, through a land of deserts and pits,
a land of drought and darkness,
a land still untrodden and without inhabitants?'

⁷ I brought you to a fertile land compromise between a semblance of Christian life and authentic faith; the genuine apostle must testify in order to build.

■ Chapters 2-6 except for 3:6-18 contain Jeremiah's preaching in the first years following his call. After the godless kings Manasseh and Amon, there was very little concern for religion: Jeremiah daringly opposes the general indifference. His language resembles that of Hosea who, a century before, had spoken in similar circumstances in the northern kingdom. For the Israelites, Yahweh is God, or a God, but not someone who lives close to us. But for Jeremiah he is both Father and Husband.

I still remember your kindness as a youth. You will note the longing for the time of the desert, the days of Moses, when the people were wandering and poor, but trusted in Yahweh who helped them. But as they built their houses, planted their vineyards and had children, the Israelites became rich and they forgot their benefactor: "No one can serve two masters". Yahweh appears as the jealous husband: those men, so easily satisfied, have not discovered God's passionate love.

My people have exchanged their glory for what is worthless. Jeremiah is thinking about his contemporaries who are unable to discover the invisible God and who feel secure with statues of gods made according to the whims of men. His words are really addressed to people of all times, men who only trust their own plans.

They have forsaken me, the source of living waters. Abandoning God has taken three forms:

- They stopped seeking his will just as did their leaders ... The three categories of authority in Judah are named: priests, shepherds (governors) and prophets
- They restored the worship of false gods, to whom they offer sacrifices and vows
- They formed alliances with powerful nations like Assyria and Egypt with the idea of guaranteeing their own security, but without seeing that such alliances were making them just other peoples. Their vocation was to keep their faith in Yahweh knowing that he would never abandon them if they carried out justice among the people.

See also the commentary on Isaiah 30:32.
Know and see that it is bitter and evil to

to eat of the choicest fruit.
As soon as you came you defiled my land and dishonoured my heritage!

⁸ The priests did not ask, 'Where is Yahweh?'
The masters of my teaching do not know me;
the pastors of my people betrayed me;
the prophets followed worthless idols
and spoke in the name of Baal.

⁹ Therefore I contend with you –
it is Yahweh who speaks –
and I will contend with the sons of your sons!

¹⁰ Cross to the coasts of Cyprus and see, or send to Kedar and observe with care
if there has ever been such a thing!

¹¹ Has a nation exchanged its gods, false though they be?
But my people have exchanged their Glory for what is worthless!

¹² Be aghast at that, O heavens!
Shudder, be utterly appalled –
it is Yahweh who speaks –

¹³ for my people have done two evils:
they have forsaken me, the fountain of living water,
to dig for themselves leaking cisterns that hold no water!

¹⁴ Did I make Israel a slave or was he born in bondage?
How then did you become the spoil of others?

¹⁵ The lions have roared against you, loudly indeed have they roared,
making your country a wasteland,
your cities in ruins without inhabitants.

¹⁶ Even the Egyptians of Memphis and Tahpanhes have humbled you!

¹⁷ Didn't you bring this on yourself,
by forsaking Yahweh, your God,
even as he led you in the way?

¹⁸ Now why call to Egypt?
Will the water of the Nile heal you?
And why go to Assyria?

What good will the water of the River do you?

forsake Yahweh, your God. Maybe Jeremiah and the prophets had an overly simplistic vision of the justice of God in this world. We know that prosperity or misfortune are not the sure proof of our leading good or evil lives. Nevertheless, those who meditate on their lives and on history do verify Jeremiah's words: sin always brings it punishment.

The blood of the innocents (36). In many parts of the Bible we find reference to children sacrificed to the idols.

¹⁹ Your own wickedness chastises you and your own unfaithfulness punishes you!
Know, and see that it is bitter and evil to forsake Yahweh your God and no longer to fear me –
it is Yahweh, the God of hosts, who speaks!

²⁰ It was long ago that you broke your yoke and burst your bonds, saying: 'I will not serve!'
On every high hill
and under every green tree
you played the harlot!

²¹ I planted you a choice vine, a shoot of wholesome stock;
why have you become degenerate, a wild vine?

²² Even if you wash with soda and use soap in abundance, the stain of your sin is always before me –
it is the Lord Yahweh who speaks.

²³ How do you dare say: 'I am not defiled,
I have not gone after the Baals'?
See your foot-prints in the valley,
admit what you have done,
O restive young she-camel, running here and there.

²⁴ Wild ass of the desert, sniffing the wind in her desire,
who can restrain her lust?
Those who pursue her, need not tire themselves,
at mating time they will find her.

²⁵ Run if you wish until your feet are sore,
and your throat is dry!
But you say: 'It's no use,
I love foreign gods, it is them I follow.'

The crimes of Jerusalem

²⁶ As a thief is shamed when caught,
so is the house of Israel,
they, their kings, their princes,
their priests and their prophets!

²⁷ To a tree they say: 'You are my father!'
and to a stone: 'You gave me birth!'
For they have turned their back on me instead of their face!

In the day of misfortune
they will call me: 'Rise and save us!'

²⁸ Where, then, are the gods of your own making?

Let them rise and save you if they can,
in the time of your distress, for your gods, O Judah! are as many as your cities.

²⁹ Why argue with me? You have all betrayed me – it is Yahweh who speaks.

³⁰ In vain did I strike your sons,
they did not learn a lesson!
And your sword, like a destroying lion devoured your prophets!

³¹ All you of this generation, hear what Yahweh says:

Have I been a desert for Israel, a land of darkness?

Why do my people say:
'We will depart from you and no more return to you?'

³² Does a virgin forget her ornaments, or a bride her sash?

But my people have forgotten me
for days without number!

³³ How well you direct your steps in your search for lovers,
even to walking along with crime!

³⁴ Look at your garments stained with the blood of the innocent poor, although you did not catch them breaking in!

³⁵ I know you say: 'I am innocent, Why does his anger not turn away from me?'

I will accuse you: Yes, you have sinned!

³⁶ How lightly do you change your way!

You will be put to shame by Egypt as you were by Assyria.

³⁷ You will also leave that place with your hands on your head,
for Yahweh has rejected those you trust,
and they will not help you!

Are you really returning to me?

3 ¹ If a man divorces his wife and she leaves him and marries another man, should he come back to her? Wouldn't it be a scandal? But you, you are a harlot with many lovers, and would you return to me? – it is Yahweh who speaks.

² Lift your eyes to the hills and see:
Where have you not been violated?
By the wayside you sat waiting for your lovers, like an Arab in the wilderness, and you have dishonoured the land with your evil and your har-lotry!

◆ This is the beginning of the poem which will continue in 3:19-4:2.

If a man divorces his wife. We cannot understand sin if we have not known love. Jeremiah declares that this hard-hearted people is the "the bride" of Yahweh who has behaved like prosti-tutes. An adulterous woman who abandoned her husband and sacrificed her children, to go after other men.

Contrary to what usually happens, the abandoned husband looks for the guilty woman.
Judah does not deserve Yahweh's return and the people cannot complain when misfortunes befall them. Yet, Yahweh's love urges him to look for these unfaithful people.

³ The showers held back and there was no spring rain for you, yet you have a harlot's brow and refuse to be ashamed! ⁴ Worse still you called to me: 'Father, guide of my youth! ⁵ Will you always be angry? Will your wrath last forever?' That is what you said and then did evil and went your own way."

Comparison of the two sisters

⁶ During the reign of King Josiah, Yahweh said to me, "Have you seen what faithless Israel has done? She has gone on every high hill and under every green tree and there played the harlot!" So I thought: After all this she will return to me; but she did not return.

Her perverse sister, Judah, saw ⁸ that for all the adulteries of that unfaithful Israel, I sent her away with a certificate of divorce. Yet I saw that the disloyal Judah had no fear and that she too went and played the harlot! ⁹ Because Israel's harlotry mattered so little to her, she dishonoured the land, sinning with stones and trees. ¹⁰ And even after that her sister, the unfaithful Judah, did not come back to me with all her heart. It was only pretence. It is Yahweh who speaks."

¹¹ And Yahweh continued, "Faithless Israel has been less guilty than false Judah. ¹² Go and shout this message to the north:

Come back, unfaithful Israel – it is Yahweh who speaks – I will not let my anger fall on you for I am merciful, I will not be angry
forever.

¹³ Only acknowledge your guilt; you have rebelled against Yahweh your God, and have scattered your favours among strangers under every green tree, and you have not obeyed my voice – it is the word of Yahweh.

○ This part begun in 3:1 is interrupted by two paragraphs.

3:6-13: these verses were written when Josiah recaptured part of the northern kingdom (Kingdom of Israel). See the commentary on 2 Kings 23:15. After so many threats, the hope of conversion is never lost.

3:15-18: These words were proclaimed by Jeremiah after the destruction of Jerusalem in 587 and they contain promises of restoration.
They were inserted here in the book to tone down the pessimistic impression caused by so many condemnations. In fact, these threats of punishment had to be completely carried out before God would offer new hopes.

¹⁴ Come back, faithless people – it is Yahweh who speaks – for I am your master. I will choose one from a city and two from a family and bring you to Zion. ¹⁵ Then I will give you shepherds after my own heart, who will feed you with knowledge and prudence. ¹⁶ And when you have increased and multiplied in the land in those days – it is Yahweh who speaks – men will no longer speak of the ark of the covenant of Yahweh; it will not be remembered or missed, nor shall it be made again!

¹⁷ Then they will call Jerusalem 'The Throne of Yahweh' and all the nations will gather there to honour the name of Yahweh and no longer will they follow the stubbornness of their evil hearts.

¹⁸ In those days the people of Judah will unite with the people of Israel and together they will come back from the north to the land that I gave in heritage to their fathers.

Continuation of the poem for conversion

¹⁹ And I thought: How gladly would I have placed you among my sons and given you as your heritage a beautiful land, the most splendid among all the nations! And I thought you would call me 'my father' and not turn from following me!

²⁰ But, like a woman unfaithful to her husband, you have been unfaithful to me, O people of Israel! – it is Yahweh who speaks.

²¹ A cry in the barren heights is heard, the weeping and pleading of the sons of Israel, because they have perverted their way and have forgotten Yahweh their God!

²² Come back, faithless people, I will cure you of your rebellion!

'Yes, we come to you, for you are Yahweh our God!

²³ Truly the temples on the heights and the feasts on the hills serve for nothing; only Yahweh our God can save Israel.

²⁴ The infamous god has devoured all for which our fathers laboured since our youth, their flocks and their herds, their sons and their daughters. ²⁵ Let us lie down in our shame and let our confusion cover us, for it is against Yahweh our God that we have sinned, we and our fathers from our youth until this day, and we have not obeyed the voice of Yahweh our God!

Disaster foretold

4 ¹ 'If you return to me, O Israel – it is Yahweh who speaks – if you convert to me and put your monstrous idols out of my sight, you will have no need to hide from me; ² if you swear by Yahweh's life in truth, justice and honesty, then in him all nations will bless themselves and in him they will glory."

³ For thus says Yahweh to the people of Judah and Jerusalem, "Break up deeply your fallow land and do not sow among the thorns. ⁴ O men of Judah and Jerusalem! circumsise yourselves for Yahweh and purify your hearts, lest my wrath spread like a fire that cannot be quenched because of the evil of your actions.

⁵ Announce this in Judah, proclaim it in Jerusalem. Sound the trumpet through the land; cry aloud and say:

"Assemble and go to the fortified cities!

⁶ Raise a standard towards Zion!

Flee for safety, do not delay, for from the north I will bring evil and great disaster."

⁷ The lion has gone up from his thicket and a destroyer of nations has set out to make your country a wasteland and your cities a ruins without an inhabitant!

⁸ Because of this, wrap yourselves in sackcloth; lament and groan, for the fury of Yahweh's anger has not turned away from us.

⁹ In that day – it is Yahweh who speaks – the courage of the king and leaders will fail, the priests will be terrified and the prophets amazed. People will say, ¹⁰ "Ah! Lord Yahweh, you have truly deceived this people and Jerusalem, saying: 'You will have peace' even as the sword is at our throat."

¹¹ When the time comes it will be said to the people of Jerusalem:

"A hot wind from the heights in the desert is coming to the daughter of my people, not to winnow or cleanse!

¹² A strong wind comes from there. Now I will declare my judgments to them."

¹³ See! Someone comes like the clouds, his chariots are like a whirlwind, his horses swifter than eagles!

Woe to us for we are ruined!

¹⁴ Cleanse your heart of every evil, Jerusalem, that you may be saved! How long will you nurse wicked thoughts within your breast?

¹⁵ A voice comes from Dan and tells of disaster from Mount Ephraim! "Give warning to the nations. ¹⁶ Let all know in Jerusalem and Judah that enemies are coming from a distant land." ¹⁷ They surround Jerusalem like men guarding a field, because she rebelled against me – it is Yahweh who speaks.

¹⁸ Your own conduct and actions have brought this upon you. How bitter is your punishment and how it touches your heart because you rebelled against me!"

Barren soil

¹⁹ I am in anguish! I tremble in the depths of my being; my heart beats wildly. I cannot remain silent for I hear the sound of the trumpet and the clamour of war!

²⁰ Disaster after disaster; all the land is laid waste; my tents are suddenly destroyed and in a moment all that shelters me is gone. ²¹ For how long must I see the standard raised and hear the sound of the trumpet?

²² "This happens because you are foolish and do not know me. You are wayward sons without intelligence, shrewd in doing evil but not knowing how to do good!"

²³ I looked at the earth and found it formless and void, and then at the sky but it was without light.

²⁴ I looked at the mountains and they were quaking, and all the hills were swaying.

²⁵ I looked and saw that there were no people and that all the birds had fled.

²⁶ I looked and saw that the fruitful land was a desert and that all the towns were in ruins because of Yahweh and his anger.

²⁷ Yes, thus speaks Yahweh, "The whole land may be desolate but I will not destroy it completely! ²⁸ This is why the earth shall mourn and the skies be darkened: because I have spoken and will not relent; it is my decision and I will not go back on it."

²⁹ At the sound of the horseman and archer, every town takes flight; some go to the thickets and climb among the rocks. All the towns are deserted and no one is left.

³⁰ And you, desolate one, what will you do? Even if you dress in scarlet and wear jewels of gold and put make-up on your eyes, in vain do you beautify yourself, for your admirers despise you and are ready to take your life.

³¹ For I hear a cry as of a woman in labour, anguish as of one giving birth to a first child. It is the cry of the daughter of Zion, gasping for breath with outstretched hands: "Woe is me! I am fainting away surrounded by murderers!"

Not one is upright

+ 5 ¹ Go through the streets of Jerusalem: observe carefully and take note. Search throughout her squares to find, if you can, even one man who is honest and seeks the truth. Then I will pardon this city. ² Even though they say, "As surely as Yahweh lives" their swearing is false.

³ Do not your eyes, Yahweh, look for truth? You struck them but they did not feel it; you crushed them but they refused correction. They set their faces harder than a rock and refused to repent.

⁴ Then I thought: "Only poor people are foolish because they know nothing of the way of Yahweh or of the law of their God! ⁵ So I will go to the cultured people and speak to them for they know Yahweh and the law of their God." But they, too, have broken their yoke and burst their bonds!

⁶ That is why the lion of the forest will slay them and the wolf from the desert will destroy them, while the leopard lurks around their cities. Whoever ventures out is torn to pieces, for great is their sin and their rebellions are without number!

+ This passage referring to an invasion from the north was begun in 4:9.

Search throughout the squares to find even one man who is honest. Yahweh would forgive everything for the sake of one "just man", just as we saw in Genesis 18. But the search is in vain, and Jeremiah also looks in vain for someone who would understand. After so many others this invasion is the sounding of the alarm announcing the final destruction. But, this is how people and nations remain deaf until they perish. In the New Testament, John the Baptist and then Jesus and his apostles will try to arouse their compatriots and they will issue the same call: be converted because the judgment is at hand.

⁷ Why should I pardon you? Your sons have forsaken me and sworn by false gods. I gave them all they needed and yet they became adulterers trooping to the harlot's house. They are well-fed, ⁸ lusty stallions, each one neighing for his neighbour's wife.

⁹ Shall I not severely punish them for that – it is Yahweh who speaks – should I not avenge myself on such a nation?

¹² They have spoken falsely of Yahweh, saying, "He does not exist; misfortunes will not come our way; we shall see neither the sword nor famine!" ¹³ As for the prophets, they are but wind. God doesn't speak to them. Let their threats fall upon themselves!

¹⁴ But Yahweh the God of hosts speaks to me, "Because this people has said this I will place words in your mouth which will be like a fire, and this people will be the wood it devours."

¹⁵ People of Israel! against you I will bring a nation from afar – it is Yahweh who speaks – an invincible and ancient nation, whose language you do not know. ¹⁶ Their arrows sow death; they are all valiant!

¹⁷ They will devour your harvest and your food, devour your sons and daughters,

devour your flocks and herds,
devour your vines and your fig trees.
They will destroy with the sword
the fortified cities in which you trust.

¹⁸ But even in those days – it is Yahweh who speaks – I will not completely destroy them. ¹⁹ And when they say, "Why has Yahweh done all this to us?" you shall say to them, "Just as you have forsaken me and served foreign gods in your land, so shall you serve strangers in a land that is not your own."

²⁰ Declare this to the people of Jacob and make it known in Judah, saying,

²¹ Hear this, foolish and thoughtless people!

who have eyes and do not see,
who have ears and do not hear!

²² Do you not fear me? –

it is Yahweh who speaks –

Will you not tremble in my presence?

I who set the sand as a limit to the sea,

an everlasting barrier it may never pass;
its waves toss but cannot prevail;
they roar but are unable to go beyond it.

²³ But this people whose heart is rebellious and stubborn, has turned aside and gone away!

²⁴ They do not say in their hearts, "Let us fear Yahweh our God who sends in season the spring rain and the autumn rain, and keeps for us the weeks appointed for the harvest."

²⁵ Your crimes have put disorder in all this, your sins have deprived you of these blessings, ²⁶ for among my people are wicked men; they watch like fowlers and place snares, but it is men they catch.

²⁷ Like a cage full of birds

so are their houses full of booty.

It has made them rich and powerful;

²⁸ they are fat and sleek.

There is no limit to their evil;
there is no justice in their judgment,
for they do not uphold the rights of the orphan or plead the cause of the poor!

²⁹ Should I not severely punish them for such things? – it is Yahweh who speaks – Will I not avenge myself on such a people?

³⁰ Something terrible and abominable has taken place in the land. ³¹ prophets prophesy lies and priests teach what pleases them, and my people like it to be so. But what will you do soon?

Jerusalem is besieged

6 ¹ Sons of Benjamin! Seek safety beyond Jerusalem.

Sound the trumpet in Tekoa, raise a signal in Beth-hacherem, for from the north comes misfortune and an immense disaster.

² Shall I not compare you, daughter of Zion, to a delicious pasture. ³ Shepherds with their flocks are coming to her, pitching their tents around her, each one pasturing in his own part.

⁴ Declare a holy war against her, attack her at midday.

Woe to us! For the day declines and the shadow of evening lengthens!

⁵ Rise up in the night and destroy her palaces!

⁶ For Yahweh the God of hosts has spoken:
"Cut down trees and build a siege-ramp

Jeremiah's threats

⁸ Take warning, Jerusalem, lest I turn away from you and make you a desolation, a land without people."

⁹ Yahweh said to me, "You shall glean thoroughly as a vine, what is left of Israel. You shall do what the gatherer of grapes does when his hand goes over the branches again."

¹⁰ To whom shall I speak? Who will listen, that they may understand? Their ears are closed and they pay no attention. They have only contempt for what Yahweh says and do not want to hear it.

¹¹ I am full of the anger of God and I can bear it no longer!

"Then pour it out on the children in the street and on the circle of young men, for the disaster will befall both husband and wife, both the elderly and those weighed down by years. ¹² Their houses will be passed to others, together with their fields and their wives, when I stretch out my hand over the people of the land – it is Yahweh who speaks.

¹³ All of them – the least to the greatest – are greedy for gain; prophet and priest alike are deceitful. ¹⁴ They treat lightly the disaster of my people saying, "Peace, peace," but there is no peace.

¹⁵ They should be ashamed of their abominable deeds. But they have no shame and do not know how to blush. And so they will stumble and fall with the others when I come to visit them – it is Yahweh who speaks.

¹⁶ This is what Yahweh says to you, "Stand in the roads and look. Question the paths of former times. Ask where the good way is and take it and find peace for your soul." But you said, "We will not take it." ¹⁷ Then Yahweh set sentinels over you: "Pay attention to the sound of the horn!" But you said, "We will not listen."

¹⁸ Hear nations; know what will happen to them! ¹⁹ Listen earth! I am bringing disaster on this people! It is the fruit of their rebellion, because they paid no attention to what I said and despised my Law. ²⁰ I have no use for incense from Sheba or for fragrant cane from a distant land. Your burnt offerings are not acceptable to me nor do I find your sacrifices pleasing."

²¹ This is what Yahweh says, "I will place obstacles before this people to make them stumble, fathers and sons, neighbours and friends together."

²⁴ When we heard this our hands went limp, anguish seized us like the pain of a woman in labour. ²⁵ "Do not go to the fields or onto the roads, for the enemy's sword brings terror on every side."

²⁶ Daughter of my people! Wrap yourself in sackcloth and roll in ashes; prepare to mourn with bitter lament as for an only son, for the destroyer is coming against us.

²⁷ I have placed you as an inspector among my people, that you may examine them and know their ways.

²⁸ They are all rebels and slanderers. They are like bronze and iron and all are corrupt.

²⁹ The bellows blow to burn away the lead with fire, but the smelter works in vain for the evil elements remain. ³⁰ They are called 'refuse silver' for Yahweh has rejected them.

I can destroy this temple

7 ¹ These are the words spoken to Jeremiah by Yahweh,

² "Take your stand at the gate of Yahweh's house and proclaim this in a loud voice: Listen to what Yahweh

■ Seeing that for four centuries Yahweh had been protecting Jerusalem, the Jews are convinced that there is a blessing for them and for the Temple, which is the dwelling place of Yahweh, where he is present, and from where he blesses his people.

Temple of Yahweh, temple of Yahweh! They come there and confident in Yahweh's gifts, they think that they do not need to change their lives. It is true that Yahweh ordered the sacrifices, but can people be reconciled to Yahweh at the cost of a sacrificed animal? What is the value of these rituals if there is no change of behavior?

What I did in Shiloh, I will do with this temple. Yahweh will destroy the Temple if he needs to, so that the Jews will stop trusting in such easy ways to be reconciled with their God.

Here, Jeremiah speaks of the Temple. In 3:16 he also speaks of the Ark of the Covenant: they will no longer exist in the time of the New Covenant. In 4:4, Jeremiah mentions circumcision: it is not enough to have received that sign to be acknowledged by God.

says, all you people of Judah who enter these gates to worship before Yahweh. ³ Yahweh the God of Israel says this:

Amend your ways and your deeds and I will stay with you in this place. ⁴ Do not count on empty words such as: "Look, the Temple of Yahweh! the Temple of Yahweh! This is the Temple of Yahweh!"

⁵ Far better for you to amend your ways and act justly with all. ⁶ Do not abuse the stranger, orphan or widow or shed innocent blood in this place or follow false gods to your own ruin. ⁷ Then I will stay with you in this place, in the land I gave to your fathers in times past and forever.

⁸ But you trust in deceptive and useless words. ⁹ You steal, kill, take the wife of your neighbour, swear falsely, worship Baal and follow foreign gods who are not yours. ¹⁰ And then, after doing all these horrible things, you come and stand before me in this temple which houses my Name and say, "Now we are saved."

¹¹ Is this house on which rests my Name a cave of thieves? I have seen this myself – it is Yahweh who speaks. ¹² Go to the sanctuary at Shiloh in Israel, where I first let my Name rest, and see what I did to it because of the wickedness of my people Israel.

¹³ You have done all this and have not listened when I repeatedly warned you, nor have you answered when I called you. ¹⁴ What I did in Shiloh, I will do to this temple which houses my Name, this holy place in which you trust and which I gave to you and to your ancestors.

¹⁵ As for you, I will drive you out of my sight, just as I cast out all your kinsmen of the north, the entire race of Ephraim.

¹⁶ Do not plead for this people. Make no prayer or supplication for them; do not press me on their behalf because I will not listen.

²⁰ Because of this Yahweh has spoken, "The fury of my anger will be poured out on this place, both on man and beast, on the trees in the fields and on the produce of the earth; it shall burn and not be quenched."

True religion

+ ²¹ This is what Yahweh, the God of hosts, says to you, "Add your burnt offerings to your sacrifices and eat the flesh. ²² When I brought your ancestors out of Egypt I did not command them concerning sacrifices and burnt offerings. ²³ One thing I did command them: Listen to my voice and I will be your God and you will be my people. Walk in the way I command you and all will be well with you. ²⁴ But they did not listen and paid no attention;

Following this text, we have three more texts, dealing with worship:

- the people of God are reprimanded for worshipping Yahweh and other gods at the same time;
- they practise rituals but they are not concerned about heeding the word of God, doing what is pleasing to God.

We could easily relate all of this to our own times. Even in the Church the same confidence that the Jews had in their rituals can exist:

- the Temple: our parishes which have existed for centuries;
- Circumcision, we are baptized and we go to mass, what more do we need?
- Jerusalem: our pride in being part of the Church.

How many believe that because they are Catholics, they can continue in their evil ways and remain indifferent to the word of God or to the renewal of the Church!

+ True religion consists in listening to the Word of God.

they preferred to follow the inclination of their stubborn heart, and they turned away.

²⁷ You may say all this but they will not listen; you will call them but they will not answer. ²⁸ Say this to them: 'This is a nation that did not obey Yahweh nor take correction; all truth has perished and is gone from their lips.

²⁹ Shave off your hair and throw it away. Intone a lament on the bare heights, for Yahweh has rejected these people and abhors them.' This is Yahweh's word.

³⁰ The people of Judah have done what disgusts me; they have placed their idols in the sanctuary that houses my Name and defiled it.

³² That is why the time will come when it will no longer be called Topheth or the valley of Hinnom, but rather the valley of Slaughter, for they will bury the dead in Topheth for lack of space elsewhere. ³³ And the corpses of this people will be food for the birds and the beasts; and no one will frighten them away.

³⁴ In the cities of Judah and the streets of Jerusalem I will destroy all expressions of joy and happiness, the songs of the bride and bridegroom, for the country will become a wasteland.

8 ¹ When that times comes – it is Yahweh who speaks – they will bring from the tombs the bones of the kings of Judah, the bones of their leaders, priests, prophets and of the inhabitants of Jerusalem. ² They will expose them to the Sun and Moon and all the gods of the skies, because they have loved and served them, and they have followed and worshipped them. These bones will not be gathered up to be replaced in tombs but will remain like refuse on the soil.

³ Death will be preferable to life for the survivors of this perverse race who remain in places to which I have driven them."

Sin and punishment

⁴ This is what Yahweh told me, "You will say to them: Doesn't the one who falls get up? And the one who goes away, doesn't he come back? ⁵ Why then does this people turn away in perpetual rebellion? They make a habit of deceit and refuse to repent.

⁶ I listened attentively; they did not speak truthfully nor did they repent of their wickedness. No one says: 'What have I done!' They all follow their own course like horses plunging into battle. ⁷ Even the stork in the sky knows her times; the dove, the swallow and the crane know the time to come back, but my people do not know Yahweh's ruling.

⁸ How can you say: 'We are wise and the Law of Yahweh is with us' when the false pen of the scribe has turned it into a lie?' The wise will be put to shame; they shall be dismayed and caught in a trap. Since they have despised the word of Yahweh, in what then lies their wisdom?

¹⁰ That is why I will give their wives to other men, their fields to conquerors, for all of them, the smallest to the greatest, are greedy for gain. All, from the prophet to the priest, practise deceit. ¹¹ They treat lightly the wound of my people saying 'Peace, peace!' when there is no peace.

¹² Are they ashamed of their detestable conduct? They have no shame and do not know how to blush. That is why they will stumble and fall along with the others, when I punish them.

¹³ I will finish with them – it is Yahweh who speaks – for the vine has no grapes, the fig tree no figs, even the leaves are withered. I will hand them over to the passersby."

¹⁴ "Why do we sit still? Get up! We shall go to the fortified cities to die there.

◆ These three chapters combine several of Jeremiah's oracles which were delivered in the days of King Jehoiakim.

Our Bible did not yet exist in those days. The parts of it which were already written never left the Temple library. And so the people would hear the word of God:

– from the lips of the priests who were teaching God's Law.

– from the lips of the prophets who communicated the living words of God.

However, these two sources of faith had been corrupted: it was no longer possible to know the meaning of the events which the nation was experiencing.

In 8:10-12 we have a repetition of what was said in 6:12-15.

In 8:21 and 8:13 we see Jeremiah's sensitivity before the misfortunes of his people.

²⁰ "Death has come through our windows and invaded our palaces, cutting down the children in the street and young men in the squares!

²¹ The bodies of men lie like dung in the fields, like sheaves cut by the reaper with no one to gather them!"

True Wisdom

o ²² It is Yahweh who speaks:
"Let not the wise man boast of his wisdom, nor the valiant one of his valour
nor the rich because of his wealth!

²³ But whoever wants to boast, let him boast of this:
of understanding and knowing me.

I am Yahweh, the merciful;
I do justice
and rule the world with righteousness.
This is Yahweh's word:
In such things I delight."

²⁴ "The time is coming," Yahweh says,
"when I will punish ²⁵ Egypt, the sons of Ammon, Moab and all the Arabs of the desert, for all these nations are not circumcised. But I will also punish Judah, because the people of Israel are not circumcised in their heart."

and great in power is your Name!
⁷ Who would not fear you, King of nations?
You are to be feared,
for among the wise of the nations and in all their kingdoms
there is no one like you.
⁸ They are all brutish and stupid;
their idols are proof of their foolishness.

Idols and the true God

10 ¹ Hear the word which Yahweh speaks to you, people of Israel.

² "Do not learn the way of the pagans and do not fear signs in the sky as they do. The Terror of the nations is unreal. ³ It is nothing more than wood cut from a tree in the forest and shaped by a craftsman's chisel. ⁴ They adorn it with silver from Tarshish and gold from Ophir and then fasten it with hammer and nails to keep it from falling. ⁵ Their idols are like scarecrows in a cucumber patch; they cannot speak. They have to be carried because they cannot walk. Have no fear of them; they can do no evil nor are they able to do any good."

⁶ No one is like you, Yahweh, you are great

¹⁰ But Yahweh is the true God,
the living God and eternal King.
His anger makes the earth quake;
the nations cannot endure his wrath.

¹¹ You will say this to them, "The gods who did not make either the heavens or the earth shall disappear from the earth and from under the heavens."

¹² In power he made the earth, and in wisdom he established the world;
in understanding he extended the heavens.

¹³ When he raises his voice
the waters pile up in the heavens.

He calls the clouds from the ends of the
earth;
he sends lightning with the rain

o We put a great deal of emphasis on what young people may study. Many parents make sacrifices throughout their lives to have one of their sons become a good technician or go to the university. Jeremiah reminds us that this alone does not give true wisdom. We should be ashamed when we compare the time we spend learning useless things, looking at television with the time we dedicate to knowing God.

Knowing Yahweh, the merciful, who does justice and rules the world with righteousness is the means whereby we remain steadfast in the face of evil: it will also make us desire to imitate God and to dedicate ourselves to bringing kindness, law and justice into this world.

+ Correct us, Yahweh, with prudence.
Here, suddenly, the heart of Jeremiah manifests and from his storehouse sends out the wind.

¹⁴ At this all men feel stupid and without knowledge. Every goldsmith is ashamed of his idol which is a fraud without breath. ¹⁵ They are worthless, ridiculous objects, destined to disappear when the time comes for punishment.

¹⁶ Not such he who is the portion of Jacob; for he has formed the universe and Israel as well, the tribe of his inheritance.

Yahweh, God of hosts is his name.

¹⁷ Gather up your belongings and leave the land, you who are the victims of siege.

¹⁸ For thus says Yahweh.

"Far away am I hurling the inhabitants of this land, and I will let them be pursued and captured."

¹⁹ Alas for me! What suffering!

My wound is incurable!

But I said, "So far my pain is bearable."

²⁰ But my tent is destroyed,

all its cords are snapped.

My children have left me and are no more; no one is left to pitch my tent or to set up my shelter.

²¹ It is because the pastors are senseless and have not looked for Yahweh; they have not prospered and all their flocks are scattered.

²² Heed the news! Pay attention!

A great commotion in the north is heard; they are coming to make a desert of the cities of Judah, a haunt of jackals.

Jeremiah's prayer

+ ²³ You know, Yahweh, that man's life is not within his own control and it is not for him to direct his steps! ²⁴ Correct us, Yahweh, with prudence, not in anger, lest you destroy us completely.

²⁵ Keep your anger for the nations that do not know you, for the people who do not call on your Name. See how they are devouring Jacob and they eat him to the end; his homeland is already laid waste.

Jeremiah supports Josiah's reform

11 ¹ This is the word that came to Jeremiah from Yahweh. ² "Cursed be the man who does not heed the terms of this covenant ⁴ which I ordained for your fathers the day I freed them from that cleansing furnace that Egypt is. I said to them: 'If you obey my voice and do all that I command you, you will be my people and I will be your God. ⁵ Then I will fulfill the promise I swore to your fathers, to give you a land flowing with milk and honey,' (as it is today)."

I replied, "Amen, Yahweh."

⁶ Yahweh said to me, "Publish what I say in the cities of Judah and the streets of Jerusalem. 'Hear the terms of this covenant and keep them. ⁷ When I brought your forefathers out of Egypt, I solemnly warned them and have continued to tell them: 'Obey me.' ⁸ But they did not listen to me or heed what I said; each one followed his own stubborn heart. So I fulfilled against them all the words of this covenant that I had commanded them, but which they did not follow."

⁹ Yahweh said to me, "There is a conspiracy among the men of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem. ¹⁰ They have returned to the sins of their forefathers who refused to obey me; they have followed and served foreign gods. The nation of Israel and the nation of Judah have broken the covenant I made with their fathers."

¹¹ That is why Yahweh says to you, "I will bring upon them a disaster from which there will be no escape. When they cry to me I will not listen. ¹² Then the cities of Judah and the people of Jerusalem will go crying to the gods they worship, but these will not help them in the time of misfortune. ¹³ For you, Judah, have as many gods as there are cities; as numerous as the streets in Jerusalem are the altars you have raised to Baal."

¹⁴ For your part, do not intercede for this people, nor offer a plea or petition because I itself. He does not forget he is an Israelite and he asks God to restore justice, to punish those powerful nations that come to destroy Judah whenever they feel like it. After repeating so many times that those enemy nations were sent by God himself against Judah, he now rebels.

■ This chapter is one of the few offering us the preaching of Jeremiah in the years following the "discovery of the Law" and Josiah's reform (see 2 Kgs 22). For a while, wishing to do his best to serve Yahweh, king Josiah aroused a new fervor. Yet, when we read what Jeremiah says here, we see that the conversion of the people was not, nor could be in depth.

Jeremiah knew that in order to be faithful to God, one must be moved and transformed by him.

will not listen when they cry to me in the time of their distress.

¹⁵ What is my beloved doing in my House?

She is plotting evil deeds.

Will your vows and the meat of your victims

cleanse you from your wickedness and allow you to rejoice?

Yahweh had called you

¹⁶ 'Beautiful Green Olive Tree' –

fair and fruitful!

But with the roar of a storm,

its foliage took fire

and its branches were broken.

¹⁷ And Yahweh, God of hosts, who planted you, has condemned you to shame. Indeed the nation of Israel and the nation of Jacob harmed themselves when they worshipped Baal and aroused my anger.

Plot against Jeremiah

¹⁸ Yahweh made it known to me and so I know! And you let me see their scheming: "Take care, even your own brothers and family are false with you and behind your back they freely criticize you. Do not trust them when they approach you in a friendly way."

¹⁹ But I was like a gentle lamb led to the slaughter. I did not know it was against me that they were plotting. "Let us feed him with trials and remove him from the land of the living and let his name never be mentioned again."

²⁰ Yahweh, God of hosts, you who judge with justice and know everyone in his heart and in his intentions, let me see your vengeance on them, for to you I have entrusted my cause.

²¹ This is what Yahweh has to say against the people of Anathoth who threatened me with death and said, "Do not prophesy any more in the name of Yahweh and we will spare your life."

²² Yahweh says to them, "This is how I will punish you: the young men shall die by the sword; their sons and daughters shall die of hunger. ²³ No one will survive when I bring disaster on the people of Anathoth in the year of their punishment."

Why do the wicked prosper?

¹ Yahweh, you are always right when I complain to you;

nevertheless, where is your justice?

Why do the wicked prosper?

And why do traitors live in peace?

² You plant them and they take root;
they grow and are fruitful;
they honour you with words
but their heart is far from you.

³ But you, Yahweh, you know me and see me;
you search my heart – it is close to you.
Send them off like sheep to be butchered;
put them aside for the day of slaughter.

them from their own land, and I will uproot the people of Judah from among them. ¹⁵ But after I have done this, I will have compassion on each one to his own land.

people and call upon my name when taking an oath, they who once taught my people to swear by Baal, then they may settle among my people. ¹⁷ But if then any nation does not obey me,

I will uproot and destroy it - it is Yahweh who speaks."

The linen belt

13 ¹ This is what Yahweh said to me: "Go! Buy yourself a linen belt and put it around your waist; do not put it in water." ² So I bought the belt as Yahweh ordered and put it around my waist.

³ The word of Yahweh came to me a second time, ⁴ "Take the belt you bought, the one you put around your waist, and go to the torrent Perah; hide it there in a hole in the rock." ⁵ I went and hid it as Yahweh instructed me.

⁶ After many days Yahweh said to me, "Go to the torrent Perah and get the belt I ordered you to hide there." ⁷ I went to the torrent and dug up the belt but it was ruined and good for nothing, ⁸ and Yahweh said to me, ⁹ "In this way I will destroy the pride and great glory of Judah, ¹⁰ this wicked people who refuse to heed what I say, this stubborn people who go after other gods to serve and worship them.
And they shall become like this belt which is now good for nothing.

¹¹ For just as a belt is to be bound around a man's waist so was the people of Israel and Judah bound to me – it is Yahweh who speaks – to be my people, my glory and my honour; but they would not listen.

stantly persecuted.

*If you tire when running with those on foot,
how will you compete with horses?* Yahweh's answer seems harsh: only predicts more cruel trials for Jeremiah (that is the meaning of the refrain). When his true friends hesitate, God does not comfort them: he knows that by proposing new sacrifices to them, he will once again, bring about their generous surrender.

The broken wine jars

¹² You will say to them this word of Yahweh the God of Israel, "Every pitcher should be filled with wine." And they will say: 'Don't we know that a pitcher should be filled with wine?'

¹³ You will reply, "You are the pitchers that Yahweh will fill until you are drunk. I am going to fill with drunkenness all who live in this land – kings who succeed David, the priests, the prophets and all who live in Jerusalem. ¹⁴ I will dash them one against another, father and sons together.

I will have neither compassion nor mercy: I am going to destroy them."

A vision of exile

¹⁵ Hear and pay attention; do not be proud, for Yahweh has spoken!

¹⁶ Give glory to Yahweh your God before he brings darkness and your feet stumble in the darkening hills.

You were hoping for light, but he will turn it into the darkness of death and deep gloom!

¹⁷ If you do not heed this warning I will weep in secret because of your pride and I will shed tears when Yahweh's flock has been taken captive.

¹⁸ Say to the king and the queen mother, "Humble yourselves, for the crown of glory has fallen from your head.

¹⁹ The cities of the Negeb have been shut and no one comes to open them, all Judah is deported, completely carried off."

²⁰ Look up Jerusalem and see those who come from the north. Where is the flock that was entrusted to you and where are your beautiful sheep?

²¹ What will you say when those you let take liberties with you come back to oppress you?

Won't your pain be like that of a woman giving birth? ²² And if you ask yourself, "Why has all this disgrace fallen on me?" It is because of your great wickedness that they have torn away your clothes and dealt violently with you.

²³ Can an Ethiopian change his skin or a leopard his spots? And can you do good, you who are accustomed to doing evil?

²⁴ I will scatter you like straw blown by the desert wind; ²⁵ that is your reward – it is Yahweh who speaks – because you have forgotten me and trusted in falsehood.

²⁶ I myself will pull your skirts over your face and your shame shall be seen. ²⁷ Your adultery, your neighing, your brazen prostitution, all this abomination I have seen on the hills and in the fields."

Woe to you Jerusalem! When at last will you be cleansed?

The great drought

¹ The word of Yahweh concerning drought came to Jeremiah:

² Judah mourns, the cities languish, desolate, they sink to the ground.

From Jerusalem a cry is heard.

³ The rich sent the poor for water, but they found none at the cisterns, and returned with empty vessels.

⁴ The soil is cracked because there is no rain in the land; the farmers are dismayed and have covered their heads like mourners.

⁵ Even the doe in the fields

abandons her newborn calf because there is no pasture.

⁶ The wild donkeys stand on the heights sniffing the air like jackals and languish as they find not even a thistle!

⁷ Even if our faults accuse us,
you Yahweh, work for the glory of your Name.
In truth, many have been our rebellions and great is our sin against you.

⁸ O Yahweh! Hope of Israel, you who save in the time of distress,
why are you as a stranger in this land,
or like a traveller who stays only a night?

⁹ Why should you be as if bewildered, like a warrior unable to save?
But you are in our midst Yahweh,
and on us your Name has been invoked.
Do not abandon us!

Do not intercede for this people

¹¹ And Yahweh said, "Do not pray for the well-being of this people!" ¹² If they fast I will not listen to their cry; if they offer me burnt offerings and oblations, I will not accept them. Instead I am going to make an end of them with sword, famine and plague."

¹³ And I said, "Ah, Lord Yahweh! You know what the prophets are saying to them: 'You will not see the sword nor suffer famine for I will give you true peace in this place.'"

¹⁴ But Yahweh said, "These prophets have proclaimed untruths in my name. I did not send them, nor did I command them or speak to them. False visions, worthless divinations and delusions of their own imagination – that is what they prophesy.

¹⁵ And Yahweh added, "These prophets whom I did not send and who prophesy in my name, saying that the sword and famine will not touch this land – these same prophets will perish by the sword and famine.

¹⁶ As for the people listening to them, their corpses will be thrown into the streets of Jerusalem. There will be no one to bury them or their wives, their sons or daughters, when they die of famine and by the sword. For I shall make their own malice fall upon them.

¹⁷ This you will say to them: Let my eyes shed tears night and day without ceasing! For with a great wound has the virgin daughter of

+ The passage beginning here concludes in 15:4. Jeremiah appears before Yahweh as the Jews used to do in the Temple to publicly confess the sins of the people, in the hope that the priests would give them an encouraging answer on behalf of the God who forgives. Jeremiah stands in solidarity with his people and with their sins. But God does not want to listen to him.

Do not abandon us, O Yahweh! Jeremiah is distressed over his people's situation. Maybe, God cannot forgive; maybe he cannot save? Here, man is confronted by the mystery of God. Jeremiah does not get an answer: God does not answer Job either; and Jesus does not get an answer in his agony in the garden of Gethsemane.

Heed what the prophets say: you will not fear the sword. There are plenty of false prophets reassuring a society based on false principles. Compared with them, Jeremiah appears weak and bitter, as the one who does not give Yahweh's answer. A true prophet is not accepted by his own people whereas those who provide opium for the people are praised.

my people been wounded, a most grievous wound.

¹⁸ If I go into the country, I see those slain by the sword. If I enter the city I see the ravages of famine. For the prophet and the priest did not understand what was happening in the land.

¹⁹ Have you then rejected Judah forever? Do you abhor Zion? Why have you wounded us and left us with no hope of recovery?

We hoped for salvation but received nothing good; we waited for healing, but terror came!

²⁰ Yahweh, we know our wickedness and that of our fathers, and the times we have sinned against you.

²¹ For your name's sake do not despise us; do not dishonour the throne of your glory. Remember us. Do not break your covenant with us!

²² Among the worthless idols of the nations, are there any who can bring rain, or make the skies send showers?

Only in you, Yahweh our God, do we hope, for it is you who do all this.

15 ¹ Yahweh answered me, "Even if Moses and Samuel came in person to plead for this people, my heart would have no pity. Send them away from my presence! Let them go! ² And if they say: 'Where shall we go?' tell them: Yahweh says this: Those destined for the plague, to the plague; for the sword, to the sword; for starvation, to starvation; those for captivity, to captivity.

³ For I shall send them four kinds of destroyers: the sword to slay, dogs to ravage, birds of the sky and beasts of the earth to devour and destroy. ⁴ I shall make them an object of horror for all the kingdoms of the world because of what Manasseh, son of Hezekiah, king of Judah, did in Jerusalem.

The horrors of war

⁵ Who will take pity on you, Jerusalem?

Who will feel sorry for you?

Who will turn to ask how you are?

⁶ It was you who rejected me – word of

Yahweh –

you turned your back on me, and because of that I have stretched out my hand to destroy you.

I was weary of showing mercy!

⁷ I winnowed them with a fork in the cities of the land,

I left my people without children;

I brought them to ruin,

but they did not change their ways.

⁸ Their widows are more numerous than the sand of the seas. On the mothers of young men I have brought a destroyer who ravages in broad daylight. Suddenly terror and fear grips them.

⁹ The mother who had seven sons is confused and discouraged as if breathing her last. Although it is still day her sun has set.

As for those who remain, I shall let them be slain by the sword in sight of their enemies – it is Yahweh who speaks.

¹² Can you break iron that comes from the north, or bronze?

¹³ I will let your wealth and your treasures be handed over to plunderers, not for a price

but because of all your sins

within your frontiers.

¹⁴ You shall be slaves of your enemies

among a people you do not know,

for the fury of my anger is on fire and will burn you up.

◆ An amazing text where Jeremiah reveals his own personal crisis.

Being a prophet is not easy at all. God's word is not welcomed. Any militant struggling for the truth is surrounded by people wishing evil on him and trying to bring him down: he is rarely understood even in his own home. The situation is even worse for God's prophet. The Lord shares with him his own way of seeing and feeling things. The prophet can no longer share in the cheap joy and the meaningless conversations that fill so many lives.

Your words were my happiness. God's word brings the taste of truth and something of the very presence of God. The price of this joy is being condemned to live alone. Today, the prophet feels the presence of God who helps him, but as a man, he begins to doubt: What if God keeps himself aloof tomorrow? And he becomes faint.

God does not approve of his prophet's weakness: Draw the gold from the dross, namely, let what is good and noble in you speak out, and silence these fears and these complaints which come from a weak nature.

◆ Do not take a wife. The prophets discover that God is the true Spouse. God's passionate and faithful love for his people is the model for married love. Since prophets become the mouthpiece and the representative of God, all they do becomes a sign. Thus, they cannot seek a happy marriage as long as Israel, Yahweh's bride, turns her back on her God.

And so, before Jeremiah, another prophet.

Yahweh, remember me!

- ◆ ¹⁰ Woe is me, Mother, why did you bring me to the light?
A man of dissension throughout the land!
I owe them nothing, neither do they owe me,
yet they all curse me!

- ¹¹ Tell me Yahweh, if I have not served you well!
Did I not plead with you for my enemies in the time of their shame and disgrace?

¹⁵ You know I have.

Yahweh! Take care of me, defend me;
take vengeance on my persecutors.
Remember! For you I have suffered great humiliations.

- ¹⁶ I devoured your words when they came.
They were my happiness and I felt full of joy
when you made your Name rest on me.

Never did I associate with worldly people,

- ¹⁷ amusing myself with scoffers!
When your hand was upon me I stood apart and you filled me with your anger.

- ¹⁸ Why is there no end to my sorrow or healing for my wound?
Why do you deceive me,
and why does my spring suddenly dry up?

- ¹⁹ Then Yahweh spoke to me,
"If you return I will take you back
and you will serve me again.
Draw the gold from the dross
and you will be as my own mouth.
You must draw them to you and not go over to them.

- ²⁰ I will make you a fortress and a wall of bronze facing them;
if they fight against you
they will not overcome you;
²¹ I am with you to free you and save you.
I will redeem you from the wicked and free you from the hands of tyrants."

Do not take a wife

16 ¹ Yahweh said to me: ² "Do not take a wife and have sons and daughters in this place. ³ For this is what Yahweh says about sons and daughters born here, about their fathers and the mothers who bring them to light in this country:

15. Ps 69, 8

16. Ps 19, 9; Jn 4, 34

18. Mi 1, 9

Hosea, only knew the suffering of the betrayed husband in his home and he had to be constantly forgiving his adulterous wife (Hosea 3, 1).

Ezekiel sees his wife die suddenly (Ez 24, 15). Jeremiah will have neither wife nor children; it is not fitting for him to marry at the very time the

⁴ All will die of deadly illness; no one will mourn them or bury them, and their bodies will be as dung on the ground. They will perish by the sword and by starvation and their corpses will be food for birds of prey and wild beasts."

⁵ And Yahweh insisted, "Do not go to share a funeral meal; do not weep with them or loudly lament. For from now on I will not give my peace, my pity or my mercy to this people." ⁶ In this country the great and the lowly will die with no one to mourn them or to bury them. Nor shall anyone gash their skin or shave their hair in homage to the dead. ⁷ There shall be no breaking of bread to comfort the mourner or to console him on the death of a mother or father.

⁸ Do not go to a house where there is a celebration, to sit with them and eat and drink, ⁹ for Yahweh the God of hosts and the God of Israel has this to say:

In this place and before your very eyes, I will silence every sound of pleasure and joy, even the song of the newlywed.

¹⁰ When you announce all these things to the people, they will ask: 'Why will Yahweh bring such terrible disasters on us? What wickedness or sin have we committed against Yahweh our God?'

¹¹ And you will say to them: 'It is because your fathers turned away from me and went after other gods to serve and worship them. They despised me and refused to obey my Law. ¹² And you have behaved worse than your fathers. Each of you goes his own way and does not obey me but follows his evil and stubborn heart instead.'

¹³ So I will drive you far from this land to a place which is strange to your fathers and to you; and day and night you will serve other gods, for I shall no longer spare you.'

¹⁴ However the days are coming – it is Yahweh who speaks – when people will no longer say: 'Yahweh is a living God for he brought the Israelites out of Egypt,' ¹⁵ but rather: 'Yahweh is a living God for he brought the Israelites out of the land of the north and out of all the countries to which he had banished them.' Yes, I will bring them back to the land I gave to their fathers."

¹⁶ But Yahweh says, "Now I am sending many fishermen who will catch them; and then I will send many hunters who will hunt them out from every mountain, hill and cave in the rocks. ¹⁷ For I see all their ways and their sin is not hidden from my eyes. ¹⁸ I will repay them double for their wickedness and sin, for defiling my land with the corpses of their idols and filling it with their abominations."

Will man make his own gods?

¹⁹ Yahweh, my strength and my fortress, my refuge in the day of distress!

From the furthest limits of the earth nations will come to you and say,

"Our fathers possessed only falsehood, worthless idols empty of power."

²⁰ Will man make his own gods?

Then they are not gods!

²¹ That is why this time I will show and let them know my hand and my power.

And they will know that Yahweh is my name.

17 ¹ The sin of Judah is engraved with a tool of steel, with a point of diamond. It is written on the tablets of their hearts as on the horns of their altars. ² Let their children remember! Let them not forget those altars and sacred poles beside every green tree, ³ on the high hills and in the open country! For I will give away your wealth and your treasure as plunder because of your sin in the high places of your land.

⁴ Through your own fault you will lose the land I gave you. I will give you as slaves to your enemies in a land you do not know, for you have kindled the fire of my anger and it will burn forever.

Words of wisdom

⁵ This is what Yahweh says,

Cursed be the man who trusts in human beings and depends on a mortal for his life, while his heart turns away from Yahweh!

⁶ He is like a bunch of thistles in dry land, in parched desert places, in a salt land where no one lives and who never finds happiness.

⁷ Happy the man who trusts in Yahweh and whose confidence is in him! ⁸ He is like a tree planted near water, that thrusts its roots towards the stream.

He has no fear when the heat comes, his leaves are always green: the year of drought is no problem and he can always bear fruit.

⁹ Most deceitful is the heart. What is there within man, who can understand him? ¹⁰ I, Yahweh, search the heart and penetrate the mind. I give to each one according to his ways and the fruit of his deeds.

¹¹ Like a partridge hatching eggs it did not lay is the man who piles up unjust riches.

When his life is half over, his wealth deserts him, and in the end he is nothing but a fool.

¹² What a glorious and exalted throne is our Sanctuary! ¹³ Yahweh, hope of Israel, all who forsake you will be put to shame and those who turn from you will be cast out from your land, because they have rejected Yahweh, the fountain of living water.

¹⁴ Heal me, Yahweh, and I shall be whole; save me and I shall be safe, O you, my hope!

¹⁵ People say to me, "Where are Yahweh's threats? Let them happen!"

¹⁶ But I did not urge you to send evil, nor did I ask to see the fatal day, and you well know my wish; my prayer is in your hearing.

¹⁷ Let me not fear you, be my refuge in the day of disaster.

¹⁸ Let my persecutors be humbled, rather than me!

Let them be terrified but not me! Let the day of misfortune fall on them! Crush them twice over!

Observance of the Sabbath

■ ¹⁹ This is what Yahweh said to me,

"Go and stand at the gate they call the People Gate, where the kings of Judah come in and go out; ²⁰ and say to the king and to all the people of Judah: This is what Yahweh says:

²¹ If you want to live, take care not to carry a load on the sabbath, or bring it through the gates of Jerusalem.

²² Carry nothing out of your houses and do no work on the sabbath. Make it holy as I commanded your fathers.

²³ They did not obey me or pay attention to what I said. Stiff-necked as they were, they would not hear or accept my warnings.

²⁴ But if you pay attention – it is Yahweh who speaks – and keep the sabbath holy, not working or carrying loads ²⁵ through the gates of Jerusalem, then you will see kings of David's family entering through these gates, riding in chariots and on horses, they and their princes with the people of

5. Ps 146, 3	6. Job 20, 17	8. Ps 1, 12	10. Job 34, 19; Heb 4, 12	13. 15, 18
15. Is 5, 19; 2 Pet 3, 3	19. Ex 16, 23; Ne 13, 15

■ Take care not to carry on the Sabbath. Jeremiah often denounces the religious practices which are not accompanied by an upright life; but that does not mean that he minimizes the respect towards God which is manifested externally.

The Law of Rest (such is the meaning in Hebrew of the word Sabbath) is a way for man to allow room for God in his life. Not working on that day is a way to state that people will not be happier by becoming slaves to work, but rather by giving something to God which God will give back a hundredfold (see Gen 2:3; Ex 20:8; Lv 25:20).

Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem; and this city shall last for-ever.

²⁶ People will come from the cities of Judah and from the region around Jerusalem, from the territory of Benjamin, from the Lowland and the hill country and from the Negeb, bringing victims for sacrifice, incense and offerings in thanksgiving to the House of Yahweh.

²⁷ But if you do not listen and do not keep the sabbath holy, if you work and carry loads through the gates of Jerusalem, then I will set fire to those gates. It will burn the city and will not be quenched."

At the potter's house

◆18 ¹ This is the word of Yahweh that came to Jeremiah: ² "Go down to the potter's house; there I will let you hear what I have to say."

³ So I went to the potter's house and found him working at the wheel. ⁴ But the pot he was working on was spoiled; so, as the clay was at hand, the potter made it into another pot giving it the form he chose.

⁵ Meanwhile Yahweh sent me his word, ⁶ "People of Israel, am I not able to do with you what this potter does? As clay in the hand of the potter so are you in my hands.

⁷ At times I warn a nation or a kingdom that I will uproot or destroy it.

⁸ But if they change their ways and reject the evil I denounce, I then relent and refrain from doing the harm I had intended to do.

⁹ At other times I declare that a nation or kingdom is to be built up and planted ¹⁰ but then they do what displeases me and do not listen to me, so

I repent of the good I had promised to do."

¹¹ And Yahweh added, "Now tell the people of Judah and those who live in Jerusalem: Yahweh says to you, 'Listen, I am planning disaster for you and preparing a plot against you! Repent of your evil ways; reform your conduct and your deeds.' ¹² But you reply: 'It's no use! We shall follow our own plans'; and each one goes on obeying his stubborn heart."

My people have forsaken me

¹³ Because of this Yahweh has to say: Ask among the nations,

'Has anyone heard the like of this?

The Virgin Israel has done what is appalling.

¹⁴ Does the snow of Lebanon ever leave the rocks of the snowfields?

Do the fresh waters of great rivers ever dry up?

¹⁵ Yet my people have forgotten me, offering incense to empty idols that made them stumble on their way when they followed the ancient paths; now they have taken the wrong way, the crooked way that leads nowhere.

¹⁶ Their land will be left desolate, an object of lasting scorn.

All who pass by will be astonished and shake their heads.

¹⁷ Like the east wind I will scatter them before their enemies and turn my back to them, not my face, in the day of their disaster!

Do not forgive their sin

¹⁸ They said, "Come, let us plot against Jeremiah, for the Law's teaching will not perish for want of a priest, nor will there be a lack of wise men to give counsel, or prophets to proclaim the word. Come, let us accuse him and strike him down instead of listening to what he says."

¹⁹ Hear me, O Yahweh!

Listen to what my accusers say.

²⁰ Did good have to be repaid by evil?

2. Gen 2, 7; Is 64, 7

10. Gen 6, 6

◆ In several parts of the Bible, the comparison with the potter serves to show that God is absolute master and directs the life of all according to his will: individuals as well as nations (see Is 29:16 and Rom 9:30). Here, the same comparison is used to provide another teaching: which complements the first: namely that man is free.

If they change their ways, I will then refrain from doing the harm I planned. At any time,

How is it that they dug a pit for me?
Remember how I stood by you to speak well on their behalf, to turn your anger away from them.

²¹ Now let their children starve;
hand them over to the sword!

Let their wives be childless and become widows!

Let their men be victims of the plague and their young men slain in battle!

²² Let cries be heard in their houses when suddenly you bring bandits against
them,

for they have dug a pit to trap me
and hidden snares for my feet.

²³ O Yahweh, you know all of their plots to take my life!

Do not forgive their crime or forget their sin:

crush them on the day of your anger.

The broken jar

19 ¹ This was an order of Yahweh to Jeremiah, "Go and buy a jar from the potter. Take with you some elders of the people and a few senior priests. ² Then leave by the valley of Ben-Hinnom at the entrance to the Potsherd Gate and there proclaim what I tell
you.

³ This is what you will say: Hear the word of Yahweh, kings of Judah and citizens of Jerusalem! It is Yahweh the God of hosts and the God of Israel who speaks. I am about to send a disaster on this place that will make the ears of those who hear it tingle. ⁴ Here they have forsaken me, offering incense to foreign gods that neither they, their fathers nor the kings of Judah have known; they have profaned this place filling it with innocent blood.
⁵ They have built high places to Baal where they burn their children in fire, something I did not command or mention or ever think of.

⁶ That is why the days will come – word of Yahweh – when this place will no longer be called Topheth or the Valley of Ben Hinnom, but the Valley of Slaughter.

⁷ In this place I will destroy the plans of Judah and Jerusalem and let them be slain by their enemies, by the hands of those who seek their lives. Their carcasses shall be the food of birds and beasts. ⁸ I will make this city desolate, an object of scorn, a sight that will appall the passersby and make them whistle to see so many wounds!

⁹ I will make them eat the flesh of their children; they will eat one another in the time of distress, in the disaster brought on them by their enemies who seek their lives.

¹⁰ Then you shall break the jar in the presence of those who have gone with you ¹¹ and you will say to them: This is what Yahweh the God of hosts says:

I will smash the people of this city just as a potter's jar is shattered to pieces beyond repair. They will bury the dead in Topheth for want of room elsewhere. ¹² This is what I will do to Jerusalem and its inhabitants, making this city like Topheth. ¹³ The houses of Jerusalem and those of the kings of Judah will be defiled, all the houses where they burned incense on the roofs to the army of the skies, and poured libations to foreign gods."

Confrontation in the temple

¹⁴ Jeremiah then returned from Topheth where Yahweh had sent him to prophesy, and stood in the porch of the House of Yahweh. There he spoke to all the people, ¹⁵ "Listen to the word of Yahweh, God of Israel: I am about to bring on this city and the towns around it all the disaster I foretold, because they are a stiff-necked people
and will not listen to me."

20 ¹ The priest Pashur, son of Immer, who was the chief officer in the House of Yahweh, heard Jeremiah prophesying like this. ² He had Jeremiah beaten and put in the stocks at the Gate of Benjamin, the upper gate at the House of Yahweh. ³ And the next day Pashur released him

one can be converted and God will act accordingly. There is no plan of God written beforehand that we should have to follow, pushed to do good or evil by some fatal destiny. God is continually creating us and he achieves his plan for the world while at the same time we are free to act. The Bible supports these two statements, that nothing escapes God and that we are free.

⁴ Jeremiah is prophesying alone. Apparently he has no followers, nor religious groups to help him. Some people are getting tired of always hearing him threaten. The leaders and the priests are angry at this individual's condemnation of a society in which they live without problems. The true prophet's word disturbs the conscience of the very people who do not accept his authority.

from the stocks. Then Jeremiah said to him, "Yahweh's name for you is not Pashur but 'Terror on every side.'⁴ For Yahweh says: I am going to hand you over to terror, you and your friends. They will fall under the sword of their enemies while you look on.

I will deliver all Judah into the hands of the king of Babylon who will deport them to Babylon or slay them by the sword.⁵ I will give over all the wealth of this city, all its stores, all that is valuable, all the treasure of the kings of Judah; all this I will deliver into the hands of their enemies who will seize it and carry it off to Babylon.

⁶ As for you, Pashur, and all your household, you will be taken captive to Babylon and there you will die and be buried – you and all your friends to whom you prophesied lies."

You have seduced me

+ ⁷ Yahweh, you have seduced me and I let myself be seduced.

You have taken me by force and prevailed.
I am a laughing stock from morning till night;
they all make fun of me,

⁸ for every time I speak
I proclaim violence and plunder.
Yahweh's word has brought me insult and derision all day long.

⁹ So I decided to forget about him and speak no more in his name.
But his word in my heart is like a fire imprisoned in my bones.
I force myself to hold it in,
but that is impossible.

¹⁰ I hear many whispering against me:
"Terror on every side!
Denounce him! Yes, denounce him!"
Those who were my friends watch me to see if I will slip:
"Perhaps he will be deceived:
then we will get the better of him
and have our revenge."

¹¹ But Yahweh, a mighty warrior, is with me.
My persecutors will stumble and not prevail.
They will yet fail; covered in contusion,
may they be disgraced forever!

¹² Yahweh, God of hosts, you test the just and probe the heart and mind.
Let me see your revenge on them,
for to you I have entrusted my cause.

¹³ Sing to Yahweh! Praise Yahweh!
For he has saved the poor from the hand of the wicked!

¹⁴ Cursed be the day I was born!
No blessing on the day my mother brought me to light!

¹⁵ Cursed be the man who gave the news to my father: 'You have a child! a son!'
and made him happy!

¹⁶ Let him be like the towns that Yahweh destroyed without mercy.

Let him hear shouts of warning in the morning
and a war cry at noon!

¹⁷ For he did not do away with me in the womb.

Then my mother would have been my grave,
and have carried me forever.

¹⁸ Why did I ever leave the womb to live in trouble and sorrow,
and end my days in shame?

Answer to Zedekiah

21 ¹ These words came to Jeremiah from Yahweh when king Zedekiah sent Pashur, son of Malchiah and the priest Zephaniah son of Maaseiah, to say to him: ² "Consult Yahweh on our behalf, for Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, is at war with us. Perhaps Yahweh will work a few of his miracles and make the enemy withdraw."

³ Jeremiah replied, "This is what Yahweh the God of Israel says to Zedekiah: 'I am about to bring back to you the weapons with which you are fighting outside the wall the king of Babylon and the Chaldeans who are besieging you; and I will heap them in the centre of the city.'

⁵ Then I myself will fight against you with outstretched hand and mighty arm, with anger and fury and great wrath, ⁶ I will strike all in the city, both men and animals, and they will die of a terrible plague.

⁷ After this – it is Yahweh who speaks – I will hand over Zedekiah, king of Judah, his servants and the citizens who survive the plague, the sword and starvation. I will deliver them into the hands of Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon and to their enemies, to those who seek their lives. They shall be slain without mercy or compassion."

⁸ And you will say to the people, "This is what Yahweh says: See, I place before you the way of life and the way of death. ⁹ Whoever stays in the city will die either by the sword, famine or plague; those who go out and surrender to the Chaldeans who are besieging the city, will live and will be the only ones to be saved.

¹⁰ For I am turning to this city for its ruin, not for its good – word of Yahweh – it will be given over to the king of Babylon who will destroy it by fire.

Address to the royal family

¹¹ To the royal family of Judah say this:
¹² Descendants of David, hear the word of
Yahweh:

Give judgment each morning and save the oppressed from the hand of the oppressor,
lest my fury break out like a fire
with no one to quench it.

¹³ This is Yahweh's word, "See, I am coming to you who live in the hills overlooking the valley,

you who say, 'Who will come against us and enter this secure place?'

and in your forests I will light a fire that will devour all that surrounds you."

+ This "confession" recalls the one in chapter
15. The Bearer of the Truth is rejected and mocked simply because he speaks by virtue of a personal mission which the people do not accept. Let us not forget that Jeremiah lived six centuries before Jesus, and long before there was any thought of the beyond, and so, we will have a better understanding of his calling for divine justice.

You have taken me by force: is there anything more understandable if God is Love?

But his word is like a fire in my bones. What is really amazing is the irresistible power of God's Word. It is more difficult to resist it than to face men's opposition. Paul will declare, in a fairly similar way, that he cannot evade the responsibility of preaching the Gospel (1 Cor 9, 16). This text forces us to revise and deepen the very simplicistic ideas we have concerning our freedom: being free is to be faithful to the most demanding mission.

I decided to speak no more in his name.
Elsewhere Jeremiah comes close to blasphemy.
But, in the end, he surrenders to Yahweh in trust.

The curse which follows in verses 14-18 will be picked up and developed in the third chapter of Job.

■ The passage in 21:1-10 refers to the second siege of Jerusalem in 588. Then from

O king of Judah, you who sit on the throne of David. To you, your servants and all who enter by these gates,³ Yahweh says:

Practice justice and do good.

Free the one who is wronged from his oppressor.

Do no harm to the foreigner, the orphan or the widow; do them no violence, and let no innocent blood be shed here.

⁴If you do this, kings succeeding King David will enter these gates. They will come with their chariots and horses, with their servants and their people.

⁵ But if you do not heed my word,

I swear by myself – it is Yahweh who speaks –

this place will become a ruins."

⁶ For this is what Yahweh says of the royal house of Judah:

For me you are like Gilead, like a peak of Lebanon! And yet I will make of you a desert, a city without inhabitants.⁷ I am preparing destroyers to attack you, each with an axe in his hand. They will cut down your choice cedars and throw them into the fire.

⁸ Pagans without number will pass by this city and say to one another, "Why has Yahweh dealt in such a way with this great city?"⁹ And they will answer, "Because they broke their covenant with Yahweh, their God, and worshipped and served other gods!"

¹⁰ Do not weep for the one who is dead!

Do not grieve for him.

Mourn rather for the one in exile

because he will never return

nor see his homeland again!

¹¹ For this is what Yahweh has said of Shalum, son of Josiah who succeeded his father as king of Judah:

¹² He will never return, for he will die in the place to which he has been deported and will never again see this land.

Against Jehoiakim

¹³ Wretched the man who builds his house with stolen goods, its storeys with injustice!

Wretched the one who makes his fellowman work for nothing and refuses him a salary!

¹⁴ So you build for yourself a fine palace with spacious upper rooms!

So you have large windows put in, you have it paneled with cedarwood and painted vermillion.

¹⁵ Does amassing cedar make you more of a king?

Was not your father a just man?

With eating and drinking he was able to do right, and all went well for him.

¹⁶ He defended the cause of the poor and needy.

And Yahweh asks, Isn't it knowing me, to act like that?

¹⁷ But your eyes and heart are set on gain and the shedding of innocent blood, on the practice of extortion.

21:1-28 we have several oracles against the royal family, before the first siege, in the years 605-598. See Kgs 22:38-47 concerning those kings.

In those days, the nobility and the civil servants of Jerusalem lived as usual, without being concerned by the ongoing crises of the kingdom. Yet, before long, they would all be killed or exiled.

The same is also true now: rich countries and people are enjoying themselves and live in indifference on top of a volcano. A few recent words of D. Helder Camara are appropriate here:

"There has always been violence. But now it is perhaps more massive than ever: it is everywhere and it takes on many forms: brutal, open, subtle, blind, rationalised, consolidated, anonymous, abstract, irresponsible.

If the powerful of the underdeveloped world do not have the courage to let go of their privileges and to bring justice to millions of people living in inhuman situations; if governments make reforms only on paper; how can we stop the young people tempted to adopt radically violent positions?

Until when will atomic bombs be more feared than the bomb of poverty which is being built in the heart of the third world?"

◆ Alas for the shepherds who lose and scatter! This new attack against evil leaders is the prelude to words of hope.

I will gather the rest of my flock. The destruction of the "physical" Israel prepares for the coming of the "spiritual" Israel. People were used to seeing their leaders abuse their power, and their rulers become richer. But God is preparing for his people a shepherd who will look after the sheep.

They will call him Yahweh-is-our-justice: this is a way of showing him to be different from the king of the time, Zedekiah which means Yahweh-is-my-justice.

I will place shepherds over them who will care for them. As well as the just king, Jeremiah

¹⁸ Therefore this is what Yahweh says of Jehoiakim, son of Josiah, king of Judah:

For him no one shall lament: Alas, my brother! Alas, O sister! No one will lament saying: Alas, my lord! Alas, your majesty!

¹⁹ He will be given the burial of a donkey, dragged away and thrown out well beyond the gates of Jerusalem.

²⁰ Go up to Lebanon and cry out; weep from the heights of Bashan or from Abarim, for all your lovers have been crushed.

²¹ I spoke to you in more fortunate days, but you said: 'I will not listen.'

You have been like that since your youth, paying no attention to my word.

²² A wind will scatter all your shepherds and your lovers will be taken captive; then you will be covered with shame because of your evil deeds.

²³ You who call your house: 'Lebanon' and made your nest of cedarwood, how you will groan when sorrow comes to you as to a woman in the pangs of childbirth!

²⁴ By my life – says Yahweh – even if Jeconiah, son of Jehoiakim, king of Judah, were the signet ring on my right hand I would pull him off!

²⁵ I will hand you to those who seek your life, to those you fear, to Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, and to the Chaldeans. ²⁶ Then I will hurl you and the mother who bore you into a foreign land where you were not born. There you shall die, ²⁷ for to the land for which you long, you will never return!

²⁸ Is this Jeconiah a broken and useless crock that no one wants? Why has he been expelled, he and his family, to a land they do not know?

²⁹ Land, land, land! Hear what Yahweh says. ³⁰ These are his words, "List this man as childless, as a failure in life!" None of his race will succeed; not one will sit on the throne of David and rule over Judah.

The good shepherd

23 ¹ "Alas for the shepherds who mislead and scatter the sheep of my pasture!" It is Yahweh who speaks.

² This is the message of Yahweh, God of Israel, to the shepherds in charge of my people, "You have scattered my sheep and driven them away instead of caring for them. Now I will deal with you because of your evil deeds.

³ I will gather the rest of my sheep from every land to which I have driven them and I will bring them back to the grasslands. They will be fruitful and increase in number. ⁴ I will place shepherds over them who will care for them. No longer will they fear or be terrified. No one will be lost."

⁵ And Yahweh speaks, "The day is coming when I will raise up to David a righteous offspring, a king who will rule wisely and govern with justice and righteousness. ⁶ Then Judah will enjoy peace and Israel will live in safety. His name will be Yahweh-our-justice!

⁷ So the days are coming – word of Yahweh – when people will no longer say: "Yahweh is a living God for he brought the sons of Israel out of Egypt" ⁸ but rather: "Yahweh is a living God, for he brought the descendants of Israel back from the country of the north and from all the lands where he had driven them, to live again in their own land!"

sees other shepherds: besides the only Shepherd, Christ, there is room for men determined to be responsible for their brothers.

No longer will they fear. God promises definitive peace. The new people of God will be more than a mere continuation of the old kingdom of Israel, and the new king will be more than the earthly kings (see how Jesus develops this point in John 10).

Mankind hopes for unity in peace and the mission of the church now is to offer the witness of different people gathered in Christ. The reality, however, will be achieved only in the heavenly Jerusalem (Rv 21:22).

Jeremiah expresses the same hope elsewhere, especially in 33:15-18. In 30:21 he mentions that the good shepherd will have to be a man living in intimate union with God. In Ezekiel 34 we find the same image of the Good Shepherd preparing for what Jesus will say in John 10, Luke 15:4 and Matthew 9:36.

■ See also Dt 13:6 and 18:22 and Jer 28 on the subject of false prophets.

Those who are not well versed in their faith marvel at visions and dreams, forgetting that dreams can be particularly deceptive.

Lying prophets

■ ⁹ For the prophets:

My heart breaks within me,
all my bones tremble,
I am like a drunken man,
like a man overcome with wine
because of Yahweh and his holy words.

¹⁰ The land is full of adulterers. Because of this I put a curse on the country; it is in mourning and the desert grasslands have withered. They follow an evil path and readily act unjustly. ¹¹ Even the prophet and the priest are corrupt; I have found out about their wickedness in my House – word of Yahweh.

¹³ I will know how stupid the prophets of Samaria were, prophesying in the name of Baal and leading my people Israel astray. ¹⁴ But among the prophets of Jerusalem as well I saw horrors: they are adulterers and liars!

They encourage the evildoers so that none of them turns away from wickedness. For me all of them are like Sodom; and the common people like Gomorrah.

¹⁵ That is why Yahweh the God of hosts speaks against the prophets: I will give them bitter food to eat and poisoned water to drink, for from the prophets of Jerusalem evil has spread throughout the land.

¹⁷ They dare say to those who despise me: 'Yahweh has spoken, be at peace'; and to those who follow their own stubborn hearts they say: 'No misfortune will come upon you!'

¹⁸ Who then has been present in the council of Yahweh? Who has heard and understood his word? Who has paid attention to his word and is able to pass it on?

²¹ I did not send these prophets, yet they went running. I did not speak, yet they prophesied! ²² Were they present in my council? Then let them proclaim my word to my people and have them turn away from their evil ways and their wicked deeds.

²³ Am I a God only when I am near – it is Yahweh who speaks – and not when I am far off? ²⁴ If a man hides in secret places do I not see him? – says Yahweh – Do I not fill the heavens and the earth?

²⁵ I have listened to what the prophets said, prophesying lies in my name. All said: 'I had a dream! I had a dream!' ²⁶ How long will there be prophets of lies who proclaim their own illusions? ²⁷ They would like to make the people forget my Name by the dreams they relate to each other, just as their fathers forgot my Name when they followed Baal. ²⁸ The prophet who has a dream prophesies a dream, whereas the one who receives my word proclaims the word of truth.

What have straw and wheat in common? It is Yahweh who speaks. ²⁹ Isn't my word like fire, like the hammer that shatters a rock?

³⁰ That is why I oppose the prophets who steal from one another words that are supposedly mine. ³¹ I am against the prophets who have only to move their tongues to utter oracles. ³² I am against those who base their prophecy on lying dreams and lead my people astray with their trickery and pretensions. I did not send them or charge them to transmit my orders, so they are of no benefit to my people – word of Yahweh.

³³ And when these people, or a prophet or a priest makes fun of you asking: 'What is the 'Burden' of Yahweh? you will answer: 'You are the burden – and I am going to get rid of you.' This is Yahweh's word. ³⁴ And the prophets, priests or common people who say: 'Burden' of Yahweh, will be punished, and their household as well.

³⁵ This is what you should say, each one to his friend or brother, "What is Yahweh's answer?" or "What has Yahweh said?" ³⁶ But there must be no mention of 'Burden' of Yahweh for it will be burdensome for the one who says it. ³⁷ And if you want to know, ³⁸ this is what Yahweh says:

³⁹ Since you use this expression though I commanded you not to use it, I will carry you off and thrust you out of my sight, both you and the city I gave to you and your fathers. ⁴⁰ I will bring upon you everlasting shame and dishonour that will be yours forever.

The two baskets of figs

24 ¹ Yahweh showed me two baskets of figs placed in front of the Temple. It was after Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon had deported Jehoniah, son of Jehoiakim, king of Judah together with the princes of Judah, the blacksmiths and metalworkers and had taken them to Babylon.

² In one of the baskets were choice figs like the first of the season, in the other were very poor figs, so bad that they couldn't be eaten.

³ Yahweh said to me, "What do you see Jeremiah?" I replied, "Figs. The good figs are excellent but the bad figs are so rotten they cannot be eaten!"

⁴ Then the word of Yahweh came to me.

⁵ This is what Yahweh God of Israel says: "Just as I see these figs are good, so do I consider good those who have been deported from Judah to the country of the Chaldeans. ⁶ I will look kindly on them and bring them back to this land. I will build them up and not destroy them, plant them and not uproot them. ⁷ I will dispose their heart to know me as Yahweh. They will be my people and I will be their God for with all their heart they will come back to me.

⁸ As one deals with bad figs, so rotten they cannot be eaten – it is Yahweh who speaks – so will I deal with Zedekiah king of Judah, his princes and the rest of Jerusalem, those who remain in the country and those who live in Egypt.

⁹ I will make them an object of horror to all the kingdoms of the earth, a reproach and a byword, an object of ridicule, a curse in all the countries to which I will drive them. ¹⁰ And I will send the sword, famine and plague on them until they disappear from the land I gave to them and to their fathers.

Seventy years of captivity

+25 ¹ This is the word that came to Jeremiah concerning all the people of Judah in the fourth year of Jehoiaquim, son of Josiah, which was the first year of Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon. ² And this word Jeremiah the prophet transmitted to all the people of Judah and to all the citizens of Jerusalem:

³ Since the thirteenth year of Josiah son of Amon until today, that is for twenty-three years, the word of Yahweh has come to me and I have continuously spoken to you, ⁴ but you would not listen. Besides Yahweh has sent his servants the prophets to you again and again, but you neither listened nor paid attention.

⁵ They said, 'Turn from your evil ways and repent of your wicked deeds that you may live in the land that Yahweh gave to you and your fathers forever and ever. ⁶ Do no turn after other gods to serve and worship them. Do not arouse my anger with these things your own hands have made, and I will do you no harm.' ⁷ But you refused to listen – it is Yahweh who speaks – and aroused my anger with these gods you yourselves have made and in so doing harmed yourselves.

⁸ That is why Yahweh God of hosts says to you: Because you would not listen to what I said, ⁹ I will summon all the clans of the north – it is Yahweh who speaks – and my steward Nebuchadnezzar will bring them against this land and its inhabitants and against all the surrounding nations. I will completely destroy these people, making them desolate, an object of ridicule, an everlasting ruins. ¹⁰ I will banish from them every sound of joy and happiness, the song of the bride and bridegroom, the noise of the mill and the light of the lamp.

¹¹ All the land will be a ruin and a desolation and for seventy years these nations will serve the king of Babylon.

¹² (But after seventy years I will punish the king of Babylon and his nation for their guilt – it is Yahweh who speaks – and I will make it forever desolate!)

¹³ On this land I will now bring all that I foretold, all that is written in this book. ¹⁴ They will be subject to great nations and kings! I will repay them according to their deeds and the work of their hands."

The cup of God's wrath

¹⁵ This is what Yahweh, God of Israel, said to me, "Take this cup of wine and let all the nations to whom I send you drink from it.

o The first siege of Jerusalem occurred in 598, along with the capitulation of king Jehoiaquim, and a first exile. In the ten years that followed, the new king Zedekiah along with the people who remained, acted as if nothing had happened. Though they were defeated and poor, the people of Jerusalem came to think that they were better off and that they only had to lament over the fate of those in exile. Jeremiah rejects this opinion: God is interested in those in exile for they are the beginning of the future renewed people. On the other hand, something worse is going to happen to those remaining in Jerusalem.

+ This chapter combines:

25:1-13: an introduction which must have come before Jeremiah's prophecies against the people of Judah and which now form chapters 1-24 of his book. Note in this passage the prophecy concerning the seventy years which was to be the time of the exile of the Jews in Babylon. It is a symbolic number since there were two exiles, in 598 and 587 and many left after 538.

25:14-38: an introduction which must have come before the prophecies against the foreign nations gathered in chapters 46-51.

¹⁶ They will drink and stagger and panic at the sword I am sending among them."

¹⁷ So I took the cup from the hand of Yahweh and made all the nations to whom he sent me drink from it: ¹⁸ Jerusalem and the towns of Judah, its kings and leaders, so that they would be left in ruins, desolate, an object of ridicule and curses, as they are today. ¹⁹ Then I gave it to Pharaoh king of Egypt, to his ministers, his princes and all his people, to all the countries of the west, ²⁰ to all the kings of Uz, to all the kings of the Philistines; those of Ashkelon, Gaza, Ekron and those left at Ashdod, ²¹ Edom, Moab and Ammon; ²² all the kings of Tyre and Sidon: the kings of the coastlands across the sea; ²³ Deda, Tama, Buz and ²⁴ all the kings of Arabia and the kings of the west and the kings of those who live in the desert; ²⁵ all the kings of Zimri, Elim and Media and ²⁶ all the kings of the north, far and near, one after the other; all the kings existing on the face of the earth! And after them the king of Babylon shall drink it!

²⁸ But if they refuse to take the cup from your hand and drink, say to them, 'Yahweh the God of hosts has spoken: You also must drink.

²⁹ When you see that I am punishing first the city where my Name rests, do you think you will be spared? No, you will not be spared for I myself am bringing down a sword on all the inhabitants of the earth – it is Yahweh God of hosts who speaks.'

³⁰ You will communicate all this to them and say, "Yahweh roars on high and from his holy dwelling threatens all the inhabitants of the world. His mighty roar echoes to the farthest ends of the earth. ³¹ For Yahweh judges all the nations and passes sentence against all humankind, and the wicked he abandons to the sword – word of Yahweh."

³² Yahweh, God of hosts, says, "See, disaster spreads from nation to nation. A storm arises from the ends of the earth. ³³ On that day Yahweh's victims will be spread from one end of the earth to the other. No one will lament over them; no one will gather them up or bury them – they will be as dung on the soil!

³⁴ Howl, shepherds, and lament!

Roll in the dust you leaders of flocks for the day of slaughter and dispersal has come for you and you will fall like fattened sheep.

³⁵ There will be no refuge for the shepherds, no escape for the leaders of the flocks.

³⁸ Like a young lion he leaves his lair; because of the fury of his anger the land has been stricken by the sword and has become a wasteland."

Jeremiah is arrested and judged

26 ¹ At the beginning of the reign of Jehoiakim son of Josiah king of Judah, the word of Yahweh came to Jeremiah: ² Yahweh says this, "Stand in the courtyard of Yahweh's House and say to all who come from the towns of Judah to worship in the House of Yahweh – all that I command you to say; omit nothing! ³ Perhaps they will listen to you. Perhaps each one will turn from his wicked ways. Then I will relent and not do the harm I had in mind to inflict on them because of the wickedness of their deeds.

⁴ Say to them: This is what Yahweh says:

"You have not obeyed me and walked according to my Law which I have set before you. ⁵ You have not listened to my servants, the prophets, whom I have continually sent to you. If you persist in not heeding them, ⁶ I will treat this House of mine as I did the sanctuary of Shiloh and let all the nations see that Jerusalem is a cursed city."

⁷ The priests, the prophets and all the people heard what Jeremiah said in the House of Yahweh. ⁸ It happened that when Jeremiah finished saying

1. 7, 1-15

2. Rev 22, 19

◆ In 7:1-15 we had the discourse against people who trust in the Temple. Here, Jeremiah's secretary, Baruch – about whom we will speak later – summarizes the discourse and tells us what impact it had.

– The people defend Jeremiah against the priests and the prophets.
– Jeremiah maintains his position firmly: he cannot provide proof, or miracles to confirm what he is saying. He is saved by the all that Yahweh had commanded, the priests and prophets seized him saying, "You will die! ⁹ How can you speak in Yahweh's Name when you say this House will be treated like Shiloh and this city is to become a deserted ruins." And all the people gathered around Jeremiah in the House of Yahweh.

¹⁰ On hearing this the leaders of Judah came up from the king's palace to the House of Yahweh and took their place at the entrance of the New Gate. ¹¹ Then the priests and the prophets said to the leaders of the people: "To death with this man for he has prophesied against the city as you have heard with your own ears!"

¹² Jeremiah replied, "Yahweh sent me to prophesy against this House and this city all that you have heard. ¹³ Now reform your ways and your actions and obey Yahweh your God that he may relent and not bring upon you the harm he had intended.

¹⁴ As for myself I am in your hands; do with me whatever you consider just and right. ¹⁵ But know that I am innocent and if you take my life you bring a crime upon yourselves, on the city and the people. In truth it was Yahweh who sent me to say all that I said in your hearing."

¹⁶ Then the leaders, backed by the people, said to the priests and the prophets, "This man does not deserve death: he spoke to us in the Name of Yahweh."

¹⁷ Some of the elders of the country addressed the assembly of people, ¹⁸ "Micah of Moresheth prophesied publicly in the time of Hezekiah, king of Judah:

'Zion will become like a field, Jerusalem a heap of rubble and the Temple Mount a hill of overgrown thickets.'

¹⁹ Did Hezekiah king of Judah or anyone among the people of Judah kill him? Rather they feared Yahweh and implored his pardon until they succeeded in making him relent; and Yahweh did not inflict the harm with which he had threatened them. How can we commit such a crime?"

²⁰ Another man, Uriah son of Shemaiah from Kiriath Jearim prophesied also in the name of Yahweh. He prophesied against this city and this country in words similar to those of Jeremiah. ²¹ When King Jehoiakim with all his ministers and officials heard his words, he decided to do away with him. Uriah came to know of their plot and fled in terror to Egypt. ²² But King Jehoiakim sent Elnathan son of Achbor with some people into Egypt. ²³ They brought Uriah out of Egypt and took him to King Jehoiakim who had him slain and his body thrown into the common people's burial place.

²⁴ As for Jeremiah he was befriended by Ahikam, son of Shaphan, and was not handed over to those who wanted him put to death.

The yoke of Nebuchadnezzar

27 ¹ In the beginning of the reign of Zedekiah, son of Josiah, the word of Yahweh came to Jeremiah in this way, ² "Make for yourself ropes and a yoke and put them round your neck. ³ Then send word to the kings of conversion of the people: they have recognized the voice of truth.

- They recall the words of the prophet Micah 3:12 in the previous century.
- At the end of the chapter, there is mention of the family of Shaphan, the secretary of the king who had favoured the religious reform of King Josiah (see 2 Kgs 22:8). Shaphan and his people will protect Jeremiah on several occasions.

The confrontation of Jeremiah and the priests is not accidental. Oftentimes those who kept the word of God opposed the prophets of their times. John the Baptist was ignored by the priests, and Jesus was condemned by them. The reason is that, often, religious ministers only think of maintaining things from the past and the external practices of religion, whereas the prophets are advocating moving forward and serving God more sincerely.

On the other hand, it is difficult for religious "teachers" to accept that God may use someone else to teach or to reprimand them.

Edom, Moab, Ammon, Tyre and Sidon through their ambassadors, who have come to Jerusalem, to see Zedekiah king of Judah. ⁴ Give them these instructions for their masters:

Yahweh God of hosts bids you give this message to your masters: ⁵ It is I who made the earth, and the people and animals that inhabit it, with my great power and outstretched arm, and I give them to whomsoever it pleases me. ⁶ Now I have given all these lands into the hands of my steward Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon and I will even make the beasts of the field subject to him. ⁷ All nations will serve him, his son and his grandson until the time for his land comes and then he will be overpowered by powerful nations and great kings.

⁸ As for the nation or kingdom that refuses to serve Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, I will punish it with the sword, famine and plague – word of Yahweh – until I completely wipe it out.

¹⁰ For they are prophets of lies which will cause you to be finally driven from your land. I myself will drive you out and you will perish.

¹² Then I gave the same message to Zedekiah king of Judah, "Place your neck under the yoke of the king of Babylon. Serve him and his people and you will live. ¹³ Why should you and your people perish by the sword, famine and plague as Yahweh has threatened any nation that will not serve the king of Babylon?"

¹⁴ Do not listen to the prophets when they say, "You will not have to serve the king of Babylon." For they prophesy lies. ¹⁵ I did not send them, says Yahweh, and they proclaim untruths in my Name. Let it not be that I banish you, and you perish, you and the prophets who tell you this."

¹⁶ Then I spoke to the priests and the people, "Yahweh speaks: Do not listen to your prophets who say: 'Very soon now the articles from Yahweh's House will be brought back from Babylon.' They prophesy lies. ¹⁷ Do not listen to them; instead serve the king of Babylon and survive. Why should this city become a ruins? ¹⁸ If they were prophets and if they had Yahweh's word in their hearts, they would now be praying to Yahweh God of hosts not to allow the objects still remaining in the House of Yahweh and in the royal palace and in Jerusalem to be carried off to Babylon.

¹⁹ For, Yahweh says something about the pillars, the Sea, the movable stands and the other objects still in this city ²⁰ which Nebuchadnezzar did not carry off when he deported Jekoniah son of Jehoiakim, king of Judah from Jerusalem to Babylon together with all the nobles of Judah and Jerusalem.

²¹ Yes, this is what Yahweh the God of hosts says about the objects remaining in the House of Yahweh and in the royal palace in Jerusalem: ²² "They will be taken to Babylon and there they will remain until the day I come for them. Then I will bring them back and restore them to this place."

Jeremiah and Hananiah

o28 ¹ Early in the reign of Zedekiah, king of Judah, in the fifth month of the fourth year, the prophet Hananiah spoke to me. Hananiah son of Azzur from Gibeon proclaimed in Yahweh's House in the presence of the priests and the people,

5. Dn 4, 14

o As we saw in 22:1, the ten years separating the two sieges of Jerusalem, from 598 to 588, were times of madness and false illusions. There were always people predicting the collapse of the empire of Nebuchadnezzar, the king of Babylon, and the return of the exiles. Jeremiah rises courageously against such false hope and predicts submission to Nebuchadnezzar and so the Jewish leaders consider him an enemy of the nation.

Jeremiah confronts the false prophets. When prophets do not agree, how can people know the authentic prophet? See Dt 13:6 and 18:22 on this.

The prophet who prophesies peace will not be accepted until his predictions are fulfilled.

Jeremiah says something more than Deuteronomy. Ever since Elijah (see 1 Kgs 19:18), the mission of the prophets had been to predict the gradual fall of the kingdom of Israel and to announce another kingdom which would come later. They predicted a few victories, but in the midst of a continuous slipping towards destruction. Therefore, the Jews should have distrusted Hananiah who was announcing prosperity, more than Jeremiah who insisted on Yahweh's threats.

The prophets were sent to a sinful people to form their conscience regarding sin and not to put it to sleep. When we live in the midst of injustice, we must distrust those who promise prosperity.

² "This is what Yahweh the God of hosts and the God of Israel says: I will break the yoke of the king of Babylon. ³ Within two years I will bring back to this place all the objects removed from the House of Yahweh by Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, and taken to Babylon. ⁴ I will moreover bring back Jekoniah son of Jehoiakim, king of Judah, and all the other captives from Judah who were deported to Babylon. For I will break the yoke of the king of Babylon – word of Yahweh."

⁵ Then Jeremiah replied to Hananiah in the presence of the priests and all the people, ⁶ "Amen! May Yahweh do so and fulfill the words you have spoken by bringing back from Babylon to this place the objects from the House of Yahweh and all the exiles. ⁷ Yet hear now what I say in your hearing and the hearing of all the people.

⁸ The prophets before your time and mine continually prophesied war, disaster and plague to many nations and great kingdoms. ⁹ So the prophet who prophesies peace will not be recognized as truly sent by Yahweh, until his predictions are fulfilled."

¹⁰ Then Hananiah took the yoke

from the neck of Jeremiah and broke it ¹¹ and proclaimed in the presence of all the people, "Yahweh says this: In the same way within two years will I break the yoke of Nebuchadnezzar from the neck of all the nations." Then Jeremiah the prophet went on his way.

¹⁴ For this is what Yahweh the God of hosts and the God of Israel says: I am placing a yoke of iron on the neck of all the nations to make them serve Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon and they will serve him. I will even give him control over the wild animals."

¹⁵ Then Jeremiah said to Hananiah, "Listen! Hananiah, Yahweh has not sent you and yet you have deceived these people, giving them false hope with your lies. ¹⁶ That is why Yahweh says with regard to you: I am removing you from the face of the earth. You shall die because you have counselled rebellion against Yahweh."

¹⁷ And in the seventh month of that year Hananiah died.

PROPHECIES OF BLESSING

The letter to the exiles

29 ¹ This is the text of the letter the prophet Jeremiah sent to the rest of the elders, to the priests, the prophets and to all the people that Nebuchadnezzar had deported from Jerusalem to Babylon. ² This was after King Jekoniah, the queen mother, the officials, the princes of Judah and Jerusalem, the smiths and metalworkers had left Jerusalem.

³ The letter was entrusted to Elash son of Shaphan and to Gemariah son of Hilkiyah, whom Zedekiah king of Judah sent to King Nebuchadnezzar in Babylon. It said:

⁴ This is what Yahweh God of hosts and God of Israel says to all those deported from Jerusalem to Babylon:

⁵ "Build houses and live in them, plant gardens and eat what they produce, marry and have children, ⁶ take wives for your sons and give your daughters in marriage, so that they too will have children. Increase and multiply while you are there and do not decrease. ⁷ Work for the prosperity of the land to which I have sent you and intercede with Yahweh on its behalf; for its welfare will be your welfare."

◆ In the years from 598 to 587, while the people in Jerusalem are becoming more and

¹⁰ This is what Yahweh says, "When the seventy years in Babylon have been completed I will come to you and fulfill my gracious promise to you and bring you back to this place." ¹¹ For I know what my plans for you are, plans to save you and not to harm you, plans to give you a future and to give you hope."

¹² And Yahweh says, "When you call on me I will listen. ¹³ You will seek me and find me when you search for me with all your heart." ¹⁴ For Yahweh says, "I will let myself be found by you and I will gather you from among all the nations and from all the places where I have driven you and bring you back to the place from which I sent you into exile."

lation, mockery and ridicule among all the nations where I will drive them. ²¹ For they did not heed my words when I sent them again and again my servants, the prophets. They refused to pay attention.

²² As for you, exiles, whom I sent away from Jerusalem to Babylon, hear the word of Yahweh. ²³ This is what Yahweh the God of hosts and the God of Israel says concerning Ahab son of Kolaiah and Zedekiah son of Maaseiah who prophesy lies in my name, "I will hand them over to Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon and he will slay them before your eyes. ²⁴ This will give rise to a curse widely used by the captives from Judah in Babylon: 'May the Lord treat you like Zedekiah and Ahab, who were roasted in the fire by the king of Babylon!' ²⁵ for they have acted outrageously: they have committed adultery with their neighbours' wives and in my name proclaimed lies which I did not command them. I know it and have witnessed it," declares Yahweh.

²⁶ After that Shemaiah of Nehelam ²⁷ sent letters in his own name to all the people in Jerusalem and to Zephaniah, son of Maaseiah the priest and to all the priests saying, ²⁸ "Yahweh has made you priest in place of Jehoiada to be in charge in the House of Yahweh to arrest every mad prophet and put him in the stocks and neck-irons. ²⁹ So why have you not rebuked Jeremiah of Anathoth a would-be prophet in your midst? ³⁰ In this role he sent a message to us in Babylon: You will be there for a long time! Build houses and live in them; plant gardens and eat their produce."

³¹ When Zephaniah the priest read this letter in the hearing of Jeremiah the prophet, ³² the word of Yahweh came to Jeremiah. ³³ "Send this message to all the exiles: This is what Yahweh says concerning Shemaiah of Nehelam: Shemaiah prophesied although I did not send him and he made you trust in lies. ³⁴ Because of that I will punish Shemaiah and his descendants; none of them will be left to see the good I shall do for my people, for he incited my people to rebel against Yahweh."

more blind, Jeremiah wants to guide the exiles. There is a temptation for them to believe that things could go back to what they were before. There are even among them prophets who keep up the illusion of a quick defeat of Babylon. One of them sends letters to Jerusalem to have Jeremiah put in jail (24-28).

In fact, they have to accept defeat, to realize their unfaithfulness to Yahweh which is the cause of their actual humiliation, and change their outlook. At that very moment, another prophet, Ezekiel, who is a true prophet speaks in a similar way.

A slow transformation is going to take place in the priests, the nobility, the artisans and the civil servants who were exiled and, after seventy years of exile, their children will return to Jerusalem as "the poor ones looking for Yahweh."

+ Chapters 30 and 31 bring us back to the happy years of King Josiah. Besides promoting the renewal of the faith and the worship of Yahweh, he managed to conquer part of what

The restoration of the northern kingdom

30 ¹ This is another word that came to Jeremiah from Yahweh:

² Yahweh, God of Israel says, "Write in a book all I have communicated to you, ³ for the days are coming when I shall bring my captive people Israel and Judah back to the land I gave to their fathers as their inheritance.

⁴ These are words spoken by Yahweh to Israel:

⁵ We heard cries of fear, terror and not peace!

⁶ Ask and see:

Does a man bear children?

Then why do I see every strong man with his hands on his hips like a woman in labour,

every face turned a ghastly colour?

⁷ How terrible that day!

there is none to equal it!

A time of distress for Jacob, but he will be saved.

⁸ On that day, – declares Yahweh of hosts – I will break the yoke around his neck and burst his bonds. Then strangers will no longer make servants of them; ⁹ but they shall serve Yahweh their God and David their king whom I will raise up for them.

¹⁰ Yahweh says, "Jacob my servant, do not fear. Don't be afraid, Israel, for I will save you and your descendants from that far-off land where you are captive. Jacob shall return and know peace, molested by no one.

¹¹ I am with you to save you. I will completely destroy all the nations where you are scattered. You alone shall not be destroyed, but I will discipline you justly and not let you go unpunished."

¹² Yahweh says,

"Your wound is incurable,
your injury is grievous.

¹³ There is no one to plead your cause.

There is a remedy for an ulcer
but no healing for you!

¹⁴ All your lovers have forgotten you;

they care nothing for you.

For I struck you as an enemy does,
with a cruel punishment,
because of your great guilt
and the wickedness of your sin.

¹⁵ Why cry out now that you are hurt?
Is there no cure for your pain?

Because of your great crime and grievous sin I have done this to you.

¹⁶ But all who devour you will in turn be devoured. Your oppressors will be taken captive; your plunderers will be plundered and those who despise you will be despised. Because you were called 'outcast – Zion for whom no one cares,' ¹⁷ I will restore you to health and heal your wounds," says Yahweh.

¹⁸ Yahweh says, "I will bring the captives back to Jacob's tents and have pity on his dwellings. The city will be rebuilt over its ruins and the palace restored on its original site. ¹⁹ From them will come songs of thanksgiving and the sound of merrymaking.

I will multiply them and they shall not be few. I will honour them and they shall not be disdained. ²⁰ Their children will be as before and their community will be established before me. I will punish their oppressors.

²¹ Their leader will be one of themselves and their ruler shall emerge from their midst. I will bring him near to me for who would have the courage to approach me? ²² You shall be my people and I shall be your God."

²³ See the storm of Yahweh bursting forth in fury; like the turmoil of a hurricane it is sweeping down on the head of the wicked.

²⁴ The fierce anger of Yahweh will not turn away until he has done and fulfilled the purpose of his heart.

In the latter days you will understand this.

31 ¹ Yahweh declares that when that time comes he will be the God of all the clans of Israel, and they will be his people.

² Thus says Yahweh:

The people who survived the sword have found grace in the desert.

had been the kingdom of Israel and was now an Assyrian province after the fall of Samaria.

The days are coming when I shall bring back my captive people Israel. The Israelites had been expelled from the land and scattered. Now, they were not here to listen to Jeremiah, but he addresses them through time and space. What he is telling them also applies to Judah which, in its turn, is going to be destroyed and dispersed.

This time Yahweh speaks like the Father to the prodigal son. He recalls their sins of the past which forced him to punish them and he promises that he will bring about the return of his dispersed people.

He recalls their sins of the past which forced him to punish and he promises that he will bring about the return of his dispersed people. Similar promises fill chapters 40-55 of the book of Isaiah.

³ Yahweh appeared from afar saying,
I have loved you everlastingly,
so I have kept for you my mercy.

⁴ I will restore you again,
and you shall be rebuilt,
O virgin Israel!

You will take up your tambourines and go out to dance joyfully.

⁵ You will plant vineyards again on the hills of Samaria, and the farmers who plant them will enjoy their fruit.

⁶ A day will come when watchmen will call out on the hills of Ephraim,
"Come, let us go to Zion, to our God Yahweh!"

⁷ For Yahweh says this:
Shout with joy for Jacob;

rejoice for the greatest of nations.
Proclaim your praise and say:
"Yahweh has saved his people,
the remnant of Israel!"

⁸ Look, I will bring them back from the land of the north, gather them from the ends of the earth.

All of them – the lame and the blind, mothers and women in labour –
a great throng will return.

⁹ They went weeping,
they will return in joy.
I will lead them to streams of water, on a level path so that no one will stumble,

for I am Israel's father and Ephraim is my firstborn.

He who scattered Israel now gathers them!

¹⁰ Hear the word of Yahweh, O nations, proclaim it on distant coastlands:
He who scattered Israel now gathers them together;
he guards them as a shepherd guards his flock.

¹¹ For Yahweh shall ransom Jacob and redeem him from the hand of his conqueror.

¹² Shouting for joy, they will ascend Zion;
they will come streaming to Yahweh's blessings –
the grain, the new wine and the oil,
the young of the flocks and herds.

They will be like a well-watered garden;
no more will they be afflicted.

¹³ Maidens will make merry and dance,
young men and old as well.

I will turn their mourning into gladness,
instead of sorrow I will give them comfort and joy.

¹⁴ I will fill the priests with abundance, and satisfy my people with my bounty
– Yahweh declares.

¹⁵ Thus speaks Yahweh:
"In Ramah is heard a voice of mourning and great weeping, Rachel wailing for her children and refusing to be consoled, for her children are no more."

¹⁶ Yahweh says this to her:
"Weep no more and dry your eyes;
your sorrow will have redress.

They will come back from the enemy's land.

¹⁷ There is hope for your descendants;
your sons will return to their own borders.

¹⁸ I heard Ephraim saying in grief:
'You disciplined me like an unruly calf,
and I have been disciplined.
Bring me back, and I will return,
for you are my God, my Lord.

¹⁹ Yes, I strayed, but I have repented.
Now I understand and I beat my breast;
I bear the disgrace of my youth,
I blush with shame and humiliation.'

²⁰ Is not Ephraim my favoured son,
the child in whom I delight?
Often have I threatened him,
but I still remember him,
and my heart yearns for him.
I must show him mercy, declares Yahweh.

²¹ Set up road signs,
put up guideposts;
turn your attention to the highway,
the road by which you went.
Turn back, O virgin Israel, turn back to these your cities.
²² How long will you continue to wander,
O unfaithful daughter?
Yahweh is creating something new on
earth –
the woman finds her husband again."

Restoration of Judah

²³ These are words of Yahweh, God of hosts and God of Israel, "When I bring back the captives to the land of Judah and its towns, the people will once more use the expression: 'Yahweh bless you, O dwelling of righteousness, holy mountain!'

²⁴ All Judah and its towns, the farmer and those who move about with their herds will live there in peace. ²⁵ I will refresh the weary and lift up the downhearted."

²⁶ I then awoke and looked about; my sleep had been peaceful.

²⁷ "The days are coming - this is the word of Yahweh - when I shall sow the people of Israel and the people of Judah with the seed of man and the seed of beasts. ²⁸ It will come about that just as I watched over them to uproot and overthrow, to destroy and bring disaster, so shall I do the same to build and plant - word of Yahweh.

²⁹ No longer will it be said: 'The fathers have eaten sour grapes and the children's teeth are set on edge.'

³⁰ Instead everyone will die because of their own sin; whoever eats sour grapes will have his teeth set on edge!

The new covenant

■ ³¹ The time is coming - it is Yahweh who speaks - when I will make a new covenant with the people of Israel and the people of Judah, ³² not like the one I made with their fathers on the day I took them by the hand and led them out of Egypt. They broke my covenant although I was their Lord.

³³ This is the covenant I shall make with Israel after that time: I will put

18. Ps 80, 4 20. Hos 11, 9 30. Dt 24, 16; Ezk 18, 2 31. 2 Cor 3, 6; Heb 9, 15

■ Here we must underscore 31:31-34 where Jeremiah delivers his most famous prophecy. During the bitter days which the Jewish people are experiencing, God reveals and Jeremiah announces the New and eternal Covenant between God and his people.

I will make a new covenant. This is like saying that the Sinai Covenant which made Israel my Law within them and write it on their hearts; I will be their God and they will be my people.

³⁴ And they will not have to teach each other, neighbour or brother, saying: 'Know the Lord,' because they will all know me, from the greatest to the lowliest, for I will forgive their wrongdoing and no longer remember their sin."

³⁵ This is the word of Yahweh, he who gives the sun for light during the day and orders the moon and the stars to give light at night, he who stirs the sea and makes the waves roar, and who is called Yahweh, God of hosts:

³⁶ "Only if these laws vanish from my sight, – word of Yahweh – will the race of Israel cease to be a nation before me.

³⁸ Behold the days are coming when the city will be rebuilt for Yahweh from the Tower of Hananel to the Corner Gate ³⁹ and the measuring tape will stretch from there to the hill of Gareb and then turn to Goah. ⁴⁰ The whole valley where dead bodies and ashes are thrown and all the fields as far as the brook of Kidron and the corner of the Horse Gate on the east will be holy to Yahweh. Never again will the city be uprooted, never again destroyed."

Jeremiah buys a field

32 ¹ This is the word that came to Jeremiah from Yahweh in the tenth year of Zedekiah, king of Judah, the eighteenth year of Nebuchadnezzar. ² At that time the army of the king of Babylon was besieging Jerusalem and Jeremiah the prophet was imprisoned in the Guards' Courtyard of the royal palace of Judah.

³ Zedekiah king of Judah had him shut up after saying to him, "Why do you prophesy in the name of Yahweh as you do? Yes, you said: 'I am going to hand this city to the king of Babylon who will take it.' ⁴ And Zedekiah king of Judah will not escape from the Chaldeans; he will be delivered into the power of the king of Babylon, speak face to face to him and see him with his own eyes. ⁵ And he will be brought to Babylon where he will remain until I deal with him. In any case your fight against the Chaldeans is hopeless."

⁶ So at that time Jeremiah said, "The word of Yahweh came to me: ⁷ Hanamel son of Shallum, your uncle is going to visit you and ask you to buy his field at Anathoth as it is your right to do so." ⁸ Then as Yahweh had said, Hanamel my cousin came to me in the court-

God's people, had become obsolete or insufficient. God had bound himself to a family (Abraham's) which became a people under Moses's leadership. And, apparently his promises were more for the community than for individuals.

They broke my covenant. Actually, this covenant between Yahweh and Israel on Sinai had failed, through Israel's fault, not Yahweh's. But it is not a matter of renewing it as Joshua, Samuel, Hezekiah and Josiah had done so many times. It is not a matter of making another one like it, since this old covenant had already proven its weakness: people are sinful and unable to escape from their sins. There are moreover, no laws, or human solidarity, or any form of education which can bring God's grace to everyone and preserve them in the faith. There cannot be a true believer without a personal accepting of the divine Truth. The true people of God cannot be confused with any other people or human community: only will those who are reborn become part of God's people.

I will put my Law in their hearts. Now, Jeremiah knows the secret of the New Covenant. For he is aware of the change which occurred in him when Yahweh made him a prophet. Then, he discovered an intimate relationship with God which is entirely different from a religion of mere practices.

I will make another covenant with Israel. Jeremiah predicts the day when Yahweh will reveal himself to all believers as he had done with his great prophets. The law will be in their hearts and the hand of God will keep them on the right path, as was the case with Jeremiah when he doubted.

I will forgive their sins. A New Covenant will be achieved through the death of Christ on the cross for the forgiveness of sins. In celebrating the Last Supper, Jesus says: "This cup is the New Covenant in my blood" (Luke 22:20).

The author of the letter to the Hebrews will develop the meaning of the New Covenant (see Hebrews 8:8 and 10:16).

The Gospel of John will also clarify the meaning of they will all know me: in the Christian faith, not everyone receives personal revelations, but everyone is guided by the Father to Christ in whom are found all the treasures of knowledge and wisdom.

In chapter 34, Ezekiel expresses himself in a very similar way, with this difference: Ezekiel speaks of the coming of the Spirit and Jeremiah, of the New Covenant.

yard of the Guards and said, 'Buy my field at Anathoth in the territory of Benjamin since you have the right of possession and the redemption is yours; buy it for yourself.'

⁹ I then understood this was the word of Yahweh and I bought the field from Hanamel and I weighed out the silver for him, seventeen shekels of silver. ¹⁰ Then I signed and sealed the deed, had it witnessed and the silver weighed on the scales. ¹¹ Then I took the deed of purchase (the sealed copy containing the terms and conditions and the open copy). ¹² I gave the deed of purchase to Baruch, son of Neriah son of Mahseiah, in the presence of Hanamel my uncle and the witnesses who signed the deed and before all the Jews who were sitting in the court of the Guards. ¹³ Then in their presence I commanded Baruch:

¹⁴ This is what Yahweh the God of hosts and the God of Israel says: Take these documents, both the sealed and the unsealed copies of the deed of purchase. Place them in an earthenware jar so that they may last a long time ¹⁵ for Yahweh God of hosts and God of Israel says this: Houses, fields and vineyards will again be bought in this land."

Prayer of Jeremiah

¹⁶ When I had given the deed of purchase to Baruch son of Neriah, I prayed to Yahweh: ¹⁷ "Ah, Lord Yahweh, you have made the heavens and the earth with your great power and outstretched arm! To you nothing is impossible! ¹⁸ You show mercy to thousands but bring the punishment for the fathers' sins on their children. Great and Mighty, Yahweh God of hosts is your name! ¹⁹ Great in counsel and mighty in deeds, your eyes follow the ways of all the sons of men, to give to each one according to his conduct and the fruit of his actions.

²⁰ You have continually worked signs and wonders, in the land of Egypt, in Israel and among all humankind and gained renown, as we see today. ²¹ You brought your people from the land of Egypt with signs and wonders, with your mighty hand, and your outstretched arm, arousing great terror.

and did not walk according to your Law. They refused to do what you commanded and you brought great misfortune on them. ²⁴ You see, O Yahweh, the mounds built up to take the city are reaching it. And the city exhausted by the sword, famine and plague will be given over to the Chaldeans. What you foretold has happened as you can now see! ²⁵ And yet you told me, O Lord Yahweh, to buy a field with silver and have the purchase witnessed and now the city is falling to the Chaldeans!"

God's answer

²⁶ The word of Yahweh then came to Jeremiah: ²⁷ "I am Yahweh, the God of all humankind. Is there anything impossible for me?"

²⁸ Therefore this is what Yahweh says: I am about to hand the city over to the Chaldeans and Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon who will take it. ²⁹ The Chaldeans who are attacking the city will come in and set it on fire. They will burn the houses where the people aroused my anger by burning incense to Baal and pouring drink offerings to foreign gods. ³⁰ For the people of Israel and Judah have done nothing but evil in my sight from their youth.

³¹ All they did was to arouse my anger with the work of their hands – it is Yahweh who speaks – for this city has so aroused my anger and fury from the time it was built to this day, ³² that I must remove it from my sight. It is on account of all the evil the people of Israel and Judah have done to anger me – they, their kings and princes, their priests and prophets, the men of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem.

³³ They turned their backs to me and not their faces. Although I taught them time and time again they did not listen nor have they learned the lesson. ³⁴ They put their idols in the sanctuary that houses my Name to defile it. ³⁵ They built high places to Baal in the valley of Ben-Hinnom where they sacrificed their sons and daughters to Moloch, something I never commanded nor did I ever think they could do such a detestable thing and so make Judah so sinful.

I will bring them back

³⁶ As you say, this city exhausted by the sword, famine and plague will be handed over to the king of Babylon. But now listen to what Yahweh the God of Israel says: ³⁷ "See, I am

◆ During the second siege and prior to the destruction of Jerusalem, Jeremiah buys a field as if to prove that the land has not lost its worth; one day the fallen nation will rise going to gather them from all the countries where I scattered them in my anger, fury and great wrath.

I will bring them back to this place and have them live in safety. ³⁸ They will be my people and I shall be their God.

³⁹ I will have them think and act in another way, so that they may always fear me for their own good and the good of their children.

⁴⁰ I will make an eternal covenant with them by which I shall never cease to do them good and I shall place my fear in their heart so that they may never turn away from me.

⁴¹ I shall rejoice in doing them good and I shall plant them securely in this land with all my heart and soul."

⁴² And Yahweh says, "Just as I brought great disaster on this people, so shall I bring them all the happiness I promised them.

⁴³ Then fields will be bought in this land about which you say that it is a wasteland without man or beast and given over to the Chaldeans.

⁴⁴ Fields will be bought for silver, and deeds written and sealed and witnessed in the territory of Benjamin and the region around Jerusalem, in the towns of Judah, in the towns of the hill country, in the towns of Shephelah and those of the south.

Yes, I will bring back their captives" – word of Yahweh.

Another promise of restoration

33 ¹ When Jeremiah was still detained in the Guards' Court the word of Yahweh came to him a second time:

² He who made the earth, who fashioned and established it, he whose Name is Yahweh is speaking to you, ³ "Call me and I shall answer. I will reveal to you great and hidden things you have not known." ⁴ For this is what Yahweh God of Israel says, "You see what happened to the houses in this city and the royal palace of Judah that were demolished and used as a defence against the siege mounds in the ⁵ fighting against the Chaldeans. They have been filled with the dead bodies of the men I slew in the fury of my anger when I no longer looked to this city because of their wickedness.

⁶ But now I will apply a remedy and a healing. I will cure them and make them enjoy peace and truth. ⁷ I will bring back the captives of Judah and Israel and rebuild them as before.

⁸ I will cleanse them from the guilt of their sin against me and their infidelity. ⁹ This city will be for me a cause of joy, praise and glory in the sight of all the nations of the earth, when they hear of all the good I do for them. They will fear and tremble when they see all the good and all the peace I provide for them."

¹⁰ Thus says Yahweh, "You say of this city that it is a desolation without men or animals. But in the towns of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem which are a ruins without men or animals ¹¹ there will be heard again the sound of merriment and happiness, the song of the newlywed and the voice of those who pray: 'Praise to Yahweh God of hosts, for Yahweh is good and his love endures forever!' The voice of those who sing praise in the House of Yahweh will be heard when I restore the fortune of the land as it was before," says Yahweh.

¹² Thus says Yahweh God of hosts: In this place, which is a desolation without men or animals and in all its towns, there will be again pasture for shepherds to shelter their flocks.

¹³ In the towns of the hill country, Shephelah and the south, in the territory of Benjamin and the villages around Jerusalem and in the towns of Judah, flocks will pass under the hand of the one who counts them – word of Yahweh.

Promises to David's descendants

¹⁴ The days are coming when I shall fulfill the gracious promise that I made in favour of Israel and Judah.

¹⁵ In those days and at that time I will make him who is the shoot of righteousness sprout from David's line; he will practise justice and righteousness in the land. ¹⁶ In those days Judah will be saved and Jerusalem will live in safety. He will be called Yahweh-Our-Righteousness."

¹⁹ The word of Yahweh came to Jeremiah as follows, ²⁰ "If you are able to break my covenant with the day or my covenant with the night so that night and day would not follow at their appointed times, ²¹ then might my covenant with David my servant be broken. Only then would there be no descendant to reign on his throne and no priests or Levites to minister before me. ²² Just as it is impossible to count the stars in the sky or the sand on the seashore, to the same extent shall I multiply the descendants of David and the Levites who minister before me."

²³ Again the word of Yahweh came to Jeremiah, ²⁴ "Have you not noticed what these people say: 'Yahweh has rejected the two kingdoms he chose.' So they despise my people, not even considering them a nation. ²⁵ But Yahweh says: If I have not established my covenant with day and night, if I have not fixed the laws of the heavens and the earth, ²⁶ then I can reject the descendants of Jacob and David my servant and not take from among them rulers for the descendants of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob; but I am going to restore their fortune and have compassion on them."

A promise to Zedekiah

o34 ¹ This was the word of Yahweh addressed to Jeremiah when Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, and his army as well as all the kingdoms of the earth that were under his dominion, and all the peoples were fighting against Jerusalem and all the cities of Judah:

² This is the word of Yahweh, God of Israel: "Go and say this to Zedekiah king of Judah: 'See, I am giving this city to the king of Babylon and he will set it on fire.' ³ You will not escape from his hands but will surely be captured and given over to him. You will see him face to face and speak directly to him and you will go to Babylon.' ⁴ Just listen, Zedekiah, king of Judah, to the word of Yahweh! This is what Yahweh says about you, 'You will not die by the sword; ⁵ no, you will die in peace. As they made funeral pyres in honour of your fathers, former kings, so will they make a fire in your honour and lament 'Alas, my master!' – word of Yahweh."

⁶ Then Jeremiah the prophet told all this to Zedekiah, king of Judah in Jerusalem. ⁷ At that time the army of the king of Babylon was fighting against Jerusalem and against the cities of Judah which were still resisting – Lachish and Azekah. These were the only fortified cities left in Judah.

About the liberated slaves

⁸ The word of Yahweh came to Jeremiah after King Zedekiah had made a treaty with all the people of Jerusalem to proclaim freedom for the slaves. ⁹ Everyone was to free his Hebrew slaves, male and female, so that no fellow Jew would be kept in bondage.

¹⁰ They agreed to this and so set them free. ¹¹ But afterwards they changed their mind and brought back the slaves they had freed and used them as slaves again.

¹² Then the word of Yahweh came to Jeremiah, ¹³ "Yahweh the God of Israel says this: I made a covenant with your fathers the day I brought them out of Egypt from the house of slavery and I said: ¹⁴ At the end of every seven years you will free your brother Hebrew who sold himself to you and has served you for six years. You are to send him away a free man. But your fathers did not listen and paid no attention. ¹⁵ Recently you repented and did what was right in my sight when each one proclaimed the freedom of his slave and you made a covenant with me in the House where my Name rests. ¹⁶ But now you have gone back on your word and profaned my Name. You have brought back your slaves, male and female, to whom you had given complete freedom and you have again reduced them to slavery.

¹⁷ That is why Yahweh says: Since you have not obeyed me in proclaiming freedom for your brothers and neighbours I now proclaim 'freedom' for you, freedom to fall by the sword, plague and famine. I will make you detestable to every kingdom on earth. ¹⁸ The men who have sinned against my covenant, who have not observed

o This chapter includes two events from the second siege of Jerusalem.

34:1-7: Jeremiah invites Zedekiah to surrender to the Chaldeans as Jehoiakim had done during the first siege. This dialogue is also related in 21:1-7.

34:9-22: Concerning the liberation of slaves. The Bible does not accept that any member of the people of God should lose freedom forever. If due to debts a man had to sell himself and become the servant of his creditor, this was not to last more than seven years. Every seven years a sabbatical year was proclaimed (see Dt 15:12) during which slaves of Hebrew descent were to be given their freedom.

The truth is that the social laws were poorly

the terms of the alliance they made with me, I will treat them like the calf they cut in two and then walked between its halves. ¹⁹ The princes of Judah and Jerusalem, the court officials, the priests and all the freemen who walked between the pieces of the calf, ²⁰ I will hand over to their enemies, to those who seek their lives. Their carcasses will become food for the birds of the air and the beasts of the earth.

²¹ Zedekiah and his officials I will give over to the hands of their enemies and to those who seek their life. You saw the army of the king of Babylon withdrawing from you. ²² But now I am giving a command and bringing them back to this city. They will fight against it, capture it and set it on fire. As for the towns of Judah I will reduce them to a wasteland without inhabitants."

The example given by the Rechabites

35 ¹ This was the message given to Jeremiah by Yahweh in the days of Jehoiakim, son of Josiah, king of Judah: ² "Go to the Rechabite family; speak to them and bring them to a room in the House of Yahweh and there give them wine to drink."

³ So I went to get Jaazaniah, son of Jeremiah, son of Habazziniah, his brothers and sons and all the household of the Rechabites. ⁴ I brought them to the House of Yahweh, into the room of the sons of Hanan, son of Igdaliah, the man of God. It was next to the room of the leaders which is above the room of Maasekah, son of Shallum, the doorkeeper. ⁵ I then placed pitchers of wine and cups before the men of the Rechabite family and said, "Drink wine!"

and don't sow seeds. You shall not plant a vineyard; do nothing like that but live in tents all your days so that you may live for a long time in the land where you dwell!'

⁸ We have obeyed Jonadab, son of Rechab our father in all that he commanded us, always abstaining from wine, we, our wives, our sons and daughters. ⁹ We haven't built houses to live in and we have no vineyards, fields or seeds. ¹⁰ We live in tents and we obey and practice all that Jonadab our father ordered us. ¹¹ But when Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon attacked the country, we said: "Come, we shall go to Jerusalem to escape from the army of the Chaldeans and the army of the Arameans. This is why now we stay in Jerusalem."

¹² Yahweh spoke again to Jeremiah, ¹³ "This is what Yahweh the God of hosts and the God of Israel says: Go and say to the men of Judah and to the citizens of Jerusalem: Will you not accept a correction and listen to what I say? — word of Yahweh. ¹⁴ Jonadab son of Rechab commanded his sons not to drink wine, and his words were observed; to this day they have obeyed their father in not taking wine. As for you, I have spoken to you time and time again and you have not heeded me! ¹⁵ I have sent you my servants the prophets again and again saying: Turn away from your wickedness, reform your way of life and do not follow other gods to serve them. Then you will live in the land I gave to you and your forefathers. But you neither heeded nor listened to me. ¹⁶ The descendants of Jonadab son of Rechab have carried out their father's order but these people have not obeyed me."

¹⁷ Therefore this is what Yahweh the God of hosts and the God of Israel says,

"I am going to bring on Judah and on everyone living in Jerusalem all the disaster I foretold, because I spoke and they would not listen, I called and they would not answer."

¹⁸ Then Jeremiah said to the family of Rechabites, "This is what Yahweh God of hosts and God of Israel says: 'Because you have obeyed Jonadab your father and observed all his instructions, because you have acted in accordance with what he commanded, ¹⁹ because of that — word of Yahweh — Jonadab shall not lack a descendant to stand before me always.'" observed in those days. And so, before the threat of siege, the most believing among the people of Jerusalem realized that the best way to obtain God's blessing would be to follow the social laws of the Bible and to liberate their slaves.

Yahweh rises in favor of the oppressed: he will destroy their own country if that is necessary to punish those who so despise their brothers.

+ Chapters 36-44 could be called "Jeremiah's sufferings": they describe the fate of the prophet during the sieges of 598 and 587 and after the destruction of Jerusalem.

THE SUFFERINGS OF JEREMIAH

The scroll is burned

+36 ¹ In the fourth year of Jehoiaquim son of Josiah it happened that this word came to Jeremiah from Yahweh:

² "Provide yourself with a scroll and write on it all that I have spoken to you concerning Israel, Judah and all the nations, from the first day I spoke to you in the time of Josiah until this day. ³ Perhaps the people of Judah will understand what afflictions I am thinking of sending them to make each of them turn away from his evil ways so that I may forgive their wickedness and sin."

⁴ Jeremiah then called Baruch son of Neriah and while Jeremiah dictated, Baruch wrote on the scroll all that Yahweh had said.

⁵ Then Jeremiah commanded Baruch, "I am in jail and cannot enter the House of Yahweh. ⁶ So you go to the House of Yahweh on a day of fasting and read publicly all that you wrote as I dictated. Read it to all the people of Judah who come in from their towns. ⁷ Perhaps they will entreat Yahweh and each one will turn from his wickedness, for great is the wrath of Yahweh and the punishment with which he has threatened this people."

⁸ Baruch son of Neriah did all that the prophet Jeremiah had commanded about this reading in the House of Yahweh.

⁹ In the ninth month of the fifth year of Jehoiaquim son of Josiah, king of Judah, a fast before Yahweh was proclaimed to all the people in Jerusalem and all the people who came from the towns of Judah.

Then in the House of Yahweh Baruch read publicly from the scroll the words of Jeremiah. ¹⁰ This he did in the room of Gemariah the son of Shaphan the secretary, in the upper court at the entry of the New Gate of the House of Yahweh.

¹¹ When Micaiah son of Gemariah, son of Shaphan heard of all Yahweh's words written on the scroll ¹² he went to the secretary's room in the king's house where all the officials were sitting – Elishama, the secretary, Delaiah, son of Shemaiah; Elnathan, son of Acbor; Gemariah, son of Shaphan; Zedekiah, son of Hananiah, and all the other officials.

¹³ Micaiah told them all that he had heard when Baruch read to the people from the scroll. ¹⁴ Then all the officials sent Jehudi, son of Netaniah, the son of Shelemiah, the son of Cushi, to say to Baruch, "Bring the scroll from which you read to all the people and come!" So Baruch went with the scroll in his hand. ¹⁵ They told him to sit down and read it to them, and Baruch read it to them.

¹⁶ When they heard all that, they looked at one another in fear and said, "We shall tell this to the king."

¹⁷ They then questioned Baruch as to how he had written that and he said,

1. Ekk 2, 9

These are the last days of the kingdom of Judah. The events briefly related at the end of the second book of Kings take on a new meaning here because someone with much insight is experiencing them. In the midst of the masses who suffer without understanding, Jeremiah knows what God's plans are. This people, who neither believe nor obey the Lord, must lose their material illusions and after them, the best of their children will come to a more profound faith.

Nevertheless, Jeremiah is crushed by his people's disaster. After having suffered because of them, he is now suffering with them and he becomes the figure of the suffering Saviour, Christ.

Baruch, son of Neriah, was secretary (36, 26), something like the chancellor of the king. He was also Jeremiah's secretary and he may have written these chapters.

36: The episode of the burned scroll takes place during the first blockade. Let us remember that in those days people wrote on strips of parchment, or sheepskin, which were rolled up.

37: Zedekiah is respectful toward Jeremiah. He is, in fact, at the mercy of his officials. Here, as in the Passion of Jesus, the rulers do not rule, but follow the mood of the majority.

¹⁸ "As he dictated these words, I wrote them in ink on the scroll." ¹⁹ Then the officials said to Baruch, "You and Jeremiah hide yourselves and let no one know where you are."

²⁰ They put the scroll in the room of Elishama the secretary and went to the king in the courtyard and reported all to him.

²¹ The king then sent Jehudi to bring him the scroll. He brought it from Elishamah's room and read it to the king and to all the officials standing around him. ²² Now it was the ninth month and the king was seated in the winter palace and a fire was burning in the fire pot in front of him. ²³ Whenever Jehudi finished reading three or four columns they tore them off with the secretary's knife and threw them in the fire until the whole scroll was burned.

²⁴ The king and his officials were not afraid and they did not tear their garments when they heard all these words. ²⁵ And yet Elnathan, Deliah and Gemariah had urged the king not to burn the scroll, but he did not listen.

²⁷ The word of Yahweh came to Jeremiah after the king burned the scroll with the words

Baruch had written as Jeremiah dictated, ²⁸ "Take another scroll and write on it all the words that were on the first scroll that Jehoiakim burned." ²⁹ And tell Jehoiakim this message of Yahweh: You have burned the scroll and you said: This man dared to write that the king of Babylon will certainly destroy this land and wipe away from it men and animals! ³⁰ That is why Yahweh has spoken against Jehoiakim, king of Judah: Not one of his descendants will sit on the throne of David. His dead body will be exposed to the heat of day and the chill of night. ³¹ I will punish him, his children and his attendants for their wickedness. On them and on those living in Jerusalem and on the people of Judah I will bring all the affliction I have foretold against them, because they have paid no attention."

³² Jeremiah then took the other scroll and gave it to Baruch son of Neriah the secretary. He wrote on it all the words of the scroll that Jehoiakim king of Judah burned in the fire, and he added many more similar words.

Zedekiah consults Jeremiah

37 ¹ Zedekiah was made king of Judah by Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon in place of Jehoiakin son of Jehoiakim. ² But neither he nor his attendants nor the people of the land paid attention to the words of Yahweh spoken through Jeremiah the prophet.

³ King Zedekiah sent Jehucal son of Shelemiah with the priest Zephaniah son of Maaseiah to Jeremiah to say, "Intercede for us with Yahweh our God!" ⁴ At that time Jeremiah was still going about among the people and had not been put in prison. ⁵ Pharaoh's army had come out of Egypt and when the Chaldeans heard of this, they withdrew from Jerusalem.

⁶ Then the word of Yahweh came to Jeremiah the prophet: ⁷ "Yahweh the God of Israel has spoken. Say this to the king of Judah who sent you to consult me: Pharaoh's army that IS JEREMIAH A TRAITOR?

How strange is Jeremiah's attitude during this war in which the Jews defend their independence to death!

Jeremiah accuses his people and not the Chaldeans in whom he only sees God's instrument.

Jeremiah advises surrender and submission to the foreign power. He even invites the exiled Jews to promote the prosperity of their conquerors.

And we cannot say that these are mistakes on the part of the prophet since his attitude cannot be separated from his message. Two reasons clarify Jeremiah's position:

— On one hand, the Jewish nationalists do not know what God wants to do with Israel in the future. They see only defeat and slavery and they prefer to fight to death. Jeremiah, however knows the extraordinary future that Yahweh has in store for Israel. Israel bears the hopes of the future world and so, they must not disappear in a hopeless struggle.

— On the other hand, the Jewish leaders focus only on the appearances of freedom and patriotism. To them, everything seems lost if they submit to foreign authority. Jeremiah, for his part, focuses on the hearts of men. To be Jewish means to preserve Israel's ideals and reasons for living; to be free means to serve Yahweh alone.

was on its way to help you is about to return to its own land, ⁸ and the Chaldeans will come back and attack this city. They will capture it and set it on fire.

⁹ Do not deceive yourselves by saying that the Chaldeans are sure to stay away from you. They will not! ¹⁰ Even if you had defeated the whole Chaldean army and they were left with only wounded men, they would all come out of their tents and set fire to this city."

Jeremiah in the well

¹¹ While the Chaldean army was withdrawing from Jerusalem because of the advance of Pharaoh's troops, ¹² Jeremiah left Jerusalem to go to the territory of Benjamin to receive an inheritance there. ¹³ At the Benjamin Gate he was stopped by a sentry named Irijah, son of Shelemiah, son of Hananiah who said, "You are deserting to the Babylonians!"

¹⁴ "That's not true!" Jeremiah said, but Irijah did not listen. He arrested Jeremiah and brought him to the officials. ¹⁵ They were angry with Jeremiah, struck him and locked him in the house of Jonathan the secretary which had been made into a prison.

¹⁶ When Jeremiah was put in the dungeon cells and had been there for a number of days, ¹⁷ King Zedekiah sent for him and secretly questioned him in his house: "Is there any word from Yahweh?" Jeremiah replied, "Yes, there is!" and added, "You will be handed over to the king of Babylon!"

¹⁸ Then Jeremiah said to King Zedekiah, "What wrong have I done to you, to your servants or to the people that you should put me in prison? ¹⁹ Where are your prophets ²⁰ who said to you: 'The King of Babylon will not come to attack you and destroy this land?' Now hear me, my lord king! Listen to my petition and do not send me back to the house of Jonathan the secretary, for fear I may die there!"

²¹ King Zedekiah ordered that Jeremiah be transferred to the Guards' Court and that each day he be given a loaf of bread from the bakers' street until the supply of bread was exhausted. So Jeremiah remained in the Guards' Court.

38 ¹ Shephatiah son of Mattan, Gedaliah son of Pashhur son of Malchiah heard what Jeremiah said publicly ² in the name of Yahweh, "If you stay in the city you will die by the sword, famine and plague, but whoever surrenders to the Chaldeans will escape with his life although he may lose everything. ³ For Yahweh has spoken: I have handed over this city to the king of Babylon and he will take it."

⁴ The officials then said to the king, "This man should be put to death. All he does is to weaken the hands of the soldiers remaining in the city and the hands of all the people. In fact he is not out to save the people but to do harm." ⁵ King Zedekiah said, "He is in your hands for the king can do nothing against you."

11. Ps 69

5. Dn 6, 16; 14, 30

And so, it is essential to him that his compatriots do not become contaminated by the gods and the false values of the Chaldeans; in comparison, to submit to the yoke of a Chaldean master seems a much lesser evil. Besides, Jeremiah shares the ideas expressed particularly in the book of Judges: if Israel keeps faith and observes the Law, sooner or later, it will recover its independence and return home.

Put in modern terms, Jeremiah's attitude contains two lessons:

- Do not insist on fighting for causes or institutions which are no longer relevant to a world which has undergone irreversible changes and in which God calls us to a different mission.

- Know that a people's true independence is their moral and cultural independence. It would be tragic if their children, dazzled by a foreign way of life, were to sacrifice their traditional moral values, or in a subservient way adopt norms and forms of development imposed from outside.

⁶ So they took Jeremiah and threw him into the cistern of Malchiah the king's son, in the Guards' Court. They lowered him by means of ropes. There was no water but only mud in the cistern and Jeremiah sank into the mud.

⁷ Ebedmelech, an Ethiopian official of the king's house, heard that they had put Jeremiah in the cistern. While the king was sitting at the Benjamin Gate, ⁸ Ebedmelech went and spoke to him, ⁹ "My lord king! It was evil of these men to do all they did to Jeremiah the prophet. They threw him into the cistern where he will die."

¹⁰ So the king ordered Ebedmelech the Ethiopian: "Take three men from here and draw Jeremiah the prophet out from the cistern before he dies."

¹¹ Ebedmelech took the men with him and went into the king's house beneath the treasury. There he got pieces of rags and old clothes which he lowered by means of ropes to Jeremiah in the cistern. ¹² Ebedmelech said to Jeremiah, "Put the pieces of rags and old clothes under your armpits, over the ropes." This Jeremiah did. ¹³ Jeremiah was then drawn up from the cistern by means of the ropes and he stayed in the Guards' Court.

¹⁴ King Zedekiah sent for Jeremiah the prophet and received him at the third entrance of the House of Yahweh and there said to him, "I am going to ask you a question; hide nothing from me!" Jeremiah said to Zedekiah, ¹⁵ "If I tell you something, won't you put me to death? And if I give you counsel you will not listen." ¹⁶ King Zedekiah swore secretly to Jeremiah: "As Yahweh lives who gave us a soul, I will not have you die and I will not hand you over to those who want to kill you."

¹⁷ Jeremiah said to Zedekiah, "This is what Yahweh God of hosts and God of Israel says: If you surrender to the officers of the king of Babylon you will live and the city will not be set on fire. You and your household will live. ¹⁸ But if you do not surrender to the king of Babylon, this city will be handed over to the Chaldeans and they will set it on fire. For your part, you will not escape."

¹⁹ King Zedekiah said to Jeremiah, "I am uneasy because of the people of Judah who have surrendered to the Chaldeans. I fear the Chaldeans will give me over to them and they will ill-treat me." ²⁰ Jeremiah said, "They will not hand you over. Listen to what Yahweh says to you through me; it will be well with you and you will live. ²¹ But if you refuse to surrender, this is what Yahweh let me see.

²⁴ Then Zedekiah said to Jeremiah, "Let no one know about this conversation or you will die. ²⁵ If the officials hear that I have spoken with you and if they come to you and ask you what I spoke of to you, even though they threaten you, ²⁶ you will say to them: I only made a petition to the king not to send me back to the house of Jonathan to die."

²⁷ All the officials came to Jeremiah and questioned him. He replied just as the king had instructed him, and they said no more as the conversation had not been heard.

²⁸ But Jeremiah remained in the Guards' Court until the day Jerusalem was taken.

The fall of Jerusalem and the fate of Jeremiah

39 ¹ In the tenth month of the ninth year of Zedekiah king of Judah, Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came with his whole army and they besieged Jerusalem. ² On the ninth day of the fourth month in Zedekiah's eleventh year a breach was made in the city wall. ³ All the officials of the king of Babylon entered and took their seats at the Middle Gate: Nergal-Sherazer of Samgar, Sarsekim chief officer, Nergal-Sherazer a high official and all the officials of the king of Babylon.

⁸ The Chaldeans set fire to the royal palace and the houses of the people and then broke down the walls of Jerusalem. ⁹ Nebuzaradan, commander of the bodyguard, deported to Babylon the remainder of the people who stayed in the city as well as those who had deserted to him and those of the craftsmen who were still there. ¹⁰ As for the poorest people who had nothing, Nebuzaradan left them at that time in the land of Judah, giving them vineyards and fields.

¹¹ Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon had given orders about Jeremiah to Nebuzaradan chief of the bodyguard: ¹² "Take him and look after him; do him no harm but deal with him just as he tells you." ¹³ Nebuzaradan commander of the bodyguard, Nebushazban a chief officer, Nergal-Shazezer, a high official and all the other officers of the king of Babylon ¹⁴ sent and had Jeremiah taken from the Guards' Court and given over to Gedaliah son of Ahikam son of Shaphan. So he remained among the people.

Reward for Ebedmelek

■ ¹⁵ Now the word of Yahweh had come to Jeremiah when he was a prisoner in the Guards' Court: ¹⁶ "Go and speak to Ebedmelek the Ethiopian: This is what Yahweh the God of hosts and the God of Israel says: You will see on that day that I am about to carry out my words foretelling disaster and not prosperity for this city.

¹⁷ But I will save you on that day – word of Yahweh – and you will not be given over to the men you fear. For I will certainly save you and you will not fall by the sword. ¹⁸ You will escape with your life because you have trusted me – it is Yahweh who speaks."

Jeremiah is freed

40 ¹ The word of Yahweh came to Jeremiah after Nebuzaradan, commander of the bodyguard, had released him from Ramah when he had taken him, bound in chains, with those to be deported from Jerusalem and Judah to Babylon. ² The commander of the bodyguard took Jeremiah and said to him, "Yahweh your God foretold this calamity for this place. ³ Yahweh has brought about what he predicted because you sinned against him and did not listen to him. ⁴ But today I am freeing you from these chains that were on your hands. If you prefer to come with me to Babylon, come and I will look after you, but if you prefer not to come with me to Babylon, then remain in this country; go where you consider it right and good for you to live." ⁵ Nebuzaradan added, "Why don't you go back to Gedaliah son of Ahikam son of Shaphan, the man appointed by the king of Babylon to be over the towns of Judah? You could stay with him among your people. Yet go wherever it seems right for you to go." The commander of the bodyguard gave him provisions and a gift and set him on his way. ⁶ And so Jeremiah went to Gedaliah son of Ahikam at Mizpah and stayed with him among the people who were left in the land.

Gedaliah, the governor

liest of the people who had not been deported to Babylon. ⁹ They came to Gedaliah at Mizpah: Ishmael son of Nethaniah, Johanan and Jonathan the sons of Kareah, Seraiah son of Tanhumeth, the sons of Ephai the Netophathite and Jaazaniah son of Maacathite and their men.

⁹ Gedaliah son of Ahikam son of Shaphan swore to them and their men: "Don't be afraid of serving the Chaldeans; stay in the country, serve the king of Babylon and all will be well with you. ¹⁰ As for me, my base is Mizpah and I am your representative with the Chaldeans who settle at this place. For your part gather wine, fruit and oil; store it in your vessels and stay in the towns you have occupied."

¹¹ The Jews who were in Moab, Ammon, Edom and in the other lands also heard that the king of Babylon had left a remnant of the population and that he had placed over them Gedaliah son of Ahikam, son of Shaphan. ¹² All these Jews returned from the places where they had been dispersed and came to Gedaliah at Mizpah in the land of Judah. There they gathered in wine and fruit in great quantities.

¹³ Johanan son of Kareah and all the chiefs of guerrilla warfare came to Gedaliah at Mizpah ¹⁴ and said, "Don't you know that Baalis, king of the Ammonites has sent Ishmael son of Nethaniah to kill you?" ¹⁵ But Gedaliah, son of Ahikam, did not believe him.

Then Johanan spoke secretly to Gedaliah at Mizpah, "Let me go and kill Ishmael son of Nethaniah without anyone knowing. Why should he attempt to kill you; why should all the Jews assembled with you be dispersed and the rest of Judah perish?" ¹⁶ But Gedaliah son of Ahikam said to Johanan son of Kareah, "Don't do that because what you have said about Ishmael is a lie."

41 ¹ In the seventh month it happened that Ishmael son of Nethaniah son of Elishama of the royal family who had been chief officer of the king, came with ten men to Gedaliah, son of Ahikam, son of Shaphan at Mizpah. While they were eating together ² Ishmael and the men with him stood up and slew Gedaliah with the sword, thus killing the man whom the king of Babylon had appointed governor of the land.

³ Ishmael also killed the Jews who were with Gedaliah at Mizpah as well as the Chaldean soldiers who were there.

⁶ Ishmael son of Nethaniah left Mizpah to meet them weeping as they went. He said to them, ⁷ "Come along to Gedaliah, son of Ahikam." But as soon as he came to the centre of the town, Ishmael son of Nethaniah and the men with him killed them and threw their bodies into a cistern. ⁸ Ten of these men, however, said to Ishmael, "Don't kill us for we have provisions hidden in the country, corn, oil, barley and honey." These Ishmael did not kill with the others.

¹⁰ Ishmael took captive the small population of Mizpah, the royal princesses whom Nebuzaradan, commander of the bodyguard, had left in the care of Gedaliah. Ishmael obliged them to follow him and set out for the land of the Ammonites.

¹¹ When Johanan son of Kareah and the army officers with him heard of the crimes of Ishmael they assembled their men and set off to fight Ishmael. ¹² They caught up with him at the great pool of Gibeon.

¹³ As soon as the people Ishmael had taken by force from Mizpah saw Johanan, son of Kareah and the army officers with him, they rejoiced ¹⁴ and turned back to join Johanan. ¹⁵ In the meantime Ishmael was able to flee from Johanan with eight men and went to the Ammonites.

¹⁶ Then Johanan and the army officers with him took the people he had rescued from Ishmael, son of Nethaniah. They were those men.

◆ The Chaldeans had made Judah a province of their empire. As its governor, they named a Jew, Gedaliah, belonging to the Shaphan family who had always been favorable to Jeremiah. The resistance party murders him and with this, its only gain is a new dispersion of the Jews.

Chapters 42-44 show us Jeremiah fighting his people for the last time. There is not even one faction that listens to the prophet. Those favouring resistance to the Chaldeans as well as those in favor of submission, follow their own whims and refuse to obey Yahweh.

women, children and court officials that Ishmael carried off by force from Mizpah after slaying Gedaliah. Johanan brought them from Gibeon, ¹⁷ and they stayed at Geruth Chimham near Bethlehem. They planned to go on later towards Egypt ¹⁸ for fear of the Chaldeans because Ishmael had slain Gedaliah who was appointed governor of the land by the king of Babylon.

The flight to Egypt

42 ¹ Then the army officers, especially Johanan, son of Kareah and Jezeiah son of Hoshai, and all the people from the smallest to the greatest came to speak to Jeremiah: ² "Listen to our plea and pray to Yahweh our God for us, this remnant of people, because really we are few from many, as you can see. ³ May Yahweh your God show us the way we should go and what we should do."

⁴ Jeremiah the prophet answered them, "I have heard you. Yes, I am going to speak to Yahweh as you have requested. And whatever be the word of Yahweh, I shall let you know it without hiding anything."

⁵ They said to Jeremiah, "May Yahweh be a true and worthy witness against us if we do not act according to every word that Yahweh your God will say to us through you! ⁶ Whether it be good or bad for us we will obey Yahweh our God to whom we are sending you, so it will be well with us for having obeyed the voice of Yahweh our God."

⁷ Ten days later the word of Yahweh came to Jeremiah. ⁸ He then called Johanan, son of Kareah and the army officers with him and all the people from the least to the greatest ⁹ and said to them, "This is the word of Yahweh, God of Israel to whom you sent me with your petition: ¹⁰ If you wish to live peacefully in this land I will build you up and not pull you down, I will plant you and not uproot you for I will relent of the harm I did you. ¹¹ You are afraid of the king of Babylon, but do not fear him – word of Yahweh – for I am with you to save you and rescue you from his hand. ¹² I will put mercy in his heart so that he may have mercy on you and let you live in your own land. ¹³ But if you say: 'No, we will no longer live in this land,' disobeying the voice of Yahweh your God, ¹⁴ and if you say: 'No, we shall go to Egypt where we shall no more have wars or hear the trumpet call, where we shall not be hungry for bread!'"

¹⁵ Then hear the word of Yahweh, remnant of Judah! Yahweh God of hosts and God of Israel speaks: "If you turn towards Egypt to go there and stay there, ¹⁶ the sword you fear will strike you there in the land of Egypt and famine which you dread will be yours there in Egypt and you will die. ¹⁷ All those who turn towards Egypt to enter and live there will die by sword, famine and pestilence. No one will escape or flee from the misfortune that I will bring upon them."

¹⁸ This is what Yahweh God of hosts and God of Israel says, "Just as my burning anger was poured out on the people of Jerusalem, so will my fury be poured out on you when you go to Egypt. You will become a curse and a reproach and you will never again see this place." ¹⁹ That is what Yahweh has foretold, O remnant of Judah. Do not go to Egypt; be quite sure that I have warned you today. ²⁰ You risked your lives when you sent me to Yahweh your God saying: 'Pray for us to Yahweh our God and tell us all that Yahweh says and we shall do it.' ²¹ I have told you today though you still do not obey Yahweh your God in all that he told you through me. ²² Be sure of this, it will be by the sword, famine and pestilence that you will die in the place where you want to go and live."

43 ¹ Jeremiah had hardly finished giving the message of Yahweh to the people – all that Yahweh had sent him to say – ² when Azariah son of Hoshiah and Johanan son of Kareah and all the arrogant men said to Jeremiah, "You are lying! Yahweh our God did not send you to tell us not to go and settle in Egypt. ³ No, Baruch son of Neriah is prompting you to hand us over to the Chaldeans either to be killed or deported to Babylon!"

⁴ So neither Johanan son of Kareah nor the army officers nor the people heeded Yahweh's command to stay in the land of Judah. ⁵ Instead Johanan and the army officers led away the remnant of the Jews who had returned to the land of Judah from the nations where they had been driven. ⁶ They also led away the men, women, children and the royal princesses – all those that Nebuzaradan, commander of the bodyguard, had left in the care of Gedaliah, son of Ahikam, son of Shaphan, with Jeremiah, the prophet and Baruch, son of Neriah. ⁷ So in defiance of Yahweh's order they entered Egypt and arrived at Tahpanhes.

Jeremiah foretells the invasion of Egypt

and God of Israel says: I am sending for my servant Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon and he will set his throne over these stones that I have hidden here and spread a royal canopy. ¹¹ He shall come and strike the land of Egypt bringing death to those destined to die, captivity for those destined to be taken captive, sword for those destined for the sword. ¹² He will set fire to the temples of the Egyptian gods; these gods will be burned or carried away. As a shepherd wraps himself in a cloak, so will the king of Babylon wrap the land of Egypt about himself and depart in safety. ¹³ He will break the sacred pillars at Heliopolis and burn the temples of the gods in Egypt."

Jeremiah's last warnings

44 ¹This word of Yahweh came to Jeremiah concerning all the Jews living in Egypt, in Migdal, Tahpanhes, Memphis and the territory of Patros: ²"You have seen all the disaster that I brought on Jerusalem and the towns of Judah. ³ Today they are no more than a ruins without inhabitants because of the evil they have done. They have angered me by offering incense to foreign gods neither they nor their fathers knew.

⁴ I sent them my servants the prophets time and time again to tell them: 'Do not do this abominable thing that I detest!' ⁵ But they did not listen or pay attention; they did not turn away from their evil ways or give up worshipping strange gods. ⁶ Then the fury of my anger was loosed and blazed in the towns of Judah and the streets of Jerusalem making them the desolate ruins they are today.

⁷ And now Yahweh the God of hosts and the God of Israel asks you: Why do you bring such great harm on yourselves? Because of your deeds every man, woman, child and infant will be taken from Judah and you will be left without a remnant? ⁸ Why do you anger me with the work of your hands? Why do you worship foreign gods in Egypt where you came to live? Surely you will decrease in number and be a curse and an object of reproach among all the nations? ⁹ Have you forgotten the wickedness of your fathers and the misdeeds of the kings of Judah and its princes, and the evil behaviour of your wives in the land of Judah and the streets of Jerusalem?

¹⁰ So far they have had neither contrition nor fear and have not followed my law and my decrees that I set before you and your fathers."

¹¹ Because of this Yahweh God of hosts and God of Israel warns you, "I am turning my face away from you to bring disaster on you and completely destroy Judah. ¹² The remnant of Judah that chose to enter Egypt and live there will all perish. They will be destroyed by the sword and famine and become an object of horror and cursing, of condemnation and reproach. ¹³ I will punish those in Egypt as I punished Jerusalem with the sword, famine and pestilence. Except for a few refugees, ¹⁴ none of the remnant of Judah that came to Egypt will escape or flee, and return to Judah where you long to go and live."

¹⁵ Then all the men who knew their wives were offering incense to foreign gods and all the women, a great assembly, replied to Jeremiah in a louder voice. ¹⁶ "As for what you say in the name of Yahweh we will not listen; ¹⁷ we want to do all that we said we wanted to do: ¹⁸ burn incense to the queen of heaven and pour out wine to her as we did, we and our fathers, our kings and princes in the towns of Judah and the streets of Jerusalem. Then we had our fill of bread and were prosperous and free from misfortune. ¹⁹ But since we stopped burning incense and pouring out libations to the queen of heaven we have been in need of everything and have perished by the sword and famine. And the women added, "When we offered incense and poured libations to the queen of heaven, didn't our husbands know that we made sacrificial cakes decorated with her image?"

²⁰ Jeremiah then answered all the people, men and women, who had told him this: ²¹ "Is it not better that Yahweh remembered the incense you burned in the towns of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem, you, your fathers, your kings, princes, and all the people?"

Do you think it slipped his memory? ²² Yahweh could no longer bear the sight of your evil-doing and the detestable things you did. That is why your land has become the curse, the desolate waste without inhabitants that it is today!

²⁴ Jeremiah then addressed all the people especially the women, "Listen to Yahweh's message: ²⁵ This is what Yahweh the God of hosts and the God of Israel says: You and your wives think that what you say with your lips becomes an obligation you must fulfill. You say: 'We shall keep the vows we have made to burn incense and pour out wine to the queen of heaven.' Go ahead! Keep your vows and do

Invasion of Egypt

¹³ This is the message Yahweh gave to the prophet Jeremiah about the coming of Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, who was to attack Egypt:

¹⁴ "Announce this in Egypt, and proclaim it in Migdol, Memphis and Tahpanhes. Say to them:

Take your posts; prepare for the worst!
The sword has devoured your neighbours.

¹⁵ Why has Apis fled?

Your black bull god did not make a stand!

Why? Because Yahweh thrust him down

¹⁶ and caused him to stumble and fall.

Then they said to each other:

'Get up, let us go back to our people,
to the land of our birth,
away from the devouring sword.'

¹⁷ Pharaoh, king of Egypt, will be called "The noisy one who lets his chance slip by."

¹⁸ As surely as I live – says the King whose name is Yahweh Sabaoth –
one will come who is like Tabor, like Carmel above the sea.

¹⁹ Pack your belongings ready for exile,
you who live in Egypt,
for Memphis will be laid waste,
without inhabitants and desolate.

²⁰ Egypt is a beautiful heifer, but a gadfly from the north has come upon her.

²¹ The mercenaries in her ranks are like fattened calves;
but they too have fled failing to stand their ground, for the day of their calamity has come,
the time of their punishment.

²² She makes a sound like a fleeing serpent

as her enemies advance in force, coming against her with axes,
like loggers cutting down trees.

²³ Dense though her forest be,
they will raze it – says Yahweh.
They are beyond number,
more numerous than locusts.

²⁴ The daughter of Egypt will be abased, handed over to the people of the north."

²⁵ Yahweh Sabaoth, the God of Israel, has said: "I will punish Amon of Thebes, and Egypt with her gods and kings, Pharaoh and those who trust in him. ²⁶ I will hand them over to those who seek their lives, to Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, and his ministers. Later, however, Egypt will be inhabited again as in times past – it is Yahweh who says so.

²⁷ But fear not, my servant Jacob; be not dismayed, O Israel. I will deliver you from a distant land, your descendants from their place of exile. Jacob will again find rest, and no one will make him afraid.

²⁸ Fear not, Jacob my servant, for I am with you – Yahweh speaks – I will make an end of the nations among which I scattered you, but I will spare you. I will discipline you, though with justice; I will not let you go unpunished.

Against the Philistines

47 ¹ This is Yahweh's word that came to the prophet Jeremiah concerning the Philistines before Pharaoh attacked Gaza.

² Thus says Yahweh:

"Look, waters rise from the north;
soon they will become a raging flood overflowing the land and all it contains,
the towns and their inhabitants.
All dwellers in the land will wail

³ at the sound of the hooves of stamping steeds,
the rattle of chariots, the rumbling of wheels.

Fathers forget their children,
as their hands fall limp.

⁴ The day of ruin has come upon the Philistines;

Tyre and Sidon, the last of their allies,
are cut off from them.

Yahweh is set to destroy the Philistines,
the remnant from the coasts of Caphtor.

⁵ Gaza is shaved bald,
Ashkelon has perished.
O remnant in the valley,
how long will you gash yourselves?

⁶ O sword of Yahweh,
how long before you rest?
Return to your scabbard;
stop and keep still!

⁷ But how can it rest,
when it is Yahweh who commanded it to attack Ashkelon and the seacoast?"

Against Moab

48 ¹ Concerning Moab. Yahweh the God of Israel, says this:

"Woe to Nebo, for it is laid waste.
Kiriathaim is captured and disgraced;
the fortress is shattered and abased.

² No more will Moab be praised;

men in Heshbon are plotting her downfall:

'Let us put an end to that nation!'

You, too, Madmen, will be subdued;
behind you stalks the sword.

³ Listen, a cry from Horonaim – a cry of ruin and destruction!

⁴ Moab is destroyed;
her cry is heard as far as Zoar.

⁵ Her little ones go up the way to Lulith, weeping bitterly as they make the ascent.
On the descent to Horonaim
the cry of destruction is still heard.

⁶ Flee, run for your lives,
like the wild asses in the desert.

⁷ Since you trusted in your deeds and riches,

you also will be captured.
Chemosh will go into exile,
together with her priests and officials.

⁸ Upon every city the destroyer comes,
and not a single city escapes.

The valley is despoiled,
the plain plundered,
as Yahweh has declared.

⁹ Bury Moab for she has perished!

Her cities will become desolate, with no inhabitant left.

¹⁰ A curse be on him who is lax in performing the work of Yahweh! A curse be on him who holds back his sword from shedding blood!

¹¹ From his youth Moab has lived at ease resting complacently upon lees, never having gone into exile,
never having been decanted;
so she kept her own flavor as wine,
her aroma remained the same.

¹² And so the day will come – Yahweh says – when I will send decanters to her. They will empty her flasks and break her jars. ¹³ Then Moab will be ashamed of Chemosh, as Israel has been ashamed of Bethel, in which they put their trust.

¹⁴ How can you say, 'We are heroes and valiant men of war?' ¹⁵ Moab will be destroyed, her towns shattered; her finest young men will be slaughtered – it is the King who speaks,
whose name is Yahweh Sabaoth.

¹⁶ Moab's ruin is near at hand;
her downfall comes at top speed.

¹⁷ All you her neighbours, mourn for her,
all you who knew her well;
say, 'How the mighty scepter is broken,
the glorious rod!'

¹⁸ Come down from glory, sit on the parched ground,
all you who dwell in Dibon;

Moab's destroyer has come against you,

he has destroyed your stronghold.

¹⁹ Stand by the way and watch closely,
you who dwell in Aroer;
ask the men who flee, the women who escape,

ask them what has happened.

²⁰ Moab is shamed, oh, yes, destroyed;
howl and cry out for her.

Announce it by the Armon that Moab is ruined.

²¹ Judgment has come on the tableland: on Holon, Jahzah and Mephaath, ²² on Dibon,
Nebo and Beth-diblathaim, ²³ on Kiriathaim, Beth-gamul and Bethmeon, ²⁴ on Kerieth and Bozrah, on all the cities of Moab, far and near.
²⁵ The horn of Moab is cut off and her arm broken – it is Yahweh who speaks.

²⁶ Make her drunk! Because she magnified herself against Yahweh, Moab will wallow in her vomit and become a laughingstock in turn.

²⁷ Was not Israel a laughingstock to you? Was she found among thieves, that whenever you speak of her you wag your head?

²⁸ Leave the cities and dwell in the rocky cliffs,

O inhabitants of Moab.

Learn from the dove that makes its nest out of reach on the edge of a cliff.

²⁹ We have heard of the pride of Moab, of her loftiness and arrogance,
of the haughtiness of her heart.

³⁰ Yahweh says: I know her insolence;
her words are false,
her deeds are vain.

³¹ And so I wail for Moab;
for the whole of Moab I moan;
for the men of Kir-heres I mourn.

³² O vineyard of Sibmah,
I weep for you more than for Jazer.
Your branches spread as far as the sea,
all the way to the sea of Jazer.
The destroyer has fallen on your harvest and your vintage.

³³ Jubilation is at an end in the fruit gardens of Moab;
the vintage shout of joy is not heard, for I have drained the wine from the wine vats.

³⁴ The cry of Heshbon and Elealeh is heard as far as Jahaz. From Zoar to Horonaim and Eglath-shelishiyah, their lament is heard, for even the waters of Nimrim have become desolate.

³⁵ Yahweh says: I will bring to an end any man in Moab who offers sacrifice on the high place and burns incense to his gods.

³⁶ And that is why my heart, like a flute, sobs for Moab, moans for the men of Kir-heres whose accumulated riches have all perished.

³⁷ Every head is shorn, every beard cut off; gashes are on their hands, sackcloth covers their loins. ³⁸ There is nothing but lamentation on all the housetops and in the public squares of Moab, for I have shattered her like a vessel that no one wants – says Yahweh.

³⁹ What terror has seized Moab, what wailing! Oh, how she has turned back in shame! Moab has become a laughingstock and a horror to her neighbors.

⁴⁰ For thus says Yahweh: Look, an eagle is swooping down, spreading its wings over Moab.

⁴¹ The towns will be captured, the strongholds seized.

The heart of Moab's warriors on that day will be like the heart of a woman in travail.

⁴² Moab will be destroyed as a nation because she defied the Lord.

⁴³ Terror, pit, and snare be upon you, O people of Moab – says Yahweh.

⁴⁴ He who flees from terror will fall into the pit; he who climbs out of the pit will be caught in the snare; for I will let this happen to Moab in the year of her punishment – says Yahweh.

⁴⁵ Fugitives stop in the shadow of Heshbon, for a fire has gone from the house of Sihon, burning Moab's skull and her boasters' crown.

⁴⁶ Woe to you, Moab, people of Chemosh who suffer calamity!
Your sons are taken into exile,
your daughters into captivity.

⁴⁷ But in the days to come I will restore the fortunes of Moab – Yahweh declares."

The judgment on Moab ends here.

Against Ammon

49 ¹ Concerning the Ammonites. Yahweh says this:

"Has Israel no sons?
Has she no heir?
Why then has Milcom disinherited Gad,
why have his people settled in its cities?

² But the days are coming
– says Yahweh –
when I will sound the battle alarm against Rabbah of the Ammonites.
It will become a heap of ruins,
its villages destroyed by fire.
Then Israel will dispossess those who had dispossessed her
– Yahweh says.

³ Wail, Heshbon, for the destroyer marches!

Howl, inhabitants of Rabbah!
Put on sackcloth, lament,

run to and fro, gashing yourselves;
for Milcom goes into exile,
along with his priests and officials.

⁴ Why boast of your valleys, your valleys flowing with fruit,
O faithless daughter,
trusting in your riches and saying,
'Who will dare attack me?'

⁵ Look, I will bring terror upon you;
you will be driven away,
everyone making his own way,
with no one to gather the fugitives.

⁶ Yet I will restore the fortunes of the Ammonites later on.
It is Yahweh Sabaoth who speaks."

Against Edom

⁷ Concerning Edom, this is what Yahweh says:

"Is there no more wisdom left in Teman
Has counsel perished from the prudent?
Has their understanding decayed?

⁸ Flee or hide in dark caves,
you inhabitants of Dedan,
for I will bring destruction upon Esau
when I come to punish him.

⁹ If grape pickers worked in your vineyard,
would they not leave gleanings behind?
If thieves came to you at night, would they not steal only as much as they want?

¹⁰ But I will strip Esau bare;
his hiding places I will uncover.
His relatives, children and neighbours will perish, and he will be no more.

¹¹ Leave your widows and orphans behind,
and rest assured I will keep them alive."

¹² For thus says Yahweh: "Even those no sentenced to drink the cup must drink it. Why then should you go unpunished? You, too shall drink! ¹³ By my own self have I sworn says Yahweh: Bozrah shall become an object of horror and disgrace, a desolation and a curse. All her towns and cities shall be ruins
forever."

¹⁴ I have received a message from Yahweh,
a herald has been sent among the nations:

"Assemble! Prepare for battle!
March against these people!

¹⁵ Look, I will reduce you among the nations,
make you despised among humankind.

¹⁶ The terror that you inspire and your pride have deceived you,
you who live in the crags,
on the rocky heights of the hill.
Though you build your nest as high as the eagle's.

I will bring you down from there –
it is Yahweh who speaks.

¹⁷ Edom will become a horror, shocking every passerby who will catch his breath at the sight of her wounds. ¹⁸ As when Sodom, Gomorrah, and their neighbouring towns were overthrown, no man shall dwell or visit there – thus Yahweh proclaims.

¹⁹ As when a lion comes from the thicket of Jordan to a rich feeding ground, so I, in an instant, will drive Edom from its land. Whom will I choose for this task? Who is like me and can call me to account? What shepherd can stand against me?

²⁰ Therefore hear Yahweh's plan against Edom, against those who live in Teman. They will be dragged away, even the smallest sheep; their pasture will be destroyed on account of
them.

²¹ The earth will tremble at the sound of their fall; to the Sea of Reeds their cry will resound.

²² Look! An eagle will soar and spread its wings over Bozrah. On that day the heart of Edom's warriors will pound like the heart of a woman in labour."

About the Syrians cities

²³ Message concerning Damascus:

"Hamath and Arpad are confused,
having heard bad news.

Their hearts are faint with fear
like the waters of a troubled sea.

²⁴ Damascus has become feeble and turns to flee in panic, gripped by anguish and pain,
like a woman in travail.

²⁵ How the renowned city is forsaken,
the city of delight!

²⁶ Her young men will fall in the streets,
her soldiers will be silenced on that day.
Yahweh declares:

²⁷ I will set fire to the walls of Damascus;
it will consume Ben-Hadad's fortresses."

Against the Arabic tribes

²⁸ A message concerning Kedar and the kingdoms of Hazor, which Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon attacked. This is what Yahweh says:

"Arise and attack Kedar, destroy the people of the east!

²⁹ Their tents and flocks will be taken away,
their goods and camels carried off
as men shout, 'Terror on every side!'

³⁰ Flee, dwell in deep caves, you who live in Hazor – says Yahweh.
For Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon has devised a plot against you.

³¹ Arise and attack a nation at ease,
which lives in confidence,
a nation that has neither bars nor gates,
a people that dwells alone complacently.

³² Their camels will become plunder, their large herds will be spoils;
I will scatter to the winds
those who are in far-off places;
I will bring disaster
on them from every side.

³³ Hazor will be a jackal's haunt, forever a wasteland uninhabited by man,
unvisited by anyone."

Against Elam

³⁴ This is the Word of Yahweh against Elam, which came to the prophet Jeremiah at the beginning of the reign of Zedekiah, king of Judah. ³⁵ Yahweh Sabaoth says this:

"See, I will break the bow of Elam, the mainstay of their might. ³⁶ I will bring the four winds against her from the four quarters of the heavens, and there will be no nation on earth to which Elam's exiles will not be dispersed.

³⁷ I will shatter Elam before their foes before those who seek their lives. I will bring disaster upon them, even my fierce anger. I will pursue them with the sword until I have made an end of them.

³⁸ I will set my throne in Elam and destroy her king and officials. ³⁹ Yet I will restore the fortunes of Elam in the days to come – says
Yahweh."

Against Babylon

50 ¹ This is the word Yahweh spoke against Babylon and the land of the Chaldeans, through the prophet Jeremiah:

² "Do not hide this, but announce among the nations that Babylon is taken, Bel confounded, Merodach dismayed; her images are put to shame, her idols destroyed.

³ A people from the north marches against her, set to turn her into a wasteland abandoned by both man and beast.

⁴ In those days – declares Yahweh – the people of Israel and Judah will come in tears to seek their God Yahweh.

⁵ Their faces turned toward Zion, they will ask the way to it. They will come and say, 'Let us join ourselves to the Lord in an everlasting covenant never to be forgotten.'

⁶ My people were lost sheep misled by their shepherds and left to roam on the mountains. They wandered from hill to hill and lost the way to their fold.

⁷ They were devoured by enemies who chanced upon them and said, 'We have no guilt. This is their due for they sinned against Yahweh, their true shepherd and hope of their fathers.'

⁸ Flee from Babylon, leave the land of the Chaldeans, be like the rams that lead the flock!

⁹ For I will stir up nations from the north to march against Babylon. Their arrows are like those of skilled warriors, that never return empty-handed; and Babylon will be captured.

¹⁰ Chaldea will be plundered, and the plunderers will be filled.

¹¹ Rejoice as long as you can,
you plunderers of my inheritance!
Frolic like heifers threshing grain,
and neigh like stallions!

¹² But your mother will be disgraced;
she will be the least of the nations,
laid waste and a desert.

¹³ Yahweh's fury will leave her desolate, an empty solitude, uninhabited.
Every passerby will be horrified at the sight of the wounds of Babylon.

¹⁴ Take your posts around the city,
all you who bend the bow.

Shoot at her, spare no arrows,
for great is her iniquity.

¹⁵ Raise the war cry!

Now she surrenders!

Her walls are torn down, her towers fallen.

Since this is Yahweh's vengeance, take revenge on her;
do to her as she has done to others.

¹⁶ Cut off the sower from Babylon, and the reaper with his sickle at harvest time.

Escape from the oppressor's sword;
let everyone return to his own people,
let everyone flee to his own land.

¹⁷ Israel was a straying sheep which lions pursued. First to devour her was the Assyrian; and the last to crush her bones was Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon.

¹⁸ Therefore Yahweh, God of Israel, says:
I will punish the king of Babylon and his land,
as once I punished the king of Assyria.

¹⁹ But I will return Israel to her fold, to feed on Bashan and Carmel and on Mount Ephraim and Gilead, till she has her fill.

²⁰ In those days, Yahweh says, a search will be made for Israel's guilt, but none will be found, and for the sins of Judah, and none will be found; for I will forgive the remnant whose lives I have spared.

²¹ Attack the land of Merathaim, and those who live in Pekod; pursue and kill them, says Yahweh; do all as I have commanded. ²² Battle alarm is in the land, the alarm of great destruction. ²³ How broken and shattered is the hammer of the whole earth! How horrifying has Babylon become among the nations!

²⁴ You ensnared yourself, O Babylon, and were caught before you knew it; you were found out and seized because you challenged Yahweh. ²⁵ Yahweh has opened his armory, brought out the arms of his fury, for Yahweh
Sabaoth has work to do in the land of Chaldea.

²⁶ Come against her from every side; break open her granaries; pile her up like heaps of grain, destroy her, leaving no remnant. ²⁷ Slay all her oxen, down to the slaughter-house with them! Woe to them! Their day has come, the time for their chastisement.

²⁸ Listen! Fugitives and refugees from the land of Babylon have come to announce in Zion Yahweh's vengeance for his temple.

²⁹ Surround Babylon with archers, and leave

8. Gen 19, 15; Is 48, 20; Zac 2, 10

+ Chapters 50 and 51 have the oracles against Babylon: various discourses dealing with the fall of Babylon and the return of the exiles.

You were my hammer (chapter 51:20). A century before, Isaiah saw in Assur the rod with which God would punish the nations. But Assur was destroyed by Babylon which became the hammer with which Yahweh was beating the nations and destroyed them. After blindly fulfilling God's will against Judah, Babylon would also head towards its own collapse: fifty years later, it would be destroyed by the Persians.

Jeremiah urges us not to fear the great powers of today's world. Great nations have emerged to destroy Christianity which had become complacent and asleep; revolutions and persecutions have destroyed the fragile structures in which Christians had placed their trust.

But, before the next generation, another giant appears and overcomes the first, while the church, seemingly despoiled and poorer, rises with renewed strength.

When we finish reading Jeremiah, we can turn to the 40th chapter of Isaiah: the small land of Judah will come back to life while the great empires of Assyria and Babylon will leave behind nothing but ruins.

her no way of escape. Repay her as her deeds deserve; do to her as she has done to others. Give her the due for her defiance of Yahweh, the Holy One of Israel.

³⁰ That day her warriors and young men as well will fall and lie in silence. ³¹ I am against you, arrogant one! It is Yahweh Sabaoth who speaks – the time to punish you has come.

³² The arrogant one will stumble; no one will help her up. In her towns I will kindle a fire that will consume everything around.

³⁵ A sword upon the Chaldeans, upon the people of Babylon, her princes and sages! ³⁶ A sword upon her false prophets: may they lose their wits! A sword upon her warriors: may they tremble in terror! ³⁷ A sword upon her mercenaries: may they become women!

A sword upon her treasures: may they be plundered! ³⁸ A sword upon her waters: may they dry up! For hers is a land of idols that go mad with terrors.

³⁹ So, desert beasts will live there; there will the owl and ostrich dwell. From generation to generation, the land will never be inhabited again. ⁴⁰ As when God overturned Sodom and Gomorrah with their neighbours, no man will live there any more, no one will make his home there again.

⁴³ Your king has heard news of them, and his hands hang limp. Anguish has gripped him, and pain as that of a woman in travail.

⁴⁴ As a lion comes from the thicket of Jordan to a rich feeding ground, so I, in an instant, will drive them off, and whom I choose I will establish there. For who is like me? And who can call me to account? What shepherd can stand against me?

⁴⁵ Therefore hear Yahweh's plans against Babylon, against the land of the Chaldeans: they will be dragged away, even the smallest sheep, their pasture will be destroyed on account of them.

⁴⁶ The earth quakes at the cry 'Babylon is captured!' Among the nations the outcry is heard."

The Lord against Babylon

51 ¹ This is what Yahweh says: "I will stir up a devastating wind against Babylon and the Chaldeans.

² I will send foreigners to Babylon to winnow her and lay waste her land.

On the day of her affliction they will besiege her from all sides.

³ Let not her archers bend their bows, let them not stand up in their armor.

Spare not her young men; destroy the host of her warriors.

⁴ They will fall fatally wounded in the streets of Babylon.

⁵ For Israel and Judah have not been forgotten

by their God, Yahweh Sabaoth, though their land is guilt-ridden before the Holy One of Israel.

⁶ Save your lives, flee from Babylon! Partake not of her punishment;

this is a time of Yahweh's vengeance, a time of his recompense to her.

⁷ Babylon was a golden cup in Yahweh's hand, a cup which made the whole earth drunk. The nations drank her wine, and they have become mad. ⁸ Babylon's fall is sudden.

Wail for her, wail!

Bring balm for her wounds, if she could yet be healed.

⁹ 'We have tried to heal Babylon, but she is beyond healing.

Let us go back, each to his own land, and leave her to her judgment which rises up to heaven.'

¹⁰ Yahweh has defended our rights, come, let us declare in Zion what our God Yahweh has done.

¹¹ Sharpen the arrows, take up the shields!

Yahweh has aroused Media's kings in his resolve to destroy Babylon.

This is Yahweh's vengeance, vengeance for his temple.

¹² Raise a flag on the walls of Babylon, and make the watch strong.

Post guards, prepare an ambush!

Yahweh will carry out his purpose, his words against the people of Babylon.

¹³ You who dwell by mighty waters,

you who are rich in treasures,
this is your end; the time
for you to be cut off has come.

¹⁴ Yahweh Sabaoth has sworn:
Surely I will fill you with men, thick as a swarm of locusts;
they will exult over you and raise the vintage shout.

Hymn

¹⁵ He made the earth by his power, founded the world by his wisdom,
spread out the sky by his discernment.

¹⁶ When he thunders, the heaven roars;
from the earth he makes clouds rise;
he sends lightning with the rain,
and from his vaults brings out the wind.

¹⁷ Men stand stupefied at this;
artisans blush, for the idols they made have no life and are a fraud.

¹⁸ They are worthless, ridiculous;
when judgment comes they will perish.

¹⁹ The Portion of Jacob is not like them,
for he is the creator of all;
Yahweh Sabaoth is his name,
and his heritage is Israel.

The hammer of Yahweh

²⁰ You were my hammer, my weapon of war. With you I wrecked nations, with you I demolished kingdoms.

²¹ With you I wrecked horse and rider, chariot and charioteer. ²² With you I wrecked man and woman, youth and aged, young man and maiden.

²³ With you I wrecked shepherd and flock, farmer and draft animal, rulers and officials.

²⁴ But now I will repay Babylon and those who dwell in Chaldea for the wrong they did to Zion. ²⁵ I am against you, ravaging mountain, ravager of the whole earth! It is Yahweh who speaks.

I will lay my hands on you, roll you down over the crags, and make you a parched, eroded mountain. ²⁶ No cornerstone will be taken from you, or foundation stone; forever shall you be a ruins, Yahweh says.

²⁷ Raise a signal on the earth, among the nations blow the trumpet. Prepare the nations for war, summon the kingdoms to battle Ararat, Minni and Ashkenaz. Marshal a great force against her; bring up the cavalry, swarming and bristling.

²⁸ Prepare the nations to battle her, the Medes with their kings, their governors and officials, all the countries they rule.

²⁹ The earth trembles and writhes as Yahweh carries out his process of turning the land of Babylon into a desert where no one lives.

³⁰ Her warriors have ceased to fight; they cower in their strongholds. Their strength is dried up, their homes are burned and their gates broken.

³¹ One after another couriers run to the king, bringing news that his entire city is fallen: ³² The fords have been seized, the fortresses set afire, and all the warriors terrified.
³³ Yahweh Sabaoth, God of Israel, says: Babylon is like a threshing floor at the time it is trodden. A little while, and the time of the harvest grain will come for her."

³⁴ The people of Zion said: Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, has consumed and routed me. He has left me as an empty vessel. Like a dragon he has swallowed me, and filled his belly; he cast me out of my Eden.

³⁵ May the violence done to my flesh be upon Babylon,' says the city of Zion. 'May my blood be upon the Chaldeans,' says Jerusalem.

³⁶ Yahweh says to his people: "See now, I defend your cause and avenge you. I will dry up her sea and drain her springs. ³⁷ Babylon shall become a heap of ruins, a haunt of jackals, an object of horror and derision, a place where no one lives.

³⁸ Her people will roar like lions; they will growl like lion cubs. ³⁹ But while they are feverish, I will prepare a drink for them and make them drunk till they grow drowsy and fall into eternal sleep, never to wake up again.

⁴⁰ I will bring them down like lambs to the slaughter, like goats and rams.

⁴¹ How has Babylon been seized, the glory of the world taken captive! How has Babylon become a horror among nations!

⁴² The sea has risen over Babylon and covered her with its roaring waves. ⁴³ Her cities have become desolate, a land of drought and a desert, a land where no one dwells, a land through which no man travels.

⁴⁴ I will punish Bel in Babylon and make him belch out what he devoured. No longer will nations stream to him. The wall of Babylon has fallen.

⁴⁵ My people, come out of her! Run for your lives! Run from Yahweh's fierce anger.

⁴⁶ Do not lose heart or be afraid when rumors are heard, when rumors come year after year, rumors of violence and disaster, intrigues of ruler against ruler.

⁴⁷ The time will surely come when I will punish the idols of Babylon; her land will be put to shame when all around her lie slain.

⁴⁸ Then heaven and earth and all therein will rejoice over Babylon, for out of the north the destroyers will come to attack her – it is Yahweh who speaks.

⁴⁹ Babylon must fall for the slain of Israel, just as the slain of all the earth have fallen because of Babylon.

⁵⁰ You who have escaped the sword, leave and do not linger. Remember Yahweh from this far country and think of Jerusalem:

⁵¹ 'We have been put to shame, dishonour has covered our faces; because aliens have entered the holy places of Yahweh's house.'

⁵² But days will come – Yahweh declares – when I will punish her idols; the wounded will groan all over her land. ⁵³ Though Babylon mount skyward, though she fortify her heights, the mere threat of the destroyers I send is enough to make her terrified.

⁵⁴ Listen! Loud cries from Babylon, the sound of terrible destruction from the land of the Chaldeans! ⁵⁵ That is Yahweh laying waste the city, silencing her monstrous din.

Well may her waves roar and their clamor be heard afar! ⁵⁶ Upon Babylon the destroyer has come; her warriors are captured, their bows are broken.

For Yahweh is a God who rewards, who repays her enemies in full. ⁵⁷ I will make her rulers and sages drunk, her governors, her officers and warriors; they will sleep the sleep of death and never awake, says the King whose name is Yahweh Sabaoth.

⁵⁸ Yahweh Sabaoth says this: The wide ramparts of Babylon will be razed to the ground, her high gates burned down. The people's labour will go to naught; the nation's toil will end in fire."

The written oracle thrown into the river

⁵⁹ This is the message Jeremiah gave to Seraiah, son of Neriah who is Mahseiah's son, when he went to Babylon at the command of Zedekiah, who was then in the fourth year of his reign as king of Judah.

⁶⁰ Jeremiah had written on a scroll the entire disaster that was to befall Babylon – all these words recorded here.

⁶¹ Jeremiah then said to Seraiah, "When you get to Babylon, see that you read all these words aloud. ⁶² Then say: 'Yahweh, you yourself have proclaimed that this place will be destroyed, that neither man nor beast will ever live here again, for it will remain desolate forever.'

⁶³ When you finish reading this scroll, tie a stone to it and throw it into the Euphrates. ⁶⁴ Then say: "So will Babylon sink and rise no more because of the disaster I will bring upon her."

Here end the words of Jeremiah.

The fall of Jerusalem

52 ¹ Zedekiah was twenty-one years old when he became king and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem. His mother, Hamutal by name, was the daughter of Jeremiah from Libnah.

² He did evil in the sight of Yahweh just as Jehoiakim had done. ³ All that happened in Jerusalem and Judah came about because of Yahweh's anger until the day when he drove them out of his sight.

Zedekiah rebelled against the king of Babylon; ⁴ so in the ninth year of Zedekiah's reign, on the tenth day of the tenth month, Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon marched with his entire army and laid siege to Jerusalem. They camped outside the city and built siege works all around it. ⁵ The city was under siege up to the eleventh year of Zedekiah.

⁹ The Chaldeans seized the king and led him away to Riblah in the territory of Hamath and there the king of Babylon passed sentence on him. There at Riblah, the king of Babylon slaughtered the sons of Zedekiah in his presence and also killed all the officials of Judah.

¹² On the tenth day of the fifth month in the nineteenth year of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, Nebuzaradan commander of the bodyguard and servant of the king of Babylon, entered Jerusalem and set fire to the House of Yahweh and the royal palace as well as to all the houses in Jerusalem. ¹³ He also burned every important building. ¹⁴ The Chaldean army under the commander of the bodyguard completely demolished all the walls around Jerusalem.

¹⁶ But Nebuzaradan left behind those among the very poor who were capable of working in vineyards and cultivating the soil.

¹⁸ They also took the pots, shovels, wick trimmers, the spoons and all the bronze articles used in the temple service. ¹⁹ The commander of the bodyguard took the basins, censers, sprinkling bowls, pots, lampstands, ladles and bowls – all that was made of gold or silver.

²⁰ The two pillars, the Sea and the twelve bronze bulls underneath it, the movable stands which King Solomon had made for the House of Yahweh – all this bronze was of an immeasurable weight.

²¹ The pillars were each eighteen cubits high with a circumference of twelve cubits. Each had a thickness of four fingers and was hollow. ²² On the top of each pillar was a bronze capital five cubits high and above this and around the capital was filigree work with pomegranates in bronze. ²³ Ninety-six pomegranates hung down and in all the filigree decoration there was a total of a hundred pomegranates.

²⁴ The commander of the bodyguard took captive Seraiah the chief priest and Zephaniah the next priest in rank, as well as three door-keepers.

³¹ On the 25th day of the 12th month in the 37th year of the exile of Jehoiakim king of Judah, Evil-merodach king of Babylon, in the year he came to the throne pardoned Jehoiakim king of Judah and released him from prison. ³² He spoke kindly to him and gave him more honourable treatment than the other kings who were with him in Babylon. ³³ Jehoiakim put aside his prisoner's garment and for the rest of his life ate at the king's table.

³⁴ Day by day for as long as he lived he was maintained by the king of Babylon.

WHEN EVERYTHING IS FALLING APART

"A third of the people will die by plague and famine; another by the sword, and I will scatter the rest everywhere; these I will also pursue and pour out my anger on them." These are God's words with which Ezekiel greeted the destruction of the holy people. Do they perhaps also apply to the present crisis in the Church?

Within a few years the Church has lost in many countries its imposing facade of well attended temples and rituals, a practising majority, a faithful clergy present everywhere, the security of unquestioned faith and universal obedience to the centre, Rome. All this is collapsing. Many people we hoped that the renewal begun at the Council would produce quick results. Yet, every day that which most seemed to assure the future is disappearing.

Other words from Ezekiel come to mind: "I will not allow you to be a people like the rest, rather I will rule over you by force. I will gather you from among the people and I will confront you. You will be under my authority." Could God be calling on destructive forces? Could God be the one who is breaking down the human inventions we believed to be the Church? Of course, something will remain, a remnant as Ezekiel puts it, that is to say, those whose faith will have been purified in trial and in whom the Holy Spirit will act with more freedom.

What was just said is enough to help us understand the value of the book of Ezekiel for today. He was God's witness in the final years of the kingdom of Judah, though living among these exiled in Babylon.

We will surely be surprised by the language he attributes to God who is always threatening and seems to delight in his people's predicament and agony, thus venting his resentment and his jealousy. However, would it be possible to speak about love without mentioning jealousy and violence?

We also find jealousy and violence when God comes to conquer sinful people. The husband goes looking for his unfaithful wife among her lovers and brings her back by force. Ezekiel's excessive words must not make us forget other pages of the Bible where God expresses himself tenderly; but we cannot ignore them either, under the pretext that God is a good daddy. We may have experienced in our own flesh the misery of the sinner challenging God: Ezekiel's role was to expose the bitterness of sin and the anger of God.

THE BOOK OF EZEKIEL

Ezekiel may have been a young priest taken to Chaldea among the ten thousand exiles after the first siege of Jerusalem in 598 (see 2 Kgs 24:14). There he was called by God as he tells us (chapters 1 and 2).

The first part of his book (chapters 1-24) contains his discourses announcing the total destruction of his country.

After the prophecies against the foreign nations, we have the third part of the book, the promises to the exiles, because God does not want his people to die.

We know of races that have disappeared and of immigrants who forget their land because they find work in another country. In this way the Jewish people might well have disappeared after the crisis in which Jerusalem was devastated. While they were in Babylon, exiled in a much more prosperous country, the older people yearned for their homeland, while the young only ought of taking advantage of their new situation. But Ezekiel, with his challenging teaching, kept forming the consciences of those who, one day, would return to Judea to build the new kingdom of God (chapters 33-39).

o 1 ¹ On the fifth day of the fourth month of the thirtieth year when I was with the exiles by the river Kebar, the heavens opened and I had visions from Yahweh.

² On the fifth of the month (it was the fifth year of the exile of King Jehoiakim)³ the word of Yahweh came to Ezekiel, son of Buzi, the priest, in the land of the Chaldeans by the banks of the Kebar.

There the hand of Yahweh was upon me.

Ezekiel sees the Glory of Yahweh

+ ⁴ I looked: a windstorm came from the north bringing a great cloud. A fiery light inside it lit up all around it while at the centre there was something like glowing metal.

⁵ In the centre were what appeared to be four creatures with human form; ⁶ but each had four faces and four wings. ⁷ Their legs were straight and their feet were like those of a calf, shining like polished bronze. ⁸ Under their wings on their four sides they had human hands.

⁹ The wings of one touched those of the other. Their faces did not turn as they advanced, because they were able to go forward in any of the four directions of their faces. ¹⁰ I saw they had human faces; but each one also had the face of a lion on the right, and on the left the face of an ox, and all four had the face of an eagle. ¹¹ Their wings were spread upwards. Each had two wings meeting those of its neighbour and two covering its body; having four faces they could advance in any of the four directions. ¹² Wherever the spirit would go, they went without turning as they went.

¹³ Between these creatures could be seen glowing coals like torches moving between them. The fire blazed and flashed from thunderbolts. ¹⁴ The creatures ran to and fro like thunderbolts.

¹⁵ While I looked at the creatures, I saw a wheel on the ground beside each of them, ¹⁶ glittering as if made of chrysolite. The four wheels had the same shape: indeed each was double – two wheels placed crosswise, ¹⁷ so they could follow any of the four

o The book begins with two different introductions. Nobody knows the meaning of the year thirty in the first verse; it may be a copyist's mistake. The fifth year of Jehoiakim bring us to 594 before Christ.

Then the hand of Yahweh was upon me. This means that Ezekiel was drawn into ecstasy: as if having left his body, he mysteriously met with God. He learned something of God's mysterious being, received his mission and was transformed into another man, all at the same time.

+ A windstorm came from the North. Ezekiel was overwhelmed by the vivid images accompanying God's words. We will find the vision of the Chariot of Yahweh again in chapter 10 where Yahweh is shown leaving his Temple in Jerusalem to live in Babylon among the exiles.

People of those days thought that their gods were confined to specific sanctuaries and places. Thus, the Jews thought that Yahweh was not to be found outside Palestine. Those exiled in Babylon, far from their homeland and their Temple where they could worship God, were soon given to despair. They felt that God had abandoned them and that only the people who stayed behind in their country could enjoy God's care.

Precisely for that reason, Yahweh teaches: Ezekiel that though he dwells in the temple of Jerusalem he is not less present in distant Babylon. Yahweh follows his people and dwells among them

In a vision Ezekiel sees four creatures with directions without turning as they went.¹⁸ Their rims were lofty and looked terrifying, and the four of them were covered with eyes all the way round.

¹⁹ When the creatures moved forward the wheels moved along beside them and when the creatures rose from the ground the wheels rose, too.

²⁰ Wherever the spirit was to go, there the creatures went and the wheels went with them; they moved and rose up together, for the spirit of the creatures was also in the wheels.

²¹ When the creatures moved forward they did, too, stopping when they stopped, rising above the ground when they did, for the spirit of the creatures was in the wheels.

²² Over the heads of the creatures was a kind of platform; it had the imposing appearance of crystal and was arched over their heads.

²³ Under the platform their wings were straight, one parallel to the other. Each creature had two that covered its body.²⁴ I heard the noise of their wings when they moved, similar to the roar of many waters, similar to the voice of the Most High, the noise of a multitude or of a camp. When they were not moving they lowered their wings.

²⁵ I heard a noise above the platform over their heads.²⁶ Above it was a throne resembling a sapphire and high on this throne was a figure similar to that of a man. Then I saw a light as of glowing bronze as if fire enveloped him.

²⁷ From his waist upwards, and from his waist downwards it was as if fire gave radiance around him,²⁸ and the surrounding light was like a rainbow in the clouds after a day of rain. This vision was the likeness of Yahweh's Glory. On seeing it I fell on my face and then I heard a voice speaking.

Ezekiel receives his mission

2 ¹ He said to me, "Son of man, stand up for I am about to speak you."² A spirit came upon me as he spoke and kept me standing and then I heard him speak,

³ "Son of man, I am sending you to the Israelites, to a people who have rebelled against me; they and their fathers have sinned against me to this day.⁴ Now I am sending you to these defiant and stubborn people to tell them 'this is the Lord Yahweh's word.'

⁵ So, whether they listen or not this set of rebels will know there is a prophet among them.⁶ But you, son of man, do not fear them or what they say, for they will be as thorns for you and you will be sitting on a nest of scorpions. Don't be afraid of their words when you are facing this set of rebels.⁷ Tell them what I say whether they choose to listen or not, for they are rebels.⁸ Listen then, son of man, to what I say and don't be a rebel among rebels. Open your mouth and take in what I'm about to say."

four faces and four wings. This suggests – in images of those times – the greatness of God. In Chaldean palaces there were magnificent statues of fantastic beings called "Cherubs" combining features of the strongest of beings: man, the eagle, the lion and the bull. Here, they become impetuous living creatures surrounding and protecting the mystery of God. The intersecting wheels moving in every direction show God's action throughout the universe. They have eyes which see everything and are in constant movement. In Rev 4, the apostle John will use images from this vision.

Above the creatures, a platform with appearance of crystal. The rainbow and the transparent vault supporting the throne also suggest the mystery of Yahweh. The same is true of the fire where Yahweh alone can live and where everything which is not God would be destroyed.

A figure like a man. Having reached the most intimate part of God, the last image will be a figure of man because God's power comes from his mysterious and personal being in whose likeness Man was created.

■ 3 ¹He said to me, "Son of man, eat what is given to you. Eat this scroll and then go; speak to the people of Israel." ²I opened my mouth and he made me eat the scroll and then ³he said to me, "Eat and fill yourself with this scroll that I'm giving you." I ate it and it tasted as sweet as honey.

⁴He said, "Son of man, go to the Israelites; speak to them with my words. ⁵Indeed it is not a people with a difficult foreign language to whom you are sent; it is to the people of Israel. ⁶It's not to the many nations with difficult and obscure languages which you cannot understand. If I sent you to them they would listen to you.

⁷But the Israelites will not listen to you because they are not willing to listen to me; all of them are defiant and stubborn of heart. ⁸See I am making your face as unyielding as theirs and your forehead as hard as theirs. ⁹I am making your forehead as hard as a diamond, harder than flint; so you shall not fear or tremble because of this set of rebels."

¹⁰He said to me, "Son of man, listen and take to heart all I say to you, ¹¹and then go to the exiles, your fellow countrymen, speak to them and tell them: 'This is what the Lord Yahweh says,' whether they listen or not."

¹²Then the spirit lifted me up; behind me I heard a great acclamation, "Blessed be the Glory of Yahweh in his dwelling place" ¹³and I heard the noise of the animals' wings brushing against each other, and at the same time the noise of the wheels and the sound of a great noise.

¹⁴The spirit had lifted me up, and carried me off but I went in a bitter and feverish spirit because the hand of Yahweh was heavy upon me. ¹⁵I came to Tel Abib to the exiles living by the river Kebar and I stayed there seven days with them, overwhelmed.

8. Is 50, 7; Jer 1, 18

■ Eat this scroll. The vision of the scroll symbolically describes the call from Yahweh, giving Ezekiel his mission. We stress the second half which also includes the vision of the glory of Yahweh (3:12-13).

I am sending you to a defiant and stubborn people. This resembles what has been expressed by earlier prophets. When the Lord sends Isaiah, he only tells him about the counter-productive effect of his mission: the people will become hardened. In Ezekiel's case, there is more optimism: sent to rebels, he must be firmer and more persistent than they are to break through the shell of their hardened hearts. In fact, Ezekiel will be constantly arguing and fighting. Paul will say later that those who evangelize must teach whether the time is right or not (2 Tim 4:2) without ever losing heart.

Fill yourself with this scroll which I am giving you. Eating the scroll means that the prophet must internalize and assimilate the word of God: these were old books made of scrolls of parchment or papyrus.

In the beginning, Ezekiel only gave predictions of death. This explains why the book is about woes and lamentations.

It tasted sweet as honey. Ezekiel eats these predictions of misfortunes which seem sweet to him: the prophet has taken Yahweh's side and he totally accepts his plans however terrible they may seem to the people. In sharing Yahweh's anger, Jeremiah kept his human heart and he suffered because of the suffering of his people. Ezekiel, on the contrary, does not feel torn.

Thus, with the examples of several prophets, the Bible shows us how God's Word separates believers from their own people (Matthew 10:34). All who are called to speak to others or lead them, begin to experience this conflict. They do not say what people want to hear, nor are they disturbed by the complaints of cowards and of the comfortable who ask to be left alone to live the way they want to. It will always be hard to lose the security we have when we feel we agree with everyone else. True believers accept taking God's side and, at times, going against the stream.

◆ The story of Ezekiel's vocation which we read in 3:1-15 is continued in 3:22-27. But here, it is interrupted by a paragraph (3:16-21) expressing one of the great themes of Ezekiel's preaching: God does not wish the sinner to die but rather to be converted and live (see chapter 18).

It is true that the catastrophe resulting from their mistakes is coming upon Ezekiel's hearers. But this is no cause for despair; if even only one person becomes aware of his wickedness, his

"I have made you a watchman" ◆ ¹⁶After seven days the word of Yahweh came to me, ¹⁷"Son of man, I have made you a watchman for the House of Israel. With the word you hear from my mouth you will warn them in my name. ¹⁸When I say to the wicked, 'You will surely die,' if you do not speak to warn the wicked man to give up his evil ways and so live, he shall die for his sin, and I will hold you responsible for his death. ¹⁹But if you have warned the wicked man and he has not given up his wickedness and evil ways, he shall die for his sin but you will save yourself. ²⁰When the righteous man turns from what is good to do evil I shall put an obstacle in his path: he shall die. Since you did not warn him, he will die for his sin. His good deeds will not be remembered and I shall hold you responsible for his death. ²¹But when you have warned the righteous man to keep him from sinning and he has not sinned, he will live for sure for he was warned and you will save your life."

Ezekiel becomes mute

○ ²²The hand of Yahweh was upon me and he said to me, "Get up! Go to the valley and there I shall speak to you." ²³I got up and went towards the valley and there was the Glory of Yahweh that I had seen by the Kebar river. I fell on my face. ²⁴Then the spirit came to me and kept me standing; he spoke to me and said; "Go! Shut yourself in your house. ²⁵You, son of man, will be bound with cords and prevented from going among the people. ²⁶Your tongue shall stick to your palate and you will remain dumb and not be able to rebuke them for they are a rebellious people. ²⁷But when I speak to you I shall open your lips and you shall say to them: This is the word of the Lord Yahweh! He who listens, let him listen and he who refuses to listen, let him refuse for they are a rebellious people.

efforts will not be in vain, for they will give life, at least to this one person.

I have made you a watchman. The prophet has been given an insight, which the rest do not have, into the sin of individuals and of society. He alone can see the dangers which are approaching, as God, who judges sin, has planned. The prophet struggles, not only against those who do not believe, but also against God the Judge, calling upon his mercy (Ex 32:11; Jer 14:11) as Moses and Jeremiah had done.

He will die, but I will hold you responsible for his death. The responsibility of one who has received insight from God: he received it to save others and he must not keep quiet.

When the righteous man turns from what is good. Everybody suffered equally in the crisis which ruined Judah. But Ezekiel states that these common sufferings will bring life or death to everyone as each deserves. This is because to be alive or to be dead does not have the same meaning for God as it does for us (Rv 3:1).

The same parable of the sentinel is presented in a better way in 33:1.

We will be able to notice several attitudes revealed by the prophet (or believer) in all ages:

- be alert, that is able to see what God thinks of the way we act, because we have internalized his word;

- do not fall asleep;
- be on top of the wall, that is, controlling the problems of our environment instead of ignoring them in order to be more at peace. Echo God's plans and human aspirations.

○ Following, are Ezekiel's prophecies in Chaldea during the six years prior to the siege and fall of Jerusalem.

For a while Ezekiel is dumb, then, he is paralyzed. This strange illness serves as a lesson. By every possible means, Ezekiel insists that Yahweh has decided on the ruin of Jerusalem because the Israelites have not repented and become more faithful.

Ezekiel is in Chaldea but he is concerned about Jerusalem. In these chapters his teaching is close to Jeremiah's during the same time. The form, however, is very different. Jeremiah spoke first, and later his statements were written down; whereas, Ezekiel writes in a more formal and ordered way. Unfortunately, his style is sometimes too elaborate and complicated, but we must reflect on these long parables full of marvelous images.

In 3:25 Ezekiel seems to be affected by a strange paralysis whose duration will be symbolic: 190 days plus 40 days. We do not know

Ezekiel plays war

4 ¹ Son of man, take a clay tablet; place it in front of you and draw on it the city of Jerusalem. ² Then act as if you were laying siege to it; dig a trench round it and build a ramp; set up tents and a battering ram against it. ³ Take an iron pan; place it as a wall of iron between you and the city and look towards the city: it is under siege and you are besieging it. All this will be a sign for the people of Israel.

⁴ Lie on your left side, taking upon yourself the sin of Israel, for you will bear their sin as long as you are lying on it. ⁵ I have assigned to you a number of days equal to the duration of their sins – for a hundred and ninety days you will bear the sin of Israel.

⁶ When you have completed this you shall lie down again on your right side and bear the sin of Judah for forty days – one day corresponding to a year.⁷ Then you shall turn your face and your bared arm towards the siege of Jerusalem and prophesy against it. ⁸ I shall bind you with cords to prevent you from turning from one side to the other until you have completed the days of your confinement.⁹ Take some wheat and barley, some beans, lentils, millet and spelt; put it all in one vessel and make some bread; this is what you will eat all the time you are lying on your side – one hundred and ninety days.

¹⁰ The food you eat will be a daily ration of eight ounces a day; ¹¹ you will drink two thirds of a quart of water each day. ¹² Eat the food as you would a barley cake. You will cook it publicly on human dung, ¹³ for that is the way – says Yahweh – the people of Israel will eat unclean bread among the nations where I shall drive them."

¹⁴I said, "Ah, Lord Yahweh! I have not been defiled: from childhood until now I have never eaten any animal found dead or torn; unclean meat has never entered my mouth."

¹⁵He then said, "Very well! I allow you cow dung in place of human dung for baking your bread." ¹⁶He continued, "Son of man, I shall cut off the food in Jerusalem. They will eat strictly-rationed bread with anxiety and despair as they drink water sparingly, ¹⁷for food and water will be in short supply and they will all waste away because of their sin.

Slaughter and death in Jerusalem

5 ¹ Son of man, take a sharp sword and use it as a barber's razor on your head and beard. Then take scales and divide the hair you have cut off. ² Burn a third of it in the middle of the city at the end of the siege, then take a third that you will strike with the sword all around the city; finally scatter a third in the wind and unsheathe a sword and pursue them. ³ Take a few strands of hair and tuck them away in the folds of your clothes; ⁴ then throw some of them to burn in the fire. Then speak against all Israel:

⁵ This is what the Lord Yahweh said: That is Jerusalem! I placed her in the midst of the nations but she was worse than the other nations; ⁶ she rebelled against my laws and my precepts more than neighbouring nations. In fact she rejected my laws and did not keep my decrees.

⁷That is why the Lord Yahweh speaks thus: Your rebellion is greater than that of the nations around you – you have not kept my laws, respected my decrees or observed my ordinances but instead have conformed to the laws of neighbouring nations – ⁸“because of that the Lord Yahweh speaks thus: I too have set myself against you. I will pass judgment on you in the sight of the nations.” ⁹And because of your abominations I will punish you in a way I have never before done and never will do in the future. ¹⁰That is why fathers among you will eat their children and children their fathers. I will pass judgment on you and scatter your remnant to every wind.

"Therefore as surely as I live, declares the Lord Yahweh, because you have defiled my sanctuary with all your horrors and abominations, I will strike you without pity! I too will show no mercy!

¹² A third of your people will die of the plague or starve within your walls, a third will fall by the sword outside the city, a third I will scatter to the winds and pursue with sword unsheathed. ¹³ My anger will spend itself, my fury against them be satisfied. I will have my revenge and they will know that I, Yahweh, have spoken in my jealousy when I have exhausted my fury against them. ¹⁴ I will make you a heap of ruins, a reproach among the neighbouring nations in the eyes of all who pass by. ¹⁵ You will be a reproach, a taunt, a lesson, a warning and an object of horror for the nations near you when, with anger, wrath and stinging reproach, I punish you. I, Yahweh, have spoken.

blot you out, I will make you lack all food.
¹⁷ Hunger and wild beasts will destroy your children, while sword and plague will visit you. It is I, Yahweh, who have spoken."

6 ¹ The word of Yahweh came to me as follows. ² "Son of man, look towards the mountains of Israel and prophesy against them. Say to them:

³ Mountains of Israel, listen to the word of Yahweh! To the mountains and hills, to the rivers and valleys the Lord Yahweh has spoken: I am going to bring the sword against you and destroy your high places. ⁴ Your altars will become desolate, your incense burners smashed; ⁵ I will lay your corpses in front of your idols and scatter your bones around your altars.

⁶ Wherever you live, the towns will be in ruins and the high places desolate, your altars demolished and defiled, your filthy idols smashed and ruined, ⁷ your incense burners knocked all around you and you will know that I am Yahweh. ⁸ But I shall spare some of you. They will escape the sword and be scattered among the nations.

⁹ Your survivors then will remember me among the people where they are exiled, for I shall break the adulterous hearts of those whose eyes lusted after their idols. They will loathe themselves for the evil they committed, for all their abominations. ¹⁰ And they will know that I, Yahweh, have not spoken in vain in saying I would inflict this disaster on them."

¹¹ This is what the Lord Yahweh said, "Clap your hands, stamp your feet and say: Well done! when the people of Israel are falling by the sword, famine and plague because of their abominations. ¹² He who is far away will die of the plague, he who is near will fall by the sword, whoever survives and is spared will die of starvation. Against them I will exhaust my fury. ¹³ And you will know that I am Yahweh when their people lie slain in the midst of their idols, around their altars, on every high hill, on the mountain tops, under every green tree and spreading oak and wherever they offered fragrant incense to all their idols. ¹⁴ I will stretch out my hand against them, I will make their country a desolate wasteland from the desert to Riblah, wherever they live; and they will know that I am Yahweh."

³ Finished! The end is coming for the four corners of the land. It is all over for you, I am unleashing my anger against you. I will judge you according to your ways and repay you for all your filthy practices. ⁴ I will not look on you with pity; I will be merciless. I will bring against you what is fitting for your conduct and your detestable practices and you will know it is Yahweh striking you.

⁵ Thus says the Lord Yahweh: Disaster! Disaster is coming! ⁶ The end is near! It is your turn, you who live in the country. ⁷ The time has come, the day is near! No joy, only panic on the mountains! ⁸ Now I am unleashing my fury against you; my anger will exhaust itself on you. I will judge you according to your ways and your detestable practices. ⁹ I will not look on you with pity; I will be without mercy. I will judge you according to your conduct and call you to account for your detestable practices. I will not look on you with pity and I will show you no mercy. I will give you what your conduct deserves. And you will know that I am Yahweh when I strike you for your abominable practices.

¹² The time has come, the day is here! Let not the buyer rejoice or the seller regret, for the punishment will fall upon all. ¹³ The seller will not get back what he has sold, even though he survives, for the sentence regarding the multitude will not be reversed.

¹⁴ They may sound the trumpet, make preparations, but no one will go to battle, for I am indignant with all. ¹⁵ Outside in the open is the sword; plague and starvation in the houses. Those in the country will die by the sword, those in the city will be victims of famine and plague. ¹⁶ Those who escape will go to the mountains; they will be like doves, each one moaning because of his sin.

¹⁷ Every hand will be limp, every knee as weak as water; ¹⁸ they will put on sackcloth and shudder. All will be covered with shame and every head bald.

¹⁹ They will throw their silver in the streets and their gold will be dropped like filth. Silver or gold will not save them on the day of evil they have done'. This statement is typical of Ezekiel and it shows that the wicked will come to a sincere conversion; to be disgusted with oneself because of one's sins is what brings God's grace.

Yahweh's anger. It will be useless to satisfy their hunger and to fill their stomachs, for it was their stumbling block, the cause of their sin.

²⁰ They became proud of their splendid jewel (the Temple), but they put into it their loathsome images and idols; that is why I will make it a horror. ²¹ I will hand it over as plunder to foreigners and as booty to the most wicked of the land, and they will defile it.

²² I will take away my protection from them and people will profane my treasure. Robbers will enter and desecrate it ²³ and within it there will be massacres, for the land is full of violence.

²⁵ Anguish is coming; they will seek peace but there will be none. ²⁶ Disaster will follow disaster, rumor will follow rumor. In vain will they demand a vision from the prophet. The priest will have no answer; the elders will be unable to advise. ²⁷ The king will mourn; the princes will be overcome with grief, and the hands of the citizens will tremble.

I will treat them as their conduct deserves and judge them according to their deeds, and they will know that I am Yahweh.

The Glory of Yahweh departs from the Temple

+ 8 ¹ On the fifth day of the sixth month in the sixth year, I happened to be sitting in my house with the elders of Judah sitting in front of me when the hand of the Lord Yahweh fell heavily on me. ² I looked and saw a being as of fire. Downwards from what appeared to be his loins there was the appearance of fire, and from his loins upward a brightness like sparkling bronze. ³ As he stretched out the form of a hand and took me by my hair, the spirit lifted me between heaven and earth and brought me in a divine vision to Jerusalem, to the entrance of the inner gate facing north. There stands the idol which provokes Yahweh's jealousy.

⁴ And the Glory of the God of Israel was there, similar to the vision I had seen in the plain. ⁵ He said to me, "Son of man, look to the north." I looked in the direction of the north and there, to the north of the altar gate, at the entrance, I saw this idol which provokes his jealousy. ⁶ He said to me, "Son of man, do you see what they are doing? Do you see the great abomination that Israel commits here to drive me from my sanctuary? You will see other abominations greater than this."

⁷ He then led me to the door of the court. I looked and saw there was a hole in the wall. ⁸ He said, "Son of man, break through the wall."

I broke through the wall and there was a door. ⁹ He said, "Go in and see the wicked abomination they are committing here." ¹⁰ I went in, looked around and saw all kinds of reptiles, repulsive beasts and all the filthy idols of Israel portrayed on the wall all around.

¹¹ Before them stood seventy men, elders of Israel, and among them was Jaazaniah, son

+ Chapters 8-11 include a long vision of the sins of Jerusalem and the punishment which will follow. Everything happens in the Temple. What amazes Ezekiel the most is that they have despised God and rejected him from their hearts in favor of false gods.

In 8:2 we find some flashes of the vision of the first chapter. There is always something to indicate that Yahweh is present to the prophet who does not see him. Ezekiel is drawn into ecstasy again: his spirit is going to contemplate the sins of Jerusalem.

In 8:4, Ezekiel sees the Glory of Yahweh in the Temple. Since its inauguration by Solomon (see 1 Kgs 8:10), God had been present among his people even when they were building altars and statues to false gods in the very patios of the temple. Now, however, Yahweh abandons his temple before it is destroyed by the Chaldeans; his Glory leaves for Babylon where the exiles are. God takes three steps before leaving:

- 9:3: he leaves the sanctuary and remains on the threshold;
- 10:19: he crosses the patios and remains at the east gate, across from the mount of Olives;
- 11:21: always going to the East, to Chaldea, Yahweh crosses the Kidron valley and lingers over the mount of Olives.

While Yahweh is abandoning his Temple, the fire of his holiness becomes punishment and death for the godless people who had set up their idols and engaged in adultery according to

of Shaphan. Each held a censer in his hand, and perfume rose from a cloud of incense.

¹² He said, "Do you see, son of man, what the elders of Israel do in the dark, each one in his room of pictures? For they think: Yahweh does not see us; Yahweh has forsaken the land." ¹³ Then he said, "You will see more of their great abominations."

¹⁴ He brought me to the entrance of the north gate of the house of Yahweh and there women were sitting, weeping for Tammuz. ¹⁵ He said to me, "Did you see, son of man? You will see even greater abominations than these."

¹⁶ And he led me to the inner court of the house of Yahweh and at the door to Yahweh's sanctuary, between the porch and the altar, were about twenty-five men, their backs to the temple, facing the east and worshipping the sun. He said to me, ¹⁷ "Did you see, son of man? Is it not enough for Judah to commit the abominations that they commit here? See they are waving the branch before their nose." ¹⁸ I too will act against them in anger; my eye will not see with pity and I will be without mercy. Though they cry loudly in my ears, I will not hear them."

9 ¹ Then he shouted loudly in my ears saying, "The punishment of the city is near; see each one of these has in his hand his instrument of destruction." ² And six men came from the direction of the upper gate which faces north, each one with his instrument of destruction. With them was a man clothed in linen with writing material at his side. They came and stopped near the altar of bronze.

³ Then the Glory of the God of Israel rose from the cherubim where it rested and went to the threshold of the house. Yahweh called to the man clothed in linen who had the material for writing at his side, ⁴ and he said to him, "Pass through the centre of the city, through Jerusalem, and trace a cross on the forehead of the men who sigh and groan because of all the abominations committed in it."

⁷ And as they were told to begin with the sanctuary, they struck the elders who were in front of the Temple. Yahweh said to them, "Let the courts be filled with the slain and the Temple be defiled with their blood; go out!" They went and slew the people in the city. ⁸ It happened that while they were slaying the people, I was alone. I fell on my face and cried out saying, "Ah, Lord Yahweh! Are you going to destroy all that is left of Israel, and unleash your fury against Jerusalem?"

⁹ He said to me, "The sin of Israel and Judah is very great; the land is filled with blood and the city full of perversion. For they say: 'Yahweh has forsaken the land; Yahweh does not see.' ¹⁰ I too will be without pity; I will show no mercy and I will bring their deeds upon their heads."

¹¹ Then the man clothed in linen who brought the writing kit reported, "I have done what you ordered."

10 I looked and saw that in the expanse over the heads of the cherubim there was something resembling a sapphire stone in the form the different meanings given to this word by the prophets (see chapter 16).

Among the collective condemnations, there are others aimed at individuals. Ezekiel co-operates with Yahweh and with him, he must pronounce the words of condemnation causing the death of the guilty ones.

9:4: A T which then had the shape of a cross, was to protect the "remnant".

of a throne. ²He spoke to the man clothed in linen, "Enter by the space between the wheels under the cherubim, fill your hands with coals of fire from between the cherubim and scatter them over the city." And I saw him as he entered. ³The cherubim stood at the right of the Temple when the man entered and the cloud filled the inner court. ⁴Then the Glory of Yahweh rose from above the cherubim to the threshold of the Temple and the Temple was filled with the cloud while the court was filled with the radiance of Yahweh's Glory.

⁵The noise of the cherubim's wings could be heard as far as the outer court, similar to the voice of God Almighty when he thunders. ⁶Yet the man clothed in linen had been given the order to take the fire from between the wheels, in the space between the cherubim; so he went and stood beside the wheel. ⁷The cherub then stretched his hand towards the fire in the space between the cherubim, took some and gave handfuls to the man clothed in linen who took them and went out. ⁸At that moment I noticed this human hand under the wings of the cherubim. ⁹I also saw four wheels beside the cherubim, each wheel beside a cherub. The wheels resembled sparkling chrysolite. ¹⁰As for their appearance, the four had the same form; each was formed of two wheels placed crosswise, ¹¹so they could move following any of their four directions, without turning as they went. ¹²In the direction the cherub's head was turned, the wheels followed without turning. Their rims were full of eyes all around. ¹³In my hearing the wheels were called "whirling." ¹⁴(Each one had four faces, the first was the face of a cherub, the second the face of a man, the third the face of a lion, the fourth the face of an eagle. ¹⁵The cherubim mounted up—they were the same creatures I had seen by the river Chebar.)

¹⁶When the cherubim moved, the wheels moved at their side and when the cherubim raised their wings to rise above the earth, the wheels did not depart from their side. ¹⁷When they stopped, the wheels stopped; when they rose, the wheels rose with them, for the spirit of the living creatures was in them.

¹⁸The Glory of Yahweh went from above the threshold of the house and went to rest on the cherubim. ¹⁹Then the cherubim left, opening their wings and rising above the earth in my sight, and the wheels went with them. They halted at the east gate of the house of Yahweh and the Glory of the God of Israel was over them.

²⁰These were the living creatures I had seen under the God of Israel on the banks of the river Chebar. I recognized them as cherubim.

²¹Each had four faces, each had four wings and they had what seemed human hands under their wings. ²²As for the appearance of their faces, they were the faces I had seen by the river Chebar, the same likeness. Each one went straight ahead.

The leaders of the people are punished

11 ¹Then the spirit lifted me up and brought me to the eastern gate of Yahweh's house, the one facing east, and there at the entrance to the gate were twenty-five men. Among them I saw Jaazaniah son of Azzur and Peletiah, son of Benaiah, leaders of the people. ²Yahweh said to me, "Son of man, these are the men who plot wickedness and give evil counsel in the city. ³They say: 'Now there is no need of more houses! The city is the pot and we are the meat!' ⁴Because of that, prophesy against them, prophesy, son of man!"

⁵The spirit of Yahweh seized me and said, "Speak! This is the word of Yahweh: I know what you have said, Israel! I know what you are thinking. ⁶You have multiplied your victims in the city; you have filled the streets with the slain. ⁷That is why Lord Yahweh has spoken. The slain you have left in its midst; they are the meat, this city is the pot and I will bring you out of it.

⁸The Lord Yahweh says: Because you are afraid of the sword, I will send the sword against you. ⁹I will make you leave and deliver you over to foreigners and I will pass sentence on you. ¹⁰You will fall by the sword; I will judge you on the borders of Israel and you will know that I am Yahweh. ¹¹The city will not be like a pot to preserve you, nor will you be meat within her. ¹²And you will know that I am Yahweh, for until now you have not walked according to my ordinances; you have not applied my laws, but instead you have acted according to the laws of the nations around you."

¹³It happened that while I was prophesy-

ing. Pelatiah, son of Beniah, died. I fell on my face and cried aloud saying, "Ah, Lord Yahweh! Are you to destroy even the remnant of Israel?"

¹⁴ The word of Yahweh came to me in these terms. ¹⁵ "Son of man, these people have said of your brothers, your relatives, and all the exiled Israelites: 'They are well far from Yahweh! He gave this land to us as our possession'. ¹⁶ Give them therefore this word from Yahweh: I myself have sent them far away among the nations and scattered them among the peoples, but I have been a sanctuary for them in the countries they entered.

¹⁷ For that reason the Lord Yahweh says, "I will gather you from among the peoples; I will group you together out of the countries where you were scattered and give you the land of Israel. ¹⁸ When you have come back and removed all the horrors and abominations, I will give you a new heart; I will put a new spirit in you.

¹⁹ Yes, I will remove their heart of stone and give them a heart of flesh, ²⁰ that they may walk in my statutes, observe my laws and practice them, and they shall be my people and I will be their God. ²¹ As for those whose hearts follow their horrors and abominations, I will punish them according to their deeds."

²² Then the cherubim lifted up their wings and the wheels went with them.

²³ The Glory of the God of Israel was over them and rose, leaving the city to rest on the mountain that is to the east.

²⁴ At that point the spirit lifted me up and brought me to the exiles in Chaldea – all this happened in vision by the power of the spirit of God – and the vision I had seen left me. ²⁵ Then I told the exiles all that Yahweh had shown me.

The parable of the exile

■ 12 ¹ This word of Yahweh came to me, ² "Son of man, you live in the midst of a house of rebels: they have eyes for seeing but do not see;

they have ears for hearing but do not hear, for they are a house of rebels.

⁴ You will gather your things, an exile's baggage, by day to be seen by them, and you will leave in the evening in their sight as for a departure of deportees. While they look on, ⁵ dig a hole in the wall and leave from there. ⁶ As they look on, shoulder your baggage and leave in the dark. Veil your face and do not look at the land for I have made you a sign for Israel."

⁷ I did as I was ordered, gathering my things by day, an exile's baggage, and in the evening I made a hole in the wall with my hand. I left in the dark, in their presence, shouldering my baggage.

⁸ In the morning the word of Yahweh came to me: ⁹ "Son of man, did not the Israelites, these rebels, ask you, 'What are you doing there?'

¹⁰ Answer them on behalf of the Lord Yahweh: This oracle concerns the prince in Jerusalem and all the Israelites remaining in the city.

¹¹ Say, 'I am a sign for you, for what I have done will happen to them: They will be deported, exiled.' ¹² The prince among them shall shoulder his baggage in the dark and depart. They will dig a hole in the wall to let him leave by it. He will cover his face because he must not see the land with his eyes.

¹³ I will spread my net over him and he will be caught in its mesh. I will bring

■ At nightfall in Babylon, people gather at the doors of their houses. Ezekiel appears. Without saying a word he behaves as a solitary actor in a performance which captures the people's attention. When his act is over, he leaves without giving any explanation. The next day he reveals the meaning of this parable in action.

him to Babylon in the country of the Chaldeans but he will not see it and it is there that he will die.

¹⁴ As for all those who form his court, his guard, his troops, I will scatter them to the winds and pursue them with the sword. ¹⁵ They will know I am Yahweh when I scatter them among the nations and disperse them in other countries. ¹⁶ I will however allow a small number of them to escape the sword, famine and pestilence so they may confess their abominations among the nations where they will go and they will know I am Yahweh."

¹⁷ This word of the Lord Yahweh came to me, ¹⁸ "Son of man, trembling you will eat your bread and you will drink water in fear and anxiety. ¹⁹ Say to the people, 'This is what the Lord Yahweh says regarding those who live in Jerusalem in the land of Israel: In fear they will eat their bread and in affliction they will drink their water because the land will be desolate, stripped of all it contains, due to the violence of its inhabitants. ²⁰ Cities that were inhabited will become ruins, the country a wasteland and you will know that I am Yahweh."

The word of God will be fulfilled

◆ ²¹ The word of Yahweh came to me in these terms, ²² "Son of man, what do you mean by this proverb: The days pass and the visions do not come true? Why do you refer thus to what happens in Israel? ²³ You shall say to them this word of the Lord Yahweh: No more of this proverb. It will not be used in Israel, for the day is at hand when every vision will be fulfilled. ²⁴ No longer will there be false visions or misleading divinations in Israel. ²⁵ I, Yahweh, will say what I want to say, and my words will be fulfilled. There will be no more delay, for it is in your days, rebellious people, that I will speak and it will be done – word of Yahweh."

²⁶ The word of Yahweh was given me in these terms, ²⁷ "Son of man, this is what Israel says: 'Ezekiel's visions refer to the distant future; he prophesies for times far off.' ²⁸ Therefore speak to them: This is what the Lord Yahweh says: There will be no further delay concerning my words: what I say will be done – word of Yahweh."

The false prophets

o13 ¹ The word of Yahweh came to me again, ² "Son of man, prophesy against the prophets of Israel, against those who prophesy on their own initiative. Say: Hear the word of Yahweh! ³ This is what the Lord Yahweh says: Woe to the senseless prophets who follow their own inspiration without having seen anything! ⁴ Your prophets, Israel, are like foxes among the ruins! ⁵ They have not gone up to the breaches nor have they built a wall around Jerusalem so that she may hold out in battle on the day of Yahweh. ⁶ Their discourse is trickery and lies; they say: word of Yahweh when Yahweh has not sent them and yet they wait for him to fulfill their word.

⁷ Is it not a false vision you have seen? Have you not uttered lying divinations? You say: oracle of Yahweh when I have not spoken. ⁸ But this is what Yahweh says: Because of your false and lying revelations I will oppose you, word of Lord Yahweh. ⁹ My hand will strike the prophets whose revelations are delusions, whose predictions are lies. They will not

◆ The days pass and the visions do not come true. We are surprised by the lack of faith of the Jews because, in looking back on Sacred History, it seems to us that it is filled with miracles and the words of the prophets were fulfilled. But, this is not the way it appeared to the prophets' contemporaries. For almost two centuries, there were only Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel and a few minor prophets; besides, miraculous liberations like that of Jerusalem in 701 did not occur often. History was not only miracles; and prophetic words were not fulfilled immediately. Moreover, side by side with the true prophets there were false ones whose visions often failed to come true. Thus, the Jews' unbelief is very understandable.

There are times, in the course of history, when changes occur rapidly, and other times when God does not seem to be doing anything. In the Gospel itself we are told not to become materialistic when the Lord seems absent from the affairs of the world (Luke 21:34; 17:26; Pt 3:3).

● Truth and lies are spread in the world. In this, the prophets were no more privileged than we are, since all of them had opponents (see 1 Kgs 22; Is 28).

Here, Ezekiel gives us the characteristic actions of the false and the true prophet. The true prophet is the one who risks everything for the sake of the truth;

– he usually says something contrary to what the majority would like to hear (see also Jer 14:13);

be accepted among my people's assembly nor will they be inscribed in the register of the nation of Israel. They will not re-enter the land of Israel – and you will know that I am the Lord Yahweh.

¹⁰ These prophets have misled my people saying 'Peace!' when there is no peace. The people are building a wall and these prophets daub it with whitewash; ¹¹ but say to those who daub it with whitewash: The wall will fall. I will send torrential rain, huge hailstones and stormy winds, and see: ¹² the wall will fall! Will they not say to you: Where is the whitewash with which you daubed it?"

¹³ That is why the Lord Yahweh speaks thus: In my fury I will make a violent wind break out and in my anger I will send a torrential downpour, and my wrath will hurl destructive hailstones. ¹⁴ I will destroy the wall you daubed with whitewash; I will level it to the ground and its foundation will be laid bare. It will fall and beneath it you will be utterly destroyed and you will know that I am Yahweh. ¹⁵ I will exhaust my anger against the wall and against those who daubed it with whitewash. Then they will say to you: Where is the wall and where are those who whitewashed it, ¹⁶ the prophets of Israel who prophesied to Jerusalem and who had visions of peace when there was no peace?"

¹⁷ Yahweh then said to me: "As for you, son of man, turn towards the women of your people who prophesy on their own initiative, and prophesy against them. ¹⁸ You will say: Woe to those who make magic bands for all wrists and veils for every size of head – those women who ensnare souls! ¹⁹ For the Lord Yahweh says: You who ensnare the lives of my people, will you preserve your own? You have dishonoured me among my people for handfuls of barley and pieces of bread. Because of you people die who should not die, and people live who should not live. For my people listen to you and your lies."

²⁰ That is why the Lord Yahweh speaks, "I hate the wrist bands with which you ensnare souls like birds. ²¹ I will tear your veils and free my people from your hands. No more will they fall into your hands and you will know that I am Yahweh. ²² You have disheartened with lies the righteous whom I would never dishearten, and you have strengthened the wicked, that he might not turn away from his evil ways and so save his life. ²³ Because of that I will no longer let you have false visions or practice divinations. I will free my people from your clutches and you will know that I am Yahweh."

I will not allow them to consult me

+14 ¹ Some of the elders of Israel came and sat in front of me. ² Then the word of Yahweh came to me, ³ "Son of man, these men are keeping in their heart and remain attached to what makes them sin. Am I to allow them to consult me? ⁴ Speak to them on my behalf: To every Israelite who goes to a prophet while he keeps filthy idols in his heart and is attached to what makes him sin, I, Yahweh, will give the answer his many idols deserve.

⁵ For I want to take hold of Israel's heart, the heart of all those who have strayed from me because of their filthy idols.

⁶ So then say to the people of Israel: Thus says the Lord Yahweh: come back, turn away from your filthy idols; turn your face away from all your abominations. ⁷ If a man of

instead of keeping quiet about sin, he takes the risk of denouncing it (see Jer 23:14); he indicates the causes of evil instead of proposing makeshift solutions which only hide it for a while:

he is on top of the rampart, as a sentinel, seeing clearly the approaching judgment of God, namely, the inevitable consequences of sins and errors. Through his words and his intercession, he defends his people from the anger of Yahweh (Ez 22:30).

Ezekiel mentions the prophetesses and their gestures whose precise meaning escapes us; they caused the people to become preoccupied with dreams, superstitions and illusory remedies, while remaining blind to crime and to sin.

+ Am I to allow them to consult me? Here, we have a warning for those who come to consult the Lord through the prophet in order to solve their most pressing concerns: Must I marry this woman? How will I be cured of my illness? Yahweh does not want to answer those who are not willing to obey him; rather, he will punish them for their wickedness: this will be 'their answer'.

If the prophet lets himself be seduced. If, for gain, the prophet agrees to answer questions which have nothing to do with his religious mis-

the people of Israel or a guest staying in Israel strays away from following me and goes to a prophet to consult me while he keeps idols in his heart and remains attached to what makes him sin, I, Yahweh, will answer him myself. ⁸ I will turn my face against this man, I will make of him a proverbial example, I will strike him from the midst of my people and you will know that I am Yahweh.

⁹ If the prophet lets himself be seduced and gives an answer, it will be I, Yahweh, who will have let him be seduced. I will stretch out my hand against him and destroy him from among my people Israel.

¹⁰ They will be responsible for their sin. The prophet will be as guilty as the one who consulted him, ¹¹ that the people of Israel may no longer stray from me. Instead of defiling themselves with all their transgressions, they will be for me a people and I will be their God – word of Yahweh."

¹² The word of Yahweh came to me in these terms, ¹³ "Son of man, when a nation sins against me by being unfaithful, I will stretch out my hand against it, deprive it of bread, and famine will destroy men and animals. ¹⁴ But if there were found in the land these three men, Noah, Daniel and Job, they would save their lives because of their righteousness – word of Yahweh.

¹⁵ If I also let wild beasts roam the land to deprive it of children so that it becomes a desolation without a passerby because of the beasts, ¹⁶ if these three men were in the land, as

I live, word of Lord Yahweh, they would not save their sons or daughters but only they themselves would be spared while the land would be made desolate.

¹⁷ The same would happen if I brought the sword against this land and ordered the sword to go through the land destroying men and animals. ¹⁸ If these three men were in the land, as I live, word of Lord Yahweh, they would not save sons and daughters but they themselves would be spared. ¹⁹ Or if I sent pestilence to the land and poured out my fury against it in bloodshed in order to destroy men and animals, ²⁰ if Noah, Daniel and Job were in the land, as I live, word of Yahweh, they would not save sons or daughters, but their own lives would be spared because of their righteousness."

²¹ Now this is what the Lord Yahweh says, "Although I have sent my four great punishments, sword, famine, wild beasts and plague against Jerusalem to destroy men and animals, ²² there are survivors, sons and daughters who will be brought out. They will come to you here, and when you see their way of life and their deeds, you will no longer be shocked at the disaster I brought on Jerusalem and at everything that happened to her. ²³ They will set your mind at rest when you see their conduct and you will realize that not in vain was all that I did in the city – word of Lord Yahweh."

Israel: The useless vine

15 ¹ This word of Yahweh came to me, ² "Son of man, in what way is the wood of the vine superior to that of any other tree in the forest? ³ Do they take its wood to make anything? Do they use it to make a peg for hanging a tool?

⁴ But now they have used it as fuel and the fire has burned it at both ends leaving the middle charred. Is it then of any use? ⁵ If it was of no use when it was whole, of even less use will it be when burnt in the fire."

sion, Yahweh will punish the one consulting and the prophet as well.

This implies the responsibility of people who let themselves be deceived by a false prophet. People prefer to go to a false prophet because they know that he will not point to God's demands and will not force them to see clearly the faults in their lives. In the end, they will all be lost.

■ In chapters 15-23 the sins of Judah throughout history are denounced four times, in different ways: chapters 16, 20, 22, 23.

In this chapter, the image of the vine is used to depict the necessary conclusion of Judah's history: the nation is to be destroyed and its capital burned. Just like the wood of the vine when Yahweh chose it, Israel did not stand out from other people, either in number, or quality. Since they did not fulfil their mission, they can neither continue as God's people, nor become again a people like the rest:

◆ The story of the unfaithful wife, already told by Hosea and Jeremiah, is expanded to include all of sacred history. Here it begins with the conquest of Canaan. When David conquered Jerusalem, the common people there were Amorites and the upper class, Hittites.

* That is why Lord Yahweh speaks thus, "I took the vine from among all the trees of the forest, and I gave it to the fire to be burned. This is how I have just dealt with those living in Jerusalem. I will turn my face against them. Though they escaped from the fire, the fire will burn them and you will know that I am Yahweh when I turn against them. I will make the land a desolation because they have been unfaithful – word of Lord Yahweh."

The unfaithful bride

♦16 The word of Yahweh came to me in these terms: "Son of man, make known to Jerusalem its sins. You say on my behalf: Your beginning was in Canaan; there you were born. Your father was an Amorite and your mother a Hittite. On the day you were born your cord was not cut, you were not bathed in water to make you clean, you were not rubbed with salt nor were you wrapped in cloth. There was no one to look with pity on you or compassionate enough to give you any of these attentions. You were left exposed in the open fields because you were looked upon with disgust on the day you were born.

* But I passed by and saw you immersed in your blood. I said to you in the midst of your blood, "Live!" I made you grow like a plant of the field. You grew up and became tall and were becoming of marriageable age. Your breasts were formed and your hair had grown but you were naked and exposed. I passed by later and saw you were at the age of love and spread part of my garment over you to cover your nudity. I made a covenant with you with an oath – word of Lord Yahweh – and you were mine. Then I bathed you in water, I cleansed you of your blood and anointed you with oil. I clothed you with embroidered cloth and put soft leather sandals on your feet. I dressed you in fine linen and covered you with silk. I adorned you with jewelry, putting bracelets on your arms, a necklace around your neck¹² and a ring in your nose. I gave you earrings and a magnificent crown for your head. You were adorned with gold and silver; your clothing was fine linen, silk and embroidered cloth. You were fed on finest flour, honey and oil; you became very beautiful and rose to be queen. Your beauty was perfect and your renown spread through the nations, because of the splendour I had given you – word of Yahweh.

But you relied on your beauty; you trusted in your fame and you began to give yourself to every passerby like a prostitute. With some of your garments you made your high places where you played the harlot; (the like has never been and never will be). With my silver and my gold and with the ornaments that were your splendour and which I had given you, you formed male idols and gave yourself to them. With your embroidered garments you covered them and before them you have placed my oil and my incense.

My bread which I gave you, the fine flour, the oil and the honey with which I fed you, you offered as fragrant incense before them, word of Yahweh. You took the sons and daughters you bore for me and sacrificed them as food to the idols. Was it not enough to prostitute yourself? Did you have to slaughter my children as an offering to your idols? You revel in your abominations and prostitution without remembering the days of your youth when you were naked and exposed, lying in your blood.

Woe, woe to you – declares Lord Yahweh – for all this wickedness! You built your mounds and made your high places at every crossroads. At the entrance to every road you built your lofty shrines; you defiled your beauty giving yourself to every passerby and always increasing your harlotry. You gave yourself to the Egyptians, your large-limbed neighbours and provoked my anger with your

The promise: "I will remember my covenant with you"

In speaking of prostitution, Ezekiel is dealing with three sins at the same time: just as Isaiah and Jeremiah had done:

giving oneself to the worship of idols in spite of being "the bride of Yahweh";
organizing sacred prostitutions as practised in pagan cults;
submitting to powerful nations to gain their political protection instead of remaining independent.

Ezekiel does not forget a single detail of what can humiliate his people and put them to shame. Such a strong criticism of their national history had never been heard by any people. By hitting at the pride of his compatriots, the prophet teaches us a lesson: to know God, we must know ourselves and bring all the stupidity and wickedness of our hearts into the open.

Notice also verses 59-63 where Yahweh promises the new covenant. The humiliation which follows the sins prepares for an upright life.

increasing promiscuity. ²⁷ And I stretched out my hand against you and reduced your territory and gave you over to the mercy of your enemies, the daughters of the Philistines who were shocked by your filthy ways.

²⁸ You played the harlot with the Assyrians as well because you were never satisfied. Yes, you played the harlot with them but you remained insatiable. ²⁹ Then you multiplied your prostitutions in a land of merchants, Chaldea, and even with that you were not satisfied.

³⁰ Ah! How my anger rose against you, word of Lord Yahweh, as you did all that, the work of an accomplished harlot, ³¹ when you built your mounds at the entrance to every road and your shrines in every square! You were not like a prostitute because you scorned payments.

³² Adulterous wife! You prefer strangers to your husband. ³³ All prostitutes receive fees, but you gave gifts to your lovers, bribing them to come to you for your favours. ³⁴ In your prostitution you have been different from other women; no one approaches you and whereas you offer payment no one gives you any. You are completely different.

³⁵ Therefore harlot, hear the word of Yahweh! ³⁶ This is what the Lord Yahweh says, "For having exposed yourself and uncovered your nakedness to your lovers and your abominable idols and because you have offered them the blood of your children, because of that, ³⁷ I will gather all the lovers that found pleasure in you and all those you loved, as well as those you hated; I will assemble them from all around to come against you and I will strip you before them and they will see your nakedness. ³⁸ I will judge you as adulterous women are judged and as those who shed blood and I will bring upon you the blood vengeance of anger and jealousy. ³⁹ I will hand you over to them; they will tear down your mounds and shrines; they shall strip you of your clothes, taking from you the ornaments that were your splendour and leaving you naked and bare. ⁴⁰ They shall bring a troop against you to stone you and gash you with swords. ⁴¹ Your houses will be burned by fire. Sentence shall be passed on you in the presence of many women. I will make you cease your prostitutions and you shall no longer be hired. ⁴² But when I have exhausted my fury against you, my jealousy shall leave you. I will be calm and no longer angry.

⁴³ Because you did not remember the days of your youth and roused my anger with all these things, I in turn will make you responsible for all you did, word of Lord Yahweh. Have you not added detestable deeds to all your other abominations?

⁴⁹ The sins of Sodom your sister were pride, over-indulgence in food, complacency and indifference to the poor and needy. ⁵⁰ They were arrogant and did detestable things in my sight. For that reason I destroyed them as you have seen. ⁵¹ As for Samaria she has not committed half of your sins. Your abominations are more numerous than hers and in comparison make your sisters appear righteous. ⁵² So bear your disgrace, you who have committed such detestable sins that have provided excuses to your sisters! They appear to be more righteous than you are. Be ashamed and bear your disgrace since your sisters seem holy compared to you.

⁵³ When I restore the fortunes of Sodom and her daughters, I will restore your own fortunes in their midst, ⁵⁴ that you may bear your shame and confusion because they now feel they are better than you. ⁵⁵ When your sister Sodom and her daughters and Samaria with hers will return to what they were before, you and your daughters will also return to what you were before. ⁵⁶ Had not Sodom your sister become a byword for you in the time when you felt proud, ⁵⁷ before your wickedness had become known? But now you have become the taunt of the daughters of Edom and all her neighbours, of the daughters of the Philistines who all around show their disgust for you. ⁵⁸ You shall bear the consequences of your foul behaviour and your abominations, word of Yahweh.

The kings – David's sons

17¹ The word of Yahweh came to me in these terms. ² Son of man, set a riddle and relate a parable to the people of Israel. The Lord Yahweh says this:

+ ³The great eagle with powerful wings, long feathers and fine plumage of various colours came to Lebanon and removed the top of a cedar. ⁴He broke off the topmost of the twigs and carried it off to a land of trade and set it in a city of merchants. ⁵He then took a seed of the land and planted it like a willow in fertile soil near abundant water. ⁶It grew and became a splendid vine with spreading branches turned towards the eagle, and roots growing deep. It became a vine growing branches and producing foliage.

⁷But there was another great eagle with powerful wings and abundant plumage and the vine twisted its roots and ⁸its branches towards him to be better watered than in the soil where it was planted. That vine, however, was able to produce branches, bear fruit and develop into a magnificent vine, because it had been planted in a good field near abundant water."

"The Lord Yahweh says, "Will the vine prosper? Will the eagle not tear out its roots and cut away its fruit so that the foliage will wither and the vine dry up? It will not take much effort or many people to pull up its roots. ¹⁰It has been transplanted, but it will not prosper. When the east wind blows, the vine will completely wither away. In the soil where it grows it will wither!"

¹¹The word of Yahweh came to me in these terms, ¹²"Say to these rebellious people: Do you not recognize what all this signifies? The king of Babylon came to Jerusalem and carried the king and princes off to Babylon. ¹³Then he took a member of the royal family and made an alliance with him, binding him by oath. He also carried off the leading citizens ¹⁴to keep the kingdom humble and unable to assert itself, and to oblige the king to respect the treaty.

¹⁵But the king rebelled against him and sent messengers to Egypt to ask for horses and a powerful army. Will he succeed? Will he escape after doing this? Will he escape after breaking the treaty? ¹⁶As I live, word of Lord Yahweh, he will die in the land of the king who put him on the throne, but whose oath he despised, and whose treaty he has broken. There in Babylon he will die.

¹⁷Pharaoh will not send a mighty army and throngs of men to help him in war when ramps are built and siege works erected to kill many people. ¹⁸This king has despised the oath and broken the treaty. Because he did all these things after giving his hand, he shall not escape!

¹⁹That is why the Lord Yahweh speaks thus: "As I live, I will make him account for the oath he despised and the treaty he broke. ²⁰I will spread my net over him and he will be caught in its mesh. I will bring him to Babylon and there I will demand an account of his infidelity to me. ²¹As for the pick of his troops they will fall by the sword; those who survive will be scattered to the winds and you will know that I, Yahweh, have spoken."

²²Thus says the Lord Yahweh: "At the top of the cedar I will take one of its uppermost branches, a tender twig and plant it. ²³On a lofty, massive mountain, on a high mountain of Israel I will plant it. It will produce branches and bear fruit and become a magnificent cedar. Birds of all kinds will nest in it and find shelter in its branches. ²⁴And all the trees of the field shall know that I am Yahweh, I who bring down the lofty tree and make the lowly tree tall. I will make the tree that is full of sap wither and the dry tree bloom. I, Yahweh, have spoken and this will I do."

33. Hos 8, 9 48. Gen 18, 19; Is 3, 9; Jer 23, 14

and experienced forgiveness often show more compassion and more eagerness to save sinners.

+ Ezekiel himself explains this long comparison. The conclusion is that kings descending from David are coming to an end. Another descendant of David will be chosen by God himself to be the Messiah. Verses 22-24 refer to Christ and to the Church.

The one who broke the treaty (15-20). Zedekiah's submission to the Chaldeans was the just price for the previous errors denounced by the prophets. God does not accept every liberation, nor the use of any means whatsoever.

If a sinner turns away from sin, he will live

■18 ¹ The word of Yahweh came to me in these terms, ² "Why are you applying this proverb to the land of Israel:

The fathers have eaten sour grapes and the children's teeth are set on edge? ³ As I live, word of Yahweh, this proverb will no longer be quoted in Israel. ⁴ All life is in my hands, the life of the father and the life of the son are mine. The lives of both are in my hands, so the one who sins will die.

⁵ Imagine a man who is righteous and practices what is just and right. ⁶ He does not eat in the mountain shrines, or look towards the filthy idols of Israel, does not defile his neighbour's wife, or have intercourse with a woman during her period; ⁷ he molests no one, pays what he owes, does not steal, gives food to the hungry and clothes to the naked, ⁸ demands no interest on a loan and doesn't lend for interest, refrains from injustice, practices true justice, man to man, ⁹ follows my decrees and obeys my laws in acting loyally. Because such a man is truly righteous, he will live, word of the Lord Yahweh.

¹⁰ But perhaps this man has a son who steals and sheds blood, committing crimes which his father never did. ¹¹ Perhaps the son eats at the mountain shrines, defiles the wife of his neighbour, ¹² oppresses the poor and needy, steals, neglects to pay his debts, looks to the idols, does detestable things, ¹³ demands interest on a loan, even practices usury. Will such a man live? No, he will not! Because he has committed all these abominations he will die: his guilt will fall upon him.

¹⁴ But imagine that such a man has in turn a son who does not commit the sins he has seen his father do. ¹⁵ He does not eat at the mountain shrines or look to the idols of Israel, does not defile his neighbour's wife, ¹⁶ or oppress anyone or ask for a pledge on a loan; does not steal; and gives food to the hungry and clothing to the naked, ¹⁷ turns from injustice, exacts no usury or excessive interest, observing my decrees and practicing my laws: such a man shall not die because of his father's sins; no, he will live!

¹⁸ His father instead, who practiced extortion and stole from others, will die for his sin, because he did wrong among his people.

¹⁹ You may say, 'Why does the son not bear the guilt of his father?' But the son did what was just and right, observing and practicing my decrees; he will live! ²⁰ The person who sins is

1. 14, 12-20; 33, 10-20 2. Jer 31, 29 4. Dt 24, 16 6. Mt 6, 6; Ps 15 20. Ex 20, 5; Lev 26, 39

■ Fathers ate sour grapes and the children's teeth are set on edge. The primitive people of Israel had a strong sense of common responsibility within a group, family, or nation. In Joshua 7:24, we have the example of the culprit's family being condemned to death along with him, and also the example of the entire people being punished for the fault of one of their members.

However, in the last years of the kingdom of Judah, a sense of personal responsibility becomes stronger:

- The prophets had declared that human justice cannot punish children for the crimes of their parents (Dt 24:16). How then could God act in a different way and punish innocent people?

In ancient times, any error, even unintentional, was considered a "sin". Now, the prophets are teaching that only wickedness is a sin and misfortunes which are not a consequence of this evil are not punishment from God.

The destruction of Jerusalem seemed to punish everyone without differentiating between good and evil people. Ezekiel does not deny the fact that, on that occasion, God struck everyone; but to him, this was a thing of the past, and it was fitting for a people who had totally gone astray. He looks to the future and teaches how God will act from now on with regard to authentic religion:

- Justice will be for the just, and disgrace for the one who will die. The son will not be held responsible for the sin of his father and the father will not be responsible for the sin of his son. The righteous deeds of the righteous will be to his credit and the sin of the wicked will be charged against him.

²¹If the sinner turns from his sin, observes my decrees and practices what is right and just, he will live, he will not die. ²²None of the sins he committed will be charged against him: he will live as a consequence of his righteous deeds. ²³Do I want the death of the sinner? – word of Yahweh. Do I not rather want him to turn from his ways and live?

²⁴But if the righteous man turns away from what is good and commits sins as the wicked do, will he live? His righteous deeds will no longer be credited to him, but he will die because of his infidelity and his sins.

²⁵But you say: Yahweh's way is not just! Why, Israel! Is my position wrong? Is it not rather that yours is wrong? ²⁶If the righteous man dies after turning from his righteous deeds and sinning, he dies because of his sins. ²⁷And if the wicked man does what is good and right, after turning from the sins he committed, he will save his life.

²⁸He will live and not die, because he has opened his eyes and turned from the sins he had committed.

²⁹But you, Israel, say: Yahweh's way is not just! Is my position not just? Is it not rather yours that is wrong? ³⁰That is why I will judge you, Israel, each one according to his ways, word of Yahweh. Come back, turn away from your offenses, that you may not deserve punishment.

³¹Free yourselves from all the offenses you have committed and get a new heart and a new spirit. Why should you die, Israel? ³²I do not want the death of anyone, word of Yahweh, but that you be converted and live!"

The last kings of Judah

◆19 ¹As for you, son of man, intone a lamentation for the princes of Israel.

²Say: A lioness among lions was your mother! Crouching among the cubs she nursed her whelps. ³One of these she pushed forward and he grew to be a young lion, able to tear his prey and become a man-eater.

⁴But the nations heard about him and he was trapped in their pit; and they brought him with hooks to the land of Egypt. ⁵When she saw that her hope had come to nothing, she took another of her cubs and made him a young lion. ⁶He strutted among the others for he had become a strong lion, able to tear his prey and be a man-eater.

⁷He destroyed their strongholds and ravaged their towns. The country and its inhabitants were alarmed at the sound of his roar. ⁸But the nations came against him from the regions round about. They spread their net over him and caught him in their pit. ⁹They put him in a cage with hooks and brought him to the king of Babylon. There he was put in custody so that his roar was no longer heard in the mountains of Israel.

4. 2 K 23, 31

the unfaithful: everyone will receive what he personally deserves.

– If the wicked turns from his sin, he will live: everyone will have time to decide freely. If people are evil at first and then decide to do good, God will wait for their conversion and he will take their last orientation into account.

From this we can draw several conclusions:

- We must never condemn or retaliate against some persons simply because they belong to a certain family, or group, or party who have committed crimes.
- It becomes difficult to accept the death penalty since it takes away the possibility for the culprit to repair the harm done.

We are invited to look with compassion on those with a bad reputation, for God does not want the sinner to die, but to be converted.

In later times, wise men will note that often-times evil people do not receive their punishment, nor good people their reward in this life (see Job 21); and it will become obvious to them that God's justice will be achieved in the next life.

¹⁰Your mother was like the vine of a vineyard planted near water. It became fruitful and leafy from being so well watered. ¹¹It produced a vigorous branch that became a royal sceptre towering above the foliage. It was outstanding for its height and its numerous branches.

¹²But the vine was uprooted in fury and cast down to the ground. The east wind dried it up and stripped it of fruit. Its vigorous branch withered and was burned by fire. ¹³It is now planted in the desert, in an arid land of drought. ¹⁴Fire from its stem has destroyed its branches and fruit. No vigorous branch or royal sceptre has been left.

This is a lament that people will sing.

A summary of the history of Israel

o 20 ¹It happened on the tenth day of the fifth month of the seventh year, some men from among the elders of Jerusalem came to consult Yahweh and sat in front of me. ²Then the word of Yahweh came to me in these terms, ³"Son of man, say to the elders of Israel: This is the word of the Lord Yahweh: Do you come to consult me? As I live, I will not answer you – word of Yahweh.

⁴Judge them, son of man, will you judge them? Let them know about the detestable practices of their fathers. ⁵Say to them:

This is what Yahweh has said: The day I chose Israel, I committed myself to the descendants of Jacob with an oath. I revealed myself to them in the land of Egypt and I swore to them. I am Yahweh, your God. ⁶On that day I swore to them that I would take them out of Egypt to a country I had explored for them, a land flowing with milk and honey, the most splendid of lands.

⁷I said to them: Let each one reject the horrors that attract him! Do not defile yourselves with the idols of Egypt. I am Yahweh, your God.

⁸But they rebelled against me and would not listen; none of them rejected the horrors that attracted them, none abandoned the filthy idols of Israel. I then thought of pouring out my fury on them, exhausting my anger against them in the land of Egypt. ⁹But for the sake of my Name I relented, lest it be profaned in the sight of the nations where they lived, whose inhabitants had seen how I revealed myself to the Israelites in bringing them out of Egypt.

¹⁰So I brought them out of Egypt and led them to the desert. ¹¹I gave them my decrees and made my laws known to them, laws by which man lives provided he observes them. ¹²I also gave them my sabbaths to be a sign between us, letting them know that I am Yahweh who makes them holy.

¹³But Israel rebelled against me in the desert. They did not follow my decrees, they despised my laws by which man lives, provided he obeys them; they so profaned my sabbaths that in my fury I thought of destroying them in the desert.

¹⁴But again I relented for the sake of my Name, lest it be profaned in the sight of the nations who saw me bring them out. ¹⁵However I swore to them in the desert that I would not bring them to the land flowing with milk and honey that I had given them – the choicest of lands – ¹⁶because they had despised my laws and had not followed my decrees; they had profaned my sabbaths, and their heart went after their idols. ¹⁷But I had pity on them and did not destroy them; I did not do away with them in the desert.

¹⁸I said to their children in the desert: Do not follow the example of your fathers; do not keep their practices and do not defile yourselves with their idols. ¹⁹I am Yahweh, your God. Follow my decrees, observe my laws and practice them. ²⁰Keep my sabbaths holy and let them be a sign between us and you will know that I am Yahweh, your God.

²¹But their children too rebelled against

o Another presentation of the sins of Israel throughout its history. Here, Ezekiel constantly speaks of profanation. Being the people of a holy God, Israel cannot live in the same way as other nations that are profane, that is to say, that they do not belong to God. The land of Israel, its laws, its feasts: everything is holy and cannot be used as people please.

In 20:22 Yahweh makes sure that his Name is not profaned. If he were to punish Israel and allow it to be destroyed, the other nations according to the mentality of the time, would despise God who was not able to save his people. Thus, his name would be "profaned". But when Yahweh gathers his people (20:41), all the nations will see his power: thus, his name will be "sanctified".

I gave them statutes that were not good (25). Ezekiel interprets past history in his own way and points out what can humiliate his people as we noted in 20:25. At times the Israelites had used the Law of Leviticus (18:21) regarding the offering of the first-born to God. It justifies the sacrifice of children as practised by the pagans. Ezekiel leads us to see that the law actually required such sacrifices and that Yahweh had allowed it (he says: "had given" using a common Hebrew expression) to punish his people by letting them accumulate these crimes which pleased them.

me; they did not follow my decrees or observe my laws; they did not carry out these laws by which man lives provided he obeys them. They profaned my sabbaths and I thought of pouring out my fury on them and exhausting my anger against them in the desert.

²² But once more I held back my hand lest my Name be profaned in the eyes of the nations that had seen me bring them out. ²³ However I swore to them in the desert that I would scatter them among the nations and disperse them in other lands since they had not obeyed my laws, ²⁴ but instead had defiled my sabbaths and had looked to the idols of their fathers. ²⁵ In the meantime I gave them statutes that were not good and laws they could not live by, ²⁶ so that they might be defiled by their gifts. I let them offer by fire all their firstborn, in order to shame them and let them know that I am Yahweh.

²⁷ Therefore, son of man, speak to Israel: say to them: This is what Yahweh says: Do you not know that your fathers offended me by their infidelity? ²⁸ I led them to the land I had sworn to give them, but whenever they saw a lofty hill or leafy tree they offered sacrifices. They provoked me with the offerings they made there – appeasing aromas and drink offerings. ²⁹ Then I said to them, 'What is this place to which you go?' That is why they called it high place.

³⁰ Say to Israel, Thus says Yahweh: Since you follow your fathers in lust after their abominations, ³¹ in bringing your gifts and sacrificing your children by fire, never ceasing to defile yourselves with your idols, am I to answer when you consult, Israel? As I live, word of Yahweh, I will not answer you.

³² You have in mind to be like the other nations, worshipping wood and stone, but this shall not happen. ³³ As I live, word of Yahweh, I will rule you with an iron hand, an outstretched arm and outpourings of wrath.

³⁴ Then I will bring you from the midst of the nations and from the peoples where I have scattered you with a strong hand, an outstretched arm and outpourings of wrath. ³⁵ I will lead you to the wilderness of Syria and ³⁶ there I will enter into judgment with you face to face. Just as I judged your fathers in the desert of Egypt, ³⁷ so will I judge you, word of the Lord Yahweh. I will make you feel my rod and sort you out. ³⁸ I will rid you of rebels; though they go out from the land of their exile, they shall not enter the land of Israel and you will know that I am Yahweh.

³⁹ People of Israel, this is what the Lord Yahweh says: Go, serve your idols, but in the end you will not refuse to listen to me. No longer shall you profane my holy Name with your gifts and your idols. ⁴⁰ For it is on my holy mountain, the high mountain of Israel – word of the Lord Yahweh – that all Israel, all in the land, shall serve me. ⁴¹ There I will accept you as a pleasing fragrance when I bring you out from the nations and assemble you from the lands where you were dispersed, and through you will show my holiness to the nations.

⁴² You will know that I am Yahweh when I lead you to the land of Israel, to the land that I swore to your fathers that I would give you. ⁴³ And there you will remember your ways and all your deeds by which you defiled yourselves; and you shall loathe yourselves because of your evil ways. ⁴⁴ You will know that I am Yahweh when I deal with you, Israel, for my Name's sake and not according to your wickedness and corrupt deeds, word of the Lord Yahweh.

⁴⁵ The word of Yahweh came to me in these terms. ⁴⁶ "Son of man, look towards the south; direct your words to the south and prophesy against Forest of the south. ⁴⁷ Say to the forest: 'O forest, hear the word of Yahweh: I am kindling a fire that will burn every tree, both green and dry; its flame will not be quenched but from the south to the north every face will be scorched. ⁴⁸ Everyone will see that it was I, Yahweh, who kindled it and that it will not be put out. ⁴⁹ This time I said, "Lord Yahweh, they say that I am always talking in parables!"

My sword is unsheathed

21 ¹ But the word of Yahweh came to me in these terms. ² "Son of man, look towards Jerusalem; address your words to the sanctuary and prophesy against Israel. ³ Say to Israel: I come against you; I will unsheathe my sword and cut off from you both the good and the wicked. ⁴ Yes: against both the good and the wicked. My sword is unsheathed against all mortals from north to south. ⁵ And all will know that I, Yahweh, have unsheathed my sword, and unsheathed it will remain.

⁶ And you, son of man, groan in the bitterness of a broken heart, groan in their presence. ⁷ When they say to you, 'Why are you groaning?' you will answer: 'Because of what will happen; when you hear of it, every heart will melt, every hand become limp, every spirit will be faint and knees shall be as weak as water. It is to happen; it has come, word of the Lord Yahweh.'

⁸ The word of Yahweh came to me in these terms. ⁹ "Son of man; prophesy and say on my behalf: The sword has been polished and sharpened.¹⁰ It has been sharpened for a massacre.¹¹ Yahweh gave it to be polished and seized by the hand. He has had the sword sharpened and polished to hand to the executioner.

¹² Cry out and wail, son of man, for this sword is intended for my people and for the princes of Israel. They shall be given over to the sword with my people; beat your breast, word of the Lord Yahweh.

²² The lot falls upon Jerusalem. Then he raises a wacry, "Set a battering ram at the gates, construct a ramp and erect siege-works."²³ Those who have sworn allegiance to him in Jerusalem do not dare believe it; but he remembers their guilt and they are captured.²⁴ That is why the Lord Yahweh has spoken: Your evil deeds have brought to mind your wickedness and made known your sins. And when I remembered you, sin appeared in all your deeds. Because of this you will be taken captive.

²⁵ As for you, dishonoured criminal, prince of Israel, the day and moment of your punishment has come.²⁶ They will remove your turban, take away your crown. All will be changed: what is lowly will be lifted high and what is lofty will be brought low.²⁷ I will make it a ruins, a ruins such as never has been, until the one comes whose right it is to rule, the one I shall send.

²⁸ And you, son of man, prophesy and say: This is Yahweh's word concerning the Ammonites and their insults. This is what you are to say: The sword is unsheathed for the slaughter, polished and flashing for the work of destruction.²⁹ Beware of your false visions and lying omens, when your sword is laid to the necks of the wicked for their time has come and their punishment is near.³⁰ People of Ammon, put back the sword in its sheath. In your own place, in the land of your birth you will be judged.³¹ I will pour out my wrath on you, against you I will breathe the fire of my fury and hand you over to brutal men, experts in destruction.³² You will be fuel for the fire; your blood will be spilled through the land and you shall be remembered no more for I, Yahweh, have spoken."

The sins of Jerusalem

+ 22¹ The word of Yahweh came to me in these terms,² "Son of man, will you judge them? Will you judge the city of blood? Charge her with all her detestable practices.³ Say: This is the Lord Yahweh's word: City of bloodshed, your hour has come. You who made your own idols to defile yourself, you are nearing your last days, the end of your years has come.⁴ That is why I am making you an object of horror for the nations and a laughingstock for every country.⁵ Those both near and far will mock you, for your name is defiled and you are full of tumult.⁶ The leaders of Israel, each according to his strength, have one intent – to shed

+ In this chapter, from his place of exile Ezekiel addresses the people of Jerusalem.

In you... in you... in you... All sorts of crimes are committed in Jerusalem. Your princes, your priests, your leaders, the people: they all took part in the evil.

The people of Israel have become like dross for me. The trials that we endure are like a furnace used to purify gold and other metals (1 Pt 1:7). But, in the case of Jerusalem, the comparison with the furnace has other designs:

the siege of the city allows the destruction of a people who did not carry out to their mission. Those who do not want to be purified are burned (Mt 3:10).

The blood that you shed (9 and 13). The blood shed by the murderer stained the earth until the blood of the murderer was shed (Dt 19:12). This Hebrew belief stemmed from the conviction that violence was the greatest evil. Above all God condemns organized violence which, by killing opponents and possible accus-blood. ⁷In you, Israel, father and mother are treated with contempt, in you the alien is oppressed, the fatherless and the widow are wronged. ⁸You have despised my holy things and profaned my sabbaths.

⁹In you, men slander to shed blood; in you, they go to eat on the hill sanctuaries and act shamefully. ¹⁰In you are those who defile their father's bed, in you are those who violate women when they are unclean. ¹¹One man commits a detestable offence with his neighbour's wife, another shamefully dishonours his daughter-in-law, another violates his own sister, his father's daughter.

¹²In you, men accept bribes to shed blood. You exact interest and usury and you rob and exploit your neighbour, and you have forgotten me. It is Yahweh who speaks.

¹³See, I will clap my hands at your dishonest profit, and the blood you have shed. Will your courage hold out, will your hands be steady when I shall come against you? ¹⁴I, Yahweh, have spoken and I will act accordingly. ¹⁵I will scatter you among the nations, I will disperse you in other countries to rid you of your uncleanness.

¹⁶Then you will be dishonoured in the eyes of the nations and you will know that I am Yahweh."

¹⁷The word of Yahweh came to me in these terms, ¹⁸"Israel has become for me like dross; some were like silver, bronze, tin, iron and lead; but in the furnace only dross is left.¹⁹ The Lord Yahweh has spoken: This is how I am gathering you together in Jerusalem. ²⁰As they place silver, bronze, iron, lead and tin in the fires of a furnace to be smelted, so in my anger will I assemble you, put you in the furnace and smelt you. ²¹I will gather you in Jerusalem, stir up the fire of my wrath and smelt you in it. ²²As silver is smelted in the furnace so will you be smelted and you will know that I, Yahweh, have poured out my fiery wrath against you."

²³The word of Yahweh came to me in these terms, ²⁴"Son of man, say to Jerusalem: You are a land without rain, a land without a shower on a day of wrath, ²⁵a land where the princes have been like a roaring lion tearing its prey. They devour people; they take treasures and precious objects and increase the number of widows.

²⁶Your priests have broken my laws and have profaned my holy things. They have made no distinction between what is holy and what is common; they have not taught what difference there is between the clean and the unclean. They have ignored my sabbath and I have been dishonoured by them.

²⁷The officials of the city are like wolves who tear their prey, shedding blood and killing people for unjust gain. ²⁸As for the prophets, they whitewash everything by means of false visions and lying predictions, saying: 'The Lord Yahweh has spoken' when Yahweh has not spoken. ²⁹The lords of the land have practiced extortion and robbery, oppressing the

ers. allows the oppression of an entire people.

I looked among them, for one man to build a wall between them and me. Note verse 30 which brings to mind 13:9. Not everyone has the same understanding of the mystery of God, nor are they called to the same responsibilities. There is a need for intercessors who are in solidarity with others, feel compassion for them and become responsible for them before God. Thus prayer appears to be very important. All prophets discover that this is to be their role.

This understanding of how God saves led many friends of God to "withdraw" into solitude; surrendering to the love of God through prayer and suffering.

poor and needy, molesting the alien and denying him justice.

³⁰ I looked for a man among them to build a wall and stand on the breach to protect the land lest I destroy it, but I found none. ³¹ So I have poured out my wrath against them; I have destroyed them in the heat of my fury bringing down on their heads all they have done – it is Yahweh who speaks."

Oholah and Oholibah

23 ¹ The word of the Lord Yahweh came to me in these terms. ² "Son of man, there were two women, daughters of the same mother. ³ They became prostitutes in Egypt, even from their youth. In that land their breasts were fondled and caressed. ⁴ The elder was called Oholah, her sister Oholibah. Both of them were mine and they gave me sons and daughters. Oholah is Samaria and Oholibah is Jerusalem.

■ ⁵ Oholah was mine when she played the harlot; she lusted after her lovers, the Assyrians, ⁶ warriors dressed in purple, governors, commanders, desirable young men, riders on horses. ⁷ She offered them her harlotry, to those who were the best of Assyria. She dishonoured herself with all those for whom she lusted and with their idols. ⁸ But she did not forget her harlotry with the Egyptians who had lain with her and poured their lust on her from the time of her youth. ⁹ That is why I gave her over to her lovers, the Assyrians, the object of her lustful desires. ¹⁰ They uncovered her nakedness, seized her sons and daughters and slew her. And she became a byword among women because punishment had come to her.

manders, horsemen, all desirable young men and ¹³ I saw how she dishonoured herself.

Both sisters acted in the same way but she went further than her sister. ¹⁴ No sooner had she seen men portrayed on walls, pictures of Chaldeans sketched in vermilion than she lusted after these men, ¹⁵ tightly belted, heads top-heavy with turbans, all resembling Babylonian cavalry officers. ¹⁶ She sent messengers to Chaldea and ¹⁷ they came to her in the bed of love and defiled her with their prostitution. They dishonoured her so much that she turned from them in disgust.

²⁴ They will come against you with chariots, wagons and throngs of people who will assail you from all sides with buckler, shield and helmet. ²⁵ I will put your case before them and they will judge you according to their laws. I will release my jealousy against you so that they shall deal with you furiously. They will cut off your nose and your ears and what is left of you will fall by the sword. They will seize your sons and daughters and what is left of you will be consumed by the fire; ²⁶ they will strip you of your clothes and ornaments.

²⁷ I will put an end to your shameful behaviour and your harlotry dating from your time in Egypt; you will not look towards them

31. Zep 3, 8

■ As he did in chapter 16, Ezekiel teaches his compatriots, who are indifferent to the love of Yahweh, by starting with what they know: jealous love and prostitution.

Ezekiel mentions three forms of idolatry: with the Egyptians, the Assyrians and the Babylonians: See commentary on Isaiah 30:22.

What offends God is not only that individuals forsake the God of justice – without whose knowledge nothing befalls us – to trust in stones, images and horoscopes, but also that the whole nation is sinning. God wished to develop within it a new faith, lifestyle and culture able to save humankind; but instead they are satisfied with importing the most alienating of foreign cultures with their advertising, erotic dancers and video tapes.

Oholibah means my tent is in her: this refers to the southern kingdom, with Jerusalem, where Yahweh established his dwelling and to which he gave his promises.

Oholah means her own tent: this is the North which separated with Jeroboam in order to form a kingdom of its own.

again and will no longer dream of Egypt. Thus says ²⁸ Lord Yahweh: I am handing you over to those you hate, to those from whom you turned in disgust. ²⁹ They will treat you with loathing and take from you everything you have worked for, leaving you naked and uncovered and the nakedness of your harlotry will be exposed. ³⁰ Your shameful conduct and your promiscuity have brought this upon you, because you lusted after the nations and defiled yourself with their idols.

³¹ Since you have gone the way of your sister, I will place her cup in your hand. ³² Thus says the Lord Yahweh: You shall drink your sister's cup which is deep and wide. You shall be the butt of derision and mockery; the cup holds so much! ³³ You shall be filled with drunkenness and sorrow; it is a cup of desolation and horror, the cup of Samaria, your sister!

³⁴ You will drink and empty it to the dregs, and then tear your breasts – for I have spoken, word of the Lord Yahweh."

³⁵ That is why the Lord Yahweh speaks thus: "Since you have forgotten me and turned your back on me, you too will pay for your immodesty and harlotry!"

³⁶ Then Yahweh said to me, "Son of man, will you judge Oholah and Oholibah? Confront them with their abominations. ³⁷ For they have committed adultery and stained their hands with blood. They committed adultery with their idols and even sacrificed their children – my children – as food for them. ³⁸ At that time they defiled my sanctuary and profaned my sabbaths: ³⁹ the same day they sacrificed their children to their idols, they entered my sanctuary to desecrate it. This is what they did in my house.

⁴⁰ Both of them sent messages to men who had come from afar and they came. You bathed yourself for them, painted your eyes and decked yourself with jewels. ⁴¹ You seated yourself on a stately couch and beside a table on which you put incense and oil that was fine.

⁴⁵ But upright men will judge as adulterous those who have shed blood, for indeed they are adulteresses and blood is on their hands."

⁴⁸ I will put an end to debauchery in this land; all the women will be warned and no longer will they imitate your immorality. ⁴⁹ I will make your immorality fall on your own heads and when you receive the punishment of your idolatry, you will know that I am Yahweh."

24 ¹ The word of Yahweh came to me on the tenth day of the tenth month of the ninth year in these terms. ² Write today's date, this very day, because the king of Babylon has laid siege to Jerusalem today. ³ Teach this rebellious people by means of a parable: This is what the Lord Yahweh ordered me to do: Put the pot on the fire; place it there and pour water into it. ⁴ Put in it all the pieces of meat, the choice pieces, the leg and shoulder and fill it with the best of the bones. ⁵ Take these from the pick of the flock. Set wood underneath it in a circle to boil the pieces of meat and cook the bones in it."

⁶ Now this is what the Lord Yahweh says, "Woe to the city of blood, to the rusty pot with the rust encrusted on it! Let them empty it, piece by piece but without sparing anyone, ⁷ for the blood she shed is in her midst. She poured it on the rock surface, not on the ground where dust would cover it. ⁸ But I will not cover the blood that was poured on the bare rock. I shall instead kindle my fury and take revenge.

⁹ That is why the Lord Yahweh speaks thus: Woe to the city of blood! ¹⁰ I will make a great heap of wood! Pile on the wood, light the fire, cook the meat well, adding the spice, and let the bones burn. ¹¹ Leave the empty pot on the coals that it may heat and the bronze grow red-hot melt the filth inside so its rust will be consumed.

¹² But the rust is such that not even the fire removes it. ¹³ I have tried to cleanse you of the filth of your immorality but since you would not be cleansed, you shall not be cleansed until I have satisfied my fury against you. ¹⁴ I, Yahweh, have spoken. This will happen; I will act and not relent; I will show no pity, no compassion. You shall be judged according to your ways and your deeds – word of Yahweh."

Ezekiel's wife dies

◆ ¹⁵ The word of Yahweh came to me in these terms, ¹⁶ "Son of man, I am about to suddenly take from you the delight of your eyes, but you are not to lament or weep or let your tears flow. ¹⁷ Groan in silence and do not mourn for the dead; wear your turban, put on your sandals, do not cover your beard or eat the customary food of mourners."

The next morning I did as I had been commanded. ¹⁹ Then the people said to me: "Explain to us the meaning of your actions." ²⁰ I said to them, "The word of Yahweh came to me in these terms: ²¹ 'Say to Israel: I am about to profane my sanctuary, your pride, the delight of your eyes for which you long. The sons and daughters you left behind will also fall by the sword, ²² but you will do as I have done; you will not cover your beard or eat the customary food of mourners; ²³ you will keep your turbans on your heads and sandals on your feet. You will not lament or weep. Instead, because of your sin, you will waste away and groan among yourselves. ²⁴ Ezekiel will be a sign for you. Do as he did and when this happens you will know that I am the Lord Yahweh."

²⁵ Son of man, the day I take their stronghold, the jewel which is the delight of their eyes, for which they and their children long, ²⁶ on that day a fugitive will come to give you the news. ²⁷ That very day you will open your mouth and be able to speak to him and you will no longer be silent. You will be a sign for them and they will know I am Yahweh.

PROPHECIES AGAINST FOREIGN NATIONS

Ammon, Moab, Edom, the Philistines

o25 ¹ The word of Yahweh came to me in these terms, ² "Turn towards the people of the Ammonites and prophesy against them. ³ Say to them on my behalf: This is what the Lord Yahweh says: Because you mocked when my sanctuary was profaned, when the land of Israel was laid waste and the Judeans were exiled, ⁴ I am giving you over to the people of the East as their possession; they will pitch their camps and settle among you. They will eat your fruit and drink your milk. ⁵ I will turn Rabbah into a pasture for camels and the towns of the Ammonites into a sheepfold and you will know that I am Yahweh."

⁶ Thus says the Lord Yahweh: "Because you clapped your hands and stamped your feet and danced for joy with an evil heart against the land of Israel, ⁷ I will stretch out my hand against you and hand you over as plunder to the nations. I will cut you off from the nations; no longer will you be numbered among them. I will destroy you and you will know I am Yahweh."

◆ Once again, the prophet uses his own situation to announce the fall of Jerusalem which will lose its wealth and its inhabitants.

The prophet's personal trial in his marriage can be compared to what happened to other prophets, and the commentary was found in Jeremiah 16:1.

○ Chapters 25-32 contain the "messages against the pagan nations" similar to what is found in other prophets.

After announcing the almost total destruction of Israel, the prophet predicts the final destruction of Israel's enemies, when the time of justice arrives. The prophet's words are inspired by an

⁹ Thus says the Lord Yahweh, "Because Moab said: 'Judah is like all the other nations,' I will leave Moab unprotected and destroy the towns which are her glory; Beth eshimoth, Baal Meon, Kiriathaim. ¹⁰ I will give Moab along with the Ammonites as a possession to the people of the East so that the Ammonites will not be remembered among the nations. ¹¹ When I will punish Moab, they will know I am Yahweh."

¹² Word of the Lord Yahweh, "Because Edom took revenge on Judah and was guilty in so doing, this is what the Lord Yahweh says: 'I will stretch out my hand against Edom, destroying men and animals. I will make it a ruin from Teman and let them be slain as far as Dedan. ¹⁴ I will put Israel in charge of my revenge against Edom. They will deal with Edom according to my wrath and my fury and Edom will experience my revenge' – word of Yahweh."

¹⁵ Word of the Lord Yahweh, "Because the Philistines have taken revenge with an evil heart and because of their ceaseless hatred, thus says the Lord Yahweh: ¹⁶ 'I intend to stretch out my hand against the Philistines; I will cut off the Kerethites and destroy the rest of the coast. ¹⁷ I will take terrible revenge and punish them in my wrath – then they will know I am Yahweh.'"

Against Tyre

26 ¹ On the first day of the month in the eleventh year, the word of Yahweh came to me in these terms. ² "Son of man, you see how Tyre has mocked Jerusalem: 'Aha! the land through which the goods of the nations come to me is destroyed; what she received will now be mine. I shall prosper while she lies in ruins.' ³ 'Because Tyre said that – word of the Lord Yahweh – I am against her! I will bring many people against her. They will rise like the waves of the sea, ⁴ they will destroy the ramparts of Tyre and knock down its towers. I will sweep away the dust, making of it a bare rock. ⁵ She will be in the midst of the sea, a place to hang out nets – I, Yahweh, have spoken."

⁶ Tyre will be plundered for the nations; her villages on dry land will be laid waste by the sword and they will know that I am Yahweh."

⁷ This is what the Lord Yahweh says, "From the north I will bring Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, against Tyre. He will come with horses, chariots and cavalry, a vast army and throngs of people. ⁸ He will lay waste with the sword your villages on dry land. He will set up a siege wall against you and throw up a mound and raise a roof of shields against you. ⁹ He will set a battering ram to hammer your walls and he will demolish your towers with weapons. ¹⁰ His numerous horses will cover you with dust. The noise of the cavalry, the wheels of the chariots and wagons will make your walls shake when they enter your gates as one enters a town through a breach in its walls."

¹¹ Horses' hooves will trample your streets; he will slay your people with the sword and your powerful pillars will crumble to the ground. ¹² They will plunder your riches and loot your merchandise. They will break down your walls and destroy your pleasant houses. Your stones, timber and soil they will cast into the sea.

¹³ I will silence your songs and the sound of your lyres will be heard no more. ¹⁴ I will make a stark rock of you, a place to dry fishing nets, and you shall never be rebuilt! – I, Yahweh, have spoken."

¹⁵ This is a word of Yahweh to Tyre: At the time of your massacre, will not the coastlands quake, when the noise of your fall and the groaning of the victims is heard? ¹⁶ All the princes of the sea will step down from their thrones; they will remove their robes and take off their embroidered garments. They will put on mourning clothes, sit on the ground, urgent sense of justice. The Ammonite, Edomite, etc. nations have no right to survive as nations since they have no part in preparing for salvation and Yahweh only used them to purify his people. And so, they must disappear in the turmoil of history.

It would be a misunderstanding of the Bible if we were led to ask God to punish people who do not believe and who even persecute the Church (see 1 Peter). Neither can we now wish for the destruction of an oppressor nation since the race of Christ is at work everywhere. All we have to affirm is that any institution which is opposed to the Gospel message, will disappear:

"Every plant which my Father did not plant, will be uprooted" (Matthew 15:13).

Ezekiel announces the destruction of Tyre through shipwreck images. Compare with the fall of Nineveh (Na 2:3) and of Babylon (Jer 51).

In Revelation (18:9) these words will be remembered and applied to the Roman empire and to its capital, Rome, which was the center of the world at the time of the apostles. What a condemnation for our civilization which always puts economic success in the first place, even if it praises cultural and spiritual values. And nations are ruined, families and people are broken by unemployment, while a few stores offer an abundance of imported goods.

tremble with fear and be appalled because of you.¹⁷ They will be amazed on your account and will take up this lament:

'How you have perished, vanished from the sea, city of renown! Formerly you and your citizens were so powerful on the sea! You imposed terror on all¹⁸ but now the coastlands tremble on the day of your fall. The islands of the sea are terrified at your disappearance.'

¹⁹Thus says the Lord Yahweh: When I make you into a city of ruins like uninhabited towns, when I make the ocean rise against you and the mighty waters cover you,²⁰ then I will thrust you down with those who descend to the pit, to the people of long ago. I will throw you into the nether land, into everlasting loneliness, like those who go down to the pit, that you may not return to the land of the living.²¹ Then you will be an object of horror, and even if sought, you will not be found – word of the Lord Yahweh."

A lament for Tyre

■27 ¹The word of the Lord Yahweh came to me in these terms, ²"Son of man intone a lament for Tyre and ³say to her, who is gateway to the sea who trades with people on many coasts: This is what the Lord Yahweh says:

Tyre, you were satisfied with your perfect beauty.⁴ Your borders were in the heart of the sea and your builders perfected your beauty; ⁵all your planks were made of the wood of fir trees, your masts from the cedars of Lebanon and ⁶your oars from the oak of Bashan. Your decks were of cedar from the coast of Cyprus inlaid with ivory.

⁷Embroidered linen from Egypt was used for your sails which served as your ensign. Your awning was made of blue and purple from the coasts of Elishah.⁸ Your oarsmen were citizens of Sidon and Arvad. The most skilled men from Zemer served you as pilots,⁹ veteran craftsmen from Gebal were on board to seal your seams. All the ships of the seas with their crews called on you to barter for your wares.

¹⁰Persia, Lud and Put served in your army as men of war. They brought you splendour and hung their bucklers and helmets on your walls.¹¹ The men of Arvad and Helech watched all around your walls; men of Gamad guarded your towers and hung their shields on your walls completing your magnificence.

¹²Tarshish traded with you because of your abundant wealth, supplying your markets with silver, iron, tin and lead.¹³ Javan, Tubal and Mishech trafficked with you, providing you with slaves and articles in bronze.

¹⁴People of Togarmah exchanged work horses, war horses and mules for your wares.¹⁵ The men of Rhodes traded with you and many coastlands were your customers; in payment they gave ivory tusks and ebony wood.¹⁶ Edom trafficked with you because of your many products and provided your markets with turquoise, purple fabric, embroidered cloth, fine linen, coral and rubies.¹⁷ Judah and Israel sold you wheat from Minnith, millet, honey, oil and resin.¹⁸ Damascus traded with you because of your abundant wares and provided you with wine from Helbon and white wool.

¹⁹Danites and Greeks from Uzal exchanged wrought iron, cassia and calamus for your merchandise.²⁰ Dedan supplied you with saddle blankets.²¹ Arabia and all the princes of Kedar carried on a lively trade with you in lambs, rams and goats.

²²Merchants from Sheba and Raamah provided your markets with all kinds of high grade spices, precious stones and gold.²³ Haran, Canneh, Eden, Asshur and Chilmad²⁴ traded with you in beautiful garments, blue fabric, embroidered cloth, coloured rugs with twisted and tightly-knotted cords.²⁵ The ships of Tarshish carried your merchandise.

You set out for the wide ocean,

²⁶ your mariners led you to the high sea and the east wind wrecked you in the sea.

²⁷ Your riches, wares, merchandise,

your seamen and sailors,

those who repaired your seams,

and assured your trade,

your men of war with all the passengers sank into the depths of the sea

on the day of your shipwreck.

²⁸ At the cries of your seamen the coasts quaked

²⁹ and the oarsmen came from their ships; sailors and seamen went ashore.

³⁰ They mourn and weep bitterly for you, throw dust on their heads and roll in ashes.

³¹ Because of you they shave their heads and wear sackcloth.

In the bitterness of their hearts they weep and intone a bitter lament for you.

■ Phoenicia with its ports, Tyre and Sidon was on the coast of Palestine. A very small country, but its people were dedicated to sea trade and they were in contact with all the nations on the Mediterranean. And so they were very rich and more enterprising than the Israelites. From Phoenicia, pagan influences had reached Israel, especially in the days of Ahab (1 Kgs 16:29).

³² A funeral song is heard:

Who was like Tyre, now silent
in the midst of the ocean?

³³ How many nations you provided with the goods unloaded from distant shores!

With your abundant riches and commerce
you enriched the kings of the earth,

³⁴ but now you are shattered by the sea,
engulfed in its depths.

Your wares and all your company have gone down!

³⁵ All who live on the coasts are appalled
because of you,

their kings shudder, and fall prostrate.

³⁶ The merchants of the nations hiss at
you,

you are an object of dread.

You have gone forever."

About the king of Tyre

28 ¹ The word of Yahweh came to me in these terms, ² "Son of man, say to the prince of Tyre:

You are very proud and self-satisfied:

'I am a god, I sit like a god in the heart of the sea.'

Yet you are man and not a god;

would you hold yourself as wise as God?

³ You consider yourself wiser than Daniel:

no secret is hidden from you.

⁴ Your wisdom and know-how have earned you a fortune,

gold and silver flowed to your treasury.

⁵ Clever in trade, you became wealthy and as your fortune increased,
your heart became prouder.

⁶ But now Yahweh has spoken to you,
to the one who is like God:

⁷ I am bringing foreigners against you,
the most feared of all the nations.
Their sword will challenge your wisdom and debase your refined culture.

⁸ They will bring you down to the pit and you will die in the depths of the sea.

⁹ Will you be able to say 'I am a god'
when your murderers are killing you?

You are a man and not a god.

¹⁰ You will die the death of the uncircumcised

and perish at the hands of aliens, for I have spoken – word of Yahweh."

¹¹ The word of Yahweh came to me in these terms, ¹² "Son of man, intone a lamentation for the king of Tyre and say to him: This is what Yahweh says:

You were the model of perfection,
full of wisdom and perfect in beauty.

¹³ You lived in Eden, the garden of God, and every kind of precious stone adorned
you,

ruby, topaz, emerald, chrysolite, onyx
and jasper, sapphire, turquoise and emerald.

The trinkets on your robe were made of gold,

prepared for you on the day you were created.

¹⁴ I anointed you a guardian angel on the holy mountain of God where you walked amidst the spirits of God.

¹⁵ You were perfect in your ways from the day you were created until wickedness was found in you.

¹⁶ Because of your extensive trade
you were filled with violence and sinned;
I then deprived you of your dignity, driving you away from the mountain of God,

expelling you from among the guardian
angels;

¹⁷ your heart was proud because of your beauty.

As your splendour corrupted your wisdom
I have cast you down to the ground and exposed you before kings,
a spectacle in their sight.

¹⁸ Your many sins and dishonest trade have filled and defiled your sanctuaries.
Then I made fire break out in you and reduced you to ashes on the ground in the sight of all who looked on.

¹⁹ The nations who knew you are appalled.

You have become an object of terror;
you have gone forever."

²⁰ The word of the Lord Yahweh came to me in these terms, ²¹ "Look towards Sidon and prophesy against her. You will say:

²² Thus says the Lord Yahweh: I come against you, Sidon, and I will be glorified in you. When I inflict punishment on her and make known my holiness, they will know I am Yahweh. ²³ I will send pestilence against her and shed blood in her streets. The sword is directed against her from all sides and they will know I am Yahweh when the victims fall.

²⁴ No longer will there be for the people of Israel thorns that wound or briars that prick them among their neighbours. Then they will know that I am Lord Yahweh.

²⁵ Thus says the Lord Yahweh: When I gather Israel from among the nations where she has been dispersed, I will use them to show the nations my holiness and they will live in the land I gave to my servant Jacob. ⁴⁶ They will live safely, build houses and plant vineyards. They will live in safety when I punish all those neighbours who treated them with contempt and they will know that I am Yahweh, their God."

Against Egypt

29 ¹ On the tenth day of the twelfth month of the tenth year the word of Yahweh came to me in these terms, ² "Son of man, look towards Pharaoh, king of Egypt, and prophesy against all Egypt. ³ Say: This is the word of Yahweh: I am against you, Pharaoh, king of Egypt! Huge monster wallowing in the midst of your streams saying: 'The Nile and its canals are mine; I made them.' ⁴ I will put hooks in your jaws and make the fish of your rivers cling to your scales. I will drag you from your rivers with all the fish clinging to your scales. ⁵ I will throw you and the fish of the rivers into the desert. You will fall on the ground with no one to lift you up or bury you. I will give you as food to the wild beasts and to the birds of the air, and ⁶ all who live in Egypt will know I am Yahweh.

You have been but a staff of reed for Israel. ⁷ When they took hold of you, you broke in their hands; you tore open all their shoulder; when they leaned on you, you wrenched their backs. ⁸ That is why thus says Yahweh: I am bringing the sword against you and I will destroy both men and animals. ⁹ Egypt will be a wasteland and a ruins, and the Egyptians will know that I am Yahweh when Egypt is made a ruins and a wasteland.

You said: 'The Nile is mine. I made it. ¹⁰ Because of that I am coming against you in the midst of your streams. I will reduce Egypt to a lonely ruins from Migdal to Aswan and to the border of Cush. ¹¹ Neither foot of man nor hoof of animal will tread its paths. Egypt will be uninhabited for forty years; ¹² I will make it one among the wastelands and for forty years its cities will be numbered among cities in ruins. I will scatter the Egyptians among the nations and disperse them in other lands.

¹³ Thus says the Lord Yahweh: After forty years I will gather the Egyptians from among the nations where they were dispersed: ¹⁴ I will bring back Egyptian captives to Pathros, the land of their birth. There they will form a small kingdom, ¹⁵ weaker than other kingdoms, no longer strong enough to dominate other nations. ¹⁶ I will decrease their number, so that they may no longer conquer other lands. No longer will Israel be tempted to trust in Egypt, nor will they sin by turning to Egypt for help. Then they will know that I am the Lord Yahweh."

¹⁷ It happened on the first day of the first month of the twenty-seventh year that the word of Yahweh came to me in these terms:

¹⁹ That is why thus says the Lord Yahweh: I intend to give Egypt to Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon. He will carry off its riches, plunder it and let his army have the loot in place of wages. ²⁰ Because these people have worked for me, I will give Egypt to them as a reward – word of the Lord Yahweh.

"On that day I will lift up the nation of Israel, and as for you, I will let you speak among them again and they will know that I am Yahweh."

30 ¹ The word of Yahweh came to me in these terms, ² 'Son of man, prophesy and say: This is the word of Yahweh: Moan! Ah! ³ the day is near; the day of Yahweh is coming! It will be a day of clouds, a time of doom for the nations. ⁴ The sword is brought to strike Egypt and anguish will come to Cush. The slain will fall throughout Egypt; people will carry off its riches and its foundations will be torn away. ⁵ Cush, Put and Lydia, all Arabia, Libya and all the people of the covenant will fall by the sword.

⁶ This is the word of Yahweh: "Those who support Egypt will fall; her haughty power will crumble! From Migdal to Aswan, people will be slain, word of Yahweh. ⁷ They will be numbered among desolate lands, and her cities among ruined cities. ⁸ They will know I am Yahweh when I set fire to Egypt and when all her allies are crushed.

⁹ On that day my messengers will leave in ships to shake the people of Cush out of their complacency and they will be in anguish on the day of the fall of Egypt; for that day is coming.

¹⁰ Thus says the Lord Yahweh: I will put an end to the hordes of Egypt by means of Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon and ¹¹ his people with him, the most feared among the nations. For I will lead them here to destroy the land.

They will draw their swords against Egypt and fill the land with victims. ¹² I will dry up Egypt's canals and hand over the country to the wicked. I will use the hand of the foreigner to make the land and all it contains a waste. I, Yahweh, have spoken.

¹³ This is word of the Lord Yahweh: I will destroy the idols and wipe out the false gods in Memphis. No longer will there be a prince in the land of Egypt and I will put fear in the land. ¹⁴ I will make a wasteland of Pathros, set fire to Zoan and inflict punishment on Thebes. ¹⁵ I will pour out my fury on Pelusium, the fortress of Egypt, and destroy the throngs of Thebes.

¹⁶ I will set fire to Egypt: Pelusium will writhe in agony. They will enter Thebes through a breach and take her by storm. ¹⁷ The young men of Heliopolis and Bubastis will fall by the sword and the women will be taken captive. ¹⁸ What a dark day it will be in Tahpanhes when I break the leadership of Egypt and destroy her arrogant might! As for this city a cloud will cover it and her daughters will be taken captive. ¹⁹ I will inflict punishment on Egypt and they will know that I am Yahweh."

²⁰ On the seventh day of the first month of the eleventh year, the word of Yahweh came to me. ²¹ Son of man, I have broken the arm of Pharaoh, king of Egypt. No one has treated it for healing or bandaged it to enable him to hold a sword. ²² That is why thus says the Lord Yahweh: See, I am against Pharaoh, king of Egypt. I will break his arms, both the one that is strong and the wounded one as well. ²³ I will scatter the Egyptians among the nations and disperse them in other lands. ²⁴ I will strengthen the arm of the king of Babylon and put my sword in his hand; but as for Pharaoh, I will break his arms, making him moan like a mortally wounded man. ²⁵ Yes, I will strengthen the arm of the king of Babylon but make Pharaoh's arm limp. They will know I am Yahweh when I place my sword in the hand of the king of Babylon. ²⁶ I will scatter the Egyptians among the nations and disperse them in other lands and they will know that I am Yahweh."

31 ¹ On the first of the third month of the eleventh year, the word of Yahweh came to me. ² Son of man, say to Pharaoh, king of Egypt and to his multitude: Who is comparable to you in your greatness? ³ You are like a cedar in Lebanon, with beautiful branches, providing forest shade, and very tall, with top among the clouds.

⁴ It grew. The waters made it grow, and the streams ascending from the deep springs that watered all the trees of the land through the canals, flowed straight to its place. ⁵ Higher than all the other trees, its boughs increased and its branches grew larger because of the plentiful water. ⁶ The birds of the air nested in its boughs and all the animals brought forth their young under its branches. Numerous nations lived in its shade.

⁷ It became majestic in height and in the thickness of its branches for its roots were turned towards plentiful water. ⁸ The other cedars in the garden of God could not equal it. The pine trees could not equal its boughs nor could the plane trees rival its branches. No other tree in God's garden was comparable to it in beauty. ⁹ I made it beautiful in the abundance of its branches, the envy of the trees in the garden of God in Eden.

¹⁰ That is why thus says the Lord Yahweh: Because it grew tall and reached the clouds and became proud, ¹¹ I will hand it over to the ruler of the nations who will treat it according to its wickedness. I have rejected it. ¹² Foreigners, the most terrible among the nations, have felled it, cut it down on the mountains: its boughs have fallen in all the valleys, its branches lie broken in ravines. All the nations have fled from its shade and abandoned it. ¹³ The birds of the air alight on its broken boughs and the animals are found among its fallen branches. ¹⁴ This is to prevent well-watered trees from attaining such a height and reaching the clouds. For all are destined to die and go below among those who descend to the pit.

¹⁵ Thus says the Lord Yahweh: The day the cedar descended to the nether world I made the depths mourn for it. I restrained its rivers and held back the abundant waters. Darkness covered Lebanon and all the trees of the field were faint. ¹⁶ The nations were shaken at the noise of its fall when I made it depart to the lower regions with those who go down to the pit. Then all the trees from Eden, the finest trees of Lebanon, all that were well-watered were comforted in the earth below. ¹⁷ Those from among the nations who lived in its shade, they too went down together to those slain by the sword. ¹⁸ O tree, splendid and glorious, who among the trees of Eden was comparable to you? But you were made to go down to the lower regions like the other trees of Eden. You lay among the uncircumcised people, victims of the sword, you Pharaoh and all your multitudes, word of the Lord Yahweh."

¹ This is what the Lord Yahweh says: I will spread my nets over you, and an assembly of many nations will haul you up into my net. ⁴ I will throw you on the ground, hurl you into the open field and let the birds of the air settle on you and the beasts of the earth feed on you. ⁵ I will scatter your flesh on the mountains, fill the valleys with your remains and ⁶ drench the earth with your liquids. When I blot you out, ⁷ the skies will darken and the stars become dim; I will veil the sun with a cloud and the moon shall not give its light. ⁸ Because of you I will darken all the lights in the sky and cover the earth in darkness, word of the Lord Yahweh.

⁹ Many nations will grieve when I spread the news of your fall, even people you do not know; ¹⁰ their kings will shudder because of you when I wave my sword before them. All of them will tremble for their life, on the day of your fall.

¹¹For thus says the Lord Yahweh: The sword of the king of Babylon is coming against you. ¹²The sword of the warriors, the most terrible among the nations will destroy your numerous people. They will shatter the pride of Egypt and your multitudes will be exterminated. ¹³I will destroy all your cattle along the shores of the great river, no longer to be trod by man or beast. ¹⁴And then I will calm their rivers and their streams will flow like oil, word of the Lord Yahweh. ¹⁵When I make a wasteland of Egypt and destroy its inhabitants, striking all those who live there, they will know that I am Yahweh."

¹⁶ This is the dirge which the cities of the nations will chant for Egypt and its multitudes – word of the Lord Yahweh.

¹⁷ On the fifteenth day of the month, in the eleventh year, the word of Yahweh came to me in these terms, ¹⁸ "Son of man, wail for the multitudes of Egypt and make them descend to the nether world. ¹⁹ For I will send them to the land of shadows with those who go down to the pit. ²⁰ There they will meet all the victims of the sword. Egypt has been taken; she has been dragged away with her multitudes. ²¹ The mighty heroes in the nether world together with Pharaoh's allies, will say to her: 'Why should you be more favoured than others? Come down and make your bed with the uncircumcised, with those fallen by the sword.'

²⁶ Mescech and Tubal are there with the tombs of their multitude around them. All these uncircumcised are there pierced by the sword, for they spread terror in the land of the living. ²⁷ They are not lying with the heroes of former times who went to the grave with all their gear of war; the heroes whose terror filled the land of the living, lie with their swords placed under their heads their shields over their bones.

he will be comforted because of all his multitudes killed by the sword, word of the Lord Yahweh.³² Although I had him spread terror in the land of the living, Pharaoh will be laid among the uncircumcised victims of the sword, he and his multitudes, word of the Lord Yahweh."

- Jerusalem has been captured. While all the illusions of the Jews and their false prophets are crumbling, Ezekiel understands that they have come to the end of the trial. In the future, perhaps remote, there is glimpse of a resurrection. The prophet reveals many promises of God in

THE RE-ESTABLISHMENT OF ISRAEL

The prophet – watchman of the people

o33 ¹The word of the Lord Yahweh came to me in these terms, ²"Son of man, speak to your people and say to them: Imagine that I bring the sword against a country, and the people of that country choose one among them to be their sentry. ³When this man sees the sword approach the land, he shall sound the trumpet to warn the people; 'then if anyone hears the trumpet and does not heed the warning he shall be responsible for his own death,' but the man who gave the warning will save his life. ⁴On the other hand when the sentry sees the sword coming and does not blow the trumpet, the people are not warned and some are killed. In that case I will hold the sentry responsible and he will answer for the victims' death.

⁵For your part, son of man, I have set you as a watchman for Israel, and when you hear my word, you must give them my warning. ⁶When I say to the wicked: 'Wicked man, you shall die for sure,' if you do not warn the wicked man to turn from his ways, he will die because of his sin, but I will also call you to account for his blood. ⁷If you warn the wicked man to turn from his ways and he does not do so, he will die for his sin, but you yourself will be saved.

⁸Son of man, you know the people of Israel say: 'We are wasting away because of our sin, and our wrongdoing is weighing us down. How can we live?' ⁹Say to them: As I live, word of Yahweh, I do not want the wicked to die but rather that they turn from their ways and live. Turn! turn from your wicked ways! Why, O Israel, should you die?

¹⁰You, son of man, say to your people: 'The righteous life of the upright will not save him on the day he turns to sin and the wicked man will not be bound to his wickedness on the day he turns from his evil ways; likewise for the upright: he will die. ¹¹When I have said to the righteous: 'You will live,' if he takes advantage of his righteousness to do evil, his former upright life will not be remembered; the evil he is doing will make him die. ¹²And if I say to the wicked man, 'You will certainly die,' but he then turns from his sin and does what is just and right, ¹³gives back what he took as a pledge on a loan, restores what he has stolen, obeys the decrees that are life-giving and avoids evil, he will live, he will not die. ¹⁴His life in sin will no longer be held against him. He has done what is just and right and because of that he will live.

¹⁵Yet your people say, 'The position of the Lord is not just.' On the contrary it is theirs that is wrong. ¹⁶The upright man who turns from what is just and right and does evil, shall die; ¹⁷and the wicked man who turns from evil to do what is just and right shall live! ¹⁸Though you say: 'The Lord's position is wrong,' I will judge you, Israel, each one according to his ways."

¹⁹On the fifth day of the tenth month in the eleventh year of our exile, a fugitive arrived from Jerusalem to tell me: "The city has fallen."

²⁰Now the hand of Yahweh had been on me the evening before the arrival of the fugitive. When I met him in the morning, Yahweh opened my mouth. My tongue was loosened and no longer was I silent.

²¹The word of Yahweh then came to me in these terms, ²²"Son of man, those who remain among the ruins in the land of Israel reckon: 'Abraham was alone when he received the land as a possession: we are still numerous enough and it is to us that the country has been given.'

²³But you will say to them: thus says the Lord Yahweh: You eat food with blood, you look towards idols, you shed blood, and you want to possess the land! ²⁴You lean on your sword, you do what is detestable, each one dishonours his neighbour's wife and yet you want to possess the land!

²⁵Say to them: 'This is the word of Yahweh: As I live, those who settled among the ruins will fall by the sword; those in the open country I will give as food to the beasts and those in strongholds and caves shall die of the plague. ²⁶I will make the country a wasteland, a lonely place. They will no longer lean on their power and the mountains of Israel shall be deserted with no one crossing them. ²⁷Then they will know that I am Yahweh when I make their country a lonely waste because of all the detestable things they have done.

²⁸Son of man, your people talk about you chapters 34-39. This chapter (33) marking the capture of Jerusalem serves as an introduction.

In 33:1-20 we have a slightly different version of what we commented in 3:17 and 18:21.

33:11. In time of misfortune, the wicked lose all hope; but, the prophet who had always announced misery, raises his voice to encourage conversion and to share God's thinking: I do not want the wicked to die ... O, people of Israel, why should you die?

along the walls and at the doors of the houses, each one with his neighbour: 'Come and hear the latest word of Yahweh.'

³¹ They go to you as they go to an assembly and sit in front of you. They listen to your words but do not do what you say. Instead they continue to lie and look only for their own interest. ³² For them you are no more than a singer of lovesongs – a beautiful voice accompanied by beautiful music. They listen but do not practice what they hear.

³³ But when what is foretold comes true – and it is about to happen – they will know that there was a prophet among them."

The shepherds of Israel

+34 ¹ The word of Yahweh came to me in these terms, ² "Son of man, speak on my behalf against the shepherds of Israel! Say to them on my behalf: Woe to the shepherds of Israel who feed themselves! Should not the shepherds feed the flock? ³ But you feed on milk and are clothed in wool, and you slaughter the fattest sheep instead of taking care of the flock. ⁴ You have not strengthened the weak, cared for the sick or bandaged the injured. You have not gone after the sheep that strayed or searched for the one that was lost. Instead you ruled them harshly and were their oppressors. ⁵ They have scattered for want of a shepherd and become the prey of wild animals. ⁶ My sheep wander over the mountains and high hills; and when they are scattered throughout the land, no one bothers about them or looks for them.

⁷ Hear then shepherds, what Yahweh says: ⁸ As I live – word of Yahweh, – because my sheep have been the prey of wild animals and become their food for want of shepherds, because my shepherds have not cared for my sheep, because you shepherds have not bothered about them but fed yourselves and not the flocks, because of that, ⁹ hear the word of Yahweh. ¹⁰ This is what Yahweh says: I will ask an account of the shepherds and reclaim my sheep from them. No longer shall they tend my flock; nor shall there be shepherds who feed themselves. I shall save the flock from their mouths and no longer shall it be food for them.

¹¹ Indeed the Lord Yahweh says this: I myself will care for my sheep and watch over them. ¹² As the shepherd looks after his flock when he finds them scattered, so will I watch over my sheep and gather them from all the places where they were scattered in a time of cloud and fog. ¹³ I will bring them out from the nations

+ The Lord Yahweh gathers his scattered flock.

There are two parts to this long comparison in which Yahweh promises to become the shepherd of his flock:

- a revolution.
- a judgment.

Speak on my behalf against the shepherds of Israel. Here, Yahweh announces a radical change in the social life of Israel: he will replace all the shepherds. The expression "shepherd" applies to all civil authorities, and thus, it includes the king, the magistrates and the judges. It does not include the priests and the prophets, contrary to modern usage, since for us the word "pastor (shepherd)" refers only to the spiritual leaders of a community.

Should not the shepherds feed the flock?(2) The flock does not belong to the shepherds. Yahweh condemns the leaders of his people who found it normal to enjoy power and wealth without first seeing themselves as the servants of the people. We can easily imagine the misery of the Jewish people in the days about which Ezekiel writes, immediately after the catastrophe in Jerusalem.

- Weak, hungry, sick sheep.
- Stray sheep: wandering without home or work, isolated, alienated by the lies of their rulers.
- they became the prey of all the nations. they were taken into exile, or they left their homeland looking for work.

I myself will care for my sheep. Now Yahweh has rejected Israel's leaders who disappeared in the catastrophe and he promises to become Israel's pastor. Yahweh will be the good shepherd and he names the responsibilities of a shepherd: to gather, protect, feed everyone, and to hold back the very powerful.

and gather them from other countries. I will lead them to their own land and pasture them on the mountains of Israel in all the valleys and inhabited regions of the land. ¹⁴I will take them to good pastures on the high mountains of Israel. They will rest where the grazing is good and feed in lush pastures on the heights of Israel. ¹⁵I myself will tend my sheep and let them rest, word of the Lord Yahweh. ¹⁶I will search for the lost and lead back the strays. I will bind up the injured and strengthen the weak, but the fat and strong will be eliminated. I will shepherd my flock with justice.

¹⁷As for you, my flock – says Yahweh – I will distinguish between one sheep and another, between rams and goats. ¹⁸Was it not enough for you to feed on good pasture? Why did you trample under your feet the rest of the pasture? Were you not satisfied with drinking clear water? Why did you muddy the rest with your feet? ¹⁹Must my sheep feed on what you have trampled and drink what you have muddied with your feet?

²⁰That is why thus says the Lord Yahweh to the shepherds: See, I myself will judge between the fat sheep and the lean. ²¹Because with flank, shoulder and horns you butt the weak sheep until you have driven them away, ²²I will rescue my flock and no longer will they be plundered. I will judge between one sheep and another.

²³Over them I will put one shepherd, my servant David who will tend them, pasture them and be a true shepherd for them. ²⁴I, Yahweh, will be their God and my servant David a ruler among them. I, Yahweh, have this to say: ²⁵I will make a covenant of peace with them and rid the land of wild beasts, so that they may live safely in the desert and sleep in forests. ²⁶I will settle them on my holy mountain, sending them rain in season, showers of rich blessings. ²⁷The trees of the field will give their fruit and the soil its produce, while they are safe in their land, and they will know that I am Yahweh.

I will break the bars of their yoke and free them from the power of those who enslave them. ²⁸No longer will they be plundered by the nations or ravaged by wild beasts. They will live in security without anyone causing them to fear. ²⁹I will give them splendid crops; people will not die of hunger or be scorned by other nations.

16. Lk 15, 4; 19, 10

23. Jer 23, 4; Rev 7, 17; Jn 10, 16

The days of clouds and fog (12), when God seemed distant and Israel was overwhelmed and without hope, are over. Now Yahweh will gather his people from among the nations. The Kingdom that God has prepared for this discouraged crowd will surpass all they could hope for. Not only will they enjoy material prosperity, but they will live at peace and rest with God. I myself, will let them rest.

As for you, I will distinguish between sheep and sheep. With these words the second part begins: God's judgment.

On one hand, the fat sheep: those that took advantage of the unjust social order. They were not satisfied with having a standard of living higher than the rest, but they trampled the rest of the pasture: they grew nothing on the best land in the country; they deposited abroad the money which would have stimulated economic development; they prevented the access of many to education and culture.

You butt the weakest sheep with your horns until you have driven them out (21). They took advantage of their power and because justice was at their disposal, they imposed "their" will by force.

I will put one shepherd over them to pasture them, David, my servant. This shepherd is Christ, the new David. As we said with regard to Isaiah 11:1, the Messiah is not announced as one more descendant of David, nor is he to resume the past. He will be another David and he will begin something completely new.

We can easily see here some of the images and ideas on which Jesus reflected and which he used in his parables: the Good Shepherd (John 10:1); the parable of the lost sheep (Luke 15:4) and the Final Judgment (Matthew 25:31).

³⁰ Then they will know that I, Yahweh, am their God and that I am with them and that they, Israel, are my people – word of Yahweh. ³¹ You are my sheep, the flock of my pasture, and I am your God, declares the Lord Yahweh."

Against Edom

35 ¹ The word of Yahweh came to me. ² "Son of man, set your face against the mountain of Seir, prophesy against it ³ and say: Thus says Yahweh: I come to strike you, mountain of Seir! I have stretched out my hand against you and I will make of you a mournful solitude. ⁴ I will reduce your towns to ruins, make you a desolation and you shall know that I am Yahweh.

⁵ I know your long-standing enmity and how you handed over the people of Israel to the sword in the day of their disaster, the time of their last punishment. ⁶ Because of that, as I live, word of Yahweh, I intend to give you over to bloodshed, and bloodshed will pursue you. ⁷ I will make of the mountain of Seir a mournful solitude and destroy all who come and go there. ⁸ The mountains will be filled with the slain; the victims of the sword will fall on your hills, in your valleys and ravines. ⁹ I will reduce you to a desolate ruins forever; no longer will your towns be inhabited and then you will know that I am Yahweh.

¹⁰ You said: 'These two nations and these two countries will be mine, we shall take possession of them,' and you disregarded Yahweh who was there. ¹¹ Because of that, as I live, declares Yahweh, I will deal with you according to your hatred towards them and I will make myself known among them when I judge you. ¹² Then you will know that I, Yahweh, have heard all the insults uttered against the mountains of Israel, such as: 'They are devastated and have been given over to us to be devoured.' ¹³ For I heard when you boasted against me without restraint.

¹⁴ Thus says Yahweh: When all the earth rejoices, you will be desolate. ¹⁵ Since you rejoiced when the inheritance of Israel became a deserted ruins, that is how I will deal with you. You will become a desert, Mount Seir, and Edom likewise, and people will know that I am Yahweh.

Israel shall be gathered together

36 ¹ "Son of man, prophesy regarding the mountains of Israel; say to them: Mountains of Israel, hear the word of Yahweh: ² Your enemies have said: 'Aha! these eternal heights have become our possession.' ³ People have envied you and ravaged you on all sides; other nations have taken possession of you, so that you became the subject of talk and gossip. Because of that, ⁴ mountains of Israel, hear this word of Yahweh. Yahweh says to the mountains, the hills, the ravines and the valleys, to the deserted ruins and the empty towns which have become the plunder and target of mockery for other nations around: ⁵ Truly in the fire of my jealousy I will speak against the other nations, namely all of Edom, who with glee and malice in their hearts, have taken possession of my land and plundered its pastures.

⁹ Indeed, I have turned in your direction and I have bent towards you; you will be cultivated and sown with seed. ¹⁰ I will increase your population in all Israel; the towns will be inhabited and the ruins rebuilt. ¹¹ Both people and animals will increase; they will be fruitful and multiply. I will build up their numbers as in the past and they will know that I am Yahweh. ¹² Men and women of Israel will walk on you again. They will take possession of you; you will be their heritage again, and never again will you let their children perish."

¹⁶ The word of Yahweh came to me in these terms, ¹⁷ "Son of man, when Israel occupied her own land she defiled it by her way of life and her actions. To me her conduct was like the uncleanness of a woman in her period.

■ The capture of Jerusalem was not the end of Jewish humiliation. After the conquerors of 587 withdrew, the small country of Edom took advantage of the situation to invade Palestine and they attempted to take over the Jewish and Israelite territories: the two nations.

¹⁸ I poured out my fury on them because of the blood they shed in the land and because they defiled it with their filthy idols. ¹⁹ Then I scattered them among the nations and dispersed them in other lands. I judged them according to their conduct and their actions.

²⁰ But when they were brought to other nations, my holy Name was profaned because others said of them: 'The people of Yahweh had to be exiled from his land!' ²¹ Then I was concerned for my holy Name, profaned by Israel among the nations where she had been dispersed. Now you shall say to them:

A new heart

◆ ²² It is not for your sake that I am about to act, but because of my holy Name that you have profaned in the places where you have gone. ²³ I will make known the holiness of my great Name, profaned among the nations because of you, and they will know that I am Yahweh when I show them my holiness among you.

²⁴ For I will gather you from all the nations and bring you back to your own land. ²⁵ Then I shall pour pure water over you and you shall be made clean – cleansed from the defilement of all your idols. ²⁶ I shall give you a new heart and put a new spirit within you. I shall remove your heart of stone and give you a heart of flesh. ²⁷ I shall put my spirit within you and move you to follow my decrees and keep my laws. ²⁸ You will live in the land I gave your forefathers; you shall be my people and I will be your God.

²⁹ I will free you from all your uncleanness. I shall summon the wheat and make it plentiful and so keep famine away from you. ³⁰ I shall see that the fruits of the earth and the produce of the fields are plentiful and that you no longer suffer the disgrace of famine among the nations.

³¹ Then you will remember your evil ways and wicked actions and loathe yourselves for the sins you committed and for your detestable practices. ³² I want you to know that it is not for your sake I am doing this, word of Yahweh. Be ashamed and humbled because of your conduct, Israel! ³³ This is what Yahweh says: The day I cleanse you from all your sins, I shall repopulate the cities and the ruins will be rebuilt. ³⁴ The devastated land will be cultivated wherever passerby saw it desolate. ³⁵ Everyone will say, 'This devastated land is now a garden of Eden and its cities once in ruins and levelled to the ground have been rebuilt and populated.' ³⁶ And the nations that remain around you will know that I, Yahweh, have rebuilt the ruined city and replanted what was desolate I, Yahweh, have spoken and I will do it.

³⁷ Thus say the Lord Yahweh: Once again I shall listen to the plea of Israel and favour them. I shall make their people as numerous as sheep, ³⁸ as numerous as the flock they bring to Jerusalem's Temple at the time of her holy days. In the same way the ruined cities will be filled with flocks of people and they will know that I am Yahweh."

◆ I shall give you a new heart. Many think it is as difficult to change the human heart in a spiritual sense as it is in a physical sense: transplants are always delicate. Because some have no hope of changing human beings, they accept them as they are, preferring to overlook mediocrity and sinfulness. Others, become bitter about everything and everyone.

In this text, quite similar to Jeremiah 31:31 and Ezekiel 11:19, God offers to give a new heart to those who will be his future people. The experience of the Jewish people showed that human beings are weak and unable to follow the commandments. But, if an individual knows his God personally, to the point of sharing intimately in God's life, is there no possibility of change and renewal?

This is the meaning of the word to convert. To be converted means to come back to God after having been away from him. First, there is a change that takes place in the heart, that is to say, in the innermost part of the human being. Then, there is a change of mentality and of attitude. In fact, God is the one who converts people, by loving them, attracting them and giving them his Spirit, transforming them into new beings. I will take away your heart of stone and give you a heart of flesh. This will be the New Covenant.

● Can these bones live again? This page announces the restoration of Israel which had been dead in every sense of the word.

"Dry bones, hear the word of Yahweh"

o37 ¹The hand of Yahweh was upon me. By his spirit he brought me out and set me in the middle of the valley which was full of bones. ²He made me walk to and fro among them and I could see there was a great number of them on the ground all along the valley and that they were very dry.

³Yahweh said to me, "Son of man, can these bones live again?" I said, "Lord Yahweh, only you know that." ⁴He then said, "Speak on my behalf concerning these bones; say to them:

Dry bones, hear the word of Yahweh! ⁵Yahweh says: I am going to put spirit in you and make you live. ⁶I shall put sinews on you and make flesh grow on you; I shall cover you with skin and give you my spirit, that you may live. And you will know that I am Yahweh."

⁷I prophesied as I had been commanded and then there was a noise and commotion; the bones joined together. ⁸I looked and saw that they had sinews, that flesh was growing on them and that he was covering them with skin. But there was no spirit in them.

⁹So Yahweh said to me, "Speak on my behalf and call on the Spirit, son of man! Say to the Spirit: This is the word of Yahweh: Spirit, come from the four winds. Breathe into these dead bones and let them live!"

¹⁰I prophesied as he had commanded me and breath entered them; they came alive, standing on their feet – a great, immense army!

¹¹He then said to me, "Son of man, these bones are all Israel. They keep saying: 'Our bones are dry, hope has gone, it is the end of us.' ¹²So prophesy! Say to them: This is what Yahweh says: I am going to open your tombs, I shall bring you out of your tombs, my people, and lead you back to the land of Israel. ¹³You will know that I am Yahweh, O my people! when I open your graves and bring

Our bones are dry. The dry and scattered bones represent the Israelites, exiled and dispersed. For many years, the people of Israel had believed that God would manifest his glory to the world by granting them prosperity and by working miraculous liberations on their behalf. But, these were nothing but human dreams. God's plan is to teach his people through centuries of struggling, mistakes and suffering. Nations, like people, cannot reach true maturity without passing through the death of their pride and their ambitions. This is precisely when God sends the word which makes the dead rise.

I will give you my Spirit, that you may live (6). First, God sent his prophets. Their words were not listened to during their lifetime, but they fell on the ground as seed. After a few years, some people will emerge to restore the nation with Ezra and Nehemiah.

When we speak about the resurrection, we always think about the resurrection of persons. John spoke about it in 5:25-28 and he shows how Christ calls dead people to rise from sin or from death. But history shows us that God raises his people not once, but several times, and even daily as can be seen in the present history of our Church.

+ The Jewish nation's "original sin" was its division since Solomon's death.

In the restored Israel the division will be removed and healed: there will be one people and one shepherd (see John 10:16).

Even after the exiles came back from Babylon, Israel understood that she had to gather her children who had emigrated all over the world. Jesus, likewise, intended to gather all the scattered children of God (John 11:52). since he did not come for the Jews alone, but also for all those who do not belong to the flock (John 10).

In reflecting on this expanded mission of Jesus' disciples, it became obvious that to gather did not mean bringing everyone to a single land, or to impose a single law upon them. Rather it meant forming one body which would extend everywhere, and in which there would be respect for the uniqueness of each culture, yet common acceptance of the same goals. Such unity is a gift of God and, even though we all seek it, reaching it would mean that we have come to the end of earthly history.

Meanwhile, to be truly the New People of God, the Church must be one even in its visible structure. To become divided would be to revert to the sin of Jeroboam.

you out of your graves, ¹⁴ when I put my spirit in you and you live. I shall settle you in your land and you will know that I, Yahweh, have done what I said I would do."

+ ¹⁵ The word of Yahweh came to me in these terms, "Son of man, take a piece of wood and write on it: 'Judah and the Israelites loyal to him.' ¹⁶ Take another piece of wood and write: 'Joseph, the branch of Ephraim and the Israelites loyal to him.' ¹⁷ Join one to the other to make a single piece of wood in your hand. ¹⁸ When your people say to you, 'Won't you tell us what this means?' ¹⁹ say to them: The Lord Yahweh says this: I am going to take the branch of Joseph which is in the hand of Ephraim and the tribes of Israel loyal to him and put Judah's branch with them, and they will be as one in my hand. ²⁰ And you will hold in your hand in their sight the pieces of wood on which you wrote.

²¹ You will then say to them: Thus says the Lord Yahweh: I am about to withdraw the Israelites from where they were among the nations. I shall gather them from all around and bring them back to their land. ²² I shall make them into one people on the mountains of Israel and one king is to be king of them all. They will no longer form two nations or be two separate kingdoms. ²³ nor will they defile themselves again with their idols, their detestable practices and their sins. I shall free them from the guilt of their treachery: I shall cleanse them and they will be for me a people and I shall be God for them. ²⁴ My servant David will reign over them, one shepherd for all. They will live according to my laws and follow and practise my decrees. ²⁵ They will settle in the land I gave to my servant Jacob where their forefathers lived. There they will live forever, their children and their children's children. David my servant will be their prince forever.

²⁶ I shall establish a covenant of peace with them, an everlasting covenant. I shall settle them and they will increase and I shall put my sanctuary in their midst forever. ²⁷ I shall make my home at their side; I shall be their God and they will be my people. ²⁸ Then the nations will know that I am Yahweh who makes Israel holy, having my sanctuary among them forever."

Gog and Magog

■ 38 ¹ The word of Yahweh came to me in these terms, ² "Son of man, turn towards Gog of the country of Magog, the chief prince of Meshech and Tubal and prophesy against him. ³ Say to him: Hear the word of Yahweh: I come to strike you, Gog, chief prince of Meshech and Tubal. ⁴ I will turn you round, fix hooks in your jaws and bring you out, you and your entire army, horses and riders all perfectly equipped, a great army, all with shields and bucklers and brandishing swords. ⁵ Persia, Cush and Put are with them, all with buckler and helmet. ⁶ Gomer and all his troops, and Bethogarmah from the far north with his battalions, a vast throng, are with you.

16. Jer 3, 18

26. Jn 10, 16; Heb 13, 20; Rev 21, 3

■ Chapters 38 and 39 predict an invasion by nations united against the kingdom of Israel, after it is restored. Those countries are to the North, near the Black Sea. A miraculous victory of Yahweh is predicted for that time.

If we omit the end of chapter 39 (vv 17-29), it is almost certain that these pages were not written by Ezekiel, nor do they have anything to do with his mission: but they were inserted here at the time of the Maccabees. As the so-called "prophecies of Daniel", they belong to apocalyptic literature which delighted the Jews some two centuries before Christ and for a hundred years after him (see the introduction to Daniel).

This veiled description of the Syrian invasions in the time of the Maccabees is attributed to Ezekiel, when, in fact, a contemporary of those wars is the author. He expressed his conviction that soon God would crush the Syrian persecutors.

In apocalyptic books, it was customary to use complicated images, to speak emphatically and announce spectacular divine interventions. This complicated style is always heartening to people with little education wanting to see in it some true and ancient prophecy, applicable to our time. There will always be details which, if taken literally, could apply to planes, tanks, the gas war ... One, even with little biblical knowledge, can easily find the confirmation of one's own dreams.

The apocalyptic pages of the Bible tell us that the history of the world will end with the opposition of those who accept God's offer and of those who reject it. The kingdom of God will not be the world we are building, although we must build it to prepare the new and definitive world which God will bring about in his own way. However, to wait for God to do everything can be illusory and deceptive. Some believers adopt a pessimistic attitude: they think that evil is stronger than good and that there is nothing to be done other than waiting for God to solve everything. Others are eager for "revelations" and they predict "punishment and catastrophes". Others see themselves and their sects, as the reduced group of the saved, and they live withdrawn from the rest, that is, turning their back on real life.

⁷ Get ready, be prepared, you and all your troops massed around you, and take command of them. ⁸ After many days you will be given a mission. In the years ahead you will invade a land recovered from war where the people are gathered from among many nations on the mountains of Israel which had for long been barren. Its people were brought from among the nations and now live in safety, all of them. ⁹ Then you will go up like a storm, like a cloud covering the earth, you and all your troops and the many nations with you.

¹⁰ Thus says the Lord Yahweh: On that day thoughts will come to your mind and you will plan an evil scheme ¹¹ saying: 'I will go up against unprotected towns, against peaceful people living in safety, all of them living without walls, bars or gates. ¹² I will plunder and loot; I will attack the land that is inhabited again. I will go against this people gathered from among the nations, who live by trading and are increasing their cattle at the centre of the world.'

¹³ People of Sheba and Dedan and all the merchants of Tarshish and its villages will ask you: 'Have you come to plunder? Is it to loot that you have assembled such an army?' And they will come with silver and gold, to take away the livestock and to buy your enormous booty.

¹⁴ Therefore prophesy, son of man and say to Gog on my behalf: On that day when my people Israel are living in security you will come from the far north, ¹⁵ you and the throngs with you, all on horses, with many troops – a vast army. ¹⁶ You will come against my people Israel like a cloud about to cover the earth. It will be in the far-off days that you shall come against my people, and I shall let you do so, that the nations may know me, for I shall manifest my holiness through you, O Gog!

¹⁷ Thus says Yahweh: You are the one about whom I spoke in former times through my servants, the prophets of Israel, saying that I would bring you against them in far-off days. ¹⁸ On that day when Gog will come to the land of Israel – word of Yahweh – my fury will be aroused. ¹⁹ In the jealousy and heat of my anger I declare: On that day there will be a great earthquake in Israel. ²⁰ The fish of the sea, the birds of the air, the beasts of the field, the creatures that creep on the ground and every human being on the earth will tremble before me.

Mountains will fall, cliffs crumble and walls collapse. ²¹ I will summon the sword against Gog on all my mountains – word of Yahweh. Each one's sword will turn against his brother. ²² I will punish Gog with plague and bloodshed. I will send torrential rain, hail-stones and burning sulfur on him and on his battalions and on the many nations with him. ²³ I will manifest myself as the Mighty and Holy One in the sight of these many people, and they will know that I am Yahweh.

39 ¹ Son of man, prophesy against Gog! Say to him: Thus says the Lord Yahweh: I come against you, Gog, chief prince of Meshech and Tubal. ² When I have led, directed and brought you from the far north to the mountains of Israel, ³ I shall break the bow in your left hand and snatch the arrows from your right hand. ⁴ You will fall on the mountains of Israel, you, your battalions and the nations with you. And I shall give you over to all the birds of prey and wild beasts ⁵ when you have fallen in the open countryside, for I have spoken, word of Yahweh. ⁶ I shall send fire to the land of Magog and to those living peacefully in the islands and they will know that I am Yahweh. ⁷ I will manifest my holy Name among my people Israel, and never again allow my holy Name to be profaned, and the nations will know that I am Yahweh, the Holy One of Israel.

⁸ All this will come about and take place – word of Yahweh. This is the day I foretold. ⁹ After that citizens of the towns of Israel will make a fire, using your weapons as fuel: small and large bucklers, bows and arrows, clubs and javelins. For seven years they will be used as fuel: ¹⁰ there will be no need to bring wood from the country or to gather it in the forests since they will have your weapons to burn. They will plunder their plunderers and loot those who looted them – word of the Lord Yahweh.

¹¹ On that day I shall give Gog a well known burial place in Israel, the valley of the Abarim, on the east of the sea, the valley where the traveller has to stop. There they will bury Gog and his hordes and they will call it the Valley of the Multitude of Gog. ¹² It will take seven months to bury the dead and cleanse the country. ¹³ All the population will work at burying the dead and this will be their honour on the day I am glorified, word of Yahweh. ¹⁴ Men will work on a regular basis going around the country to bury those lying on the ground and so cleanse the land. For seven months they will go searching. ¹⁵ If, as they go through the land, they come across human remains, they will make a pile of stones beside them until the grave diggers bury them in the Valley of the Multitude of Gog ¹⁶ (the name of the town is Multitude). In that way the land will be cleansed.

¹⁷ Son of man, the Lord Yahweh says this: Say to every kind of bird and wild beast: Assemble and come together from all parts to the sacrifice I am preparing for you, a great sacrifice on the mountains of Israel at which you will eat flesh and drink blood. ¹⁸ The flesh of heroes and the blood of the world's princes. They are all rams, lambs, goats, bullocks, all fattened animals from Bashan. ¹⁹ You will eat all the fat you want and drink blood until you are drunk at the sacrifice I am preparing for you. ²⁰ You will have your fill of horses, riders, heroes and warriors of all kinds – word of Yahweh. ²¹ I will show my glory among all the nations and they will know my judgment and the punishment I shall inflict on them.

²² Then Israel will know from that day onwards that I am Yahweh, their God. ²³ And the nations will know that Israel was exiled because they were unfaithful to me, and this was

why I hid my face from them; I handed them over to their enemies and they perished by the sword. ²⁴ I dealt with them as their defilement and sins deserved, and I hid my face from them.

²⁵ That is why thus says the Lord Yahweh: Now, moved by my compassion for Israel, I am going to bring back the captives of Jacob and I will give glory to my holy name. ²⁶ They will forget their shame and the treachery they committed towards me, when they live safely in their own land with no one to disturb them. ²⁷ When I gather them from among the nations and take them from the land of their enemies, I will show my holiness through them to the many nations. ²⁸ They will know that I am Yahweh their God when, after their exile among the nations, I bring them together in their own land and leave no one behind. ²⁹ Never again shall I hide my face from them because I shall pour out my Spirit on Israel – word of Yahweh."

THE FUTURE TEMPLE

o 40 ¹ In the twenty-fifth year of our captivity, at the beginning of the year, on the tenth day of the month, fourteen years after Jerusalem had been taken, the hand of Yahweh was upon me. ² In a divine vision he took me away to the land of Israel and put me down on a very high mountain, on the south of which there seemed to be built a city. ³ He took me to it, and there I saw a man who seemed to be made of bronze. He had a flax cord and a measuring rod in his hand and was standing in the gateway. ⁴ The man said to me, "Son of man, look carefully, listen closely and pay attention to everything I show you, since they brought you here for me to show it to you. Tell the people of Israel everything that you see."

⁵ The House was surrounded with a wall, and the man was holding a measuring rod that was three meters long (six great cubits). He measured the thickness of this construction – one rod; and its height – one rod.

o In the 25th year of his exile (or in 571). Ezekiel received the vision which he presents in chapters 40-48, regarding the new land in Palestine.

The Glory of Yahweh (see 1:4) returns from Babylon to Jerusalem where it takes over the Temple. A river flows under the Temple and spreads, making the land fruitful: it is the sign of all sorts of blessings emerging from the presence of Yahweh in the midst of his people. We also have a description of the division of the land among the twelve tribes, thus restoring the former structure of the people of Israel.

By this vision, Ezekiel assures his compatriots that there is hope for them: the people will come to life again and their mission will be essentially a religious one, since the life of the nation will be centered around the Temple. These chapters are rather tiring for us with their abundance of details about worship. But, let us not forget that a nation cannot rise without commitment to a demanding mission. For their part, the Jews reorganized their community around the Temple and their priests, with the conviction that perfect worship and the observance of the Law would inevitably bring the Kingdom of God (see Ezra and Nehemiah).

²⁴ He took me to the south and there was a gate to the south gate; he measured its guardrooms, wall thicknesses and porch; they were of the same dimensions as the others. ²⁵ All around it and its entrance were windows, like the other windows; it measured fifty cubits by twenty-five cubits, ²⁶ and it had seven steps up to it; its entrance was at the inner end and had palm-tree decorations on its pillars, one on each side. ²⁷ The inner court had a southern gate; he measured the distance southward from one gate to the other: a hundred cubits.

²⁸ He then took me into the inner court by the south gate; he measured the south gate which was the same size as the others. ²⁹ Its guardrooms, wall thicknesses and entrance all measured the same as the others. ³⁰ Its entrance had windows all around. It measured fifty cubits by twenty-five cubits. Its entrance, measured in all, all around, was twenty-five cubits by five cubits. ³¹ The entrance gave on to the outer court. It had palm trees on its pillars, each side, and eight steps leading up to it.

³² He took me to the east gate and measured it. It was the same size as the others. ³³ Its guardrooms, the thickness of its walls, its entrance all measured the same as the others. It and its entrance had windows all around. Its area was fifty cubits by twenty-five cubits. ³⁴ Its porch gave on to the outer court. There were palm trees on its pillars on either side, and eight steps leading up to it.

³⁵ He took me to the north gate and measured it. Its guardrooms, the thickness of its walls and its entrance all measured the same as the others. ³⁶ It had windows all around. Its area was fifty cubits by twenty-five cubits. ³⁷ Its entrance gave on to the outer court. There were palm trees on its pillars on either side, and eight steps leading up to it.

³⁸ There was a room entered from the entrance of the gates. It was here that they had to wash the holocaust. ³⁹ And on either side of the entrance of the gate there were two tables for slaughtering the burnt offering, the sacrifice for sin and the sacrifice of repayment. ⁴⁰ Going northward up to the gate, there were two tables outside and two more tables at the entrance end of the gate. ⁴¹ There were four tables on the inside and four tables on the outside of the entrance; in all, eight tables on which the sacrifices were offered. ⁴² There were also four tables of dressed stone for burnt offerings, a cubit and a half-long, a cubit and a half wide and a cubit high, on which all the things necessary for killing the burnt offering and the sacrifices were put. ⁴³ Rims, a handbreadth broad, went all around the top, and on these tables was put the flesh of the offerings.

⁴⁴ He took me into the inner court; there were two lodges in the inner court, one at the side of the north gate, facing south, the other at the side of the south gate, facing north. ⁴⁵ He told me, "The lodge looking south is for the priests in charge of the Temple. ⁴⁶ and the lodge looking north is for the priests who serve the altar. These are the sons of Zadok, the only sons of Levi who approach Yahweh to serve him."

⁴⁷ He measured the inner court. It was a quadrangle, a hundred cubits by a hundred cubits, with the altar in front of the House.

⁴⁸ He took me to the Hall of the House and measured its door pillars – five cubits each side; and the width of the entrance was fourteen cubits with a three-cubit wall each side. ⁴⁹ The Hall was twenty cubits by twelve cubits. There were ten steps leading up to it, and there were columns by the door pillars, one on each side.

41 ¹ He took me into the Sanctuary and measured its door pillars: six cubits deep on the one side, six cubits deep on the other. ² The width of the entrance was ten cubits. The walls on each side of the entrance were five cubits on the one side and five cubits on the other. He measured its length: forty cubits; and its width: twenty cubits.

³ He went in and measured the door pillars at the entrance: two cubits; then the entrance: six cubits; and the walls on each side of the entrance: seven cubits. ⁴ He measured its length: twenty cubits; and its width measured across the end wall of the Sanctuary: twenty cubits. He then said to me, "This is the most holy place."

⁵ He measured the wall of the House: six cubits. The width of the side cells was four cubits, all around the House. ⁶ The cells were one above the other, thirty of them in three stories. ⁷ The supports for the surrounding cells were fixed into the House wall, so that the cells were not recessed into the wall of the House. The width of the cells increased, story by story, for they surrounded the House in the stories that went right around it. ⁸ Then I saw that there was a paved terrace all around the House. The height of this, which formed the base of the side cells, was a full rod of six cubits. ⁹ The outer wall of the side cells was five cubits thick and the pavement formed a verandah outside the cells of the House. ¹⁰ Beyond the rooms was an area twenty cubits wide right around the House. ¹¹ And for access from the side cells onto the courtyard there was one entrance on the north side and one entrance on the south side. The width of the courtyard was five cubits all around.

The inside of the Sanctuary and the entrance of the court, their thresholds, the window screens, the three sets of doors, one at each threshold, ¹⁶ were all paneled with wood, from floor to windows, and the windows were screened with lattice-work. ¹⁷ From the door to the inner part of the House, and right around the whole wall of the inner room, outside and inside, ¹⁸ were carved cherubs and palm trees, palm trees and cherubs alternating; each cherub had two faces – ¹⁹ the face of a man turned toward the palm tree on one side and the face of a lion toward the palm tree on the other, all around the House. The cherubs and palm trees were carved ²⁰ from the floor to above the entrance, as also on the wall of the hall. ²¹ The pillars of the House were square.

In front of the Most Holy Place, ²² there appeared to be a wooden altar, three cubits high and two cubits square. Its corners, base and sides were of wood. He said to me, "This is the table before Yahweh."

²³ There was a double door for the Temple, and a double door for the Sanctuary. ²⁴ These doors had two hinged leaves, two leaves for the one door, two leaves for the other. ²⁵ On them, on the doors of the Sanctuary, were carved cherubs and palm trees like those carved on the walls. A wooden screen outside went across the front of the Hall. ²⁶ There were screened windows with flanking palm trees on the walls of the House, and of the cells at the side of the House.

42 ¹ He took me northward into the court and led me to the rooms facing the outer court, and the building to the north. ² They were one hundred cubits long on the north side and fifty cubits wide. ³ On the sides facing the entrance of the inner court and the paving of the outer court was a gallery in front of the triple gallery. ⁴ and in front of the rooms was a walk, ten cubits broad measured inward and a hundred cubits long; their doors looked north. ⁵ The top-floor rooms were narrow because the galleries took up part of the width, being narrower than those on the ground floor or those on the middle floor of the building. ⁶ They were in three stories and had no columns such as those in the court had. Hence they were narrower than the ground-floor ones or the middle-floor ones below them. ⁷ The outer wall parallel to the rooms, facing them and giving on to the outer court, was fifty cubits long. ⁸ the length of the rooms facing the outer court being fifty cubits, while on the side facing the building it was a hundred cubits. ⁹ Beneath the rooms there was an entrance from the east, leading in from the outer court.

¹⁰ In the thickness of the wall of the court, on the south side fronting the court and the building, were rooms. ¹¹ A walk ran in front of them, as with the rooms built on the north side: they were of the same length and breadth, and had similar design and doors in and out. ¹² They were like the entrances of the southern rooms; one entrance at the end of each walk, fronting the eastern wall, being the way in. He said to me, ¹³ "The northern and southern rooms giving on to the court are holy rooms, in which the priests who approach Yahweh will eat the most holy things. In them will be placed the most holy things: the offering, the sacrifice for sin and the sacrifice of repayment, since this is a holy place. ¹⁴ Once the priests have entered they will not go out of the holy place into the outer court without leaving their liturgical vestments there, since these vestments are holy; they will put on other clothes before going near the room assigned to the people. ¹⁵

¹⁵ When he had finished measuring the inside of the Temple, he took me out to the east gate and measured the whole area of the court. ¹⁶ He measured the east side with his measuring rod: a total of five hundred cubits by the measuring rod. ¹⁷ He then measured the north side: five hundred cubits by the measuring rod. ¹⁸ He then measured the south side: five hundred cubits by the measuring rod. ¹⁹ On the west side he measured five hundred cubits. ²⁰ So he measured the entire enclosing wall on all four sides: length five hundred, breadth five hundred. This separated the sacred from the profane.

⁴ The Glory of Yahweh arrived at the Temple by the east gate. ⁵ The spirit lifted me up and brought me into the inner court: the Glory of Yahweh was filling the House. ⁶ And I heard someone speaking to me from the Temple while the man stood beside me. ⁷ The voice said, "Son of man, you have seen the place of my throne, where I will place the soles of my feet, and live among the sons of Israel forever; and the people of Israel, they and their kings, will no longer defile my holy name with their prostitutions and the kings, ⁸ setting their threshold beside my threshold and their door beside my door, with a party wall shared by them and me. They used to defile my holy name by their filthy practices, and this is why I destroyed them in my anger. ⁹ From now on if they take their prostitutions and the corpses of their kings away from my presence, I shall live among them forever.

¹⁰ Son of man, describe this House to the people of Israel, to shame them out of their filthy practices. ¹¹ If they are ashamed of their behavior, draw up the plan and show them the design of the Temple, its exits and entrances, its shape, how all of it is arranged, its rules and its laws. Give them all this in writing so that they can see and take note of its design and the way it is all arranged and carry it out. ¹² This is the law of the Temple: all the surrounding area on top of the mountain is a most holy area.

¹⁸ He said to me, "Son of man, the Lord Yahweh says this: As regards the altar, this is how things are to be done when it has been built for the offering of the holocaust and for the pouring of blood. ¹⁹ To those levitical priests of the race of Zadok who approach me to serve me – it is the Lord Yahweh who speaks – you must give a young bull as sacrifice for sin. ²⁰ You are to take some of its blood and put it on the four horns and the four corners of the base and the surrounding ledge. ²¹ In this way you will purify it and make atonement on it. Then take the bull of the sacrifice for sin and burn it in a room of the House apart from the sanctuary. ²² On the second day, you must offer an unblemished he-goat as sacrifice for sin, and the altar is to be purified again as with the bull. ²³ When you have finished the purification you must offer a young bull without blemish and an unblemished ram chosen from the flock. ²⁴ You are to present them before Yahweh, and the priests will sprinkle salt on them and offer them as a holocaust to Yahweh. ²⁵ As a sacrifice for sin, every day for seven days you must offer a he-goat, a bull and an unblemished ram chosen from the flock, for a week. ²⁶ In this way the altar will be atoned for and will be purified and inaugurated. ²⁷ At the end of that time, on the eighth day and afterwards, the priest is to offer your burnt offerings and your communion offerings on the altar, and I will look kindly on you – it is the Lord Yahweh who speaks."

New regulations for worship

¹ He brought me back to the outer east gate of the sanctuary. It was shut. ² Yahweh said to me, "This gate will be kept shut. No one will open it or go through it, since Yahweh the God of Israel has been through it. And so it must be kept shut. ³ The prince himself, however, may sit there to take his meal in the presence of Yahweh. But he is to enter through the entrance of the gate and leave through the same way."

⁴ He led me through the north gate to the front of the House, I looked; I saw the Glory of Yahweh filling his House, and I threw myself to the ground. ⁵ Yahweh said to me, "Son of man, pay attention, look carefully and listen closely to everything while I explain to you all the rules of the House of Yahweh and all its laws. Be careful about which men are admitted to the House and which are excluded from the sanctuary. ⁶ And say to the rebels of the people of Israel, the Lord Yahweh says this: There has been enough of all your filthy practices, House of Israel. ⁷ You let aliens enter, uncircumcised in heart and body, to frequent my sanctuary and profane my Temple; you gave me for my food the fat and the blood; and you broke my covenant with all your filthy practices. ⁸ Instead of performing your duties to men in the Holy Place, you have deputed someone else to perform your duties in my sanctuary. ⁹ The Lord Yahweh says this: No alien, uncircumcised in heart and body, is to enter my sanctuary, none of those aliens living among the Israelites.

¹⁰ The Levites who abandoned me when Israel strayed far from me, and followed their idols, must bear the weight of their own sin. ¹¹ They are to be servants in my sanctuary, responsible for guarding the gates and serving the House. They will kill the burnt offering and the sacrifice for the people, and hold themselves at the service of the people. ¹² But since they used to be at their service in front of their idols and made Israel sin, (and I have raised my hand against them) it is the Lord Yahweh who speaks – they must bear the weight of their sin. ¹³ They are never to approach me again to perform the priestly office in my presence, or to touch my holy things and my most holy things; they must bear the disgrace of their filthy practices. ¹⁴ I shall let them work in the House and serve it and do everything to be done in it.

¹⁷ Once they enter the gates of the inner court, they are to wear linen garments; they are to wear no wool when they serve inside the gates of the inner court and in the House. ¹⁸ They are to wear linen caps on their heads, and linen breeches about their loins; they are not to wear belts that may make them sweat. ¹⁹ When they go out to the people in the outer court, they are to remove the garments in which they have performed the liturgy and leave them in the rooms of the Holy Place, and put on other clothes, so as not to hallow the people with their vestments. ²⁰ They are neither to shave their heads nor to let their hair grow long, but must cut their hair to a reasonable length. ²¹ No priest is to drink wine on the day he enters the inner court. ²² They are not to marry widows or divorced women, but only virgins of the race of Israel; they may, however, marry widows, if it is the widow of a priest. ²³ They are to teach my people what is sacred and what is profane and make them know what is clean and what is unclean. ²⁴ They are to be judges in disputes; they must judge in the spirit of my statutes; they must follow my laws and ordinances at all my feasts and keep my sabbaths holy. ²⁵ They are not to go near a dead man, lest they become unclean, except for father, mother, daughter, son, brother or unmarried sister. ²⁶ After one of them has been purified, seven days must elapse; ²⁷ then on the day when he enters the sanctuary – the inner court, to minister in the sanctuary, he is to offer his sacrifice for sin – it is the Lord Yahweh who speaks. ²⁸ They are to have no inheritance in Israel; I myself will be their inheritance. You are to give them no patrimony in Israel; I myself will be their patrimony. ²⁹ Their food is to be the offering, the sacrifice for sin and the sacrifice of repayment. Everything in Israel consecrated by anathema shall be for them. ³⁰ The best of all your first fruits of every sort and of all that you offer, is to go to the priests; and the best of your dough you are also to give to the priests, so that a blessing may rest on your houses. ³¹ Priests are not to eat the flesh of anything that has died a natural death or been savaged, neither the flesh of a bird nor of any other creature.

section twenty-five thousand by ten thousand cubits, in which there shall stand the sanctuary; this is a very holy land. ⁴ This is to be the sacred portion of the country; it shall belong to the priests who officiate in the sanctuary and approach Yahweh to serve him. There they are to have their houses and also a district set apart for the sanctuary. ⁵ An area twenty-five thousand by ten thousand cubits is to be kept for the Levites serving the House to own, with towns to live in. ⁶ You are to give the city possession of an area five thousand by twenty-five thousand cubits, near the land belonging to the sanctuary; this is to be for the whole people of Israel.

⁷ The prince is to have a domain on either side of the very holy land and of the land belonging to the city, and adjacent to both of them, stretching westward from the west and eastward from the east, its size equal to one of the portions between the west and the east frontiers of the country. ⁸ This is to be his possession in Israel. Then my princes will no longer oppress my people; they must leave the rest of the country for the people of Israel, for its tribes.

¹³ This is the tax that you are to levy: the sixth of an ephah for every homer of wheat, and the sixth of an ephah for every homer of barley. ¹⁴ The dues on oil: one bath of oil out of every ten baths or out of every cor (which is equal to ten baths or one homer, since ten baths equal one homer). ¹⁵ You are to levy one sheep on every flock of two hundred from the patrimony of Israel for the oblation, the burnt offering and the communion sacrifice. This is for the atonement – it is the Lord Yahweh who speaks. ¹⁶ Let all the people of the country be bound to give this offering for the prince of Israel. ¹⁷ The prince is to provide the burnt offerings, grain offerings and drink offerings for feasts, New Moons and sabbaths, for all the solemn festivals of Israel. He is to provide the sacrifice for sin, oblation, holocaust and communion sacrifices atoning for Israel.

¹⁸ The Lord Yahweh says this: On the first day of the first month, you must take a young bull without blemish, to purify the sanctuary. ¹⁹ The priest is to take blood from the sacrifice for sin and put it on the doorposts of the House, on the four corners of the altar base and on the doorposts of the gates of the inner court. ²⁰ You must do the same on the seventh of the month, on behalf of anyone who has sinned through inadvertence or ignorance. This is how you are to make atonement for the House. ²¹ On the fourteenth day of the first month, you must celebrate the feast of the Passover. For seven days everyone is to eat unleavened loaves. ²² On that day, the prince must offer a bull as a sacrifice for sin, for himself and all the people in the country. ²³ For the seven days of the feast, he must offer Yahweh a burnt offering of seven bulls and seven rams without blemish, daily for a week, and one he-goat daily as a sacrifice for sin, ²⁴ with a grain offering of one ephah for each bull and one ephah for each ram, and a hin of oil for every ephah for the oblation.

²⁵ For the feast on the fifteenth day of the seventh month, he must do the same for seven days, offering the sacrifice for sin, burnt offering, drink offering and the oil.

The sabbath and the new moon

46 ¹ Thus speaks the Lord Yahweh: The east gate of the inner court must be kept shut for the six working days. On the sabbath day it is to be opened, as also on the day of the New Moon; ² and the prince is to go in through the entrance of the outer gate and stand by the doorposts of the gate. The priest must then offer his holocaust and his communion sacrifice. He must prostrate himself on the threshold of the gate and go out, and the gate is not to be shut again until the evening. ³ The people of the country are to prostrate themselves in the presence of Yahweh at the entrance to the gate on sabbaths and days of the New Moon. ⁴ On the sabbath day the prince shall offer six unblemished lambs and one unblemished ram for the burnt offering. ⁵ The grain offering is of one ephah for the ram, with such oblation as he pleases for the lambs, and a hin of oil for every ephah. ⁶ On the day of the New Moon he shall offer a young bull without blemish, six unblemished lambs and one unblemished ram; ⁷ he must make a grain offering of one ephah for the bull and one ephah for the ram, and what he pleases for the lambs, and a hin of oil for every ephah.

⁸ When the prince goes in, he is to enter by the entrance of the gate, and he must leave by the same way. ⁹ When the people of the country come into the presence of Yahweh at the solemn festivals to prostrate themselves, those who have come in by the north gate are to go out by the south gate, and those who have come in by the south gate are to go out by the north gate; no one is to turn back to leave through the gate by which he entered but is to go out on the opposite side.¹⁰ The prince is to come with them, coming in like them and going out like them.¹¹ On feast days and solemn festivals the oblation must be one ephah for every bull, one ephah for every ram, what he pleases for the lambs, and a hin of oil for every ephah.¹² When the prince offers Yahweh a voluntary communion sacrifice, the east gate is to be opened for him, and he is to offer his holocaust and his communion sacrifice as he does on the sabbath day; when he has gone out, the gate is to be shut after him.¹³ Every day he must offer an unblemished lamb one year old as a holocaust to Yahweh; he must offer this every morning.¹⁴ Every morning, in addition, he is to offer an oblation of one sixth of an ephah and one third of a hin of oil, for mixing with the flour. This is an eternal law.¹⁵ The lamb, the oblation and the oil are to be offered morning after morning forever.

¹⁹ He took me through the entrance at the side of the north gate that leads to the rooms of the Holy Place set apart for the priests. And there before us, to the west, was a space at the end.²⁰ He said to me, "This is where the priests are to boil the slaughtered animals for the sacrifice for sin and the sacrifice of reparation, and where they are to bake the oblation. They shall not carry them into the outer court lest they hallow the people."²¹ He took me into the outer court and led me to each of its four corners;²² in each corner was a compound; there were four small compounds, forty cubits by thirty, all four being the same size.²³ Each of the four was enclosed by a wall, with hearths all around the bottom of the wall.²⁴ He said, "These are the kitchens where the Temple servants are to boil the sacrifices offered by the people."

The river that flows from the Temple

o 47 ¹ The man brought me back to the entrance of the Temple and I saw water coming out from the threshold of the Temple and flowing eastwards. The Temple faced the east and the water flowed from the south side of the Temple, from the south side of the altar.² He then brought me out through the north gate and led me around the outside to the outer gate facing the east and there I saw the stream coming from the south side.

³ The man had a measuring cord in his hand. As he went towards the east he measured off a thousand cubits and led me across the water which was up to my ankles.⁴ He measured off another thousand cubits and made me cross the water which came to my knees. He measured off another thousand cubits and we crossed the water which was up to my waist.⁵ When he had again measured a thousand cubits, I could not cross the torrent for it had swollen to a depth which was impossible to cross without swimming.

⁶ The man then said to me, "Son of man, did you see?" He led me on further and then brought me back to the bank of the river.⁷ There I saw a

o Note the vision of the river which makes the land fruitful and which starts from the place where God is present. The invisible God manifests himself in the life which he gives to people. The Holy Spirit, imaged in the stream of living water (see John 7:38), makes all the seeds of life blossom again in the world.

The stream flows to the Salt Sea or the Dead Sea (its waters are so salty that there are no fish and no plants can grow on the shores). This serves as an image of the healing that God brings to a world, sterile because of its sins. Their fruit will serve for food and their leaves for medicine.

number of trees on both sides of the river. ⁸He said to me, "This water goes to the east, down to the Arabah, and when it flows into the sea of foul-smelling water, the water will become wholesome. ⁹Wherever the river flows, swarms of creatures will live in it; fish will be plentiful and the sea water will become fresh. Wherever it flows, life will abound. ¹⁰Fishermen will stand on the banks and spread nets from En Gedi to En Eglaim. Fish of many kinds will be found there, like the fish of the open sea and very plentiful. ¹¹The swamps and the marshes will not become wholesome; they will be used as saltbeds.

¹²Near the river on both banks there will be all kinds of fruit trees with foliage that will not wither and fruit that will never fail; each month they will bear a fresh crop because the water comes from the Temple. The fruit will be good to eat and the leaves will be used for healing.

The frontiers of the land

¹³The Lord Yahweh says this: Here are the boundaries of the territories to be allotted between the twelve tribes of Israel, with two portions for Joseph. ¹⁴You must share it out equally between you, since I swore to your fathers that I would give them this land which now falls to you as your inheritance. ¹⁵Here are the frontiers of the land. On the north, from the Great Sea by the way of Hethlon to the Pass of Hamath and on to Zedad, ¹⁶Berothah, Sibraim lying between the territories of Damascus and Hamath – and to Hazer-hatticon on the borders of Hauran. ¹⁷The frontier will extend from the sea to Hazer-enon, marching with Damascus and Hamath on the north; this is the northern frontier. ¹⁸On the east the Jordan will serve as frontier between Hauran and Damascus, between Gilead and the land of Israel, down to the Eastern Sea as far as Tamar; this is for the eastern frontier. ¹⁹On the south, from Tamar southward to the waters of Meribah in Kadesh, to the torrent of Egypt and the Great Sea; this is for the southern frontier. ²⁰On the west the Great Sea will serve as frontier straight up towards Hamath; so much for the western frontier. ²¹You are to share out this land among yourselves, between the tribes of Israel. ²²You are to divide it into inheritances for yourselves and the aliens settled among you who have had children among you, since you are to treat them as citizens of Israel. They are to draw lots with you for their inheritance, with the tribes of Israel. ²³You must give the alien his inheritance in the tribe in which he is living – it is the Lord Yahweh who speaks.

The distribution of the land among the twelve tribes

48 ¹This is the list of the tribes. In the far north by way of Hethlon to Hamath, to Hazer-enon, with the frontier of Damascus lying to the north, bordering Hamath – each portion extends from the eastern frontier to the western frontier: Dan, one portion. ²Bordering Dan, from the eastern frontier to the western frontier: Asher. ³Bordering Asher, from the eastern frontier to the western frontier: Naphtali. ⁴Bordering Naphtali, from the eastern to the western frontier: Manasseh. ⁵Bordering Manasseh, from the eastern frontier to the western frontier: Ephraim. ⁶Bordering Ephraim, from the eastern frontier to the western frontier: Reuben. ⁷Bordering Reuben, from the eastern frontier to the western frontier: Judah. ⁸Bordering Judah, from the eastern frontier to the western frontier, is the part you are to set aside, twenty-five thousand cubits wide, and as long as each of the other portions from the eastern frontier to the western frontier. The sanctuary will be in the centre of it.

⁹The part you must set aside for Yahweh is to be twenty-five thousand cubits long and ten thousand cubits wide. ¹⁰This consecrated portion is to belong to the priests, being, on the north side, twenty-five thousand cubits; on the west side ten thousand cubits wide, on the east side ten thousand cubits wide and on the south side twenty-five thousand cubits long, and the sanctuary of Yahweh will be the centre of it. ¹¹This is to belong to the consecrated priests, to those of the sons of Zadok who maintained my liturgy and did not go astray with the straying Israelites, as the Levites went astray. ¹²And so their portion is to be taken out of the most holy portion of the land, at the side of the territory of the Levites. ¹³The territory of the Levites, like the territory of the priests, is to be twenty-five thousand cubits long and ten thousand wide – the whole length being twenty-five thousand and the width ten thousand.

¹⁴ They must not sell or exchange any part of it, and their part can never be alienated, since it is consecrated to Yahweh. ¹⁵ The remainder, an area of five thousand cubits by twenty-five thousands, is to be a non-sacred space for the city, for houses and pastures. The city is to stand in the centre. ¹⁶ Here are its measurements: on the north side, four thousand five hundred cubits; on the south side, four thousand five hundred cubits; on the east side, four thousand five hundred cubits; on the west side, four thousand five hundred cubits. ¹⁷ And the city pastures are to extend two hundred and fifty cubits to the north, two hundred and fifty to the south, two hundred and fifty to the east, two hundred and fifty to the west. ¹⁸ What remains of the part set aside, after keeping out the consecrated portion, consists of ten thousand cubits eastward and ten thousand westward, alongside the consecrated portion; this will bring in a revenue for feeding the people working inside the city. ¹⁹ These people are to be drawn from all the tribes of Israel and shall till this land. ²⁰ The portion is to have a total area of twenty-five thousand cubits by twenty-five thousand cubits. So the sacred portion has a square shape and is located beside the land belonging to the city. ²¹ What is left over on either side of the sacred portion and of the land belonging to the city, shall be for the prince, extending along the twenty-five thousand cubits eastward to the eastern frontier, and extending along the twenty-five thousand cubits westward to the western frontier – running parallel with the other portions. This is the portion for the prince with, in the middle, the consecrated portion and the sanctuary of the Temple. ²² Thus, apart from the property of the Levites and property of the city which lie inside the prince's portion, everything between the borders of Judah and the borders of Benjamin is to belong to the prince.

³⁰ Here are the ways out of the city. On the north side, being four thousand five hundred cubits long, ³¹ three gates: the gate of Reuben, the gate of Judah, the gate of Levi; the gates of the city are to be named after the tribes of Israel. ³² On the east side, which is to be four thousand five hundred cubits long, three gates: the gate of Joseph, the gate of Benjamin, the gate of Dan. ³³ On the south side, which is to be four thousand five hundred cubits long, three gates: the gate of Simeon, the gate of Issachar, the gate of Zebulun. ³⁴ On the west side, which is to be four thousand five hundred cubits long, three gates: the gate of Gad, the gate of Asher, the gate of Naphtali. ³⁵ The total perimeter will be eighteen thousand cubits, and the name of the city is to be: Yahweh-is-there."

HOSEA

1 ¹ The word of Yahweh was addressed to Hosea son of Beeri, during the reign of Ussiah, Jotham, Ahaz and Hezekiah in Judah, and of Jeroboam son of Joash, in Israel.

Take a wife: she will betray you

² When Yahweh began to speak through Hosea, the Lord said to him, "Go, take a sacred prostitute for your wife and have children born of prostitution, for the land has committed the vilest of whoredom by turning away from Yahweh."

³ So he married Gomer, daughter of Diblaim. And she was with child and bore a son. ⁴ Yahweh told him, "Name him Jezreel, for I will soon punish the family of Jehu for the massacre at Jezreel. I will put an end to the kingdom of Israel. ⁵ The days are coming when Israel will be defeated in the Valley of Jezreel."

2. Jer 2, 20

4. 2 K 9-10

INTRODUCTION

Hosea has come down through history as the prophet deceived by his wife whom he never stopped loving, in spite of her infidelities. God, who had called him to speak in his behalf to an idolatrous and materialistic people, wanted his prophet to have experienced the grief and the shame of a betrayed husband. The prophets reveal a God who feels a love so real and so personal for men that it can be expressed in human words. After being called by God, the prophet received the privilege of feeling and seeing things as God does: Hosea is going to carry the same cross as God's: constantly loving and forgiving a fickle and unfaithful wife. And Hosea will also shout God's indignation at Israel because of their sins.

Hosea began to preach around the year 746, that is to say, at the end of the prosperous reign of Jeroboam II, in the northern kingdom of Israel. Right after that would begin the twenty years of decadence which would conclude with the capture of Samaria and the deportation of its inhabitants (721).

Hosea rises to accuse and threaten the people who are unconcerned. He continues to preach while the kingdom is collapsing: he predicts the punishment of the people who are irresponsible and unfaithful to the covenant with their God. But, he understands that God is an educator and that he does not allow the misfortunes and even the destruction of the nation without his reasons. Through such means, Israel will again become what they once were when the Lord took them by the hand and brought them out of Egypt: they will become a poor and humble people, able to follow their God with faith and love.

The book of Hosea begins with the story of the failure of his married life. From that he draws a lesson for Israel, unfaithful to the Lord (chapters 1-3).

Then, in chapters 4-13 we have a mixture of reproaches, threats, invitations to conversion and predictions of the exile. The final paragraph 14:2-10 offers hope for the future, when the Lord has taken away all the riches in which Israel trusted.

⁶ Gomer was again with child and gave birth to a daughter. Yahweh said to Hosea, "Name her Unloved, for I will have no more love for the nation of Israel, nor will I forgive them."

⁸ After weaning Unloved, Gomer was with child again and had another son. ⁹ Yahweh said, "Name him Not-my-people, for you are not my people, nor am I I-AM for you."

⁴ Denounce your mother, denounce
– for she is not my wife,
nor am I her husband.

Let her rid her face of her ornaments and her breasts of her lewd idols;

⁵ or I will strip her naked
as on the day of her birth;

I will reduce her to an arid land,
making of her a desert –
I will let her die of thirst.

⁶ How could I love her children?
They are children of adultery;

⁷ their mother has played the harlot
they are children of debauchery.

She said, "I will go after my lovers,
who give me my bread and water,
my wool and my flax, my oil and my drink."

¹⁰ Yet she would not acknowledge that it was I who gave her the grain, the wine and the oil, and the silver and gold with which this people made their Baals.

"So I will take back my grain when it ripens and my new wine when it is ready;

o The Lord asks Hosea to marry one of those women involved in the sacred prostitution of pagan worship. Those wishing to obtain the favours of the god Baal for their fields and their cattle would come to them. This happened often in Israel and only the Lord's true faithful were scandalized. Thus, Hosea begins his marriage with great love, knowing that his wife will keep on being unfaithful to him and to her God. In fact, she goes back to being a prostitute.

Deep down, Hosea is torn apart, always hoping that his fickle and idolatrous wife will change her attitude, but also consumed by jealousy and anger, and tired of always forgiving. He keeps on loving her and in the end he will succeed in redeeming her through his great and merciful love.

Name her Unloved. In Israel every name had some meaning, usually a religious meaning. Here Hosea calls his children names which must shock everyone, thus confirming what he is teaching the people: Israel will be defeated; they are a people whom the Lord does not love and does not acknowledge as his people.

After Hosea, several prophets will use the words prostitution or adultery to refer to idolatry. They will also say that Israel is called to be the spouse of the Lord:

– Jeremiah will present Israel's sins in a similar way (Jer 2:2; 3:1; 31:1) and Ezekiel, with even more violence (Ez 16:23). On the contrary, in Isaiah, we will have the vision of Jerusalem reconciled and married to the Lord (Is 50:1; 54:6 and 62:4). Also see Song of Songs and Rev. 21.

+ In this discourse we have a merging of Hosea threatening his wife and the Lord reproaching his people.

In Israel nobody denied the Lord, the God of their race. Yet, even though they accepted him as saviour in the national crises, they thought that the fertility of the earth and of cattle de-which I gave to cover her nudity.

and no one can rescue her from my power.
- ¹³ I will bring an end to all her gladness,
her monthly feasts and sabbaths.
- ¹⁴ I will lay waste her vines,
and her fig trees, for she said,
"My lovers gave them to me."
I will turn them into thickets to be ravaged by wild beasts.
- ¹⁵ I will punish her for the feast days when she brought burnt offerings to the Baals, decked herself with her gaudy jewels,
ran after her lovers and forgot me, says Yahweh.
- ⁸ With thorns, therefore, I will block her path,
wall her and not let her find her way out.
- ⁹ Pursuing her lovers,
she will not overtake them;
looking for her lovers, she will not find them.
Then she will say, "I will go back to my husband for I was better off then than now."
- ¹⁶ So I am going to allure her,
lead her once more into the desert,
where I can speak to her tenderly.
- ¹⁷ Then I will give back her vineyards, pendent on other gods, the Baals, and that the Lord had no power in these matters. And so, the Lord threatens to deprive them of all the fruits of the earth and of the land itself in order for them to see that all these riches come from God alone.

In all ages we tend to entrust the various areas of existence to various gods. Some have "great faith" in Christ to solve their problems, but they worship sex in a way very similar to that of the devotees of Baal. Others revere God publicly, but they establish an oppressive society in which money and strength confer all the rights. The calvary of many people in the Third World reveal the sin of a society destroyed by its idols.

So I am going to allure her, lead her once more into the desert, where I can speak to her tenderly. The Lord is going to deprive Israel of everything so they will again be poor as they were in the desert in the days of Moses. Thus, they will know that everything comes from God and they will put their trust in him. 'I was better off then than now.' This is what the prodigal son will also say in Luke 15:17.

"She will no longer call me my Lord." Here, Hosea uses the word My Baal. In Hebrew, Baal means Lord. This was the name given to the Canaanite gods, but the Israelites also honoured the Lord with this title. However, the Lord does not want to be a "Baal" among many, but "The" only husband.

You will be my spouse forever. God is offering men a new covenant, a new alliance with him. Not a new religion with different commandments, but rather a personal relationship born of a purified and renewed heart (Jer 31:31).

John refers to this union 'in enduring love' in 1:17: Jesus is the one who brought it to human kind.

That day on their behalf I will make a covenant with beasts of the field. After the trials, Hosea foresees a happy period when the Lord will give the land back to his renewed people. There will be no more hostile forces from nature, no more wars. I will make my people rest safe and secure.

In the end, Hosea succeeds in overcoming his wife's wickedness by his persevering love. He even buys her back from the priest of Baal to whom she had given herself.

make the Valley of Achor a door of hope.
There she will answer me as in her youth,
as when she came out of the land of Egypt.

¹⁸ Yahweh says: On that day
she will call me my husband, and never again: my Baal.

¹⁹ I will take the names of Baals from her lips and no longer will they be invoked.

²⁰ That day on their behalf I will make a covenant with beasts of the field and birds of the air, with creatures creeping upon the ground.

I will wipe out the sword and war in the land;
I will make people rest safe and secure.

²¹ You will be my spouse forever, betrothed in justice and integrity;
we will be united in love and tenderness.

²² I will espouse you in faithfulness and you will come to know Yahweh.

²³ This is what Yahweh says of those days,

"I will be at peace with the heavens,
and they will respond to the earth;

²⁴ the earth will respond to the grain, wine and oil, which will come up to the expectation of Jezreel.

²⁵ I will sow them for myself in the land;

I will show my love to Unloved;

I will say to Not-my-people, "You are my people";
and they will answer, "You are my God."

3 ¹ Yahweh said to me, "Go once more, show your wife that you love her, although she has deceived you with others. Love her just as Yahweh loves his people who turn to other gods and love the sacred raisin cakes."

² So I bought her for fifteen pieces of silver and a whole measure of barley. ³ Then I said to her, "You shall stay here with me many days without giving yourself to anyone and without deserting me for another man. And in turn I will wait for you."

⁴ For the people of Israel shall be many days without king or ruler, without sacrifice or sacred pillar,

without divination or household idol.

⁵ Then the people of Israel shall turn back, looking for Yahweh, their God, and for David, their king. In the last days they will come respectfully to Yahweh and to his blessings.

2 ¹ Yet the people of Israel shall be like the sand of the sea, that cannot be measured or counted. In the place where it was said to them, "You are not my people," they shall be called "sons of the living God." ² The people of Judah and the people of Israel will be reunited, they will appoint one leader to rule over them, and they will come up out of the land. For there will be a great victory in Jez-reel. ³ You will call your brothers My-people, and your sisters My-loved-ones.

³ That is why the country is in mourning with all who live there wasting away; the beasts of the field, the birds of the air, even the fish are dying. ⁴ But let no one apologize or accuse another, for it is you, priest, whom I single out!

⁵ You stumble day and night and the prophets stumble with you, and you make your people fall. ⁶ My people perish for want of knowledge, I also reject you as priests, and since you ignore the law of your God, I, too, will ignore your children.

⁷ All without exception have offended me; they have exchanged me, their Glory, for idols, their shame. ⁸ Since they eat of the sacrifices for sin, they like my people to sin.

⁹ Yet it will be for the people as for the priest; I shall punish both for their conduct and repay them for their deeds. ¹⁰ They will eat and not be satisfied; they will multiply their prostitutions but remain without child, for they have no reverence for Yahweh. ¹¹ Harlotry, wine and liquors have taken hold of their hearts.

¹² My people consult a wooden idol and rely on a rod for information. A spirit of adultery leads them astray and makes them unfaithful to their God. ¹³ They sacrifice on the mountain tops and offer incense on the hills, under the oak, the poplar and the terebinth, wherever the shade is pleasant.

In 4:11-14 Hosea continues to accuse the ¹⁴ That is why, if your daughters turn to prostitution and your daughters-in-law to adultery, I will not punish them, for you yourselves go off with harlots and sacrifice with temple prostitutes. A senseless people destroys itself.

¹⁵ If Israel is a prostitute, there is no reason for Judah to be the same. Do not frequent Gilgal or Beth-aven; do not go there to swear. "As Yahweh lives!"

¹⁶ Since Israel is as obstinate as a stubborn cow, will Yahweh pasture it gently as a lamb? ¹⁷ Ephraim is devoted to idols, let Yahweh leave him alone! ¹⁸ After being drunk with wine they go with prostitutes; they prefer shame to glory. ¹⁹ A whirlwind will sweep them away and they will be ashamed of their unholy sacrifices.

Against the royal officials

5 ¹ Hear this, O priests! and you, people of Israel, pay attention! Hear, officials of the king for you are to be judged. You have been a snare at Mizpah and a net on Tabor, ² and a deep pit at Shittim, so I am to punish you all.

³ I know what Israel is like; he cannot hide from me. Ephraim is playing the harlot; Israel is a people which defiles itself.

⁶ With their flocks and herds they will go in search of Yahweh, but they will not find him for he has gone far from them. ⁷ He found they were unfaithful and their children were not his. So now the destroyer will do away with them and their lands will be devastated.

⁸ Blow the horn at Gibeah, the trumpet at Ramah, raise the battcry in Beth-aven! For Benjamin has been defeated. ⁹ The day has come in which Ephraim is ruined. Among the tribes of Israel I will proclaim the truth: ¹⁰ the princes of Judah are like those who remove border stones and I shall pour out my anger on them like a flood. ¹¹ In the same way those of Ephraim are oppressors and trample justice.

¹² I will be like a moth for Ephraim like rot for Judah. ¹³ Ephraim saw he was sick and priests who are imitating the practices of the pagan priests: fortune-telling and prostitution

◆ Let us not forget that the northern people, called kingdom of Israel, were formed by the tribes of Jacob or the tribes of Joseph (see Gen.

Judah saw his ulcer. Then Ephraim turned to the great King of Assyria for help, but he will not cure you or heal your sores.

¹⁴ I will be like a leopard for Ephraim and like a lion for Judah. I will tear them to pieces and leave them. When I carry them off, no one will rescue them. ¹⁵ Then I will go away and return to my place until they admit their guilt and come back to me, for in their anguish they will earnestly seek me.

¹ Come, let us return to Yahweh.

He who shattered us to pieces, will heal us as well;
he has struck us down, but he will bind up our wounds.

² Two days later he will bring us back to life;
on the third day, he will raise us up,
and we shall live in his presence.

³ Let us strive to know Yahweh.
His coming is as certain as the dawn;
his salvation will rise as the light;
he will come to us as showers come,
like spring rain that waters the earth.

⁴ O Ephraim, what shall I do with you?
O Judah, how shall I deal with you?

This love of yours is like morning mist,
like morning dew that quickly disappears.

⁵ This is why I smote you through the prophets, and have slain you by the words of my mouth.

⁶ For it is love that I desire, not sacrifice;
it is knowledge of God,
not burnt offerings.

■ ⁷ At Adam they broke my covenant: there they were unfaithful to me. ⁸ Gilead is a city of evildoers, stained with footprints of blood. ⁹ Like thieves in an ambush, so are the priests: they murder on the road to Shechem and commit adultery. ¹⁰ In Bethel I saw their disgraceful conduct; that is where Ephraim played the harlot and was defiled. ¹¹ (For you, too, Judah, I have a harvest stored for when I bring back my captive people and heal Israel.)

alize that I am mindful of their evil deeds. They are engulfed by their sins which are always before me. ³ They amuse the king with their wickedness and the officials with their trickery. ⁴ They are and remain adulterers, like an oven heated by a baker; he has not to stir the fire from the time the dough is kneaded until it rises.

⁵ On the day of the king his officials get drunk and the king joins hands with the revellers. ⁶ In their plotting they burn like an oven; all night their anger smoulders and in the morning blazes like a fire. ⁷ They are all heated like an oven and they devour their own rulers:

35:23). There were two tribes of Joseph: Ephraim, the most important, and Manasseh. When Hosea uses Ephraim, Joseph, Jacob, Israel, he is, in fact, addressing only one people.

○ This deals with Israel's wars. Note the last sentence: The Lord is hiding and leaves his people in darkness so they may come back to seek him.

+ Men regret their errors, but they are not so sincere as to abandon their sins. They think they will please God by offering a few sacrifices but they are far from real love which manifests itself in obedience; they prefer to offer the costly sacrifices which they choose rather than doing what God is asking of them.

It is love that I desire, not sacrifice. On one occasion Jesus refuted the Pharisees by quoting this saying (see Matthew 9:13).

■ Adam, Gilead, Bethel: places where the worship of the Lord is mixed in with pagan customs.

all their kings fall but none of them calls on me for help.

⁸ Ephraim mixes with other nations. He is like a half-baked loaf; ⁹ the nations around him consume his strength but he is unaware of it. He has become old and he does not know it.

¹⁰ Israel's arrogance is witness against him but even so they will not turn back to Yahweh, their God, or search for him. ¹¹ Ephraim is like a silly pigeon, now calling on Egypt, now turning to Assyria. ¹² But wherever they turn I shall throw my net over them for they rebelled against me and they will fall like birds.

¹³ Woe to them who fled far from me; disgrace will fall on those who deceived me. I wanted to redeem them but they spoke evil of me. ¹⁴ They did not call on me sincerely when they groaned on their beds because of their wheat and wine and turned to me.

¹⁵ When I made them successful and strong, they plotted evil against me. ¹⁶ Now they turn back to me but without sincerity. They resemble a deceptive bow. Their leaders will fall by the sword because of their insolent talk; in the land of Egypt, people will make fun of them.

♦ 8 ¹ Sound the trumpet, sentry! Warn the people of Yahweh because they have broken my covenant and are unfaithful to my Law. ² They cry to me, "We, Israel, acknowledge you, O God." ³ But Israel rejected what is right and this is why the enemy will hunt them down. ⁴ Without my approval they set up kings and without my blessing appointed leaders. With their silver and gold they fashioned idols to their own ruin.

⁵ To me, Samaria, your calf is loathsome and my anger blazes against you. How long will you remain defiled? ⁶ The calf is yours, Israel, a craftsman has made it; it is not God and will be broken into pieces. ⁷ As they sow the wind, they will reap the whirlwind. Like the erect ear of corn they bear no grain and produce no flour, or if they do, foreigners devour it.

⁸⁻⁹ Israel was eaten up when he went to Assyria. Now they will be a worthless object among the nations. Ephraim was a proud donkey but see: he sent gifts to lovers. ¹⁰ Although they send tributes to the nations, I shall gather them together and Israel will waste away oppressed by the great king.

¹¹ Ephraim built many altars but his altars made him more guilty. ¹² I wrote out for him the numerous precepts of my Law, but they look on them as coming from foreigners.

¹³ They offer sacrifices to me because they are those who eat the meat, but Yahweh does not accept their sacrifices for he is mindful of their sin and remembers their wickedness. They will return to Egypt.

¹⁴ Israel has forgotten his Maker and built palaces, but I will set fire to their towns and burn their palaces.

The exile is foretold

9 ¹ Do not rejoice and celebrate, Israel, like other nations, for you have deserted your God. You are fond of prostitution gifts and run to every threshing floor where there is wheat. ² This is why threshing floors and vats will not feed you; new wine will disappoint you. ³ No longer will you remain in Yahweh's land. Ephraim will return to Egypt – in fact to Assyria, where they will eat unclean food.

⁴ No more will they be able to pour out the wine offering for Yahweh and no longer will they sacrifice to him. They will have only bread for mourners; all who eat it will be defiled. This food will be for themselves and it will not be taken into the house of Yahweh.

⁵ What shall you do on the feast? You will leave but not for the pilgrimage to Yahweh; rather you will flee because of the invaders. ⁶ Egypt will gather you and Memphis entomb you. Nettles will take over your treasures of silver and thorns creep over your tents.

⁷ The time of punishment has come, the day of retribution is here. The Israelites will know it. The prophets will go out of their mind; the seers will become like mad men because your defeat will be as great as your sins have been.

⁸ Ephraim watches before my God; his prophets try to stop the enemy on every path to protect the house of their gods. ⁹ Yet they are as corrupted as they were long ago in Gibeah. Yahweh will remember their wickedness and punish their sin.

16. Ps 78, 57

7. Job 4, 8; Pro 22, 8; Gal 6, 7

♦ The prophet is like a guard (see Ez 3:17). Hosea condemns the kings who do not come from God since they were self-appointed at first: in the south, only David's sons were the chosen ones of God. Moreover, they were never concerned about representing God for the people, nor about fulfilling his designs.

Then we have the condemnation of the golden calves placed in Bethel to honor the Lord (see 1 Kgs 12:28).

♦ External practices and sacred banquets following the sacrifice do not make God forget their sin.

Hosea looks at Israel's past. "You will go back

¹⁰ When I found Israel, he was like wild grapes in the desert. I saw your fathers like the first fruits on a fig tree. But no sooner had they come to Baal-peor than they gave themselves to the shameful idol; the abomination won their hearts. ¹¹ The glory of Ephraim has fled away like a bird; it has died stillborn, miscarried, not even conceived. ¹² Had they brought out children, I would take them off before they were adults, for woe to them when I abandon them!

¹³ I saw Ephraim as a plantation in a prairie, but now he will send his sons to be slaughtered. ¹⁴ Give them, Yahweh, what you will; give them wombs that miscarry and breasts that are dry.

¹⁵ It is at Gilgal that their wickedness is seen. There I hated them. I will expel them from my House because of their evil conduct. I will love them no longer for all their leaders are rebels. ¹⁶ Ephraim is blighted; his root is withered; he will produce no fruit. Even when they are with child, the child will die in the womb. ¹⁷ My God will reject them because they did not listen; he will make them wander among the nations.

10 ¹ Israel was a spreading vine, rich in fruit. The more his fruit increased, the more altars he built; the more his land prospered, the more he adorned his sacred stones.

² Their heart is divided! They shall pay for it. Their altars will be thrown down and their sacred stones broken to pieces.

⁵ The people of Samaria tremble for their idols of Bethel: they mourn for their calf as do the priests who were so proud of it. ⁶ The glorious idol has been taken far away, carried off to Assyria as a tribute to the great king. Ephraim will reap the shame of this; the people of Israel will be disgraced. ⁷ As for the king of Samaria, he has been carried off like foam on water.

⁸ The idolatrous high places – the sin of Israel – will be destroyed. Thorn and thistle will creep over the altars. Then they will say to the mountains: 'Cover us', and to the hills: 'Fall on us.'

⁹ Since the days of Gibeah you have sinned and rebelled, Israel. Will not the battle against the evildoers of Gibeah overtake you again? ¹⁰ I shall come and punish you, gathering the nations against you because of your double sin.

Admonition and call to conversion

¹¹ Ephraim is a well trained heifer fond of threshing; on her neck I shall place a yoke; Ephraim will be harnessed and plough; the nation of Jacob will break the clods.

¹³ For your part you planted wickedness, reaped evil and ate the fruit of falsehood. When you rely on your own strength and your many warriors, confusion will overcome your people. ¹⁴ See: your fortresses are destroyed as when Shalman devastated Beth-arbel and the mothers were crushed to death with their children after the battle. ¹⁵ That is what will happen to you, people of Israel, because of your great evil. That day, at dawn, the king of Israel has already disappeared.

I called my son out of Egypt

+ 11 ¹ I loved Israel when he was a child; out of Egypt I called my son. ² But the more I have called, the further from me have they gone – sacrificing to the Baals, burning incense to the idols.

³ Yet it was I who taught Ephraim to walk, taking them by the arms; yet little did they realize that it was I who cared for them. ⁴ I led them with cords of human kindness, with leading strings of love, and I became for them as one who eases the yoke upon their neck and stoops down to feed them.

⁵ If they refuse to return to me, they

to Egypt" (9:3), namely, you will be captive again.

+ Israel is God's spoiled child. In former days God brought them out of Egypt, and ever since then, he has been calling them and trying to draw them to himself, but they keep up their depraved ways which bring punishment upon them.

I am God and not man (9). Our setbacks which seem to be God's punishment are, in fact, what God considers the most suitable ways to teach us (see Hb 12:7; 2 Mc 6:16; Wis 11:23).

will have to go back to Egypt and be ruled by an Assyrian king. ⁶ Swords will flash in their cities, slaughtering their sons, putting an end to all their plans.

⁷ They insist on turning away from me; they cry out because of the yoke that is upon them but no one lifts it. ⁸ How can I give you up, Ephraim? Can I abandon you like Admah or make you like Zeboiim? My heart is troubled within me and I am moved with compassion. ⁹ I will not give vent to my great anger; I will not return to destroy Ephraim for I am God and not man. I am the Holy One in your midst and I do not want to come to you in anger.

¹⁰ You will follow Yahweh when he roars like a lion. When he roars his sons will come trembling from the west; ¹¹ they will come with fear like sparrows from Egypt, like doves from Assyria. For I will bring them to their homes again.

12 ¹ Ephraim has surrounded me with lies; Israel comes to me with deceit. They follow Baal and run after the Saints. ² Ephraim feeds on wind, forever chasing the east wind, always more given to falsehood and violence. They have made a treaty with Assyria and brought oil to Egypt.

³ Yahweh has brought Jacob to trial. He is about to punish him because of his ways and repay his deeds.

⁴ In the womb he supplanted his brother and later he struggled with God, battling until he got the better of an angel. ⁵ The angel, in fact, wept and pleaded with him! He met him again at Bethel and there he spoke to him.

⁸ Canaan has dishonest scales and likes to cheat. ⁹ Ephraim boasts, "I have become rich and possess a fortune; they will find nothing to blame in all my wealth which could be considered sinful." ¹⁰ Yet I am Yahweh, your God, who brought you out of Egypt; I will have you live in tents again as in the days of Meeting. ¹¹ Then I will speak to the prophets, give them many visions and teach them through parables.

¹² The people of Gilead are wicked; but these are all false. They offered sacrifices to bulls in Gilgal. This is why their altars will become ruins on a ploughed field.

¹³ Jacob fled to the plains of Aram; Israel served to have a wife, working as a shepherd to win her. ¹⁴ Yahweh brought Israel out of Egypt through the leadership of a prophet; by means of this prophet he cared for them. ¹⁵ Ephraim, nevertheless, angered him bitterly. The Lord will bring down on him the blood he shed and repay him for his contempt.

13 ¹ When Ephraim spoke all trembled; he was powerful in Israel but became guilty of Baal worship and ruined himself. ² They now continue to sin and make images from molten metal, fashioning idols from silver, the work of craftsmen. And they call them God! They offer human sacrifices and adore calves! ³ That is why they will be like morning mist and like dew which does not last, like the straw swept away on the threshing floor, like smoke escaping through a window.

⁴ But I am Yahweh, your God who brought you out of Egypt; you have no God other than me and no saviour but me.

⁵ I knew you in the desert, in a land of scorching heat. ⁶ When they had food they were satisfied and when they were satisfied they became proud and no longer remembered me. ⁷ So I became for them like a leopard, like a tiger I watched out for them, and ⁸ attacked them with the fury of a bear that has lost its cubs. I tore out their heart and like a lion I devoured them; like a savage beast I tore them apart.

⁹ Israel, you had in me a helper, will I be now your destroyer? ¹⁰ Where is your king that he may rescue your cities? Where are your rulers about whom you said, 'Give us a king and commanders.' ¹¹ So in my anger I gave you a king and in my fury I took him away.

¹⁴ Will I ransom them from the power of the netherworld? Will I rescue them from death? Where, O death, are your plagues? Where, O netherworld, is your venom? Yet my eyes will not look with compassion ¹⁵ on the one who excelled among his brothers. Yahweh will send the east wind from the desert to dry up his sources of water and parch his fountains, to strip him of all his treasures.

¹ Samaria is guilty for she rebelled against her God. They will fall by the sword, their little ones will be crushed and women with child ripped open.

■ ² Return to your God Yahweh, O Israel!
Your sins have caused your downfall.

³ Return to Yahweh with humble words. Say to him,

"Oh you who show compassion to the fatherless forgive our sin, be appeased.
Instead of bulls and sacrifices, accept the praise from our lips.

‘Assyria will not save us;
no longer shall we look for horses nor ever again shall we say ‘Our gods’
to the work of our hands.’

⁵ I will heal their wavering and love them with all my heart for my anger has turned from them.

⁶ I shall be like dew to Israel like the lily will he blossom.
Like a cedar he will send down his roots;
⁷ his young shoots will grow and spread.

His splendour will be like an olive tree,
his fragrance, like a Lebanon cedar.

* Men will dwell in his shade again.
He will flourish like the grain.
He will blossom like a vine, and his fame will be like Lebanon with its cedars.

⁹ What would Ephraim do with idols,
when it is I who hear and make him prosper?
I am like an ever green cypress tree:
all your fruitfulness comes from me.

¹⁰ Who is wise enough to grasp all this?
Who is discerning and will understand?
Straight are the ways of Yahweh;
the just walk in them,
but the sinners stumble.

1. Am 1, 13

3. Ex 22.21

6. Song 4, 11

10. Ps 107, 43; Jer 9, 11; Ecl 8, 11

■ The book of Hosea ends with these encouraging words. After the trials, Israel will seek the Lord who will allow himself to be found. Men's reconciliation with God will be an authentic marriage and it will be accompanied by a rec-conciliation of humanity with nature. This was already said in 2:17-22 and it will be developed in the Song of songs which will use some of the images taken from Hosea.

The Biblical prophets knew that everything is temporary in our world. In every event threatening the lives of the people, they saw the coming of the Lord who judges this world in order to establish the definitive world.

Joel speaks when the land is invaded by locusts. The people are looking at their ruined fields and their lost crops. Joel looks beyond: The day of Yahweh is exceedingly great, terrible and dreadful – who can endure it?

Along with the promise of freedom from this plague, God also announces a happy age in which there will be neither grief nor fear. A day is announced when God will give the Spirit of the prophets to all his children: for the church, Joel is the prophet who announced Pentecost (see Acts 2:17).

1 ¹ This is the word of Yahweh that came to Joel, son of Pethuel.

The attack of the locusts

² Hear this, you elders!

Listen, all you, land dwellers!

Has such happened in your days or in the days of your fathers?

³ Tell it to your children,

then your children to their children, and then their children to the next generation.

⁴ What the cutting locusts left,
the swarming locusts ate.

What the swarming locusts left, the hopping locusts ate.

What the hopping locusts left,
the destroying locusts ate.

⁵ Wake up, drunkards, and weep! Wail, drinkers of wine, because of the sweet wine withheld from your mouths. ⁶ A nation numerous and mighty has invaded my country.

It has the teeth of a lion and the fangs of a lioness. ⁷ It has destroyed my vines and ruined my fig trees. It has stripped off their bark and left white their branches.

⁸ Mourn like a virgin in sackcloth, grieving for the husband of her youth. ⁹ Grain and drink offerings are not found in the House of Yahweh. The priests who minister before Yahweh are in mourning. ¹⁰ The fields are in ruin, the earth mourns, for the grain is destroyed; the wine fails and the oil dries up.

¹¹ Grieve, O you farmers; wail. O you vine growers, over the barley and the wheat, for the harvest of the field has perished. ¹² The vine wither, the fig tree wilts away; pomegranate, palm and apple – all the trees of the field dry up. Oh, how joy has faded away among all these people!

¹³ Gird yourselves, O priests, and weep; mourn, O ministers of the altar. Come, spend the night in sackcloth. O ministers of my God!
For the house of your God is deprived of grain and drink offering.

¹⁴ Proclaim a fast, call an assembly. Summon the elders and all who live in the land into the house of your God, and cry out to Yahweh.

¹⁵ What a dreadful day – the day of Yahweh that draws near and comes as ruin from the Almighty!

¹⁶ Has not the food vanished from before our very eyes, and joy and gladness too from the house of our God?

¹⁷ The seed under the clods lies shrivelled;
the granaries are in ruins, the barns are broken down, for the harvest has dried up. ¹⁸ How the cattle groan! The herds wander and moan, for they have no pasture. Even the flocks of sheep suffer. ¹⁹ To you, Yahweh, I call. Fire has razed the open pasture; flames have burned the trees.
²⁰ Even wild beasts cry out to you for the streams have dried up, for the pastures have been devoured by fire.

2 ¹ Blow the trumpet in Zion, sound the alarm on my holy mountain!

Let all dwellers in the land tremble,
for the day of Yahweh is coming.
Yes, the day is fast approaching –
a day of gloom and darkness,
a day of clouds and blackness.
A vast and mighty army comes,
like dawn spreading over the mountain,
such as has never occurred before nor will happen again in the future.
In front a fire devours,
behind a flame consumes.
The land ahead that appears like a garden
soon becomes like a desert,
nothing escapes their onslaught.
They look like horses,
they gallop along like chargers.
With the clattering of chariots,
they leap over the mountains;
with crackling like burning stubble, they charge – a mighty army arrayed for battle.

Before them nations are appalled,
and every face turns pale.
They attack like warriors;
they scale walls like soldiers.
Marching in line, they move onward without swerving from their course, without jostling one another, everyone of them marches straight ahead;
amid a hail of arrows they run,
they press without breaking ranks.
They rush upon the city;
they leap over the walls;
they break into the houses,
like thieves enter through the windows.
Before them the earth shakes
and the heavens tremble,
the sun and moon grow dark and the stars lose their twinkle.
Yahweh thunders before his army,
his vast and mighty forces.
The day of Yahweh is exceedingly great,
terrible and dreadful – who can endure
it?

Return to me with weeping

◆ ¹² Yahweh says, "Yet even now, return to me with your whole heart,

with fasting, weeping and mourning.
¹³ Rend your heart, not your garment.
Return to Yahweh, your God – gracious and compassionate."

Yahweh is slow to anger, full of kindness, and he repents of having punished.

¹⁴ Who knows? Probably he will relent once more and spare some part of the harvest from which we may bring sacred offerings to Yahweh, your god.

¹⁵ Blow the trumpet in Zion, proclaim a sacred fast, call a solemn assembly.

¹⁶ Gather the people, sanctify the community, bring together the elders, even the children and infants at the breast. Let the bridegroom leave his bed, and the bride her room.

¹⁷ Between the vestibule and the altar, let the priests, Yahweh's ministers, weep and say: Spare your people, Yahweh. Do not humble them or make them an object of scorn among the nations. Why should it be said among the peoples: Where is their God?

¹⁸ Yahweh has become jealous for his land; he has had pity on his people. ¹⁹ Yahweh has given an answer; he says to them, "I am sending you grain, new wine and oil which will fully satisfy you; never again will you be scorned by the nations.

²⁰ I will drive far from you the enemy from the North and pursue him towards a land of draught and desolation: his vanguard to the Eastern Sea, his rearguard to the Western Sea.
Its stench will rise everywhere. See that I do great things."

²¹ Fear not, O earth! exult and rejoice for Yahweh has acted magnificently!

²² Do not be afraid, beasts of the field, for the desert prairies are green again, the trees are with fruit, the fig tree and the vine have yielded their riches.

◆ Return to me with your whole heart: an invitation to penance. In times of hardships, public fasts were proclaimed in Israel. People would wear mourning clothes, or they would replace their clothes with sackcloths, or they would not comb their hair and would cover their faces with ashes. In the Gospel, Jesus will not say that these signs of physical penance, like fasting ²³ Sons of Zion, be glad! Rejoice in Yahweh your God, for he has sent you the blessing of autumn rain and showers – the autumn and spring rains as in the past.

²⁴ The threshing-floors will be full of grain, the vats overflowing with new wine and oil.

²⁵ I will compensate you for the years devastated by grasshoppers, may-bugs, crickets and locusts – the powerful army I sent against you.

²⁶ You will eat and be satisfied, and you will praise the name of Yahweh, your God, who has done wonders for you.

²⁷ And then you will know that I am in the midst of Israel, I, Yahweh your God, no other! Never again will my people be shamed.

I will pour out my spirit

¹ After this, I will pour out my Spirit upon all flesh.

Your sons and daughters will prophesy,
your old men will dream dreams,
your young men will see visions.

² Even upon my servants and maidens,
I will pour out my Spirit on that day.

³ I will show wonders in the heavens,
and on earth blood and fire and columns of smoke.

⁴ The sun will darken and the moon turn to blood at the approach of the great and dreadful day of God.

⁵ Then all who call upon the name of Yahweh will be saved.

For on Mount Zion there will be a remnant, as Yahweh has said;
in Jerusalem some will be saved –
those whom Yahweh will call.

The final battle and salvation

4

¹ In those days and at that time when I re-establish and prosper Judah and Jerusalem, ² I shall let all the nations gather together and come to the Valley of Jehoshaphat. Then I shall uphold against them the cause of Israel, my people and my heritage. For they have dispersed them among the nations and divided my land. ³ They cast lots for to express sorrow and to accompany prayer, are useless, (see Matthew 4:1 and Mark 2:20), but he will make it clear that these external signs of penance are neither everything, nor what is most important.

• Joel announces the Day of the Lord, a term indicating God's coming. Judgment and the salvation of the elect, at the same time.

I will pour out my Spirit upon mankind. Already in the days of the Old Testament God communicated his Spirit to the prophets and to saviours (see Is 11:1 and Jgs 11:1). Here, however, it appears as a decisive sign that the Spirit will be given to all believers. They will dream dreams and see visions. In those remote days, such were the normal means of prophetic communication. Through these words Joel announces what Isaiah did when he said: All your children will be taught by God (Is 54:13 and Jer 31:31).

I will show wonders in the heavens. The wave of prophecy will accompany all kinds of signs indicating a grave crisis in the world. The image of the sun turning to darkness expresses both chaos in nature and impossible situations in the life of humankind.

And all will be saved. This will be a time when men will not be able to avoid a decisive choice: hanging on to their former lifestyles or invoking the name of Yahweh which means to surrender their lives and hopes to him and to rely on his powerful intervention.

It seems that these three factors were present for the Jewish people in the years following the resurrection of Jesus and previous to the destruction of the nation. This is why Peter quotes this text on the day of Pentecost (Acts 2:17). In these last years of the 20th century, the same can be verified on a world scale.

+ We can apply to this chapter what is said concerning Zechariah 12:14. The prophet uses a crisis in which the Jews were harshly oppressed to emphasize that God is the Lord of history.

my people; they gave a boy for a harlot, and a girl for the wine they drank.

⁴ And you Tyre and Sidon, and all the districts of Philistia, what are you for me? Will you take revenge on me? If you want to do that, swiftly and immediately will I take reprisals against you! ⁵ You who carried off my silver and gold and my finest jewelry to your temples!

⁶ The people of Judah and Jerusalem you sold to the Greeks, removing them far away from their own land. ⁷ But now I am going to summon them from wherever you sold them, and I will return your deed on your head. ⁸ Yahweh says: I will sell your sons and daughters to the Judeans who will then sell them to the Sabaeans in a distant land.

⁹ Make this known among the nations, proclaim the holy war, call the warriors, let men of war advance! ¹⁰ Hammer your ploughshares into swords, your sickles into spears! Let the weak say: I am a warrior! And the meek: I too will fight!

¹¹ Come quickly, neighbouring nations, and assemble! ¹² Rise up, O peoples, and come to the Valley of Jehoshaphat, nations.

¹³ Bring a sickle for the harvest is ripe;

come and tread for the winepress is full and the vats overflow, so great is their wickedness!

¹⁴ Multitudes and more multitudes in the Valley of Verdict! ¹⁵ The sun and the moon become dark, the stars lose their radiance. ¹⁶ Yahweh roars from Zion and raises his voice from Jerusalem; heaven and earth are shaken. Indeed Yahweh is a refuge for his people, a stronghold for the sons of Israel. ¹⁷ You will know that I am Yahweh, your God, dwelling on Zion, my holy mountain. Jerusalem will be a holy place, and foreigners will never pass through there again.

¹⁸ On that day the mountains shall drip wine and the hills flow with milk; all the streams of Judah will run with water and a fountain will spring from the House of Yahweh, and water the valley of Shittim.

²⁰ But Judah will be inhabited forever, and Jerusalem through all generations. ²¹ And I shall avenge their blood and not leave it unpunished, for Yahweh dwells in Zion.

--------------------------------------	-------------------------------	----------------	-------------	----------------

Towards the middle of the eighth century before Christ, the kingdom of Israel seems rich and very prosperous. Small properties have been disappearing and wealth is in the hand of a few rich people, while the poor are increasing. The luxury of the few is an insult to the destitute poor.

Unexpectedly, Yahweh roars from Zion, his voice thunders from Jerusalem through Amos, a shepherd from Tekoa, a little village located about nine kilometers south of Bethlehem, in the land of Judah.

God takes him from his flock and sends him to the neighbouring land, to Israel in the north. And so, the prophet starts going through the cities of Israel, denouncing the social injustices and a religion which is satisfied with only external practices. He announces God's punishment and the deportation of Israel, and in the end, he also predicts happy days.

Amos is the prophet of social justice. He reveals to us a God who defends the rights of the poor.

1 These are the words of Amos, one of the sheep-breeders of Tecoa, and the visions which he saw concerning Israel during the reign of Uzziah, King of Judah and Jeroboam, son of Jehoash, King of Israel, two years before the earthquake. ² He said,

"Yahweh roars from Zion, his voice thunders from Jerusalem. The pastures of the shepherds are scorched and the choicest farmland is dried up."

³ Yahweh says this, "Because Damascus has sinned, not once but three times and even more, I will not relent. Because they have threshed Gilead with threshing sledges of iron, ⁴ I will send fire upon the people of Hazael that shall devour the strongholds of Benhadad. I will cut off the ruler from the Valley of Aven and him who holds the scepter from Betheden. ⁵ I shall break the protective cross-bar of Damascus."

Condemnation of several nations

⁶ Yahweh says this, "Because Gaza has sinned, not once but three times and even more, I will not relent. Because they carried a whole people into captivity to deliver them over to Edom, ⁷ I will send fire upon the wall of Gaza and it will devour her strongholds. ⁸ I will cut off the ruler from Ashdod, and him that holds the sceptre from Ashkelon; I will turn my hand against Ekron and the remnant of the Philistines will perish," says Yahweh.

⁹ Yahweh says this, "Because Tyre has sinned, not once but three times and even more, I will not relent. Because they delivered over to Edom a whole people and did not remember the covenant of brotherhood, ¹⁰ I will send fire upon the walls of Tyre and it shall devour her palaces."

¹¹ Yahweh says this, "Because Edom has sinned, not once but three times and even more, I will not relent. Because he pursued his brother with the sword and cast off all pity, because his anger rages forever and his wrath is always wild, ¹² I will send fire upon Teman and it shall devour the strongholds of Bozrah.

¹³ Yahweh says this, "Because the Ammonites have sinned, not once but three times and even more, I will not relent.

Because they have ripped open pregnant women in Gilead, that they might enlarge their border, ¹⁴ I will set fire to the walls of Rabbah and it shall devour her strongholds. Then there will be war cry and battle; then stormwinds will blow. ¹⁵ Their king will go into exile, he and his princes with him," says Yahweh.

2 ¹ Yahweh says this, "Because Moab has sinned, not once but three times and even more, I will not relent. Because they burned to a cinder the bones of the king of Edom. ² I will send fire on Moab and it shall be destroyed in the midst of the tumult, with warcries and the blast of the trumpet. ³ I will do away with their ruler and all the princes with him," says Yahweh.

⁴ Yahweh says this, "Because Judah has sinned, not once but three times and even more, I will not relent. Because they rejected the law of Yahweh and did not keep his statutes, but have been led astray by the falsehood after which their fathers walked, ⁵ I will send fire upon Judah and it will devour the fortresses of Jerusalem."

Judgment on Israel

◆ ⁶ Yahweh says this, "Because Israel has sinned, not once but three times and even more, I will not relent. They sell the just for money and the needy for a pair of sandals; ⁷ they tread on the head of the poor and trample them upon the dust of the earth, while they silence the right of the afflicted; a man and his father go to the same women to profane my holy name; ⁸ they stretch out upon garments taken in pledge, beside every altar; they take

■ Chapters 1 and 2 announce the judgment of God which is coming soon. Amos severely attacks the pagan nations which have drifted away from universal morality and from the rules of human life. Judah, a nation of believers, bears the sin of having forgotten the law of God (2:4).

◆ He reproaches Israel for always trampling on the rights of the poor and with this for falsifying religion. They keep up the religious rituals which are a pretext for drunkenness and prostitution. But they silence the prophets who proclaim the word of God who is the source of authentic religion.

You gave the Nazirites wine to drink (see Lv

6). The followers of a corrupted religion make fun of those men whose lifestyles, even externally are different from their own and express the personal aspect of their religious commitment: let them drink! let them be like everyone else because their lifestyles disturb our consciences.

◆ Those listening to Amos do not understand why this man, who is not a priest, nor a member of the "fellow prophets", came to preach to them. And they are scandalized because he sticks his nose into things which, according to them, have nothing to do with religion. The images which Amos uses in these verses have a the wine of those they swindle and are drunk in the house of their God.

⁹ It was I who destroyed the Amorites before them, whose height was like the height of the cedar, a people as sturdy as an oak. I destroyed their fruit above and their roots below.

¹⁰ It was I who brought you up from the land of Egypt and led you forty years in the wilderness to take possession of the land of the Amorites.

¹¹ It was I who raised up prophets among your sons, and Nazirites among your young men. Is this not so, people of Israel? says Yahweh. ¹² But you gave the Nazirites wine to drink and commanded the prophets not to prophesy.

¹³ Behold, I will crush you to the ground, as a cart does when it is full of sheaves.

Punishment is near

3 ¹ Hear this word which Yahweh speaks against you, people of Israel, against the whole family which he brought up from the land of Egypt.

² "You only have I known of all the families of the earth; therefore I will punish you in a special way for all your wrongdoings."

³ Do two walk together unless they have agreed?

⁴ Does a lion roar in the forest when it has no prey? Does a young lion growl in its den unless it has seized something?

⁵ Does a bird get caught in a snare if the snare has not been baited?

Does a tiger spring up from the ground unless it has caught something?

⁶ If a trumpet sounds in a city, will the people not be frightened?

If disaster strikes a city, has not Yahweh caused it? Yet Yahweh does nothing without revealing his plan to his servants, the prophets. ⁷ If the lion roars, who will not be afraid? If Yahweh speaks, who will not prophesy?

⁸ Call on the people living in the palaces of Ashur and in the palaces of Egypt. "Come together against the hill of Samaria and see the many scandals and the oppression that is there.

¹³ Hear and accuse the nation of Jacob, says the Lord Yahweh, God of hosts, ¹⁴ "On the day that I call Israel to account for his crimes, I will punish as well the altars of Bethel. The horns of the altar will be broken off and fall to the ground. ¹⁵ Then I will strike the winter house and the summer house. The palaces of ivory shall be ruined, and the great house destroyed.

¹⁶ The swift shall be unable to flee and the strong man shall lose his strength. The warrior shall not save himself nor the bowman stand his ground. ¹⁷ The swift of foot shall not escape nor the horseman save himself. ¹⁸ Even the most stout-hearted among the warriors shall flee away naked on that day," says Yahweh.

+ 4 ¹ Listen to this word, you cows of Bashan, you women who live on the hills of Samaria, who oppress the weak and abuse the needy, who order your husbands, "Bring us something to drink quickly!"

² The Lord Yahweh has sworn by his holiness, "The time is coming upon you when you will be dragged away with hooks, even the last of you with fishhooks. ³ Through the breaks in the wall you will go out, straight ahead, driven out all the way to Hermon." It is Yahweh who has spoken.

clear message: he speaks because God forces him to speak.

In 3:9-15, Amos calls on Assyria and Egypt to come to level a society without faith and without law. Let them destroy temples and palaces since all are maintained through exploitation and they promote sin.

+ It is worth noting the way Amos deals with rich and selfish women. He compares them with nothing less than the cows of Bashan. Bashan is an area on the other side of the Jordan and famous in the Old Testament for its fattened flocks.

These women are getting fat at the expense of the poor and all they know is how to make cocktails. Amos announces the day when they will be taken from the conquered capital and exiled with as much consideration as that given to a herd of cattle.

Prepare to meet your God

■⁴ Come, sinners, to the Sanctuary in Bethel go down to Gilgal and sin even more!

Each morning bring your sacrifices and on the third day your tithes. Burn leavened food for thanksgiving. ⁵ Proclaim in public your freewill offering, for this is what makes you happy, O men of Israel," says the Lord Yahweh.

⁶ "Though I have made your teeth clean of food in every city, though I have made your bread in all your dwellings scarce, yet you did not return to me," says the Lord Yahweh.

⁷ "Though I withheld rain from you when the harvest was still three months away, though I sent rain upon one town and withheld it from another, ⁸ though people staggered from town to town, and found no water to quench their thirst, yet you never returned to me," says the Lord Yahweh.

⁹ "Though with blight and calamities I have stricken your garden and vineyard, though your fig and olive trees were devoured by the locusts yet you never returned to me," says the Lord Yahweh.

¹⁰ "Though as in Egypt I sent you a plague, though I slew your young men with the sword along with your captured horses, and nauseated you with stench from your own dead, yet you never returned to me," says the Lord Yahweh.

¹¹ "I overthrew you, a divine punishment, as happened to Sodom and Gomorrah; you were like a brand snatched from the blaze, yet you never returned to me," says the Lord Yahweh.

¹² Therefore I will deal with you in my own way, Israel, and since I will do this to you, prepare Israel to meet your God!"

¹³ For it is he who has formed the mountains and creates the winds; who showers abundant rain on the earth, who turns dawn to twilight, who strides upon the heights of the earth – Yahweh, God of hosts, is his name.

Seek me and you shall live

5 ¹ Listen to this dirge, this lament I pronounce over you, nation of Israel, ² "Virgin Israel is fallen, never to rise again! With none to help her up, abandoned, she lies upon her own land."

⁴ For Yahweh says this to the nation of Israel, "Seek me, that you may live, ⁵ but not in Bethel nor come to Gilgal, nor pass through to Beersheba. For Gilgal shall be led into exile: and Bethel brought to nothing."

⁶ Seek Yahweh, that you may live, or he will rush like fire on the nation of Joseph and no one will be at Bethel to quench the blaze.

⁷ He who made the Pleiades and Orion, who turns dusk to dawn and darkens the day into night, who summons the waters of the sea and pours them out upon the earth – Yahweh is his name. ⁹ He makes destruction flash forth against the strong, and brings ruin upon the fortified city.

⁷ Woe to you who turn judgment into bitterness and do no justice to the land!

¹⁰ You hate him who reproves in court; you despise him who speaks the truth.

¹¹ Because you have trampled on:

■ Amos recalls the many hardships and trials which gave the people of Israel an opportunity for reflection.

Amos notes the contrast between the luxury, the frequency of the religious celebrations and the evil behaviour of the people. They think that if they go through the rituals and offer sacrifices, God will not pay attention to their evil ways. But that is not the way it is.

the poor man and extorted levies on his grain, though you have built mansions of hewn stones you will not dwell in them; though you have planted choice grapevines, you shall not drink of their wine.

¹² For I know the number of your crimes and how grievous are your sins: persecuting the just, taking bribes, turning away the needy at the gates. ¹³ See, how the prudent keep silent at this time, for it is an evil time.

The day of the Lord will be darkness

◆ ¹⁴ Seek good and shun evil, that you may live.

Then Yahweh, the God of hosts,
as you have claimed, will be with you.

¹⁵ Hate wickedness and love virtue, and let justice prevail in the courts;
perhaps Yahweh, the God of hosts, will take pity on the remnant of Joseph

¹⁶ Yahweh, God of hosts thus says:
"In every square, wailing will be heard,
in every street, cries of anguish.

Farmers will be summoned to lament and professional mourners to weep noisily.

¹⁷ There will be lamentation in every vineyard, for I will pass through your midst, says the Lord.

¹⁸ Woe to you who long for Yahweh's day!
Why should you long for that day?

It is a day of darkness, not of dawn,

¹⁹ as if a man fled from a lion
only to run into a bear;

or as if he entered his home,
rested his hand against the wall,
only to be bitten by a viper.

²⁰ Will not the day of Yahweh be darkness and not light, gloom without a glow of brightness?

◆ God's complaints about his people resemble those of another time expressed through Isaiah: "This people comes close to me only in words, and they honour me only with their lips, while their hearts are far from me" (Is 29:13).

Since the previous disasters are not enough to teach Israel to straighten their ways, Amos announces another disaster. Its nature is not specified since what is unknown usually causes greater fear.

Amos speaks extensively of the Day of the Lord. When the Israelites spoke of the Day of the Lord, they meant the day of their triumph when God would come to crush the enemy nations. Amos turns its meaning around. From then on, when used by the prophets, the Day of the Lord will mean God coming to make his people accountable (see Zephaniah 2). Even in the Gospel and in other books of the New Testament, the Day of the Lord will mean the Day of universal Judgment (see Rom 1:18); but then it will have a more specific meaning: the coming of Christ. He will judge those who rejected his Word and he will fulfill the hopes of those who put their faith in him.

Perhaps Yahweh, the God of hosts, will take pity on the remnant of Joseph. This is the first time the word remnant appears in the ²¹ I hate, I reject your feasts, I take no pleasure when you assemble ²² to offer me your burnt offerings. Your cereal offerings, I will not accept! Your peace offerings and your fatted beasts, I will not look upon!

²⁵ Did you, Israel, bring me offerings and sacrifices for forty years, in the wilderness?

²⁶ Yet now you lift up King Sikkuth and Kiyun, your idols, which you made yourselves. ²⁷ Therefore I will send you into exile beyond Damascus," says Yahweh whose name is God of hosts.

6 ¹ Woe to those who live at ease in Zion, overconfident on the hill of Samaria!

Woe to you, men of renown, from the first among the nations, to whom the people of Israel come!

² Pass through Kalneh and see; from there go to Hamath the great, then go down to Gath of the Philistines. Are you better than these kingdoms were? Is your territory greater than theirs?

³ You hope to postpone the evil day; in fact you bring about a year of violence.

⁴ You lie on beds inlaid with ivory and sprawl on your couches; you eat lamb from the flock and veal from calves fattened in the stall.

⁵ You strum on your harps, and like David, try out new musical instruments.

⁶ You drink wine by the bowlful and anoint yourselves with the finest oils, but you do not grieve over the ruins of Joseph.

⁷ Therefore you will be the first to go into exile; and the feast of sprawlers will be over.

⁸ The Lord Yahweh has sworn by his life, "I hate the proud city of Jacob, I hate his palaces. I will hand over the city and all that fills it."

⁹ In those days, if ten men are left in one house, they shall die. ¹⁰ Their kinsman will lift the corpses and bring the bones from the house; when he will say to his comrade at the back part of the house, "Are there any more?" the other will say, "No, but hush! We must not mention the name of Yahweh."

¹¹ For, behold, this is Yahweh's command, "The great house shall crumble, and the small house fall to pieces."

¹² Do horses run on craggy cliffs? Does a man plough the sea with oxen. Well, you have turned judgment into a poisonous plant and the sentences of the court into wormwood.

¹³ You rejoice about unimportant matters when you say, "Have we not become powerful by our own strength?" ¹⁴ Yet am I stirring up against you, Israel, a nation that will oppress you from the pass of Hamath to the brook of the Arabah.

Five visions

o7 ¹ This is what the Lord Yahweh showed me. He was forming a swarm of locusts just as the late sowing began to come up. It was the second growth which follows the king's mowing. ² When they were about to finish devouring all the crops of the land, I said, "Lord Yahweh, forgive! How shall Jacob survive, small as he is?" ³ Yahweh repented and said, "It shall not happen."

⁴ This is what the Lord Yahweh showed me: he was calling for burning heat. It consumed the great deep and was consuming the land. ⁵ I said, "Lord Yahweh, stop! How shall Jacob survive small as he is?" ⁶ Yahweh relented and said, "This too shall not happen."

⁷ This is what the Lord Yahweh showed me. He was standing beside a wall with a plumb-line in his hand. ⁸ The Lord asked me, "Amos, what do you see?" And I answered, "A plumb-line." Then the Lord said, "Behold, I am measuring my people Israel with a plumb-line. I will forgive them no more. ⁹ The high-

Bible. The people of Israel were formed by the descendants of Abraham, the man of faith. But the prophets realize that they are heading for ruin because of their lack of faith; their provinces are taken away from them; their children die. Yet, God will preserve a small group, the Remnant of Israel. They will come back to authentic faith and they will be the "shoot" of the New People of God.

Ephraim, Joseph, Jacob, Israel: all these names refer to the same nation.

o The prophets are never content with simply threatening their people. They are always interceding for them before God (see Ez 33 and 22:30). In the first two visions, Amos tries to stop God's anger. In the third, he runs into God's firm purpose to destroy Israel.

+ Notice the boldness of Amos' action. He went to preach in the national Temple, or to put it another way, in the country's cathedral. He does so though he has no title, or the priest's permission and he begins to denounce the false places of Isaac are to be made desolate, and the sanctuaries of Israel laid waste. For I will arise, sword in hand, against the family of Jeroboam."

Conflict with the priest Amaziah

+ ¹⁰Amaziah, the priest of Bethel, then sent word to King Jeroboam of Israel, "Amos is conspiring against you in the very centre of Israel; what he says goes too far. ¹¹These are his very words: Jeroboam shall die by the sword and Israel shall be exiled from its land."

¹²Amaziah then said to Amos, "Off with you, seer, go back to the land of Judah. Earn your bread there by prophesying. ¹³But never again prophesy at Bethel for it is a king's sanctuary and a national shrine."

¹⁴Amos replied to Amaziah, "I am not a prophet or one of the fellow-prophets. I am a breeder of sheep and a dresser of sycamore trees. ¹⁵But Yahweh took me from shepherding the flock and said to me: Go, and from me, tell my people Israel: ¹⁶Now hear the word of Yahweh, you who say: No more prophecy against Israel, no more insults against the family of Isaac! ¹⁷This is what Yahweh says:

Your wife shall be made a harlot in the city, your sons and daughters shall fall by the sword, your land shall be divided up and given to others, and you yourself shall die in a foreign land, for Israel shall be driven far from its land."

Fourth vision: the basket of ripe fruit

8 ¹The Lord Yahweh showed me a basket of ripe fruit ²and asked, "Amos, what do you see?" I replied, "A basket of ripe fruit."

Then Yahweh said to me, "My people Israel is ripe for destruction; I will no longer forgive them. ³The songs of the palace will become wailings on that day, says the Lord. Heaps of corpses everywhere, all cast out in silence."

⁴Hear this, you who trample on the needy to do away with the weak of the land. ⁵You who say, "When will the new moon or the sabbath feast be over that we may open the store and sell our grain? Let us lower the measure and raise the price; let us cheat and tamper with the scales, ⁶and even sell the refuse with the whole grain. We will buy up the poor for money and the needy for a pair of sandals."

⁷Yahweh, the pride of Jacob, has sworn by himself, "I shall never forget their deeds."

⁸Shall not the land tremble because of this, and all who dwell in it mourn, while it rises up and heaves like the Nile and settles back again like the river of Egypt?

⁹The Lord Yahweh says, "On that day I will make the sun go down at noon and darken the earth in broad daylight."

order which allows the accumulation of so much private wealth. Naturally, Amaziah, the king's chaplain, is scandalized. In our days, Amos would have been arrested.

For Amaziah, his priesthood is a well-paid position and he is also convinced that Amos is preaching against his way of earning a living. In those days, there were many prophets making a living from giving advice without having been called directly by God as the great prophets were, and as Amos was as well.

Amos is not a prophet as those were. He is a lay person to whom God entrusted a mission when he calls him personally. Apparently he loses out in the meeting with the religious authorities. It is not said that he used any other weapons than God's word and God knows how to judge his envoys. We do not know if Amaziah succeeded in throwing him out of the country or if he only forbade him to preach in the well-attended places.

■ This fourth vision continues the vision of chapter 7:1-9.

Amos describes the greed of the merchants and of the rich, the exploitation of the needy, the luxury of the wealthy, the bribing of the judges.

I will make them hunger for the word of God (11), namely, in a little while, those who refuse to listen because they lack nothing, will be so afflicted that they will long to hear a word of consolation from God, and that word will not come. But the prophet's words were to be fulfilled in several ways. We can read into them the prediction of the hunger and thirst for God's word, which in later times, would be the hallmark of the believer.

¹⁰ I will turn your festivals into mourning and all your singing into wailing. Everyone will mourn, covered with sackcloth and every head will be shaved. I will make them mourn as for an only son and bring their day to a bitter end."

¹¹ The Lord Yahweh says, "Days are coming when I will send famine upon the land, not hunger for bread or thirst for water, but for hearing the word of Yahweh."

¹² Men will stagger from sea to sea, wander to and fro, from north to east, searching for the word of Yahweh, but they will not find it.

¹³ On that day, fair virgins and strong young men will faint from thirst, ¹⁴ all the young people who swore by the god of Samaria and said: Long life to the god of Dan, long life to the god of Bersheba! They shall fall, never to rise again."

Fifth vision: fall of the sanctuary

9 ¹ I saw the Lord standing by the altar, and he said, "Strike the top of the columns, so that the beams shake and the roof falls down on the heads of them all. Those who are left I will slay with the sword; not one shall flee, not one shall escape."

² Though they dig down to the netherworld, my hand will take them from there; though they climb up to heaven, I will bring them down from there;

³ Though they hide on the top of Carmel, I will search them out there and take them; though they hide from me in the depths of the sea, I will bid the sea-serpent bite them.

⁴ When they are led into captivity by their enemies, there I will command the sword to slay them.

For I have set my eye upon them, not for help but for harm.

⁵ When the Lord Yahweh of hosts touches the earth, it melts and all who dwell on it mourn. The earth rises up and heaves like the Nile and settles back again like the river of Egypt.

⁷ And now Yahweh says, "Are you Israelites more to me than the Ethiopians? Did I not bring Israel up from the land of Egypt as I brought the Philistines from Caphor and Aram from Kir?"

⁹ This is what I have ordered: I will sift the nation of Israel among the nations as one sifts with a sieve, letting no pebble pass through. ¹⁰ All sinners among my people shall die, those who say, "Evil will not reach or overtake us."

◆ ¹¹ "On that day I shall restore the fallen hut of David and wall up its breaches and raise its ruined walls and so build it as in days of old."

¹² They shall conquer the remnant of Edom and the neighbouring nations upon which my name has been called. Thus says Yahweh, the one who will do this.

¹⁴ I shall bring back the exiles of my people Israel; they will rebuild the desolate cities and dwell in them. They will plant vineyards and drink their wine; they will have orchards and eat their fruit. ¹⁵ I shall plant them in their own country and they shall never again be rooted up from the land which I have given them," says Yahweh your God.

◆ Following the threats of 9:1-6, verses 9-10 show the assurance which is never lacking in the prophets: God will not completely destroy Israel, he will leave a remnant to fulfill his promises.

◆ In 9:11-14 – written after the exile of Israel – we have the promise of the future re-uniting of the two kingdoms, Israel and Judah, into a single people of God.

The apostle James will remember this promise to show the will of God to extend the salvation earned by Jesus to all the nations and not only to Israel (see Acts 15:16). Notice that James quotes this text in a different form from what we read here. This is due to the fact that the apostles were using the Greek translation of the bible, which many times had changed the meaning, not to be unfaithful to the primitive text, but rather because, in the course of time, the Jews had a better understanding of the will of God. For example, here Amos is speaking about Israel "conquering the nations", which at the time, seemed to be a great favour from God. But the Jews who later translated the Bible into other languages, spoke of the "nations seeking God", because, in the meantime, the prophets had pondered over God's plan.

OBADIAH

Obadiah probably wrote after 500 and before the conquest of Edom in 312. His work is filled with calls to revenge which, deep down, show his faith in God's justice.

We have heard news from Yahweh, and a messenger has been sent out to the nations to say, "Rise, let us go against Esau."

² I will make you small among the nations; you will be utterly despised.

³ Your arrogance has led you astray, you who live in the clefts of the rock, you who make the heights your home, you who say to yourself:

Who can bring me down to the ground?

⁴ Though you soar like the eagle, though you make your nests among the stars,

I will bring you down again.

⁵ If thieves or plunderers come at night, what a disaster awaits you then!

Would they not ransack till they had enough?

If grape gatherers worked in your vineyard, would they not leave only gleanings?

⁶ See how Esau has been looted, even his hidden treasures pillaged!

⁷ Your allies have driven you to the frontiers; your friends will be your betrayers. Those who partake of your bread set for you a trap in secret.

⁸ Yahweh declares: Shall I not destroy the wise men of Edom on that day, and deprive of sages the mountain of Esau?

⁹ Your warriors, O Teman, will be afraid, and all from Mount Esau will be slaughtered.

¹⁰ For the violence done to Jacob, your brother, you will be disgraced and destroyed forever.

¹¹ You stood aloof in waiting when strangers carried off his wealth, when foreigners entered his gates and cast lots for Jerusalem, you were as guilty as the rest of them.

¹² Do not come to see and gloat over the misfortune of your brother.

Do not exult over Judah's ruin.

nor brag on the day of her destruction.

¹³ Do not go through the gate of my people on the day of their disgrace, nor look down upon them in their misfortune

on the day of their adversity, nor lay your hands upon their possessions on the day of their destruction.

¹⁴ Do not wait at the crossroad to slay their stragglers,

nor betray their survivors

on the day of their disaster.

¹⁵ For the day of Yahweh is near for every nation.

As you have done to another, so to you will it be done.

Whatever has been your deed will come back upon your head.

¹⁶ For as you have drunk on my holy mountain,

so will the surrounding nation drink, drink and drink up to the brim...

Then they shall be as if they had never been.

¹⁷ But there will be survivors on Mount Zion – a holy remnant.

The house of Jacob will take possession of its own inheritance.

¹⁸ The nation of Jacob will be a fire, the nation of Joseph a flame;

but those of Esau will be a stubble, and they will burn and consume them. And of Esau's house none will remain, for it is Yahweh who has spoken.

¹⁹ People from the Negev will occupy Esau's mountains;

those from the plains,

the land of the Philistines;

they will occupy Ephraim and Samaria, and Benjamin will possess Gilead.

²⁰ The Israelite exiles who are in Canaan will possess Phoenicia as far as Zarephthah; the exiles from Jerusalem now in Sepharad will possess the towns of the Negev.

²¹ Deliverers will ascend Mount Zion to rule over the mountains of Esau, – then Yahweh will reign.

JONAH

Few are those, in our days, who are mistaken as to the nature of this book and who ask if Jonah really existed and if he stayed in the belly of a fish for three days.

The book of Jonah is a story, but the author deserved to be considered a prophet because he very clearly underscored some truths which his contemporaries were forgetting.

This delightful narrative criticizes, not the idolatrous or godless people, but the pious Jews themselves who, locked in their nationalism, easily forget that God is the God of all men.

Yahweh sends Jonah to Nineveh

1 ¹ The word of Yahweh came to Jonah, son of Amittai,

² "Go to Nineveh, the great city, and preach against it, because I have known its wickedness." ³ But Jonah decided to flee from Yahweh and go to Tarshish. He went down to Joppa, found a ship bound for Tarshish, and paid the fare. Then he boarded it and went into the hold of the ship, journeying with them to Tarshish, far away from Yahweh.

⁴ Yahweh stirred up a storm wind on the sea, so there was a sea tempest, which threatened to destroy the ship.

⁵ The sailors took fright, and each cried out to his own god. To lighten the ship, they threw its cargo into the sea.

⁶ Meanwhile Jonah had gone into the hold of the ship, where he lay fast asleep. The captain came upon him and said, "How can you sleep? Get up and call on your god. Perhaps he will be mindful of us and will not allow us to die here."

⁷ The sailors said to each other,

"Let us cast lots to find out who is responsible for this disaster." So they did, and the lot fell on Jonah.

⁸ They questioned him, "So you are responsible for this evil that has come upon us? Tell us where you are from? What is your country, your nationality?"

⁹ Jonah answered, "I am a Hebrew and I worship Yahweh, God of heaven who made the sea and the land."

¹⁰ Seized with great fear, the men said to him, "What a terrible thing have you done!" They knew that he was fleeing from Yahweh because he had told them so. ¹¹ "What shall we do with you now to make the sea calm down?" The sea was growing more and more agitated.

¹² He said to them, "Pick me up and throw me into the sea. It will quiet down, for I know it is because of me that this storm has come."

¹³ The sailors, however, still did their best to row back to land. But they could not, for the sea had grown much rougher than before. ¹⁴ Then they called on Yahweh. "O Yahweh, do not let us perish for taking this man's life. Do not hold us guilty of shedding innocent blood. For you, Yahweh, have done this as you have thought right." ¹⁵ They took Jonah and threw him overboard, and the raging sea grew calm again. ¹⁶ At this the men were seized with great fear of Yahweh. They offered a sacrifice to Yahweh and made vows to him.

Jonah in the belly of the fish

2 ¹ Yahweh provided a large fish which swallowed Jonah. He remained in the belly of the fish for three days and three nights.

² From the belly of the fish Jonah prayed to Yahweh, his God:

³ In my distress I cried to Yahweh, and he answered me; from the belly of the netherworld you heard my voice when I called.

⁴ You cast me into the abyss, into the very heart of the sea, and the currents swirled about me; all your breakers and your billows passed over engulfing me.

⁵ Then I thought: I have been cast out from your presence, but I keep on looking to your holy Temple.

⁶ The waters engulfed me up to my throat; all around me was the abyss; wrapped about my head were seaweeds.

⁷ I went down to the roots of the mountains, the bars of the netherworld closed upon me, but you brought my life up from the pit, Yahweh, my God.

⁸ "When my soul was fainting within me, I remembered Yahweh, and before you rose my prayer up to your holy Temple.

⁹ *Those who worship worthless idols lose your grace
"but I, with songs of praise,
will offer to you sacrifices.
What I have vowed, I will make good – deliverance comes from Yahweh, my God."*

¹¹ Then Yahweh gave his command to the fish, and it belched out Jonah onto dry land.

The conversion of Nineveh

3 ¹ The word of Yahweh came to Jonah a second time: ² "Go to Nineveh, the great city, and announce to them the message I give you."

³ In obedience to the word of Yahweh, Jonah went to Nineveh. It was a very large city, and it took three days just to cross it. ⁴ So Jonah walked a single day's journey and began proclaiming, "Forty days more and Nineveh will be destroyed."

⁵ The people of the city believed God. They declared a fast, and all of them, from the greatest to the least, put on sackcloth.

⁶ Upon hearing the news, the king of Nineveh got up from his throne, took off his royal robe, put on sackcloth and sat down in ashes. ⁷ He issued a proclamation throughout Nineveh:

"By the decree of the king and his nobles, no man or beast, herd or flock, will taste anything; neither will they eat nor drink. ⁸ But let man and beast be covered with sackcloth. Let everyone call aloud to God, turn from his evil ways and violence. ⁹ Who

o Jonah refuses to obey the call from the Lord: perhaps because he does not feel responsible for the salvation of the hated Ninevites. He is asleep while the sailors, nice pagans, are trying to save the boat (though this is not religious work, it does interest the pious Jonah too). Jonah delights in thinking about the punishment that God is going to inflict on the pagans of Nineveh. He complains of God's mercy toward the Ninevites, because his own reputation is going to suffer from this.

God guides the world according to a broad and generous vision. Because he created everyone, he feels responsible for everyone and he wants to save men and cattle (4:11) without looking to their race or religion. Jonah represents those believers who, although they know God, have a petty and resentful spirit and who lie about the good done by men without religion because they are afraid that people might make a comparison unfavourable to Christians.

– The Ninevites' conversion (Lk 11:30).

– The comparison with the three days that Jonah spent in the fish (Matthew 12:40).

knows? God may yet relent, turn from his fierce anger and spare us."

¹⁰ When God saw what they did and how they turned from their evil ways, he had compassion and did not carry out the destruction he had threatened upon them.

God loves everyone

4 ¹ But Jonah was greatly displeased at this, and he was indignant. ² He prayed to Yahweh and said, "O Yahweh, is this not what I said when I was yet in my own country? This is why I fled to Tarshish. I knew that you are a gracious and merciful God, slow to anger and full of love, and you relent from imposing terrible punishment. ³ I beseech you now, Yahweh, to take my life, for it is better for me to die than to live."

⁴ But Yahweh replied, "What right have you to be angry?"

⁵ Jonah then left the city. He went to a place east of it, built himself a shelter and sat under its shade to wait and see what would happen to Nin-

veh. ⁶ Then Yahweh provided a vine and made it grow up over Jonah to give shade over his head and to ease his discomfort. Jonah was very happy about the plant.

⁷ But the next day, at dawn, God sent a worm which attacked the plant and made it wither. ⁸ When the sun rose, God sent a scorching east wind; the sun blazed down upon Jonah's head, and he grew faint. His death wish returned and he said, "It is better for me to die than to live."

⁹ Then God asked Jonah, "Do you have a right to be angry about the vine?" Jonah answered, "I am right to be angry enough to wish to die."

¹⁰ Yahweh said, "You are concerned about a plant which cost you no labor to make it grow. Overnight it sprang up, and overnight it perished. ¹¹ But Nineveh has more than a hundred and twenty thousand people who cannot distinguish right from left and they have many cattle as well. Should I not be concerned for such a great city?"

INTRODUCTION TO MICAH

Micah is Isaiah's contemporary. He spoke about the same situation and yet, it is easy to oppose the two: Micah, a man from the country; Isaiah, distinguished and learned.

Micah was from Moresheth, a village at the edge of the lowland through which all the armies of Assyria or Egypt were passing. He was well acquainted with the suffering and the destruction of war and also with the exploitation of the peasants. One day, God called him and gave him strength, justice and courage to go and denounce Israel's sins. He spoke in the name of a God whom nobody loved and he violently denounced the injustices which were practised everywhere. Just like Isaiah, in condemning the society in which he lived, he announced the prosperity that the Lord was preserving for Jerusalem in future days.

Some of the words which Micah addressed to Israel, whose ruin was imminent, were later modified to adapt them to the situation of Jerusalem and of the kingdom of Judah, when they were going through a similar crisis.

MICAH

1 ¹This is the word of Yahweh which came to Micah of Moresheth during the reigns of Jotham, Ahaz and Hezekiah, kings of Judah. He received it in visions concerning Samaria and Jerusalem.

Against Samaria and Jerusalem

+ ²Hear all you peoples, let the earth listen and all who are in it. Let Yahweh witness against you from his holy temple.

³For see, Yahweh comes forth from his place, he comes down and treads upon the heights of the earth.

⁴Beneath him mountains melt like wax before the fire; valleys are opened up as when torrents pour down the hillside.

⁵All this for the crime of Jacob, for the sin of the nation of Judah. What is the crime of Jacob? Is it not Samaria? What is the sin of the nation of Judah? Is it not Jerusalem?

⁶Therefore I will make Samaria a heap of ruins in the open country, a place for planting vineyards. I will scatter her stones down into the valley and lay her foundations bare.

⁷All her carved images will be dashed to pieces and her filthy idols burnt by fire. I will make a waste heap of all her idols for they were made with harlot's wages, and to harlot's wages they will return.

⁸For this reason I lament and wail, go barefoot and naked. I shall howl like a jackal and wail like an ostrich. ⁹For her wound cannot be healed; rather it has come to Judah. It has reached the capital of my people, Jerusalem.

¹⁰Exult not in Gath; break down and weep in Acco. In Beth-leaphra roll in the dust. Sound the bugle. ¹¹O people of Shaphir and do not let the dwellers in Zaanan come forth. Mourning greatly, Beth Ezel: your treasures are taken away.

¹²Surely they trembled, the people in Maroth, when calamity came down from Yahweh to the gates of Jerusalem.

¹³Hitch the horses to the chariot, citizens of Lachish. In you the rebellions of Israel were found and because of you Zion began to sin.

¹⁴Therefore you must give a redress to Moresheth-Gath. The houses of Achzib have become deceitful to the kings of Israel.

¹⁵Again I will bring the conqueror to you, people of Maresha, and the elite of Israel will come up to Adullam.

¹⁶Shave your hair for your delightful children. Make yourself bald as an eagle for they have been deported far from you.

Against the rich

2 ¹Woe to those who plot wickedness and plan evil even on their beds! When morning comes they do it, as soon as it is within their reach.

²If they covet fields, they seize them. Do they like houses? They take

+ The Lord is about to leave the Temple where he is present: so hidden that everyone has forgotten him.

1.5. The first sin of the kingdoms of Israel and Judah is found in their capitals. They are the cities that have ruined the country: those who thrive by exploiting peasants live in the cities and it is there that the riches of the land are transformed into palaces for a few.

We need only look at the capital cities of some countries to verify what Micah was saying: the wealth of a country is spent on things as unproductive as were the idols and prostitution of that time.

In 1:8: barefoot and naked, other than the sackcloth, which was the only clothing of captives (see Isaiah 20).

In 1:10: Micah predicts a new invasion and he describes it by playing on the names of various stages on the way.

■ He denounces the exploiters, those who always have legal means to despoil little people. We must not forget that the Bible had a code of laws – for ahead of any other nation – to defend them. They seize the owner and his household, both the man and his property.

³This is why Yahweh speaks, "I am plotting evil against this whole brood, from which your necks cannot escape. No more shall you walk with head held high for it will be an evil time."

⁴On that day they will sing a taunting song against you and a bitter lamentation will be heard, "We have been stripped of our property in our homeland. Who will free us from the wicked who allots our fields."⁵Truly, no one will be found in the assembly of Yahweh to keep a field for you.

⁶What will you say to that? For there is no reply. Disgrace will not pass away; these words will strike the nation of Jacob.

⁷They answer, "Is the might of Yahweh weakened? Is this his way of working things out? Has he not good words for the people whose ways are upright?"

⁸But it is you who oppress my people and are his enemies. You strip off the garments of those who pass by confidently; ⁹you drive the women of my people from the home they love; you rob my blessing from their children forever.

¹⁰Now listen to this: Get up! Forward! Go on! You are those who go roped up.

¹¹If a deceiver were to come and say, "I will preach to you of wine and strong drink," he would be the prophet for this people.

A comforting word

¹²I shall assemble you, nation of Jacob, and gather the remnant of Israel. I will bring them: together like sheep in a fold, like a flock in its pasture. ¹³With a leader in their midst. See: their king goes before them, Yahweh is leading them!

Leaders and prophets oppress the people

3 ¹Then I said, "You rulers of the house of Israel, is it not your duty to know what is right?"

²Yet you hate good and love evil, you tear the skin from my people and the flesh from my people and the flesh from their bones.

³You eat my people's flesh and break their bones to pieces; you chop them up like meat for the pan and share them like flesh for the pot."

⁴When they cry, Yahweh will not answer them; he will hide his face from them because of their evil deeds.

⁵This is what Yahweh says of the prophets who lead my people astray:

You cry: 'Peace' when you have something to eat, but to anyone with nothing for your mouths, it is 'War' that you declare. ⁶So night will come to you without vision, and darkness without divination. Then sin will set the rights and the lives of the poor, the widows, etc. See Dt. 23:16.

Everybody, of course, is furious with the prophet who disturbs the established injustice.

Verses 12-13 probably do not come from Micah's hand. They may have been added here later (see Ez 34).

♦ He denounces those who are mostly responsible: the civil and religious authorities.

There were prophets everywhere; they became prophets in the way someone is elected to a particular position. They practised private consultation regarding the future and good luck. But the real role of a prophet does not consist in getting people, who pay him for his wisdom (or deceit), out of trouble, but rather in denouncing evil.

9-11 is again accusing the leaders and the civil servants who feel sheltered from the misery and from the disasters scouring the country. The long-standing confidence in Jerusalem, a city protected by the Lord, reassures them in their false peace: this is why Jerusalem will be destroyed. Eighty years after this curse, Jeremiah's contemporaries had not forgotten it (Jer 26:18).

⁷ Then the seers will be disgraced and the diviners put to shame. They will all cover their faces because no answer will come from God. ⁸ But as for me, I am filled with might, with the spirit of Yahweh, with justice and courage, to declare to Jacob his transgressions, to Israel his sins.

4 ¹ In the last days, the mountain of Yahweh's house shall be set over the highest mountains and will tower over the hills. ² All the nations will stream to it, saying, "Come, let us go to the mountain of Yahweh, to the house of the God of Jacob, so he may teach us his ways and we may walk in his paths. For the Teaching comes from Zion and from Jerusalem the word of Yahweh."

³ He will rule over the nations and settle disputes for many peoples. They will beat their swords into plowshares and their spears into pruning hooks. Nation will not raise sword against nation; neither will they train for war any more. ⁴ But each one will sit in peace and freedom under a fig tree or a vine of his own, for the mouth of Yahweh of hosts has spoken.

⁵ While peoples walk, each in the name of his god, we shall walk in the name of Yahweh, our God, forever and ever.

⁶ Yahweh declares, "On that day I will assemble the lame and gather the banished, those whom I have afflicted. ⁷ I will make the lame a remnant and those driven out a mighty nation. Yahweh will reign over them on Zion from now and forever.

⁹ Now, why do you wait? Would it be that you have no king and your counsellor has perished? Why are you in anguish like a woman in labour? ¹⁰ Write and howl, O daughter of Zion, like a woman in labour, for now you must leave the city and camp in the open country. To Babylon you must go; there you shall be rescued and Yahweh will redeem you from the hand of your enemies.

¹³ Arise and thresh, O Zion, for I will give you horns of iron and hooves of bronze, and you shall crush many peoples. You shall devote their plundered wealth to Yahweh, their treasures to the Lord of the whole earth.

¹⁴ Strengthen the walls of your fortress, for they have laid siege against us. With a rod they want to strike the cheek of Israel's ruler.

But you, Bethlehem Ephrathah

5 ¹ But you, Bethlehem Ephrathah, so small that you are hardly named among the clans of Judah, from you shall I raise the one who is to rule over Israel. For he

o Here we find an oracle similar to Isaiah's 2:2. Verses 9-10 announce the Exile. The text 11-13 is different: it resembles Isaiah's poems about Zion, the invincible (see Is 29:1 and 31:4).

Verses 6-7 show the assurance of God's people in the midst of hostile forces in the world.

■ But you, Bethlehem Ephrathah, from you shall I raise the one who is to rule over Israel.

That is to say that the Messiah will come from the line of David whose roots are in Bethlehem. It is not clear that he must be born in Bethlehem, in spite of the fact that Micah seems to oppose this peaceful king, born in a rural area, to the useless kings of the capital. Later, many believed that the Messiah had to be born in Bethlehem: see John 7:42. Matthew's Gospel shows how this prophecy was fulfilled with the birth of Jesus (Mt 2:6).

comes forth from of old, beyond any known time.

²Yahweh, therefore, will abandon Israel until such time as she who is to give birth has given birth. Then the rest of his deported brothers will return to the people of Israel.

³He will stand and shepherd his flock with the strength of Yahweh, in the glorious Name of Yahweh, his God. They will live safely while he wins renown to the ends of the earth.

⁴And this shall be peace.

When the Assyrian invades our land and sets foot on our territory, we will raise against him not one but seven shepherds, eight leaders of men.

⁵They will rule Assyria with the sword, and Babylonia with the bared blade. They shall deliver us from the Assyrians when they come into our land, when they set foot within our borders.

⁶Then the remnant of Jacob will be in the midst of many peoples, like dew dropping down from Yahweh, like showers falling upon the grass. For they do not put their hope in man or expect anything from humankind.

⁷The remnant of Jacob will then be in the midst of many peoples, like a lion among the beasts of the forest, like a young lion in a flock of sheep, trampling down as it goes, mangling its prey, and no rescuer in sight.

⁸May your hand be raised high over your foes, and all your enemies perish.

⁹"On that day – Yahweh speaks – I will drive away your horses;

I will wreck your chariots,

¹⁰I will demolish your cities and tear down your strongholds.

¹¹I will do away with your witchcraft and rid you of soothsayers.

¹²I will abolish your carved images, the sacred stones from your midst, so that you no longer worship the work of your hands.

¹³I will pull down your sacred poles and destroy all your idols.

¹⁴In raging fury I will take vengeance upon the nations that have not obeyed me."

O my people what have I done to you?

+ 6 ¹Listen to what Yahweh said to me, "Stand up, let the mountains hear your claim, and the hills listen to your plea."

²Hear, O mountains, Yahweh's complaint! Foundations of the earth, pay attention! For Yahweh has a case against his people, and will argue it with Israel.

³"O my people, what have I done to you? In what way have I been a burden to you? Answer me.

⁴I brought you out of Egypt; I rescued you from the land of bondage; I sent Moses, Aaron and Miriam to lead you.

⁵O my people, remember what Balak, king of Moab, plotted, and what Balaam, son of Beor, answered him. Remember your journey from Shittim to Gilgal, how you have come to know Yahweh's righteous paths."

⁶"What shall I bring when I come to Yahweh and bow down before God the most high? Shall I come with burnt offerings, with sacrifices of yearling calves? ⁷Will Yahweh be

+ O my people, what have I done to you? Yahweh argues with his people: God's love and his people's indifference.

The Jews no longer know what God wishes. When they are in trouble or they feel an inclination for religion, they think of expensive things: offerings and even the sacrifice of their children, according to the pagan customs.

Do justice, love mercy and walk humbly with God. The answer is short and clear:

- Do justice is Amos' message.
- To love mercy: see Hosea 2:21
- To walk humbly with God: see Isaiah.

The psalm of hope which concludes the book was inserted here later, in the time of Exile. The end (7:7) resembles Hab 7:4: the just knows that while evil reigns, the just continue hoping for God's justice.

pleased with thousands of rams, with an overabundance of oil libations? Should I offer my first-born for my sins, the fruit of my body for my wrongdoing?"

⁸ "You have been told, O man, what is good and what Yahweh requires of you: to do justice, to love mercy, and to walk humbly with your God.

⁹ The voice of Yahweh calls to the city, in order to save those who fear his Name."

¹⁰ "Is there still within you unjust wealth and accursed short measure? ¹¹ Shall I approve your false scales and your bags of false weights?"

¹² O city whose rich are full of violence, whose citizens speak falsehood, men of deceitful tongue! ¹³ See, I am striking you a grievous blow, making you desolate because of your sins. ¹⁴ You shall eat but not be satisfied and your insides will go on crying.

What you overtake, you will not carry off, and those who escape I will hand them over to the sword. ¹⁵ You shall sow but not reap. You shall tread your olives, but not anoint yourselves with the oil. You shall tread the grapes but not drink the wine.

¹⁶ You keep the rules of Omri and follow the examples of Ahab's court. So I will give you up to devastation, so that your citizens become an object of derision. You shall bear the scorn of the peoples."

7 ¹ How I sorrow! For I am like the gatherer of summer fruit, like the gleaner of the vintage, when there are no grapes to eat, none of the early figs I crave.

² The godly have vanished from the earth and not one upright man is to be found. All lie in ambush to shed blood, one hunts another with a net. ³ Their hands are skilled at doing evil. The official demands a bribe, the judge judges for a price and the mighty decides as he pleases.

⁴ Their kindness is like a brier, their justice worse than a thorn hedge. But the time of punishment has come, as foretold by your sentries, and now is the time of confusion.

⁵ Do not rely on a friend nor trust an intimate companion. Be guarded in speech with the woman who shares your bed. ⁶ For son treats father like a fool, daughter rebels against mother, daughter-in-law against mother-in-law. The enemies of each one are those of his household.

⁷ As for me, I will watch expectantly for Yahweh, waiting hopefully for the God who saves me. My God will hear me.

Poem of exile – Jerusalem will rise

⁸ Do not rejoice over me, my enemy; though I fall, I will rise again. Though I now dwell in darkness, Yahweh is my light.

⁹ I will bear the rage of Yahweh – for I have sinned against him – while he examines my cause and defends my rights. Then he will bring me out to the light and I shall probe his justice.

¹⁰ Then my enemy shall also see and shame will cover her. Did she not say, "Where is Yahweh, your God?" My eyes, then, shall rejoice: See how she is trampled like mud in the street!

¹¹ The day is coming when your walls will be rebuilt and your boundaries extended. ¹² On that day they will come to you from Assyria to Egypt, from Tyre to the Euphrates, from sea to sea and from mountain to mountain, ¹³ while the earth will remain desolate because of its citizens and their deeds.

Show us your wonders. ¹⁶ On seeing this the nations will be put to shame in the midst of all their might. People will lay their hands upon their mouths and they will not believe the news.

¹⁷ They shall lick the dust like snakes, like creatures that crawl upon the ground. They will come trembling out of their strongholds: they will be in fear of you.

¹⁸ Who is a god like you, who takes away guilt and pardons crime for the remnant of his inheritance.

Who is like you whose anger does not last? For you delight in merciful forgiveness.

¹⁹ Once again you will show us your loving kindness and trample on our wrongs, casting all our sins into the depths of the sea.

²⁰ Show faithfulness to Jacob, mercy to Abraham, as you have sworn to our ancestors from the days of old.

Nahum prophesied when the Assyrian power was collapsing, at the death of Ashurbanipal, the last king in 626. In 612 the Medes and Babylonian allies attacked and destroyed Nineveh, the capital of the Assyrians. However, even before that, the Assyrians had been losing their control over the people whom they enslaved and who thoroughly hated them. The Jews were among them. Nahum's poems show the heart of a patriot who believes that the Lord governs the history of people.

What do you plot against Yahweh?

1 ¹ Oracle against Nineveh. This is the book of the vision which Nahum of Elkosh has seen.

² Yahweh is a jealous and avenging God, Yahweh takes vengeance in his wrath;

³ Yahweh is slow to anger though immense in power. Yahweh punishes the guilty. In storm and whirlwind is his path; clouds are the dust of his feet.

⁴ He rebukes the sea and dries it; he drains rivers of their water. Bashan and Carmel wither; the blossoms of Lebanon fade.

⁵ Before him the mountains quake and the hills melt; the earth trembles and all the peoples.

⁶ Who can stand before his fury? Who can face his blazing anger? His wrath is poured out like fire, and the rocks are rent asunder.

⁷ Yahweh is good for those who hope: in the day of trouble he shelters them. He remembers those who trust in him when the flood engulfs them. He utterly destroys his adversaries and pursues his foes into darkness.

⁸ Oppression will not rise a second time. Yahweh will bring to an end whatever you plot against him. Yahweh gives his foe no quarter, he stores up fury for his enemy.

⁹ They will be entangled among thorns like drunkards, and be consumed like dry stubble, until the one who counsels villainy and plots evil against Yahweh has come from them.

¹² Thus Yahweh says to Judah: "Though they be strong and many they will be annihilated. Though I had afflicted you, no more shall I afflict you.

¹³ I will break their yoke from your neck and tear away your shackles."

¹⁴ To the king of Nineveh, here is Yahweh's decree. "No descendants shall bear your name. I will abolish from your temple the carved image and the molten idol. I will make your tomb an object of shame.

2 ¹ See, there on the mountains, the feet of one who brings good news, one who proclaims peace.

Judah, celebrate your feasts and carry out your vows. For the wicked have been destroyed, they will not attack you any more.

Nineveh shall fall

² Against Nineveh a destroyer advances. Watch the road, man the fortress; brace yourselves, muster all your forces.

³ Yahweh will now restore Jacob's magnificence, like Israel's splendour.

For they had been plundered, laid waste as a ravaged vineyard.

⁴ The shields of his soldiers are red; his warriors are crimson-clad. His chariots gleam as if on fire when mustered in battle array, while prancing horses and frenzied horsemen wait impatiently for bloody action.

⁵ As chariots storm through the streets and dash madly through the squares, they look like flashing torches or darting lightning bolts.

⁶ The picked troops are called out; ranks break at their charge.

Having set up the mantelet they rushed toward the rampart.

⁷ The river gates are thrown open, and the palace defense collapses.

⁸ The goddess is taken captive together with all her handmaids, moaning like doves and beating their breasts.

⁹ Nineveh looks like a pool with its waters running away:

All flee: "Stop, stop!" but no one comes back.

¹⁰ All kinds of wealth, gold and silver – it is an endless treasure, a heap of the most precious things.

¹¹ Waste and ruin, desolation and emptiness, failing hearts and trembling knees, terror and agony on all blanched faces!

¹² Where now is the lion's cave, the den of the cubs where the lion would bring his prey, and the cubs lie down undisturbed?

¹³ The lion tore to pieces for his whelps, and strangled for his mates;

he filled his caves with prey and his dens with mangled flesh.

¹⁴ Yahweh Sabaoth speaks:

I have come against you. I will send up your chariots in smoke, give your cubs to the sword; wipe the earth clear of your plunder, and your envoys' voices will be heard no longer.

The city of blood

3 Woe to the bloody city, city of lies and booty. O city of unending plunder! ² But what! Crack of whips, rumble of wheels and clatter of hoofs! ³ See the frenzied chargers, the flashing swords and glittering spears, the heaps of the wounded, the dying and the dead – we stumble over corpses!

⁴ The harlot is paying for her harlotries, her deadly charms, her sorceries. She traded nations with her prostitutions and caught peoples by her spells.

⁵ "I am against you," Yahweh Sabaoth says.

"I will lift your skirts over your face. I will show the nations your nakedness and the kingdoms your disgrace.

⁶ I will pelt you with filth, I will treat you with contempt and make of you a shameful show,

⁷ so that all who look on you will turn their backs in disgust and say: Nineveh – a city of lust – is in ruins. Who will mourn for her?

Where can we find any to be her comforter?

⁸ Are you any better than Thebes by the Nile, surrounded by water, her rampart the river, and the water her wall?

⁹ Ethiopia and Egypt were her stay. Put and Libya were her allies,

¹⁰ yet she was carried away and held captive among the exiles. Her infants were dashed to pieces at the head of every road; lots were cast for her nobles, and her great men were bound in chains.

¹¹ You, too, shall drink of this: you will also hide from your enemies.

¹² Your fortresses are like fig trees laden with early-ripening fruits which fall, when shaken, into the waiting mouths of men.

¹³ Look at your troops – they are wide open!

The bars have been consumed by fire.

■ This introductory song presents the central theme of Nahum's prophecy: the Lord is concerned about being acknowledged on earth as the only God: in everything that takes place in nature, and above all, in his faithfulness towards his friends.

Trusting in God's words, in a terrible poem

Nahum prophesies the destruction of Nineveh blow by blow: it symbolizes liberation from all kinds of slavery.

Through Nahum, the Bible welcomes the happiness of all the little people when they see the destruction of the powerful who ignored all their rights and dominated them through terror.

¹⁴ Brace yourselves for the siege: draw water,

strengthen the bulwark,
tread the clay and the mortar and repair the brickwork.

¹⁵ There the fire will devour you and the sword will cut you down though you were numerous as locusts, beyond count like grasshoppers.

¹⁶ You had multiplied your merchants
more than the stars of the sky;

¹⁷ like grasshoppers were your officials and your soldiers like swarms of locusts

which settle on the walls on a cold
day.

But the sun appears; they fly away and they are gone, no one knows where.

¹⁸ O king of Assyria, your shepherds slumber,
your nobles lie down fast asleep, while over the mountains your people scatter, and no one gathers them up.

¹⁹ Nothing can heal your wounds;
your injury is fatal.
All clap their hands
when they hear about your fall.
for who has not suffered constantly the plague of your cruelty?

The prophet Habakkuk is the first one to dare call God to account. For centuries now, faith had been proclaiming God's justice. However, this justice had not always been obvious. After many had kept silent about their doubts, Habakkuk is the first biblical author who questions boldly: Why does the Lord allow injustice to triumph? Why, when he punishes one oppressor, does he replace him with someone worse?

The answer is twofold:

- The Lord keeps the secret of his way of ruling the world and all he asks is that we remain faithful: the upright will live by his faithfulness.
- The prophet contemplates the glory of the Lord who will judge in the end.

Habakkuk spoke his oracles from 605-600, when Nebuchadnezzar, who had just destroyed the cruel Assyria, was becoming very powerful himself and was plundering Israel.

Why do you make me see injustice?

¹ These are the words and visions of Habakkuk, the prophet.

² Yahweh, how long will I cry to you for help while you pay no attention to me?
I denounce the oppression and you do not save.

³ Why do you make me see injustice and wish me to look on tyranny?
All I see is outrage and looting.

⁴ The Law has been put aside and just decrees are no longer issued.
The wicked overrule the upright and nothing is seen but crooked laws.

First reply

⁵ Look, traitors, and pay attention; be amazed and astounded, for I am going to do in your own days, something that you would not believe if you were told it.

⁹ When they launch themselves for an attack, pushed forward by the desert wind, they round up prisoners like sand. ¹⁰ This people makes fun of kings and laughs at princes; they make light of fortified cities, for they build up an embankment and seize them. ¹¹ Thus they come and go like the wind! Their strength is their god!

Second complaint of the prophet

¹² But you, are you not Yahweh from past ages? You, my holy God, you cannot die. You have set this people to serve your justice and you have made them firm as a rock to fulfill your punishment.

¹⁴ You treat human beings like the fish in the sea, like reptiles who are nobody's concern. ¹⁵ This nation catches all on its hook, pulls them out with its net and piles them up in its dragnet. ¹⁶ Pleased and delighted at their catch, they offer sacrifices to their net and burn incense to their dragnets, since these supplied them with fish in plenty and provided them with food in abundance. ¹⁷ Will they continue, then, to constantly empty their nets, slaughtering nations without mercy?

Second reply: the upright will live by his faithfulness

¹ I will stand in my watchtower and take up position on my battlements;
I will be alert to see if I can make out his reply,
what is his answer to my question.

² Then Yahweh answered me and said,

"Write down the vision,
enscribe it on tables so it can be easily read, ³ since this is a vision for an appointed time;
it will not fail but will be fulfilled in due time.

o Two complaints from the prophet and two answers from God:

1:1-4: First complaint: Why so much wickedness in Judah?

1:5-11: God's ironic answer: shortly the Chaldeans will restore order by invading and plundering everything.

1:12-16: Second complaint: Why does the Lord use such means as the Chaldean invasion to restore his justice?

2:1-4: The Lord's answer: One day it will be clear that the good and the evil are not treated in the same way. Those who remain faithful will be saved.

+ The divine answer remains mysterious. Later, God will clearly reveal how he rewards the just beyond this life. But, before that moment comes, it is difficult to clarify the mystery: Apparently the misfortunes which were announced as God's punishment equally affected everyone. After Habakkuk, Jeremiah will ask the same question (Jer 12:1); faced with the unbelief of his companions, Ezekiel will try to reaffirm the justice of the Lord with regard to everyone (Ez 18);

If it delays, wait for it,
for it will come and will not be deferred.
“The proud will never possess my favour,
the upright, on the other hand,
will live by his faithfulness.”

⁵ The grasping conqueror is always ready to devour, he enlarges his mouth like the netherworld; he is as insatiable as death, he seizes on all the nations and monopolizes all the peoples for himself. “But will not all the people mock him, as with one voice? Will they not write fierce satires to show him up? They will say,

Against the oppressor

■ Woe to him who amasses countless goods belonging to others and fills himself with extorted pledges.

your money collectors will waken and take away all your goods.

shedding blood, stripping the land,
their cities and homes, all the remaining nations will turn on you and strip you bare.

and fixes his nest so high that he thinks he can thereby escape misfortune!

¹⁰ You have willed the disgrace of your house;
by conquering numerous peoples,
you draw evil on your own head.

cry out against you and the rafters reply from the roof.

on bloody foundations and sets up a town by means of evil.

the book of Job will look for the solution; but its answer will only be a partial answer.

■ Habakkuk predicts the destiny of the conqueror who, for a while, will terrorize the world. Then, we have five curses against the triumphant Chaldean:

- The first three: The Chaldean has plundered and exploited countries that are less strong and less rich.
- The fourth: The Chaldean has humiliated them, just like someone who gets his neighbour drunk.
- The fifth: In spite of his triumphs, the Chaldean will not achieve what really matters, the knowledge of the Lord.

The last verse: Yahweh lives in his holy Temple: let the whole earth be silent before him! Introduces the triumphant manifestation of the Lord in the following chapter.

◆ The prophet calls on the Lord begging him to reveal himself. And then, he describes his triumphant coming through a series of poetic images recalling his past interventions in the history of Israel: passing through the Red Sea, Sinai, Deborah's victory.

I wait confidently for the day of distress (see Is 8:11). Yet in God my Saviour will I exult: these words are found in Mary's canticle (Lk 1:47). In the midst of crises and anguish, the just one walks upon the heights.

13 Has Yahweh of hosts not willed that the work of the nations go to the fire and the peoples toil for nothing?

15 Woe to him who gives drink to his neighbours and drugs them to make them drunk so that everyone looks at their nakedness. 16 This will bring you more shame than glory. You will also drink and uncover your foreskin. The cup turns over in Yahweh's hand and pours out onto you: disgrace will swallow your glory.

17 The violence you did in Lebanon will befall you and the animals will devour you, since you slaughtered human beings, destroyed the country with its cities and put an end to all who lived there.

18 What use is a statue? Why do the sculptors make them? Why these images and deceiving answers? Why do their makers trust them and produce mute idols? 19 Woe to the one who says to a piece of wood, "Wake up," and to a dumb stone, "Get up." Can it give any answer? For, even though it is plated with gold and silver, there is not a single breath of life in it.

20 But Yahweh lives in his holy Temple: let the whole earth be silent before him!

Prayer of Habakkuk

1 Prayer of Habakkuk, the prophet.
To the tune of a dirge.

2 I have heard, Yahweh, of your renown;
I stand in awe of your work, O Yahweh.
In the middle of years make it known;
in your wrath even, remember mercy.

3 God comes from Teman,
the Holy One from Mount Paran.

His glory shrouds the heavens,
his praise fills the earth.

4 his splendour is like the daylight with rays flashing from his hand, radiating from his hidden power.

5 Pestilence goes before him, plague follows close behind.

6 He stands and the earth sways;
he looks and the nations tremble.
The ancient mountains crumble,
the time-honoured hills collapse.

7 I saw the tents of Cushan in distress,
the pavilions of Midian in anguish.

8 Was your anger against the rivers,
Yahweh?

Was your wrath against the sea that you drive your steeds with your invincible chariots?

9 You bare and ready your bow and set upon it your arrow.

With rivers you cleave the earth.

10 At your sight the mountains writhe.
Torrents of water ragingly sweep by,
the deep roaring, lifting its waves high.

11 The sun and moon stood still at the glint of your flying arrows,
at the gleam of your flashing spears.

12 You stride the earth in wrath,
you trample the nations in rage.

13 You came out to redeem your people to save your anointed one – you crushed the head of the wicked,
you laid him bare from head to foot.

14 You pierced with your shafts his warriors
who came like whirlwind to scatter us in joy,
to devour the wretched quietly.

15 You trampled the waters with your horses,
amid the churning of the great seas.

16 I heard and my heart pounded,
my lips quivered at the sound.
Decay crept into my bones;
my legs tottered under my body.
Yet I wait confidently for the day of distress,
when my people surrendered to the enemy.

17 For though the fig trees blossom not,
nor there be grapes on the vines,
though the olive crop fail
and the fields produce no food, though the flock be lost from the fold,
and the herd be gone from the stalls, 18 yet in Yahweh will I rejoice,
in God my saviour will I exult.
19 My Lord Yahweh is my stronghold;
he makes my feet as fleet as the hinds;
he steadies my steps upon the heights.

Zephaniah

In the year 630 approximately, Zephaniah's voice breaks the silence, after seventy years without hearing the word of God. Isaiah had concluded his mission around 690, and after that, the faithful of Judah went through more than fifty years of persecution during the reign of Manasseh.

1 ¹Yahweh spoke to Zephaniah, the son of Cushi, son of Gedaliah, son of Amariah, son of Ammon, in Jerusalem.

²He asserted solemnly, "I will wipe out everything from the face of the earth. ³I will put an end to men and animals, to the birds of heaven and the fish of the sea. I will wipe humankind from the face of the earth. ⁴I will raise my hand to punish Judah and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem; and I will bring out of that place all the remnants of Baal with their priests. ⁵I will also drive away those who kneel on the roofs to worship the stars, those who invoke at the same time Yahweh and Milcom, ⁶those who are separated from Yahweh and no longer look towards him or consult him.

⁷Silence before the Lord Yahweh! For his day is near: Yahweh has prepared a sacrifice and consecrated his invited guests. ⁸Yahweh says, "On the day that sacrifice is made, I will punish the officials, the king's sons and all who clothe themselves in foreign fashion. ⁹I will also give the corresponding punishment to everyone who jumps over the threshold without stepping on it and fill the House of their Lord with the fruits of their crimes and thefts.

¹⁰On that day, a great cry will be heard from the Fish Gate, a wail from the new city and a frightful noise from the nearby hills.

¹¹Wail, inhabitants of the sunken village, for all the traders have disappeared, all who counted the silver have perished.

¹²On that day I will explore Jerusalem with torches, to punish those who have sunk in their vices and think in their hearts: Well, Yahweh does not do good or evil! ¹³Their riches will be pillaged, their houses demolished.

You have built house but will not live in them. You have planted vineyards but you will not taste the wine.

A day of wrath

◆ ¹⁴The great day of the Lord is near, it already comes.

Its sound is so frightening that even the valiant cries out in terror.

¹⁵It is a day of wrath, anguish and distress;

a day of destruction and devastation, of gloom and darkness;

it is a day of dark clouds

¹⁶and fog when the trumpet sounds the call for battle, and the enemy attacks the fortresses and the high fortified towers.

¹⁷I will bring misfortune on these people and they will grope along like the blind, for they did not respect Yahweh. Their blood will be poured out like dust and their remains will lie like dung.

¹⁸Neither their gold or their silver will rescue them when the anger of God burns against them. The land of Judah will be burned in the fire of his zeal when he destroys even the traces of all who dwell in that land.

2 ¹Gather together and assemble O shameless people, ²that you may be scattered by the wind like a heap of straw when the anger of Yahweh comes upon you!

³Seek Yahweh, all you poor of the land who fulfill his commands, do

⁴ Gaza shall be a desert, Ashkelon completely destroyed to its very foundation. ⁵ Woe to the nation of the Cherethites on the seacoast, for Yahweh has spoken against it: 'O Canaan, land of the Philistines, I will destroy you so that no one will be left in you.

⁹ Therefore I swear that, as I live, Moab shall become like Sodom, and Ammon like Gomorrah, as desert indeed. The remnant of my people shall plunder them, the survivors of my nation shall receive them as an inheritance. ¹⁰ This shall be their lot, in payment for their pride, for they insulted the people of the God of hosts and have enriched themselves at my people's expense." ¹¹ Yahweh will be inflexible with them when he comes to overthrow all the gods of the earth. ¹² Then the pagans who live on the islands shall worship him, each in his own land.

"The threat of my sword also hangs over you, Ethiopians." ¹³ Yahweh will raise his hand against the north and reduce Assyria to ruins. ¹⁴ He will leave Nineveh in utter desolation, barren as the desert. Herds of all kinds of animals shall find shelter in her, and even the pelican and the heron shall dwell in her ruins during the night; the owl shall hoot from the window and the raven from the threshold.

◆ Zephaniah presents the day of Yahweh in a threatening way. The Jews maintained that the coming of the Lord had to be a liberation for the people. The Lord had to save them from their enemies and allow them to continue to live without justice or faith. But the prophet knows that the Lord will achieve his own designs; his salvation is not what the indifferent imagine and it will begin with the destruction of those who are not converted.

¹⁵ The cedar has been uprooted! So will be the end of the happy city that felt secure in her own power and said to herself: I and no one but I. Why is it now a heap of ruins where animals take shelter? Everyone who passes by her hisses, making signs with the hand.

Against Jerusalem

3 ¹ Woe to the rebellious, the defiled, the city that oppresses. ² She did not pay attention to the call nor accept the correction; she did not trust Yahweh nor did she approach her God. ³ Her kings are like roaring lions, her rulers like evening wolves that do not leave even a bone for the next day. ⁴ Her prophets are blabbermouths and treacherous people; her priests defile whatever is sacred with no respect for the Law.

⁵ However, Yahweh is in her midst; he is righteous and never commits injustice. Every morning he says what must be done, without failing a single day; but the unjust do not even feel ashamed.

⁶ I have wiped out the nations, demolished their watchtowers, left their streets abandoned, and no one walks in them; their cities have been levelled, without even a man or an inhabitant to be seen.

⁷ I thought: If you took into account my correction! Then you would always have before your eyes my many punishments. But you were eager to behave still more corruptly.

⁸ Therefore, wait for me, says Yahweh, for the day when I come to accuse, when I have the nations gathered and the kingdoms assembled to vent my wrath on you with all the fury of my anger. Then the fire of my jealous wrath will burn the whole land.

⁹ At that time I will give truthful lips to the pagan nations that all of them may call on the name of Yahweh and serve him with the same zeal. ¹⁰ From beyond the rivers of Ethiopia those who trust me will come together with the dispersed Israelites and bring offerings to me.

The destruction on the Day of the Lord had left a Remnant in Zion. This is the first time that those who wait for God are called poor. It is not mainly a question of being economically poor, but rather of having the attitude of those who have nothing and are open to receive everything from God. The word poverty formerly implied failure; but now, it will be the condition needed to seek God. After that time, the "poor of the Lord" will mean all those in Israel who hope to find God. The Gospel, especially the Gospel of Luke, will proclaim the happiness of the poor (see Lk 6:20).

God in the midst of the meek

o ¹¹ On that day you will no longer be ashamed for all the times you have been unfaithful to me;
I will have removed from your midst your boastful arrogance and you will not feel proud any more on my holy mountain.

¹² I will leave within you a poor and meek people who will seek refuge only in God.

¹³ The remnant of Israel will not act unjustly nor will they speak falsely, nor will deceitful words be found in their mouths.
They will eat and rest with none to threaten them.

¹⁴ Cry out with joy, O daughter of Zion;
rejoice, O people of Israel!
Sing joyfully with all your heart, daughter of Jerusalem!

¹⁵ Yahweh has lifted the sentence of your condemnation and has driven your enemies away.
Yahweh, the King of Israel is with you;
do not fear any misfortune.

¹⁶ On that day they will say to Jerusalem:
Do not be afraid nor let your hands tremble,

¹⁷ for Yahweh your God, the saving warrior is with you.
He will jump for joy on seeing you,
for he has revived his love.
He will cry out with joy and celebrate a feast because of you.

¹⁸ Turn away from that evil I warned you about,
the same that weighs upon you.

¹⁹ On that day I will face your oppressors;
I will save the lame sheep and bring the lost back into the fold.
I will give you renown and honour in all the lands

where humiliation was your lot.

²⁰ On that day I will bring you to this place and gather you to make you famous and honourable among all the peoples of the earth,
when I bring back the captives before your eyes,
this is Yahweh's word.

The Lord will be in Jerusalem to share his happiness with them. The Holy God suddenly shows that he is like a young man in love who is not concerned with social considerations.

Cry out with joy, O daughter of Zion;

Yahweh is with you; do not fear any misfortune. In the Gospel of Luke, the same words are addressed to Mary at the Annunciation: "Rejoice, the Lord is with you. Do not fear, Mary you will bear the Saviour" (Lk 1:28).

HAGGAI

Haggai is the first of the postexilic prophets. These three: Haggai, Zechariah and Malachi proclaim the word of God in an entirely new age. The former prophets were denouncing Israel's sins and announcing the imminent judgment. But now, after the trials of the destruction of Jerusalem and the Exile in Babylon, the Jewish community must rebuild the nation, and this is when the prophets demand that first, the Temple must be rebuilt.

It is a fact that the Jews – and this is true for us, too – had to serve God before asking him for the solution to their problems. But Haggai's message is prophetic in another sense: it initiates a new stage in Sacred History in which the growth of the Jewish people will be achieved on the basis of their faithfulness to the Law and on their worship. The Temple already is the Dwelling place of God among his people, but they also have to wait for a mysterious coming of God, on the day when he comes to visit his people.

Against those who think only of their own house

1 ¹ In the second year of the reign of Darius, on the first day of the sixth month, a word of Yahweh was directed to the prophet Haggai for the benefit of Zerubbabel, the son of Shealtiel, governor of Judah, and Joshua the son of Jehozadak, the high priest.

² "So says Yahweh of hosts: This people claim that the time to rebuild the House of Yahweh has not yet come. ³ Well now, hear what I have to say through the prophet Haggai: ⁴ Is this the time for you to live in your well-built houses while this House is a heap of ruins? ⁵ Think about your ways: ⁶ you have sown much but harvested little, you eat and drink but are not satisfied, you clothe yourselves but still feel cold, and the laborer puts the money he earned in a tattered purse.

⁷ Now think about what you must do: ⁸ go to the mountain and look for wood to rebuild the House. This will make me happy and I will feel deeply honoured, says Yahweh. ⁹ You expected much but it turned out to be very little. I blew away what you had piled up. Why? Because my House lies in ruins while each of you goes running home. ¹⁰ Therefore the heavens have withheld rain, and the earth has not produced anything. ¹¹ I sent drought upon the valley and the hills, upon the wheat and the vines, the oil and whatever the soil produces, upon men and animals, and upon any work of your hands."

¹² Now, when Zerubbabel, the son of Shealtiel, Joshua the son of Jehozadak, the high priest, ¹³ and all the people heard these words of the prophet Haggai whom Yahweh had sent to speak to them, they paid attention to what Yahweh had told them and the people were filled with respect for God.

¹⁴ Then Haggai, the messenger of Yahweh, passed on to the people this word of Yahweh, "I am with you." Then Yahweh moved the heart of Zerubbabel, Joshua and all the people, and they began rebuilding the House of Yahweh of hosts, their God, ¹⁵ on the twenty-fourth day of the sixth month.

2 ¹ On the twenty-first day of the seventh month of the second year of the reign of Darius, this word of Yahweh was sent through the prophet Haggai, ² "Give this message to Zerubbabel, the governor of Judah, and to Joshua, the high priest, and to all the people:

The glory of the new temple

■ ³ Is there left among you one of those who saw this house long ago in the time of its glory? What do they think of what they see now? Is it not a very little thing? ⁴ But I say to you, Zerubbabel, Joshua and my people: do not be discouraged. ⁵ Begin to work, for I am with you, says Yahweh of hosts (in fulfillment of the covenant I made with you when you came out from Egypt.) Do not be afraid, for my spirit is in your midst. ⁶ Within a short while I will shake the heavens and the earth, the sea and the continents. ⁷ Then I will shake all the nations and bring in the treasures of the whole world. I will fill this House with glory, says Yahweh. ⁸ I will have as much silver and gold as I wish. ⁹ The renown of this Temple will be greater than before, and in this place I will give peace, says Yahweh of hosts.

¹⁰ On the twenty-fourth day of the ninth month, in the second year of Darius, the word of Yahweh was directed again to the prophet Haggai, ¹¹ to ask the priests to resolve the following case in accordance with the Law: ¹² "If a man brings consecrated meat wrapped in his cloak, and the edge of his cloak touches bread, cooked food, wine, oil, or any other food, will all these become consecrated food?" They immediately answered, "No."

¹³ Haggai went on to say, "But if someone becomes unclean by having touched a dead body, and then touches any of these things, will all these become unclean?" This time the priests said, "Yes."

¹⁴ Then Haggai said to them, "So it is with this people and this nation before me, says Yahweh, so with everything they do and all they offer here: all is unclean."

¹⁵ "Pay attention to this from now on: how was it with you before the rebuilding of the Temple was begun?" ¹⁶ You expected twenty sacks of wheat, but there were only ten. You thought of drawing out fifty measures of wine but there were only twenty. ¹⁷ I spoiled all your work with blight, mildew and hail. Yet none returned to me, says the Lord. ¹⁸ Pay attention, then, from now on, since the first stone of the Sanctuary of Yahweh was laid. ¹⁹ See if the wheat, the vine, the fig tree and the pomegranate go on yielding little! From this day on I will bless your olive trees."

Promises to Zerubbabel

○ ²⁰ The word of Yahweh came again to Haggai on the twenty-fourth day of the same month, ²¹ "Say to Zerubbabel, the governor of Judah: ²² I will overthrow the thrones of the kings and destroy the power of the nations. I will overturn the chariot and its driver; the horses and their riders shall tumble down to the ground. They will kill one another. ²³ Yahweh of hosts says: On that day I will take you, Zerubbabel, my servant, the son of Shealtiel, and for me you will be like a ring on my finger with my initials on it. For I have chosen you, says Yahweh of hosts."

■ With utter frankness, Haggai points out how modest is the work they have achieved. It is better this way, since they did not build the Temple for the sake of the Temple and to be proud of it, but rather to show they are surrendered to the Lord.

"Do not be afraid, for my spirit is in your midst: (2:5). We already pointed out that the presence of the Spirit achieves union. Here, the prophet emphasizes that the fruit of the Spirit consists in removing fear.

"Soon, I will fill this House with glory," the very poverty of the Temple invites God to hasten the time of his visitation to fill it with his glory. In a short time, the Lord will end this transitory world in which the Jews are living and he will establish his kingdom.

+ The question posed to the priests was in line with the mentality of those days (see commentary on Lv 8:11 and 11:1): there are "clean" or "holy" things and persons that can come in contact with God and others which are "unclean" or "profane" that cannot enter the Temple. Besides "uncleanliness" is seen as something which can be transmitted through contact.

The conclusion is the following: These people are unclean as long as they do not provide for their God a house worthy of him; thus, all their prayers and offerings are unclean simply for having passed through their hands.

○ Just like Zechariah (Zec 6:12), Haggai thinks that Zerubbabel, a descendant of David, might be the Messiah who will restore the nation of Israel. He does not clearly say so, but as he suggests it in interpreting a word of God as congratulating Zerubbabel. The prophet was wrong on that; his mistake shows how divine truth and human interpretation – always fallible – can be intertwined even in the words of an authentic prophet.

Zechariah

Just as Haggai, Zechariah took part in the "restoration" of God's people and of the Temple, when the Jews had just come back from Babylon (520 B.C.).

When they returned from exile, the fabulous promises made by the prophets while they were captive in Babylon, had not been fulfilled (see Is 40:55). And so, they kept hoping, Zechariah sees their building of the Temple as a symbol: a new age has begun and the Lord is preparing for the day of his transcendental salvation. The visions found in the first six chapters are teaching the Jews gathered in their Temple, that they must be watchful and wait for the Day of the Lord.

THE SECOND PART OF THE BOOK OF ZECHARIAH

Chapters 9-14 are the work of another prophet who lived two centuries later, possibly when the famous conqueror, Alexander, came to the Eastern countries. He teaches the Jews that they must not be afraid: the victory of God and the coming of his kingdom will take place in the midst of very painful events.

o1 ¹In the eighth month of the second year of Darius, the word of Yahweh came to the prophet Zechariah son of Berechiah, the son of Iddo:

²"Yahweh was very angry with your ancestors. ³Therefore tell the people that this is what Yahweh Sabaoth says: 'Return to me and I will return to you.' ⁴Do not be like your ancestors whom the earlier prophets warned, reiterating to them Yahweh Sabaoth's words: 'Turn from your evil ways and your wicked deeds.' But they would not listen or pay attention to me. Yahweh asks you. ⁵"Where are your ancestors now? Those prophets also died ⁶but my words and decrees entrusted to my servants, the prophets, overtook your ancestors. They repented and said: "Yahweh Sabaoth has treated us just as he had determined to do, according to our ways and deeds."

The visions

⁷On the twenty-fourth of Shebat, the eleventh month, in the second year of Darius, the word of Yahweh came to the prophet Zechariah son of Berechiah, the son of Iddo, in the following manner.

⁸In a vision at night, I saw a man riding a red horse. He was standing among the myrtle trees in a ravine, and behind him were red, brown and white horses. ⁹I asked, "What are these, my lord?" The angel with whom I was talking answered, "You will know."

¹⁰The man standing among the myrtle trees spoke, "They are those whom Yahweh sent to patrol the earth." ¹¹These then reported to Yahweh's angel standing among the myrtle trees, "We have patrolled the whole earth and found it peaceful and tranquil."

¹²The angel of Yahweh spoke, "O Yahweh of hosts, how long will you be without mercy for Jerusalem and the cities of Judah which you have afflicted in anger these seventy years?"

¹³Yahweh replied with comforting words to the angel who spoke to me. ¹⁴This angel then turned to me and said, "Proclaim this word which Yahweh Sabaoth speaks: 'I am very

o Zechariah is blessed with a series of night visions in which the plan of God, fixed and determined in heaven, is revealed to him. The events will certainly take place.

First vision, 1:7-17: apparently nothing in the external situation leads one to think that the day of the Lord is drawing near. However, the Lord is watching and jealous for Jerusalem and Zion, ¹⁵ but I am very angry with complacent nations. At first I was only a little angry with Jerusalem, but they made things worse.' ¹⁶ Therefore Yahweh says: I will turn again with mercy to Jerusalem, where my house will be rebuilt and the measuring line stretched."

Then Yahweh Sabaoth said, ¹⁷ "Proclaim this as well: My towns will once more overflow with prosperity; Yahweh will again comfort Zion and make Jerusalem his favourite."

The second vision

2 ¹ I raised my eyes and saw four horns. ² I asked the angel who spoke to me what these were, and he answered, "These horns are the nations that scattered Judah and Jerusalem." ³ Yahweh then showed me four blacksmiths, and I asked, "What are they coming to do?"

⁴ He answered, "Here are the horns that scattered Judah so that no one dared raise his head. But these blacksmiths have come to strike down the power of the nations that scattered the people of Judah."

The third vision

⁵ Raising my eyes again, I saw a man with a measuring line in his hand. I asked, "Where are you going?" ⁶ He answered, "I'm going to measure Jerusalem, to find its width and its length." ⁷ As the angel who spoke to me came forward, another angel met him ⁸ and said, "Run and tell this to that young man: 'Jerusalem will remain unwall because of its multitude of people and livestock.' ⁹ For this is the word of Yahweh: 'I myself will be around her like a wall of fire, and also within her in Glory.'"

¹⁰ "Come, come! Flee from the land of the north," says Yahweh to all those whom he scattered to the four winds of heaven.

¹¹ "Come, escape to Zion, you who dwell with the daughter of Babylon." ¹² For thus Yahweh Sabaoth says, after his Glory sent me to condemn the nations that have plundered you, "Whoever touches you touches the apple of my eye." ¹³ Look, I will raise my hand against them, and they will be plundered by their slaves." Thus you will know that Yahweh Sabaoth has sent me.

A call to the daughter of Zion

+ ¹⁴ "Sing and rejoice, O daughter of Zion, for I come to dwell among you" says Yahweh.

¹⁵ "On that day, many nations will join Yahweh and be my people, but my dwelling is among you." ¹⁶ The people of Judah will be for Yahweh as his portion in his holy land. He will choose Jerusalem again.

¹⁷ Keep still in Yahweh's presence, for he comes, having risen from his holy dwelling."

Fourth vision: the Messiah comes soon

3 ¹ He showed me then the high priest Joshua standing before the Angel of Yahweh. At Joshua's right side stood Satan, ready to accuse him. ² But the angel of Yahweh said to Satan, "May Yahweh rebuke you, Satan! Yahweh who has chosen Jerusalem – may he rebuke you! Is not this man a burning brand snatched from the fire?"

³ Clad in filthy garments, Joshua stood before the Angel. ⁴ who said to those in front of him, "Take off his filthy garments." Then turning to Joshua, he said, "See, I have taken away your guilt. Now I will clothe you with rich garments." ⁵ He added, "Put a clean turban he does not forget Jerusalem.

– Second vision, 2:1-4: the powers which will destroy their political enemies are already in place.

– Third vision, 2:5-9: if now the Jews have to protect Jerusalem with walls, shortly God will provide complete security.

+ Following we have one of the two calls to the captives: a call to rejoicing because God lives with his people. This text gives us even more motives for rejoicing. In the Bible the expression Daughter of Zion, is one of the many names for the People of God, that is to say, the church.

Zechariah speaks of the church in promising that God will be permanently at work there so that all the people of the earth may be gathered in it.

■ This new vision of the high priest, Joshua seems to predict the renewal of the priesthood. At the beginning, Joshua is identified with the whole people, sad and in mourning to atone for sin. Later, it means Joshua alone and it announces the future priesthood, that of Christ, appointed by God as the mediator between him and men.

I am going to bring my servant the Branch. The eternal Saviour will be the seed springing from among men.

on his head." So they put a clean turban on his head and clothed him, as the Angel of Yahweh looked on.

⁷ The Angel of Yahweh gave Joshua this assurance. ⁸ "Listen to this word of Yahweh Sabaoth: If you walk in my ways and heed my charge, you shall rule my house and keep my courts, and I will give you free access among those standing here. ⁹ Listen further, O high priest Joshua and your associates who join in council with you: I am going to bring my servant the Branch. ¹⁰ See the stone I have set before Joshua – a stone with seven eyes. I myself will engrave an inscription on it, and I will remove the guilt of this land in a single day. ¹¹ On that day, you will invite one another under your vines and fig trees." This is what Yahweh Sabaoth says."

The fifth vision

4 ¹ The angel who talked with me returned and shook me as one does to wake another from sleep. ² He asked, "What do you see?" I answered, "I see a lampstand all of gold, with a bowl on top. On the stand are seven lamps and there are seven pipes to feed them. ³ There are also two olive trees, one at the right of the bowl and another at the left." ⁴ I asked the angel, "What are these, my Lord?" ⁵ He replied with a question, "Don't you know what they are?" I answered, "No, my Lord." ⁶ He explained, "These seven are the eyes of Yahweh which range throughout the earth."

⁷ I asked the angel, "What are these two olive trees to the right and left of the lampstand?" ⁸ Then I asked him a second time, "What are the two olive branches beside the two golden pipes from which fresh oil is poured out?" ⁹ His reply was a question, "Don't you know what these are?" I answered, "No, my Lord." ¹⁰ He said, "These are the two anointed with fresh oil, who serve the Lord of the whole earth."

¹¹ Yahweh Sabaoth says, "What are you, O mighty mountains? You will be levelled before Zerubbabel. He will quarry from you to the last stone which crowns the Temple amid shouts of: blessing, blessing on it!"

¹² The word of Yahweh then came to me, ¹³ "The hands of Zerubbabel have laid the foundation of this House; his hands also shall finish

it. Then you will know that Yahweh Sabaoth has sent him to you. ¹⁴ For even they who despise small things will rejoice on that day to see the crowning stone in the hands of Zerubbabel."

This is a word of Yahweh for Zerubbabel, "Not by might nor by power, but by my Spirit."

The sixth vision

5 ¹ Again I raised my eyes and saw a flying scroll. ² He asked me, "What do you see?" And I answered, "A flying scroll, thirty feet long and fifteen feet wide."

³ He said to me, "This is the curse going forth throughout the earth. On one side it is written that every thief shall be banished; on the other side, that everyone who swears falsely shall be expelled. ⁴ I will send it out to the house of the thief, as well as to the house of one who swears falsely. It will lodge there and destroy the house – timber, stone and everything."

The seventh vision

⁵ Then the angel who talked with me came forward and said, "Look up and see what this is that is coming forth." ⁶ I asked, "What is it?" He answered, "This is a bushel container. This is the guilt of the people throughout the land." ⁷ The lead cover was lifted, and there sitting inside was a woman. ⁸ "This is wickedness," he said and thrust the woman inside the bushel stopping the opening with the lead cover.

⁹ I looked up and saw two winged women coming; their wings were like that of a stork. As they lifted the bushel into the air, ¹⁰ I asked the angel who was speaking to me, "Where are they taking the bushel?" ¹¹ He answered, "To Babylon, to build a house for it and set it down on the base."

The eighth vision

6 ¹ Once more I raised my eyes and saw four chariots coming out from between two mountains of bronze. ² The first chariot had red horses, the second black, ³ the third white, and the fourth dapple grey. ⁴ I asked the angel talking with me, "What are these, my Lord."

⁵ The angel replied, "These are the four winds of heaven, going forth after presenting themselves before the Lord of the whole earth. ⁶ The chariot with black horses goes towards the north country, the one with white horses towards the west, and the one with dapple grey horses towards the land of the south."

⁷ As the reds asked to start off and to patrol the earth, the angel said to them, "Go, patrol the earth!" and they went. ⁸ Then he cried out to me, "Look, those have just gone to the land of the north and they will set my spirit at rest in the land of the north."

¹⁰ "Take offerings from the returned captives, from the hands of Heldai, Tobijah and Jedaiah, and go this very day to the house of Josiah, Zephaniah's son, where they have arrived from Babylon. ¹¹ Take silver and gold and have crowns made, which you will set on the head of the high priest Joshua, son of Jehozadak.

¹² Repeat to him these words of Yahweh Sabaoth: 'Here is the man whose name is Branch. From where he is he will branch out and build the temple of Yahweh. ¹³ It is he who will build the temple of Yahweh, and this will be his glory. He will sit and rule upon his throne. A priest will sit at his right, and there will be harmony between both.' ¹⁴ As for the crowns, they will remain in the temple of Yahweh as a memorial of what Heldai, Tobijah, Jedaiah and Josiah, Zephaniah's son have done. ¹⁵ Those from afar will come and help build the temple of Yahweh, and you will know that Yahweh Sabaoth has sent me to you. This will happen if you diligently listen to the voice of your God Yahweh."

7 ¹ On the fourth day of Chisley, the ninth month in the fourth year of Darius, the king, the word of Yahweh came to Zechariah.

² The people of Bethel had sent Sharezer and Regemmelech with their men to win the favour of Yahweh ³ and to question the priests of the House of Yahweh, God of hosts, and the prophets, "Must we mourn and fast in the fifth month as we have done these many years?"

The true religion

⁴ And the word of Yahweh, God of hosts came to me: ⁵ "Speak to the inhabitants of the land and to the priests; say to them: When you fasted and mourned in September and December for seventy years, was it really for me that you fasted? ⁶ Were you not those who decided to eat and to drink or not to do so. ⁷ Remember the message that Yahweh proclaimed through earlier prophets when Jerusalem was peacefully inhabited and the surrounding region as well, when the Negeb and the western foothills were settled?"

⁸ Yahweh said and ⁹ now says through me: Render true judgment, be kind and merciful to each other.

¹⁰ Do not oppress the widow or the orphan, the alien or the poor, do not plot evil in your heart against one another.

¹¹ But they refused to listen and stubbornly turned their back, stopping their ears. ¹² They made their hearts hard as diamonds so as not to hear the Law or the words that Yahweh, the God of hosts spoke by his spirit through the earlier prophets. ¹³ Then Yahweh, God of hosts in his great anger proclaimed that just as they had not listened when he called to them, so when they cried to him he would not listen. ¹⁴ Yahweh said he would scatter them as in a whirlwind among nations they did not know and the land behind them would be devastated without anyone passing through it. In that way a pleasant land was made desolate."

+8 ¹ The word of Yahweh, the God of hosts was directed to me in this way,

² "I am intensely jealous for Zion, stirred by a burning anger for her sake. ³ Yahweh says: I will return to Zion and live in her midst. Jerusalem shall be called City of faithfulness same to those who are more concerned about performing religious rituals than about living in authentic love for God.

Today, there are still people who believe that: by sacrifices and gifts they can bargain with God and the Mountain of Yahweh of hosts, the Mountain of holiness."

⁴Yahweh, God of hosts speaks, "Old men and women will again sit in the squares, each with a stick in hand on account of their great age. ⁵The squares of the city will be filled with girls and boys playing."

⁶Yahweh, God of hosts declares, "If that seems impossible in the eyes of those who have returned from exile, will it be impossible for me as well?" – word of Yahweh.

⁷Yahweh, God of hosts says, "See, I am going to save my people, ⁸bringing them from the east and from the west and they will live in Jerusalem. They will be my people and I shall be their God in truth and in justice."

⁹Yahweh, God of hosts declares, "In these days you have just heard the words of the prophets, because on this day the foundation stone is laid for the reconstruction of the Temple. Now do not be discouraged. ¹⁰Before these days there was no salary for man nor food for beasts, people could not travel because of the ambushes, and I myself let everyone quarrel with his neighbour. ¹¹But from now on I will deal differently with this people."

¹²Yahweh says, "I am sowing peace. The vine will give its fruit, the earth its produce, the heavens its dew and to the remnant of this people I will give all these things.

¹³It will so happen that just as you were a curse among the nations, now I will save you, Judah and Israel, and make you a blessing. Have no fear and let your hands be strong!"

¹⁴This is what Yahweh, God of hosts, says: "Just as I resolved to do you harm because your fathers angered me and I did not relent, ¹⁵so now in these days am I determined to deal kindly with Jerusalem and Judah. Have no fear! ¹⁶This is what you must do: Speak the truth to one another; let those who judge give peace through honest sentences ¹⁷and do not plot evil in your heart against one another. Refrain from false oaths for it is what I detest – word of Yahweh.

¹⁸The word of Yahweh came to me, saying: ¹⁹"This is what you will say for my sake: From now on the fasts of the fourth, fifth, seventh and tenth months will be days of joy, happy feastsdays. Only be peacemakers and sincere people."

²⁰Yahweh, the God of hosts speaks, "People will come from other nations, people from great cities. ²¹The inhabitants of one town will talk with those of another. Then they will say: 'Come, let us go and implore the favour of Yahweh, and I, too, will seek Yahweh.' ²²Many great peoples and powerful nations will come seeking Yahweh, God of hosts, in Jerusalem and pray to him."

²³Yahweh, the God of hosts assures you, "In those days ten men of different languages spoken in various lands, will take hold of a Jew by the hem of his garment and say: 'We, too, want to go with you for we have heard that God is with you.'" and obtain his favours. And yet, true religion is what Zechariah is saying: To think according to the truth, to do things honestly, to be kind and merciful with others, to respect widows, orphans, strangers and the poor, and not to entertain negative thoughts in our hearts against our neighbour (see Is 58 and James 1:27).

+ God is expressing all his love for the chosen people who are personified in their city, Jerusalem. He promises prosperity and the happiness of salvation. But, above all, he brings them to discover their role in the world: to be the point of gathering for all the people.

For us, these are words of hope, but they also require us to behave in such a way that unbelievers may really become aware that God is present in us. We can apply what was said about Is 65 here: we must guide our countries toward this peace, full of rejoicing that only God can bring it about.

In 8:8 notice the expression: "They will be my people and I will be their God." This is the typical messianic promise and the sign of the new covenant.

SECOND PART OF THE BOOK

9 An oracle; word of Yahweh.

¹Yahweh dwells in the land of Had-rach and Damascus for the cities of Aram be-long to him as do all the tribes of Israel, ²and Hamath as well, on its border, Tyre and Sidon, the people supposed to be skillful. ³Tyre built herself a stronghold and piled up silver like dust, gold like the mud in the street. ⁴But the Lord will take away her possessions and throw down her power on the sea and she herself will perish by fire.

⁵Ashkelon will see and be afraid; Gaza, too, will tremble and Ekron as well for her hope will fade. The king will disappear from Gaza and Ashkelon will be without inhabitants. ⁶People of low birth will occupy Ash-dod. I will put an end to the pride of the Philis-tines. ⁷I shall take the meat with blood from his mouth and his unclean food from between his teeth. Only a remnant of them will be left and they will become like a clan among the Ju-deans. The people of Ekron will be like the Jebusites at the present time. ⁸I shall camp as a guard near my House to protect it from all who come and go. No longer shall an oppres-sor crush them now that I am aware of their affliction.

Your king comes, riding on a donkey

◆ ⁹Rejoice greatly, daughter of Zion! Shout for joy, daughter of Jerusalem! For see, your king is coming,

just and victorious,
humble and riding on a donkey,
on a colt, the foal of a donkey.
¹⁰No more chariots in Ephraim,
no more horses in Jerusalem,
for he will do away with them,
The warrior's bow shall be broken
when he dictates peace to the nations.
He will reign from sea to sea,
and from the River to the ends of the earth.

¹¹As for you, for the sake of your covenant sealed with blood, I shall release your prison-ers from the ancient cistern. ¹²The prisoners who wait in expectation will return to you, O Zion; today I declare that I will repay you double for your exile. ¹³I shall bend my bow – Judah – and Ephraim shall be my arrow. I shall send your sons, O Zion, against the Greeks! For me you shall be a warrior's sword.

¹⁴Yahweh will appear above them, his arrows flashing like lightning. He will sound his horn and come in a storm from the south. ¹⁵Yahweh, God of hosts, will protect them; they will triumph and trample sling stones underfoot. They will drink blood like wine and be filled with it like the bowls of the drink of fering, like the horns of an altar.

¹⁶On that day, Yahweh, their God, will save them and pasture them like a flock. ¹⁷How happy! how beautiful it will be! Grain will make young men flourish and new wine, the maidens!

Trust in the Lord

10 ¹Ask from Yahweh the spring rain, and Yahweh, who makes storms, will send showers of rain and make grass sprout in each one's field.

²The home idols utter empty words and diviners have false visions, dreams that fore-tell illusions and offer empty comfort. ³In con-sequence the people stray like sheep without a shepherd. Against these shepherds my anger is aroused and I will punish the leaders.

When Yahweh of hosts visits his flock, the nation of Judah, he will make it his proud war horse. ⁴He will provide the foundation, the tent peg, the bow in battle and all the leaders. ⁵They will be like warriors trampling mud in battle they will fight recalling that Yahweh is with them and rout those on horses.

⁶I will strengthen the nation of Judah and save the descendants of Joseph. I will bring them back for I have compassion on them and they will be as if I had never rejected them, for I am Yahweh, their God, who hears their cry.

⁷Ephraim's men will be considered heroic

■ This is the beginning of the second part of the book (see introduction). The prophet announces a liberation of the people after a very cruel trial. A mysterious Shepherd (another name for the Messiah) will achieve this liberation when, having been rejected and killed by his people, he will arouse feelings of repentance in them. These texts remind us of the Songs of the Servant of the Lord in the second part of the book of Isaiah.

◆ Announcing a humble Messiah. When he enters Jerusalem on Palm Sunday, Jesus will want to fulfill this prophecy literally (see Matthew 21:5).

and feel joyful as if warmed by wine. Their children will rejoice on seeing it; their hearts will exult in Yahweh.

⁹Yahweh says: I shall whistle and gather them together for I have redeemed them and they shall be as numerous as before. ¹⁰Then I shall spread them among the nations, but from the most distant lands they will remember me. There they will raise their children and then return.

¹¹I shall bring them back from Egypt and gather them from Assyria. I shall give them again the land of Gilead and Lebanon but these will not suffice for them. ¹²They will pass through the sea of Egypt and the depths of the Nile will be dried up. Then the arrogance of Assyria will be cast down and Egypt will no longer have a king. ¹³I shall strengthen them, says Yahweh, and they shall advance confident in my Name."

11 ¹Open your gateways, Lebanon, to let fire devour your cedars. ²Lament, cypresses, for the cedar has fallen. The majestic ones have been brought low. Wail, oaks of Bashan, for the impenetrable forest has been cut down. ³The sighs of the shepherds re-echo because their beautiful plain has been ravaged. The young lions' roar re-echoes because the fruitful valley of the Jordan is laid waste.

The example of the good shepherd

⁴Yahweh, my God, said to me: "Pasture the sheep to be slaughtered. ⁵for their buyers slay them with impunity, whereas those who sell them say: 'Praised be Yahweh! I am rich!' Even their shepherds have no pity on them. ⁶Yahweh says: I shall have pity no longer on the inhabitants of this land, and I am handing over each one to the power of his shepherd; although their king may oppress the land, I shall not rescue this people from their power."

⁷So I became the shepherd of the sheep to be slaughtered and provided myself with two staffs – one I called Favour and the other Bonds. I then pastured my flock, ⁸doing away with three leaders in one month I lost patience with them and they, for their part, were disgusted with me. ⁹So I said, "No longer shall I shepherd you: whatever is to die, let it die and let what is to perish, perish, and let those who are left devour each other's flesh." ¹⁰Then I took and broke my staff Favour to break the covenant I had made with all nations. ¹¹It was broken off that day and the sheep merchants who watched knew it was Yahweh who had spoken.

¹²I then said to them, "If you agree, give me my wages, otherwise let it go." So they weighed out my wages, thirty pieces of silver. ¹³And Yahweh said to me, "Throw it into the treasury, this splendid sum at which they valued me!" So I took the thirty pieces of silver and threw them into the treasury in Yahweh's House.

¹⁴I then snapped in two my second staff Bonds, doing away with the friendship between Judah and Israel.

¹⁵Then Yahweh said to me, "Take another disguise, one that is fitting for a foolish shepherd ¹⁶for I am going to raise up another shepherd who will care nothing for lost sheep nor will he search for strays, or bind up the injured and pasture those that survive. No, but he will eat the fat ones and tear off their hoofs."

¹⁷Woe to the worthless shepherd who abandons his flock!
May the sword strike his arm and his right eye!
Let his arm wither
and his right eye be blind!

The final battle

12 ¹An oracle. This is the word of Yahweh concerning Israel; Yahweh, who spread out the heavens, laid the foundations of the earth and formed the spirit of man within him ²foretells this, "See, I am making of Jerusalem a cup that will send the nations reeling; it will happen when Jerusalem is besieged.

³On that day I shall make Jerusalem an

• This is a parable. The prophet plays the role of the Lord himself. It seems to mean the following: Because the people did not want to be led by the Lord, the Lord will deliver them to evil shepherds who will take advantage of them. The Lord is dismissed for thirty silver pieces. A mysterious gesture which the Gospel will recall in dealing with Judas' betrayal (see Mt 27:10). Elsewhere in the Bible God threatens the evil rulers. Here, he reproaches the people who, somehow, have the shepherds they deserve.

• This chapter announces the tragedy which will move the Jewish people: all the nations will be opposed to them and they will be saved by God. Verses 8-11, which John will recall in Jn 19:37 and Rv 1:7, show the death of Christ in a veiled way. The Jews will be converted when they see the one they have pierced. From his sacrifices the fountain mentioned in 13:1 will spring forth, a fountain of forgiveness and of holiness.

Note that Hadadrimmon was a Phoenician god; the inhabitants of the plain of Megiddo immovable rock for all the nations around her. All the nations will be united against her and all who try to lift the rock will be badly injured."

⁴Yahweh says: "On that day I will make every horse wild with fright, every rider demented. All the horses of the nations will be blinded but I will watch over Judah and ⁵the leaders of the clans of Judah will say to themselves: 'Jerusalem is invincible because Yahweh is with us.'

⁶On that day I will make the leaders of the clans of Judah like a brazier of fire in a woodland and a flaming torch among the sheaves. They will devour right and left all the nations around them, while Jerusalem will continue to hold its site.

⁷Yahweh will first save the towns and villages of Judah so that David's people and the inhabitants of Jerusalem will not feel more important than the rest of Judah.

⁸On that day Yahweh will strengthen the inhabitants of Jerusalem in such a way that the weaklings among them shall be like David and David's people like God, like an angel of Yahweh before them.

⁹On that day I will threaten with destruction all the nations that came against Jerusalem.

¹⁰I will pour out on the family of David and the inhabitants of Jerusalem a spirit which will make them look towards me with love and confidence. They will mourn for the slain as for an only child and weep bitterly as for a first-born. ¹¹The mourning in Jerusalem will be as great as the mourning of Haddadrimmon in the plain of Megiddo.

¹²Each family will mourn individually: the family of David by themselves and their wives separately; the family of Nathan by themselves and their wives separately, ¹³the family of Levi by themselves and their wives separately, the family of Shimei by themselves and their wives separately ¹⁴and the same with the other families, each family by themselves and their wives separately.

+13 ¹On that day a spring will well up for the family of David and for the inhabitants of Jerusalem to cleanse themselves of sin and defilement.

Yahweh, God of hosts says: ²On that day I will wipe out the names of idols from the land and never again will they be mentioned. ³I will also remove the prophets and their unclean spirits and expel them from the land. If a prophet does prophesy, his parents, father and mother, will say to him: 'You shall live no longer for you uttered lies in the name of Yahweh.' His own father and mother will stab him when he prophesies.

⁴On that day the prophets will be ashamed of their prophetic visions and no longer wear a prophet's garment of hair in order to deceive. ⁵Instead, each of them will say: 'I am not a prophet, I am a farmer, the land has owned me since my youth.' ⁶And if anyone says to him: 'What are these wounds on your hands?' He will answer: With these I was wounded in my friend's house."

Final persecution

■ ⁷Sword, awake and strike my shepherd, the man who is near to me!" says Yahweh, God of hosts. "Strike the shepherd and let the flock be scattered!" Yahweh threatens, "I will turn against the little ones, ⁸and in all the land, two-thirds shall be destroyed and one-third left. ⁹This third shall be cleansed by fire; I shall refine them as silver is refined; I shall test them as gold is tested. They shall call upon my Name and I will hear them. I will say, 'They celebrated his death every year.

+ In the final days, an answer will be given to the thirst for forgiveness which the Bible itself aroused in the faithful (see Jn 7:37 and 20:22). The fountain mentioned here is like the river coming from the Temple (Ez 47).

I will remove the prophets and their unclean spirits. The days of the great prophets are over and the author of these lines realizes that the only prophets left are fortune tellers, liars and charlatans. There is no room for those in a community which has received all the truth that God can reveal to us in the person of his Son.

■ Another text referring to the good shepherd, whom Yahweh strikes. This means that the shepherd will be wounded and that the Lord will use this event for his plan of salvation. See what was said in Is 66:8 about this form of expression of the Jews.

Matthew remembers this place in 26:31.

are my people," and they shall say, "Yahweh is my God."

Another description of the final battle

◆ 14 ¹The day of Yahweh will come when people will divide spoils in your midst. ²I will let all the nations come against Jerusalem to attack it. The city will be taken and houses pillaged, women violated. Half of the city will be deported but the rest will not be removed. ³Then Yahweh will go forth and fight against the nations as he does on the day of battle. ⁴On that day his feet will rest on the mount of Olives, facing Jerusalem on the east and the mount of Olives will be split in two from east to west by a deep valley leaving half of the mountain to the north and half to the south. ⁵You will flee through my mountain valley for it will extend as far as Azel. You will flee as you fled from the earthquake in the days of Uzziah, king of Judah, and Yahweh will come and all his holy ones with him.

⁶On that day there will be no light, no cold or frost. ⁷It will be a unique day, known to Yahweh, without day or night and when evening comes there will still be light.

⁸On that day living water will flow from Jerusalem, half to the sea in the east, half to the sea in the west; it will never dry up in summer or in winter. ⁹Yahweh will be king of all the earth. On that day there will be Yahweh alone and only his Name.

¹⁰All the land will be turned into a plain from Geba to Rimmon in the Negeb, but Jerusalem shall be outstanding on its heights, from the Benjamin Gate to the First Gate, to the Corner Gate and from the tower of Hananel to the royal winepress. ¹¹Its people shall no longer fear any disaster. Jerusalem shall be inhabited and secure.

¹²And this is how Yahweh will punish all the nations that made war on Jerusalem: each one's flesh will rot even as he stands, and their eyes will rot in their sockets, their tongue in their mouth. ¹³A similar plague shall strike the horses, mules, camels and donkeys, and all the animals in their camps. ¹⁴On that day Yahweh will cause great panic among them: they will take hold of one another and attack one another while ¹⁵the men of Judah fight in Jerusalem. The wealth of all the neighbouring nations will be left in that place, gold, silver and garments in great quantities.

¹⁶The survivors of all the nations that fought against Jerusalem will come, year by year, to worship Yahweh, God of hosts and celebrate the feast of Tabernacles. ¹⁷If any peoples of the earth do not go up to Jerusalem to worship the King Yahweh, God of hosts, they will have no rain. ¹⁸If the Egyptian people do not go up and take part, they too will be afflicted with the plague destined for those who do not go up to celebrate the feast of Tabernacles. ¹⁹That shall be the punishment of Egypt and of all the nations who do not go up to celebrate the feast of Tabernacles.

²⁰On that day, even the bells of the horses shall be inscribed: 'Consecrated to Yahweh.' ²¹The cooking pots of the Temple will be as sacred as the bowls of offering that are used for the altar, and even the ordinary cooking pots of the people of Jerusalem and Judah will be consecrated to Yahweh, God of hosts. So everyone who offers sacrifice may use them for cooking. Still more: from that day, there will no longer be merchants in the House of Yahweh, God of hosts.

◆ This chapter describes with amazing images the kingdom of God which will be established after the great trial. A vision of the heavenly Jerusalem which the apostle John will renew in Revelation. All the nations of the world have found the living God and they come to adore him. This resembles the end of chapter 66 of Isaiah.

Yahweh will come and all his holy ones with him (5). These are his angels, responsible for his works, just as in Ps 89:6; 138:2; 149:1. See Mt 16:27.

In the new Jerusalem, religion will not be an activity apart from other human activities: men and women will no longer be believers at Mass on Sundays and the rest of the week, the same as everybody else, mediocre and sinful. Rather everything will be holy. Zechariah says this by using ideas peculiar to his time (v. 20-21).

Malachi

Shortly after Haggai and Zechariah, this prophet intervenes to correct several evil customs within the community. Through Malachi, the Lord argues with those who call him to account, but who do not acknowledge his love. "You say..."

1 ¹ These are the words that Yahweh directed to Israel through Malachi.

² When Yahweh says, "I love you," you reply, "How do you show that love?" So Yahweh asks you, ³ "Was Esau not Jacob's brother: Yet I loved Jacob and hated Esau. See how I left his mountains desolate and abandoned his land to the jackals of the desert. ⁴ If Edom decides to rebuild its ruins, after having been destroyed, Yahweh of hosts says: They may rebuild, but I will demolish. You will call them: 'Accursed country' and: 'Nation with which Yahweh is forever displeased.' ⁵ You will see this with your own eyes, then you will exclaim: The power of Yahweh goes beyond the borders of Israel.

Where is your respect for me?

⁶ The son honours his father, the servant respects his master. Now if I am a father, where is the honour due to me? If I am your master, where is your respect for me? This is what Yahweh of hosts wants you to know, priests who despise his name. But you will only ask: How have we despised your name?

⁷ You present contaminated foods on my altar, yet you say: How did we defile you? You think that my table does not deserve respect. ⁸ When you bring a blind animal as a sacrifice, or when you present one that is lame or sick, are you not doing wrong? Go present these to the governor; will he be pleased and receive you well" says Yahweh of hosts.

⁹ So now, ask God that he may have mercy on us. But if it goes badly for us because of your sin, are you those who should entreat him? ¹⁰ Who among you would close my doors that you may no longer come to kindle fire upon my altar in vain? I am not pleased with you, says Yahweh of hosts, nor am I pleased with your offerings.

¹¹ See, from the rising of the sun to its setting, all the nations revere my Name and everywhere incense is offered to my Name as well as a pure offering. I am rightly esteemed among the nations, says Yahweh of hosts. ¹² But you despise my Name when you say: 'The Lord's table is dirty and his food is good for nothing.' ¹³ When you complain that you do not like this food you despise me, says Yahweh. You bring a stolen animal, lame or diseased, to offer to me in sacrifice. Do you think that I will accept it? ¹⁴ Cursed be the cheater who, after promising me a bull from his herd, sacrifices a stunted animal. For

o The sin of those who offer their surplus to God. From the rising of the sun... Malachi observes that, if the Jews are God's people, they cannot avoid doing what other people do, who, in their own way, worship God sincerely even though they do not know his revelation.

The sin of the priests who do not know how to teach the Law as it is their responsibility to do. If they do not commit themselves to educate the people of God as to their obligations, God will not allow them to continue their external rituals.

I am a great King and my Name will be respected through all the nations, says Yahweh of hosts.

Warnings for the priests

2 ¹ This warning is also for you, priests. If you do not listen to it or ² concern yourself to glorify my Name, says Yahweh of hosts, I will send the curse on you and curse even your blessings.

³ I will curse you for none of you takes his ministry seriously. Right now, I am going to break your arm, throw dung in your face, the very dung of your animals, and sweep you away with them. ⁴ And you will realize that it was I who threatened to put an end to my covenant with Levi, your father, says Yahweh.

⁵ My covenant with him spoke of life and peace, and I gave him these; it also spoke of respect and he respected me and revered my Name. ⁶ His mouth taught the true doctrine and nothing evil came from his lips; he walked in accord with me, being peaceful and upright, and brought back many people from their wickedness. ⁷ The lips of the priest speak of knowledge, and the Law must be found in his mouth, since he is the messenger of Yahweh of hosts.

⁸ But you, says Yahweh of hosts, have strayed from my way, and moreover caused many to stumble because of your teaching. You have broken my covenant with Levi. ⁹ Therefore I let all the people despise you and consider you unworthy, because you do not follow my ways and you show partiality in your judgments.

¹⁰ Do we not all have the same father? Has the same God not created all of us? Why, then, does each of us betray his brother, defiling the Covenant of our ancestors?

¹¹ Judah has been unfaithful, a grave sin has been committed in Israel and Jerusalem: Judah has defiled the sacred inheritance of Yahweh by loving and marrying the daughters of a foreign god. ¹² Let whoever does this be cut off from the homeland of Jacob and let there be no one to defend him in the tribunal or present an offering for him to Yahweh.

Respect for marriage

¹³ You also commit another offense. As Yahweh refuses to look at your offerings and does not take them into account, you come weeping and wailing and cover the altar with tears. ¹⁴ And then you ask: 'Why?'

It is because Yahweh has seen how you dealt with your first wife, the wife of your youth. You betrayed her although she was your companion with whom you made a covenant. ¹⁵ Has God not made a single being and given him breath? And what does he seek but a family given by God? Do not betray, then, the wife of your youth.

¹⁶ I hate divorce, says Yahweh, the God of Israel, and those who are actually covering their violence. Be very careful, and do not betray.

¹⁷ You annoy Yahweh with your discourses and you dare say: 'How did we annoy him?' You annoy him whenever you say that Yahweh looks favourably on those who do evil, and lets everything go well with them, or when you ask: 'Where is the God who does justice?'

I send my messenger to prepare the way

3 ¹ Now I am sending my messenger ahead of me to clear the way; then suddenly the Lord for

The sin of those who dismiss their wives. The Law and customs allowed divorce with specific guarantees for the wife. Malachi says what Jesus will teach with full authority in Matthew 19:1: the will of God for marriage is that the two remain together as one. The one who betrays his wife cannot encounter God.

+ Now I am sending my messenger. To those complaining that God does not reveal his justice, nor reward sufficiently those who serve him, Malachi responds by declaring that the Lord will come soon. And he announces the coming of a messenger of God who will be responsible for preparing the way for him, and that will be the sign of his coming soon. The paragraphs 3:1-2 and 4:22-24, complementing each other, point to John the Baptist. The Gospel will recall them in Lk 1:16; 7:27; Jn 3:21. Also see Mark 9:9.

■ Then comes the discussion with those ex-

whom you long will enter the sanctuary. The envoy of the covenant which you so greatly desire already comes, says Yahweh of hosts.² Who can bear the day of his coming and remain standing when he appears? For he is like fire in the foundry and like the lye used for bleaching.

³ He will be as a refiner or a fuller. He will purify the sons of Levi and refine them like gold and silver. So Yahweh will have priests who will present the offering as it should be.⁴ Then Yahweh will accept with pleasure the offering of Judah and Jerusalem, as in former days.

⁵ Yahweh says: I will dwell among you to do justice and demand the immediate punishment of the sorcerers and the adulterers, of those who swear false oaths, who oppress the wage-earner, the widow and the orphan, who do not respect the rights of the foreigner. They do all this and have no fear of me.

■ ⁶ I, Yahweh, have not changed in anything; just as you, children of Jacob, are always the same.⁷ Since the day of your ancestors you stray from my ordinances and do not practise them. Return to me and I will return to you, says Yahweh of hosts. But you ask: 'Why do we have to return?' ⁸ Can a man deceive God? Yet you cheat me and moreover ask: 'How did we cheat you?' ⁹ I point out your sacred tributes and the tenth which is due to me. ¹⁰ Cursed be you who cheat me! Cursed be all the nation! Turn over into the temple treasury the tenth part of all, that there may be food in my House. Then you may test me says Yahweh of hosts, to see if I will not open the gates of heaven and bring blessed rain to you up to the last drop. ¹¹ I will drive away the locusts that they may not devour your fields, and let not the vines wither in your land, says Yahweh. ¹² Then all the nations will congratulate you for you will excel among the lands.

¹³ You say very harsh things about me, says Yahweh, and yet you say: 'What harsh things did we say against you?' ¹⁴ You say: 'It is useless to serve God. There is no benefit in observing his commandments or in leading an austere life for his sake. Happy are the shameless!' ¹⁵ Those who do evil succeed in everything; though they provoke God, they remain unharmed.

¹⁶ Then those who respect Yahweh began talking among themselves. Yahweh listened and heard what they said. He ordered at once that the names of those who respect him and reverence his Name be written in a record.

¹⁷ And he declared, 'They will be mine on the day I make my choice. I will have mercy on them as a father has on his obedient son.' ¹⁸ Then you can distinguish the good from the bad, those who obey God from those who disobey him.

4 ¹⁹ The day already comes, flaming as a furnace. On that day all the proud and evil-doers will be burned like straw in the fire. They will be left without branches or roots. ²⁰ On the other hand the sun of justice will shine upon you who respect my Name and bring health in its rays. You will come out leaping like fattened calves. ²¹ You will trample on the evil-doers and they will be like ashes scattered on your way when I do this, says Yahweh.

I will send Elijah soon

²² Remember the law of my servant Moses, the laws and ordinances I gave him at Mount Horeb for the whole of Israel. ²³ I am going to send you the prophet Elijah before the day of Yahweh comes, for it will be a great and terrible day. ²⁴ He will reconcile the parents to their children, and the children with their parents, so that I may not have to curse this land when I come.

pecting material favours as a reward for their devotion; they wish to be rewarded for having done no evil. God agrees to dialogue with such believers and through Malachi, he speaks to them in the only language they can understand: if they do good, one day they will see the Sun of justice and they will jump around like calves and trample the wicked underfoot.

DANIEL

The author of the book of Daniel must have been one of the teachers of the Law who, in the days of the great persecution at the time of the Maccabees, encouraged the spiritual resistance of his people. And he must surely have included himself among those guides in the faith whom God would reward in a special way (Dn 11:33 and 12:3). While the Maccabees were heading the armed resistance against the oppressors, these masters of the Law, suspicious of politics and weapons, limited themselves to giving an example of faithfulness to God's Covenant and to his laws.

The core of his message is in chapters 7-12 and it can be summarized as follows:

- the great persecution against the Jewish people is part of God's plan for salvation;
- the persecuting kings, especially Antiochus Epiphanes - remembered so many times in a figurative way - will not succeed in destroying the believing people;
- long after the persecution, the kingdom of God will come.

But the author also adapted the stories found in chapters 1-6 to his message. These stories were teaching the Jews settled in foreign countries and, at times, serving the kings there, that they could not compromise the demands of the faith and the practices of the Law, under any circumstances, whether in terms of foods (1:8) or the rejection of idolatrous worship (2 and 6).

WAS THERE A MAN NAMED DANIEL?

The Jewish community compiling the biblical books placed the book of Daniel, not among the prophets of the 6th century (the time of Daniel), but rather among the books of the second century before Christ. The book was not placed among the prophets, but under the heading of writings about religious teaching. They did this because they were aware that the "story" of Daniel and his visions was not a historical account, but rather literary fiction.

We must realize that in the two centuries before Christ, this way of speaking about present events as if God had revealed them to some famous person of the past, was very fashionable. And so they would tell of this person's visions, predicting events happening in the present, and then tell how this visionary received the religious interpretation of these events from God: the saving plan of God was being fulfilled.

In those days, there existed an art of using symbolic numbers (three and a half, six, seven ten), and symbolic colors (white was a sign of victory), and of having angels intervene. This category of books was called apocalypse, or, revelations. There are two of them in the Bible: the apocalypse of Daniel and John's.

In Oriental writings Daniel was the name of an ancient sage (Ez 14:14). From there emerged the character of Daniel, a prophet and a sage, who would have lived among the exiles in Babylon. His words and example were to enlighten the Jews in contact with the pagans.

There are three very famous passages in this book. In 7:9-14 we have the text referring to the Son of Man. Jesus refers to this text when he presents himself as the Son of Man (Mk 13:26 and 14:62). In another text, (Dn 12:13), we have the announcing of the resurrection of the dead. Also, the prophecy in 9:21-27 has lent itself to many commentaries about the end of the world. We will see, however, that it refers to many things except the end of the world.

1 ¹ In the third year of Jehoiakim's reign as king of Judah, King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon besieged Jerusalem. ² The Lord delivered into his hands King Jehoiakim of Judah, and some of the vessels from the temple of God as well. These he carried off to the land of Shinar and placed in the treasure house of his god.

³ King Nebuchadnezzar ordered his chief eunuch Ashpenaz to bring in some of the Israelites from the royal family and the nobility: "young men without physical defect, handsome, intelligent and wise, well informed, quick to learn and understand, and suitable for service in the king's palace. They were to be taught the language and literature of the Chaldeans." ⁴ They were allotted a daily portion of food and wine from the king's table and were to be trained for three years, after which they were to enter the king's service.

⁵ Among these were young men of Judah: Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah, ⁷ whose names the chief eunuch changed – Daniel to Belteshazzar, Hananiah to Shadrach, Mishael to Meshach, and Azariah to Abednego.

Daniel refuses to eat unclean food

■ ⁶ As Daniel was resolved not to make himself unclean with the king's food or wine, he begged the chief eunuch to spare him this defilement. ⁹ By the grace of God, the chief eunuch had been sympathetic to Daniel, ¹⁰ but he was afraid of the king, and so he said, "If the king, who has allotted your food and drink, sees that you look more emaciated than the other young men of your age, he might think ill of me. It will put my life in danger to give into your wish."

¹¹ Daniel then turned to the steward whom the chief eunuch had put in charge of Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah. ¹² "Please test your servants for ten days. Give us only vegetables to eat and water to drink. ¹³ and see how we look in comparison with the young men who eat food from the king's table. Then treat us in accordance with what you see."

¹⁷ To these four youths God gave wisdom and proficiency in literature, and to Daniel the gift of interpreting visions and dreams.

¹⁸ At the end of the period set by the king for the youths' training, the chief eunuch presented them to Nebuchadnezzar. ¹⁹ The king talked with them and found none to equal Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah. These four became members of the king's court. ²⁰ In any matter of wisdom and discernment about which the king consulted, he found them ten times better than all the magicians, enchanters in his whole kingdom. ²¹ Daniel remained there until the first year of King Cyrus.

Nebuchadnezzar's dream

◆ 2 ¹ In the second year of Nebuchadnezzar's reign, he had a series of troubling dreams which rendered him sleepless. ² The king summoned magicians, enchanters, sorcerers and Chaldean diviners to interpret his dreams. When they arrived and stood in his presence, ³ the king

■ At times, the observance of the law seems difficult to believers, especially when they are living among those who do not share their faith. Are they no less free than their companions? This text declares that the divine commands are a source of life and strength for those who follow them.

Because of his faithfulness, Daniel will obtain the knowledge of divine things as he will demonstrate, over and above his human culture; this gift from God is obtained only through faithfulness and sacrifice.

◆ The Chaldean sages were mixing science with magic to become prestigious in the eyes of their compatriots, quite given to superstition. To say someone was Chaldean meant he was a sage, a magician or a wizard. Such practices were forbidden to the Jews according to the law of Moses (Dt 18:9).

Here the Chaldean magicians are ridiculed.

said, "I had a terrible dream and I want to know its meaning."

⁴ The Chaldeans answered in Aramaic, "Live forever, O King! Tell your servants the dream, and we will give you its meaning."

⁵ But the king replied, "You have to tell me the dream and interpret it too. That is my decision. If you won't do it, I will have you cut into pieces and your houses razed to the ground."

⁶ But if you can tell me the dream and its meaning, I will give you presents and reward you with great honor."

⁷ They insisted, "Let the king tell us his dream and we will explain what it means."

⁸ The king said, "You are only trying to gain time, for you know what I will surely do," that if you do not tell me my dream there is only one sentence for you. You have conspired to mislead me with a deceitful interpretation, hoping that times will change. But if you can show me that you have the ability to know what my dream is, I can be sure that you also have the power to understand its meaning."

¹² This made the king so furious that he ordered all the wise men of Babylon executed. ¹³ Upon issuance of the decree to put the wise men to death, a search was also made for Daniel and his companions to have them killed. ¹⁴ Daniel, however, talked prudently with Arioch, the commander of the king's guards who had gone out to kill the wise men. ¹⁵ "Why did the king issue such a harsh decree?" Daniel asked, and Arioch explained. ¹⁶ Daniel then went to the king and asked for the suspension of the execution to give him time to interpret the dream.

¹⁷ Daniel returned home and informed his companions Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah. ¹⁸ He asked them to implore God's mercy regarding this mystery, so that they would not perish with the rest of Babylon's wise men. ¹⁹ Then in a night vision, the mystery was revealed to Daniel. He blessed the God of heaven:

²⁰ Blessed be God's name forever and ever.

for his are wisdom and power.

²¹ He changes times and seasons;

He sets up and deposes kings.

He gives wisdom to the wise and knowledge to the discerning.

²² He reveals things deep and hidden;

he knows what lies in darkness;

for the light dwells with him.

²³ I give thanks and praise to you, O God of my fathers.

You have given me wisdom and power;

you have shown me what we asked for – you have made known to us the dream of the king.

²⁴ After this Daniel went to Arioch, the commander appointed by the king to execute the wise men of Babylon. Daniel said to him, "Do not execute the wise men yet. Bring me to the king, and I will interpret his dreams." ²⁵ At once Arioch took Daniel to the king and said, "Here is a man found among the Judean captives who says he can interpret the king's dream."

²⁶ The king asked Daniel, who had been named Beltheshazzar, "Can you tell me what my dream was and what it means?"

28. 2 Cor 2, 10

They claim to discover the future, but they are unable to say what the king's dream was before he relates it.

o Several writers of the time were thinking that history would bring a succession of four empires. Because they were pessimists, they can interpret the king's dream. ²⁸ But there is a God in heaven who reveals mysteries, and he was shown King Nebuchadnezzar what will happen in the future. I will tell you the dream and visions you had.

²⁹ As you lay in bed, O King, your thoughts turned to the future, and he who reveals mysteries showed you what is to happen. ³⁰ This mystery has been revealed to me not because I am wiser than anybody else but so that you may know what it means and what went on in your mind.

³⁶ That was the dream. Now the interpretation. ³⁷ You, O king, are king of kings, to whom the God of heaven has given dominion, strength, power and glory, ³⁸ and into whose hand he has placed mankind, the beasts of the field and the birds of the air, making you ruler over them. You are that head of gold.

³⁹ After you, another kingdom inferior to yours will rise. Then a third kingdom of bronze will rule the whole world. ⁴⁰ Last shall be a fourth kingdom strong as iron and just as iron breaks and crushes everything else, so will it break and smash all the others. ⁴¹ The partly-clay and partly-iron feet and toes mean that it will be a divided kingdom; yet it will have some of the strength of iron, just as you saw iron mixed with clay. ⁴² And as the toes were partly iron and partly clay, the kingdom will be partly strong and partly weak. ⁴³ Just as you saw the iron mixed with baked clay, the people will be a mixture but will not remain united, any more than iron mixes with clay.

⁴⁴ In the time of those kings the God of heaven will set up a kingdom never to be destroyed or delivered up to another people. It will crush all those kingdoms and put an end to them. And it will endure forever. ⁴⁵ This is the meaning of your vision of a rock cut from a mountain not by human hands, the rock which struck the statue and broke into pieces the iron, bronze, clay, silver and gold. The great God has shown the king what will happen in the future. The dream is true and its interpretation reliable."

⁴⁶ King Nebuchadnezzar fell prostrate before Daniel and ordered that oblation and incense be offered to him. ⁴⁷ The king said to Daniel, "Surely your God is the God of gods, the Lord of kings and the revealer of mysteries. That is why you were able to reveal this mystery."

thought that from the beginning of creation, things had taken a turn for the worse, and that it would continue to get worse. They would express this by placing the golden age at the start, and the iron age – the age of weapons – at the end.

In this book the four consecutive kingdoms are those of Nebuchadnezzar, the Medes, the Persians and that of Alexander of Macedonia, the conqueror (kingdom of iron). From the latter would come the Persian-Syrian rule which will be destroyed by an extraordinary intervention of God.

This is the lesson from the dream: Men alone cannot straighten out the history of people which is always getting worse. However, God will intervene and he will establish his own universal kingdom.

⁴⁸ The king gave Daniel a high position and showered gifts on him. He made him governor of the entire province of Babylon and in charge of all its wise men. ⁴⁹ At Daniel's request the king appointed Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego administrators of the province of Babylon, while Daniel himself remained at the king's court.

The golden statue

3 ¹ King Nebuchadnezzar had a golden statue, sixty cubits high and six cubits wide, erected on the plain of Dura in the province of Babylon. ² Then he summoned the satraps, prefects, governors, counselors, treasurers, judges, magistrates and all the other provincial officials to come for the dedication of the statue. ³ All those summoned came together for the dedication and stood before the statue set up by King Nebuchadnezzar. ⁴ There a herald proclaimed aloud, "Nations and peoples of every language, you are hereby commanded ⁵ to fall down and worship the golden statue as soon as you hear the music played on the horn, flute, zither, lyre, harp, pipes and all other instruments. ⁶ Whoever fails to do this will at once be thrown into a burning furnace." ⁷ At this command, all the people of every nation and language who heard the sound of music on the horn, flute, zither, lyre, harp, pipes and other instruments fell down and worshipped the statue set up by King Nebuchadnezzar.

The Jews: accused and condemned

+ ⁸ It was then that Chaldean diviners came to the king accusing the Jews. ⁹ They said to King Nebuchadnezzar, "Live forever, O king! ¹⁰ You issued a decree that upon hearing the sound of the horn, flute, zither, lyre, harp, pipes and other musical instruments, everyone must fall down and worship the golden statue, ¹¹ and whoever failed to do so was to be thrown into a burning furnace. ¹² There are some Jews, those whom you appointed administrators of Babylon: Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego, who gave no heed to your order. They would not serve your gods or worship the golden image you set up."

¹³ Nebuchadnezzar flew into a rage and summoned Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego, who were immediately brought before the king. ¹⁴ King Nebuchadnezzar questioned them, "Is it true, Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego, that you do not serve my gods or worship the golden statue I have set up? ¹⁵ If you hear now the sound of horn, flute, zither, lyre, harp, pipes and other instruments, will you fall down and worship the statue I made? If you won't, you know the punishment: you will immediately be thrown into a burning furnace. And then what god can deliver you out of my hands?"

¹⁶ Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego answered, "King Nebuchadnezzar, we need not defend ourselves before you on this matter. ¹⁷ If you order us to be thrown into the furnace, the God we serve will rescue us. ¹⁸ But even if he won't, we would like you to know, O king, that we are not going to

+ Being in the service of a pagan king involves some risks for a believing Jew. At times these kings act in an overpowering and whimsical way and they want to impose attitudes which are condemned by the Law of God. In such a case, a believer – even if he occupies a high position – will have to sacrifice his career and even his life, in order to remain faithful to his God.

In 3:7-18 Daniel indicates what should be the believer's attitude: rely on the help of God who can do all things; however, be aware that God is not obligated to work a miraculous salvation.

serve your gods or worship the golden statue you have set up."

¹⁹ Nebuchadnezzar's face reddened with fury as he looked at Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego. He ordered the furnace heated seven times hotter than usual ²⁰ and commanded some of his strongest soldiers to bind Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego and throw them into the burning furnace. ²¹ At once they were bound and thrown into the furnace, with their hats, shoes and garments on, ²² for the king's order was very urgent. So fierce was the fire in the furnace that it devoured even the men who threw Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego into it. ²³ The three, bound fast, fell into the midst of the blazing furnace.

²⁴ They walked in the midst of the flames, singing to God and praising the Lord. ²⁵ Azariah stood up in the midst of the fire and prayed aloud:

²⁶ Blessed and worthy of praise are you,
O Lord God of our fathers!
your name is glorious forever!

²⁷ Justice is in all that you do;
your acts are faultless, your ways are right,
your judgments always true.

■ ²⁸ You have indeed given a just sentence in bringing evil upon us and upon Jerusalem, the Holy City of our fathers. You have acted in accordance with truth and justice, as punishment for our sins.

²⁹ For we have sinned and acted perversely by deserting you. We have sinned gravely in everything and have not listened to your commandments. ³⁰ We have not observed them, and we have not fulfilled everything you commanded us for our good.

³¹ All the evils you have brought upon us, all that you have done to us, you have done according to your just sentence.

³² You have given us into the hands of our enemies, lawless people, the worst of the impious, into the hands of an unjust king, the most perverse in all the world.

³³ And today, we cannot even open our mouths; shame and humiliation have overcome those who serve and worship you.

³⁴ Do not abandon us forever, do not reject your covenant for your Name's sake.

³⁵ Do not withdraw your mercy from us, for the sake of Abraham, your friend, of Isaac, your servant, of Israel, your holy one, ³⁶ to whom you promised to multiply their race as the stars of heaven and the sand on the shore of the sea.

³⁷ Lord, see, we have become the least among the nations in all the world, and we are humiliated because of our sins.

³⁸ At this time, we no longer have a king, or a prophet, or a leader. We cannot offer you holocausts, sacrifices, offerings, or incense. We have no place to present to you the first-fruits of our crops, and so obtain your favour.

³⁹ But at least when we present ourselves with a contrite soul and humbled spirit may we then be acceptable to you. ⁴⁰ more than by offerings of rams and calves as holocausts, and of thousands of fat lambs.

May this sacrifice of ours today obtain for us your favour for we know that those who trust in you shall never be disappointed.

⁴¹ And now, we serve you with our whole heart, we fear you and we seek your face. ⁴² Do not leave us in our humiliation, but treat us according to your kindness and your great mercy. ⁴³ Free us in keeping with your wonders, and give us the glory of your Name, Lord.

⁴⁴ Let those who maltreat your servants be confounded, may they be covered with shame and deprived of all their power. Crush their strength, ⁴⁵ and let them know that you alone are God and Lord, glorious over all the earth."

The faults of those who do not know the true God are emphasized: they worship dead things. Gold takes the place of a god (a 30 meter statue would cost a fortune, but it is absolutely lifeless). These gods are speechless and lifeless, and yet, intelligent men kneel before them. Differently from the living God who hears his faithful people and saves them, idols do not know those who worship them and they cannot help them (the flames of the fire kill the Chaldean soldiers).

■ Daniel's prayer teaches the persecuted Jews what they must say to God: "Lord, remember your promises and forget our sins. Have compassion on your humiliated people and come to save us."

Even though God works a miracle in this story, history records that many martyrs did not escape death. According to the Letter to the Hebrews 11:39, those martyrs were not granted to see the fulfilment of God's promises: God them into the furnace did not stop kindling the fire with oil, tar, tow and vine shoots,⁴⁷ so that the flames rose up to about twenty-five metres above the furnace⁴⁸ and extending out, burnt the Chaldeans who were standing around.

⁴⁹ But the angel of the Lord came down into the furnace beside Azariah and his companions; he drove the flames of the fire outside the furnace, and blew upon them,⁵⁰ in the middle of the furnace, a coolness like that of wind and dew, so that the fire did not touch them or cause them pain or trouble them.

⁵¹ Then the three began singing together, glorifying and blessing God within the furnace, and saying:

⁵² "Blessed are you, Lord, God of our fathers, be praised and exalted for ever.

Blessed is your holy and glorious name, sung and exalted for ever.

⁵³ Blessed are you in the temple of your sacred glory, sung and praised for ever.

⁵⁴ Blessed are you on the throne of your kingdom, sung and glorified for ever.

⁵⁵ Blessed are you who fathom the depths, who are enthroned on the cherubim, praised and exalted for ever.

⁵⁶ Blessed are you in the firmament of heaven, praised and glorified for ever.

⁵⁷ All the works of the Lord, bless him, praise him, exalt him for ever.

⁵⁸ Angels of the Lord, bless him, praise and glorify him for ever.

⁵⁹ Heavens, bless the Lord, praise and exalt him for ever.

⁶⁰ All the waters above the heavens, bless the Lord, praise and exalt him for ever.

⁶¹ All the powers of the Lord, bless the Lord, praise and exalt him for ever.

⁶² Sun and moon, praise and exalt him for ever. ⁶³ Stars of heaven, praise and exalt him for ever.

⁶⁴ Rain and dew, praise and exalt him for ever. ⁶⁵ All winds, praise and exalt him for ever.

⁶⁶ Fire and heat, praise and exalt him for ever. ⁶⁷ Cold and frost, praise and exalt him for ever.

⁶⁸ Dew and frost, praise and exalt him for ever. ⁶⁹ Ice and cold, praise and exalt him for ever.

⁷⁰ Frost and snow, praise and exalt him for ever. ⁷¹ Days and nights, praise and exalt him for ever.

⁷² Light and darkness, praise and exalt him for ever. ⁷³ Lightnings and clouds, praise and exalt him for ever.

⁷⁴ Earth, praise and exalt him for ever.

⁷⁵ Mountains and hills, praise and exalt him for ever.

⁷⁶ Everything that sprouts on the earth, praise and exalt him for ever.

⁷⁷ Springs of water, praise and exalt him for ever. ⁷⁸ Seas and rivers, praise and exalt him for ever.

⁷⁹ Whales and fishes, praise and exalt him for ever. ⁸⁰ All the birds of heaven, praise and exalt him for ever.

⁸¹ Animals wild and tame, praise and exalt him for ever. ⁸² Sons of men, praise and exalt him for ever.

⁸³ Israel, praise and exalt him for ever.

⁸⁴ Priests of the Lord, praise and exalt him for ever. ⁸⁵ Servants of the Lord, praise and exalt him for ever.

⁸⁶ Spirits and souls of the just, praise and exalt him for ever.

⁸⁷ Holy men and humble of heart, praise and exalt him for ever.

⁸⁸ Ananiah, Azariah, Mishael, bless the Lord, praise and exalt him for ever.

For he has taken us out from the nether-world, he has saved us from the hands of death, freed us from the furnace of burning flames and rescued us from the midst of the fire.

⁸⁹ Give thanks to the Lord, for he is good, for his mercy is everlasting.

⁹⁰ All who worship the Lord, bless the God of gods, praise and acknowledge him for his mercy is everlasting."

⁹¹ Then King Nebuchadnezzar suddenly rose up in great amazement and asked his counsellors, "Did we not throw three men bound into the fire?" They answered, "Certainly."

⁹² The king said, "But I can see four men walking about freely through the fire without suffering any harm, and the fourth looks like a son of the gods."

⁹³ Nebuchadnezzar approached the mouth of the blazing furnace and said, "Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego, servants of the Most High God, come out and come here." So they came out from the midst of the fire.

preserved them for a better destiny after their death. And so, Daniel is like the model of the believers when, in certain circumstances, they find themselves alone before a hostile crowd or tyrannical power. Daniel refuses to do what God condemns.

⁹⁶ Nebuchadnezzar exclaimed, "Blessed be the God of Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego who sent his angel to free his servants who, trusting in him, disobeyed the king's order and preferred to give their bodies to the fire rather than serve and worship any other god but their God.

⁹⁷ I give this command, therefore: From every race, nation and language, anyone who speaks irreverently of the God of Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego shall be cut into pieces and his house shall be destroyed, for there is no other god who can save like this."

⁹⁸ And the king promoted Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego in the province of Babylon.

Nebuchadnezzar's dream and insanity

⁹⁹ Nebuchadnezzar, the king, to all peoples, all nations and to all men on the earth whatever be their language: Peace. ¹⁰⁰ It pleases me to make known to you the signs and wonders the Most High God has done in me.

¹⁰¹ How great are his signs,

how mighty his wonders!

His kingdom is an everlasting kingdom,
his dominion lasts for all generations.

4 ¹ I, Nebuchadnezzar, was at peace in my house and content in my palace when I had a dream which appalled me. ² The nightmares I had as I lay in bed, and the visions that passed through my mind tormented me. ³ So I summoned all the wise men of Babylon that they might explain to me what the dream meant.

⁴ The wise men, seers and astrologers came, and I recounted the dream to them, but they could not explain it to me. ⁵ So Daniel came in before me – he was renamed Belteshazzar after the name of my god, for in him dwells the spirit of the Holy God. I told him my dream in this way: ⁶ Belteshazzar, chief of the wise men, I know that you have the spirit of the Holy God and that no mystery is ever difficult for you, examine the dream I have had and explain it to me.

⁷ These were my dreams as I lay in bed. There was a tree at the center of the world; it was very tall.

⁸ The tree grew, it became big and reached up to heaven, and its branches could be seen from the ends of the earth.

⁹ Its leaves were beautiful, its fruits abundant, there was food for all in it. Animals of the field found refuge in its shade, the birds of heaven nested in its branches and all living things fed on it.

¹⁰ I was looking at this interior vision when a watchful one, a holy one, came down from heaven.

¹¹ He cried in a loud voice: Cut the tree down, cut off its branches, strip off its leaves and throw away its fruits. Let the beasts flee from under it and the birds as well. ¹² But leave in the earth the stump and the roots bound with iron and bronze bands, in the grass of the field.

Let him be drenched with the dew of heaven, let him share the grass of the earth with the animals. ¹³ Let his heart cease from being human, and let a beast's heart be given him and pass over him seven times.

¹⁴ This is the sentence given by the watchful ones, the question settled by the holy ones, so that every living thing may know that the Most High is higher than any human authority. He confers power on whom he pleases and raises the most humble of men.

¹⁵ This was the dream I had, I, King Nebuchadnezzar. You, Belteshazzar, explain it to me, since not one of the wise men in my kingdom has been able to interpret it for me. But you can, for the spirit of the Holy God dwells in you.

¹⁶ Then Daniel, renamed Belteshazzar, was stunned for a while and looked very much upset. The king said, "Belteshazzar, what is in that dream or in its interpretation that upsets you so?" Belteshazzar answered, ¹⁷ "My lord, may this dream be meant for your enemies and its content refer to your foes!"

²⁰ Now, regarding what the king has seen: a watchful one, a holy one, who came down from heaven and said: Cut the tree down, destroy it, but leave the stump and the roots in the ground with bands of iron and bronze, in the grass of the field; let him be drenched with the dew of heaven, and share the lot of the animals of the field until they have passed over him seven times. ²¹ Now I shall explain it to you:

This is the decree of the Most High regarding the king, my lord. ²² You shall be driven out from among men and live with the beasts of the field. You shall eat grass like the oxen, and be drenched by the dew of heaven. Seven times shall pass over you until you acknowledge that the Most High is higher than any human authority, and that he gives the power to whom he pleases.

²³ The order to leave the stump and the roots means that you shall recover your kingdom when you have acknowledged that all power comes from heaven. ²⁴ May it then please the king to accept my advice: wipe out your sins with works of justice, and your iniquities by showing mercy to the poor; then perhaps you may lengthen your prosperity."

²⁵ All this happened to King Nebuchadnezzar. ²⁶ Twelve months later, while walking on the roof of the royal palace in Babylon, ²⁷ the king said, "Is this not the great Babylon I built with the strength of my own power as my royal residence, and for the glory of my majesty?"

²⁸ These words were still in the mouth of the king when a voice came down from heaven:

"King Nebuchadnezzar, I speak to you: your empire is finished.

²⁹ You shall be driven from among men, and live with the animals of the field; you shall eat grass like oxen and seven times shall pass over you until you acknowledge that the Most High disposes of the power among men and gives it whom he pleases."

³⁰ These words were fulfilled at once. Nebuchadnezzar was driven from among men, he fed on grass like oxen, his body was drenched with the dew of heaven, until his hair grew like the feathers of an eagle and his nails like the claws of a bird.

³¹ At the end of this time, I, Nebuchadnezzar, lifted up my eyes to heaven and my reason returned to me; so I blessed the Most High:

Blessed and glorified is he who lives for ever, whose dominion is everlasting and whose kingdom lasts through all generations.

³² All the inhabitants of the earth are before him as if they were nothing. He does as he pleases with the army of heaven and the inhabitants of the earth. No one can stop his hand or ask him to render an account.

³³ At that moment, I regained my reason, I recovered my throne and again began to govern, for the glory of my kingdom. My counselors and my noblemen acclaimed me, they restored me to my throne and I was given still greater power.

³⁴ So now, I, Nebuchadnezzar, praise, exalt and glorify the King of Heaven. For all his works are true, and his ways are all just; he knows how to humble those who walk in pride.

The banquet of Belshazzar

5 ¹ King Belshazzar gave a great banquet for his nobles, a thousand of them attended and he drank wine with them. ² Under the influence of wine, he ordered that the gold and silver vessels his father Nebuchadnezzar had taken from the temple in Jerusalem be brought in so that he and his nobles, his wives and concubines might drink from them. ³ The gold and silver vessels taken from God's temple were brought in, and the king and his nobles, his wives and concubines drank from them. ⁴ While they drank wine, they praised the gods of gold and silver, of bronze and iron, of wood and stone.

⁵ Suddenly a man's fingers appeared opposite the lampstand and wrote on the plastered wall of the king's palace. Watching the hand as it wrote, the king turned pale. ⁶ So terrified was he that his knees knocked and his legs gave way.

⁷ He shouted, calling for his enchanters and Chaldean diviners.

◆ This story could be called: the punishment for the sacrileges. These words indicate the destiny of those who make fun of God:

- there comes an end which they cannot postpone;
- the fact that they did not do anything worthwhile during their lives is made clear;
- they disappear and so do their works with them.

The Bible knows that God reveals himself not only in events showing his goodness, but also in other events that are obvious signs that there is a God doing justice. Many times, those who mock God are hit by misfortunes which come as an answer to their insolence.

The author of these chapters is not too concerned with the historical reality of the time during which these people were living. Cyrus is the one who conquered Babylon. Belshazzar died and was followed by Darius.

"Whoever reads this writing and tells me its meaning," said he to the wise men of Babylon, "will be clothed in purple, wear a gold chain around his neck, and be made the third highest ruler in my kingdom."

¹⁰ Hearing the troubled voices of the king and his nobles, the queen entered the banquet hall and said, "Live forever, O king! Do not be alarmed and become pale. ¹¹ In your kingdom is a man who has the spirit of the holy gods. He was found to have discernment and god-like wisdom during your father's lifetime. He was in fact appointed chief of the magicians, enchanters and diviners by your father King Nebuchadnezzar. ¹² This man Daniel, whom the king called Beltheshazzar, knew how to interpret dreams, explain riddles and solve difficult problems. Call for Daniel and he will tell you what the writing means."

¹³ Daniel was brought in and questioned by the king. "Are you Daniel, one of the exiles my father brought from Judah?" ¹⁴ I have heard that you have the spirit of the gods that you have insight and extraordinary wisdom. ¹⁵ Wise men and enchanters were brought here, but none of them could read this writing and tell its meaning. ¹⁶ I have heard that you can interpret dreams and solve problems. If you can read this writing and tell me what it means, you will be clothed in purple, wear a gold chain around your neck, and be appointed third in rank in my kingdom."

¹⁷ Daniel replied, "You may keep your gifts or give them to someone else. Just the same I will read and interpret the writing for you. ¹⁸ God the Most High gave your father Nebuchadnezzar sovereignty and a great kingdom. ¹⁹ Because of the greatness given him by God, he was feared by nations and peoples of every language. He had the power of life and death over everyone. He exalted or humbled whomsoever he wished.

²⁰ But when he became arrogant and insolent, he was deposed and stripped of his glory. ²¹ He became an outcast and as senseless as a beast. He lived with wild asses, ate grass like cattle and his body was drenched with the dew of heaven, until he acknowledged that God the Most High rules over the kingdom of men and appoints whom he pleases to govern it. ²² But you his son Belshazzar, although you knew all this, have not humbled yourself. ²³ You have defied the Lord of heaven. You had the vessels from his temple brought to you, and together with your nobles, your wives and concubines, you drank wine from them. You praised the idols made of silver and gold, of bronze, iron and stones, which neither see nor hear nor understand; but you never glorified God who has power over your life and all your fortunes. ²⁴ So he sent the hand that wrote the inscription ²⁵ which read MENE, MENE, TEKEL, PARSIN. And these words mean: ²⁶ MENE, God has numbered the days of your reign and put an end to it; ²⁷ TEKEL, you have been weighed on the scales and found wanting; ²⁸ PARSIN, your kingdom has been divided and given to the Medes and the Persians."

²⁹ On Belshazzar's order, Daniel was clothed in purple, given a gold chain to wear around his neck, and proclaimed the third highest ruler in the kingdom. ³⁰ That very night, however, the Chaldean king Belshazzar was slain.

6 ¹ Darius the Mede, at the age of sixty-two, took over the kingdom.

Daniel is thrown into the lion's den

² Darius appointed one hundred and twenty satraps throughout the whole kingdom.

They were made accountable to three administrators, one of whom was Daniel. This was to ensure that no loss or harm should come to the king. ³ Because of the extraordinary spirit residing in him, Daniel excelled above all the other administrators and satraps, so that the king planned to give him authority over the entire kingdom. ⁴ This provoked envy among the administrators and satraps, who tried to find grounds for filing charges against Daniel as regards his performance of official duties. But he was so trustworthy that neither corruption nor negligence could be found in him. ⁵ Finally the men decided: "We will never find any grounds for charges against this man Daniel except in something that has to do with the law of his God."

⁶ These administrators and satraps, therefore, went as a group to the king and said to him, "Live forever, O King Darius! ⁷ The administrators of the kingdom, the prefects, satraps, counselors and governors are all agreed that the king should issue and enforce a decree that anyone who prays and makes petition to any god or man within the next thirty days, except to you, O king, shall be thrown into the lions' den. ⁸ And now, O king, put the decree in writing and have it signed at once, so that it cannot be altered or annulled, in accordance with Medo-Persian laws. ⁹ King Darius put in writing and signed the prohibition, thus making it a law."

¹⁰ Daniel heard about the new law, but just as usual, he returned home and prayed three times a day, giving thanks to his God, in his room upstairs with the windows opened towards Jerusalem. ¹¹ There the men spying on him found Daniel kneeling in prayer and asking God for help. ¹² So they went to the king and reminded him about the prohibition, "O king, did you not publish a decree that anyone who prays or makes petition to any god or man except to you would be thrown into the lion's den?"

The king answered, "Yes, and the decree stands, in accordance with Medo-Persian laws which cannot be altered or annulled."

¹³ Then they said, "But the Jewish exile Daniel pays no attention to you and to your decree. Three times a day he still prays to some god other than you."

¹⁴ Greatly aggrieved at what he heard, the king decided to help Daniel. He made every effort till sundown to save him.

¹⁵ But the men kept coming to him and insisting, "Remember, O king, that under the Medo-Persian laws every decree or prohibition issued by the king is irrevocable."

¹⁶ The king, therefore, could not help giving the order that Daniel be brought and thrown into the lions' den. The king said to Daniel, "May your God, whom you serve faithfully, save you."

¹⁷ A stone was placed at the mouth of the den, and the king sealed it with his own signet ring and with that of his nobles, so that Daniel's situation might remain unchanged. ¹⁸ Then the king returned to his palace and spent a sleepless night, refusing food and entertainment. ¹⁹ Very early next morning, he rose and hurried to the lions' den. ²⁰ As he came near he called in an anguished voice, "Daniel, servant of the living God, did your God whom you serve faithfully save you from the lions?"

²¹ Daniel answered, "Live forever, O king! ²² My God sent his angel who closed the lions' mouths so that they did not hurt me. God did that because I am innocent in his sight. Neither have I wronged you, O king."

²³ The king felt very glad and ordered Daniel released from the lions' den. No wound was found on him for he had trusted in his God. ²⁴ At the king's order, the men who had accused Daniel were thrown into the lions' den, together with their wives and children. No sooner had they reached the floor of the den than the lions lunged at them and tore them to pieces.

²⁵ King Darius wrote to the nations, to peoples of every language, "Peace to you all! ²⁶ I decree that throughout my kingdom people should reverence and fear the god of Daniel."

"For he is the living God,
and forever he endures;
his kingdom will not be crushed,
his dominion will never cease."

²⁷ He rescues and he delivers;
he performs signs and wonders both in heaven and on earth.
And he came to Daniel's rescue saving him from the lions' tooth and claw."

²⁸ Daniel greatly prospered during the reign of Darius and the reign of Cyrus the Persian.

Vision of the four empires

7 ¹ In the first year of the reign of King Belshazzar of Babylon, Daniel had a dream and visions in his mind as he was sleeping. When he woke up, he wrote down the dream. This is how the narrative began:

² Daniel said, "I saw the following in my vision: the four winds of heaven stirred up the great sea,³ and four great beasts each one different from the other, came out of the sea.

⁴The first was like a lion with eagle's wings. As I looked at it, its wings were torn off. It was lifted up from the ground stood up on its feet like a man, and was given a human heart. ⁵The second was a beast like a bear; it was raised up on one side and had three ribs in its mouth between its teeth. It was told: Go and devour much flesh. ⁶I went on looking and saw another beast like a leopard with four wings on its back; it had four heads and dominion was given to it.

⁷I continued seeing my visions of the night and saw a terrible fourth beast. It was fearful and extraordinarily strong; it had great iron teeth; it ate, tore into pieces, and crushed underfoot whatever remained. It was different from the previous beasts and had ten horns. ⁸I was looking at the horns, when another small horn sprang among them, and three of the first horns were pulled out by the root to make way for the new. It had eyes like human eyes and a mouth that uttered insolent words.

The son of man

+ ⁹I looked and saw the following:

Some thrones were set in place and One of Great Age took his seat. His robe was white as snow, his hair white as washed wool. His throne was flames of fire with wheels of blazing fire. ¹⁰A river of fire sprang forth and flowed before him. Thousands upon thousands served him and a countless multitude stood before him.

Those in the tribunal took their seats and opened the book. ¹¹But as I remembered the haughty words of the horn with human eyes and mouth which I had seen before, this animal was killed before my eyes, and its body destroyed and cast into the fire. ¹²Domination was taken from the other animals, though they were allowed to stay alive for a time, until the fixed time.

¹³I continued watching the nocturnal vision:

One like a son of man came on the clouds of heaven. He faced the One of Great Age and was brought into his presence.

¹⁴Domination, honour and kingship were given him, and all the peo-

+The following detailed vision has the same content and the same meaning as the vision of Nebuchadnezzar's statue (chapter 2).

The four empires which dominated the Jewish nation until the time of the great persecution are shown symbolized by beasts. Verses 23-25 specify that the fourth beast is the Syrian empire and the horn that insults God, is king Antiochus Epiphanes. Just as in 2:34 and 44, an intervention by God is announced: it will put an end to the power of the persecutor and establish God's kingdom. Here in 7:11 and 7:26 the judgment on the persecutor is announced. In 2:34 the stone suggested God's power. Here, in 7:13, the son of man represents the people of Israel, he is the servant of God, present in God's plans from the beginning of the world and he receives power over all the nations: 7:27. in due time.

It would be a mistake to look for the events of Jesus' time in this paragraph, as some people did. It is even less applicable to our time as if we were the center of everything. The author who writes in the worst moment of the persecution of the Maccabees' time, is announcing the end of the persecution of Antiochus (1 Mc 5:55-60) as well as the coming of the Kingdom of God. This way of combining in the same description a close happening – as being a great liberation – and the ultimate liberation which will take place at the end of our history, is something typical of the prophetic books. Jesus did the same thing in speaking about the end of Jerusalem (Mk 13).

On the clouds of heaven: the cloud is the sign of the divine presence.

The One of Great Age: this refers to God, and the white hair is a sign of his majesty. Let us not forget that, in fact, God is ageless and he is in a unique moment, an ever present now.

A son of man, namely, a man (13): at first, this mysterious person referred to the whole people of God (v. 27). But, if God wanted to give his Kingdom to men, he would, in fact, give it to ples and nations of every language served him. His dominion is eternal and shall never pass away; his kingdom will never be destroyed.

¹⁵ I, Daniel, was deeply troubled, since these visions terrified me. ¹⁶ I approached one of those who were standing there, and asked him to tell me what all this meant. He answered me and gave me the interpretation of these things:

¹⁹ Then I wanted to know the meaning of the fourth beast, different from the others, extraordinarily terrifying, with iron teeth and bronze claws, that ate, tore into pieces and crushed underfoot whatever remained. ²⁰ I also wanted to know about the ten horns it had on its head, and about the other horn which had sprung up, and the three first horns that fell, and about this horn with eyes and a mouth that spoke with arrogance, and that looked greater than the other horns.

²¹ As I looked, this horn waged war against the holy ones and was subduing them ²² until the One of Great Age came to do justice for the holy ones of the Most High, and the time came for the holy ones to take possession of the kingdom.

²³ Then I was told:

■ "The fourth animal shall be a fourth kingdom on earth, different from all the kingdoms. It will devour the earth, crush it and destroy it.

²⁴ The ten horns are ten kings who shall rise from this kingdom. Another one will rise up after them and destroy three kings.

personal way to the one who is the model, the saviour and the head of all men and of all humankind, Jesus is the Man (Jn 19:5), or, to follow the Jewish way of speaking, the son of man.

The son of man comes from the divine clouds, and so Jesus applied the prophecy to himself to point to his divine origin when his accusers were seeing him in the weakness of the human condition (Mt 26:64).

■ The Jews of the year 170-160 could not be mistaken about this hidden reference to king Antiochus, the king who will destroy three kings, insult the Most High and persecute the holy ones.

A time, two times and half a time means three and a half. In those days, this was a figurative way to indicate times of evil (three and a half is half seven, which is the perfect number).

²⁵ This king shall insult the Most High and persecute the holy ones of the Most High. He shall try to change the feasts and the laws. The holy ones shall be handed over to his power for a time, two times, and half a time.

²⁶ But judgment will come and domination will be taken from him; he shall be destroyed, utterly wiped out. ²⁷ The kingship, domination and leadership of all the kingdoms of the world shall be given to the people of the holy ones of God Most High: his kingdom will be without end. All the kingdoms shall serve him and be subject to him."

²⁸ Here ends the narrative. I, Daniel, was greatly disturbed in my thoughts, I grew pale and I kept these things in my heart.

Another vision about King Antiochus

⁵ As I was thinking, a he-goat came from the west, as if flying above the entire earth without touching the ground; it had a great horn between its eyes. ⁶ It approached the ram with the two horns which I had seen by the river, and it ran towards the ram with all the fury of its strength. ⁷ I saw how it reached the ram and directed itself against it; it charged the ram and broke its two horns, and the ram was unable to resist. It cast it down to the ground

The holy ones are those chosen by God to be his people. Ever since Moses, the Jewish people were conscious of being a holy people because they were consecrated to the Holy God.

But from the time of Daniel on, "the holy ones" come to designate the new people of God who will start with the Messiah. The first Christians were conscious of being this new people of God and so, they called themselves "the holy ones" (see Acts 9:32).

◆ The same message is repeated in the following chapters. God will come at the most critical moment of the persecution. We only have more details to assure the Jews that all the events they are witnessing are already known to God ahead of time: while the events are taking place, God has already appointed the time when he will come to save.

¹³ Then I heard a holy one speaking and another who asked him in return. "When shall the vision be fulfilled? What about the perpetual offering, the Abomination of the devastator, the sanctuary handed over and the army trampled underfoot?" ¹⁴ He answered, "Until two thousand three hundred evenings and mornings have gone by, then the Temple shall be restored."

¹⁵ As I, Daniel, looked at this vision and tried to understand it, I suddenly saw before me someone like a man, ¹⁶ and I heard a human voice over the river Ulai, that cried out to him: "Gabriel, explain the vision to this man."

¹⁷ He approached the place where I was. When he came, I was terrified and fell on my face. He said to me, "Son of man, understand: this vision refers to the end-time." ¹⁸ As he spoke, I lost consciousness and fell face down on the ground. He touched me and raised me to my feet. ¹⁹ Then he said, "See, I will reveal to you what is going to happen when the wrath comes to an end, for the end is set."

²⁰ The ram you have seen, with its two horns, stands for the two kings of the Medes and the Persians. ²¹ The hairy he-goat is the king of Greece; the great horn between its eyes is the first of its kings; this horn snapped, ²² and the four horns that sprang up in its place are the four kingdoms that will rise from his nation, but will not overpower him.

Whatever he undertakes shall prosper; he shall destroy the powerful and the very people of the holy ones. ²⁵ He shall carry out his deceptions, will be believed in by many and, in the fullness of peace, shall destroy many. He shall even rise against the Prince of princes, but he shall be destroyed without the intervention of any human hand.

²⁶ What I said of the vision of the mornings and evenings is true, but keep the vision secret, for it will be fulfilled only in the remote future."

²⁷ I, Daniel, fainted and was sick for several days. Then I got up to attend to the king's affairs. I remained frightened because of the visions and did not understand it.

The prayer of Daniel

9 ¹ In the first year of the reign of Darius, son of Ahasuerus, of the Median race, who was king of Chaldea, the following happened:

² I, Daniel, thought about the number of years, according to the scriptures before Jerusalem should be left in ruins. Yahweh spoke of seventy years to the prophet Jeremiah. ³ I turned to the Lord and begged him. I pleaded with prayers and fasting. I did penance, I put on sackcloth and sat on ashes.

o Daniel is reflecting about Jeremiah's prophecy (25:1) about the seventy years of exile of the Jews in Babylon. The angel Gabriel gives him another message referring to seventy weeks. This message is one of the most famous prophecies in the book of Daniel.

+ Gabriel begins by saying enigmatic things (v.24) and then, he explains.

To put an end to transgression, to put sin under lock, to wipe out the offence, and to bring everlasting justice. So, the coming of the kingdom of God is clearly announced. A most Holy One will be anointed: this refers to the most holy place, namely, the Temple. After being prolained by the pagan conquerors, it will be renewed to become the definitive dwelling place of God in the midst of his people.

Now Gabriel himself provides an explanation: all of this will happen soon. The seventy weeks are a symbolic number of weeks of years, and cannot be taken literally except for the first seven weeks; these refer to the time between the destruction of Jerusalem in 587 and the decree of liberation by Cyrus – called the Anointed of God in Is 45 – in 538.

Then comes an indefinite period represented by sixty-two weeks (of years) bringing us to the beginning of Antiochus' persecution in 171. That year the high priest, Onias, was murdered:

⁴ I prayed to Yahweh, my God, and made this confession: "Lord God, great and to be feared, you keep your Covenant and love for those who love and you observe your commandments. ⁵ We have sinned, we have not been just, we have been rebels, and have turned away from your commandments and laws. ⁶ We have not listened to your servants, the prophets, who spoke in your name to our kings, leaders, fathers and to all the people of the land.

¹¹ All Israel has broken your law and has turned away from it rather than listen to your voice. Therefore, the curse and the threats written in the Law of Moses, the servant of God, have come upon us because we have sinned against him. ¹² He has carried out the threats he pronounced against us and against those who governed us: he brought a terrible calamity upon us. No, never could there be anything worse than what has come upon Jerusalem.

¹³ All these disasters have struck us with dread as it was written in the Law of Moses, but we have not tried to calm the anger of Yahweh, our God. We have not turned away from our sins and learned to listen to your truth. ¹⁴ Yahweh made true his threat and brought this calamity upon us, for Yahweh, our God, is just in all his works, while we have not obeyed his voice.

¹⁵ And now, O Lord our God, who brought your people out of Egypt by your powerful hand and gained renown to this day, we have sinned, we have been unfaithful. ¹⁶ Lord, in keeping with your kindness, turn away your anger and wrath from Jerusalem, your city, your holy mountain, for because of our sins and the wickedness of our fathers, Jerusalem and your people are the laughing stock of all around us.

¹⁷ So now, our God, listen to the prayer and pleading of your servant and, for your own sake, let your face shine upon your desolate sanctuary. ¹⁸ My God, incline your ear and listen. Open your eyes and see how the city lies in ruins, the city upon which your Name has been pronounced. We do not rely on our good works, but we pour out our plea before you, trusting in your great mercy.

¹⁹ Listen, Lord! Lord, forgive! Pay attention to us, Lord! Act, my God, and do not delay for your own sake, since your city and your people are called by your name."

The prophecy of the seventy weeks

an anointed one will be cut off. After that, the persecutor put an end to worship in the Jerusalem Temple and he even built an altar dedicated to Baal Shamem on the altar of holocausts: this is the Abominable Idol of the devastator. This is the first week of persecution during which the prophecy was written: a victorious intervention of God is announced for the end of the week.

The divine intervention revealed itself in the unexpected peace which the Jews obtained at that time (1 Mc 6:55). However, this was not the coming of God's kingdom, but only a sign of it. What was announced about everlasting justice will only be fulfilled in Christ.

In any case the numbers presented by the author refer to the era of the Maccabees. If the end of history did not take place then, it is useless to manipulate the numbers to figure out when that would be: God did not wish to reveal it (Mk 13:32).

At the end of the last century the founder of the Jehovah's Witnesses built up his whole interpretation of the Bible on this prophecy of Daniel. His extravagant figuring was meant to prove that, after the kingdom of God in Israel, with David and Solomon, concluded in Daniel's days, the new kingdom of God began and it would end in 1914 with the end of the world. When that did not happen, they corrected their figures.

This is not the place to argue about these theories. It is enough to note that for them the two key dates of salvation were the destruction of Jerusalem in the 6th century before Christ and the year 1914. For them the coming of Jesus, his death and resurrection, were not important for the coming of the kingdom of God. This shows the error of those who rely on difficult biblical texts to question the surest truths, instead of starting with the most solid ²¹ At that moment, Gabriel whom I had seen at the beginning of the vision, came to me, flying, ²² and he said to me, "Daniel, I have come now to make you understand. ²³ As you were praying, a word was uttered and I have come to teach it to you because God loves you. Pay attention to this word and understand the vision:

²⁴ Seventy weeks are set for your people and your holy city, to put an end to transgression, to put sin under lock, to wipe out the offence, and to bring everlasting justice, so that the visions and the prophecies will be fulfilled and the Holy of Holies be anointed.

²⁵ Understand this, then:

From the time the order to rebuild Jerusalem was given until an anointed leader comes, there shall be seventy weeks.

Then in sixty-two weeks squares and walls will be rebuilt, but in a difficult time.

²⁶ After the sixty-two weeks, an anointed one will be cut off; the city and the temple shall be destroyed by the people of a king who will come. They will be carried along as by a flood. Until the end, there will be wars and disasters which God has decreed.

²⁷ He will impose his law on a great part of the people for a week. By mid-week, he will put a stop to the sacrifices and offerings. The devastator shall place the abominable idol in the Temple until the ruin decreed by God comes upon the devastator.

History of the time of the Maccabees:
a symbolic narrative

10 ¹ In the third year of the reign of Cyrus, king of Persia, God gave a message to Daniel, renamed Belteshazzar. This message spoke of fidelity and great anguish. Daniel paid attention to these words and to the following vision:

² At that time, I, Daniel, was mourning for three weeks. ³ I ate no rich food, took no meat or wine, and did not perfume myself for three weeks.

⁷ I, Daniel, alone saw this vision; the men who were with me did not see it, but they were seized with great fear and they fled to hide. ⁸ So I was left alone gazing on this vision. I was powerless. The appearance of my face changed fearfully, and I retained absolutely no strength. ⁹ I heard the sound of his words, and when I heard it, I fainted face down to the ground. ¹⁰ Then a hand touched me, and set me trembling on my hands and knees.

¹¹ He said to me, "Daniel, man loved by God, pay attention to the words I shall say to you and stand up, for I have been sent to you now." When I heard these words I stood up trembling.

¹² Then he said to me, "Daniel, do not be afraid, for from that first day when you resolved to acquire understanding and to humble yourself before your God, your supplications were heard, and it is precisely because of this that I have come.

¹³ The prince of the Persian kingdom has resisted me for twenty-one days, but Michael, one of the leading angels, has come to my assistance. I left him there with the kings of Persia, ¹⁴ and I have come to tell you what will happen to your people in the days to come. For this new vision too refers to those days.

■ All the events mentioned in chapters 10-11 were past events for the author: the same events which are related in the second book of Maccabees. Here, however, they are related as if a certain Daniel had announced them four centuries ahead of time. This is nothing more than a stylistic device. In fact, all that matters to the author is the conclusion of the story which we explain in 12:3. The author wants to teach his persecuted contemporaries who have just gone through these events that their hardships were leading to the coming of the kingdom of God soon and to the day of resurrection.

conspiracies have been plotted against him.²⁶ Those who ate from his table will ruin him, his army will be disbanded and many will fall dead by the sword.

²⁷ The two kings will not think of anything but to do harm and to deceive each other while sitting at the same table. But they will not accomplish anything, since there is still time before the appointed moment.

³⁰ The ships of Kittim will come against him and he will have to abandon his plan, but he will vent his anger against the Holy Covenant, and will again favour those who have turned away from the Holy Covenant.³¹ He will send some of his forces to profane the citadel sanctuary, to suppress the perpetual sacrifice and there to set up the Abominable Idol of the devastator.³² He will corrupt with flatteries those who violate the Covenant, but the people who know their God will stand firm.

³³ The most intelligent among the people will teach many, but they will fall by the sword or be burned or exiled or plundered of their goods for some time.³⁴ And when they fall, they will receive little help; but many will join them in deceit.³⁵ Some among the learned will stumble, but this will be so as to prove them, to purify and cleanse them until the end which is to come at its appointed time.

³⁶ The king will act according to his whims, becoming conceited and exalting himself above all the gods, and he will speak outrageous blasphemies against the God of gods. He will prosper until the Wrath is filled to overflowing, for what has been decreed will be fulfilled.³⁷ He will pay no heed to his fathers' gods, will not mind the favourite god of the women, or any other god, but will exalt only himself as greater than them all.³⁸ In their place, he will worship the god of fortresses, a god unknown to his fathers, and will honour him with gold, silver and precious stones and jewels.³⁹ Trusting in a foreign god, he will attack the fortresses. Those who adore him will be given great honour, they will have authority to divide the land as a reward.

⁴⁰ When the end-time comes, the king of the South will confront him. The king of the North will attack him with chariot cavalry and many ships. He will enter his lands, invade them and pass through them.

⁴¹ He will come to the Beautiful Land where many will fall; only the people of Edom, Moab and the best of the Ammonites will escape.⁴² He will stretch out his hand to many countries including Egypt.⁴³ He will seize the treasures of gold and silver and all precious objects of Egypt. Libyans and Ethiopians will join him.

⁴⁴ But reports coming from the East and the North will worry him, and he will set out in a rage, determined to utterly wipe out and destroy many.

⁴⁵ He will set up the tent of his military camp between the sea and the Holy Mountain of the Beautiful Land. Then he will come to his end and no one will come to his aid.

Those who sleep will awake to everlasting life

◆¹² At that time, Michael will rise, the Great Commander who defends the sons of your people. It shall be a time of anguish as never before since the nations first existed until this very day.

Then all those whose names are

◆ This is a very important text: this is the first mention of the resurrection.

The Jews believed that, after death, they would only have reduced life under the earth. They held no hope of a resurrection or a reward for the individual, but only for their nation. If they did not right, God would bless or uplift their nation (See Ez 37).

The persecutions during the days of the Maccabees and their reflection on the destiny of the martyrs led them to the conviction that those who had died would have their share of happiness in the kingdom of God: they had to be raised up. We find the same hope in the second book of Maccabees (chapter 7:9 and 12:43). We read about it also in chapters 2-5 of the book of Wisdom. These texts, fruits of the faith and the trials the Jewish people endured in the last two centuries before Jesus, prepared for what he was going to teach about the resurrection (Mark 12:18).

Michael, your angel (of the Jewish people: 10:13 and 10:21. The book of Daniel is filled with many visions, some of them quite complex; this is typical of the apocalyptic books which were written among the Jews between 200 B.C. and 100 A.D.

These apocalyptic books (or revelations), were written by sages of the day to remind the people that God has dominion over history. Juswritten in the Book will be saved. ² Many of those who sleep in the Region of the Dust will awake, some to everlasting life but others to eternal horror and shame. ³ Those who acquired knowledge will shine like the brilliance of the firmament; those who taught people to be just will shine like the stars for all eternity.

⁴ And you, Daniel, keep these words secret and have the Book sealed until the appointed time of the end. Many will wander looking here and there. Wickedness will go on increasing."

⁵ I, Daniel, looked and saw two others standing, one on either side of the river. ⁶ One said to the man clothed in linen who was upstream, "When will these wonderful things take place?"

⁷ And I heard the answer of the man in linen who was upstream. He raised his hands to heaven and swore by the One who lives eternally: "Everything will be fulfilled within a time, two times and a half a time. When the holy people is completely crushed and without any strength, then these things will be fulfilled."

⁸ I heard but did not understand. Then I said, "My lord, what will be the outcome of these things?" ⁹ He said, "Go, Daniel, for these words are secret and sealed until the appointed time of the end. ¹⁰ Many will be purified, cleansed and proved. The impious will go on doing evil, none of them will understand anything, only the learned will understand."

¹¹ From the time the perpetual sacrifice is suppressed and the Abominable Idol of the devastator is installed, there shall be a thousand two hundred ninety days. ¹² Fortunate is the one who waits and reaches a thousand three hundred thirty-five days. ¹³ And you, go your way until your end. You shall rest and then rise to receive your reward at the end of time."

The story of Susanna

o13 ¹ There lived in Babylon a man named Joakim, ² who was married to a very beautiful God-fearing woman, Susanna, Hilkiah's daughter, ³ whose pious parents had trained her in the law of Moses. ⁴ A very rich man and greatly respected by his countrymen, Joakim was frequently visited by the Jews in his house adjoining a garden.

⁵ That year, two elders of the people were appointed judges, in whom this word of the Lord became

5. Jer 29, 21

as in Daniel, they all used complicated visions, symbolic numbers, messages from angels. It was nothing more than a way to hold their hearers. In 9:1, the angel Gabriel explains the vision. Here, we have another angel, Michael. History is described as if the events were predetermined and written in God's book. In heaven there are occasional struggles between angels representing one nation or another. And so, Michael fights for the Jewish people. In 10:3 we have another angel called "prince of the Persian kingdom."

At the end of chapter 12 we have another series of symbolic numbers. They do not express anything more than the previous ones: the persecution which continues from the time worship was interrupted, must stop, and soon after, the end will come.

WHY DID THEY ANNOUNCE THE RULE OF GOD AS IMMINENT WHEN IT CAME MUCH LATER?

The various oracles of the book of Daniel predict both the end of the persecution by Antiochus and the definitive coming of God with his universal rule. Christ came more than a hundred years later. We can apply here what was said concerning the prophets' announcements (see Isaiah 9).

When a man starts on a long walk with his son and the son begins to get tired, the father does not tell him how much longer he still has to walk. He simply points to the next goal: let us go as far as this tree we see in the distance. Then, he tells him: let us go to this house, to the top of this hill... and so, he nourishes the son's hope through a series of stages. Thus, in sacred history, every time God invites his people to take a step, he presents the happy future which he has in store for humanity with bright colors, as if it were within their reach. There is always something gained, but the best is still ahead, and men will live by hope until their last days.

God does not speak to satisfy our curiosity, but to call us to action. When, in 165 B.C., a teacher of the Law was writing this book to encourage his persecuted compatriots and to announce the liberation which he thought would be the final one, God did not reveal the date of the end of the world to him. For the Jews of his time, the unexpected end of the persecution by Antiochus and the peace achieved must have been quite a clear sign of God's rule over history.

true, "Wickedness has come forth from Babylon, through the elders appointed judges, who were supposed to govern the people." ⁶ These men frequented Joakim's house, and all who had legal disputes used to come to them.

¹³ One day before lunch, they parted, saying to each other, "Let us go home for it is meal time. So off they went in different directions. ¹⁴ but both turned back, and coming face to face again, each was obliged to explain his action and admit his lust. They agreed to wait for an opportunity to meet her alone.

¹⁵ One day, as they were waiting for an opportune time, Susanna entered the garden as usual with only two maids. She decided to bathe, for it was a hot day. ¹⁶ Nobody else was there except the two elders watching her from where they had hidden themselves.

¹⁷ She said to the maids, "Bring me oil and ointments, and shut the garden doors while I bathe." ¹⁸ Unaware of the elders hidden inside the garden, the two maids did as ordered, shutting the doors and leaving by the side entrance to the house to fetch what she had asked for.

¹⁹ When the maids had left, the two elders hurried to her and said, ²⁰ "Look, the garden doors are shut and no one sees us. We desire to possess you. ²¹ If you refuse to give in, we will testify that you sent your maids away for there was a young man here with you."

²² Susanna moaned, "Whatever I do, I am trapped. If I give in to your desire, it will be death for me; if I refuse, I won't escape your persecution. ²³ I would rather be persecuted than sin in the eyes of the Lord."

³¹ Susanna was a very refined and beautiful woman. ³² She had her veil on, but the wicked elders ordered her o Three more stories in the book of Daniel:

The first, to show how God defends the helpless innocent: the corruption of the judges is severely denounced. Remember Jesus' words in Matthew 5:28: "The one who looks at a woman with evil desires has already committed adultery in his heart."

22. Jn 8, 4

These stories are not found in the original book of Daniel, written part in Hebrew, part in Aramean, but only in the Greek translation of the Bible.

We should not look down on these stories saying that they are for children. Just like the parables of Jesus, they contain many lessons and they invite us to reflect on our behaviour.

to uncover her face for them to feast on her beauty. ³³ Her family and friends and all who saw her wept.

³⁴ The two elders stood up and laid their hands upon her head. ³⁵ Completely trusting in the Lord, she raised her tearful eyes to heaven.

³⁶ The elders started making their accusation. "We were taking a walk in the garden when this woman came in with two maids. She ordered them to shut the garden doors and dismissed them. ³⁷ Then a young man came out of hiding and lay with her. ³⁸ We were in a corner of the garden, and we saw this crime from there. We ran to them, ³⁹ and caught them in the act of embracing. We were unable to take hold of the man. He was too strong for us. He made a dash for the door, opened it and ran off. ⁴⁰ But we were able to seize this woman. We asked her who the young man was, ⁴¹ but she refused to tell us. This is our statement, and we testify to its truth."

The assembly took their word, since they were elders and judges of the people. Susanna was condemned to death. ⁴² She cried aloud, "Eternal God, nothing is hidden from you; you know all things before they come to be. ⁴³ You know that these men have testified falsely against me. Would you let me die, though I am not guilty of all their malicious charges?"

⁴⁴ The Lord heard her, ⁴⁵ and as she was being led to her execution, God aroused the holy spirit residing in a young lad named Daniel. ⁴⁶ He shouted, "I will have no part in the death of this woman!"

⁴⁷ Those present turned to him, "What did you say?" they all asked.

⁴⁸ Standing in their midst, he said to them, "Have you become fools, you Israelites, to condemn a daughter of Israel without due process and in the absence of clear evidence? ⁴⁹ Return to court, for those men have testified falsely against her."

⁵⁰ Hurriedly they returned, and the elders said to Daniel, "Come and sit with us, for you also possess the gifts bestowed by God upon the elders."

⁵¹ Daniel said to the people, "Separate these two from one another and I will examine each of them."

⁵² When the two elders were separated from each other, Daniel called one of them and said, "How wicked you have grown with age. Your sins of earlier days have piled up against you, and now is the time of reckoning.

⁵³ Remember how you have passed unjust sentences, condemned the innocent and freed the guilty, although the Lord has said 'The innocent and the just should not be put to death.' ⁵⁴ Now, if you really witnessed the crime, under what tree did you see them do it?"

⁵⁵ The elder answered, "Under a mastic tree."

"Daniel said, "Your lie will cost you your head. You will be cut in two, as soon as the Lord's angel receives your sentence from God."

⁵⁶ Putting the first one aside, Daniel called the other elder and said to him, "You offspring of Canaan and not of Judah, you have long allowed yourself to be perverted by lust.

⁵⁷ This is how you have dealt with the daughters of Israel, who out of fear have yielded to you. But here is a daughter of Judah who would not tolerate your wickedness. ⁵⁸ Tell me then, under what tree did you catch them committing the crime?"

⁵⁹ The answer came. "Under an oak."

⁶⁰ "Your lie has also cost you your head," Daniel said. "God's angel waits to cut you both in two."

⁶⁰ The whole assembly shouted and blessed God for helping those who hope in him. ⁶¹ They turned against the two elders who, through Daniel's efforts, had been convicted by their own mouths. In accordance with Moses' law, the penalty the two elders had intended to impose upon their neighbour was inflicted upon them. ⁶² They were sentenced to death. Thus was the life of an innocent woman spared that day.

⁶³ Hilkiah and his wife praised God for the justice given Susanna, and so did Joakim her husband and all her relatives, for she was not found guilty of any shameful deed. ⁶⁴ Daniel was greatly esteemed by the people from that day onward.

Daniel and the priests of Bel

14 ¹ When King Astyages died, Cyrus the Persian ascended the throne. ² Daniel was very close to the king, who regarded him in higher esteem than any of his other friends.

³ The Babylonians had an idol called Bel, to which twelve bushels of fine flour, forty sheep, and six measures of wine were offered daily. ⁴ The king took part in this cult and worshipped the idol every day. Daniel, on the other hand, worshipped only his own God. ⁵ And the king asked him, "Why don't you worship Bel?"

Daniel answered, "I worship no man-made idols, but only the living God who made heaven and earth and rules over all mankind." ⁶ The king asked, "Don't you think Bel is a living god? Don't you see how much he eats and drinks everyday?"

⁷ Daniel laughed. "Do not be deceived, O king. This is only clay inside and bronze outside. It never ate or drank anything."

⁸ Enraged, the king called his priests and said to them, "If you will not tell me who consumes all these offerings, you will all die." ⁹ But if you can show that Bel consumes them, it is Daniel who will die for blaspheming." Daniel said to the king, "Let it be as you say."

¹⁰ There were seventy priests of Bel, besides their wives and children. Together with Daniel, the king went to Bel's temple. ¹¹ The priests said to the king, "See, we are going outside. We will leave you here inside, O king, to set out the food and prepare the wine. Then you can leave them, shut the door and seal it with your ring. ¹² You will return in the morning, and if you find that Bel has not eaten the food and drunk the wine, we are ready to be executed. But if the reverse happens, Daniel must die for telling lies and slandering us."

¹³ They were confident for they had made a secret entrance under the table, through which they used to come in to consume the food and wine offerings. ¹⁴ When the priests had left, the king set the food before Bel, while Daniel ordered his servants to scatter ashes all over the temple floor. Then they left after shutting the door and sealing it with the king's ring. ¹⁵ That night the priests and their wives and children came and, as usual, ate and drank the offerings.

¹⁶ Early the next morning, the king returned to the temple with Daniel. "Are the seals unbroken, Daniel?" the king asked. Daniel answered, "They are unbroken, O king." ¹⁸ Opening the door, the king looked at the table, then exclaimed, "You are indeed great, O Bel. There is no deception in you."

¹⁹ Daniel laughed, and restraining the king from entering, he said, "But look at the floor and see whose footprints these are." ²⁰ The king said, "I see footprints of men, women and children."

²¹ Enraged, the king ordered the priests and their wives and children to be seized. They were compelled to show him the secret door through which they used to enter to consume the offerings on the table. ²² They were put to death on orders of the king. And Bel was handed over to Daniel, who destroyed the idol and its temple.

Daniel and the dragon

²³ In Babylon there was a big dragon which was also worshipped. ²⁴ "Look," said the king to Daniel, "this is alive, not made of bronze. Would you deny that this is a living god? Worship it."

²⁵ Daniel replied, "I will worship no one but the Lord my God, for he alone is the living God. ²⁶ With your permission, O king, I will slay this dragon without sword or club." The king answered, "You have my permission."

²⁶ Then Daniel took some pitch, fat and hair, and boiled them together. He made them into cakes which he fed to the dragon. And the dragon burst after eating them. ²⁷ Daniel said to the king, "Now look at what happened to the thing you worship."

²⁸ The Babylonians became angry upon hearing of this. "Our king has become a Jew," they said. "He destroyed Bel, killed the dragon and put the priests to death." ²⁹ They went to the king and said, "Hand Daniel over to us or we will kill you and your family!" ³⁰ The king was forced to hand Daniel over to the people.

³¹ Daniel was thrown into the lions' den, where he stayed for six days. ³² In the den were seven lions which were fed daily with two human bodies and two sheep. This food was withheld from them, to make sure that they would devour Daniel.

³³ Now in Judea was a prophet named Habakkuk. He had put some bread and stew in a basket, and was about to take them to the reapers in the field ³⁴ when an angel of the Lord appeared and said to him, "Take that lunch to Daniel in the lion's den at Babylon."

³⁵ Habakkuk said, "Sir, 'I have never been to Babylon nor have I seen the lions' den.'"

³⁶ The angel then took him by the crown of his head, carried him by his hair, and soon they were alighting above the lions' den in Babylon. ³⁷ "Daniel, Daniel," cried Habakkuk, "take this lunch God has sent you."

³⁸ Daniel gave thanks to God, saying, "You have remembered me, O God, and have not forsaken those who love you. ³⁹ Daniel ate, and the Lord's angel returned Habakkuk to his own place.

⁴⁰ On the seventh day, the king came to the lions' den to mourn for Daniel. He looked inside and saw Daniel sitting there. ⁴¹ The king cried aloud, 'How great you are, O Lord God of Daniel! Surely there is no other God but you!'

⁴² He took Daniel out and threw into the den those who had tried to destroy him. They were at once devoured before his eyes.

THE TRADITIONAL FIGURE OF JOB

1 Job, a faultless and upright man who feared God and avoided evil, once lived in the land of Uz. ²He had seven sons and three daughters. ³Owner of seven thousand sheep, three thousand camels, five hundred yoke of oxen, five hundred donkeys and a large number of servants, he was considered the greatest man among the people of the East.

⁴His sons used to take turns holding banquets in their homes and

INTRODUCTION

The story of Job heads the Wisdom Books of the Bible: it is here that the great questions of the human condition are touched upon in the most profound way. Job's misfortunes – after having been blessed in his life, he is reduced to the most extreme misery – are only a pretext to make us reflect on the fact that human life on earth is not satisfactory. Suffering and death are manifestations of a more profound evil, which is a being ill-at-ease, and the bad conscience of human beings aware of their destiny.

It is no accident that Job is introduced as a man from the land of Uz, which does not belong to God's people and has not entered into the hope of the prophets. It is enough for Job to contemplate nature to believe in God and in his Providence, but he has not seen him, and God has never addressed his word to him. Yet, Job feels himself to be the work of God. He realizes that only a dialogue with his Creator will enable him to situate himself in his place, but even though he looks for an opening, he does not find it.

Job's accusations are a way of crying out to God with all the strength of his unsatisfied hope and, in the end, God will have to intervene.

THE BOOK OF JOB

The starting point of this book is a popular tale found in the first and last pages (1:1-2:13 and 42:10-17), the story of the holy man Job. Yahweh had tested him by taking everything away from him, and in spite of this, Job had remained steadfast, trusting God who always rewards the just. At the end, God gave everything back to him.

This morality is obviously a little simplistic. Then, an author unknown to us, developed this example of Job in the dialogues of chapters 3-41. There, Job shouts his indignation before the human condition and his three friends confront him with the answers of the wise men of that time.

would invite their three sisters to dine and drink with them. ⁵After each series of banquets, Job would send for his sons and daughters and have them purified. He would rise early in the morning, offer a holocaust for each of his children, thinking, "Perhaps they have sinned and blasphemed God in their hearts." This had been quite a routine for Job.

⁶One day the sons of God came to present themselves before Yahweh, and Satan came with them. ⁷Yahweh asked Satan, "Where have you been?"

Satan answered, "Going up and down the earth, roaming about."

⁸Yahweh asked again, "Have you noticed my servant Job? No one on earth is as faultless and upright as he, a man who fears God and avoids evil."

⁹But Satan returned the question, "Does Job fear God for nothing?"

¹⁰Have you not built a protective wall around him and his family and all his possessions? You have blessed and prospered him. ¹¹But stretch out your hand to destroy everything he has, and I bet he will curse you to your face."

¹²Yahweh said to Satan, "Very well, all that he has is in your power. But do not lay a finger upon the man himself." So Satan left from the presence of Yahweh.

¹³One day, while his sons and daughters were feasting in the house of the eldest brother, ¹⁴a messenger came to Job and said, "Your oxen were at the plow, and your donkeys were grazing nearby. ¹⁵Then the Sabaeans came and carried them off. They killed the herdsmen. I alone escaped to tell you."

¹⁶While he was yet speaking, another messenger came, "God's fire fell from the sky and burned all your sheep and the shepherds as well. I alone escaped to tell you."

¹⁷He had hardly finished speaking when another messenger arrived, "Three raiding teams of Chaldeans killed your servants and carried off your camels. I alone escaped to tell you."

¹⁸He was still speaking when a third messenger came and said to Job, "Your sons and daughters were eating and drinking in the house of their eldest brother ¹⁹when suddenly a great wind blew across the desert and struck the house. It collapsed on them and they all died. I alone escaped to tell you."

²⁰In grief Job tore his clothes and shaved his head. Then he fell to the ground and worshipped, ²¹saying,

"Naked I came from my mother's womb,

o Job lives in a foreign pagan land (Uz would be in the southern part of Palestine) in ancient times. His position is enviable: he is a leader of nomads, somewhat like Abraham, and he lacks nothing. Yet, he is only a pawn in world politics, or better, in heavenly politics. God holds a council with the sons of God, namely, the angels, and he must look at things which escape Job. In this case, God is challenged by Satan, the enemy, the spirit who promotes evil, and in spite of himself, God has to test Job in order to defend his own honor.

And so, from the very start, man is put in his place. He is neither the center of the world, nor can he demand that God stop the course of history for his sake.

Job does not say anything foolish against God. Even though he does not know the cause of his misfortune, he sees that his personal interest does not necessarily coincide with God's. Job takes the attitude which will save him in the end and which for the moment, gives glory to God: before the spirit of evil, always accusing believers of looking after their own interests and expecting rewards, Job proves that God can arouse a totally disinterested love in his faithful people.

Note the intervention of Job's wife: Curse God and die. Those who blame God for the existing evil do not solve problems and they close the path of hope.

naked shall I return.

Yahweh gave, Yahweh has taken away.

Blessed be his name!"

²²In spite of this calamity, Job did not sin by accusing God of doing him wrong.

2 ¹Once more the sons of God came to present themselves before Yahweh, and again Satan was with them. ²Yahweh asked Satan, "Where have you been?"

Satan answered, "Going up and down the earth, roaming about."

³Yahweh asked again, "Have you noticed my servant Job? No one on earth is as faultless and upright as he, a man who fears God and avoids evil. He still maintains his integrity even if you provoked me to ruin him for no reason."

⁴Satan replied, "Skin for skin! For his own life, a man will give everything he owns. ⁵But lay your hand against his own flesh and bones and he will curse you to your face."

⁶Yahweh said to Satan, "Very well, he is in your power. But spare his life."

⁷So Satan left the presence of Yahweh and afflicted Job with pestering sores from the soles of his feet to the top of his head. ⁸Job took a potsherd to scrape himself and sat among the ashes.

⁹His wife said to him, "Do you still hold on to your integrity? Curse God and die!"

¹⁰Job replied, "You talk foolishly. If we receive good things from God, why can't we accept evil from him?" In spite of this calamity, Job did not utter a sinful word.

HERE BEGIN THE POEMS OF JOB

+ ¹¹Three of Job's friends – Eliphaz the Temanite, Bildad the Shuhite, and Zophar the Naamathite – heard of the misfortune that came upon him. They set out from their own homes and journeyed together to offer their sympathy and consolation to Job. ¹²Failing to recognize him from the distance, they wept aloud, tore their garments and poured dust upon their heads. ¹³For seven days and seven nights they sat on the ground beside him. They did not say a word to Job, for they saw how terribly he suffered.

21. Ps 49, 18; Eccl 5, 14; 1 Tim 6, 7

6. Lk 22, 31

8. Lev 13, 46

+ As we remarked in the introduction, this is the beginning of the dialogue on suffering, leaving aside Job, this popular figure who accepted God's will without arguing in chapter 2.

Cursed be the day I was born. These first verses repeat what Jeremiah said in a moment of despair (see Jer 20, 14). And so, we must not be surprised when, at times, the friends of God make similar statements, nor judge those who attempt to commit suicide when driven by despair.

Why is life given to the miserable, for whom the path is hidden? Why are children born crippled and blind, or destined for an atrocious death? But we would be mistaken to think only about them or even to focus on the millions of people who are marginalized and without hope today. Because in the very countries where nothing is lacking, human beings, asphyxiated by a materialistic civilization, are despairing in the midst of their abundance: it is there that young couples do not want to have children. Job's question deals with the value of life: Is life worth it? Would it not be better not to have existed?

In past centuries people's lives were driven by the uncontainable energy of life. They were living and making sacrifices for the survival of their people. Our parents worked and procreated without asking themselves why. But when people reach maturity in their critical thinking, they need an answer to this question: Why live if, in the end, life leads nowhere?

In the story of Adam, God curses the earth because of man, or rather, he shows that sin disfigures life and that death without the hope of rising is bitter. This appears again in Rv 9, 6 where some look for death which does not come, to refer to sinners who suffer without repenting.

May that day perish when I was born

¹ At length it was Job who spoke, cursing the day of his birth. ² This is what he said:

³ May that day perish when I was born,
and also the night of my conception.

⁴ May that day be dark and ignored by God.

May no light shine upon it.

⁵ May the shadow of death claim it as its own.

May a cloud settle over it;
may blackness obstruct its light.

⁶ That day – oh, may it be obscure;
among the days of the year, may it not occur;
may it be unaccounted for.

⁷ That night – oh, let it be barren, unreached by shouts of joy.

⁸ Let it be cursed by the lovers of darkness, sorcerers who call on the Devil.

⁹ Let its morning stars be in mourning;
let it wait for light in vain
and never see the first rays of dawn,

¹⁰ since it did not close the womb to keep my eyes from seeing doom.

¹¹ Why did I not die at birth, or come from the womb without breath?

¹² Why the knees that received me,
why the breasts that suckled me?

¹³ For then I should have lain down asleep and at rest

¹⁴ with kings and rulers of the earth who built for themselves lonely tombs

¹⁵ or with princes who have gold to spare and sepulchers stuffed with silver.

¹⁶ Why did I not come out stillborn, like others who did not see the light of morn?

¹⁷ There the trouble of the wicked cease,
there the weary find repose.

¹⁸ There the prisoners are at ease;
they hear no longer the taskmaster's voice.

¹⁹ Great and small fare equally there,
where the slave is free from his master.

²⁰ Why is light given to the miserable, and life to the bitter in soul?

²¹ Death is what they long for more than hidden treasure.

- ²²They rejoice upon reaching the grave.
²³Why give light to a man whose path is hidden and whose way God blocks at every side?
²⁴Instead of bread I feed on sighs like water poured out are my groans.
²⁵For what I fear has come upon me,
 what I dread has befallen me.
²⁶I find no rest, I find no ease;
 only turmoil, nothing of peace!

No man is just before God

■4 ¹Eliphaz the Temanite spoke next:

- ²If one attempts a word, will you condone it?
 For who can just keep silent?
³Remember how you have taught many others,
 how you have strengthened their feeble hands.
⁴Your words have supported those who wavered, have steadied the knees that faltered.
⁵But now that trouble has come, you are discouraged;
 now that it has struck, you are dismayed.
⁶Should not your confidence be in your piety,
 and your hope in your integrity?
⁷Have you seen a guiltless man perish, or an upright man done away with?
⁸As I see it, those who plow evil or those who sow trouble reap its like.
⁹By the breath of God they are swept away;
 by the blast of his wrath they are destroyed.
¹⁰The lion may roar and growl,
 yet like its cubs' teeth it will fail.
¹¹The lion will die for lack of prey,
 and the whelps of its mate will stray.
¹²I had a secret revelation;
 a whisper of it came to my ear.
¹³Amid thoughts from night visions,

■ Eliphaz is a believer. Faced with Job's grief, he repeats what was commonly said in those days:

- God is just in this life: he rewards the just with health and prosperity.
- If you are sick and abandoned, it is because you have sinned.

Eliphaz is not wrong in recalling that the wicked are afflicted with misfortune and that God's providence favours his friends. The Bible does state that, as anyone can easily verify. The prophets did not hesitate to repeat to Israel that its difficulties were the consequence of its sins. Deuteronomy also declares this (Dt 30:15-20) and the book of Judges claims to prove it through historical events (Jgs 2:11-19).

Eliphaz claims he is speaking as a result of a revelation from God such as many prophets had in their dreams. He is surely telling the truth: can a mortal be just in the eyes of God. Can any man be pure before him? People complain that life is meaningless, but maybe sin prevents them from seeing its meaning?

Have you seen a guiltless one cut down? (v 7). People of faith understand that God "brings the powerful down and he exalts the humble," but daily experience often seems to show the opposite. According to the Gospel, wealth can be a negative sign. Eliphaz speaks with such assurance because he has not suffered in his own flesh, nor does he pay enough attention to those who suffer.

when men are heavily wrapped in slumber,

¹⁴I was seized with fear and trembling that shook me to my very bones.

¹⁵A spirit passed over my face, and the hair of my body stood on end.

¹⁶It stopped and stood before my eyes,
but I could not make out what it was.

Silence... and then – a voice was heard:

¹⁷"Can a mortal be just in the eyes of God?
Can a man be pure before his Maker?

¹⁸If God can put no trust in his servants, if he can charge his angels with error,

¹⁹how much more those who live in houses of clay whose foundation is in the dust, who are crushed as easily as moths!

²⁰Between dawn and dusk they perish,
and unheeded, forever vanish;

²¹and they die for lack of wisdom.

5 ¹Resentment kills the fool,
and anger slays the simple.

5 ¹I have seen a fool taking root when suddenly his household collapsed.

⁴His sons went about without security, crushed in court without a defender.

⁵The hungry consumed his harvest and carried it to a hiding place;
his surplus was taken away,
the thirsty hankered after his wealth.

⁶For affliction comes not from the earth,
nor does sorrow sprout from the ground;
⁷but it is man who carries about trouble, as eagle in the heights, brings down lightning flash.

¹Call then, but who will answer you?
Who of the Saints will you turn to?

⁸If I were you, I would appeal to God and lay before him my case.

⁹His wonders are past all reckoning,
his miracles beyond all counting.

¹⁰He pours rain down to the earth and sends water upon the fields.

¹¹He sets the lowly on high,
raises the grieving to a state of joy.

¹²He wrecks the plans of the crafty,
so that their hands achieve no success.

¹³He traps the clever in their own devices and puts an end to the schemes of the wily.

¹⁴Darkness comes upon them in the daytime:
they grope at noon as in the night.

¹⁵He rescues the despoiled from the despoil,

the weak from the hands of those in power.
¹⁶Thus hope comes to the unfortunate, and injustice shuts its mouth.

¹⁷Blessed is the man whom God corrects; reject not, therefore, his lessons.

¹⁸He inflicts wounds, but he binds them up;
he strikes but he also heals.

¹⁹From six troubles he will rescue you;
at the seventh no harm will touch you.

²⁰In famine he will ransom you from death;
in war, from the threat of the sword.

²¹You will be protected from the lash of the tongue,
and need not be afraid of approaching ruin.

²²You will laugh at destruction and want;
you need not fear the beasts of the earth.

²³You will be in league with stones of the field
and at peace with wild animals.

²⁴You will find your tent secure, your household untouched when you come home.

²⁵You will have children without number and descendants like the grass of the hills.

²⁶You will come to the grave in full vigour,
like a sheaf of grain gathered in season.

²⁷This we have examined and found true.
This we have heard, and you should know.

What is man that you keep him in mind

6 ¹Job replied:
²If only my anguish could be measured and my misery put on the balance, ³they would outweigh the sands of the seashore!

It is for this that I speak impetuously.
⁴Pierced by the arrows of the Almighty,
my spirit absorbs their poison;
my heart fails before the terrors of God.
⁵Does a wild ass bray when it has fodder?
Does an ox bellow when it has grass?
⁶What taste would food have without salt?
What flavour is there in the white of an egg?

⁷So everything is tasteless for me,
the bread I eat makes me sick.

⁸Oh, that I might have my request, that God would grant what I wanted –

⁹that he would decide to crush me, let loose his hand and strike me down!

¹⁰Then this at least would comfort me, my only joy in unrelenting dread that I had not cursed the will of the Holy one.

¹¹What strength have I to go on hoping,
what expectation to keep on waiting?

¹²Have I the strength of stone, have I the flesh of bronze?

¹³Have I the power to help myself,
now that success has departed?

¹⁴Friends must treat a hopeless man kindly,

even if he forgets to fear the Almighty.

¹⁵But fickle have been my brothers, like the flowing of seasonal waters.

¹⁶Once a year such a stream is seen with ice and swells with melting snow.

¹⁷But summer comes and the river dries and no water is left to flow.

¹⁸Caravans turn aside from their routes,

go up to the wasteland and perish.

¹⁹The merchants of Tema search,
the travellers of Sheba hope.

²⁰They are confident to find water,
but are frustrated when they arrive there.

²¹Now you too have become of no help;
you see a dreadful thing and draw back in fear.

²²Have I asked you to give me anything?
Did I say, "Pay a ransom for me,

²³deliver me from the enemy or rescue me from suffering?"

²⁴Teach me and I will keep silent;
show me where I have been wrong.

²⁵Honest words I must not resent,
but what have your arguments shown?

²⁶Do you mean to correct what I said,
or treat a despairing man's words as wind?

²⁷You would even cast lots for the orphan and bargain over your friend!

²⁸But now, give me your attention;
surely I will not lie to your face.

²⁹Relent, and grant me justice;
reconsider, my case is not yet tried.

³⁰Is there insincerity on my tongue?
Can my mouth not discern falsehood?

7 ¹Man's life on earth is a military service,
his days are those of a mercenary.

²Like a slave he longs for the shade of evening,

like a hireling he waits for his wages.

³Thus I am allotted months of futility and nights of grief and misery.

⁴In bed I say, "When shall the day break?"
On rising, I think, "When shall evening
come?"

and I toss restless till dawn.

⁵My body is full of worms and scabs;
my skin festers with its boils and cracks.

◆ Job is bitter against all these friends who make speeches but do not bring him peace.
Now, he begs God to make him die before he rebels against him under the pressure of evil (6:8-10).

In 6:15-30, Job emphasizes the abyss which separates those who suffer from those who come to console. Do we not often verify this at a patient's bedside? Consoling words are often a disguise: those consoling the afflicted want to hide their own confusion before others' pain and their own inability to really lighten their suffering. However, the sick person is not fooled and feels more isolated in realizing he is not told the truth.

In chapter 7, Job addresses an absent God.

Let us not forget that, according to the book, Job comes from a pagan people and he does not know God-Father. He thinks that God may be jealous and that he watches over people in order to punish them on the spot: it would be better to escape from such an observer.

Yet, Job's complaint against God reminds us of the frictions between people who love each other, and precisely because they love each other, they are more demanding.

What is man that you make so much of him? Job is dreaming of a God who is tender toward his creatures. And also, if God is watching over his favorite creatures at all times, could it not be because he cannot live without them?

*My days pass swifter than a weaver's shuttle, heading without hope to their end.

⁷My life is like wind; you well know it.
O God, never will I see happiness again.

*The eye that saw me will see me no longer;

when you look for me, I shall have gone.

⁹As a cloud dissolves and vanishes,
so he who goes to the grave never returns.

¹⁰Never will he come back to his house;
or be seen by his household.

¹¹I will not restrain my words, in the agony of my spirit I will speak out:
and complain with embittered soul,

¹²"Am I the sea or a monster of the deep,
that you have to keep me under watch?"

¹³When I think my bed will comfort me and my couch will soothe my pain,

¹⁴then you frighten me with dreams and terrify me with visions,

¹⁵so that I prefer death by strangling rather than this body and suffering.

¹⁶See I am dying. I will not live forever.
Leave me alone; my days are meaningless.

¹⁷What is man that you make so much of him,

that you give him so much attention,

¹⁸that every morning you examine him and each moment try him with affliction?

¹⁹Will you never take your eyes off me and give me respite to swallow my spittle?

²⁰Suppose I sinned, what has it done you,
O keeper of mankind?

Why choose me as your target?
Have I become a burden to you?

²¹Why not pardon my sin

and take away my guilt?

For in the dust I will soon lie down;

when you search for me, I shall have gone.

Does God pervert judgment?

8 ¹Bildad the Shuhite spoke:

²How long will you say such things?

Your words are long-winded blusters.

³Does God pervert judgment?

Does the Almighty distort justice?

⁴If your children did him wrong, he has made them pay for their sins.

⁵But if you will have recourse to God and plead with the Almighty,

⁶if you are faultless and righteous,

even now he will care for you and restore you to your rightful place.

⁷And such will your prosperity be as to make you forget the former times.

⁸Inquire of the past generations and learn from their fathers' experience;

⁹for born but yesterday, we know nothing and our days on earth are but a twinkling.

¹⁰But looking back to ancestral tradition will bring forth words of wisdom.

¹¹Can papyrus thrive without mire?

Can reeds flourish without water?

¹²Even if still growing and uncut,
they wither quicker than any plant.

¹³Such is the end of him who forgets God;
the godless man's hope perishes.

¹⁴His trust has a fragile foundation;
a spider's web is what he relies on.

¹⁵He leans on his house, but it does not stand;

he clings to it, but it does not last.

¹⁶He is like a plant tended in the garden, spreading its shoots under the sun.

¹⁷entwining its roots about a pile of rocks, holding fast to each stone.

¹⁸But if uprooted from where it has grown,
the place rejects it as its own;

¹⁹and there it lies rotting by the road,
while other plants grow in its place.

²⁰Indeed God does not reject the righteous, nor lend his hand to the evildoer.

²¹He will again fill your mouth with laughter and your lips with joyful shouts.

²²Your enemies will be wrapped in dishonour, and the tent of the wicked will come apart.

6. 1 K 22, 19; Dn 7, 10; Hch 12, 22; Rev 5, 11

o Job is upset before an inaccessible God. The Creator's greatness, as manifested in his works, does not console him when he suffers without being heard. The misfortune of a single just one distorts creation.

But, again, Job does not only question evil, but the very situation created by human existence with its freedom. The God who made us free persons must also be a Person, and as long as he does not speak to us, his silence may be interpreted as a refusal to dialogue and a proof of aggressiveness toward us.

But, am I innocent, after all? I do not know.

Job reminds us of those notorious trials where militants, unjustly accused by their own party, come to admit their guilt "spontaneously." Similarly, many times a single mishap will be enough to make us feel sinful.

Can a mortal be just before God? The same question is found in 4:17 and 22:2. This guilt feeling and the opposite feeling of aggressiveness against God are the two sides of the same truth: the human condition is unacceptable as long as God makes a person who cannot find him.

You granted me life in your grace. Job can-

I cannot argue with you, nevertheless...

9

¹Then Job answered:

²Very well I know that it is so.
But how can a mortal be just before God?

³If one were to contend with him,
not once in a thousand would he answer.

⁴His power is vast, his wisdom profound.
Who has resisted him and come out unharmed?

⁵He moves mountains without their knowledge;
he overturns them in his rage.

⁶He makes the earth tremble;
he shakes its pillars.

⁷He commands the sun, and it does not shine;
he seals off the light of the stars.

⁸He alone stretches out the skies and treads on the waves of the seas.

⁹He made the Bear and Orion,
the Pleiades and every constellation.

¹⁰His wonders are past all reckoning,
his miracles beyond all counting.

¹¹He passes by me, but I do not see him;
he moves on, but I do not perceive him.

¹²He snatches away, and who can stop him?
Who can say to him, "What are you doing?"

¹³God does not turn back when angered;
before him Rahab's cohorts cowered.

¹⁴How then can I answer him?
How can I find words to argue with him

¹⁵if I get no answer, being innocent, and only plead with my judge for mercy?

¹⁶Even if I appealed and he answered,
I do not believe that he would have heard.

¹⁷He who crushes me for a trifle and multiplies my hurt for no reason.

¹⁸He does not let me regain my breath.
but fills me with grief without respite.

¹⁹If it were a contest of strength, he is mighty.
If a matter of justice, who will summon him?

²⁰If I were innocent, my own mouth would condemn me;
if blameless, it would pronounce me guilty.

14. Rom 9, 20

not deny that God is concerned about his creatures, and he remembers the wonders God achieves in the pregnant mother. But these attentions only open the way for his demands: gifts coming to us from people above arouse our aggressiveness more than our gratitude: I know what was in your mind.

After being unconcerned for years, people discover the burden of their responsibility and it is then that the willed absence of their Creator provokes their restlessness and prepares them for rebellion.

²¹But am I innocent, after all?
I do not know, and so I find my life hateful.

²²It is all the same! And this I dare say:
both blameless and wicked – he destroys.

²³When disaster brings sudden death,
he mocks the despair of the innocent.

²⁴When a land falls into a tyrant's hand,
it is he who makes the judges blind.

But if it is not he – who else then?

²⁵Swifter than a runner are my days;
without a glimpse of joy they fly away.

²⁶They skim along like reed canoes, or like eagles swooping on their prey.

²⁷If I resolve to forget my affliction, to smile and change my expression, ²⁸fear comes at the thought of your punishments

for I know I shall be held accountable.

²⁹If anyway I am to be condemned
why should I bother in vain?

³⁰If I wash my body with snow and cleanse my hands with bleach,

³¹then you plunge me into the dung pit
even my clothes would abhor me.

³²He is not a man like me that I might answer,

and in court we might confront each other.

³³If only there were an arbiter between us, who could lay his hand upon both of us,

³⁴who could remove the rod of God from me, so that his terror would not frighten me.

³⁵But it is not so. Then I will speak to myself, without fear.

You hunt me like a lion

10

¹I loathe my life.

I shall then utter my complaint;
I shall speak of my soul's torment.

²I shall say to God: Condemn me not.
But what are your charges against me?

³Or does it please you just to oppress me,
to spurn the work of your hands and favour the evildoers' designs?

⁴Have you eyes of flesh?
Do you see as man sees?

⁵Are your days as the days of man, or your years as a mortal's lifetime?

⁶Why do you seek the guilt in me and search after my faults?

⁷You know I have not sinned,
but who can rescue me from your hand?

⁸You have formed and made me.
Will you then turn and destroy me?

⁹Remember that you moulded me from clay.
Will you turn me to dust again?

¹⁰Did you not pour me out like milk and curdle me like cheese?

¹¹You wrapped me up in skin and flesh, knit me together in bones and sinews.

¹²You granted me life in your grace and kept my spirit in your care.

¹³Yet this is what you hid in your heart,
I know what was in your mind:

¹⁴You wanted to see if I sinned,
and not let my fault be forgiven.

¹⁵If I am guilty – alas for me!
If innocent – I dare not lift my head.
When I am filled with consternation, humbled and shamed in my affliction.

¹⁶you hunt me like a lion, showing your awesome power against me.

¹⁷You renew your attack upon me;
you intensify your rage,
your forces assail me wave upon wave.

¹⁸Why did you bring me out of the womb?

I wish I had died unseen,

¹⁹a being that had not been – carried from the deep direct to the tomb.

²⁰Are not my few days almost over?

Turn away; leave me a while to recover

²¹before I go to the place of no return,

²²to the land of gloom and shadow,
to the land of chaos and deepest night,
where darkness is the only light.

⁹Its measure is wider than the earth, broader than the sea.

¹⁰Who can stop him when he passes,
when he imprisons and calls to judgment?

¹¹He sees evil; he recognizes deceit.
Will he not then take note of it?

¹²So the stupid men learn to be wise
as wild donkeys become tame.

¹³If you set your heart aright and stretch out your hands to him.

¹⁴if you wash your hand of sin and allow no evil in your tent.

¹⁵you will then raise your face in honour:
having no fear, you will feel secure.

¹⁶You will forget your suffering and recall it only as waters gone by.

¹⁷Your life will be brighter than noonday and its darkness like the morning.

¹⁸You will be comforted, for there is hope:
you will be protected and feel safe.

¹⁹You will lie down with no one to fear;
many will come to court your favour.

²⁰But the eyes of the wicked will fail;
they will lose all way of escape.
their one hope – that death will come.

The discourse of Zophar

11 ¹Zophar the Naamithite spoke:
²Must these words go unanswered?

Must you be right for talking so much?

³Will your prattle keep men silent?

Will no one answer your mocking?

⁴You say to God that your way is right, that you are clean in his sight.

⁵How I wish that God would speak and open his lips against you,

⁶to show you the secrets of wisdom which put intelligence to shame, that you may know it is for your sin that God calls you to account.

⁷Can you fathom the mysteries of God, probe the extent of his perfection?

⁸It is higher than heaven –
what can you do?

Deeper than the world of death –
what can you know?

Will you defend God with lies?

+12 ¹Then Job answered:
²No doubt you are the people's voice:
when you die, wisdom dies with you!
³But I have a mind as well as you,
so I know all these things you said.

+ Zophar kept on repeating the arguments of the wise men: if you are suffering, you are guilty; mend your way and you will be healed.

Then, Job continues to accuse God. He lists some of the injustices which we see daily. Then, in 12: 14-25, he emphasizes that God's power manifests itself especially in his destructive action. He upsets the fortune of the powerful, distorts the wisdom of the sages, prevents man from being successful, and does not allow his ⁴To my friends I am a laughingstock:

"The man who calls and whom God answers,

the just and perfect man" —
that is how I am rebuked.

⁵Men at ease think of my misfortune as the outcome of a moral downfall.

⁶Yet the robbers' tents are undisturbed,
those who provoke God are in peace,
those who make a god of their strength.

⁷But ask the beasts to teach you,
the birds of the air to tell you,

"the plants of the earth to instruct you,
the fish of the sea to inform you.

¹¹Does not the ear test words
as the tongue tastes food?

¹²So wisdom is found in the old understanding in great age.

¹³Who among them do not understand that behind all this is God's hand?

¹⁴He holds the life of every creature and the breath of all mankind.

¹⁵To God belong wisdom and power;
his are counsel and understanding.

¹⁴What he tears down, none can rebuild;
the man he imprisons, none can release.

¹⁵If he withholds water, there is drought;
if he lets it loose, there is flood.

¹⁶In him are strength and perception;
deceived and deceiver are in his power.

¹⁷He leads counsellors away stripped and makes fools of judges.

¹⁸He loosens the belt of kings and ties a loincloth about their waist.

¹⁹He leads priests away, barefoot, and overthrows those in power.

²⁰He compels advisers to keep silent, and strips elders of their discernment.

²¹He puts princes to shame;
he unties the girdle of the strong.

²²(He uncovers the gloomy recesses and brings the deep darkness to light.)

²³He makes a nation rise and fall,
a people to grow and to dwindle.

²⁴He deprives leaders of their judgment, leaving them to roam in a trackless waste.

²⁵Without light, they grope in the dark and stagger like drunkards.

■ 13

¹My eyes have seen all this,
my ears have heard and understood.

²What you know, I also know;
I am not inferior to you.

³But I am speaking to the Almighty,
I plead my case with God.

⁴You are glossing over the problem and offering false remedies.

⁵If only you would keep silent, that would at least be wisdom.

⁶Hear now my argument;
listen to my defense.

⁷Will you speak falsely for God?

ventures to last. Job even says that, in the midst of a perfect universe, human history has no meaning.

■ Before the injustices in life, human wisdom does not have an adequate answer. And so Job accuses these wise men pretending to justify God while forgetting reality (13:1-6). Will you defend God with false arguments? It is better to keep quiet and admit our own ignorance.

This boldness will be my triumph. Job prefers to accuse God and demand judgment. Even though he is aware that such an attitude is blasphemy, he is so convinced that God is just that he wants to force him to come out of his silence. Since discussion does not clear up anything, Job tries another way: to provoke God.

Perhaps God will make him die because of his boldness, but, at least, Job will have had an answer and he will know why he dies (13:13-20).

Actually Job knows that God will not condemn him for having appeared before him: for no godless man dares draw near to him.

Job's bold attitude corrects the widespread image of a believer accepting with resignation without trying to understand. Job does not fall down before God like a slave, but rather, being a free creature, conscious of his dignity in the eyes of his Maker, Job does not resign himself to death and he asks for an explanation. The rest of the Bible will tell us that God wants to give people precisely what Job is demanding.

Will you defend him with false arguments?

⁸Will you side with him and advocate on his behalf?

⁹Would it be well if he examine you?
Could he be deceived as men are?

¹⁰He will rebuke you for sure if in secret you show partiality.

¹¹You will be terrified by his majesty, and you will be in dread of him.

¹²Heaps of ashes are your maxims;
mounds of clay are your defenses.

¹³So keep silent and let me speak;
this will be at my own risk.

¹⁴I am putting myself in jeopardy and gambling for my life.

¹⁵Though he may slay me,
I will still argue before him;

¹⁶and this might even save me for no godless man dares draw near to him.

¹⁷Carefully listen to my words, give my case a hearing.

¹⁸I will proceed in due form believing that I am guiltless.

¹⁹If anyone makes good his charges,
I am ready to be silenced and die.

²⁰Only grant me these two things, O God,
and from you I will not hide:

²¹Withdraw your hand far from me,
and frighten me not with your terrors.

²²Summon me and I will respond;
or let me speak and you reply.

²³What are my faults, what are my sins?
Make known to me all of them.

²⁴Why hide your face from me and consider me your enemy?

²⁵Why torment a wind-blown leaf or pursue a withered straw?

²⁶But you are searching for accusations and you recall the sins of my youth.

²⁷You shackle my feet,
keep watch on all my paths
and mark out my footsteps.

◆ Through his personal case, Job presents the human condition, and he does it in a way very similar to Ecclesiastes. He emphasizes the following about man's fate:

- his life is short;
- his sufferings are countless;

- the grace of his youth is followed by the bitterness of adult life;
- there is a degree of impurity in him, namely, something mysterious which ruins everything he undertakes;
- when looking at life, he would like to live

Man born of woman has a short life

14

¹Man born of woman

has a short life full of sorrow.

²Like a flower he blossoms and withers;
transient and fleeting as a shadow.

³Is this he on whom you turn your eyes and bring before you for judgment?

⁴Who can bring the clean from the unclean?
No one!

⁵Measured are the days of man;
you have set the number of his months,
assigned him bounds he cannot pass.

⁶Then leave him alone; turn away from him till he complete his day like a hireling.

⁷There is hope for a tree:
if cut down it will sprout again,
its new shoots will keep on coming.

⁸Though its roots grow old in the ground and its stump withers in the soil,

⁹at the scent of water it will bud and put forth shoots like a young plant.

¹⁰But when man is cut down, he becomes lifeless;
he breathes his last and ceases to exist.

¹¹As waters of a lake may disappear or that of a river may drain away,

¹²so man lies down and does not rise again;
the heavens will vanish before he wakes,
before he rises from his sleep.

o ¹³If only you would hide me in the grave and shelter me till your wrath is past!
If only you would set a time for me
and then remember me!

¹⁴Will a man live again if he dies?

All the days of my service

I would wait for my release.

¹⁵You would call and I would answer;
you would long for the work of your hands again.

¹⁶Now you watch my every step,
but then you would stop counting my sins.

¹⁷My offenses would be sealed in a bag,
and you would do away with my guilt.

5. Eccl 6, 12.

forever, which is not granted to him. But meanwhile Ecclesiastes accepts the universal law. Job dreams of a God who would talk with him and forget, for a time, his superiority (v. 15-17).

Here we see one of the results of the teaching

9. Eccl 3, 21.

that God gave his people for centuries. Thanks to the prophetic words, the Israelites acquired a sense of their responsibility, and then, they discovered their personhood. While their ancestors, like Jacob or Moses, were resigned to their mortal destiny, they were desperately looking for the Good News.

¹⁸But as mountains erode and crumble,
as rock is moved from its place,

¹⁹as waters wear away stones and floods wash away the soil, so you destroy the hope of man.

²⁰You crush him once for all, and he is gone;

you change his appearance and send him away.

²¹If his sons are honoured, he does not know it;

if brought low, he does not see it.

²²Only the pain of his own body does he feel; only for himself does he mourn.

Another discourse of Eliphaz

15 ¹Eliphaz the Temanite spoke:

²Should a wise man answer with airy notions, puff himself up with senseless opinions?

³Should he argue in empty talk,
in words that are meaningless.

⁴You are doing away with piety and lessening devotion to God.

⁵Your iniquity instructs your mouth,
and you talk like the crafty.

⁶You are condemned by your own mouth,
by your own lips, not mine.

⁷Are you mankind's first-born?

Were you brought forth before the hills?

⁸Are you privy to God's counsels?

Do you alone possess wisdom?

⁹What knowledge have you that we do not have?

What do you understand that is obscure to us?

¹⁰The gray-haired and the aged are among us, men older than your father.

¹¹Are God's consolations too small for you, and the words spoken gently to you?

¹²Why does your heart carry you away,
why do your eyes flash

¹³when you turn your wrath against God and utter such words as these?

¹⁴What is man to claim innocence,
the child of woman to be cleared of guilt?

¹⁵If God puts no trust in his holy ones,
and the heavens are unclean in his eyes,

¹⁶how much less man who is vile and corrupt,

who drinks evil as he drinks water!

¹⁷Listen and I will explain;
I will tell you of my experience

¹⁸and of the sages' teachings passed on to them by their fathers, ¹⁹to whom alone the land was given when no foreigner moved among them.

²⁰The wicked are in unceasing torment.
Numbered are the years of the tyrant.

²¹In his ears are sounds of terrors,
in prosperity the threat of marauders.

²²He despairs of escaping the darkness and is always on the lookout for the sword.

²³As wanderer and prey for vultures,
he knows his destruction is at hand.

²⁴The hour of darkness fills him with dread,

as distress and anguish close in on him.

²⁵And this happens because he defied God,
he raised his hand against the Almighty,

²⁶charging stubbornly against him behind a thick, sturdy shield.

²⁷His face has grown full and fat,
his thighs bulge with flesh,

²⁸yet he will dwell in ruined cities,
in deserted and crumbling houses.

²⁹No longer will he be rich nor take root in the earth.

³⁰He will not escape from darkness;
a flame will wither his shoots;

the wind will carry off his blossom.

³¹Let him not trust in greatness for he will get nothing in return.

³²He will be paid in full before his time,
and his branches will never again be green.

³³Like a vine he will be stripped of unripe grapes;
like the olive, he will shed his blossoms.

27. Ps 73,4

● In 14:13-17 Job mentions the place of the dead, or Sheol, or netherworld, where the Jews thought that, after death, they would have some semblance of life, but more like prisoners far from Yahweh than like human beings who are alive and praise God (see Is 38:18-19). When a man has been awakened by God to understand his own worth as a free person, he no longer accepts to disappear forever. And if God were to grant him to survive in a place not close to God, he would always long to reach God: I would wait for the end of my service, then you could call me and I would answer you. Once again here, we find the image of God mysteriously bending over people.

In chapters 15-18 everyone proceeds with out listening to the other: Job expresses his despair and his friends repeat their conviction that misfortunes are for the wicked.

◆ Notice the passage 16:8-17,7 recalling Isaiah 53 and also the psalms evoking the Passion of Christ. When human beings are suffering, they share in the Passion of Christ, whether they know it or not, the confrontation of sin with the justice of God continues in them. God seems ¹⁴For the breed of the godless will be barren, and fire will consume the tents of extortioners.

¹⁵They conceive mischief and bring forth evil,
for in their womb deceit is formed.

Where then can my hope be?

16 ¹Then Job answered:
²I have heard many such things.

What miserable comforters you are!

³When will your airy words end?

What ails you and keeps you arguing?

⁴I too could talk as you do,

if you were in my place;

I could declaim over you and shake my head at you.

⁵I would give you strength, and comfort you with words.

⁶Yet if I talk, my suffering is not eased,

if I refrain, my pain is not lessened.

⁷O God, you have worn me out!

You have destroyed my household.

⁸You have filled me with wrinkles,

which testify against me;

even my growing leanness

bears witness to my face.

⁹God assails me in his anger;

he gnashes his teeth at me,

while my enemies lord it over me.

¹⁰With open mouths they jeer at me;

the strike my cheek, and together they mass themselves against me.

¹¹God has given me over to evil men and cast me into the clutches of the wicked.

¹²All was well until he shattered me,

but he seized me and dashed me to pieces.

Having set me up for a target,

¹³he had his arrows pointed at me, striking from every direction,

piercing my sides without pity,

spilling my gall on the ground.

¹⁴Like a warrior he bears down on me,

thrusting me incessantly.

¹⁵I have fastened sackcloth over my skin and buried my brow in the dust.

¹⁶My face is red with weeping,

deep shadows ring my eyes;

¹⁷yet my hands are free of violence, and my prayer sincere.

¹⁸O earth, cover not my blood;

let not my cry come to rest!

¹⁹Even now my witness is in heaven and my defender is on high.

²⁰Now my prayer has gone up to God
as I poured out my tears before him.

²¹Would that man could discuss with God
as he does with his fellows.

²²For my years are numbered, and soon
I will take the road of no return.

17 ¹My spirit is broken, my days are cut short

and the grave awaits me.

²Mockers surround me;
my eyes grow dim with nights of bitterness.

³Keep beside you, O God, my guarantee since no one cares to be my sponsor;

since my friends have been unhelpful.

⁴You have closed their minds to reason,

so they will not help me.

⁵Who will help a friend when his sons are in need?

They describe as evil my fate,

⁶and I have been made everybody's by-word,

a man in whose face people spit.

⁷My eyes have grown dim with grief,

my frame shrunken to a shadow.

⁸At this upright men are appalled, and the guiltless rail against the wicked.

⁹The righteous feel at ease and those with clean hands are strengthened.

¹⁰But come on again, all of you;

I will not find a single sage among you.

¹¹My days are ended, my plans shattered,

and so my heart's desires harass me by day and night.

¹²These men talk of day when it is night, light has become like darkness.

¹³Where is my hope? The grave is my home, in the darkness I spread out my bed,

¹⁴I must call corruption "my father,"

and the worm "my mother" or "my sister,"

¹⁵where then can my hope be and who will see any hope for me?

¹⁶Will it go down to the bars of death,

shall we descend together into the dust?

18 ¹Bildad the Shuhite replied:

²When will your empty words end?

Be sensible, and then we can talk.

18. Gen 4, 10

8. Is 52, 15

merciless in pursuing his creatures, in completely humiliating them, but, in fact, he is removing the roots of our pride.

Verses 17: 8-10 must be seen as Job's ironic

answer to his friends: You say that in seeing the wicked's misfortune, the just praise God's justice, well then, in seeing me so humiliated, rejoice and say: well done!

³Why do you regard us like beasts?
Are we stupid in your sight?
⁴You who tear yourself in your wrath, must the earth be forsaken on your account?

Or must the rock be moved out of its place?

⁵Surely the evil man's light is snuffed;
his fire stops burning.

⁶The light is darkened in his tent;
the lamp shining on him goes out.

⁷His vigorous steps weaken;
his own schemes make him stumble.

⁸His feet carry him into a net or lead him into a pitfall.

⁹A trap seizes him by the heel;
a snare lays hold of him.

¹⁰Hidden in the ground is a noose for him;
pitfalls await him along the way.

¹¹Terrors assail him on every side;
they harry him at every step.

¹²Hungering among his goods, doom awaits him if he falls.

¹³Sickness eats his skin;
death's firstborn devours his limbs.

¹⁴Torn from the security of his tent,
he is marched off to the king of terrors,
now anyone may live in his tent;

¹⁵after brimstone is scattered over it.

¹⁶Dried up below are his roots;
withered above are his branches.

¹⁷His memory perishes in the land,
his name is forgotten on the earth.

¹⁸From light he is driven into darkness;

from the world he is banished.

¹⁹He has no descendants among his people,

no survivor where once he lived.

²⁰Men of the west are appalled at his fate;
men of the east are seized with fright.

²¹Such is the lot of the wicked;
such is the place of one who knows not God.

19 ¹This is what Job said:

²How long will you vex me,
crush me with your words?

³Ten times now you have reviled me,
you have attacked me shamelessly.

⁴If indeed I am at fault,
I alone am concerned with it.

⁵If you vaunt yourselves against me
and use my humiliation as argument,

⁶know then that God has treated me unfairly and compassed me round with torment.

⁷Though I cry injustice I am not heard;
though I call for help I receive no aid.

⁸He has barred my way so I cannot pass;
he has shrouded my path and made it dark.

⁹He has stripped me of honour,
and removed the crown from my head.

¹⁰On every side he tears me down and uproots my hope till it is gone.

¹¹He directs his anger against me and counts me as his enemy.

¹²Against me his troops build a siege ramp,
and around my tent they encamp.

In my flesh I shall see God

+ ¹³From me he has alienated my brothers, completely estranged my friends.

¹⁴My kinsfolk and companions have gone away;
my guests have forsaken me,

¹⁵my maidservants count me as an alien.

¹⁶I summon my servant, but he does not answer,
although I plead with him.

¹⁷To my wife my breath is offensive;
to my own brothers I am loathsome.

¹⁸Even little children ridicule me:
Come! let us make fun of him!

¹⁹All my intimate friends detest me;
those I love have turned against me.

²⁰I have become skin and bones and have escaped with only my gums.

²¹My friends, have pity,
for God's hand has struck me.

²²Why do you hound me as God does?
Will you never have enough of my flesh?

²³Oh, that my words were on a scroll, ²⁴or recorded on lead with an iron tool,
or engraved forever on rock!

²⁵For I know that my Redeemer lives, and he, as the last, will take his stand on the earth

²⁶I will be there behind my skin, and in my flesh I shall see God.

²⁷With my own eyes I will see him –
I and not another. How my heart yearns!

²⁸If you say, "We will pursue him!
let us find a charge against him";

²⁹be afraid of the sword yourselves;
when wrath has brought punishment,
you will know there is judgment.

Zophar: Evil will come to an end

20 ¹Zophar of Naamath spoke next:
²My troubled thoughts move me to reply

for I have been feeling impatient.

³I hear a rebuke which puts me to shame,
and I am inspired to give an answer.

⁴You know how it has been from of old,
since man was placed on earth,

⁵that the triumph of the wicked is short and the joy of the godless is but a moment.

⁶Though his pride reach to the heavens and his head touch the clouds,

⁷he vanishes like a phantom;
those who have seen him ask where he is.

⁸Like a dream he takes flight,
like a vision of the night.

⁹The eye that met him sees him no more;
neither shall his dwelling shelter him again.

¹¹The vigour that fills his youthful frame, shall at last lie with him in the dust.

¹²Though evil is sweet in his mouth,
and he hides it under his tongue,

¹³though he cannot suffer to let it go and keeps it still within his mouth,

¹⁴yet his food turns sour and becomes venom in his stomach.

¹⁵He vomits the rich food he swallowed;
God will compel his belly to belch it out.

¹⁶Because he sucked the poison of a viper,
he will be killed by the fangs of an adder.

¹⁷He will see no streams of oil,
no rivers of honey and milk.

¹⁸He will give back and not enjoy
the fruit of his toil;

¹⁹For he has oppressed the poor and seized houses instead of building
them.

¹⁰His children must make amends to his victims;

his own hands must pay back his riches.

²⁰For his greed had no respite, and no one could escape from his appetite;

22. Ps 27, 2

24. Lev 25, 25; Rut 4, 4

+ Job is between God and men, abandoned by all. This poem, in 19: 13-22, deals with the destiny of the elderly and the sick who feel useless, the condition of a fallen man or woman, rejected by society and an object of repulsion for the relatives who can do nothing to help.

But, suddenly, we come upon a decisive word in this chapter, right in the center of the book. Job turns to God in an act of faith. In contrast with his words of discouragement, he says categorically: I know that my redeemer lives and I shall see God with my own eyes.

The very justice of God demands that he speak after all the speakers. Often, God waits until his servants have died to justify them, but in the end, the Redeemer rises: then, they too will see him and listen to him.

But in fact, Job himself is not an oppressed waiting for his liberation... What matters for him is not the sentence of God or the destruction of his adversaries, or to see his rights defended, – but only to see God (v. 27).

It is hard for Christians to read these statements without seeing in them the longing of all those who believed in justice. Above all, what is expressed here is the hope of Christ when he meets death alone and entrusts his life into the Father's hands.

²¹ he devoured them and no one was left.
This is why his property will not endure.
²² In the midst of plenty, distress seizes him,
the full force of misery coming upon him.
²³ When his belly is filled
God unloads his wrath upon him and makes his arrows rain upon him.

²⁴ While he flees from an iron weapon,
the bronze bow strikes him down.
²⁵ A dart sticks out of his back,
from his liver an arrow.

He is in the grip of a terrible fear;
²⁶ total darkness has been stored for him,
a fire which he did not kindle devours him and consumes whoever was left in his tent.
²⁷ The heavens will expose his guilt;

the earth will rise up against him.
²⁸ Flood will sweep away his house on the day of the wrath of God.
²⁹ Such is the fate of the wicked – their heritage which God assigned.

21 ¹ Job replied:
² Listen at least to my words,
and finish with your consolation.
³ Bear with me while I speak;
and then you can mock.
⁴ Is it to man that I direct my complaint?
Why then should I not be impatient?
⁵ Look at me and be appalled;
cover your mouths momentarily.
⁶ When I think about this I am troubled and trembling seizes my body.

Job: It's well for the wicked!

- ⁷ Why do the wicked survive, increase in age and in power?
- ⁸ Their posterity flourish in their sight,
their kinsfolk and their offspring.
- ⁹ Their homes are safe, free from fear;
they do not feel the scourge of God.
- ¹⁰ Their bulls breed without fail;
their cows calve and do not miscarry.
- ¹¹ Their children run and play like lambs,
their little ones dance like deer.
- ¹² They sing to the rhythm of timbrel and harp;
they make merry to the sound of the flute.
- ¹³ They live out their days in happiness and go down to Sheol in peace.
- ¹⁴ Yet they were those who said to God, "Go away!
We have no desire to learn your way.
- ¹⁵ Who is the Almighty that we should serve him?
What will it profit us if we pray to him?"
- ¹⁶ Although the thoughts of the wicked are far from God prosperity is in their hands.
- ¹⁷ How often is their lamp put out?
How often does calamity come upon them?
How often does God's anger wipe them out?

7. Jer 12, 1; Mal 3, 15 12. Is 5, 12; Am 6, 5 17. Jer 25, 10

■ Here too, we recognize Jeremiah's complaint 12:1 and the questions raised in psalm 73. In the Old Testament the just are scandalized by the prosperity of the wicked because this seems to deny God's justice. Is it true, as we sometimes hear, that death is the ultimate justice?

tion of integrity. Yet, note the list of sins that Job might have committed: it is always a matter of oppressing the weak or failing to assist them. Jesus will say nothing new when, in Matthew 25:40, he condemns to eternal punishment those who failed to provide bread and water to those in need.

The commentary on 29-30 can be found in Is 2: 6-22.

¹⁸How often are they like straw before the wind, like chaff which the storm sweeps away?

¹⁹You say, "His children will pay for his sin."

Let the man himself pay for his iniquity;

²⁰let his own eyes see the calamity;

let him drink the wrath of the Almighty!

²¹What does he care about his family left behind,
when his allotted months have come to an end?

²²Can anyone teach God knowledge, since he judges even the highest?

²³One man dies in full vigor,

at ease and completely secure;

²⁴full and nourished is his figure,
rich in marrow are his bones.

²⁵Another dies in bitterness, never having enjoyed happiness.

²⁶But in the dust they lie down side by side, covered with worms.

²⁷I know your thoughts fully and your schemes about me.

²⁸For you say, "Where is the house of the great prince?

Where is the tent of the wicked?"

²⁹Have you never asked the travellers, or have you misunderstood what they say –

³⁰that the evil man is spared from calamity, delivered from the day of God's fury?

³¹Who will denounce his conduct to his face

or pay him back for what he has done?

³²When people have carried him to the grave

his image watches from his tomb.

³³The soft earth is sweet to him;
behind him you see all men follow and before him a countless procession.

³⁴How then can you console me with your nonsense?

After all you have said, falsehood alone remains.

Eliphaz: Can man be of any use to God?

22

¹Eliphaz the Temanite replied:

²Can man be of any use to God?

Only himself a wise man benefits.

³What advantage would God have if you were upright?

◆ What profit if you were faultless?

⁴Is it for your piety that he reproves and brings you to judgment?

⁵It is for your great wickedness, for there is no end to your sins.

⁶Without any need you kept your kinsmen's goods

and stripped them naked of their clothing.

⁷You denied drink to the thirsty and withheld bread from the hungry.

⁸The powerful are in control of the land and allot it to their cronies alone.

⁹You have sent widows away empty-handed

and crushed the arms of orphans.

¹⁰No wonder snares are round about you and sudden terror makes you dismayed.

¹¹You are blinded by darkness and covered by a flood of waters.

¹²Is not God above the heavens?

See how lofty are the highest stars.

¹³Yet you say, "What does God know?

Can he judge through such deep darkness?

¹⁴He cannot see for thick clouds veil him
as he walks upon the vault of the heavens."

¹⁵Will you keep to the old path that wicked men have trod?

¹⁶Before their time they were carried off and their foundation washed away.

¹⁷They said to God, "Away from us!
What can the Almighty do to us?"

¹⁸He had filled their houses with good things,

but the thoughts of the wicked were far from him.

¹⁹The righteous see their ruin and are glad,
while the innocent laugh at them and say,

²⁰"What is left of their wealth?

Fire has devoured their heritage."

²¹Come to terms with God and make
peace;

in this way you will prosper.

²²Receive instruction from him and keep his words in your heart.

²³You will be restored if you put iniquity away and return to the Almighty.

²⁴Then you will consider nuggets like dust,
gold of Ophir like stones.

²⁵For the Almighty will be your gold and your sparkling silver.

18. Ps 1, 4	19. Ex 20, 5; Dt 24, 16	20. Eek 18, 4	30. Ps 73, 5	32. Lk 16, 22	6. Dt 24, 10;
Eek 18, 12	7. Mt 25, 42	8. Is 58, 7	12. Ecl 5, 1	24. Mt 6, 19

²⁶ For then you will delight in the Almighty and lift up your face to God.

²⁷ You will pray to him and he will hear, and you will fulfil your vows.

²⁸ You will succeed in your decision, and light will shine upon your way.

²⁹ For God brings down the proud and saves the downcast.

³⁰ He delivers the innocent man, and rescues you if your hands are clean.

23 ¹ Again Job answered and said:
² Bitter and rebellious is my complaint,

how can I restrain my lament?

³ If only I knew where to find him,

if only I could go to his dwelling,

⁴ I would bring my case before him and lay out in full my arguments.

⁵ I would find out his answer and understand what he would say.

⁶ He would contend but see my point, and I would receive a fair hearing.

⁷ There the just might reason with him, and surely I should win my case.

⁸ But if I go eastward, he is not there;

if I go westward, I still cannot see him.

⁹ Seeking him in the north, I do not find him;

looking for him in the south, he is not there.

¹⁰ But he knows my every step,

so I will come out as gold in his test.

¹¹ I have always walked along his path;

I have kept his ways and not turned aside.

¹² I have not departed from his commands

but have treasured his words in my heart.

¹³ But who can oppose once he has decided?

He does what he desires.

¹⁴ He will carry out his decree and other plans he has in store for me.

¹⁵ That is why I am terrified

when I think of all this.

¹⁶ God has made me lose courage;

the Almighty has made me afraid

¹⁷ because I am not silenced by darkness, by the thick gloom that covers my face.

Why does God not ask?

+ 24 ¹ Why does not God inquire about what happens?
Why do his faithful never see his justice?

² The wicked remove landmarks and pasture stolen flocks.

³ They drive away the orphan's ass and for a pledge take the widow's ox.

⁴ They force the needy off the road and drive the poor into hiding.

⁵ Like wild asses in the wasteland, they go seeking prey;

the poor toil until night,

there is no food for their children!

⁶ They gather fodder in the fields, glean the vineyards of the wicked.

29. Is 57, 11

2. Dt 19, 14

3. Dt 24, 17

o Job comes back to what he already said: there is something tormenting religious people: to know that God is always looking at us and being unable to ever find him. This was commented in chapter 7: Job personifies those who do not know Christ and have not felt "how good the Lord is with those who serve him with love." The same rebellion is found in many atheists today: they refuse the idea of a God who watches them only to punish their faults.

+ A terrible accusation against God who keeps silent when the oppressed are before him. Few prophets had expressed the horror of human evil more forcefully.

It is true, as Job says, that 'the poor hide. There is not much awareness of war victims or work tragedies. All countries hide their poor and the rich live so apart (different neighbourhoods, different recreation, etc....) that they never meet the poor and thus, ignore them. But, that would be nothing if God did not seem to forget the poor.

■ This paragraph seems to be out of place here. The God of light allows the presence of dark areas on earth, where the children of darkness are at work.

Paragraph 24:18-23 would be better located after 27:23.

God is in you and others receive him from you – as long as you are not an important person.

What are you building, and will it benefit your brothers?

⁷Living in destitution, they lie down naked, shivering in the cold of the night.

⁸Drenched with mountain rains,
they hug the rocks for lack of shelter.

⁹The fatherless child is snatched from the breast,
the infant of the poor is seized for a debt.

¹⁰Lacking clothes, they go about naked, starving as they carry the sheaves.

¹¹Between the millstones they crush olives;
they tread the winepress but suffer thirst.

¹²In the city the dying groan, and the wounded cry out for help
but God pays no attention.

¹³Many rebel against the light,
they do not know its way or stay in its path.

■ ¹⁴When daylight is gone, the murderer rises

to kill the poor and the helpless.

¹⁵The adulterer waits for dusk, thinking that no eye watches him.

In the night the thief roams about and puts a mask over his face.

¹⁶ready to break into houses while darkness lasts.

Shutting themselves up by day,
these people do not know the light.

¹⁷Morning is their darkest hour
because then they have to fear.

¹⁸The wicked are foam on the face of the waters:

their portion of the land is cursed,
and no one goes to their vineyards.

¹⁹As drought and heat snap up the thawed
snow,

so Sheol swallows up the sinner,

²⁰and the womb which formed him, forgets him.

Evil men are no longer remembered,
like a fallen tree they are broken.

²¹They preyed on the barren, childless woman,

and showed no kindness to the widow.

²²But the Powerful stands against them and drags away the mighty.

²³He may let them feel secure,
but his eyes are upon their ways.

²⁴They are momentarily exalted, and then gone:

they wither and fade like a weed.

They are cut off like heads of grain.

²⁵If this is not so, who can prove me wrong and reduce my words to nothing.

◆ 25 ¹Then Bildad the Shuhite answered:
²Dominion and awe belong to God, who establishes peace in the heavenly.

³Can his armies be numbered?

Upon whom does his light not rise?

⁴How can man be righteous before God?

How can one born of woman be pure?

⁵Even the moon is not bright

nor are the stars pure in his sight –

⁶how much less man, – this insect,
the son of man who is but a worm?

+ 26 ⁵The shades of the deep writhe in terror,

the waters and their inhabitants.

⁶Sheol is naked before God;

Destruction lies uncovered.

⁷Over the void he spreads out the northern skies;

over nothing he suspends the earth.

⁸He wraps up the waters in his clouds, yet the clouds do not burst under their weight.

9. Am 2, 6

6. Dt 24, 12

◆ Bildad offers a new presentation of the splendour of the world. The people of the time still had very primitive ideas about the origin of the world. They accepted the legends of the neighbouring people, the Canaanites and the Chaldeans, presenting the universe as organized by the gods after they had destroyed the monsters of chaos. For some time, the Jews said similar things: they were satisfied to take out of the legends the references to pagan gods and they were speaking of a first victory of Yahweh at the beginning of the world. See also Is 51:9.

The first chapter of Genesis was written after these poems. There the notion of God Creator is purified: God created everything from the beginning and he did so by his word alone.

+ Paragraph 26:1-4 comes at the end of chapter 26.

⁹He covers the face of the moon and spreads his clouds over it.

¹⁰On the face of the waters he draws the horizon

as boundary between light and darkness.

¹¹The pillars of the heavens quake, stunned at his thunderous rebuke.

¹²By his power he stilled the sea;
by his wisdom he smote Rahab.

¹³By his wind the skies became clear;
his hand pierced the fleeing serpent.

¹⁴These are but hints of his power;
a whisper is all that we hear of him.

But who can understand the thunder of his might?

o ¹Job answered then:

²What help have you given to the powerless,

what strength to the enfeebled arm?

³What advice have you offered to the foolish,

and what great insight have you shown?

⁴Who has inspired in you these words?

Whose spirit spoke from your mouth?

¹Job continued his discourse:
²As God lives, who denies my right,
the Almighty, who has made me bitter,

³as long as I have life within me and God's breath in my nostrils,

⁴my lips will not speak falsehood nor my tongue utter deceit.

⁵Never will I admit you are right,
nor deny my integrity till I die.

⁶Never will I let go of my righteousness;
my conscience is not ashamed of me.

⁷Let my enemy be as the wicked and my adversary as the unrighteous.

⁸For what hope has the godless when God cuts him off, when God takes away his life?

⁹Will God listen to his call when he is beset by trouble?

¹⁰Will he delight in the Almighty and call upon him constantly?

¹¹I will teach you about the power of God;
I will not conceal the ways of the Almighty.

¹²You have witnessed this yourselves.
Why then these empty words?

¹³This is a wicked man's portion from God,
the heritage of an oppressor which he receives from the Almighty.

¹⁴Though his children be many,
the sword is their destiny.

His offspring will go hungry.

¹⁵The plague will bury those who survive
him,

and their widows will not mourn for them.

¹⁶He may heap up silver like dust and pile up clothes like clay,

¹⁷but what he stores, the just will wear,
and the innocent will divide his silver.

¹⁸He builds his house like a cobweb, or like the hut a watchman makes.

¹⁹Once more he lies down rich and opens his eyes to see his wealth gone.

²⁰Terrors rush upon him by day:
at night a whirlwind carries him away.

²¹The east wind lifts him up, and he disappears

as it sweeps him out of his place.

²²People strike at him without mercy
as he flees headlong from their hands.

²³They clap their hands in mockery and hiss him from where he is.

The miners praise the wisdom of God

+ 28

¹There is a mine for silver and a place where gold is refined.

²Iron is taken from earth and copper is smelted from ore.

³Man tries to conquer darkness, piercing to the uttermost depths
in darkness far the gloomy stone.

⁴Strange people cut a shaft in places remote and long forgotten, and there they labour, dangling and swaying.

⁵The earth, out of which food comes, underneath is turned upside as by fire.

⁶Sapphires come from its rocks,

- gold nuggets from its dust.
⁷No bird of prey knows the hidden path,
 no falcon's eye has seen it yet.
⁸No proud beast has trodden it,
 no prowling lion has passed over it.
⁹Man attacks the flinty rocks,
 upturns mountains by their roots.
¹⁰Tunneling through earth's layers,
 he sees all its treasures.
¹¹He searches the sources of rivers,
 and brings to light the hidden things.
¹²But where is wisdom found?
 Where does understanding dwell?
¹³Man has known no way to wisdom;
 it is not found in the land of the living.
¹⁴The deep says, "It is not in me";
 the sea says, "It is not with me."
¹⁵It cannot be purchased with the finest gold, nor can its price be weighed in silver.
¹⁶It cannot be bought with the gold of Ophir, not with precious onyx or sapphire.
¹⁷It is beyond compare with gold or crystal;
 its worth is unmatched by any golden vessel.
¹⁸Not worth mentioning are coral and jasper;
 the price of wisdom is above the biggest pearl.
¹⁹The topaz of Cush cannot equal it;
 it cannot be valued in pure gold.
²⁰Whence then comes wisdom?
 Where does understanding dwell?
²¹It is hidden from the eyes of all the living, concealed from the birds in the sky.
²²Destruction and Death can only say,
 "We have heard of it."
²³God alone knows the way to wisdom,
 his eye enters its dwelling place.
²⁴When he looked to the ends of the earth,
 and watched everything under the heavens, ²⁵when he gave the wind its force and measured out the waters, ²⁶when he set a bound for the rain and a way for the thunder and lightning, ²⁷then he looked at wisdom and appraised it;
 he established it, knowing it in depth.

12. Job 28:23; Bar 3:15. 26. 1:40, 12. 27. Bar 3:32

o Job remarks ironically: What does all of this have to do with the point of the discussion?
 + This poem marks an interval and a break after Job's discussion with his friends.

Miners know how to look for hidden treasures inside hills: gold, silver and precious stones. But, who will look for God's wisdom? We find something similar in Baruch 3:15-30.

²⁸ And to man he said:
The fear of the Lord is wisdom;
avoiding evil is understanding.

Whoever heard spoke well of me

■ 29 ¹Job continued his discourse:

²Oh, that I were in months gone by,
in the days when God watched over me, ³when his light shone upon my head and I walked by it through darkness.

⁴Oh, that I were in my prime,
when God's friendship blessed my home, ⁵when the Almighty was yet with me and my children were around me, ⁶when milk bathed my footsteps and olive oil flowed from the rock.

⁷When I went to the city gate and took up my seat in the square ⁸the young men stepped aside and the old men rose to their feet; ⁹the chief men dared not speak
but laid their hands on their mouths; ¹⁰the princes were silenced, their tongues stuck to the palate.
²¹For me they listened and waited;
for my counsel they were silent.

²²Once I spoke they said no more,
but their interest grew all the more.
²³They waited for me as for showers;
they drank in my words as spring waters.
²⁴I smiled at them, they did not dare to believe it not a glance of mine was lost.
²⁵I chose out their way, acting as chief,
and took a king's place among the troops.
Wherever I led them, they went.

■ In chapters 29-31 Job presents his defense and he assumes the role of the just one who is envied and slandered. As long as people are lucky they are esteemed, but if they run into misfortune, suddenly everyone looks at them differently. It is because a secret instinct drives people to find a scapegoat in any critical situation and, similarly, it drives them to denounce the faults of the one who has fallen from a good situation.

Paradoxically, it is Job's defense that shows the flaws in his integrity. I was wearing my honesty like a garment. Job was delighted to do good. He was a "just" man, aware of being just and he was giving thanks to God who had made him good.

But all of this was nothing more than the justice of the Pharisee. Very respectful of a distant God, Job had built up his life, his virtues and his good self-image alone. In the end, his perfection did not exist in God's eyes because, without saying so, he was God's rival.

◆ The book of Job teaches us how much we need the coming of the Son of God. On one hand, as long as God does not present himself openly, man cannot avoid doubting and resenting him. On the other hand, as long as man feels

²⁷ My heart in turmoil is never at peace, for days of distress have come upon me...
²⁸ I go about in gloom, without the sun;
if I rise in council, it is to voice my grief.
²⁹ I have become a brother of jackals,

a companion of owls.
³⁰ My skin blackens and peels;
my body burns with fever.
³¹ My harp is turned to mourning,
and my flute to sound of weeping.

Have I eaten my food alone?

o31

¹ I have made a covenant with my eyes not even to gaze at a virgin.
² For what is man's lot from God on high,
his heritage from the Almighty above?
³ Is it not ruin for the wicked, disaster for the wrongdoer?
⁴ Does he not see my ways and number all my steps?
⁵ Have I walked in falsehood?
Have my feet hastened to deceit?
⁶ Let me be weighed in honest scales, that God may know I am guiltless.
⁷ If my steps have turned from the way and my heart's desire has gone astray, if my hands have been stained,
⁸ then may others eat what I have sown,
or may my crops be stricken down.
⁹ If I have been enticed by a woman,
if I have lurked at my neighbour's door, ¹⁰ then may my wife grind for another,
and may other men sleep with her.
¹¹ (For that is enough to make one ashamed, a crime that should be utterly condemned.)
¹² For it is a fire that burns to destruction;
it would have consumed all my possessions.
¹³ If I have denied justice to my servants
when they had grievance against me, ¹⁴ what would I do when confronted by God?
What would I answer when called to account?
¹⁵ No less than I, they too were formed in the womb
by the same God who made us all within our mothers.
¹⁶ Have I denied anything to the poor, or allowed the widow's eyes to languish?
¹⁷ Have I eaten my food alone,
not sharing it with the fatherless?

on concern for one's neighbour. In a world with a very modest standard of living, those lucky enough not to lack anything had the obligation of sharing with their less fortunate brothers. The most serious sin was the lack of social solidarity.

In Job's examination of conscience the sin of idolatry appears (verses 26-28): the temptation to adore the heavenly bodies as gods. This, however, played a minor role compared with another rebellion against God, that of a man wanting to enjoy "his" gods and forgetting the tragedy in the world when he was to build a fraternal world.

¹⁸No! since youth I have fostered him,
and from my mother's womb, I guided the widow.

¹⁹Have I seen a man cold and shivering, destitute, in need of clothing,

²⁰who did not bless me from his heart for giving him the warmth of my fleece?

²¹If I have raised my hand against the orphan, trusting in my power and influence,

²²then let my shoulder fall from its socket, let my arm be broken at the joint.

²³For I feared God-sent calamity, and would do no such thing against his majesty.

²⁴If I have put my trust in gold or have sought my security from it,

²⁵if I have gloated over my wealth,
my fortune and accomplishments,

²⁶if I have regarded the sun in its radiance or the moon in its splendor,

²⁷and having been enticed offered them
a kiss of my hand in homage,

²⁸then these also would be sins to judge for I would have been unfaithful to God.

²⁹Have I rejoiced at my enemy's misfortune or gloated over the trouble that befell him?

³⁰I have not even allowed my mouth to sin
by invoking a curse against him.

³¹Those of my household were used to say,
"Who has not been fed with Job's meat?"

³²No sojourner ever spent the night in the street,
for my door was always open to wayfares.

³⁸If my land has cried against me and its furrows wept

³⁹because I had eaten its fruits unjustly
after getting rid of its owners,

⁴⁰let thorns grow instead of wheat and striking plants in the place of barley.

⁴¹Have I, out of human weakness, hidden my sins and concealed the guilt in my heart,

⁴²keeping silent by myself

because I feared the crowd and their contempt.

⁴³Oh, that I had someone to hear me!

Let the Almighty answer! This is my plea.

Let my accuser write his indictment

⁴⁶and I will surely wear it on my shoulder, or bind it round my head like a turban.

⁴⁷I would give him an account of my every step,

and go as boldly as a prince to meet him.

This is the end of the words of Job.

■ Elihu's intervention starts the second part of the book, shorter than the first. Everything has been said and Elihu's speeches will not change the conclusion. Yet, he has his own viewpoint and he insists on the teaching aspect of the divine work; many situations which seem unjust to us stop being unjust if we go beyond our first impressions:

You ask where your faults are, but perhaps, God had warned you in a thousand ways and you did not take it into account: 33:13-18.

SECOND PART: ELIHU INTERVENES

32 ¹ Seeing Job unswayed in his belief that he was guiltless, the three men said nothing more to him. ² But Elihu, son of Barachel the Buzite, of the family of Ram, became angry with Job for justifying himself before God. ³ He was also angry with the three friends for their failure to refute Job, because they had allowed God to be condemned. ⁴ Because they were older than he, Elihu had bided his time; ⁵ but when the three gave up the argument his anger burst out. ⁶ Thus Elihu, son of Barachel the Buzite, spoke:

I am young and you are quite old;
therefore I was timid and afraid and dared not tell you of what I know.
⁷ "Age should speak." I thought:
"advanced years should teach wisdom."
⁸ But it is the spirit in man,
the breath of the Almighty,
that makes him understand.
⁹ It is not the old alone who are wise,
nor the aged who understand what is right.

¹⁰ Therefore I say, listen;
let me also show my knowledge.
¹¹ I waited listening as you spoke,
as you tried hard to reason,
¹² I gave you my full attention.
But none of you has proved Job wrong,
none has refuted his arguments.
¹³ Stop saying, "We have met wisdom;
God has instructed us, not man."
¹⁴ I will not resume your argument or answer Job with your reasoning.

¹⁵ They keep quiet for they are dismayed and have nothing more to say.
¹⁶ Must I wait, now that they are silent,
now that they stand saying nothing?
¹⁷ I too will show my knowledge.
¹⁸ For I am full of words and prodded on by the spirit.
¹⁹ I am as bottled-up wine,
or wineskin bursting with wine.
²⁰ I have to speak to find relief,
open my lips and make reply.
²¹ I will be partial to no one and will not flatter any man.
²² For if I were skilled in flattery, my Maker would soon do away with me.

Have you heard God's warning?

+ 33 ¹ So now, O Job, hear my discourse, listen to everything I say.

² My words are on the tip of my tongue,
³ words from an upright heart,
words full of knowledge and sincerity.
⁴ The Spirit of God has made me;
the breath of the Almighty keeps me alive.
⁵ Answer me if you can;
draw up your arguments and take your
stand.

⁶ Like yourself, I too have been taken by God from the same clay.
⁷ Thus, no fear of me need alarm you,
nor should my presence lie heavy on you.

⁸ But I heard what you said,
none of your words escaped my hearing:

⁹ "I am clean and without sin;
I am innocent, guiltless."
¹⁰ Yet God has found fault with me and considers me his enemy;
¹¹ he shackles my feet,
keeps watch of all my paths."

¹² I tell you, you are wrong in this,
for greater than man is God.
¹³ Why then do you complain that he will answer none of your words?

¹⁴ See God gives a warning
but does not repeat it a second time.

¹⁵ In a dream, in a night vision,
when deep sleep falls on men,
while they slumber in their beds, ¹⁶ it is then he opens the ears of men and gives warning by terrifying them.
¹⁷ So he turns man from wrongdoing and keeps him away from pride, ¹⁸ God preserves his soul from the pit,
his life from perishing by the sword.

¹⁹ Man is also chastened on his bed by pain and constant distress upon his frame, ²⁰ so that he finds food repulsive, even the choicest meal loathsome.
²¹ His flesh wastes away to naught;
his bones, once unseen, now stick out.
²² His soul draws near to the pit,
and his life to the place of death.
²³ Yet if there is an angel by his side –

27. Ps 103, 10; Rom 6, 23 11. Ps 62, 13 12. Pro 24, 12 13. Wis 12, 16 17. Gen 18, 25

You despair in your illness, but perhaps God wants to teach you: you did not invoke him when all was going well: 35: 8-13.
Elihu senses that there is something false in Job's righteousness, but he does not know what it is. He looks for secret sins that Job might have committed. The fact is that what Job lacks is evangelical justice which is the humble love of God.

+ Elihu says to Job: you think you are inno-a mediator, one in a thousand – to show him what is right for man, to give him justice once again,

²⁴ God will have mercy on him and say,
“Deliver him from going down to the pit;
I have found for him a ransom.”

²⁵ Then his flesh will be renewed as a child’s,

restored as in the days of his youth.
²⁶ He will pray and find favour with God;
he will see God’s face and rejoice.

²⁷ He will witness to men and say,
“I sinned and perverted what was right,
but I was not punished as I deserved.”

²⁸ He rescued my soul from going down the pit, and gave me life to enjoy the light.”

²⁹ God does all this to man – twice, even thrice –

³⁰ to turn him back from the pit, to lead him with the light of life.

³¹ Pay attention, Job, listen to me;
be silent, and I will continue to speak.

³² But if you have anything to say, say it then.

speak up, for I wish to see you justified.

³³ If not, then do listen;

be silent as I teach you wisdom.

34 ¹ Elihu continued speaking:
² Hear my words, you wise men;

listen to me, you who know.

³ The ear tests the word,
as the palate tastes the food.

⁴ Let us discern what is right, learn between us what is good.

⁵ Job has said, “I am innocent, but God denies me justice
⁶ and disregards my right though guiltless, my wound is hopeless.”

⁷ What man is like Job, who drinks in blasphemies like water?

⁸ He keeps company with evildoers and goes in the path of wicked men.

⁹ For has he not said, “It does not profit a man
if he tries to please God?”

¹⁰ So hear me, you men of understanding,
Far be it from God to do evil,
far from the Almighty to do wrong!

¹¹ Rather, he repays man for what he has done;

he gives him what his conduct deserves.

¹² How unthinkable that God would do wrong,

that the Almighty would pervert justice!

¹³ Who gave him charge over the earth?

Who else laid out the whole world?

¹⁴ If he were to take back his spirit,

to withdraw to himself his breath,

¹⁵ all flesh would perish together and man would return to dust.

¹⁶ Do you hear this, O Job?

Do you understand what I say?

¹⁷ Can an enemy of justice govern?

Or do you condemn him who is mighty and just,

¹⁸ who says to kings, “You are worthless,”

and to nobles, “You are wicked,”

¹⁹ who is impartial to princes and favours not the rich over the poor, for they are all his handiwork?

²⁰ They die in a moment, even at midnight;
people are shaken and pass away.

Without effort he removes a tyrant.

²¹ His eyes are upon the ways of men,
and he sees their every step.

²² For him there is no dense darkness where evildoers can hide.

²³ He forewarns no man of his time to come before God in judgment.

²⁴ He shatters the mighty without inquiry, and sets in his place another strongman.

²⁵ Because he knows their evil deeds,
he turns at night and crushes them.

²⁶ He punishes them for their wickedness in a judgment that men witness.

²⁷ For they had turned away from him,
heeded none of his ways,

²⁸ and oppressed the poor so much,
that their cries of suffering reached him.

²⁹ If he remains silent, who stirs him up?
If he hides his face, who can see him?

Yet he watches man and nation alike, ³⁰ and restrains those who mislead the
people.

³¹ If a wicked man says to God,
“I was misguided but will offend no more,”

³² Teach me what I do not see;

cent, but surely you have not paid attention to God’s warnings. In spite of the fact that God cannot be reached by humans, he communicates through dreams, inspirations, encounters. God also corrects by way of the advice of other people who are his messengers, called here ‘angels,’ ‘mediators.’ We know that angel means messenger. The very man who complains about God fails to see, to listen and to accept the messages God sends through the reprimands and advice given us by others correcting us in a fraternal way.

Elihu shows how trials are a lesson in humility for all (36:1-21).

8. Is 11, 2; Dn 13, 45 9. Wis 4, 8 19. Mr 9, 17 4. Ps 104, 30

if I have done wrong, I will do so no more"

³³ In such a case, do you think God will punish?

Speak, you who reject his decisions and think you know more than I do;
tell us what you know.

³⁴ Men of understanding will say to me,
wise men who hear my views:

³⁵ "Job speaks without knowledge;
his words are without insight.

³⁶ Let Job be tried to the utmost for answering as wicked men do!

³⁷ To his sin he adds rebellion by scornfully brushing off our arguments and multiplying his words against God."

It is because they did not call on God

35 ¹ Elihu continued and said:

² Do you presume you are right and innocent before God,

³ when you say, "What is it to you,
am I doing you harm with my sins?"

⁴ I will answer you and your friends as well.

⁵ Look up to the sky and see,
gaze at the clouds above.

⁶ Does your sin injure God?

Do your many offenses hurt him?

⁷ What does your righteousness give him?

What does he receive from your hand?

⁸ You are right: it is man that his wickedness affects;
man himself like you benefits from his righteousness.

⁹ Men cry out when greatly oppressed;
they plead for relief under the tyrant's reign.

¹⁰ But no one says, "Where is God, my Maker, whose songs of jubilation are heard in the night,

¹¹ who teaches us through the beasts of the
earth,

who makes us wise through the birds of the air?"

¹² This is why he does not answer when they cry out

because of man's arrogance.

¹³ In vain! God does not listen, the Almighty takes no heed of it.

¹⁴ How much less then will he listen

when you say you do not see him, and wait, for your case is before him!

¹⁵ and you say that though he is angry

he does not know how to punish for he has taken no notice of wickedness:

¹⁶ So Job opens his mouth in empty talk, without knowledge he multiplies words.

God tests man to correct him

36 ¹ Elihu proceeded further:

² Bear with me a little and I will explain,

for I have more to say on God's behalf.

³ I will spread my knowledge afar to do justice to my Maker.

⁴ Be assured that my words are not false, for you have before you an enlightened
man.

⁵ God is mighty indeed

but he does not despise the pure of heart

⁶ He cuts off the power of the sinner and restores the right of the oppressed,

⁷ he does not forsake their claim.

He sets kings on their thrones and makes them firm forever.

But if they raise themselves in pride

⁸ he has them bound with fetters and held fast by bonds of affliction,

⁹ Then he tells them what they have done all their sins and arrogance.

¹⁰ He opens their ears to correction and exhorts them to repentance.

¹¹ If they obey and serve him,
they spend their days in prosperity and their years in contentment.

¹² But if they do not listen, they go to the grave:

knowledge would have saved them.

¹³ These rebels harbour resentment:
they do not pray for help in their bonds,

¹⁴ therefore they die in their youth and perish among the reprobate.

¹⁵ God saves the wretched through their suffering,
God instructs the unfortunate.

¹⁶ In like manner, he rescues you from distress

to a free and broad space,
to a table filled with rich food.

¹⁷ Then you will judge the wicked;

justice and judgment will be yours.

¹⁸ Be not overcome by wrath, and oppression one;

do not yield to arrogance, bribery and
corruption.

¹⁹ Your wealth and all your mighty efforts will not bail you out of distress.

²⁰ Do not long for the coming of night to drag people away from their homes.
²¹ Beware of turning to iniquity, which you seem to have chosen rather than affliction.

A hymn to God's greatness

◆ ²² God is exalted in his power.
What teacher is there like him?
²³ Who has prescribed his ways for him,
or said to him that he has done wrong?
²⁴ Remember to extol his work,
of which many men have sung.
²⁵ All mankind has seen it;
men gaze on it from afar.
²⁶ God is great beyond our understanding;
the number of his years is past reckoning.
²⁷ He holds in check the waterdrops which distil from the mist as rain, ²⁸ then the clouds will pour them down back to earth as showers again.
²⁹ This is the way he nourishes the land that provides food in abundance.
³⁰ Who can understand how he spreads the clouds,
how he thunders from his pavilion?
³¹ He unfurls his mists and covers the expanse of the sea.
³² With both hands he lifts up lightning and commands it to strike the target.
³³ His thunder warns the shepherd and the flock senses the tempest.

37 ¹ This is why my heart pounds and leaps from its place.
² Listen to the thunder of his voice
as it comes rumbling from his mouth.
³ Under the heavens, he hurls his lightning, sending it to the ends of the earth.
⁴ After it comes God's roaring voice—
the majestic peal of his thunder.
He does not check his thunderbolts until his voice has fully resounded.
⁵ God thunders and his voice works mar-vels,
he does great things we cannot perceive.

Yahweh answers Job

o 38

¹ Then Yahweh answered Job out of the storm:

² Who is this that obscures divine plans with words of ignorance?

³ Gird up your loins like a man;
I will question you and you must answer.

⁴ He says to the snow, "Fall on the earth";
and to the rainshower, "Be a strong downpour."

⁵ So he has people kept under cover to let them acknowledge his work.

⁶ Wild beasts go back into their lairs and remain quietly in their dens.

⁷ The storm comes out from its chamber, and the cold from the driving winds.

⁸ By the breath of God ice is given,
and the broad waters become frozen.

⁹ With thunderbolt he loads the clouds, and through them scatters his lightnings.

¹⁰ At his direction they do their rounds, upon the face of the habitable world.

¹¹ He commands nature to punish men,
to water his land or to show his love.

¹² Listen to this, O Job:
pause and consider God's marvels.

¹³ Do you know how he controls the clouds,

how he makes his lightning flash?

¹⁴ Do you know how the clouds hang poised,

all these wonders wrought in his perfect knowledge?

¹⁵ You who swelter in your clothes when the earth lies still under the south wind,

¹⁶ can you, like him, spread out the skies,
hard as a mirror of molten bronze?

¹⁷ Teach us then what we shall say to him;
we cannot draw up our case because of darkness.

¹⁸ Does it take an angel to bring this to God's attention

¹⁹ A while ago we could not see the light and the clouds darkened the sky,
but the storm has just cast them out.

²⁰ A blaze come from the north,
a dreadful glory around God.

²¹ The Almighty, is beyond our reach;
exalted in power, great in judgment;
the Master of justice oppresses no one.

²² Therefore, people revere him:
wise men are nothing in his sight.

⁴Where were you when I founded the earth?
Answer, and show me your knowledge.

⁵Do you know who determined its size, who stretched out its measuring line?

⁶On what were its footings set?
Who laid its cornerstone,

⁷while the morning stars sang together and the sons of God shouted for joy?

⁸Who shut the sea behind closed doors
when it burst forth from the womb,

⁹when I made the clouds its garment and thick darkness its swaddling clothes,

¹⁰when I set its limits
and its doors and bars in place,

¹¹when I said, "You will not go beyond this bound;
here is where your proud waves must halt?"

¹²Have you ever commanded the morning, or shown the dawn its place,

¹³that it might grasp the earth by its edges and shake the wicked out of it?

¹⁴Then it takes a clay colour and changes its tint like a garment.

¹⁵The wicked are denied their own light,
and their proud arm is shattered.

¹⁶Have you journeyed to where the sea begins or walked in its deepest recesses?

¹⁷Have the gates of death been shown to you?
Have you seen the gates of Shadow?

¹⁸Have you minded the breadth of the earth?
Tell me, if you know all this.

¹⁹Where is the way to light's abode, and where does darkness abide?

²⁰Can you take them to their boundaries, and set them on their homeward paths?

²¹You know, for you were born before them,
and great is the number of your years!

²²Have you entered the storehouse of the snow

or seen the storehouse of the hail,

²³which I reserve for times of woe,

for days of war and of battle?

²⁴What is the way to the place where lightning is dispersed, or the place whence the east wind

o Yahweh answers Job from within the storm clouds, just like on Mount Sinai. He does not explain nor justify, but he is doing the questioning. He does not show off his own wisdom, but he forces man to admit that he does not know anything. In seeing and admiring the wonders of creation, man discovers that God's way of doing things is disconcerting. Why does God send rain upon uninhabited lands? Why does the ostrich leave carelessly her eggs on the ground? Why does the horse show so much boldness in a war useless to it?

begins spreading over the earth?

²⁵ Who has cut a channel for the torrents of rain, and path for the thunderstorm,

²⁶ to bring rain to no man's land and to the unpeopled wilderness,

²⁷ to enrich the waste and desolate ground,

to make the desert bloom with green?

²⁸ Does the rain have a father?

Who fathers the drops of dew?

²⁹ From whose womb comes the ice,

and who gives birth to the frost from the skies,

³⁰ when the waters lie as hard as stone,

when the surface of the deep is frozen?

³¹ Can you bind the chains of the Pleiades, or loosen the bonds of Orion?

³² Can you guide the morning star in its season, or lead the Bear with its train?

³³ Do you know the laws of the heavens,
and can you establish their rule on earth?

³⁴ Can you raise your voice to the clouds and order their waters to pour down?

³⁵ Will lightnings flash at your command and report to you, "Here we are"?

³⁶ Who has given the ibis foresight or endowed the cock with foreknowledge?

³⁷ Who has the wisdom to count the clouds?
Who tilts the water jars of heaven

³⁸ so that the dust cakes into a mass and clods of earth stick together?

³⁹ Can you hunt the woods to appease

the hunger of the lioness and her whelps,

⁴⁰ as they crouch in their dens or lie in wait in the thicket?

⁴¹ Who provides prey for the raven when its young cry out to God and roam about desperate for food?

39

¹ Do you know how mountain goats breed?

Have you observed the hinds in labour,

² numbered the months they must fulfil,

and fixed the time they must give birth?

³ Have you watched them end their labour

as they crouch and drop their young,

⁴ how they wait for them to grow,

until they leave never to return?

⁵ Who has given the wild ass his freedom, and loosed the bonds of the brayer?

⁶ I have given him the desert for a home,
the salt plains for a shelter.

⁷ For he scorns the city's tumult, knows not the driver's shout and insult;

⁸ he prefers the hills for his pasture, ranging for food in the rich verdure.

⁹ Is the wild ox willing to serve you,

to pass the night by your manger?

¹⁰ Can you make him work with a plow or harrow

if you provide him with the proper gear?

¹¹ Can you rely on his great strength and leave him to do your heavy work?

¹² Can you depend on him to come home alone, carrying your grain to your threshing floor?

23. Is 28, 17

31. Am 5, 8

41. Ps 147, 9

We, like old Job, have become accustomed to seeing this without marveling. though, on some occasions, we awaken. A mouse's strange look, or cubs at play, or the shape of a flower are enough to show forth the mystery of creation.

The world of the senses, the object of science, is not all of reality. It is only the expression, a sort of reflection of divine Wisdom, in which all beauty, goodness and truth have their roots: there we have the ultimate reality.

- ¹³ Can the wing of the ostrich be compared with the plumage of the stork or falcon?
¹⁴ She lays her eggs on the ground and lets them warm in the sand, ¹⁵ not knowing that a foot may step on them or some wild beast may crush them.
¹⁶ Cruel to her chicks as if they were not hers,
she cares not that her labour be in vain, ¹⁷ for God has given her no wisdom
nor a share of little good sense.
¹⁸ Yet in the swiftness of her foot,
she makes sport of horse and rider.
¹⁹ Is it you who give the horse strength and clothe his neck with splendour, ²⁰ who makes him leap like a grasshopper and his proud snorting strike terror?
²¹ Rejoicing in his strength, he fiercely paws
and charges into the fray, ²² afraid of nothing, laughing at fear,
not shying away from the sword.
²³ Against his side rattles the quiver, along with the lance and flashing spear.
²⁴ In frenzied excitement he eats up the ground;
there is no holding him when the trumpets sound.
²⁵ He cries "Hurrah!" at each trumpet blast.
He catches the scent of battle from afar,
the shout of commanders and the battle cry.
²⁶ Is it by your wisdom that the hawk takes flight and spreads his wings toward the south?
²⁷ Is it at your command that eagles fly and build their nests on high?
²⁸ On cliffs they dwell and spend the night;
their stronghold is the rocky crag.
²⁹ From there they look out for food,
which they detect even from afar.
³⁰ They and their young feast on blood, and where the slain lie, there they are.

+ 40 ¹ Yahweh said to Job:
² Must a faultfinder contend with the
A "mighty?
Let him who would correct God answer.
³ Job said:
⁴ How can I reply, unworth as I am!
All I can do is put my hand over my mouth.
⁵ I have spoken once, now I will not answer;
oh, yes, twice, but I will do no further.

Yahweh's discourse continues

⁶ Then Yahweh addressed Job out of the storm:
⁷ Gird up your loins like a man;
I will question you, and you must answer.
⁸ Would you refuse to acknowledge me,
right?
Would you condemn me that you may be justified?
⁹ Have you an arm like that of God, and can you thunder with a voice like his?

¹⁰Then adorn yourself with glory and splendour.

array yourself with grandeur and majesty.
¹¹Unleash the fury of your wrath;

¹²look for every proud man and abase him;
 crush the wicked where they stand.

¹³Bury them all in the dust.
 shut them silent-faced in the grave.

¹⁴If you can do this, I myself will admit that your right hand can save yourself.

¹⁵See, besides you I made Behemoth, who feeds on grass like ox.

¹⁶What strength he has in his loins,
 what power in the muscles of his belly!

¹⁷Like a cedar his tail sways,
 like cables are the sinews of his thighs.

¹⁸Like tubes of bronze are his bones,
 like iron rods are his limbs.

¹⁹He is first among the works of God, created to dominate its companions.

²⁰The mountains give him their produce, and he makes sport of all wild beasts.

²¹Under the lotus trees he lies,
 hidden among the reeds of the marsh.

²²The lotus trees cover him with their shade;
 the poplar trees on the bank surround him.

²³He is not alarmed though the river rages and torrents surge against his mouth.

²⁴Who can capture him by the eyes,
 or trap him and pierce his nose?

²⁵Can you pull in Leviathan with a hook, or curb his tongue with a bit?

²⁶Can you put a cord through his nose or pierce his jaw with a hook?

²⁷Will he keep begging you for mercy, or speak to you with tender words?

²⁸Can you make him your slave forever?

²⁹Can you make a pet of him like a bird, or put him on a leash for your maidens?

³⁰Will traders bargain for him?

Will merchants divide him up?

³¹Can you fill his hide with harpoons or his head with fish spears?

³²Try and lay a hand on him –
 you will not forget the struggle, and you will never do it again!

41 ¹Any hope of subduing him is vain,
 for the mere sight of him is overpowering.

²He grows so ferocious when aroused that no one dares stand before him.

³Who has attacked him and come off unharmed?

No one under the sky.

⁴I need hardly mention his limbs, describe his matchless strength.

⁵Who can strip off his outer garment and penetrate his double breastplate?

⁶Who can dare open the gates of his mouth to confront the terrors of his rows of teeth?

⁷Rows of scales are on his back – rows of shields that are tightly sealed.

⁸So closely fitted they are that no space intervenes;

⁹so joined one to another that they hold fast and cannot be parted.

¹⁰Light flashes forth when he sneezes;
 like those of dawn are his eyes.

¹¹Out of his mouth go flaming torches with sparks of fire leaping about.

¹²Out of his nostrils comes forth smoke,
 like hot steam from a boiling pot.

¹³His mere breath sets coals afire,
 with the flame pouring from his mouth.

¹⁴Strength abides in his neck,
 and terror dances before him.

¹⁵Tightly joined are the folds of his flesh, firmly cast and immovable,

¹⁶like his heart hard as stone.

¹⁷When he rises up, the mighty are terrified,

the waves of the sea fall back.

¹⁸Should the sword reach him, it will not avail,
 nor the spear, the dart, or the javelin.

¹⁹Iron is to him no more than straw;
 and bronze, no more than rotten wood.

²⁰Arrows will not put him to flight;
 slingstones will be as wisps of hay.

²¹Clubs are as splinters to him;
 he laughs at the whirling javelin.

²²His belly is as sharp as pottery sherds;
 he moves across the mire like a threshing sledge.

23. Ecl 12, 5

+ In questioning Job, Yahweh gets and gives us a few seconds of rest, before beginning his second discourse in chapters 40-41.

In chapter 40, Behemoth or the hippopotamus appears, enormous, terrible and ugly, that eats only plants. Leviathan, the crocodile, whose skin resists arrows just like an armor.

Though it is true that these chapters do not have any religious teachings, let us allow the Bible to show the greatness of creation in a poetic form. For centuries prophets and priests had to protect Israel from the seduction of nature. Everywhere around them, the wonders of creation gave rise to the pagan worship of natural forces.

²³ He churns the depths into a seething cauldron;

he makes the sea fume like a burner.

²⁴ Behind him he leaves a white gleaming wake, making the deep appear a hoary head of age.

²⁵ There is none like him upon the earth: such a horrible creature he was made!

²⁶ He makes all, however lofty, afraid;

he is king over all the sons of pride.

42 ¹This was the answer Job gave to Yahweh:

²I know that you are all powerful; no plan of yours can be thwarted.

^{3a}I spoke of things I did not understand, too wonderful for me to know.

⁵My ears had heard of you, but now my eyes have seen you.

⁶Therefore I retract all I have said, and in dust and ashes I repent.

The end of Job's Poem

◆ ⁷After Yahweh had spoken to Job, he turned to Eliphaz the Temanite. "I am angry with you and your two friends because you have not spoken of me rightly, as has my servant Job. ⁸Now, take seven bulls and seven rams, go to my servant Job, offer a holocaust for yourselves and let him pray for you. I will accept his prayer and excuse your folly in no speaking of me properly as my servant Job has done."

⁹Then Eliphaz the Temanite, Bildad the Shuhite, and Zophar the Naamathite went and did as Yahweh had ordered. Yahweh accepted Job's intercession.

Here ends the traditional story of Job

¹⁰After Job had prayed for his friends, Yahweh restored his fortunes, giving him twice as much as he had before. ¹¹All his brothers and sisters and his former friends came to his house and dined with him. They showed him sympathy and comforted him for all the evil that Yahweh had brought to him. Each of them gave him a piece of silver and a gold ring.

¹²Yahweh blessed Job's latter days much more than his earlier ones. He came to own fourteen thousand sheep, six thousand camels, a thousand yoke of oxen, and a thousand she-donkeys. ¹³He was also blessed with seven sons and three daughters. ¹⁴The first daughter he named Dove, the second Cinnamon, and the third Bottle of Perfume. ¹⁵Nowhere in the land was there found another woman who could compare in beauty with Job's daughters. Their father granted them an inheritance along with their brothers.

¹⁶Job lived a hundred and forty years; he saw his children and their children to the fourth generation. ¹⁷He died old and full of years.

But when the Jews had become stronger against these errors, they could freely sing the beauty of all that had come from the hand of God.

■ Here we have the conclusion of the long dialogues of this book.

Now my eyes have seen you. Job's questions about suffering and death have not been answered, but now we realize that it was not essential. God has responded. God has revealed himself and Job has begun to live as someone who has been miraculously freed from his loneliness. The words addressed to him by God seemed like reproaches, but the mere fact of speaking to him showed the love of God, just like Job's complaints were hiding his search for the living God.

What Job needed was not a revelation, since God had given him intelligence to investigate these human questions. What he lacked was to see God, and this is the great yearning of the entire Bible: "Show us your face and we will be saved" (Psalm 80:8).

◆ In the last paragraph (42:10-17) we have the conclusion of the popular story of the holy man Job, begun in 1:1-2:13 (see introduction). Since he preserved his trust, it was rewarded in the end by the just God.

On the contrary, in 7-9, we have a difficult merging between this submissive holy man Job and the other character who occupied most of the book, namely, the Job who argues with God. Here, God favours Job who points to the problems of this world, over his friends who thought they were more religious because they were hiding these flaws.

A childish faith does not want to see the seeming contradictions of life. Job is the example of the Christian who courageously looks for an answer to today's problems: my servant Job has spoken properly of me.

PROVERBS

o1

¹These are proverbs of Solomon, son of David, king of Israel:

²for you to obtain wisdom and instruction,

to penetrate words of significance,

³to acquire well-ordered knowledge, and become just with discernment and integrity.

⁴Simple people will become clever and the young will acquire understanding and foresight.

⁵let the wise man listen: he will add to his learning, and the man of sound judgment will acquire skill,

⁶to understand the proverbs and sayings,

the words of the wise and their riddles.

⁷The beginning of knowledge is the fear of Yahweh, only fools have contempt for wisdom and discipline.

7. Ps 111, 10; Job 28, 28

INTRODUCTION

The word of God came to the people of Israel in different ways. We have already said how the prophetic books and the historical books originated: they arose from the prophets' preaching and from the reflection on the history of Israel in religious circles.

But there were also men, of a very different disposition, who were more interested in reflecting on human behaviour, the ups and downs of life, the role of wealth, the different destiny of those who are irresponsible and those who dominate their desires. Their main concern was to know if there is justice in this world.

The popular wisdom of all peoples of any time was developed around these themes. So too, with the Israelites. When they were settled in their land, they began to have writers in Solomon's time, and they had their first books of proverbs and sayings. This marked the beginning of wisdom literature in the Bible.

This literature is no less word of God than the prophetic books: it is a different type of word throwing a different light on life. It does not deal with the destiny of God's people but with the possible ways for human beings to excel, in every sense of the word.

Avoid the company of evildoers

⁸Listen, my son, to the teaching of your father, do not ignore your mother's instruction: ⁹for they will be your graceful crown, a precious chain around your neck.

¹⁰My son, if sinners try to tempt you, do not give in.

¹¹They will invite you, "Come with us, let us spill blood, let us ambush the innocent without a second thought. ¹²We will engulf them as does the netherworld and snatch them suddenly as does death. ¹³We will help ourselves to many riches and fill our houses with booty. ¹⁴Join forces with us: one purse will be shared between us!"

¹⁵My son, do not go with them, do not set foot along their way. ¹⁶See, how they speed on to evil! How they hasten to spill blood!

¹⁷What bird would fall into a trap if you set it up in its sight? ¹⁸But these men stalk themselves and set a trap for their own lives.

¹⁹Such is the lot of all who lie by plunder: plunder will rob them of their own lives.

Listen to me today

+ ²⁰Wisdom shouts aloud in the streets, she raises her voice in the marketplace; ²¹at street corners she cries; she delivers her speeches at the city gates:

²²"You ignorant people, how long will you continue to cling to your foolishness? How long will mockers revel in their mockery, and fools have contempt for knowledge?"

²³Listen to my warning. Here I will pour my spirit upon you and make you know my words.

²⁴Indeed if I cry out and you refuse to listen, if I offer my hand and no one cares, ²⁵if you ignore my advice and reject my warning, ²⁶I, in turn, will laugh at your disaster, I will sneer when terror grips you; ²⁷when terror comes down on you like a hurricane, and distress and anxiety befall you.

²⁸Then people will cry to me but I will not respond. They will seek me but will not find me, ²⁹because they despised knowledge and did not choose the fear of Yahweh; ³⁰they would not listen to any advice and they rejected all my warnings.

³¹They will harvest the fruits of their evil ways and have their fill of their own designs. ³²For the error of the ignorant will lead to death, the idleness of fools brings about their ruin.

³³But whoever listens to me will feel secure and at ease, without fear of evil."

It is good to acquire wisdom

o From the beginning, men are divided into two groups. On one hand, the wise including intelligent, clever and responsible men: on the other hand, the foolish, including also stupid, lying and evil men.

The beginning of knowledge is the fear of Yahweh. This word "fear" does not have for us the meaning it had in the Bible. It is not, in fact, a matter of being afraid of God, but rather of a love full of respect. To fear Yahweh means to look to him before anyone else in making decisions. The person who fears Yahweh always takes him into account and takes God's word as the basis of his actions.

+ An invitation to convert today. Tomorrow will be too late. Jesus will say the same: Mt 7:21 and 25:1.

Wisdom shouts aloud in the streets. Who will be able to say that no one awakened him and showed him the way? Infrahuman conditions of life make a people irresponsible, but irresponsible men also make an infrahuman world. However, all were invited to come out of their passivity.

They did not choose the fear of Yahweh. This is the sin of the negligent. It is easy to excuse oneself: "There is no malice on my part: it is a question of negligence." Wisdom rejects

The greater part of the book of Proverbs is very old (chapters 10-31). The first section (chapters 1-9), however, is much more recent, around the second century before Christ. There we find a meditation about the Wisdom of God, from which all human wisdom proceeds. The height of this contemplation of divine Wisdom is found in the famous 8th chapter.

understanding: ³if you call for perception and raise your voice for insight; ⁴if you seek it as silver and search for it more than any treasure ⁵then you will understand the fear of Yahweh, and you will find the knowledge of God.

⁶For Yahweh gives wisdom and from his mouth come knowledge and insight. ⁷He reserves his help for the upright and is a shield for those who walk in integrity; ⁸he guards the ways of the just and protects the steps of his faithful.

⁹Then you will understand justice, discernment and integrity – all that leads you to happiness.

¹⁰Wisdom will abide in your heart and knowledge will comfort your inner self.

¹¹Foresight will guide you and understanding will protect you. ¹²It will guard you from evil, from those who have perverse purposes; ¹³from those who have abandoned the ways of goodness to walk the roads of darkness; ¹⁴they rejoice in evil-doing, they revel in perversion; ¹⁵their paths are crooked and their ways devious.

¹⁶Wisdom keeps you from the alien woman, from the stranger with her smooth words, ¹⁷who deserts the partner of her youth and forgets the covenant of her God.

¹⁸For her house inclines towards death, her paths towards the grave. ¹⁹Those who go to her never return, they do not regain the paths of life.

²⁰So you will walk along the way of the good, and keep to the paths of the virtuous.

²¹For the honest will inherit the land; the people of integrity will live on it.

²²The evil-doers instead will be cut off from the land. The wicked will be rooted out of it.

3 ¹My son, do not forget my instruction, my commands; keep them in your heart. ²For they will bring you length of days, years of life and peace.

³Let loyalty and truthfulness never leave you; tie them around your neck, write them on the tablet of your heart, ⁴that you may find favour and good name in the eyes of God and man.

Put wisdom into practice

◆ ⁵Trust in Yahweh with all your heart; do not rely on your own insight. ⁶Let his presence pervade all your ways and he will make smooth your paths.

⁷Do not consider yourself wise, fear God, and turn away from evil. ⁸This will be a medicine to your body and a relief to your bones.

⁹Honour Yahweh, giving him from what you have, the first fruits of all your produce. ¹⁰Then your barns will be filled to overflowing, your vats will brim over with wine.

¹¹My son, do not scorn the discipline of Yahweh; do not ignore his correction. ¹²For Yahweh corrects those he loves, as a father does with his beloved son.

¹³Happy the man who finds wisdom and gains insight. ¹⁴For she is of more value than silver and more useful than gold. ¹⁵She is more precious than pearls; nothing you could wish for would compare with it. ¹⁶With her right hand she offers you length of days, with her left, riches and glory. ¹⁷She leads you through delightful ways; all her roads are peace.

¹⁸She is a tree of life for those who clasp her; those who possess her are happy.

¹⁹It is by his wisdom that Yahweh founded the earth; by his understanding that he made firm the heavens. ²⁰By his knowledge the depths were scooped out, and the clouds rained down dew.

²¹My son, hold on to sound judgment and discretion and do not let them out of your sight. ²²They will give life to your inner self, and adorn your face.

²³Then, you can go your way

these excuses. Negligence is a form of contempt of God.

■ The wisdom of God protects those who love it against evil influences. They are no longer like straw carried off by the wind, like the foolish ones; they resist the call of drunkards, of frivolous women and of unscrupulous companions.

◆ The first paragraph deals with the attitudes leading to wisdom: humility, being willing to sacrifice what God wants, not becoming discouraged when the Lord corrects us, that is to say, when we are tested (see Heb 12:5 and Rev 3:19).

The proverbs insist on the value of advice, discipline, correction: to live as one pleases, according to one's fantasies causes all sorts of misfortune: this is a saying of Proverbs (see 5:12).

This will mean health for your body. The teachings of wisdom assure you of life and well-being. It is even healthy for the body (3:8; 4:22).

safely and your foot will not stumble.
²⁴ You will have no fear when you lie down and your sleep will be peaceful.
²⁵ You will not fear sudden terror or the attack of evildoers.
²⁶ For Yahweh is at your side and he guards your foot from harm.

²⁷ Do not hold back from those who ask your help when it is within your power to do so.
²⁸ Do not say to your neighbour, "Go away! Come another time; tomorrow I will give it to you!" when you can help him now.

²⁹ Do not plot evil against your neighbour who lives trustingly beside you, ³⁰ nor fight a man without cause since he has done you no wrong.
³¹ Do not envy the man of violence or follow his example.

³² For Yahweh hates the wicked but guides the honest.
³³ He curses the house of the evildoer but blesses the home of the upright.
³⁴ If there are mockers, he mocks them in turn but he shows his favour to the humble. The wise will possess his glory while the foolish will inherit disgrace.

Keep your path

4 ¹ Listen, my sons, to a father's instruction and pay attention so that you may gain insight.
² For I have given you good principles; do not discard my teaching!

³ For when I, too, was a young boy, and my mother fondly looked on me as special,
⁴ my father taught me and said to me: Treasure my words in your heart; listen to my directions and you will live.

⁵ Acquire wisdom and insight and do not forget or reject the words of my mouth.
⁶ Do not abandon wisdom for she will protect you. Love her and she will be your salvation.

⁷ The beginning of wisdom is to work to acquire it. At the cost of all you possess, strive to gain insight.
⁸ Hold her close, for she will exalt you and bring you honour if you embrace her.

⁹ She will crown you with grace and put a diadem of splendour on your head.

¹⁰ Listen, my son, and take my words to heart; then the years of your life will be multiplied.

¹¹ Because I have taught you the way of wisdom and have guided you along honest ways, ¹² you will walk with ease and run without falling.
¹³ Hold firm to discipline; never let her go. Guard her well for she is your salvation.

¹⁴ Do not follow the way of the wicked nor walk with evildoers.
¹⁵ Avoid them, turn your back on them and pass on.
¹⁶ For they do not sleep unless they have done evil; they cannot rest unless they have caused someone's downfall.
¹⁷ Wickedness is their bread and violence their wine.

¹⁸ The way of the upright is like the dawn whose light increases until the fullness of day.
¹⁹ The way of the wicked is total darkness and they do not notice what will make them fall.

²⁰ My son, be attentive and listen carefully to my words.
²¹ Never let them out of your sight but guard them in the bottom of your heart.
²² For they are life to those who cling to them and healing for the inner spirit.

o ²³ Above all else, guard your heart for therein is the source of life.
²⁴ Keep your mouth from lies and let no deceit come from your lips.

²⁵ Keep your sight on what is ahead and your eyes directed straight in front of you.
²⁶ Test the ground under your feet and all your ways will be secure.

Beware of the adulteress

5 ¹ My son, pay heed to my wisdom and listen to what I know by my insight;
² remember my counsel and let your lips not depart from this knowledge.

³ Know that the lips of the adulteress are sweet as honey and her words smoother than oil,
⁴ but the outcome is bitter as herbs. It is as sharp as a double-edged sword.

⁵ Her feet go down to the grave and her steps lead to death.
⁶ She pays no attention to the path of life and strays without knowing it.

⁷ Now then, my son, listen to me and do not forget my words:
⁸ Stay away from her and

29. Jer 12, 6

34. James 4, 6; 1 Pet 5, 5

o Above all guard your heart for therein is the source of life. This verse resembles Christ's word in Mark 7:21 and Matthew 12:34. Good as well as evil comes from the heart, that is, from what is innermost.

+ Drink from the water of your own cistern. Let man be responsible first in his married life. This chapter develops the consequences of licentiousness. It also invites man to value the intimacy of his married life and to be able after never approach the door of her house,⁹ lest you surrender your honour to strangers and your best years to cruel men,¹⁰ lest others benefit from your goods and your earnings go to an alien house.

¹¹ You will complain at the end when your body and flesh are already devoured and ¹² you will say, "Why did I reject instruction and turn my back on sound advice?" ¹³ Why did I not listen to the voice of my teachers and follow their counsel? ¹⁴ For I have come to the depths of disgrace in the midst of the whole community."

+ ¹⁵ Drink, then, from the water of your own cistern, from that which flows in your own well. ¹⁶ Do not let your fountains be wasted elsewhere nor in the public streets. ¹⁷ They are for you alone and not for strangers.

²⁰ My son, why be infatuated with an adulteress and embrace a strange woman? ²¹ For Yahweh watches the ways of men and he observes all his paths.

²² The wicked will be caught in his own evil and remain entangled in the nets of his own sin. ²³ He will die for want of discipline and will drown in the rising tide of his own evil.

6 ¹ My son, if you have stood bail for your neighbour or guaranteed the word of a stranger: ² if you have committed yourself with your own lips, know that you have trapped yourself with your own words. ³ Then do this, my son: release yourself. If you have fallen into the hands of your neighbour, go speedily, kneel down and plead with him;

⁴ do not give sleep to your eyes or rest to your eyelids. ⁵ Break free like a gazelle from the trap or a bird from the hand.

The idlers and the fools

⁶ You idler, go to the ant, watch her ways and be wise. ⁷ She has no master, no steward or overseer. ⁸ She secures food in summer and stores up provisions during harvest time.

⁹ How long, you idler, are you going to lie around? When do you intend to rise from sleep? ¹⁰ A little sleep, a little drowsiness and your laziness creeps up on you and then, like a tramp, ¹¹ poverty comes, bringing misery like a vagabond.

¹² The villain, the unjust man goes about with a sneer on his lips, ¹³ winking his eye, shuffling his feet and beckoning with his finger. ¹⁴ His heart is deceitful; he is forever plotting evil and causing arguments. ¹⁵ Therefore, disaster will suddenly and irrevocably overtake him.

²⁰ My son, respect your father's instruction and do not reject your mother's teaching. ²¹ Hold them forever in your heart and hang them around your neck. ²² These will guard your footsteps, protect you when you sleep and speak to you on waking.

²³ For the commandment is a lamp and the teaching a light; correction teaches you the way of life.

²⁷ Can you hold fire in your pocket without setting fire to your clothes or ²⁸ walk on hot coals without burning your feet? ²⁹ So it is for the man who approaches his neighbour's wife: all who touch her will be punished.

many years to continue being as the "bridegroom" of his wife: be always in love with her. It would be easy to verify that many are tempted by vices, especially drunkenness, because they did not know how to understand each other and to dialogue in their marriage. Since they were not able to have an authentic married life, they found refuge in a group of friends to live as irresponsible bachelors with them.

■ Here we have all kinds of advice.

6:1-5 A man who is responsible, however generous and obliging he may be, always thinks before committing himself.

6:9-11 He who is lazy to get up will benefit from these verses and also from 26:14.

Following this passage, there is a long discourse on the consequences of adultery which is accompanied by a life of lies and slavery.

³⁰ One does not condemn the hungry thief who steals to fill his stomach; nevertheless, ³¹ if he is caught, he must pay sevenfold and give the contents of his house. ³² How senseless is the adulterer! Whoever does so destroys himself. ³³ He will reap blows and contempt and his disgrace will not be erased.

7 ¹ My son, keep my words and remain faithful to my commands. ² Hold fast to my instruction and you will have life; treasure my teachings as the apple of your eye. ³ Bind them on your fingers, write them on the tablets of your heart. ⁴ Let wisdom be your sister and knowledge your friend, ⁵ so that you will be saved from the adulterous woman, from the stranger with her enticing words.

¹¹ She is brazen and shameless, unable to remain in the house. ¹² Now at the corner, now in the square, ¹³ she is on the lookout.

¹⁴ She throws herself at him, kisses him and confidently says, ¹⁵ "I have to offer sacrifices and terminate my vows; because of this ¹⁶ I came out to meet you. I sought and found you. ¹⁷ I have decorated my bed with quilts and fine Egyptian sheets and ¹⁸ sprinkled it with myrrh, aloes and cinnamon. ¹⁹ Come, let us abandon ourselves to pleasure and drink our fill of love all night, ²⁰ for my husband is not at home but away on a long journey. ²¹ He has taken his moneybags and will not return before the full moon."

²² She led him astray with such smooth and seductive words.

²³ At once he followed her, as an ox led to slaughter or a deer caught in a snare ²⁴ until its liver is pierced by an arrow; as a bird springs at the snare unaware that its life is at stake.

²⁵ Now then, my sons, listen and pay attention to my words. ²⁶ Do not be led astray or lose yourself on her paths. ²⁷ For she has brought many to their death and the strongest were all her victims. ²⁸ Her house leads to hell and death.

Wisdom calls

8

¹ Who calls? Is it not Wisdom?
Who lifts up her voice?

² Is it not Knowledge?

She shouts from the hilltops and waits by the crossroads;

³ in the vicinity of the city gates she speaks.

⁴ "It is you, men, I address for my message is directed to all mankind ⁵ so that the ignorant may learn and the thoughtless come to their senses.

⁶ Listen to me for I speak of vital things and everything I say is true.

⁷ Truthful words come from my mouth and my lips do not lend themselves to evil.

⁸ All my words are right,
none are twisted or deceitful.

⁹ The intelligent will verify their truth,
the wise perceive their sincerity.

◆ Wisdom speaks again in this poem. We understand that this Wisdom is the wisdom found in the books of the Bible. The biblical words are alive, as they contain something of God, something which is life-giving to us (Jesus will also say that the word of God is a seed).

- ¹⁰ Prefer my teaching to silver and seek wisdom rather than gold, ¹¹ because wisdom has more value than any jewel and no human desire can equal it.
¹² I, Wisdom, dwell with discretion and count pensiveness among my friends.
¹³ Fear of Yahweh is rejection of evil.
I hate all pride, arrogance, wicked ways and lies,
¹⁴ but love counsel, discretion, prudence and strength.
¹⁵ Kings reign by my power, their ministers issue just laws ¹⁶ by me princes govern,
and the great and noble of the earth as well.
¹⁷ I love those who love me and go to meet those who seek me.
¹⁸ Riches and honour are with me,
true well-being and upright living.
¹⁹ More precious than silver and gold are my fruit and my yield.
²⁰ I proceed on the path of righteousness and make use of the ways of justice, ²¹ giving riches to those who love me,
and filling their cellars.

Yahweh formed me at the beginning

- o ²² Yahweh created me first,
at the beginning of his works.
²³ He formed me from of old,
from eternity, even before the earth.
²⁴ The abyss did not exist when I was born,
the springs of the sea had not gushed forth,
²⁵ the mountains were still not set in their place,

All the benefits that will be reaped by the frequent reading of the Bible are listed: to begin with, the fear of God, that is to say, appreciating God above all things. Then, culture enabling us to be leaders and to undertake responsible tasks. Finally, success in life.

Many youths and adults who are not well educated think they will always be inferior: they do not believe they are capable of performing either in ministry or in the promotion of others. They must realize that the regular study of the Bible will not only strengthen their faith, but it will be the starting point of human culture and it will enable them to guide others.

o Yahweh created me first, at the beginning of his works. Note the poetic way of presenting wisdom as if it were someone, as if it were a daughter of God: I was playing in his presence; I played throughout the world. Such figures of speech contain a religious discovery of the last centuries before Christ.

For a very long time the Bible had insisted on the fact that there is only one God and that he has nothing to do with the countless gods of the pagans. But now, believers sense that there is something missing in their knowledge of Yahweh. How can God be a source of life and of love if he is locked up in his solitude? Thanks to the Bible, believers know that besides being the Almighty and Holy God, the Lord becomes present to his people, in the Temple and the Cloud, and that he reveals himself to the prophets to whom he sends his Spirit.

Thus, in the last books of the Old Testament, the authors speak of the Spirit, the Wisdom, the Power, the Providence of God as if they were both something of God and something different from him, like characters sharing God's mysteri-nor the hills when I was born, ²⁶ before he made the earth or countryside, or the first grains of the world's dust.

²⁷ I was there when he made the skies and drew the earth's compass on the abyss, ²⁸ when he formed the clouds above and when the springs of the ocean emerged; ²⁹ when he made the sea with its limits,
 that it might not overflow.

When he laid the foundations of the earth,

³⁰ I was close beside him,
 the designer of his works,
 and I was his daily delight,
 forever playing in his presence.
³¹ while I played throughout the world,
 but my delight is with the sons of men.
³² Now then, my sons, listen to me:
 happy are those who follow my ways.
³³ Listen to my teaching and gain wisdom;
 do not ignore it.
³⁴ Happy are those who listen to me and wait for me at my gates every day, watching, close to my threshold.
³⁵ Those who find me find life:
 theirs is Yahweh's blessing.
³⁶ Those who offend me will undergo affliction;
 they hate me for they love death.

Wisdom invites to her table

+ 9

¹ Wisdom has built her house set upon seven pillars;
² she has prepared her wine and laid her table.
³ Next, she sent her servants to call from the central square of the city,
⁴ "Pass by here, you who are fools."
 To the senseless she says, ⁵ "Come, eat and drink of the bread and wine I have prepared.
⁶ Give up your foolishness and you will live;
 take the straight path of discernment."

ous life and through whom he is involved in human affairs.

This is a way of preparing the great revelation which will happen with the coming of Jesus. There are three Persons in God and from the beginning his eternal Son "through whom all things were made" and who came to live among us was with the Father (see John 1:1-4; Col 1:15 and Hebrews 1:2-3).

Thus, Wisdom is a figure of Christ. But Christians came to see it as an image of their mother, Mary. In fact, more than any other creature, she was present in God's plans from the beginning and deserves to be called "Throne of Wisdom," since she was so intimately united with the Son, the Wisdom of God.

Happy are those who listen to me (34). Thus the Wisdom of God speaks to the beginner ⁷He who corrects a mocker gains insults; and he who reprimands an evildoer receives abuse. ⁸Do not rebuke the mocker lest he hate you but counsel the wise who will be grateful. ⁹Give to the wise man and he will become wiser each day; teach an upright man and he will increase his wisdom.

¹⁰Fear of Yahweh is the beginning of wisdom and to know the Holy One brings discernment. ¹¹Then I will multiply your days and increase your years of life. ¹²If you are wise your wisdom will work to your advantage but if you mock you alone will be harmed.

¹³Lady Foolishness is impetuous, a simpleton who knows nothing. ¹⁴She sits at the door of her house, on a throne in the central square of the city, ¹⁵to invite all passers-by, "Come here, whoever is ignorant." ¹⁶To the foolish she says, ¹⁷"Stolen waters are sweet and pilfered bread is the tastiest."

¹⁸But they do not see the Shadow world lying there; its guests are heading towards the abyss of death.

SECOND PART: THE PROVERBS OF SOLOMON

²Treasures wrongfully acquired are of no value but upright living saves from death.

³Yahweh does not let the upright man go hungry but he denies satisfaction to the evildoers.

⁴The lazy hand brings poverty; the hard-working hand brings wealth.

⁵The prudent man reaps in summer; the one who sleeps at harvest time deserves scorn.

⁶Blessings on the head of the upright man! Violence silences the cry of the wicked.

⁷The upright man will be remembered with blessings, the name of the wicked will rot away.

⁸The sensible man is open to instruction, the chattering fool speeds towards ruin.

⁹He who behaves honourably will walk safely but the follower of crooked ways will be punished.

¹⁰The wink of an eye brings trouble; but a rebuke wins peace.

¹¹The mouth of an upright man is a source of life but violence is concealed in the mouths of evildoers.

¹²Hatred enkindles disputes, love covers over all offenses.

¹³Wisdom is to be found on the lips of the discerning man; the stick is for the fool's back.

¹⁴The wise man stores up learning but the mouth of the fool makes way for ruin.

¹⁵The rich man's fortune is his fortress, the evil of the poor is their undoing.

¹⁶The virtuous man's toil brings him life, the sins of the evil man destroy him.

¹⁷Respect for discipline is the path of life; he who ignores correction is doomed.

¹⁸Hypocritical is he who tolerates hatred; he who slanders is a fool.

¹⁹Sin will not be lacking where too many words are spoken; the prudent man controls his tongue.

13. 1 Pet 4, 8

taking his first steps in searching for wisdom.

Who is this beginner? Perhaps the one who enrolled in a reading course because he wanted to better his situation; or one who dedicates his days off to take a course in unions in order to better serve his fellow workers; or the one who studies at night after work; or the one who does not go to bed without having read a biblical passage with his wife, etc. The wisdom you will gain comes from God himself, the source of all truth and who calls men and women to share in his wisdom.

This student may not reach a very valued knowledge, nor will he graduate in this world! it does not matter. Because he decided to live more responsibly and to develop his human potential, God will see him as one of his children and one day, he will give him the true wisdom which is in God.

We find two similar texts in Wis 7:21 and Sir 24:5.

+ We will easily discover the image of Christ in these few verses. Wisdom is the image of the Son of God.

We find the invitation to the banquet in Matthew 22:4. Rich and poor, sensible and foolish people, all are called to change their lives.

The bread and the wine which Wisdom gives will one day be the body and the blood of Christ (see John 6).

God is always present in our lives; he gives himself and he nourishes us. We are invited to open our hands to take what he offers. Each day, he gives us what we need to solve the problems of humanity now.

■ Here comes the oldest part of the book of Proverbs. It is a collection of proverbs and sayings attributed to king Solomon (chapters 11-22). Then will follow proverbs from others sources. See 22:17; 24:23; 25:1; 30:1 and 31:1.

²⁰ The upright man's tongue is pure silver, but the hearts of evildoers have little value.

²¹ The lips of one upright man feed many people while fools die for lack of sense.

²² The blessing of Yahweh is what brings riches, no effort can replace it.

²³ The fool delights in preparing evil and the wise man in acquiring wisdom.

²⁴ The evildoer will encounter the evil he dreaded whereas the upright man will receive what he looked forward to.

²⁵ After the storm, the wicked man is seen no more but the upright man remains forever.

²⁶ The lazy man is like vinegar to the teeth and smoke to the eyes of his master.

²⁷ Fear of Yahweh lengthens one's life, but the years of the wicked will be cut short.

²⁸ The hope of the upright ends in happiness but that of the wicked evaporates.

²⁹ The ways of Yahweh are a fortress for the upright but for evildoers only ruin.

³⁰ The virtuous man will never be disturbed but evildoers will not survive on the earth.

³¹ Wisdom springs forth from the mouth of the virtuous but the corrupt tongue will be torn out.
³² Goodness dwells on the lips of the upright, corruption in the mouth of the wicked.

11 ¹ Yahweh detests a false scale but a just weight pleases him.

² Disgrace always accompanies pride; wisdom resides with the humble.

³ Honesty illumines the path of the upright; but the corrupt are confounded by their own evil.

⁴ On the day of vengeance riches will prove useless but honest living will save from death.

⁵ The virtuous man's integrity smooths his way, while the wicked man falls by his own evil.

⁶ Upright living saves the virtuous while evildoers are caught in their own greed.

⁷ The hope of the wicked is buried with them and their trust in riches is wiped out.

⁸ The upright will escape from distress; a wicked man will take his place.

⁹ The godless man uses his mouth to destroy his neighbour but the virtuous use their wisdom to save themselves.

¹⁰ The city rejoices in the good fortune of the upright and delights in the ruination of the wicked.

¹¹ A city is raised on the blessing of honest men and destroyed by the mouth of the wicked.

¹² Whoever mocks his neighbour is a fool; the wise man chooses silence.

¹³ The gossip reveals information, but the trustworthy man keeps a secret.

¹⁴ Lack of guidance leads to a nation's decline whereas numerous counsellors bring success.

¹⁵ He who stands bail for a stranger harms himself; he who avoids going bail will be safe.

¹⁶ A gracious woman wins renown, and bold men acquire riches.

¹⁷ The generous man does himself a favour while a cruel man wounds his own flesh.

¹⁸ The pay of the wicked is an illusion; while the upright man reaps a sure reward.

¹⁹ Upright living leads to life but the way of evil leads to death.

²⁰ Yahweh detests the corrupt of heart but loves those whose life is upright.

²¹ Be assured that the wicked will not go unpunished, and the sons of the virtuous will be saved.

²² The pretty woman without discretion is like a gold ring in the snout of a pig.

²³ The upright desire nothing but good: the desires of the wicked are in vain.

²⁴ Those who are generous increase their riches; others are misers and impoverish themselves.

²⁵ The warmhearted soul will prosper; he who waters will himself be watered.

²⁶ He who hoards wheat is cursed by the people; blessed is he who sells his seeds.

²⁷ Yahweh rewards the one who seeks good; but he who pursues evil will be caught by it.

22. Ps 127

26. Gen 41, 47

It seems fitting here, more than elsewhere, to insist upon the fact that the words of the Bible are both words of God and human words.

Since these proverbs are the Word of God, they will always have a warning value and a teaching power. But they are also human words. They are words of wisdom gathered by an ancient people on the basis of their experience, quite different from our own. We cannot demand of them insights which would only come with time and with the teaching of Jesus. To give an example, these people had no concept of an afterlife, nor of the mystery of God the Father nor of his mercy.

These proverbs point to qualities suitable for responsible men:

Farsighted, selfassured, capable of persevering in their behavior and not lazy.

Being prudent and not trusting anyone (see 12:23; 14:6; 14:15; 25:17).

Being just and able to forgive (28:2; 31:8; 21:26; 25:21).

Being in control of one's tongue (13:3).

Being able to correct one's children (13:1).

²⁶He who trusts in riches will stumble; while the upright will flourish like leaves.

²⁷Whoever mismanages his house will inherit only wind; the fool ends up a slave of the wise.

²⁸The fruit of the upright is a tree of life while the wicked are uprooted before their time.

²⁹If here on earth the upright are rewarded, how much more the wicked and the sinner!

12 ¹He who loves discipline, loves knowledge; foolish is he who rejects correction.

²The good man wins the favour of Yahweh who condemns the man of evil schemes.

³No man is made secure by evil but nothing undermines the roots of the upright.

⁴A good wife is her husband's crown while the shameless woman is like a cancer in his bones.

⁵The plans of the upright are honest and the plottings of the wicked deceitful.

⁶The words of the wicked are mortal snares but the virtuous refute and elude them.

⁷The evildoers are thrown down and are no more; but the house of the virtuous will never crumble.

⁸Everyone is praised in proportion to his prudence; while the corrupt of heart will be met with contempt.

⁹Better to be a common man and have a servant than to feel great and run short of bread.

¹⁰The upright man looks after his animals but the wicked are heartless.

¹¹He who cultivates the earth will have his fill of bread, while the fool chases after illusions.

¹²The desires of the wicked produce evil but the roots of the virtuous produce fruit.

¹³The wicked man is entangled in his own lies, but the virtuous man will be saved from misfortune.

¹⁴The man who meditates on wisdom will attain all that is good; each one is rewarded according to the works of his hands.

¹⁵The fool considers his way right while the wise man listens to advice.

¹⁶The fool shows his annoyance immediately but the discreet man overlooks an insult.

¹⁷He who tells the truth will find justice and he who lies falsehood.

¹⁸He who speaks thoughtlessly pierces like a sword; but the words of the wise bring healing.

¹⁹Truthful words endure forever but lies for only a moment.

²⁰Deceit dwells in the heart of the schemer, happiness in those who pursue peace.

²¹No misfortune will befall the virtuous but the wicked will have their fill of troubles.

²²Yahweh hates the lips of liars and loves those who speak the truth.

²³The discreet man conceals his wisdom while the hearts of fools make public their nonsense.

²⁴The hardworking hand will rule; and the lazy will have to obey.

²⁵Intense grief depresses the heart while a friendly word makes it glad.

²⁶The just man guides his neighbour while the way of the wicked leads them astray.

²⁷The lazy man will have no game to roast; a man's best wealth is his work.

²⁸Life is to be found on the path of virtue, the way of the wicked leads to death.

13 ¹An intelligent son listens to his father's advice, but a mocker listens to no correction.

²A man can taste goodness from the fruit of his own mouth but the treacherous feed on violence.

³He who guards his mouth preserves his life, the constant talker is lost.

⁴The lazy man hopes but his desires are in vain, whereas hard workers have their desires fulfilled.

⁵The upright man hates lying words but the evildoer slanders and defames.

⁶Virtue protects men of honest life; while sin brings ruin to the wicked.

⁷One pretends to be rich but has nothing, another, of great wealth, feigns poverty.

⁸A man's wealth lets him ransom his life but the poor man has nothing with which to do so.

⁹The light of the virtuous is bright, the lamp of the godless is extinguished.

¹⁰Arrogance only brings trouble; wisdom is found in those who take advice.

¹¹Sudden riches will decrease, he who gathers little by little will be enriched.

¹²Delayed hope makes the heart languish, but desire fulfilled is a tree of life.

¹³He who scorns teaching will be in want, while he who respects the commandment will be rewarded.

¹⁴The wise man's teaching is a life-giving fountain for escaping the snares of death.

¹⁵Prudent intelligence wins favour, the way of liars leads nowhere.

¹⁶Every prudent man acts with reflection, the fool parades his stupidity.

¹⁷A wicked messenger falls on misfortune, the reliable one brings healing.

¹⁸Poverty and shame to the one who rejects correction; honour to him who accepts rebuke.

¹⁹Desire fulfilled is sweet to the soul; but fools spurn rejection of evil.

²⁰Walk with the wise and you will gain wisdom; but he who befriends fools becomes wicked.

²¹Misfortune hounds the sinner, while the upright abound in good fortune.

²²A good man's inheritance is for his children's children, a sinner's wealth will be kept for the virtuous.

²³The tillage of the poor supplies food, while others perish because of their lack of righteousness.

²⁴Unloved is the son whom the father hates to punish; the loving father frequently corrects.

²⁵The upright man eats his fill, while the stomach of the wicked goes hungry.

14 ¹Wisdom builds her house, foolishness destroys it with her own hands.

²Upright living is fear of Yahweh, but he who deviates scorns him.

³From the fool's mouth comes the rod of his pride, the wise man's lips protect him.

⁴Where there's no oxen, there's no wheat, in the oxen's strength there's abundant harvest.

⁵The truthful witness does not lie; the false witness breathes deceit.

⁶The mocker searches for wisdom in vain; knowledge comes easily to the discreet man.

⁷Keep away from the fool for you will find no wisdom in his words.

⁸The wisdom of the discreet man lies in guarding his conduct but the foolishness of fools is full of deceit.

⁹Fools never make amends while good will dwells among the upright.

¹⁰The heart understands its own grief; no stranger can share in its joy.

¹¹The house of the wicked will be destroyed, but the tent of the upright will stand firm.

¹²To one, his way appears correct but, in the end, it leads to death.

¹³The heart feels pain in the midst of laughter, and joy ends in sorrow.

¹⁴The reckless man reaps the fruit of his ways; the good man will earn reward.

¹⁵The simpleton believes all he's told, the prudent man watches his step.

¹⁶The wise man fears and avoids evil, the fool goes near and feels safe.

¹⁷The angry man does foolish things, the crafty man makes himself hated.

¹⁸Foolishness is the inheritance of fools, the prudent choose wisdom as their crown.

¹⁹The wicked shall kneel before the good and the godless before the gates of the virtuous.

²⁰The poor man is detestable even to his neighbour while the rich man has many friends.

²¹A sinner is he who looks down on his neighbour, happy is he who shows pity to the poor.

²²Does evil plotting not lead to ruin? Do goodness and sincerity not belong to those devoted to good?

²³Hard work yields a profit but the idler brings misfortune.

²⁴Wealth is the wise man's crown, foolishness the diadem of fools.

²⁵A truthful witness saves lives; he who lies will be lost.

²⁶There is great security in the fear of Yahweh, his sons find refuge in him.

²⁷The fear of Yahweh is a life-giving fountain for escaping the snares of death.

²⁸Numerous people are a king's glory; lack of subjects ruins a prince.

²⁹The discerning man is slow to anger, the impatient one displays stupidity.

³⁰ A peaceful heart is the body's life but the passions are a cancer in the bones.

³¹ Oppression of the weak insults their creator, he is honoured by those who have compassion on the needy.

³² The evildoer is overthrown by his own evil, the upright man feels safe up to death.

³³ Wisdom resides in the heart of the discerning; who ever sees her among fools?

³⁴ Virtue makes a nation great; the sinner disgraces the people.

³⁵ The clever servant enjoys the king's favour but the fool has to suffer his anger.

15 ¹ A kind answer soothes anger; while a cutting word increases wrath.

² The tongue of the wise speaks knowledge, but the mouth of fools spreads stupidity.

³ The eyes of Yahweh are everywhere, watching the good and the evil.

⁴ The pacifying tongue is a tree of life, while the viper's tongue destroys the heart.

⁵ Paternal correction is scorned by the fool, but the one who listens shows discretion.

⁶ Abundance resides in the house of the virtuous but disgrace descends on the profits of the wicked.

⁷ Wise men's lips sow knowledge whereas the fool's thoughts are not safe.

⁸ Yahweh detests the sacrifice of the wicked but listens to the prayer of the honest man.

⁹ Yahweh abhors the conduct of the wicked but loves him who seeks virtue.

¹⁰ Correct severely him who strays from the way; whoever hates being rebuked will die.

¹¹ Yahweh sees into hell and the abyss; how much more into the hearts of the sons of men!

¹² The mocker does not like being reprimanded; he does not go to the wise.

¹³ A glad heart brightens the face, a sad one weighs down the spirit.

¹⁴ A discerning heart seeks knowledge, but the mouth of fools feeds on stupidity.

¹⁵ Every day is evil to the afflicted one; while the happy heart is always feasting.

¹⁶ Better to have little but fear the Lord than to have a fortune accompanied by anxiety.

¹⁷ Better to have vegetables where there is love than to have a fattened ox with nothing but hatred.

¹⁸ The hot-headed man provokes disputes, while the man slow to anger reconciles differences.

¹⁹ The way of the lazy man is strewn with thorns, but the path of hard workers is a spacious road.

²⁰ The wise son is his father's joy, the foolish man despises his mother.

²¹ Foolishness appeals to the man with no sense but the discerning man goes on his way.

²² Plans fall through for lack of deliberation; a multitude of counsellors ensures success.

²³ Happy is he who knows how to answer. Welcome indeed is the apt word!

²⁴ To the discerning man, the way of life leads upward; he will be saved from the place of darkness below.

²⁵ Yahweh tears down the house of the proud but he strengthens the widow's boundaries.

²⁶ Yahweh detests corrupt designs but words of goodness are pleasing to him.

²⁷ He who craves dishonest gain brings trouble on his house; he who accepts no tempting bribes will live.

²⁸ The man of upright heart thinks before he speaks, the mouth of the wicked pours out evil.

²⁹ Yahweh stays far away from the wicked but hears the prayer of the virtuous.

³⁰ A kind look delights the heart, good news revives one's strength.

³¹ The ear which listens to helpful correction is found among the wise.

³² He who ignores correction despises himself, he who heeds the reprimand acquires discernment.

³³ The fear of Yahweh is a school of wisdom; humility precedes praise.

16 ¹ Man's heart makes plans but it is Yahweh who answers.

² Although people are satisfied with all of their deeds Yahweh considers the motives.

³ Entrust all you do to Yahweh and your plans will be realized.

⁴ Yahweh made everything for a purpose, even the evildoer for the day of punishment.

⁵Yahweh hates the arrogant heart; you can be sure it will not go unpunished.

⁶With goodness and faithfulness you atone for your sin; with fear of Yahweh you may turn away from evil.

⁷When Yahweh is pleased with a man's conduct, he reconciles even his enemies with him.

⁸Better to have little but be just than to have a great income without honesty.

⁹Man's heart seeks the right way but it is Yahweh who makes his footsteps sure.

¹⁰The lips of the king utter oracles; he will not be mistaken when he judges.

¹¹Yahweh demands a just balance and scales; the weights are the work of his hands.

¹²Kings who do evil are an abomination; it is justice that supports the kingship.

¹³He who judges according to justice wins the king's favour, honest men are pleasing to him.

¹⁴The king's anger is a messenger of death but the wise man knows how to appease him.

¹⁵The king's serene countenance means life, his favour is like the spring rain.

¹⁶Better to have acquired wisdom rather than gold, discernment rather than silver.

¹⁷The way of the honest man is to turn away from evil; he who watches his steps keeps his life safe.

¹⁸Pride goes before destruction, an arrogant spirit before a fall.

¹⁹Better be humble among the lowly than share the loot with the proud.

²⁰He who listens to the word will find happiness; blessed is he who trusts in Yahweh.

²¹He whose heart is wise will be proclaimed discerning; moderate speech brings knowledge.

²²Good sense is a life-giving fountain to those who possess it, foolishness is the punishment of fools.

²³The wise man's heart keeps guard over his mouth, making his words more effective.

²⁴Kind words are like a honeycomb: sweet to the spirit and healthy to the body.

²⁵To one, his way seems honest but, ultimately, it leads to death.

²⁶The worker's appetite works to his benefit; the need to eat spurs him on.

²⁷The troublemaker prepares disgrace, a scorching fire is on his lips.

²⁸The scoundrel stirs up trouble; his critical comments split up friends.

²⁹A violent man deceives his neighbour and leads him along a path that is not good.

³⁰He who closes his eyes and purses his lips to plot deceit already commits evil.

³¹White hairs are a magnificent crown for the man who has followed the path of virtue.

³²The patient man is to be preferred to the hero; better the man who masters himself than the conqueror of cities.

³³Fate is thrown in the bag but the decision depends on Yahweh.

17 ¹Better a crust of dry bread in peace than the discord of a house full of feasting.

²A shrewd servant will replace the foolish son of the master and will share the inheritance as one of the brothers.

³A crucible for silver and a furnace for gold but Yahweh is the tester of hearts.

⁴The evil plotter listens to the lips of liars and the liar gives an ear to the corrupt tongue.

⁵He who mocks the poor insults their creator, he who laughs at the deprived will not go unpunished.

⁶The crown of the aged is their children's children, the children's glory is their father.

⁷Noble language does not suit the fool and even less do lies suit a prince.

⁸The giver of gifts possesses a treasure wherever he goes he will succeed.

⁹Whoever covers over a fault promotes friendship, but he who reveals a word divides friends.

¹⁰A discerning man is more impressed by a reprimand than a fool is by a hundred lashes.

¹¹The wicked man seeks nothing but rebellion; a cruel messenger will be sent against him.

¹²It is better to meet with a bear deprived of her cubs than with a fool in his foolishness.

¹³He who repays good with evil will not enter his house of evil.

¹⁴To begin legal proceedings is like opening a dam; withdraw before the dispute erupts.

¹⁵To excuse the guilty and condemn the just: both are detestable to Yahweh.

¹⁶What good is money in a fool's hand? How would he buy wisdom? He has no sense.

¹⁷ A friend remains a friend at all times; he has become as a brother for times of adversity.

¹⁸ He who is full of promises and goes bail for his neighbour has no sense.

¹⁹ The sinner loves disputes, the man of arrogant words hastens his own ruin.

²⁰ The man of double-dealing will not find happiness, the sly tongue falls into disgrace.

²¹ He who fathers a fool has acquired misery, there is no joy for a fool's father.

²² A joyful heart gives health to the body, while a sad spirit dries up the bones.

²³ The corrupt man takes bribes to pervert the course of justice.

²⁴ The discerning man keeps wisdom before his eyes; the fool's eyes are on every corner of the world.

²⁵ The foolish son is a worry to his father and distress to her who gave him birth.

²⁶ It is not right to fine the upright; the noble ought not to be beaten.

²⁷ The prudent of speech are wise; he who keeps his temper is an educated man.

²⁸ Then the fool, if silent, can pass as wise; the clever man keeps his lips sealed.

18 ¹ He who holds himself aloof follows his own whims and is annoyed at others' advice.

² The fool does not relish reflection but only the airing of his own views.

³ When the wicked come, scorn also comes, and offense brings shame.

⁴ Man's words are like deep waters; an overflowing torrent is the fountain of wisdom.

⁵ It is not good to give consideration to the wicked or to harm the virtuous when giving judgment.

⁶ The fool's lips cause disputes and his mouth attracts blows.

⁷ The fool's mouth is his undoing; his lips will ensnare his life.

⁸ The gossip's words are tasty mouthfuls which go right to the bottom of the stomach.

⁹ He who dawdles at work is a brother of the destroyer.

¹⁰ Yahweh's name is a strong tower, the virtuous rely on it and are safe.

¹¹ The rich man's wealth is his fortress; he relies on it as on a high wall.

¹² Before its downfall, the heart is wrapped in pride; while humility goes before honour.

¹³ To argue before listening to the facts shows up stupidity which leads to disgrace.

¹⁴ The spirit of man sustains him when ill but who will lift the one of broken spirit?

¹⁵ The discerning heart obtains wisdom, the ear of the wise searches out knowledge.

¹⁶ A present opens all doors to you and brings you into the company of the powerful.

¹⁷ The first to plead his case seems to be right, but his opponent appears and there is matter for trial.

¹⁸ Casting lots terminates disputes and decides between the powerful.

¹⁹ An offended brother is more steadfast than a fortress but quarrels are like the bars of a castle.

²⁰ A man is filled with what comes from his mouth and is nourished by what his lips provide.

²¹ The tongue has power over life and death, those who like speaking will eat its fruit.

²² He who finds a wife finds happiness, he has won Yahweh's favour.

²³ The poor man pleads, while the rich man responds harshly.

²⁴ Some friends only bring ruin, others are closer than a brother.

19 ¹ Better the poor man who lives honestly than the fool who lies.

² It is bad for men not to reflect, and acting too quickly can lead one astray.

³ A man spoils his chances through his own stupidity but it is against Yahweh that his heart rages.

⁴ Wealth multiplies friends but the poor man is deprived of his only friend.

⁵ The false witness will not go unpunished, the liar will not escape.

⁶ Many are the flatterers of the noble man, the whole world is a friend to the rich man.

⁷ A poor man is hated by all his brothers, and even more so do his friends desert him. He searches for someone to talk to but finds no one.

⁸ He who acquires wisdom loves himself, he who respects knowledge will be happy.

⁹ The false witness will not go unpunished, the liar will perish.

¹⁰ It is not good that a fool live luxuriously, still less that a slave command princes.

¹¹ A clever man is slow to anger; his glory lies in forgetting offenses.

¹² The angry king is like a roaring lion but his favour is like the dew on the grass.

¹³ The foolish son is the ruin of his father; the nagging wife is like a dripping gutter.

¹⁴ House and wealth are inherited from a father but a sensible wife is a gift from Yahweh.

¹⁵ Laziness makes a man fall asleep, the idler will go hungry.

¹⁶He who keeps the commandment keeps his life; he who despises it dies.

¹⁷He who shows compassion to the poor lends to Yahweh, who will repay his good deed.

¹⁸Correct your son as long as there is hope, lest you be responsible for his death.

¹⁹The violent man leaves himself open to a fine; if you spare him he will continue.

²⁰Listen to counsel and accept correction, and you will be wise in the end.

²¹Plans abound in the human heart but only Yahweh's purpose will be realized.

²²Goodness is attractive in a person; better a poor man than a liar.

²³Love of Yahweh leads you to life; you will have your fill and live without fear.

²⁴The lazy man dips his hand in the dish but he cannot even lift it to his mouth.

²⁵Punish the mocker and the ignorant will be more careful; rebuke a discerning man and he will listen to reason.

²⁶He who dispossesses his father and evicts his mother is a shameful and degenerate son.

²⁷My son, listen to instruction and stop straying from the words of wisdom.

²⁸An unworthy witness makes a mockery of justice; the mouth of the wicked feeds on evil.

²⁹Punishments were made for mockers and blows for the backs of fools.

20 ¹Wine leads to vulgarity and strong drink to bravado; he who strays in it will never be wise.

²The angry king is like a roaring lion; whoever provokes him risks his life.

³It is good for man to avoid quarrels; it is the fool who does not master himself.

⁴Autumn is over, yet the fool does no work; come the harvest he searches and finds nothing.

⁵Counsel is like deep water in the heart, the discerning man has only to draw it out.

⁶Many are called good but where can the trustworthy man be found?

⁷The upright man who works honestly will make his sons happy after him.

⁸The king who sits in judgment discovers evil at a single glance.

⁹Who can say, "I have purified my heart, I am cleansed from sin?"

¹⁰The crooked measure and scales—these are the things that Yahweh detests.

¹¹The child reveals himself in his deeds; whether his actions are honest and upright.

¹²The ear that hears, the eye that sees, Yahweh has made them both.

¹³Do not love sleep lest you become poor keep your eyes open and you will have your fill of bread.

¹⁴"No good, no good," says the buyer but off he goes congratulating himself.

¹⁵Although you have gold and abundance of pearls, the most valuable adornment is lips which speak wisely.

¹⁶Get rid of his clothes because he has stood bail for a stranger; arrest him for the profit of those unknown!

¹⁷Stolen bread tastes good but later on your mouth is full of sand.

¹⁸Plans take shape thanks to advice; do battle, then, with wise strategies.

¹⁹The gossip reveals secrets; have nothing to do with chatters.

²⁰Whoever curses his father and mother will see his lamp extinguished in the midst of darkness.

²¹Advantage hastily gained in the beginning will not be blessed in the long run.

²²Never say, "I will take revenge." Trust in Yahweh; he will save you.

²³Yahweh detests false weights; it does no good to have false scales.

²⁴Yahweh directs a man's steps, who can know where his way leads?

²⁵It is dangerous to make hasty promises to Yahweh and only then reflect on them.

²⁶A king throws evildoers to the wind and runs the threshers over them.

²⁷Man's spirit is Yahweh's lamp which searches the hidden places of the heart.

²⁸Goodness and loyalty keep guard over the king; his throne stands due to goodness.

²⁹Energy is the adornment of youth, white hair the dignity of age.

³⁰Bleeding wounds purify evil, blows bring healing to the inner self.

21 ¹In the hands of Yahweh, the heart of the king is like running water; he directs it wherever he wishes.

²To the eyes of man all his ways are honest but it is Yahweh who weighs the heart.

³To do what is upright and just please Yahweh more than sacrifice.

⁴Haughty looks, proud heart, the light of the wicked is sin.

⁵The plans of a hardworking man result in earnings; poverty is for those who act too hastily.

⁶To make a fortune by means of deceit is like running after the wind; the end is death.

⁷ The violence of the wicked carries them away because they refuse to practise justice.

⁸ The way of the criminal is devious; but honest are the ways of the innocent man.

⁹ Better the corner of a barn to live in than a house shared with a raging woman.

¹⁰ The soul of the wicked desires nothing but evil; not even his friend is treated with compassion.

¹¹ When the mocker is punished the ignorant man grows wise; when the wise man is instructed he grows in knowledge.

¹² The Just One watches the house of the evildoer and hurls the wicked into misfortune.

¹³ He who is deaf to the poor man's cry will not be heard when he himself calls out.

¹⁴ A discreet gift pacifies anger, a bribe diverts violent rage.

¹⁵ Upright men are glad when justice reigns but evildoers tremble.

¹⁶ He who departs from the ways of prudence will sleep in the assembly of the Shades.

¹⁷ Pleasure-lovers remain poor, he who loves wine and perfume will never grow rich.

¹⁸ The wicked man will pay for the virtuous and the treacherous man for the honest.

¹⁹ Better to live in a deserted place than with a raging and abusive woman.

²⁰ There is oil and precious treasure in the wise man's house, things which the fool squanders.

²¹ He who seeks justice and mercy will gain life, prosperity and honour.

²² The wise man conquers a city of warriors and tears down the walls they trust in.

²³ He who keeps guard over his mouth and tongue saves himself from anguish.

²⁴ "Mocker" is the name of the arrogant and haughty, he in whom pride abounds.

²⁵ The idler's desires lead him to death because his hands refuse to work. ²⁶ He covets all day long while the upright man gives without stinting.

²⁷ Yahweh detests the sacrifice of the wicked, above all when they offer it for an unjust cause.

²⁸ The lying witness will perish but he who listens wisely will be given time to speak.

²⁹ The wicked man tries to appear firm and stable while the honest man confirms his way.

³⁰ No wisdom, prudence or advice can withstand the look of Yahweh.

³¹ The horse is equipped for the day of battle but it is Yahweh who gives the victory.

22 ¹ A good name is better than great wealth; fame is preferable to silver or gold.

² Rich and poor have something in common, Yahweh has made them all.

³ The discreet man foresees disgrace and hides, the ignorant keep going at their own expense.

⁴ The reward of humility is fear of Yahweh, wealth, honour and life.

⁵ The path of the wicked is paved with thorns and traps, he who loves his life will keep his distance.

⁶ Teach the child the way he should go, he will not stray from it while he lives.

⁷ The rich man lords it over the poor, the borrower is the moneylender's slave.

⁸ Whoever sows injustice reaps disaster; the power of the wicked will be broken.

⁹ The warmhearted man will be blessed since he shares his bread with the poor.

¹⁰ Throw out the mocker and the dispute will cease, fighting and insults will end.

¹¹ He who loves purity of heart and speaks sensibly will find a friend in the king.

¹² Yahweh's look protects the wise man and discredits the words of the liar.

¹³ The lazy man says, "There is a lion outside, he will kill me in the street."

¹⁴ The adulterous woman's mouth is a deep pit, he whom Yahweh wishes to punish will fall into it.

¹⁵ The heart of the child is naturally foolish, the beating of instruction will cure it.

¹⁶ When you oppress the poor, you make them grow; when you give to the rich, you waste everything.

The proverbs of the wise

¹⁷ Give ear, listen to the words of the wise and apply yourself to understanding them, ¹⁸ because it will be your delight to keep them deep within you, to have them always ready on your lips.

¹⁹ I wish now to teach you, so that you will place your trust in Yahweh. ²⁰ Have I not written for you thirty chapters of advice and knowledge ²¹ so that you may recognize the truth and be able to answer rightly him who sent you?

²² Do not take from the poor man just because he is poor or condemn the one in misfortune, ²³ because Yahweh will intercede for them and will carry off the life of their oppressors.

²⁴ Do not befriend the angry man or be a companion to the man of rage, ²⁵ for fear you adopt their ways and lose your life in their midst.

²⁶ Do not be one of those who undertake a commitment and act as guarantor of debts; ²⁷ if you cannot pay, they will take from you the very bed in which you sleep.

²⁸ Do not move the ancient boundaries established by your forefathers.

²⁹ You see a clever man at work? He will enter the service of kings; he will not stay in the service of unknown people.

23 ¹ If you sit at a table with a great man, beware of what is in front of you; ² if your appetite is too great, put a knife to your throat. ³ Do not greedily desire his fine food for it is deceptive nourishment.

⁴ Do not wear yourself out trying to be rich, do not dwell on it. ⁵ Set your eyes on wealth and it no longer exists; it sprouts wings and flies into the sky like an eagle.

⁶ Do not eat with the wicked man or be greedy for his choice food. ⁷ All is appearance, except, what he plots in his heart. "Eat and drink," he says but he is not to be trusted. ⁸ You will spit it out as soon as it is tasted and your words of praise will be wasted.

⁹ Do not speak with a fool; he will not be able to appreciate your remarks.

¹⁰ Do not move the ancient boundaries or take possession of the orphan's land because his Avenger is powerful; ¹¹ he will take sides against you.

¹² Apply your heart to instruction and your ears to words of wisdom.

¹³ Do not hold back from correcting the youth; the rod will not kill him. ¹⁴ With several strokes, you save him from death.

¹⁵ My son, if your heart is wise, then my own heart is glad, ¹⁶ and my whole being will rejoice when you speak the truth.

¹⁷ Do not envy sinners but, each day, fear Yahweh; then you will have a future and ¹⁸ your hope will not be in vain.

¹⁹ Listen, my son, and you will be wise and you will make your heart go straight on its way.

²⁰ Do not be one of those who get drunk with wine or who stuff themselves with meat, ²¹ since the drunkard and the glutton impoverish themselves and the sleepy head is clothed in rags.

²² Listen to your father who begot you, do not despise your mother in her old age.

²³ Acquire truth and never sell it; gain wisdom, discipline and discernment.

²⁴ Happy the father of a virtuous man! How he will rejoice, ²⁵ he who fathers a wise man! May your father and mother rejoice and may she who bore you be glad.

²⁶ My son, give me your heart, that your eyes may delight in my ways. ²⁷ You should know that the prostitute is a deep abyss and the unknown woman a narrow well. ²⁸ Like a thief she lies in wait and she increases the sinners among men.

²⁹ For whom are the cries and laments? For whom the complaints and sighs? For whom the blows without reason? For whom the eyes which see double?

³⁰ For those who abandon themselves to wine and go in search of the well blended wine.

³¹ Do not consider the wine; how red it is and how sparkling the glass! How smoothly it flows!

³² In the end, it bites like a snake and stings like a viper. ³³ Your eyes will see strange thing and you will end up speaking nonsense. ³⁴ You will be like a man asleep on the high seas or at the rudder: "They hit me but I am not hurt" ³⁵ They beat me but I feel nothing. When will I wake up? I will go in search of more."

24 ¹ Do not envy the wicked or desire their company, ² for their hearts dream only of violence and their lips speak nothing but evil.

³ With wisdom a house is built. ⁴ It is strengthened by prudence. Its granaries are filled by knowledge with all that is good precious and desirable.

⁵ The wise man is powerful; the man of knowledge adds to his strength. ⁶ Because of this, he goes into battle with wise plans, since success depends on many advisors.

⁷ Wisdom is beyond the reach of the fool let him not open his mouth in the assembly.

⁸ The plotter of evil is called an unscrupulous mastermind.

⁹ The fool dreams only of sin, the mocker deserves only contempt.

¹¹ Rescue those who are being carried away to die; save those who are being dragged away to torture. ¹² Afterwards, you will say, "We did not know." But he who weighs the heart, does he not understand? He who watches over the soul is aware and he will give to each one according to his deeds.

¹³ Eat honey, my son, because it is good the honeycomb is sweet to the taste. ¹⁴ So also will wisdom be to your soul. If you find it, you have a future and your hope will not be in vain.

¹⁵ Evildoer, do not spy on the house of the virtuous man, do not disturb his home. ¹⁶ Because, even though the virtuous man fall seven times, he gets up again, while the wicked sink in their adversity.

¹⁷ Do not rejoice if your enemy falls or let your heart be glad if he stumbles. ¹⁸ lest Yahweh see and be displeased and his anger be turned on you.

¹⁹ Do not be incensed by the wicked or envious of the ungodly. ²⁰ since there is no future in evil and the lamp of the wicked will be extinguished.

²¹ Fear Yahweh and the king, my son; make no deals with agitators. ²² for disaster will befall them without warning and who knows when their ruin will come?

Other proverbs of the wise

²³ It is not good for judges to show partiality. People curse and nations hate him ²⁴ who says to the wicked man, "You are just." ²⁵ But those who punish the evildoer can boast; blessing and happiness will be theirs.

²⁶ An honest answer is like a kiss on the lips.

²⁷ Finish your work out-of-doors and plan your work in the fields; afterwards, you can think of building your house.

²⁸ Do not lightly bear witness against your neighbour lest you lie.

²⁹ Do not say, "I will do to him what he did to me; I will repay him for his deeds."

³⁰ I passed by the lazy man's field, near the vineyard of the senseless man. ³¹ Everywhere it was full of weeds, thistles covered the ground and the stone wall had fallen apart.

³² Seeing all this, I reflected and drew this lesson from what I saw. ³³ A little sleep, a little drowsiness and ³⁴ your laziness creeps upon you and then, like a tramp, poverty comes, bringing misery like a vagabond.

25 ¹ These are also Proverbs of Solomon, recorded in the time of Hezekiah, king of Judah.

² The glory of God is in hiding secrets and the glory of the king in revealing them. ³ As high as the skies, as deep as the earth, such is the heart of kings.

⁴ Remove the impurity from silver and it will become a vessel in the hands of the silversmith. ⁵ Remove the wicked from the king's presence and he will affirm his power through justice.

⁶ Do not boast before the king or put yourself among the great. ⁷ It would be better to be invited, "Come up here," than to be humiliated after having seen the prince.

⁸ Do not be too hasty in accusing your neighbour for what would happen to you should he confound you?

⁹ Defend your case against your neighbour but do not reveal the secret of another ¹⁰ lest he overhear it and despise you and your reputation be lost.

¹¹ An opportune word is like golden apples encased in silver. ¹² A gold ring or an ornament of fine gold, such is the wise man's rebuke to a responsive person.

¹³ The trustworthy messenger is like the coolness of snow at harvest time, to him who sends him; he revives the soul of his master.

¹⁴ Clouds and wind but no rain, such is the man who promises but does not fulfill.

¹⁵ With a little patience you will persuade the judge; a soft tongue can break bones.

¹⁶ If you find honey, eat enough but not too much, lest you bring it up again.

¹⁷ Go rarely to your neighbour's house lest he tire of you and grow to hate you.

¹⁸ A mace, a sword, a keen arrow: such is the man who lies about his neighbour.

¹⁹ A decaying tooth, a lame foot, such is the trust put in the ungodly, on the day of trouble.

²⁰ Singing songs to a grieving person is like taking off your cloak in frosty weather or pouring vinegar into a wound.

²¹ If your enemy is hungry give him something to eat, if thirsty, something to drink; ²² thus you pile up red-hot coals on his head and Yahweh will reward you.

²³ As the north wind brings the rain so the gossiping tongue leaves annoyed faces.

²⁴ Better the corner of a barn to live in than a house shared with a whimsical woman.

²⁵ Good news from a distant country is like cool water to a dry throat.

²⁶ A churning river or a polluted spring is like the virtuous man who trembles before the evildoer.

²⁷ It is not good to eat too much honey and even less good to be greedy for honours.

²⁸ The man who cannot contain his anger is like an open city, without defences.

26 ¹ Honours do not suit the fool just as snow in summer and rain at harvest.

² The sparrow escapes, the swallow flies off, so the motiveless curse will have no effect.

³ A whip for the horse, a bridle for the donkey, a stick for the backs of fools.

⁴ Do not answer the stupidity of fools lest you become like them.

⁵ Answer the stupidity of the fool lest he consider himself intelligent.

⁶ He who sends messages by a fool is cutting his own feet.

⁷ Like the unsteady legs of a lame man, such is a proverb in the mouth of fools.

⁸ Honouring a fool is like tying a stone in the catapult.

⁹ Like a thorn branch in a drunkard's hands, such is a proverb in the mouth of fools.

¹⁰ Like an archer wounding all passers-by so is he who employs a fool.

¹¹ The fool reverts to his stupidity just as a dog returns to his vomit.

¹² See that man who thinks himself wise? There is more hope for a fool!

¹³ "There's a lion in the street," the lazy man says, "A lion in the square."

¹⁴ The door turns on its hinges and the lazy man on his bed. ¹⁵ The idler dips his hand in the dish but is too tired to lift it to his mouth. ¹⁶ The idler considers himself wiser than many people who answer tactfully.

¹⁷ Interfering in the disputes of others is like grabbing a passing dog by the tail.

¹⁸ As a madman hurls flaming, deadly arrows, ¹⁹ so does the man who lies to his friend and then says, "It was just a joke."

²⁰ For lack of wood the fire goes out, for want of a gossip, the quarrel dies down.

²¹ Charcoal on hot coals, wood on a fire and a quarrelsome man for stirring up disputes.

²² The words of the gossip are delicious mouthfuls which go right down to the bottom of the stomach.

²³ Like silver on earthenware so are smooth lips with a corrupt heart.

²⁴ The man who hates, disguises his words and keeps his treachery inside; ²⁵ do not trust his sweet language for seven evils fill his heart.

²⁶ But, although he conceals his hatred like a hypocrite, his evil will be revealed in the assembly.

²⁷ He who digs a pit falls in it and the rock he rolls away falls back on him.

²⁸ The liar hates his victims, the flattering mouth brings destruction.

27 ¹ Do not feel confident about tomorrow since you do not know how today will end.

² Let another praise you but not your own mouth; a stranger but not your own lips.

³ Heavy the stone and weighty the sand but the fool's anger outweighs both.

⁴ Wrath is cruel and anger impulsive but who can withstand jealousy?

⁵ Better an honest rebuke than false affection.

⁶ Worthy of trust is the friend who speaks honestly; the enemy is he who multiplies caresses.

⁷ The full mouth looks down on honey, the hungry one finds any bitter thing sweet.

⁸ Like a bird far from its nest, so is the man who wanders from his own place.

⁹ Oil and perfume gladden the heart; so too does the sweetness of friendship comfort the soul.

¹¹ Learn to be wise, my son, and make me happy so that I can reply to those who insult me.

¹² The discerning man foresees danger and takes cover, but fools keep going, to their own loss.

¹³ Get rid of his clothes since he has gone: surety for a stranger, seize him for the benefit of those unknown.

¹⁴ If he, at dawn, blesses his neighbour in a loud voice, it shall be interpreted as a curse.

¹⁷ Iron is sharpened with iron, contact with a neighbour sharpens a man's wit.

¹⁸ He who tends the fig tree eats its fruit, he who looks after his master will be honoured.

¹⁹ As the face is reflected in water so man finds himself in his own heart.

²⁰ Death and hell are never satisfied; so also, the eyes of men.

²¹ A crucible for silver, a furnace for gold: you will know man by his reputation.

²³ Know well the state of your herd and tend to your flock ²⁴ because wealth does not last forever and riches are not handed down from generation to generation. ²⁵ Once the pasture is mowed and the aftergrowth appears and the hay is gathered in from the hills, ²⁶ you should have lambs to clothe you and goats to pay for your fields, ²⁷ sufficient goats' milk to feed you, to sustain your household and provide for your serving girls.

28 ¹ The wicked man runs away even when no one is after him but the virtuous man feels as safe as a lion.

² A country, for its sins, has many rulers; but with one wise ruler there is stability.

³ The evildoer oppressing the poor is like destructive floods which leave no food.

⁴ Those who forsake the Law applaud evil; those faithful to the Law fight evil.

⁵ The wicked have no understanding of justice but those who seek Yahweh understand all.

⁶ Better the poor but honest life than devious living, with riches.

⁷ A clever man keeps the Law, while he who associates with scoundrels brings shame to his father.

⁸ He who adds to his wealth by usury and greed amasses it for another who has compassion on the poor.

⁹ If anyone turns a deaf ear to the Law, even his prayer is contaminated by sin.

¹⁰ He who leads the virtuous astray will fall into his own trap. The upright will inherit happiness.

¹¹ The rich man thinks himself wise while the poor but sensible man knows how to show him up.

¹² When the virtuous triumph there is great feasting, but when the wicked dominate everybody hides.

¹³ Whoever conceals his faults will not prosper, but he who confesses and renounces them will be shown mercy.

¹⁴ Happy the man who always lives in the fear of God; he who hardens his heart will fall on disaster.

¹⁵ A roaring lion, a hungry bear, such is the bad leader of a poor people.

¹⁶ The ruler lacking intelligence multiplies oppression; but he who abhors greed will endure.

¹⁷ The man wanted for murder will be on the run until death. Let him go!

¹⁸ He who goes his way honestly will be saved, he who vacillates between two ways will fall in one of them.

¹⁹ He who tends his land will have an abundance of bread, while he who chases illusions will have his fill of misery.

²⁰ The trustworthy man will be heaped with blessings, but he who is preoccupied with getting rich will not be guiltless.

²¹ It is not good to show partiality but a man will do wrong for a mouthful of bread.

²² The greedy-eyed man is on the lookout for wealth not knowing that misfortune will befall him.

²³ He who reproves another will eventually enjoy more favour than the flatterer.

²⁴ He who steals from his father and mother saying, "It's not a sin," is just like a criminal.

²⁵ The greedy man brings about trouble; but he who trusts in Yahweh will be filled with good things.

²⁶ He who trusts in himself is just like a fool; while he who walks wisely will be saved.

²⁷ He who gives to the poor will not be in need; but he who turns a blind eye to them will have his fill of disgrace.

²⁸ When the wicked triumph everybody hides; but when they perish the virtuous multiply.

29 ¹ He who resists correction will be broken suddenly and without remedy.

² When the virtuous rule, the people are happy, but they groan when the wicked are in power.

³ He who loves wisdom makes his father happy, but whoever maintains prostitutes will lose his wealth.

⁴ Through justice a king makes his country prosper; but the extortioner brings it to ruin.

⁵ The man who flatters his neighbour lays a snare at his feet.

⁶ In the wicked man's sins lies a snare for himself, while the upright man runs on rejoicing.

⁷ The virtuous man is concerned about the problems of the poor; the evildoer, however, understands nothing.

⁸ Mockers create disturbances in the city but the wise turn troubles away.

⁹ When the wise man argues with the fool, whether he is annoyed or joking, he will get nowhere.

¹⁰ The violent hate the blameless man but the virtuous seek out his presence.

¹¹ The fool gives free rein to his rage; while the wise man restrains it.

¹² When a ruler listens to false reports, all his ministers will be scoundrels.

¹³ The poor man and usurer have something in common: both receive the light of day from God.

¹⁴ The king who judges the poor with justice will affirm his throne forever.

¹⁵ Both the stick and rebuke bring wisdom, while the spoilt child brings shame to his mother.

¹⁶ When the wicked rule, sin abounds, but the virtuous shall witness their downfall.

¹⁷ Correct your son and he will bring you rest; you will be happy in him.

¹⁸ Where prophets are lacking, the people get out of hand; happy is he who obeys the Law.

¹⁹ A slave is not corrected by words; even if he understands he will take no notice.

²⁰ You see a man dying to speak? There is more hope for a fool.

²¹ If you spoil your slave from childhood, he will end up a rebel.

²² The hot-tempered man provokes disputes, his anger multiplies his sins.

²³ A man's pride results in his humiliation, but he who humbles himself will achieve honours.

²⁴ He who shares with the thief harms himself; even you who kept silent when you should have denounced him.

²⁵ To be afraid of men is a trap; but whoever trusts in Yahweh will be safe.

²⁶ Many seek a ruler's favour but each one's fate comes from God.

²⁷ The upright man detests the wicked and the evildoer hates the honest man.

30 ¹ The sayings of Agur, Son of Jakeh, of Massa.

² He says, "My God, my God, I am worn-out and weary. Too stupid to be human, I am devoid of intelligence; ³ I have not acquired wisdom or grasped the knowledge of the Holy One."

⁴ Who has ascended the heavens and descended? Who has gathered the wind in his hands? Who has encircled the waters with his cloak? Who has established the limits of the earth? What is his name or the name of his son?

Do you know?

⁵ Every word of God is true, he is a shield in whom man can find refuge. ⁶ Add nothing to his words lest he rebuke you and take you for a liar.

⁷ O God, two things I beg of you, do not deny me them before I die. ⁸ Keep lying and falsehood far away from me, give me neither poverty nor riches. Give me just as much food as I need lest, ⁹ satisfied, I deny you and say, "Who is Yahweh?" Or else, out of necessity, steal and profane the name of my God.

¹⁰ Do not accuse a slave to his master's face lest he curse you and you have to pay.

¹¹ What a people are those who curse their father and do not bless their mother, ¹² who consider themselves pure but their sins have not been cleansed! ¹³ They have a haughty look and disdainful eye; ¹⁴ their teeth are like daggers and their fangs like blades to devour the weak of the land and the poor of the people.

¹⁵ The leech has two daughters, "Give me!" and "Give me!"

¹⁶ There are three insatiable things and four which never say, "Enough": the grave, the sterile womb, the earth longing for water and the fire which never cries, "Enough."

¹⁷ The eye which challenges a father and despises his aging mother, will be gouged out by the ravens of the valley and devoured by the eagles.

¹⁸ There are three things which I cannot comprehend and four which I do not understand: ¹⁹ the way of the eagle through the sky, the way of the snake on the rock, the way of the ship on high seas and the way of the human being within the mother.

²⁰ What can I say of the adulterous woman. She eats and, having wiped her mouth, she says, "I have done nothing wrong."

²⁴ There are four tiny creatures on the earth that are among the wisest of the wise: ²⁵ the ants, that are without strength but in summer make sure of their supplies; ²⁶ the rock-rabbit that are without vigour but make their home in the rocks; ²⁷ the locusts, that have no king but move forward in organized groups; ²⁸ the lizards which can be caught by hand but live in the palaces of kings.

²⁹ Three things have a stately step and four have a noble bearing: ³⁰ the lion, the bravest of animals, that retreats before nothing; ³¹ the cock that struts proudly among the hens; ³² the goat that leads his flock and the king at the head of his army.

³³ If you have been foolish enough to get angry and afterwards regret it, cover your mouth with your hand.³³ Since by churning the milk butter is produced, by squeezing the nose blood flows, and by stirring up anger arguments arise.

31 ¹ The sayings of Lemuel, king of Massa, taught him by his mother.

² No, my son! Son of my womb, no!

No, my most beloved son!

³ Do not waste your strength on women or your life on those who destroy kings.

⁴ It is not for kings, O Lemuel, not for kings to drink wine or for rulers to love strong drink. Lest in drinking they forget what they have decreed and override the cause of the helpless.

⁵ Give strong drink to the one about to die and wine to the heart full of bitterness;⁷ so that he may drink and forget his misfortune and remember his pain no more. ⁸ Speak on behalf of the dumb and defend the cause of all who are destitute.

⁹ Open your mouth, pronounce just sentences, defend the needy and the poor.

The perfect wife

■ ¹⁰ The woman of character, where is she to be found? She is more precious than any jewel.

¹¹ Her husband has complete confidence in her; she will be of great benefit to him.

¹² She brings him only good and not evil, all the days of her life.

¹³ She has obtained wool and flax, and works them with skillful hands.

¹⁴ She is like the merchant ships which bring provisions from afar.

¹⁵ She gets up while it is still dark, feeds her household and allots tasks to the servants.

¹⁶ If she sets her heart on a field, she buys it and plants a vineyard with her own hands.

¹⁷ She is full of energy and her arms show her strength.

¹⁸ She knows her work is successful and, at night, her light remains unextinguished.

¹⁹ She puts her hand to the distaff and her fingers hold the spindle.

²⁰ She reaches out her hand to the helpless and gives to the poor.

²¹ When snow comes, she has no fears for her household since they are all doubly clothed.

²² She makes her own quilts and her clothes are purple and fine linen.

²³ Her husband is well-respected; he sits in council with the elders of the people.

²⁴ She weaves linen cloth and sells it; she supplies the merchants with sashes.

²⁵ She is strong and dignified and looks with confidence to the future.

²⁶ She speaks wisely and her words are kind.

²⁷ She keeps an eye on the conduct of her household and is never idle.

²⁸ Her sons rise up and call her blessed, her husband sings her praise:

²⁹ "Many women have done wonders but you surpass them all."

³⁰ Charm is deceptive and beauty useless; the woman who is wise is the one to praise.

³¹ May she enjoy the fruits of her labour and may all praise her for her works.

3. Dt 17, 17

■ Mother's Day was established recently to celebrate the women who spend their lives in the hidden tasks of the home, and who, through their sacrifices and their love, build the best of our world. This poem concluding the book of Proverbs expresses a similar viewpoint.

In Israel, men dominated. Women worked more than men. While the men would talk "at the gate" of their village, women would look after the house and the orchard and raise the children. This poem urges all husbands to praise their wives and to be grateful to them.

There is a listing of the many activities of women. A happy and prosperous home comes from the combination of attention and tasks which are usually not stressed nor really appreciated. Women achieve something spiritual: peace and happiness with their many tasks.

Perhaps Ecclesiastes summarized the essence of his thought in this verse in chapter 3: "God made everything fitting in its time; but he also set eternity in our hearts, though we are not able to embrace the worth of God from the beginning to the end" (3:11-14; 8:16-17).

Man, created in the image of God, is the master of the universe. Nevertheless, he is no more than a servant made of clay upon whom God imposed the laborious task of always searching. It is not realistic to think that one day he could adequately clarify the meaning of his own life or give a final solution to the tensions and conflicts tearing mankind apart.

Ecclesiastes lived in the third century before Christ, when Greek culture reached the Jewish people. The dynamism of the Greek civilisation came from its confidence in the unlimited resources of human thinking. Greek philosophers strove to explain all the mysteries of human destiny (and it is known that this aim is still the core of western humanism).

Ecclesiastes opposes this optimism. When he points to many deficiencies in the human condition, he does not mean: see how deceptive life is; think then, about heavenly things. But rather, he teaches us that all these deficiencies are the result of something fundamental: man is a mortal and limited being. This should not lead us to being passive, but rather it urges us not to waste our time or energies in illusions. Live fully the present moment by solving the problems within your reach day by day and enjoy the happiness that God has in store for you today: leave the rest up to God.

What about religion: Does it not explain everything to us? This is not the thinking of Ecclesiastes. Even though God's commandments teach us the secure way, they do not solve many problems nor answer many questions. In those days, pious people declared that God rewards the good and punishes the wicked in this life. Ecclesiastes denies this based on facts. The same is true now: think of some satisfactory and soothing answers for believers which are not obvious if we take an honest look at the facts.

The author of this book in the third century before Christ did what many writers and poets do now, namely, signing their works with a pseudonym, or a made up name. He presents his teaching as if it were the work of king Solomon, David's son. It is well known that Solomon had the reputation of being well versed in human wisdom. Here, Solomon is called Ecclesiastes, or the one who gathers the assembly to teach his brothers.

Vanity of vanities

o 1 Here are the words of the Teacher, son of David, king in Jerusalem:

²All is meaningless – says the Teacher, – meaningless, meaningless!

³What profit is there for a man in all his work for which he toils under the sun?

⁴A generation goes, a generation comes and the earth remains forever

⁵The sun rises, the sun sets hastening towards the place where it again rises

⁶Blowing to the south, turning to the north the wind goes round and round and after all its rounds it has to blow again.

⁷All rivers go to the sea but the sea is not full; to the place where the rivers come from, there they return again.

⁸All words become weary and speech comes to an end, but the eye has never seen enough nor the ear heard too much.

⁹What has happened before will happen again; what has been done before will be done again: there is nothing new under the sun.

¹⁰If they say to you, "See, it's new!" know that it has already been centuries earlier.

¹¹There is no remembrance of ancient people, and those to come will not be remembered by those who follow them.

Even wisdom is meaningless

¹²I, the teacher have been king of Israel in Jerusalem. ¹³I set my heart on studying and examining critically all that is done under heaven.

¹⁴It is a burdensome task which God has given to the sons of men! I have seen everything that is done under the sun, but all is meaningless: it is chasing the wind. ¹⁵What is bent cannot be straightened; what is not will not come to be.

¹⁶I thought to myself, "See, I have increased and promoted wisdom more than anyone who ruled Jerusalem before me and I have experienced to the full both wisdom and knowledge. ¹⁷I set my heart on comparing wisdom with foolishness and stupidity, and I discovered that this also is chasing the wind.

¹⁸For the wiser you are, the more worries you have, and the more you learn the more you suffer.

Empty pleasures

+ 2 ¹I said in my heart, "I will try pleasure! taste happiness!" But I found that was useless. ²Laughter is foolishness!

16. 1 K 3, 12; 5, 9; 10, 1

o All is meaningless – We are used to the old translation of this verse: vanity of vanities, everything is vanity. In fact, the first word of the book – which, like a refrain, will be repeated many times – means what carries little weight as well as what is not serious, what is vain, useless, what has no explanation.

There is nothing new under the sun. The prophets saw the world led by God toward a happy future. On the contrary, other people had the notion that the world only keeps on repeating the same events, with kingdoms, wars, success and failure. For them, there was nothing happening which could give to men the fulfillment of their desires.

Those with such convictions can only forget or ignore what happens in this world where all is illusion, as Buddhists do, or enjoy life without concerns.

Ecclesiastes, like all the people of the Bible, lives fully the earthly life. But he lives in a time without conflict, which is also a time without prophets and great hope. He wants us to use rightly daily life instead of being led by idealistic theories. Do not believe that you belong to the generation that discovered everything and that you will prevent men from suffering. Let go of your illusions and act according to reality.

Under the sun: these words will come back as a refrain: man works hard and passes as a shadow while the sun remains. The sun is like an image of God who endures and who, alone, does things "with a view to eternity" (3:14).

The more you learn, the more you suffer. We find the same restlessness in today's world. The promoters of science assured us that progress was going to liberate men from all evil. Following the atomic bomb and the recent wars, many have lost this faith. Similarly, Marxists thought that the revolution was going to create a new world. Now, in countries where revolutions took place a few decades ago, we can see that the social changes were not enough to make people either happy or good. Wherever there has been greater material progress, the young people are rebelling against a life without problems, where the profound human longing for authentic love is frustrated.

+ And I hated all I had laboured for – Ecclesiastes had a hard time thinking that others would waste what we have slaved over. But, he also understands that he had not benefited foolishness! As for pleasure what good is it? ³I thought of cheering my body with wine while my heart searched for wisdom. So I gave myself to folly in order to find out what would be good for man to do under the sun throughout his life.

⁴I did great things: I built houses and planted vineyards. ⁵I made gardens and parks and planted all kinds of fruit trees. ⁶I constructed reservoirs to irrigate the nurseries for trees. ⁷I bought slaves and servants as well as having slaves born in my household. I had flocks and herds in abundance more than anyone before me in Jerusalem. ⁸I acquired silver and gold – the wealth of kings and nations. I had choirmaster and singers and, besides, what most delights men. ⁹I became great, surpassing all my predecessors in Jerusalem without losing wisdom. ¹⁰I refused myself nothing that my eyes desired nor did I deprive my heart of any pleasure. I enjoyed all I undertook and that was my reward for my work.

¹¹Then I considered all I had achieved by my work and all the toil it had entailed and found that it was all meaningless and chasing wind. There is no profit under the sun.

¹²I then decided to compare wisdom with folly and madness and I thought, "What will my successor as king do?" (We know what he did!)

¹³I understood that wisdom is more profitable than folly, just as light is better than darkness:

¹⁴The wise man has eyes in his head, while the fool walks in darkness.

But it dawned on me that the same fate overtakes them both. ¹⁵And I thought, "If the fate of the fool will be mine as well, what did my wisdom profit me?" I thought to myself that too is meaningless. ¹⁶There is no more remembrance of the wise man than of the fool: both will be forgotten in the days to come. Why is a wise man's death like that of a fool?

¹⁷So I hated life seeing the wrong in everything that is done under the sun: all is meaningless and chasing wind. ¹⁸I hated all I had laboured for under the sun and which I have to leave to my successor. ¹⁹Who knows whether he will be foolish or wise? Yet he will be master of all ²⁰I have achieved by my own efforts and wisdom: that too is meaningless.

And I began to despair in my heart over all my labour under the sun. ²¹For here was a man who toiled in all wisdom, knowledge and skill and he must leave all to someone who has not worked for it. This is meaningless and a great misfortune. ²²For what profit is there for a man in all his work and heart-searching under the sun? ²³All his days bring sorrow, his work grief;

12. 1 K 12, 13

14. Jn 8, 12

16. Sir 44, 9

from what he had done even though he had enjoyed it in peace.

We worry about the future. Through our work and our children, we think we are preparing for the rest rewarding our efforts. But, oftentimes, when we reach the limit of our desires, we feel empty, isolated, unhappy and when we are not driven by the desire for conquests, we get bored as if we lacked what the human heart really needs. How many people die right after retiring because they no longer have a reason to struggle and live!

My lot will be the same as the fool's. Then, what is the meaning of life? What is happiness?

Science, beauty, wealth, power, youth, friendship are nothing but illusions since everything ends with death.

■ Note verses 11-14 whose commentary is found in the introduction.

In the following chapters, Ecclesiastes looks at all the aspects of the human condition, one after the other, beginning with the surest: death. Death destroys all the illusions of man who tries to forget the lack of meaning of his life.

What is now has already been. See what was said with regard to 1:10. So, if all that man builds must be destroyed, what is left to man? This is he hasn't, moreover, peaceful rest at night: that too is meaningless.

²⁴There is nothing better for man to do than to eat and drink and find satisfaction in his work. I understood that this too comes from the hand of God. ²⁵For without him who can eat or find enjoyment?

²⁶To the man who pleases him, he gives wisdom, knowledge and joy, while to the sinner he gives the task of gathering and storing up what will be given to another who pleases God: this too is meaningless and chasing wind.

A time for everything

3 ¹There is a given time for everything and a time for every happening under heaven:

²a time for giving birth, a time for dying; a time for planting, a time for uprooting.

³A time for killing, a time for healing; a time for knocking down, a time for building.

⁴A time for tears, a time for laughter; a time for mourning, a time for dancing.

⁵A time for throwing stones, a time for gathering stones; a time for embracing, a time to refrain from embracing.

⁶A time for searching, a time for losing; a time for keeping, a time for throwing away.

⁷A time for tearing, a time for sewing; a time to be silent and a time to speak.

⁸A time for loving, a time for hating; a time for war, a time for peace.

⁹What profit is there for a man from all his toils?

¹⁰Finally I considered the task God gave to the sons of men. ¹¹He made everything fitting in its time, but he also set eternity in their hearts although man is not able to embrace the work of God from the beginning to the end.

¹²I know that there is nothing better for him to do than to seek pleasure and well-being during his life. ¹³To eat, drink and find satisfaction in his work is a gift from God.

¹⁴I know that everything God does remains forever; there is nothing to add, nothing to take from it. Yet God has ordained that men fear him.

¹⁵What has happened comes again; what is now has already been; God recovers what has gone. ¹⁶I have also seen under the sun, instead of justice, wickedness, and in the place of the just, the wicked. ¹⁷And I said to myself, "God will judge the just and the wicked for there is a time for everything, and a judgment for every deed."

◆ ¹⁸I also thought about men, how God wants to test them and let them see that they themselves are animals.

¹⁹For the destiny of man and animal is identical: death for one and the meaningful for us too as we believe that the world is changing and that history has a direction. Every generation works for the one after, without enjoying the fruits of their work and struggles. And besides, we must be certain that after us, new problems will come up and what we see as our most valuable steps forward, to be considered harmful.

◆ Who knows if the human spirit... (v 21). Until a few years before Christ, for the Jews, the word soul (sometimes replaced by spirit) meant the life-breath of man and the warmth of his blood. According to them this was where life was (Lv 17:11). We must understand that God had not yet revealed the human destiny after death, and let us not say – as some do – that the soul, or the human spirit, dies along with the body. With the New Testament the soul will mean the person who does not die (Mt 10:28).

Who knows? Even for believers of our time, knowing about another life, our faith cannot usually destroy our natural fear of death. In our experience, we are left bewildered by the death of our loved ones as well as by the certainty of our own death.

other. ²⁰Both have the same spirit; man has no superiority over animal for all passes away like wind. Both go to the same place, both come from dust and return to dust.

²¹Who knows if the spirit of man rises upward and if the spirit of the beast descends earthward? ²²I understood that the best man can do is to be happy in what he does, for that is his lot. For who will take him to see the beyond?

4 ¹I considered also how much oppression there is under the sun: the tears of the oppressed and no one to console them, the violence of the oppressors and no one to hold them back.

²More fortunate are the dead for being dead, than the living who have to live, ³and even more fortunate than both is the one not yet born who has not seen the abuses under the sun.

⁴I saw that all that is done, all that succeeds results from rivalry with the neighbour: all is meaningless and chasing of the wind.

⁵The fool folds his arms and eats his meat.

⁶Yet better half a fistful of rest than fistfuls of toil and chasing of wind.

⁷I saw another senseless thing under the sun: ⁸a man alone, without son or brother, working endlessly, his greed never satisfied with wealth: "For whom do I work and deprive myself of pleasure?" This too is nonsense and mistaken investment.

⁹Happier two than one alone, for their work brings a higher salary, ¹⁰and when one falls the other lifts up his companion. Unfortunate he who is alone and has no one to lift him up. ¹¹Moreover it's warmer with two in bed; how can one alone be warm? ¹²One person may be overcome by an aggressor, but two can easily oppose him; triple-stranded thread is not easily broken.

¹³Better a youth who is poor and wise than a fool of an old king who shuns advice. ¹⁴He may even pass from prison to the throne, though born poor in his kingdom. ¹⁵I saw all who live under the sun follow the youth who replaced the latter and there was no end to the people who sided with him. ¹⁶And yet those who will come after will not be satisfied. This too makes no sense; it's nothing but chasing wind.

Wise sayings

¹⁷Watch your step when you go to God's house; it's a better offering to listen, than to present sacrifices as do the fools; for they do not know the evil they do.

5 ¹Don't be impulsive and hasty with words in the presence of God, for God is in heaven and you are on earth. For that reason let your words be few.

²For dreams come from over anxiety and foolish talk from too many words.

³When you make a vow to God, waste no time in fulfilling it, for he takes no pleasure in fools. Do what you vowed.

⁴Better not to make a vow than to fail to fulfil one.

⁵Don't let your speech cause you to sin, and then tell God's minister it was a mistake. Why anger God by what you say and destroy the work of your hands? From much dreaming and many words comes emptiness. ⁶So fear God.

⁷If you see the poor oppressed, right and justice denied in the province, do not be surprised for over a high-placed official a higher one watches, and over both of these a still higher one watches. ⁸The produce of the land benefits everyone and the king serves the land.

⁹Whoever loves money will not be satisfied with money. Whoever loves wealth hasn't sufficient income. This is senseless.

¹⁰When there is abundance of good things, there is abundance of consumers. What profit is there for the owner except to look on.

¹¹Sweet the sleep of the labourer, whether he eats little or much. But the rich man who has had his fill cannot sleep.

¹²There is a great evil that I found under the sun, the rich man who kept his wealth to his own harm. ¹³A mistaken investment and these riches are lost; a son is born but there is nothing to leave him.

¹⁴Naked he came from his mother's womb, he returns as he came – naked. Nothing of the fruit of his toil is he able to take with him.

¹⁵That too is a grievous evil: As he came so he goes. So what was his gain when he worked chasing wind? ¹⁶Why did he eat in darkness all through his life, amidst great sorrow, suffering and vexation?

¹⁷This is what I saw as most fitting for man: to eat, drink and be happy in all the work he does under the sun during the days God grants him; this is his reward. ¹⁸And when God gives a man riches and property with the possibility of enjoying them and being happy in his work, this is a gift from God. ¹⁹As long as God keeps him occupied in the gladness of his heart, he is not concerned about how long he will live.

6 ¹There is another very evil thing which I saw under the sun: a man has riches, property, honour, and lacks nothing he could desire. ²yet God does not permit him to benefit from them: a stranger has the enjoyment. That is nonsense and a grievous hurt.

³What if a man had a hundred sons and lived many years but without tasting happiness and even without a tomb! More fortunate, I would say, the one untimely-born. ⁴For he came worthless and goes to darkness and in darkness will his name be hidden. ⁵He has not seen the sun and has not known it. Finally he has had more rest than that man. ⁶Even if he should live a thousand years twice over, but without tasting happiness; do not both go to the same place?

⁷Man works to fill his stomach, yet he himself is not satisfied.

⁸Has the wise man more than the fool? what benefit is it to the poverty-stricken person who holds his own among the living?

⁹What the eye sees seems better than what the heart desires. That too is senseless and chasing wind.

¹⁰Everything has already been evaluated. One knows what man is and that he cannot dispute with the one stronger than himself.

¹¹Many words, much emptiness; what does it profit? ¹²Who knows what is the good way of life for man, during the days of his meaningless life which passes like a shadow? Who will let him know what will happen after he has gone?

7 ¹An honourable name is better than perfumed oil. Better the day of death than the day of birth.

²Better to go to a house of mourning than to a house of feasting, for to this end all come, and let the living take this to heart: ³Sorrow is better than laughter, for a sad face brings healing to the soul. ⁴The heart of the wise man is in the house of mourning, while the heart of the fool is in the house of feasting.

⁵Better to heed the rebuke of a wise man than to listen to a fool's song. ⁶Like the crackling of thorns under a pot is the fool's laugh.

⁷Oppression makes a wise man mad, but a bribe corrupts his heart.

⁸Better to reach the end than to begin. Better patience than a haughty spirit.

⁹Don't be easily dejected, for dejection resides in the womb of fools.

¹⁰Do not ask why former times were better than the present. It is not wisdom that prompts such a question.

¹¹Wisdom is as precious as an inheritance; it is a blessing for those on whom the sun shines. ¹²If wisdom protects you, money will do the same. This is the benefit of acquiring wisdom: it makes its owner live.

¹³See the work of God. Who can straighten what he has bent? ¹⁴Be happy in the day of prosperity and in the day of sorrow reflect: ¹⁵God has given both one and the other so that man may not discover what comes later.

¹⁶Do not be over-righteous or excessively wise, lest you harm yourself. ¹⁷Do not be too wicked or too stupid, lest you die before your time.

¹⁸It is well to hold to one and not to loosen your grasp on the other. The God-fearing man copes with both.

¹⁹Wisdom makes the wise man stronger than ten rulers in the city. ²⁰There is no righteous man on earth who always does good and never sins.

²¹Don't take seriously all that you hear, lest you hear your servant speak ill of you. ²²You know well how many times you have spoken ill of others!

²³After having examined all this critically I said, "I will be wise!" ²⁴But how far it is from me! more remote than anything, and deep, very deep. Who could discover it?

²⁵I set myself in all earnestness to know, study and pursue wisdom and reason, so I saw that wickedness is folly, and foolishness, stupidity.

²⁶I find woman more bitter than death. She is a pitfall; her heart is a snare and her arms, chains. He who pleases God will escape from her, but the sinner will be caught.

²⁷See what I discovered — says the Teacher — after considering them one after another, anxious to understand. ²⁸I have been searching but have not yet found; for a man among a thousand I may find, but not a woman among all of them.

²⁹See what I discovered: God made man simple, but they get lost in their many thoughts.

8 ¹Who is like the wise man? Who else can solve a problem? A man's wisdom lights up his expression — his stern look is changed.

²Obey the command of the king because of the oath before God and ³don't be eager to ignore it. Do not stubbornly support a bad cause, for he will do what he pleases. ⁴The king's word holds. Who will say to him, "What are you doing?"

⁵Whoever obeys a royal precept avoids trouble. The wise man knows the time and the judgment – ⁶the time to act and the value of everything.

This misfortune weighs heavily on man: ⁷he has no knowledge of what will happen. Who can tell him what will happen? ⁸No man controls the wind or holds back the day of death. Struggle is useless and not even wickedness saves its author. ⁹I have observed this and set myself to consider everything that is done under the sun when man is given the power of harming another.

¹⁰And so I have seen the wicked buried and people come from the holy place to honour them, forgetting how they acted. This too is futile.

¹¹It is because sentence against wrongdoing is not passed at once that men turn to evil designs. ¹²The sinner may do wrong a hundred times and yet survive.

I know well that there will be happiness for the God-fearing man because he fears God, ¹³but there will be no happiness for the wicked; and because he doesn't fear God, he will pass like a shadow and his days will not last.

¹⁴Another kind of nonsense is found in what humans do on earth: the righteous are treated as the wicked deserve, and the wicked, as the righteous merit. This too is meaningless.

¹⁵So I praise joy, since for man there is no happiness under the sun other than eating, drinking and taking pleasure in his work throughout the life God gives him under the sun. ¹⁶When I set out to get wisdom and considered the human condition on earth, by day or by night when people sleep and are not conscious, ¹⁷I saw that with regard to God's work, as a whole, no man is able to discover what the work is that goes on under the sun; though he tire himself searching, he will not find. And even if the wise man claims to know, he has not found it.

9 ¹I have pondered on all this and now I understand that the just, the wise and all they do are in the hand of God. Man does not know whether hate or love is in store for him. ²What is most senseless is that the same destiny awaits all, the virtuous and the wicked, the clean and the unclean, the one who sacrifices and the one who doesn't. It is then the same for the good man and the sinner, for the one who swears and the one who refrains from swearing.

³The same fate comes to all: this is the evil which corrupts all that is done under the sun. This is why man's heart is full of evil and foolishness during his life and his end is with the dead. ⁴As long as he shares with the living there is hope, a live dog being better than a dead lion. ⁵The living at least know they will die but the dead know nothing; neither do they receive any reward; the memory of them has vanished. ⁶Their love, hate and jealousy have already perished and they no longer have a share in all that is done under the sun.

⁷Go, eat your bread with gladness and drink your wine joyfully; this is God's approval of your work. ⁸Dress in white and perfume your head.

⁹Enjoy life with the wife you love all the days of the meaningless life given you by God under the sun, for this is your lot in life and in the work you do under the sun.

¹⁰Fulfil your projects while you are able, for among the dead where you are going there is no work, no planning, no knowledge, no wisdom.

¹¹I saw something else under the sun: the race is not won by the swift, nor the battle by the strong, nor does bread go to the wise nor riches to the intelligent; favour is not for the learned, for fortune and misfortune overtake them all.

¹²For man is not aware of his time: just as fish are caught in the treacherous net and sparrows trapped in the snare, man like them is caught by misfortune suddenly falling on him.

More proverbs

¹I have considered something else very grave under the sun. ²There was a small town with few inhabitants. A king set out to attack it, laid siege to it and built great siege-works around it. ³But a poverty-stricken wise man was found, who by his wisdom saved the town. No one, however, remembered the poor man. ⁴So I said, "Better wisdom than heroism," but the wisdom of the poor is despised and his words are not heeded.

⁵The words of the wise spoken calmly are heard above the shouts of a ruler of fools.

⁶Wisdom is better than weapons; one sinner spoils much happiness.

10 ¹As dead flies spoil a jar of perfumed oil, a little folly weighs heavier than wisdom and honour.

²The heart of the wise man leads him to the right, the heart of the fool leads him to the left.

³Even when a fool is on the road, his way of walking is senseless and lets everyone see he is a fool.

⁴If the ruler gets angry with you do not stir, for composure prevents many grave mistakes.

⁵An evil I discovered under the sun, an error of rulers: ⁶folly is exalted to the heights while rich men take the lowest places. ⁷I have seen slaves riding on horses, princes going on foot like slaves.

⁸He who digs a pit may fall into it and he who pierces a wall may be bitten by a serpent.

⁹He who quarries stones may be hurt by them and he who splits logs may be wounded.

¹⁰If the axe is blunt and the edge not sharpened, you must strike stronger blows, but the advantage of sharpening is called wisdom. ¹¹If the serpent doesn't allow itself to be charmed and bites, what is the use of the charmer?

¹⁶Alas for you, O land! if your ruler is a young man whose princes feast in the morning. ¹⁷Happy the land where the king is nobly born and where the princes eat at appropriate times, as fitting to men, rather than being drunk.

¹⁸Laziness in man causes a ceiling to sag and because of a man's slackness a house leaks.

¹⁹Man prepares a meal for pleasure; wine gives cheer to life while money is the answer to everything.

²⁰Even in your mind do not curse the king and in your bedroom do not curse the rich, for the birds of the air will retell what you say and winged carriers will make it known.

11 ¹Cast your bread on the water for after a given time you will find it again.

²Share with seven or even with eight for you never know what misfortune may strike the earth.

³When clouds are heavy they shower the earth and when a tree falls facing south or north there in that place it will lie.

⁴He who watches the wind will not sow and he who watches the clouds will not reap.

⁵Just as you do not know how the spirit pervades the members in the mother's womb, neither will you understand the work of God, creator of all things.

⁶Sow your seed in the morning and do not be idle until the evening for you don't know whether one or the other will succeed. What if both prove to be good?

So man goes forward to his eternal home

o If a man lives many years, let him rejoice in them all. Ecclesiastes loved life and the world. The perspective of death must not sadden our days. Those who live always remembering their dead or thinking about death are not in a position to discover the presence of God in the now. It is better to thank God for our daily bread and happiness (see 9:7).

Be mindful of your Creator when you are young. This is what we must do and not resort to God when our strength and pleasures are gone: let us not be like the frivolous girl who became pious when her lovers were gone. In fact, old age is not basically a question of the body, but of the spirit, incapable of desire, love, enthusiasm, or sacrifice. The bitterness of old age does not affect those who chose God in their youth. To the end, they will be able to pray in the words of psalm 42: "I will go up to God, the delight of my youth."

because man goes forward to his eternal home and mourners gather in the street, before the pitcher is broken at the fountain or the wheel at the mill,

LONGING FOR LOVE

The Song of Songs is unique among the biblical books: a lovers' dialogue, filled with sensual allusions. The Song of Songs is the only biblical book which does not mention God. How, then, did it come to the Bible?

Many people think that, here, we have a compilation of love songs between the groom and the bride on their wedding day, and that only later, these poems were interpreted in a religious sense. However, this supposition leaves many objections unanswered: there is nothing similar in any Oriental culture. It does not deal with popular poetry, and there are no reference to the hope for children, in contradiction with the Israelite understanding of marriage.

It seems obvious to modern people that love is first discovered in the couple and, then, it is possible to speak of divine love. But, historically speaking, this has not been the way of love. In all the cultures of the world, the love of the couple has a very reduced place, coming far behind courage, companionship, the beauty of the world, the pleasure of life. In fact, the people of the Bible began to discover the values of marriage and of love on the basis of the religious experience of the prophets: Hosea, Jeremiah, third Isaiah.

It was only in the 12th century after Christ, in the Middle Ages, when the feeling of love appeared in the culture. This took place in Christian countries, and the discovery was due, in the first place, to the Christian mystics who had experienced and lived the ways of divine love in the light of the Song of Songs, and who were able to speak of God Love and Lover.

Thus, it is simpler to think that from the beginning, the Song of Songs was a parable of divine love, or better, the longing for love on the part of that most fervent minority who was hoping for God in Israel. This is the way Jews and Christians understood it.

A longing and finding again. Such is the double movement of Song of Songs, inspired – in this respect – by the previous writings of the prophets (Hosea). "The groom hides when he is sought, so that, when she does not find him, the bride may look for him more ardently; and the bride is delayed in her search for the spouse, in order to find more fully what she was looking for." (St Gregory)

+ I am black yet lovely ... darkened by the sun. The beloved represents the Jewish community, poor and fervent, returning home after the exile, when Israel had lost its reputation and its independence. She is the one who admits: I failed to tend my vineyard, namely, my land, Palestine.

And the King, the Lover, is the Lord. This first love poem is the dream of the beloved already enjoying the day of her return to the king and telling herself the longed for dialogue that they will have "on that day." The choir shows her the place, which she already knows, where she will find the lover: The Shepherds' Tent, an expression designating Mount Zion, the Holy City, where the descendants of David – the King-Shepherd – were ruling.

At the end comes the Lord's answer to those who ask: When will this dream come true? When she decides: namely, when people seek me, then, my love will be aroused and I will go to meet them.

I am black yet lovely. Black: meaning, with her face burned. She was chosen and looked upon despite her burned face. Perhaps she was chosen because she was burned, that is branded by hard work and suffering; men and women of common and despised condition. Because God likes "to call those who do not count to confuse those who are something" (1 Cor 1:28). She may have been burned by the gaze of the one who wanted her for himself. But, if she were not already and praise your caresses more than wine.

How rightly are you loved.

⁵ I am sun-burned yet lovely,
O daughters of Jerusalem,
dark as the tents of Kedar,
as the tent curtains of Solomon.

⁶ Stare not at my dark complexion;
it is the sun that has darkened me.
My mother's sons were angry with me and made me work in their vineyards, so I failed to tend my own.

⁷ Tell me, my soul's beloved,
where do you graze your flock,
where do you rest your sheep at noon?
Why must I wander like a veiled woman beside the flocks of your companions?

Chorus

⁸ If you do not know, most beautiful woman, follow the tracks of the flock and pasture your young goats beside the shepherds' tents.

He

⁹ To a mare in Pharaoh's chariot would I liken you, my love

¹⁰ Your cheeks look lovely between pendants;
your neck beautiful with strings of beads.

¹¹ We will make you earrings of gold and necklaces of silver.

She and he

¹² While the king rests on his couch,
my perfume gives forth its fragrance.

¹³ My lover is for me
a sachet of myrrh lying all night between my breasts.

And so, we must not ask: "Who is this King and Shepherd? Whom does the bride represent? Is it dealing with divine or human Love?" But all true love comes from God and is of God.

- The poet often thinks about the love dialogue of the Lord with his people, as we will say
- He also expresses the concerns and the joys of the one who seeks God and longs to experience his presence already in this life.
- He also speaks for anyone who discovers and seeks love. In surrendering to his bride or spouse, he experiences, along with her, the "divine love" which, alone, can fill his life.

burned. Love would burn her, because a creature cannot experience the power of God while feeling filled with the advantages and the riches of life. A lot must be burned away for love to move freely. Because nothing which is flesh and blood can enjoy the Kingdom of God (1 Cor 15:50).

◆ Thus, love comes looking for the beloved. The winter is over meaning, the time of testing: we cannot really understand God's promises in Song of Songs without having read Lamentations. The same person, Israel, is the protagonist of these two poems, the first about despair, and the second, about hope.

For lovers, the love encounter is the spring of life: it erases the past, alleviates pain and enlightens everything. So it is with the believer's encounter with his God, so much more joyful and profound when there has been suffering, following the way of the cross.

There appears here the yearning of those who have come back after the exile and who hope for the coming of the reign of the Lord, as he had promised. They are seeking God who delays in manifesting himself. This text has several allusions to the precarious situation in which they are: hostile neighbours (the foxes), foreign guards who occupy the city of Jerusalem. Just as the Lord had said so many times to his people, "Come back to me," they, in turn, now say to him: Come back. When they do not see him coming, they persevere in the conviction of their hopes.

+ On my bed at night I looked for the one I love. Love makes us stay up. Mary Magdalen goes through the entire city looking for Jesus and, for the first time, passers-by laugh at her. She comes into the house in such a way that the porter does not dare stop her and she reaches Jesus without having seen any of the people eating. I would not let him go, but one day, Jesus will say to her: "Do not hold on to me" (Jn 20:17).

St John of the Cross, after many others, will comment on the Song of Songs, summarizing the search for God which always takes place in the midst of painful trials:

"On a dark night
for love longing and yearning,
O blessed venture!
I slipped away unnoticed,
my house now still and at rest,
with no other light or guide than the one burning in my heart.

It guided me
more surely than the light of noon to where He waited for me –
Him I knew so well – in a place where no one else appeared.

O night that guided me!
O night more lovely than the dawn,
O night that joined Beloved with lover, lover transformed in the Beloved."

Now the lover sings the praises of his beloved. The first part of this text resembles the verses of poets singing the beauty of their beloved. Perhaps, these poetic figures are a way of describing the natural beauty of the Holy Land (it will continue in chapter 7).

10. 1 K 10, 18	11. 62, 3
11. Is 61, 10	7. Eph 5, 25

My sister, you have ravished my heart. It is hard to speak well about God-Love until we have known him as God-Lover. It is not difficult to fear Almighty God, but it takes spiritual maturity to enter into the calm conviction that God lowers himself and becomes everything for those who love him. God in search of love: because God is the one who loves himself through us. Then, it is not so difficult to assume that Mary – the only one – was and is as important to God as all others together.

But also, in the mud of humanity, there are many pearls for the beloved's neck, many glances which move God. What marvels God accomplishes in the humble, especially in times of oppression.

+ After Isaiah's poems celebrating the new Jerusalem, the bride of the Lord (Is 61:10 and 62:5), the Song of Songs contemplates the virginal bride who will be the New People.

She is an enclosed garden, because totally reserved for the lover. She is the virginal bride whom God (Is 61:10 and 62:5) hoped for after the many "prostitutions" of his people, honouring him with words, but at the same time remaining attached to their idols. But, if there are no faithful hearts in which God has his enclosed garden, how could the Church be that garden? And if there is no appreciation among the faithful for virginity consecrated to God, how may we speak of the virginal Church?

Here again, we find Mary.

Let my beloved come to his garden. Most of the time, our good deeds are not particularly important to God because they were not wholly for him, we have rather already cashed 95% of their value. We hoped that others would see and know about them, we feel better for having done them, and finally, we also ask God to take them into account. In the end, he found no fruit which had not been touched or tasted by others.

◆ One of the torments of love is the inability to meet. When one seeks the other, the other is not ready, and when one is ready, the hour will have passed. Thus, God always comes at the least expected hour.

I slept, but my heart kept vigil. In the poem, this refers to the small group of believers who are hoping for the Lord's return while they live in the midst of a materialistic people. And yet, when he comes laden with his blessings (this is the meaning of the dew), they always miss the opportunity and they recognize him when it is too late.

I slept, but my heart kept vigil. Our dreams are not foreign visitors; rather what creates them in the subconscious is our soul in constant communication with the spirit. When love has grown, there is no sleep, no dream which escapes its law. Love is for the twenty-four hours of the day.

My soul went after him. And thus, the beloved lives as in foreign lands. "All of life seems like a dream to me," St Teresa used to say. Such is the paradox of authentic love that we cannot serve it and make it grow without renouncing the enjoyment of it.

I rose to open the door; myrrh from my hands dripped. He remains out of reach, but when passing, he pours seeds of divine gifts, the effect of which we will verify later.

⁶ Your teeth are like sheep coming in droves from the washing, each one beside its twin,
not one alone barren or grieving.

⁷ Your cheeks behind your veil are like halves of a pomegranate.

My lover is mine and I am his. How far we are from Moses after ten centuries of sacred history! And this, above all, because the prophets have come. But if God is Love and Lover, it is not only a game for him, or a way of being with men, but rather it is his very nature. God's eternity is a Love feast in its ongoing creativity, from which proceed the Persons of the Son and of the Spirit, constantly consummated in the joy of oneness.

My dove is unique, my perfect one. How can we think that God does not have favorites? The immensity of his love does not make it anonymous: he loves each and every one in his own and unique way, yet there is no room for jealousy in the Glory of God. We will praise God for his apostles who, "seated on thrones govern the tribes of Israel." But, we will praise him even more for the "beloved and favoured one, blessed among all women."

Chorus

daughter of the prince!

Your shapely thighs are like jewels,
the work of a master artist.

³ Your navel is a bowl well rounded, never lacking exquisitely blended wine.
Your belly is a mound of wheat with lilies around it.

⁴ Your breasts are two fawns, twins of a gazelle.

⁵ Your neck is an ivory tower.
Your eyes are pools in Heshbon
by the gate of Bath-rabbim;

Your nose, the tower of Lebanon looking towards Damascus.

⁶ Your crowned head is Mount Carmel;
your flowing hair is royal purple,
which holds a king captive in its tresses.

⁷ How beautiful you are, how lovely,
my beloved, in your delights!

⁸ Like a palm tree, you are stately and like its clusters are your breasts.

o In this text, the beloved expresses both a foolish desire and an encouraging conviction. If only you were my brother. If only God could come as a man! Believers are accustomed to having others laugh at them saying, as in psalm 42: "Where is your God?" And they sigh: "Let Emmanuel come, namely, God-with-us."

What a most foolish wish! The Gospel tells us that among the Jews many stumbled over this: they did not believe that God had visited them in the person of Jesus.

The encouraging conviction of the beloved is expressed in the following way: I am my lover's but it is he who depends on me. In the union with the Lord, the word of Genesis (3:16) has been inverted. There, we have the announcement of the suffering of women in most marriages: women need their husbands while at the same time they are dominated. Differently here, with the beloved so weak and poor before the lover. God is the one who longs for her. A believer trying to encourage a lost woman to change her life style tells her: "For God, you are unique and irreplaceable."

⁹ I said, "I will climb the palm tree and take hold of its fruits."
May your breasts be clusters of the vine,
your breath sweet-scented as apples,
and your mouth like the best wine.

She

¹⁰ May the wine flow straight to my lover, flowing over from my lips.

¹¹ I am my lover's
but it is he who depends on me.

¹² Come, my love,
let us go to the countryside,
and pass the night in the villages.
¹³ Let us go early to the vineyards to see if the vines have flowered,
if the buds have opened,
and the pomegranates have blossomed.
There I will give you my love.

¹⁴ The mandrakes yield their fragrance;
at our doors are the rarest fruits;
both new and old I have stored for you, my love.

She

into the house of my mother,
and you would teach me there.
I would give you wine with spice and the juice of my pomegranates.

³ His left hand is under my head;
his right arm embraces me.

He

⁴ I beg you, daughters of Jerusalem, by the gazelles and hinds of the field,
not to arouse or stir up love before her time has come.

Chorus

⁵ Who is this coming from the wilderness, leaning upon her lover?

+ Love is as strong as death.

The poem concludes with the promise of eternal union of the Lord with his people. Strong is the love of the jealous God, and strong also is the love that he places in the hearts of his children: "who will separate us from the love of Christ?" (Rom 8:35).

How will human love be strong as death? If it accepts to look at God's eternal love. Love does not consist in looking at each other, but in the common search for God. Spouses do not become idols for each other, nor do they make their happiness the goal of their lives: that would be sterile. Rather, they want to respond to a call from God and to build their lives with him. God is the one who will grant them happiness.

Love is as strong as death.

The beloved knows that the union with her lover will have no end. For us, it is intolerable to think that death destroys those whom we love and that nothing remains of our love, not even a memory. True love believes in the resurrection and the inscription we read on so many tombs witness to that: "to my unforgettable; eternal remembrance; to you for ever." Love is either eternal eternal or it is not at all.

⁹ If she were a rampart,
we would build towers of silver on it.
If she were a gate,
we would enclose it with panels of cedar.
¹⁰ I am a rampart
and my breasts are towers;
thus I have become, in his eyes,
like one who brings peace.

¹¹ At Baal-hamon Solomon had a vineyard, which he gave over to caretakers,
and, for the fruit of which, each keeper had to pay a thousand pieces of silver.
¹² But my vineyard is mine and I myself keep it.
You, Solomon, may have the thousand,
and the fruit keepers two hundred pieces.
¹³ You who dwell in the gardens,
with your friends in attendance,
let me hear your utterance.
¹⁴ Make haste, my love;
be like a gazelle or a young stag on the spice-laden hills!

Your God will be my God

1 ¹There was a famine in the land during the time of the Judges, and a man from Bethlehem in Judah departed with his wife and two sons to sojourn in the country of Moab. ²The man was Elimelech, his wife Naomi, and his two sons Mahlon and Chilion. They were Ephrathites from Bethlehem, Judah. A little later, after they had settled in Moab, ³Naomi's husband Elimelech died. She was left with her two sons, ⁴who married Moabite women, one named Orpah and the other Ruth.

After living in Moab for about ten years, ⁵Mahlon and Chilion also died and Naomi was left bereft of husband and two sons. ⁶Having heard that Yahweh had come to help his people by giving them food, Naomi prepared to return home. ⁷With her two daughters-in-law, she took the road back to Judah.

⁸It was then that Naomi said to her daughter-in-law, "Go back, each of you, to your mother's house. And may Yahweh be kind to you, as you have been to your dead and to me. ⁹May he also grant each of you rest in the home of another husband." She kissed them goodbye. But they wept aloud ¹⁰and said to her, "No, we will go back with you to your people."

¹¹Naomi said, "Return home, my daughters. Why should you come with me, when I have no more sons to become your husbands? ¹²Return home, my daughters. I am now too old to marry again. Even if I hope to have a husband tonight and give birth to sons, ¹³would you remain unmarried waiting for them to grow up? No, my daughters. I won't share my lot with you for it is too bitter. Yahweh's hand has been raised against me!"

¹⁴Again they sobbed and wept. Then Orpah kissed her mother-in-law

With the book of Ruth, we have an old tradition, developed in the form of a delightful novel, whose intention is to promote a supranational spirit.

An old tradition held that among David's ancestors, there was a foreign woman, Ruth, a Moabite woman.

A delightful novel. In the simple life of peasants we find true culture, an exquisite human quality, and unconscious nobility. These pages preserve for us scenes from the lives of the Palestinian farmers, Christ's ancestors, as they lived for centuries.

A spirit of supranational openness inspires this story written around the fourth century B.C. Shortly before, the one who reorganized the Jewish community, Ezra, had forced the Jews to get rid of their foreign wives who could have enticed them to follow pagan religions. This had given rise to excessive nationalism. On the contrary, here, the protagonist of the story is a foreign woman. Ruth accepts the true God of Israel and she is welcomed into the community of the people of God.

goodbye, but Ruth clung to her. ¹⁵Naomi said, "Look, your sister-in-law returns to her people and her gods. You too must return. Go after her."

¹⁶Ruth replied, "Don't ask me to leave you. For I will go where you go and stay where you stay. Your people will be my people and your god my God. ¹⁷Where you die, there will I die and be buried. May Yahweh deal with me severely if anything except death separates us." ¹⁸Realizing that Ruth was determined to go with her, Naomi stopped urging her.

¹⁹So the two went on till they reached Bethlehem. Their arrival set the town astir. Women asked, "Can this be Naomi?" ²⁰She said to them, "Don't call me Naomi. Call me Mara for Yahweh has made it bitter for me. ²¹I went away full but came back empty. Why call me Naomi, when Yahweh has afflicted me?"

²²Thus it was that Naomi returned from Moab with her Moabite daughter-in-law and arrived in Bethlehem as the barley harvest began.

Ruth gleans in the field of Boaz

2 ¹Naomi had a well-to-do kinsman, Boaz from the clan of her husband Elimelech. ²And Ruth the Moabite said to Naomi, "Let me go to pick up the left-over grain in the field whose owner will allow me that favor." Naomi said, "Go ahead, my daughter." ³So she went to glean in the fields behind the harvesters. It happened that the field she entered belonged to Boaz of the clan of Elimelech.

⁴When Boaz came from Bethlehem, he greeted the harvesters, "Yahweh be with you." They returned the greeting, "Yahweh bless you."

⁵Noticing Ruth, Boaz asked the foreman of his harvesters, "To whom does that young woman belong?"

⁶The foreman replied, "She is the Moabite who came back with Naomi from the country of Moab. ⁷She came this morning and asked leave to glean behind the harvesters. Since then she has been working without a moment's rest."

⁸Boaz said to Ruth, "Listen, my daughter. Don't go away from here to glean in anyone else's field. Stay here with my women servants. ⁹See where the harvesters are and follow behind. I have ordered the men not to molest you. They have filled some jars with water. Go there and drink when you are thirsty. ¹⁰Bowing down with her face to the ground, she exclaimed, "Why have I, a foreigner, found such favor in your eyes?"

¹¹Boaz answered, "I have been told all about you – what you have done for your mother-in-law since your husband's death, how you have gone with her, leaving your own father and mother and homeland, to live with a people you knew nothing about before you came here. ¹²May Yahweh reward you for this! May you receive full recompense from Yahweh, the God of Israel, under whose wings you have come for refuge!"

¹³Ruth said, "May I prove worthy of your favor, my lord. You have consoled your servant with your kind words, though I am not the equal of your maidservants."

¹⁴Boaz called her at mealtime, "come over, have some bread and dip it in the wine." As she sat among the reapers, he handed her some roasted grain. She ate her fill and had some left over.

¹⁵When she rose to glean, Boaz instructed his men, "Let her glean even among the sheaves and do not scold her. ¹⁶And pull some stalks from the bundles; leave them scattered for her to glean." ¹⁷Till evening she worked, and when she threshed what she had gleaned it amounted to about an ephah. ¹⁸Ruth carried back to town the threshed barley, which she showed to her mother-in-law. She also gave her what she had left over from lunch.

¹⁹Naomi asked her daughter-in-law, "Where did you glean today? Where did you work? May the man who took notice of you be blessed." Ruth told her mother-in-law about the owner of the field where she had worked. "His name is Boaz," she said. ²⁰Naomi exclaimed, "May Yahweh bless him! God indeed is merciful both to the living and the dead. This man is a close relative, one with a right of redemption over us."

²¹Ruth continued, "He even told me to stay with his servants until they finish harvesting the grain." ²²Naomi said, "It will be better for you, my daughter, to go out with his maidservants than to go working in some other field where harm might come to you."

²³Ruth, therefore, stayed close to the maidservants of Boaz, gleaning until the end of the wheat and barley harvests. And she continued living with her mother-in-law.

She went and lay down at his feet

+3 ¹Later Naomi talked to Ruth: "My daughter, is it not my duty to see you settled in a home where you will be well provided for?

²And is not Boaz, who has treated you kindly with his maidservants, a close relative of ours? Tonight at the threshing floor, he will be winnowing barley. ³So bathe and perfume yourself, then put on your best clothes and go down to the threshing floor. But don't make yourself known to him till he has finished eating and drinking. ⁴Take note of the place where he lies down to sleep. Then go, uncover his feet and lie down there. He will tell you what to do."

⁵Ruth answered, "I will do as you say." ⁶She went down to the threshing floor and did as her mother-in-law told her.

⁷Feeling happy after eating and drinking, Boaz went to lie down at the end of the pile of grain. Ruth then approached quietly, turned back the covering of his feet and lay there. ⁸At midnight the man awoke when he turned over and felt someone lying at his feet. He got up and was startled to find a woman there. ⁹"Who are you?" he asked.

The answer came, "I am Ruth, your servant. Spread the corner of your cloak over me for you are a kinsman who has right of redemption over me." ¹⁰Boaz said, "May Yahweh bless you, my daughter! This kindness of yours now is even greater than that which you have shown earlier, for you have not gone after young men, rich or poor. ¹¹Have no fear, my daughter; I will do for you all that you ask, since all my townsmen know that you are a worthy woman. ¹²It is true that I am a close relative, but there is his son.

This explains Ruth's sacrifice. She gives up marrying a young man and accepts being the wife of an older man because that man, Boaz is the one who can give her a son "for" her dead husband. Thus, Ruth fulfills the mysterious plan of God who predestined her to be among Christ's ancestors (see Matthew 1:5).

+ Why does Ruth want to have Boaz for her husband? In order to follow the so-called "Levirate" law, mentioned in chapter 38 of Genesis.

When a man dies without leaving children, the sacred duty of his widow is to marry the nearest relative of her deceased husband. The first son she would have from him would bear the name of the dead man and would be considered ¹⁶Naomi took the child as her own and became his nurse. ¹⁷And the women of the neighborhood gave him his name, saying, "A son has been born for Naomi." They named him Obed. He was the father of Jesse, who was David's father.

¹⁸This, then, is Perez's family line: Perez was the father of Hezron, ¹⁹Hezron of Ram, Ram of Amminadab, ²⁰Amminadab of Nahshon, Nahshon of Salmon, ²¹Salmon of Boaz, Boaz of Obed, ²²Obed of Jesse, and Jesse the father of David.

First lamentation

1 ¹How forlorn the city lies, once teeming with people!

How like a widow she is,
once mistress of the nations!
A princess among the cities,
she has now become a vassal.

²She spends her nights weeping, drenching her cheeks with tears.
Who is there to comfort her among all her lovers?
All her friends have betrayed her and have become her enemies.

³After her downfall,
Judah has gone into exile;
but she finds no home in the nations
where she sojourns;
her pursuers have caught her up where there is no way out.

⁴In mourning are all roads to Zion;
no one comes to her feasts anymore.
Her gates are deserted,

her priests groan,
her virgins grieve.
What bitter anguish she undergoes!

⁵She is at the mercy of her foes who enjoy prosperity and power.
Yahweh himself has made her suffer
for all her iniquity.
Her children, driven into captivity,
take the lonely road to exile.

⁶Gone from the daughter of Zion is all her majestic splendor.
Her rulers, like harts that find no pasture, have fled in consternation
before the oppressors.

⁷Jerusalem recalls her wretched condition,
her days of wandering and affliction,
when her people fell before the enemy,
and no help came in her calamity,
when haters gloated over her downfall and mockers laughed at her destruction

⁸Greatly has Jerusalem sinned;
she has become a thing unclean.
Honoured before, but now despised by those who have seen her naked, she herself groans in dismay and turns her face away.

⁹Her filth clings to her skirt.
She gave no thought to her doom,
and so her fall came suddenly,
with no one to offer comfort.
"Look, O Yahweh, upon my misery, for my enemy has overcome me."

¹⁰She has seen how the enemy has laid hands on her treasures.
She has seen how the nations have defiled her sanctuary – those peoples you have not allowed to come into your assembly.

¹¹All her people groan
as they search for bread;
just to keep themselves alive,
they give their jewels for food.
Look, Yahweh, and mark
how I have been despised.

¹²All you who pass by,
take a look and see.
Is there any calamity like this inflicted on me by Yahweh on the day of his burning anger.

¹³From above he sent a fire into my very bones;

he ensnared my feet
and threw me down,
and left me in pain
the whole day long.

¹⁴He bound my sins into a yoke and fastened them together, then set them upon my neck
and caused my strength to fail.
Yahweh gave me into the hands of those I cannot withstand.

¹⁵Yahweh has spurned
the bravest of my fighters;
he has summoned an army
to crush my young warriors.
Yahweh has trodden in his winepress
Judah's virgin daughter.

¹⁶These are the things I weep about,
the things that make my tears well
up.

No one is near to restore my spirit,
no one at hand to cheer me up.
My children are desolate,
for the enemy has triumphed.

¹⁷The hands of Zion reach out,
but there is no one to give comfort.
Yahweh has decreed for Jacob that his neighbours should become his foes.

An unclean thing among them has Jerusalem become.

¹⁸Yahweh acts justly,

16. Jer 13, 17

Following the fall of Jerusalem and the horrendous things that took place then, believers are trying to understand. They are not complaining; they see the ruin as deserved punishment for their many excesses and for constantly rejecting God's warnings. And yet, they know that the Lord loves his people: they believe this, feel it and proclaim it.

When the exiles returned to Jerusalem, they may have gathered to pray together on the ruins of what had been the Temple, and taken turns with these laments. Later, they continued yearly to pray them on the date catastrophe, and much later the church got into the custom of using them to remember the death of Jesus.

In the Lord's Passion, the believer sees the sum total of the suffering and the anxieties of humankind. These poems help us to unite the suffering of Christ and the destitution of the many who are suffering, in the same compassion. They will help us to unite the vision of universal pain and the sense of human sinfulness and responsibility.

A Jewish tradition attributes these poems to Jeremiah; they do manifest a spirit very similar to his.

for I have defied his order.
Listen, all you peoples,
and see how I suffer.
My young men and maidens have all gone into exile.

¹⁹I cried for help to my lovers,
but they betrayed me.
My priests and my elders perished in the city
as they sought food to keep alive,
and ended up losing their lives.

²⁰Look, Yahweh, upon my distress—
all within me is in anguish.
My heart recoils from my offence that brought about my disgrace — See, outside the sword that kills, and within, death that stalks.

²¹People have heard my moaning but no one comes to comfort me.
My foes have known of my
suffering,
and they rejoice at my affliction.
Bring near the day you have proclaimed,
that they may be even as I am.

²²Let all their evil come before you, and deal with them as you have dealt with me on account of all sins.
Many indeed are my groans and I am sick at heart.

Second lamentation

2 ¹Oh, how Yahweh in his anger has despised the daughter of Zion!
Israel's glory he has flung from heaven down to earth; unmindful of his footstool on the day of his wrath.

²Without pity Yahweh has shattered in Jacob every dwelling.
He has torn down in his anger
the ramparts of Judah's daughter.
He has thrown her rulers and her king together to the ground, dishonoured.

³He has cut down in his anger
the horn of Israel's might.

He has withdrawn his right hand
at the approach of the enemy.
In Jacob, he has burned like fire

⁴Like an enemy he has bent his bow, his right hand steadying the arrow.
All our pride of manhood he slew
as he took his stand as a foe, pouring out fury like fire upon the tent of Zion's daughter.

⁵The Lord has become an enemy who has laid Israel in ruins.
He has destroyed all her palaces and laid waste her fortresses.
He has multiplied the mournings of the daughter of Judah.

⁶Yahweh has wrecked his dwelling, laid waste his place of meeting.
He has made Zion forget her appointed feasts and sabbaths;
he has spurned in his fierce wrath
king and prophet and priest.

⁷The Lord has rejected his altar, has forsaken his sanctuary.
He has handed the walls of her tower
over to the enemy, whose triumphant shouts are heard in the temple of Yahweh.

⁸Yahweh resolved to tear down
the walls and rampart of Zion's daughter;
He stretched out the measuring line,
and did not relent from bringing ruin.
He made both wall and rampart mourn,
till together they crumbled down.

⁹Her fates have sunk into the ground;
broken and removed are their bars.
Her king and rulers
live in exile among the nations.
No more law, no more visions for her prophets estranged from God.

¹⁰The elders of the daughter of Zion sit in silence upon the ground, their heads sprinkled with dust,
their bodies wrapped in sackcloth, while Jerusalem's young women
bow their heads to the ground.

¹¹With weeping my eyes are spent;
my soul is in torment
because of the downfall
of the daughter of my people, because children and infants faint
in the open spaces of the town.

¹²To their mothers they say,
"Where is the bread and wine?"

as they faint like wounded men in the streets and public squares, as their lives ebb away
in their mothers' arms.

¹³To what can I compare you,
O daughter of Jerusalem?
How can I comfort you,
O virgin daughter of Zion?
Deep as the sea is your affliction,
and who can possibly heal you?

¹⁴Your prophets' visions were worthless and false.
Had they warned of your sins,
your fate might have been averted.
But what they gave you instead were fallacious, misleading signs.

¹⁵Passersby shudder;
some clap their hands at the sight;
others wag their heads at the fate of the daughter of Jerusalem.
"Is this the city that was called the loveliest, the joy of the world?"

¹⁶All your enemies open their mouths wide against you;
they gnash their teeth, they hiss,
they crow: "We have destroyed her!
This is the day we have waited for.
we have lived to see it happen."

¹⁷Yahweh has accomplished his purpose;
he has fulfilled his word which he decreed in the days of old.
He has made your enemy overthrow you without mercy;
he has exalted the horn of your foe.

¹⁸Cry out to the Lord, O wall of the daughter of Zion!
Oh, let your tears fall
day and night, like rain.
Give yourself no relief;
grant your eyes no respite.

¹⁹Get up, cry out in the night,
as the evening watches start;
like water pour out your heart
in the presence of the Lord.
Lift up your hands to him for the lives of your children, who faint with hunger
at the corner of every street.

²⁰Look, Yahweh, and answer:
Why have you treated us like this?
Why must women eat their little ones,
whom they have nursed in their arms?
Why must priest and prophet be slaughtered

in the sanctuary of the Lord?

²¹In the dust of the streets lie the young and the old, both virgins and young men –
all fallen by the sword.
You have killed on the day of your fury;
you have slaughtered without mercy.

²²As for a feast day, you bade terrors to come from every side.
There was, on the day of your anger,
neither fugitive nor survivor.
My enemy has murdered
all whom I bore and reared.

Third lamentation

3 ¹I am a man who has known calamity

from the rod of his wrath; ²he has driven and brought me into darkness, not into the light.

³He turns his hand against me alone,
all the day long, again and again.

⁴He has worn away my flesh and skin;
all my bones he has broken.

⁵He assails me and surrounds me with tribulation and bitterness.

⁶He leaves me to dwell in darkness, like those who have long been dead.

⁷He has walled me in without escape;
he has weighed me down with chains.

⁸I could not even cry for help,
for he has stopped my prayer.

⁹He bars my way with sharp stones and makes my path impassable.

¹⁰Like a bear lying in ambush,
like a lion waiting for its prey,

¹¹he lunged at me, tore me to pieces,
and left me alone and helpless.

¹²Then he drew his bow and aimed at me his arrow.

¹³He pierced my sides with arrows from his quiver.

¹⁴I have become the laughing stock,

the topic of songs for the mocker.

¹⁵He has sated me with bitter food;
he has made me drunk with wormwood.

¹⁶He has broken my teeth with gravel

and thrown me down in the ashes.

¹⁷Of peace he has deprived my soul,
till I have forgotten happiness.

¹⁸Now I say, "Gone are my hopes and all my confidence in the Lord."

¹⁹Recalling my affliction and homelessness is wormwood and gall.

²⁰Thinking it over and over makes my soul downcast and humble.

²¹But this, when I ponder,
is what gives me hope in distress:

²²Yahweh's love abides incessantly.
His compassion is never consumed;

²³every morning it is renewed.
And his love remains ever faithful.

²⁴"My portion is Yahweh," says my soul.

"On him shall I rely."

²⁵Yahweh is good to those who hope in him,

to souls who search for him.

²⁶It is rewarding to wait in silence for the Lord's salvation

²⁷It is good for man to bear the yoke from his youth.

²⁸Let him sit alone in solitude when Yahweh fastens the yoke on him.

²⁹Let him put his lips to the dust
— there may be hope for him yet.

³⁰Let him offer his cheek to be struck;
let him be overwhelmed with insult.

³¹For it is not forever that the Lord rejects man.

³²In the abundance of his love

he punishes, but has compassion.

³³For he does not willingly abase or afflict the human race.

³⁴To trample underfoot
the prisoners of the land,

³⁵to deny a man his rights in the presence of the Most High,

³⁶to deprive a man of justice —
the Lord approves not of this.

³⁷Who can command and execute if the Lord has not willed?

³⁸From the mouth of the Most High all things — good or bad — emanate.

³⁹Why then should a man complain
when punished for his sin?

⁴⁰Let us search and examine our ways

and return to the Lord.

⁴¹Let us lift up our hearts and hands to God in heaven, and say:

⁴²"We have sinned and rebelled, and you have not forgiven us.

⁴³You have pursued us in anger and slain us without mercy.

⁴⁴You have wrapped yourself in clouds

so that no prayer can get through.

⁴⁵You have reduced us to scourings scattered among the nations.

⁴⁶Wide have all our foes opened their mouths against us.

⁴⁷Terrible is our lot:
terror, ruin and desolation.

⁴⁸Great is my grief over the downfall

of the daughter of my people.

⁴⁹No respite, no relief will come;
my tears will flow and never cease,

⁵⁰till the Lord looks down from heaven and sees.

⁵¹My soul will grieve in pity for the women of my tormented city.

⁵²Like a bird I have been hunted by my foes without cause.

⁵³ Into a pit they flung me alive and cast stones on me.
⁵⁴ As the waters closed over my head,
I thought I would never again live.

⁵⁵ Out of the depths I called on your name, O Lord.

⁵⁶ You heard; you have not been deaf to my cry for relief.

⁵⁷ When I called you even came near and told me not to fear.

⁵⁸ O Lord, you took up my case and rescued me from this strife.

⁵⁹ You have seen the wrong they did.
Uphold my cause!

⁶⁰ You have seen how they plotted vindictively to destroy my life.

⁶¹ O Lord, you have heard their insults hurled at me, their insidious plots;

⁶² you have been aware of their thinking, their muttering against me all day long.

⁶³ Look at them – sitting or standing – mocking me in their song!

⁶⁴ Requite them as they deserve, according to their deeds, O Lord.

⁶⁵ Harden their hearts;
hold them in doom under your curse.

⁶⁶ Pursue and destroy them in fury."

Fourth lamentation

4 ¹ How tarnished has become the gold!

The fine gold has lost its lustre
Why, the sacred stones lie strewn at every street corner!

² Oh, the precious sons of Zion, once worth their weight in gold – but now they are reckoned no more than earthen jars from a potter's mold!

³ Even jackals bare their breasts to suckle their young,
but my people have become heartless,
like ostriches in the desert land.

⁴ In thirst the infant's tongue
cleaves to the roof of its mouth.
Emaciated children are begging for alms,
but there is no one to help them out.

⁵ Those accustomed to dainty food
now lie dying in the streets.
Those accustomed to wear purple now lie destitute upon the ash heaps.

⁶ The punishment of my people is greater than that of Sodom, which was overthrown in an instant,

without a helping hand.

⁷ Brighter than snow were their rulers,
even whiter than milk;
their bodies rosier than coral,
their beauty as radiant as sapphires.

⁸ But now they are blacker than soot, unrecognized as they go about.
Their emaciated form shows lack of food,

their skin shrivelled and dry as wood.

⁹ To have died by the sword is better than to have perished in hunger.
The famine-stricken people waste away,
and slowly, wretchedly, pass away.

¹⁰ Once loving mothers, our women,
now cook for food their own children.
They have done so since the downfall and destruction of my people.

¹¹ Yahweh has given full vent to his wrath:
he has poured his anger out.
He has kindled a fire in Zion,
which has consumed her foundation.

¹² Never had the kings believed nor the world's people perceived that the enemy could break through the gates of Jerusalem.

¹³ But this happened because of the priests who sinned, because of the prophets who transgressed, shedding in her midst the blood of the innocent and the just.

¹⁴ They wandered, like blind men, groping through the streets,
so defiled with blood
that none could touch their garments.

¹⁵ "Go away!" men cried at them.
"Do not touch us! You are unclean!"
They became fugitives wandering about, but even the nations would drive them out.

¹⁶ Yahweh himself has dispersed them;
no longer does he watch over them.
The priests are shown no honour;
the elders are given no favour.

¹⁷ Our watchmen strained their eyes,
looking for help in vain.
We anxiously waited for an ally,
who failed to save us anyway.

¹⁸ Like dogs our enemies hounded us.

Afraid to come out, each of us cowered within the corners of our house.
We knew our days were numbered.

¹⁹Our pursuers, swifter than eagles, chased us over mountains and hills.
They waylaid us in the wilderness;
they waited for us in ambushes.

²⁰Our life's breath, Yahweh's anointed, was taken captive in their pit –
he of whom we said, "In his protection we shall live among the nations."

²¹Rejoice and be glad, O Edom's daughter,
you who dwell in the land of Uz.
But you shall be drunk and stripped bare,
for to you also the cup will pass.

²²Your ordeal, Zion's daughter, will end;
for your exile will not be prolonged.
But Edom's daughter will be chastised, and her wickedness will be exposed.

Fifth lamentation

5 ¹Remember, Yahweh, what has befallen us. Look, and see our disgrace,

²our home handed over to strangers, our inheritance to foreigners.

³We are as orphans, fatherless, and early widowed are our mothers.

⁴Our drinking water we must buy;
for our own wood we have to pay.

⁵With the yoke stifling our breath, without rest we work to death.

⁶We have bowed down to Egypt, and to Assyria, just to subsist.

⁷Our fathers who sinned are no more but we bear their guilt.

⁸Slaves rule us, and there is no one to rescue us from their hands.

⁹We brave the desert heat and the sword just to get our hard-earned food.

¹⁰Our skin is hot, as with fever – dried up and shrivelled by hunger.

¹¹Ravished are the wives in Zion;
the virgins in the towns of Judah.

¹²Princes are hung up by their hands; elders shown no respect.

¹³Young men toil at the millstones;
boys stagger under heavy loads.

¹⁴The old have shunned the city gate, the young their song and music.

¹⁵From our hearts joy is gone; we danced then, but now we lament.

¹⁶From our heads garlands have fallen. For our sins we are in torment.

¹⁷Over all this our hearts are sick and our eyes have grown weak:

¹⁸for we see Mount Zion desolate;
the jackals prowl within.

¹⁹You, O Lord, forever reign; you throne endures from age to age.

Mordecai's dream

11 ¹On the first day of Nissan, in the second year of the reign of Ahasuerus the Great, a dream came to Mordecai, son of Jair, son of Shimei, son of Kish, of the tribe of Benjamin. ²Mordecai was a Jew residing at Susa who held a prominent position at the king's court. ³He was one of the captives whom Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, had deported from Jerusalem with Jeconiah, king of Judah.

⁴According to his dream, there were cries and tumult, thunder and earthquake and confusion upon the earth. ⁵as two great dragons came, both ready for combat. They roared, terribly ⁶and at the sound every nation prepared to fight against the holy nation. ⁷On earth it was a day of darkness and gloom, tribulation and distress, affliction and great disturbance. ⁸The whole nation of the just was troubled because of the fear of evils awaiting them, and were ready to perish. ⁹But they cried out to God, and a little spring appeared, from which grew a great river with a flood of water. ¹⁰Light came as the sun rose, and the humble were raised up and devoured the mighty.

¹¹In this dream Mordecai saw what God intended to do. On awakening he thought deeply about the matter and tried all day to understand its meaning.

12 ¹Lodging at court with Bigthan and Teresh, two of the king's eunuchs and palace guards, ²Mordecai overheard them plotting; he made an investigation, discovered the plot to assassinate Ahasuerus, and informed the king. ³King Ahasuerus had the two eunuchs questioned. They confessed and were put to death.

⁴By order of the king, these events were recorded by Mordecai ⁵who was rewarded and appointed to an office in the court.

⁶In revenge for the king's two eunuchs, Haman son of Hammedatha, the Agagite who enjoyed the king's favour, sought to harm Mordecai and his people.

THE NOVEL ABOUT ESTHER

The book of Esther is a novel more real than many historical books. If the events are fictitious, they express the anguish, the resentment and the hopes which, for centuries, were those of the dispersed and persecuted Jews. Fear of the pagans, contempt for those who do not know God; constant effort to obtain the favor of the authorities; persistent pleas to God who cannot let his people disappear; hope for the day when they could take revenge on their enemies for the greater glory of God.

All of this is of interest to modern Christians persecuted or barely tolerated in several countries. But another lesson also stands out in the story of Esther: the Jews had to be saved, whatever the danger may have been, since the Jewish people had to survive for Christ to come.

There was among the Jews the custom of sending gifts and celebrating a feast in the days of Purim. The novel takes this custom and justifies the feast by telling about the persecution in which the Jews were saved, thanks to the intervention of Esther and Mordecai on that same day.

THE BOOK OF ESTHER

In the Greek Bible the book of Esther includes many passages not found in the Hebrew Bible. Some believe that these sections were added in the Greek Bible. Others, however, think that the Greek text is closer to the primitive one, and that later, some passages were taken out for the Hebrew Bible.

We put the text proper of the Greek Bible in italics.

1 In the days of Ahasuerus — this was the Ahasuerus whose empire stretched from India to Ethiopia and comprised one hundred twenty-seven provinces — ² when he was occupying the royal throne in Susa, ³ in the third year of his reign, he gave a banquet for all his officers and ministers, the Persian and Median aristocracy, the nobles and the governors of the provinces. ⁴ For a hundred and eighty days, he displayed the riches and splendor of his empire and the wealth and pomp of his royal estate.

⁵ At the close of this period, the king gave a seven-day banquet at the palace garden for all the people, great and small, living in Susa. ⁶ There were white cotton curtains and blue hangings fastened with cords of fine linen and purple to silver rings on marble pillars. On a mosaic pavement of porphyry, marble, mother-of-pearl and colored stones were gold and silver couches. ⁷ Drinks were served in a variety of golden goblets, and the royal wine flowed freely, in keeping with the king's generosity. ⁸ By the king's order, each guest was allowed to drink as he pleased; all the stewards had been instructed to serve everyone what he wished.

⁹ Queen Vashti also gave a banquet for the women in the royal palace of King Ahasuerus.

¹³ As was his procedure, the king consulted experts in law and justice. ¹⁴ He summoned the seven nobles of Persia and Media who were in his personal service and held first rank in the kingdom — Carshena, Shethar, Admatha, Tarshish, Meres, Marsena and Memucan. ¹⁵ He asked them, "According to law, what is to be done with Queen Vashti for disobeying the king's order issued through the eunuchs?"

¹⁶ In the presence of the king and nobles, Memucan replied, "It is not the king alone that Queen Vashti has wronged but all the nobles and the whole populace in the provinces of King Ahasuerus. ¹⁷ All the women will soon know what she did, and so they will despise their husbands and say: 'King Ahasuerus ordered his wife to be brought before him and she would not come.' ¹⁸ When the Persian and Median ladies hear of that, they will treat the royal officials in the same manner. So, there will be no end to this kind of disrespect. ¹⁹ If it pleases the king, therefore, let there be issued an irrevocable royal decree, to be written among the laws of Persia and Media, that Vashti is never again to come into the presence of King Ahasuerus, and that the king is authorized to give her royal position to someone else more worthy than she. ²⁰ When this decree of the king is proclaimed throughout his vast kingdom, all wives will honor their husbands, from the least to the greatest."

²¹ This proposal pleased the king and his officials; so the king acted on Memucan's advice. ²² He sent letters to all parts of the kingdom, to each province in its own script and to each people in their own language, declaring that every husband should be master in his own household.

2 ¹ Later when his anger had cooled, King Ahasuerus remembered Vashti's disobedience and his decree against her. ² The king's courtiers proposed, "Let beautiful young girls be chosen for the king. ³ Let him appoint commissioners throughout the provinces of his realm to bring all the beautiful young virgins to the harem in Susa. Let them be put under the care of the royal eunuch Hegai, custodian of women, and let them be given ointments for beauty treatment. ⁴ Then let the girl who pleases the king take Vashti's place." The king was pleased with the suggestion and he acted on it.

⁵ Now there lived in Susa a Jew named Mordecai, son of Jair, son of Shimei, son of Kish, a Benjaminite ⁶ who had been exiled from Jerusalem among the captives taken away with King Jeconiah of Judah by the Babylonian king Nebuchadnezzar. ⁷ Mordecai was foster father to his cousin Hadassah, that is Esther, who had lost both father and mother. The girl had a lovely face and figure. On the death of her parents Mordecai had adopted her as his daughter.

⁸ In compliance with the king's edict, a great number of young girls were brought to Susa and entrusted to Hegai. Esther was among them. ⁹ Esther pleased the custodian of women and won his favor. He not only promptly provided her with cosmetics and good food but assigned to her seven servants, maids from the king's household and transferred her and her maids into the best place in the harem.

¹⁰ Esther did not reveal her nationality to family, for Mordecai had forbidden her to do so. ¹¹Each day Mordecai would walk up and down the courtyard of the harem to find out how Esther was faring.

¹²After a preparation of twelve months decreed for the women, each of them had to appear in turn before King Ahasuerus. This preparatory period was for beautifying treatment: six months with oil of myrrh and the other six months with perfumes and cosmetics. ¹³Then when the girl was to present herself to the king, she was allowed to take with her from the harem to the king's palace anything she wanted. ¹⁴She would go there in the evening and return the following morning to another harem under the care of the royal eunuch Shaashgaz, custodian of the concubines. She would not go back to the king unless he was pleased with her and summoned her by name.

¹⁵When the turn came for Esther – the daughter of Abihail whom Mordecai had adopted from his uncle – to go to the king, she asked for nothing beyond what the eunuch Hcgai had given her; and yet she won the admiration of all who saw her. ¹⁶Esther was brought to King Ahasuerus in his palace in the tenth month called Tebeth, in the seventh year of his reign. ¹⁷The king liked Esther more than any of the other women. Having won his favor and approval more than any of the other virgins, she received the royal crown and was made queen in place of Vashti. ¹⁸The king then gave a great banquet in honor of Esther for all his officials and ministers; he proclaimed a holiday for all the provinces and distributed gifts with royal liberality.

¹⁹When the virgins were assembled a second time, Mordecai was sitting at the king's gate. ²⁰Up to this time Esther had not revealed her family background or nationality, in compliance with Mordecai's instructions. She followed his advice just as she had when she was being brought up by him. ²¹It was during the time that Mordecai spent at the king's gate, that Bagathan and Thares, two of the royal eunuchs who guarded the entrance, conspired to assassinate King Ahasuerus. ²²Mordecai learned of the plot and informed Queen Esther who in turn reported it to the king, giving credit to Mordecai. ²³The matter was investigated, found to be true, and the two conspirators were hanged on the gallows. The incident was recorded in the Book of Chronicles in the presence of the king.

3 ¹After these events, King Ahasuerus promoted Haman, son of Hammedatha the Agagite, to a rank higher than that of all the other officials. ²On orders of the king, all the royal officials at the king's gate would kneel and bow down to Haman. This Mordecai refused to do.

³The royal officials at the king's gate asked Mordecai, "Why do you disobey the king's order?" ⁴They spoke to him day after day, but he refused to comply, explaining that he was a Jew. To find out if this explanation was acceptable, they reported the matter to Haman.

⁵Haman was enraged when he saw that Mordecai would not kneel down or pay him honor. ⁶Having learned who Mordecai's people were, he thought it would not be enough to lay hands on him alone but sought to destroy all the Jews throughout the kingdom of Ahasuerus.

⁷In the first month, the month of Nisan, in the twelfth year of King Ahasuerus, the pur or lot was cast in Haman's presence to determine the day and the month for the destruction of Mordecai's people. The lot fell on the thirteenth day of the twelfth month, Adar.

⁸Haman talked to King Ahasuerus, "Scattered throughout the provinces of your kingdom is a certain people, their customs differ from those of other people. Since they do not obey our laws, it is not in the king's best interests to tolerate them. ⁹If it

o Haman is a high ranking minister of an "absolute" king. His subjects consider him a god. This type of people never tolerate at their side men who are able to speak frankly, but they easily let the ambitious and mediocre deceive them.

Haman hates the Jews because they are of a different race. Haman wants power and all authority. The means are irrelevant to him as long as he can eliminate his rivals. After seeking Mordecai's death, he coldly plans the death of thousands of families.

please the king, let a decree be issued to destroy them. I will deposit in the royal treasury ten thousand silver talents for the men who carry out the king's business."

¹⁰The king took the signet ring off his finger, handed it to Haman, son of Hammedatha the Agagite, enemy of the Jews, and said, ¹¹"Keep the money, and do with these people as you please."

¹²On the thirteenth day of the first month, the royal scribes were summoned. As Haman dictated they wrote orders in the script of each province and in the language of each people to the king's satraps, the governors of every province, and the officials of every people. Written in the name of King Ahasuerus himself and sealed with his own ring, ¹³these dispatches were sent by couriers to all the royal provinces with the order to kill, destroy and wipe out all the Jews – young and old, women and children – on a single day, the thirteenth day of the twelfth month of Adar, and to plunder their goods.

+ ¹⁴A copy of the edict to be promulgated as law in every province was published for all the people to know so that they would be ready for that day. ¹⁵The couriers, spurred on by the king's command, set out in haste, and the edict was first promulgated in Susa. As the king and Haman sat down to drink, the city of Susa was in bewilderment.

13 ¹The text of the letter was as follows:

The Great King Ahasuerus to the rulers of the hundred and twenty seven provinces from India to Ethiopia and to the governors under them:

²As ruler of many nations and master of the whole world, I have resolved never to be carried away by the arrogance of power but always to rule with fairness and clemency, to provide for my subjects a life free of distress, and to restore the peace that all men desire by making my government humane and truly civilized as far as the borders of my kingdom.

³When I consulted my advisers on how this might be accomplished, Haman, who excels among us in wisdom, who has earned distinction for trustworthiness and loyalty, and who has attained the second rank in the kingdom, ⁴brought to our attention the existence throughout my realm of a people of ill will, whose laws are opposed to those of every nation. Their continuous disregard of the decrees of kings hinders the establishment of unity in the empire.

⁵Considering, therefore, the continuous opposition of this people to all humankind, its outlandish system of laws and strange manner of life, its hostility to our interests and the harm it does to the stability of our kingdom ⁶we hereby decree that the people indicated in the letters of Haman, who

+ This "letter of Ahasuerus" is one of the most outstanding pages of the book of Esther. It is a model of what totalitarian governments think, say and write, everywhere and in all ages. According to them, one is subversive simply because one thinks and does not blindly submit to the orders of the rulers who naturally equate their interests and whims with the security of the nation.

This letter emphasizes the freedom of conscience of the Jewish people who, in this, can be a model for Christians. It makes us see why the totalitarian countries of the past could not tolerate the Jews and also why "Christian" people who were not very tolerant – did not respect them. This can also be applied to the present situation of repression of the Church in military, economic or marxist dictatorships.

In all the above cases, a man or a party considers himself the only one authorized to decide what is the Common Good, and he imposes. Anyone who for conscience reasons, rejects in charge of affairs and a second father to us, he utterly destroyed by the sword, without mercy, on the fourteenth day of the twelfth month, Adar, of the present year, ¹so that when these people, with their past and present ill will, have gone down into the world of the dead on a single day, they may at last leave our government in complete stability and peace.

4 ¹When Mordecai learned what had happened, he tore his clothes, put on sackcloth and ashes, and walked through the city crying bitterly and loudly. ²But he came only as far as the king's gate, for no one in sackcloth was allowed to enter. ³In every province where the king's edict was read, there was great mourning among the Jews; fasting and weeping with lamentation, and many of them slept on sackcloth and ashes.

⁴Queen Esther's maids and eunuchs informed her about Mordecai. Overcome with grief, she sent clothes for Mordecai to put on instead of his sackcloth, but he refused. ⁵Esther summoned Hathach, one of the king's eunuchs assigned to attend to her, and ordered him to find out the reason for Mordecai's action.

⁶So Hathach went out to Mordecai in the public square in front of the king's gate. ⁷Mordecai told him all that had happened, as well as the exact amount of money Haman had promised to pay for the destruction of the Jews. ⁸He also gave Hathach a copy of the written decree for their destruction, to show and explain to Esther. He further told him to urge her to go to the king to beg for mercy and intercede for her people. Mordecai's words to Esther transmitted through Hathach were, "Remember the days of your lowly estate when you were brought up in my charge. Haman, who is next to the king, has asked for our death. Pray to the Lord and speak to the king for us. Save us from death."

⁹Hathach returned to Esther and told her what Mordecai had said. ¹⁰In reply, Esther gave Hathach this message for Mordecai, ¹¹"All the king's servants and the people of his provinces know that any man or woman who goes to the king in the inner court without being summoned suffers the death penalty, unless the king grants him his life by holding out to him his golden scepter. But I have not been called to go to the king for thirty days now."

■ ¹²When Mordecai received Esther's words, ¹³he sent back this answer, "Do not suppose that because you are in the king's palace, you alone of all the Jews will escape. ¹⁴If you remain silent now, relief and deliverance will come to the Jews from another source, but you and your father's family will perish. And who knows – perhaps you have come to the throne for just such a time as this."

¹⁵Esther sent back her reply to Mordecai, ¹⁶"Go, gather all the Jews who are in Susa. Fast for me – all of you; do not eat or drink for three days,

Besides, the nations and their armies or proletariat institutions, are no more than means at the service of the international community and of peace, which is built by conscious and free persons.

■ In difficult times, there are always those in better positions who think about saving themselves or their jobs. And they prefer to keep quiet instead of being in solidarity with those who are mistreated or deprived of their rights. Moreover, if they have more knowledge of religion, they know better how to excuse their silence. That is why Mordecai insists on reminding Esther of her night or day. My maids and I will also fast. Then I will go to the king, even if it is against the law. If I die for this, let it be."

¹⁷ Mordecai went away and carried out Esther's instructions.

Mordecai's prayer

13 ⁸Recalling all that the Lord had done, he prayed to him and said:

⁹Lord, King and Master of all, everything is under your power; no one can withstand you in your will to save Israel.

¹⁰You made heaven and earth and all the marvels under heaven. ¹¹You are the Lord of all – no one can resist you, Lord.

¹²You know all things, O Lord; you know that no insolence, no vain-glory or arrogance prompted me to act thus – to refuse to bow down before the proud Haman. ¹³Readily would I have kissed his feet for Israel's safety.

¹⁴But what I did, I did so as not to place man's glory above the glory of God. I will not bow down to anyone except to you, O Lord. My refusal has not been out of pride.

¹⁵And now, Lord God, King, God of Abraham, deliver your people! Our enemies plot our ruin; they are bent upon destroying the inheritance that was yours from the beginning.

¹⁶Do not forsake your own which you redeemed out of Egypt for your own.

¹⁷Hear my supplication, have mercy on your inheritance. Turn our grief into rejoicing, that we may live to sing praise to your name, O Lord. Do not silence the mouths of those who give you praise.

¹⁸And Israel cried out with all their might, for they were faced with death.

The prayer of Esther

14 ¹Seized with anguish in her fear of death, Queen Esther likewise had recourse to the Lord. ²Taking off her splendid robes, she put on garments of distress and mourning. In place of expensive perfumes, she covered her head with dirt and ashes. Humbling her body severely, she put aside all her festive adornments and left her hair disheveled. ³Then she prayed to the Lord God of Israel:

⁴My Lord, our King, the only God, come to my rescue, I am alone and have no help but you. Through my own choice I am endangering my life.

⁵As a child I was wont to hear from the people of the land of my forebear, that you, O Lord, chose Israel from among all peoples, and our father, from among their ancestors to be your lasting heritage; that you did for them, all that you have promised.

⁶But we have sinned, and for this you have handed us over to our enemies; ⁷we have worshipped their gods, but you, O Lord, are just.

⁸Dissatisfied with our bitter servitude, they made a pact with their idols

⁹to abolish what you have decreed to blot out your heritage, ¹⁰to shut the mouths that give you praise, to quench the glory of your house and your altar and instead to let the pagans sing the praise of worthless idols, and idolize forever a king of flesh.

¹¹Do not give up your scepter, O Lord, to non-existent beings. Never let them gloat over our ruin, but turn their designs against themselves and make an example of our chief enemy.

¹²Remember us, Lord; reveal yourself in the time of our calamity. Give me courage, King of gods and master of all power. ¹³Make my words persuasive when I face the lion; turn his heart against our enemy, that the latter and his like may be brought to their end.

¹⁴Save us by your hand; help me who am alone and have none but you, O Lord.

¹⁵You know everything; you know how I hate honour from the goddess, how I loathe the bed of the uncircumcised and of any foreigner.

¹⁶You know I am here under constraint, that I loathe the diadem about my brow when I appear in public; as a filthy rag I loathe it and do not wear it in private.

¹⁷Your handmaid has never eaten at Haman's table, nor taken pleasure in royal banquets, nor drunk the wine offered to their gods.

¹⁸Neither has your handmaid found pleasure from the day of her promotion till now except in you, Lord God of Abraham.

¹⁹O God, more powerful than all, hear the voice of those in despair; save us from the evil man's power, and deliver me from my fear.

Esther appears before the king

15 ¹Ending her prayer on the third day, Esther took off her penitential garments and put on her royal attire. ²After invoking the all-seeing God and Saviour, she took her two maids with her, ³and leaned gently on one of them for support, ⁴while the other followed leading her train. ⁵Although her heart was frozen with fear, she looked radiant in her perfect beauty.

⁸Then God changed the king's anger to gentleness. Alarmed, he sprang from his throne, took Esther in his arms and comforted her with soothing words. ⁹"What is it, Esther?" he said. "I am your brother. Take heart. ¹⁰You are not going to die, because our decree applies only to ordinary people. ¹¹Come, speak to me." ¹²He raised the golden scepter, touched her neck with it, then embraced her.

¹³Esther spoke: "My lord, I saw you like an angel of God, and I trembled with fear. ¹⁴For you look awesome although you are full of kindness." ¹⁵But she fell fainting as she spoke. ¹⁶The king was troubled, and his attendants tried to revive her.

5 ¹The king asked, "What is it, Queen Esther? Tell me what you wish. Even if it is half of my kingdom, I will give it to you." ⁴Esther re-

◆ Note this paragraph where Ahasuerus is described as if he were a divine person. Yet, it is the same pagan king about whom Esther spoke with contempt in the previous chapter.

This is why: the pagans obeyed their kings as if they were gods, and the Jews, instead of opposing them – which would have brought about their own persecution – praised them even more. But doing this was a sort of game for them because they were thinking: what my lips are saying about this king of Persia, I am saying to my Lord from the heart (see the same in Judith 12:14).

This dialogue between Esther and Ahasuerus was written as a parable: Ahasuerus personifies the Almighty King who gave in to the sacrificial plied, "If it pleases your majesty, come with Haman to a banquet I have prepared today." ⁵The king gave the order: "Call Haman at once so that Esther may have her wish."

So the king and Haman went to the banquet prepared by Esther. ⁶During the drinking of wine, the king again said to Esther, "What is your petition? Speak up and it will be given. What is your request? Even half of my kingdom is yours for the asking."

⁷Esther replied, "My petition and request is this: ⁸if I have found favor with your majesty, if it pleases you to grant my petition and request, come with Haman tomorrow to another banquet I will prepare. Then I will answer your question."

⁹Haman left that day happy and in good spirits, but when he saw Mordecai at the royal gate neither rising nor showing signs of fear of him, he was filled with rage towards the man. ¹⁰He did not show it, however, but went home and summoned his friends and his wife Zeresh.

¹¹After boasting about his vast wealth, his many sons, and the promotion he received from the king placing him above the officials and royal servants, ¹²Haman further said, "Even Queen Esther invited no one but me to go with the king to the banquet she gave. And she has invited me again tomorrow together with the king. ¹³Yet none of this satisfies me, so long as I see the Jew Mordecai sitting at the king's gate."

¹⁴His wife Zeresh and all his friends said, "Have a fifty-cubit gallows built. In the morning ask the king to have Mordecai hanged on it. The go to the banquet merrily together with the king." Satisfied with the suggestion, Haman had the gallows erected.

Haman is humiliated before Mordecai

6 ¹As he was sleepless that night, the king asked for the Book of Chronicles and ordered that the record of his reign be read to him. ²He came across the passage wherein Mordecai exposed a plot to assassinate King Ahasuerus, the plot of two royal eunuchs guarding the gate Bagathan and Teresh. ³The king asked, "What reward did Mordecai receive for this?" The king's attendants answered, "None, your majesty."

⁴Meanwhile Haman, who wanted to speak to the king about hanging Mordecai on the gallows, had entered the outer court. "Who is there in the court?" the king asked. ⁵His attendants answered, "Haman is there standing in the court." The king ordered, "Let him come in."

⁶When Haman entered, the king asked him, "What should be done to the man the king wishes to honor?"

Haman thought to himself: whom would the king wish to honor but me? ⁷So he replied, "For the man the king wishes to honor, ⁸let royal robes be brought which the king has worn, and a horse, which the king has ridden with a royal diadem on its head. ⁹Then robes and the horse should be handed to one of the king's noblest officers who should array the man the king faith of Esther and who welcomed her as a sister with a tenderness which she, herself, could not have foreseen. God is the one who cannot bear to see Esther's anxiety and who grants her the salvation of her people.

With all of this, we will more easily understand why the Church in praising Mary, remembers words from the book of Esther: because, Christ's side, Mary intercedes for us.

+ God helps those who ask but we must always use our human resources. Esther trusted God, but she uses prudence and the necessary wishes to honor and lead him on horseback through the city street, proclaiming before him: This is what is done for the man the king is pleased to honor!"

¹⁰The king ordered Haman, "Hurry! Take the robes and the horse and do as you have said for the Jew Mordecai sitting at the royal gate. Do not leave out anything you have recommended."

¹¹So Haman took the robes and the horse, arrayed Mordecai and led him on horseback through the streets, proclaiming, "This is what is done for the man the king is pleased to honor!"

¹²After this Mordecai returned to the king's gate, while Haman hurried home greatly disappointed. ¹³He told his wife and all his friends everything that had happened, and they said to him, "If Mordecai, who started your downfall, is of Jewish origin, you will not win against him. You will surely be ruined." ¹⁴While they were yet talking, the king's eunuchs arrived and hurried Haman off to the banquet Esther had prepared.

The banquet Esther prepared

7 ¹So the king and Haman went to the banquet that Esther had prepared. ²And again, on that second day, while they were drinking wine, the king said to Esther "Whatever is your petition, Queen Esther, shall be granted. Whatever request you make shall be fulfilled, even for half of my kingdom."

³Queen Esther replied, "If I have found favor with you, O king, and if it pleases your majesty, grant me my life; and spare also the lives of my people. This is my petition and request for myself and for my people. ⁴For we have been delivered to destruction, slaughter and extinction. Had we been sold merely as male and female slaves, I would have kept quiet, for our calamity would not be as great a loss to the king."

⁵King Ahasuerus asked Queen Esther, "Who and where is the man who dared do such a thing?" ⁶Esther answered, "He is no other than this wicked Haman—an enemy and a foe!"

At this, Haman was seized with terror. ⁷The king left the banquet in anger and went to the garden. Haman stayed to beg Queen Esther for his life, realizing that the king had decided on his doom.

⁸When the king returned from the garden to the banquet hall, Haman had thrown himself on the bed where Esther was reclining. The king exclaimed, "Is he going to molest the queen even before me in my own house?" No sooner had the king spoken than his assistants covered Haman's face. ⁹Harbona, one of the king's eunuchs, said, "This man built a fifty-cubit gallows for Mordecai who gave the report that saved the king's life. It is standing there at his house."

The king said, "Very well, hang him on it." ¹⁰So Haman was hanged on the gallows he had prepared for Mordecai, and the king's anger subsided.

8 ¹That same day King Ahasuerus gave Queen Esther the house of Haman, enemy of the Jews. Mordecai was admitted into the king's presence, for Esther had revealed how he was related to her. ²The king took off his signet ring, which he had recovered from Haman, and gave it to Mordecai, whom Esther appointed in charge of Haman's house.

³Once more Esther had an opportunity of tactics so as not to destroy what God is about to achieve.

History has demonstrated that those who persecute God's people never come out victorious.

We will have no trouble seeing with what irony the author of this book depicts the great kings, with their whims and vanity.

being heard by the king. Weeping and falling before him, she begged him to frustrate the evil plot of Haman the Agagite against the Jews. ⁴The king held out the golden scepter to her, and she rose and stood before him, saying,

⁵"If it please your majesty, if I am pleasing to your eyes and have found favor with you, and if you think it proper to do so, let an order be issued revoking the letters which Haman, son of Hammedatha the Agagite, wrote to destroy the Jews in all the royal provinces. ⁶For how can I bear to see the destruction of my people, the extermination of my race?"

⁷King Ahasuerus said to Queen Esther and to Mordecai the Jew, "I have given Haman's house to Esther and had Haman hanged on the gallows for plotting to destroy the Jews. ⁸Now you can write a decree as you please concerning the Jews, in the name of the king, and seal it with the royal signet ring; for any document written in the king's name and sealed with his ring cannot be revoked."

⁹The royal scribes were summoned that very day, the twenty-third of the third month of Sivan, and as Mordecai dictated they wrote an order to the Jews, to the satraps, governors and officials of the hundred twenty-seven provinces from India to Ethiopia, to each province in its own script, to each people in its own language, and to the Jews in their own script and language. ¹⁰These letters written in the name of King Ahasuerus and sealed with the royal signet ring were carried by couriers mounted on the king's thoroughbred steeds.

¹¹The king's edict granted the Jews in each city the right to assemble and defend themselves, to kill, destroy and wipe out any armed group of any nation or province that might attack them and their women and children, and to seize their goods as spoil. ¹²This edict took effect throughout the provinces of King Ahasuerus on the thirteenth day of the twelfth month, Adar. ¹³A copy of the text of the edict to be promulgated as law in every province was published among all the peoples so that the Jews might be prepared on the day stated to avenge themselves on their enemies.

¹⁴Spurred on by the king's command, the couriers, mounted on the king's steeds, rode out in haste, and the edict was promulgated in the citadel of Susa.

o In some way, this letter completes the first one we read in chapter 13. The king favours the Jews in the same irresponsible way as he had commanded them to be killed. But, naturally, it was not his fault: Haman was the one who had deceived the king. He finds no problem in decreeing the opposite of what he had decided shortly before. In fact, this change is proof that ¹⁵In royal garments of blue and white, with a large golden crown and a cloak of purple and fine linen, Mordecai left the king's presence! There was a celebration in the city of Susa! ¹⁶For the Jews it was a time of splendor and merriment, honor and triumph. ¹⁷Wherever the king's edict was read in every province and in each city, there was rejoicing and feasting among the Jews. Many people of other nationalities were seized with fear of the Jews, and they embraced Judaism.

16 ¹The text of the letter read as follows:

"The great King Ahasuerus to the satraps, governors and all our loyal subjects in the one hundred twenty-seven provinces stretching from India to Ethiopia: Greetings!

⁷These evil practices of past times, as attested by the records, have been carried over to the present in the crimes perpetrated by unworthy officials. ⁸For the future, however we will strive to make our kingdom a realm of peace for all ⁹by starting now to adopt new policies and by treating with the utmost justice all matters that come to our attention.

¹⁰To give an example, Haman, son of Hammedatha, a Macedonian who is alien to Persian blood and devoid of our kindness, was treated hospitably by us. ¹¹Enjoying the goodwill that we have towards every nation, he was even proclaimed our "father," before whom as second in rank to the king, everyone bowed down. ¹²But his arrogance turned his head he acts with much wisdom to correct errors of others.

Again, the author of Esther captures the stupidity and vanity of these great men who always try to convince their people that they are indispensable and that, without them, people would live in chaos. If the book of Esther aspires to show God's providence for his people, it also and he schemed to deprive us of our kingdom and our life. ¹³ He plotted for the destruction of Mordecai, our saviour and constant benefactor, of Esther, our blameless royal partner, and of their whole race. ¹⁴ In that way he hoped to make us defenseless and facilitate the transfer of rule by the Persian's to the Macedonians.

¹⁵ We find, however, that the Jews consigned to extinction by this accursed man are not evildoers but are governed by the most just of laws. ¹⁶ They are, in fact, children of the Most High, the great living God, who has made our kingdom prosperous for us and for our ancestors.

¹⁷ You will, therefore, do well to ignore the letter sent by Haman, son of Hammedatha, for the man himself, together with his entire family, has been hanged at the gate of Susa. Thus speedily has God, who rules over all, given him the punishment he deserved.

¹⁸ Post a copy of this letter in every public place, give the Jews freedom to live by their own laws, and come to their aid against those who plan to attack them on the thirteenth day of the twelfth month, Adar. ¹⁹ For God, who rules over all, has turned this day from one of destruction into one of joy for his chosen people.

²⁰ You should, therefore, celebrate this memorable day among your designated feasts with all rejoicing, so that both now and hereafter it may be for us and the loyal Persians a celebration of salvation, and for those who plot against us a reminder of destruction.

²¹ Every city and country, without exception, that fails to observe this decree shall be destroyed with sword and fire. It will then be left untroubled not only by men but by the beasts and birds as well.

9 ¹ When the day came for the order of the king to be carried out – the thirteenth day of the twelfth month, Adar, on which the enemies of the Jews had expected to crush them – the reverse happened, for it was the Jews who got the upper hand over those who sought their harm. ² In their towns throughout the provinces of King Ahasuerus, the Jews gathered to strike at those who planned their destruction. But no one dared resist them, for they were feared by all the other nationalities. ³ In fact, all the officials of the provinces, the satraps, governors and the king's administrators supported the Jews out of fear of Mordecai, ⁴ who had become more and more powerful and prominent not only in the palace but throughout the provinces.

⁵ The Jews struck down their enemies, killing them by the sword, doing as they pleased to those who hated them. ⁶ In Susa alone, they killed five hundred men. ⁷ They also killed Parshandatha, Dalphon, Aspatha, ⁸ Porathai, Adalia, Aridatha, ⁹ Parmashta, Arisai, Aridai, and Vaizatha, ¹⁰ the ten sons of Haman, who was Hammedatha's son and enemy of the Jews. But they laid no hand on the spoils.

¹¹ That same day the number of those slain in Susa was reported to the king, ¹² who in turn told Esther: "The Jews have killed five hundred men and the ten sons of Haman in Susa alone. Imagine what more they have done in the rest of my provinces! But you shall again be granted whatever you ask; whatever you request shall be fulfilled."

¹⁴ The king then ordered that this be done. The edict was issued in Susa, and the ten sons of Haman were hanged. ¹⁵ On the fourteenth day of the month of Adar, the Jews in Susa gathered again and put to death three hundred men. But again they laid no hand on the spoils.

¹⁸ The Jews in Susa, however, assembled on the thirteenth and fourteenth and rested on the fifteenth, making this a day of feasting and rejoicing. ¹⁹ That is why the rural Jews have a different day of rest and celebration: the fourteenth of the month of Adar on which they send presents to each other.

undermines personality worship and the official image created by the services of the dictatorship.

■ It is hard for us to understand that the awful things related in the book were done in the name of God, and at the request of Esther who seems to have been a pious woman.

Such was the mentality of the time: the God who triumphed was the authentic God and triumph was measured by the disaster inflicted on the enemy. Esther's purpose was to show that the Lord is the true God. Achior used the same argument in speaking to Holofernes (Judith 5:5-21).

²⁰ Mordecai recorded these events and sent letters to all the Jews throughout the provinces of King Ahasuerus, both near and far. ²¹ directing them to celebrate annually the fourteenth and fifteenth of the month of Adar ²² as the days when the Jews rid themselves of their enemies, and as the month when their sorrow was turned into joy and their mourning into feasting. They were to observe these as days of festivity and rejoicing, days for giving food presents to one another and gifts to the poor.

²³ The Jews agreed to observe annually this celebration instituted on Mordecai's written order. ²⁴ For Haman, son of Hammedatha the Agagite, enemy of the Jews, had plotted to destroy them and had cast the pur or lot for their ruin. ²⁵ Yet through Esther's intervention, the king ordered in writing that the wicked plan against the Jews should instead be turned against Haman whom he ordered to be hanged as well as his sons. ²⁶ These days, therefore, have been called Purim after the word pur. Because of this written order and of what they had been and experienced, ²⁷ the Jews took upon themselves, their descendants and all who would join them to celebrate these two days every year without fail, in the manner prescribed and at the time appointed. ²⁸ Commemorated and celebrated thus, in every family, province and city, through all generations, these days of Purim were never to fall into disuse among the Jews nor into oblivion among their descendants.

²⁹ Queen Esther, daughter of Abihail, along with the Jew Mordecai, wrote with full authority to confirm this second letter concerning Purim. ³⁰ Letters were sent to all the Jews in the one hundred twenty-seven provinces of Ahasuerus' kingdom, in words conveying goodwill and assurance. ³¹ enjoining them to observe these days of Purim at the designated time, as Mordecai the Jew and Queen Esther had decreed and just as the Jews had prescribed for themselves and their descendants, with respect to their duty of fasting and lamentation. ³² Esther's decree fixed these practices of Purim, and it was recorded in the book.

10 ¹ King Ahasuerus levied tribute: throughout the empire including the distant islands. ² All his acts of power and valor, together with a full account of the greatness of Mordecai who was raised by the king to high honor, are recorded in the chronicles of the kings of Media and Persia. ³ The Jew Mordecai was second in rank to King Ahasuerus; he was great among the Jews and esteemed by many of his brothers as the harbinger of peace and welfare for all his people.

11 ¹ And Mordecai said, "This is God's work. ² I remember the dream I had about this, nothing of which has failed to be fulfilled — ³ the little spring that became a river the light, the sun and the flood of water. Esther is the river, whom the king married and made queen. ⁴ Haman and I are the two dragons. ⁵ Those who assembled to destroy the Jews are the nations. ⁶ And the nation of the just — this is Israel, my people, who cried to God and were saved. Yes, the Lord has saved his people and delivered us from all these evils. God has worked such signs and great wonders as have never occurred among the nations.

¹¹ In the fourth year of the reign of Ptolemy and Cleopatra, Dositheus, who affirmed he was a priest and a Levite, and his son Ptolemy brought to Egypt the foregoing letter concerning the Purim, maintaining that it was genuine and had been translated by Lysimachus Ptolemy's son and a resident of Jerusalem.

The examples of Tobit

o1 This is the story of Tobit son of Tobiel, son of Ananiel, son of Adonel, son of Gabael of the race of Asiel, of the tribe of Naphtali. ²In the days of Shalmaneser, King of Assyria, Tobit was deported from Thisbe, which is to the south of Kedesh of Naphtali in Galilee, above Asher.

³I, Tobit, have walked in the ways of truth and justice all the days of my life; I have given many alms to my brethren and to those of my countrymen who were deported with me to Nineveh, a city in the country of the Assyrians.

⁴When I was a young man in my country, the land of Israel, all the tribe of my father Naphtali broke away from the family of David in Jerusalem. This was however the city chosen among all the tribes of Israel to be the place of sacrifice for all the tribes, and where the Temple, the house of God the Most High, had been built and consecrated for all generations forever.

⁵All the tribes which had separated, including the tribe of Naphtali, my father, sacrificed to the calf Baal which Jeroboam, King of Israel, had set up at Dan, in the hills of Galilee. ⁶I, alone, often went to Jerusalem for the feasts, as is ordered for all the people of Israel by an everlasting decree. I went with the first fruits and tithes of my crop, and with the first shearings of the sheep. ⁷I gave these for the altar, to the priests, sons of Aaron; I gave a tithe of the corn, the wine, the olives, the pomegranates, the figs and the other fruits to the Levites who officiated in Jerusalem. I sold the second tithe every six years and went to distribute the money in Jerusalem.

⁸I gave the third tithe to the orphans and widows and to the pagan converts who had joined the Israelites. I gave them every three years and we ate according to the rules which had been laid down on this matter in the Law of Moses, and according to the recommendations made by Deborah, my father's mother, for my father had left me an orphan.

⁹When I reached manhood I married Anna of the race of our forefathers and she bore me a son, Tobias. ¹⁰When I was taken to the city of Nineveh as a prisoner all my relatives and those of our family ate the pagans' food. ¹¹But I watched over myself so as not to eat it ¹²because I remembered God with all my heart. ¹³The Most High let me be esteemed by Shalmaneser and I became his purchaser. ¹⁴I used to go to Media to make purchases for him until he died; one day I left on deposit with Gabael, brother of Gabria, at Rages in Media, a sack containing ten talents of silver.

¹⁵When Shalmaneser died, his son Sennacherib became king in his place. In his time the highways of Media were in a state of insurrection so that I could no longer go to Media. ¹⁶In the days of Shalmaneser I gave many alms to my kinsmen. ¹⁷I gave my bread

o The Book of Tobit is a short story (see introduction to the book of Esther).

Who is Tobit? He is a Jew from the north of Palestine, of the tribe of Naphtali, exiled to Assyria.

Tobit Senior is a man tested by God but not rejected by him. His perseverance in prayer brings God's blessings upon him. As we say today, "God may delay, but he does not forget."

When Tobit becomes the king's administrator, he is not conceited nor does he look down on others, but he remains faithful to his poor, exiled brothers. He is an example of solidarity for us.

Even though the good he does brings him misfortune, he remains faithful to his God and faces up to difficult situations. In his poverty he is concerned about his brothers.

He is not overcome by other people's jokes, nor by his wife who reproaches him for the good he does.

His wife, Anna, copes with the situation by working in Ahikar's household, although they were rich before.

to those who were hungry, my garments to those who were naked, and if I saw anyone of my tribe dead, and his body thrown over the ramparts of Nineveh I would bury him. ¹⁸ I buried secretly those whom king Sennacherib killed on returning from Judea in the days when he was punished by the king of Heaven because of the blasphemies which he had uttered. In his anger he slew a great number of Jews. The king looked for their bodies but could not find them. ¹⁹ One of the inhabitants of Nineveh went and told the king that I had buried them so I went into hiding.

Then, I learned that they were looking for me to put me to death. I was afraid and I fled to a distance. ²⁰ All my goods were confiscated and nothing was left to me that was not taken for the royal treasury except Anna my wife and Tobias my son.

²¹ But only forty days had passed when Sennacherib was killed by his two sons. They fled to Mount Ararat and his son Esarhaddon became king in Sennacherib's place. Esarhaddon appointed Ahikar, the son of my brother Anael, over all the administration. ²² Ahikar intervened on my behalf and I returned to Nineveh. My nephew Ahikar was head of the cup bearers, keeper of the seals, administrator and accountant. Esarhaddon made him second only to himself.

2 ¹ When I returned to my house, my wife Anna and my son Tobias were given back to me. At the feast of Pentecost, the sacred feast of the Seven Weeks, they prepared a good meal for me and I sat down to eat. ² I saw the many dishes and I said to my son: "Go and bring as many as you can find of our relatives who are in need and who remember the Lord. I will wait here for them." ³ When Tobias returned, he said: "Father, one of ours has been strangled and thrown into the public square." ⁴ Before I ate anything I hurried out and carried this man into the house and waited till sunset. ⁵ When I returned home I washed myself and ate my food in sorrow. ⁶ I remembered the prophecy which Amos uttered against Bethel: "Your feasts will be turned into mourning. All your sons will be turned into lamentations," and I wept.

After sunset I went out and, after I had dug a trench, I buried the man. ⁸ My neighbours mocked me, saying: "He no longer fears to be put to death for doing that; he had to flee but look he is again burying the dead." ⁹ That same night, after I had buried the body, I returned home. I washed myself and went out into the courtyard to sleep against the wall; my face was uncovered because of the heat. ¹⁰ I did not see that there were sparrows on the wall of the courtyard and, as my eyes were open, the hot droppings from the sparrows fell into my eyes and formed a white film on my eyes. I went to find doctors to attend to me for medical treatment but the more ointments they smeared on my eyes, the more blind I became because of the film. Finally I became totally blind. I suffered from blindness for four years. All my brothers were burdened because of me. Ahikar kept me for two years before he departed for Elymiade.

¹¹ My wife Anna worked hard at a woman's task, weaving. ¹² On the seventh day of the month of March she cut the cloth and delivered it to her employers. They paid her wages and gave her, over and above, a young goat for food. ¹³ When she returned home the kid began to cry. I said to her, "Where does the little kid come from? Did you steal it? Return it to its owners for we are not allowed to eat anything that is stolen"

¹⁴ But she said, "It is a gift which has been given to me in addition to my wages." "I don't believe it. I tell you to return it to its owners." I was ashamed of her.

She replied, "What about your own almsgiving and your good deeds? I have to put up with all this from you."

Prayer of Tobit

+ 3 ¹ Distressed, I wept and prayed and expressing my sorrow, I said, ² "You are

Tobit's preoccupation about handing his religion down to his son and his concern for the future of his son, show that he is a real father.

+ He dedicated his life in faithfulness to God and he finds himself poor, blind and, moreover, insulted by his wife, Anna. What is his attitude? He presents his problem to God without complaining about anyone, not even about his wife.

In the Bible we repeatedly see that God tests us before granting us a special favour. We will really understand when we hear what Christ says to the disciples of Emmaus: "Did not the Messiah have to suffer all this to enter into his glory?" (Luke 24:26).

He is in solidarity with the sins of his people and he finds it just to be punished, even though he asks to be freed from this punishment.

He feels incapable of fighting alone in life, and he asks for death, but he leaves everything in God's hands. Christ did exactly the same (Matthew 26:39).

His prayer is to ask for strength and the ability to fulfil what God says, what he demands and not to present God his own plan and ask him to realize it, as we often do when we pray.

just, O Lord; all your actions and all your ways are merciful and just; your judgments are always true and just. ³Remember me, Lord, and look on me. Do not punish me for my sins nor for the wrongs I have committed through ignorance. Pardon the sins which my fathers have committed in your sight, ⁴for they disobeyed your commandments. You have allowed us to suffer pillage, captivity and death. You have allowed us to be mocked by all the pagan nations among whom we have been dispersed. ⁵Ah well! All your judgments are just when you choose to punish me for my sins and those of my fathers, because we have not accomplished your will, nor have we sincerely obeyed your commands. We have not walked before you in truth.

⁶Do with me as you will. Take my life and turn me into dust, because I prefer death to life. In this way free me and let me return to dust. It is better for me to die than to live, because these unjust reproaches have caused me great distress. Command that I be now released from trials, and let me enter my eternal dwelling place. Do not turn your face away from me.

Sara's misfortune

■ ⁷That same day, at Ecbatana in Media, Sara, the daughter of Ragouel, was insulted in a similar way by her father's young maidservants. ⁸Sara had had seven husbands, but the demon Asmodeus had killed each one of them before the marriage had been consummated. The maidservants said, "It was you who killed your husbands. You have had seven husbands and you have not enjoyed marital relationship with any of them. ⁹Why do you punish us? Since they are dead, go and join them. May we never see a son or daughter of yours!"

¹⁰That same day Sara was so distressed in mind that she went to the upper room in her father's house. She wished to hang herself. But she thought better of it and said: "If people ever reproached my father and said to him: 'You had an only daughter whom you cherished and she hanged herself because she was unhappy' I would cause my father in his old age to die of grief. It is better for me not to hang myself but to ask the Lord that I may die and not live to hear any more insults."

¹¹At that moment she stretched forth her hands towards the window and prayed, saying, "You are blessed, O Lord my God, and blessed is your holy and glorious Name throughout the ages. May all your works praise you forever. ¹²Lord I have turned my eyes and my face towards you. ¹³Command that I be set free from the earth and that I may hear more insults. ¹⁴You know, O Lord, that I am pure of all contact with man; ¹⁵that I have not defiled my name, nor my father's name in the country of my captivity. I am my father's only daughter. He has no other son or daughter who can inherit from him, neither has he a close relative who can be given to me as a husband. So, after my seven husbands are dead, I have no one to live for. If it does not seem good to you, O Lord, that I should die, command that people will respect me and have pity on me and that I may hear no more insults."

¹⁶The Lord in His glory heard the prayer of Tobit and of Sara ¹⁷and he sent Raphael to heal them both – to give back his sight to Tobit and to give Sara, the daughter of Ragouel, to Tobit's son Tobias, as his wife. Also, Raphael would enchain the wicked demon Asmodeus so that Sara would be the wife of Tobias.

At the same time Tobit, who had gone for a short walk, returned to the house; and Sara, the daughter of Ragouel, came down from the upper room.

Tobit, now old, sends Tobias to a distant land

4 ¹The same day Tobit remembered the money which he had deposited with Gabael at Rages in Media, and he said to himself: ²"I have asked for death, had I better not call Tobias and tell him about this money before I die?"

³He called Tobias and said to him: "My son, when I die, see to my burial. Look after your mother. Honour her all the days of your life. Do what pleases her and do not cause her any pain. ⁴Remember, my son, that she suffered much pain on your account when you were in her womb. When she dies, bury her

■ When we find ourselves in Sarah's situation, we immediately blame God.

Sarah thinks about her problem and in thinking she sees that she must change her mind and must not ask for death. When we look at one isolated event in life we can despair, but if we look at the whole, we will always find some reason to keep on struggling.

Sarah's reason to keep on living is her love for her father and her desire to give him heirs.

Whenever there is despair it is because we look only at one aspect of life, as for example, the economic aspect. Oftentimes, a fighter or a ruler wants to give up everything because he is being criticized, without looking at all the good he would stop accomplishing.

next to me, in the same tomb. ⁵ Always remember the Lord our God. Do not consent to sin or go against his commandments. Act justly all the days of your life, and do not walk in the paths of wrongdoing, ⁶ for, if you act uprightly, you will be successful in all you do.

⁷ Give alms from what you have to those who act justly and do good. Do not be grudging when you give alms. Do not turn away your face from anyone who is poor so that God may not turn away his face from you. ⁸ Give alms in proportion to the amount you have; if you have little, do not be afraid to give alms according to the little you have.

¹⁴ Do not keep back overnight the wages of any man who has worked for you but give them as soon as possible. If you serve God, you will be rewarded.

Take care in all your actions and behave correctly in your conduct. ¹⁵ Do not do to another what you would hate to be done to yourself. Do not drink wine to the point of drunkenness; do not let drunkenness be a life-long companion. ¹⁶ Give your bread to those who are hungry and your clothes to those who are naked; give alms of everything you have over. ¹⁷ Scatter your bread on the tombs of the just;

do not give it to those who are sinners. ¹⁸ Take counsel of those who are wise and do not despise any useful advice.

¹⁹ In all circumstances bless the Lord and ask him that your ways may be upright; that all your plans and projects may succeed because not every nation has true wisdom. It is the Lord who gives everything and he humiliates those whom he wishes. My son, remember my advice and do not let it be erased from your heart.

²⁰ I also wish to mention the ten talents of silver which I placed on deposit with Gabael, son of Gabria, at Rages in Media. ²¹ Do not fear my son, because we have become poor. If you fear God, if you abstain from all sin and if you do what is pleasing in God's sight – in this way you will have great wealth."

5 ¹ Tobias spoke to Tobit, "Father I shall do everything you have asked. ² But how can I get the money from this man. He does not know me and I do not know him. What proof of identity shall I give him to make him trust me and give me the money. Also, I do not know the way to Media."

³ Tobit gave Tobias a receipt and said to him, "My son, find a trustworthy man to go with you, and on your return I shall give him a salary until he dies. When you reach Rages, collect the money from the man Gabael."

He needs a companion and is given an angel

◆ ⁴ Tobias went to look for a man and he found Raphael. Raphael was an angel but Tobias did not know this. ⁵ Tobias said to Gabriel "Can you go with me to Rages in Media? Do you know the place?" ⁶ The angel said to Tobias, "I will go with you. I know the way and I have even spent a night with your kinsman, Gabael."

⁷ Tobias said to Raphael, "Wait for me. I am going to speak to my father. I want you to come with me to Media and I will pay you." ⁸ Raphael said to Tobias, "Go, but do not delay." ⁹ Tobias went in and said to his father. ¹⁰ "I have found the man who will go with me." His father said, "Bring this man to me. I want to know the name of his tribe. I want to know if I can trust him to go with you." Tobias went ◆ Tobias' journey to Rages is also a spiritual journey. He meets an angel of God in human form; he also faces a demon who kills sensual men.

Tobias tries to remain faithful to the God he loves, and his friend, Azariah, helps him with his advices. The common search is necessary to discover God's will, and so, Tobias is going to b God's instrument to free Sarah from the demon.

The angel teaches Tobias how to obtain God's blessings at the beginning of his marriage. There is, obviously, no sin in marital relations, and yet Tobias must reject the temptation to seek his own pleasure in order to achieve a union based on love and surrender.

only son and I fear that once I have entered the room I shall die, like all those before me, because a demon loves her, and he harms those who approach her. ¹⁵Well, I fear death. I also fear causing my father and mother to die of grief on my account, for they have no other son to bury them." ¹⁶The angel said to Tobias, "do you not remember your father's advice to you, telling you to marry a woman of your own tribe? Well, listen to me, my friend. She will be your wife. Do not worry about the demon as this very night she will become your wife."

¹⁷When you enter the wedding chamber you will take some glowing embers of incense, and you will put on top of them part of the heart and of the liver of the fish. ¹⁸As soon as the fire will begin to smoke, the demon will smell it and flee never to return. And when you go to Sara, stand up together and call on the all-merciful God. He will keep you safe because he has compassion. Do not be afraid because from all eternity Sara has been destined to be your wife. You will save her, and she will go with us. And I am sure that she will bear you children.

When Tobias heard Raphael's words, he loved Sara and his heart became strongly attached to her.

7 When they arrived in Ecbatana Tobias said to Raphael "Friend Azarias, take me straightaway to our friend Ragouel." So Raphael led Tobias to Ragouel's house and they found Ragouel sitting by the door of the courtyard.

²Ragouel said to his wife, Edna, "This young man is very like my cousin Tobit!"

³Edna questioned them, "Where have you come from, my friends?" They replied, "We are of the sons of Naphtali who live as deported in Nineveh." ⁴She asked them, "Do you know my kinsman, Tobit?" ⁵They said, "Yes we know him." She continued, "Is he in good health." Then Tobias said, "Tobit is my father."

⁶Ragouel ran towards him and covered him with kisses, then in tears he blessed Tobias and said to him, "Blessings on you, you are the son of a good and worthy man!" ⁷When he learned that Tobit had lost his sight he grieved and wept. "What a misfortune that a man who is so just and generous should become blind!"

⁸His wife Edna and his daughter Sara wept also and they received Tobias and Raphael with great kindness. ⁹They killed a sheep and served them numerous dishes.

How God's children marry

After they had bathed and washed, as they were relaxing before the meal, Tobias said to Raphael, "Friend Azarias, tell Ragouel to give me Sara my kinswoman. Talk about what you were saying during our journey that the matter may come about and be accomplished." ¹⁰Ragouel overheard the conversation and he said to Tobias, "Eat, drink and be merry tonight. You are the man who has most right to take Sara my daughter because you are my kinsman. Indeed it is impossible for me to give her to any other man but you, because you are my closest relative. But, my son, I must tell you the whole story. ¹¹I gave her to seven husbands from among our kinsmen. They each died on the wedding night. But, for the moment, my son, eat and drink and the Lord will arrange things for you."

Tobias said, "I shall eat nothing if you do not stop now and bring this matter to a conclusion." Ragouel said to Tobias, "Take her from now on; I give her to you according to the Law of Moses and you have to understand that God himself gives her to you. Receive your kinswoman, from now on you are her brother and she is your sister. She is yours from today and forever. Now God will bless you this night and may he give you both his mercy and peace."

¹²He called his daughter Sara and taking her by the hand he gave her to Tobias as his wife. He said, "According to Moses' Law, take her now and bring her to your father's house." And he blessed them. ¹³Ragouel then called Edna his wife; taking a sheet of parchment, he wrote down a matrimonial contract and they both affixed their seals. ¹⁴Then they all began to eat. ¹⁵Ragouel called his wife and said to her, "My sister, prepare the other room and take Sara there." ¹⁶Edna did as Ragouel told her and she took Sara to this room and Sara began to cry. Edna dried her daughter's tears and said, ¹⁷"Have courage, my child, the God of heaven and earth will change your sorrow into joy. Have confidence, my daughter!"

+ 8 When they had finished eating and drinking they wished to go to bed so they escorted Tobias to the bedroom where Sara was. ²Tobias remembered Raphael's words. He took the liver and the heart of the fish which he had in a basket and put them on the hot coals of incense. ³The smell of the fish made the devil flee to the upper regions of Egypt where Raphael chained him up.

⁴When Sara's parents had left the room and closed the door, Tobias got up from the bed and said to Sara, "Get up, my sister, and let us ask the Lord to have mercy on us and save us."

⁵She got up and they began to pray, asking that they be given life. Tobias began like this,

"May you be blessed, O Lord God of our fathers, and may your holy and glorious Name be blessed forever. May the heavens and all creatures bless you. * You created Adam and you gave him Eve, his wife, as a helper and companion, so that from these two the human race might be born.

You said: 'It is not good that man should be alone, let us give him a companion who is like himself.' * Now Lord, I take my sister to myself in sincerity and love, not merely seeking pleasure. Have mercy on us and grant us a long life together." * Together they said, "Amen," and returned to bed for the night.

Ragouel got up early and called his servants and told them to dig a grave. ¹⁰For he said to himself, "What if this man should also die and we become an object of scorn and reproach." * Then Ragouel entered the house and said to his wife, ¹¹Edna, "Send one of the maidservants to see if Tobias is alive. If he has died, we will bury him without anyone knowing."

¹²The maidservant opened the door and saw them asleep. ¹⁴She then went to tell them that Tobias was alive. ¹⁵Ragouel blessed the Lord saying, "May you be blessed, O Lord, with all pure and holy blessings. May the saints and all your creatures bless you. May all the angels and the elect bless you forever. ¹⁶May you be blessed for having filled me with joy. What I feared, has not happened but you have treated us with great kindness ¹⁷and have had mercy on these two who are only children. Have mercy on them Lord, and give them your grace and protection so that they may be blessed with good health and great joy all their lives. May they live always in your grace."

¹⁸Then he sent his servants to fill in the grave before daybreak.

Ragouel organized for Tobias and Sara a wedding feast which was to last fourteen days. ¹⁹He told his wife to bake a batch of bread. He went to the stable, brought out two oxen and four sheep and ordered that they be killed and prepared. ²⁰He then called Tobias and said to him, "You will stay here for fourteen days, you will eat and drink in my house and you will bring joy to my daughter, who has suffered so much." Ragouel swore an oath and told Tobias that he should not set out before the fourteen days of the wedding festivities were over. And he said, "You will go home to your father in safety. ²¹You will take with you half of my possessions; the other half will be yours when I and Edna die. Have confidence, my son, I am now your father and Edna is your mother. From now on we shall be close to you and your wife. Have confidence!"

9 ¹Tobias called Raphael and said to him, ²"Brother Azarias, please take with you a manservant and two camels and go to Rages in Media. ³Call on Gabael, give him the receipt and recover the money. Then invite Gabael to the wedding feast. You saw that Ragouel made me swear an oath, so I may not depart from this house without breaking the oath. ⁴Yet you know that my father is counting the days and if I delay longer than necessary he will be worried.

⁵Raphael set out for Rages in Media and stayed the night in Gabael's house. Raphael presented him with the receipt, and Gabael brought out the sealed bags of money and gave them to him. ⁶The next morning they arose early and set off to the wedding. When they entered Ragouel's house, they found Tobias at the table. Gabael went to him and embraced him. He wept and blessed Tobias saying, "Good and worthy man, son of a good and honest father, a man who is just and compassionate, may the Lord of Heaven bless you and your wife. May He also bless the father and mother of your wife. Blessed be God because I have seen Tobias, my cousin, who is so like his father."

10 ¹Each morning Tobit counted the days till Tobias should have returned from his journey. When the time was up and his son, Tobias, and his companion, Raphael, had not yet returned, ²he thought, "Maybe he has received a refusal, or perhaps Gabael is dead and there is no one to hand over the money." ³He became very sad. ⁴Anna, his wife, said, "My son is dead or he would not delay so long." She began to lament over him saying, ⁵"why did I let you go, light of my eyes!" ⁶Tobit said to her, "Calm yourself, my sister. Do not worry. He is well." ⁷She replied, him of his possessions; and in the case of Sarah, allowing that a spirit should prevent her from marrying.

Marriage is not only a means of satisfying sexual instinct, but a way of cooperating with God in his plan of creation and salvation of the world. Both Tobias and Sarah wish to have children so that they may pass on to them their faith and assure the continuity of God's people.

"Keep quiet, do not try to deceive me, my child is dead." Every day she went out along the road which her son had taken. By day, she took no food; by night, she never ceased crying, unable to sleep.

When the fourteen days of festivities were over during which Ragouel had sworn that Tobias should stay with him, Tobias went to Ragouel and said, "Let me return home because my parents will certainly be despairing that they will never see me again." Ragouel replied, "Stay with me and I will send messengers to your father to give him news of you." Tobias said, "No, let me go to them." Then Ragouel handed over to him his wife Sara and half of all his goods: servants, oxen, sheep, donkeys, camels, clothes, silver and various other things. Ragouel blessed them and allowed them to set out. "Bidding farewell to Tobias he said to him, 'Goodbye, my son, safe journey! May the Lord of Heaven bless you and make you fruitful and may I see your children before I die.'"

¹²To his daughter, Sara, he said, "Honour your parents-in-law, since from now on they are your parents just as we are who gave you life. Go in peace, my daughter and may we always hear good things of you." He embraced her and let them depart. ¹³Edna, in her turn, said to Tobias, "My dear son, may the Lord bring you back one day so that I may see your children and be happy before the Lord. I entrust my daughter to your care. Do not cause her any sadness."

¹⁴After that Tobias left Ragouel's house. He praised God who had brought his journey to such a happy conclusion, and he blessed Ragouel and his wife, Edna.

Tobias returns to his father's house

11 ¹When they arrived near Kaserin which faces the city of Nineveh, ²Raphael said to Tobias, "You know in what state your father, Tobit, was when we left him; ³let us go ahead to prepare the house before your wife Sara arrives. ⁴Bring with you the gall of the fish." The dog also went with them, walking behind them.

⁵Now Anna was sitting there, scanning the road along which her son should return. ⁶She saw Tobias and Raphael coming in the distance and said to the father of Tobias, "Your son is coming with the man who accompanied him."

⁷While Tobias and Raphael were still going along the road, Raphael said to Tobias, "I am sure that your father will regain his sight. ⁸Rub his eyes with the fish gall and when he feels his eyes itching, he will rub them and the film will come away like scales from his eyes. He will regain his sight and see the light."

⁹Anna ran to meet Tobias and threw her arms around his neck saying, "At last I have seen you again, my child. Now I can die!" And both of them began to cry. ¹⁰Tobit also got up and, stumbling, arrived at the door of the courtyard. Tobias ran to him ¹¹with the fish gall in his hand. He breathed on his father's eyes, embraced him and said, "Father, have confidence!" ¹²Then he spread the fish gall on Tobit's eyes. Tobias waited. ¹³When his eyes began to itch Tobit rubbed them and with both hands scaled off the film from the corners of his eyes. When Tobit saw his son he threw his arms around Tobias' neck ¹⁴and began to weep. He said, "Blessed be you, O God. Blessed be your Name forever. Blessed be your holy angels. ¹⁵You have punished me, but you have taken pity on me, and now I can see my son Tobias."

Tobias was very happy. After entering the house he told his father about the important things that had happened in Media. He told his father about the successful outcome of his journey, how he got the money, and how he married Sara, daughter of Ragouel, who just then was approaching the gates of Nineveh.

¹⁶Tobit, happy and praising God, went out to meet his daughter-in-law at the gates of Nineveh. All those who saw him, walking himself and unaided, were amazed that he could see. ¹⁷Tobit proclaimed to them that God had pity on him and cured him. Then he went to Sara and blessed her saying, "Welcome, daughter! May God be blessed for having brought you to us and may your father and mother also be blessed."

It was a day of great rejoicing for all Tobit's relatives who lived in Nineveh. ¹⁸Ahikar, Tobit's nephew and Nabad arrived (from Elymiade) and the wedding celebrations lasted for a week.

11:9, Gen 46, 30

13, Lk 15, 20

■ We see that, many times, God gives a partial reward on earth to those who are faithful to his law: the beatitudes of Christ in the Sermon on the Mount say this clearly (Matthew 5:1-12).

There is something great in the angel's words: God takes into account all the little and seemingly unimportant things we do in life.

It is good to keep the secrets of kings but ... make known the glorious works of God. We must proclaim the favours God grants so that others may believe in God's love.

Almsgiving preserves from death; it purifies from all sin. The book of Tobit emphasizes this idea. Giving alms is one way of showing o-

It is fitting to discover and praise the works of God

12 When the wedding feast was over Tobit called Tobias, his son, and said to him, "Be sure you give the wages to the man who accompanied you, and we should add something extra." ²Tobias said, "What shall I give him? It would not be too much if I were to give him half of what I have brought back since ³he has brought me home again safe and sound. He has taken care of my wife and he helped me to get back the money. He has also cured your blindness." ⁴The old man said, "that amount would be well justified in his case."

⁵Then Tobias called the angel and said to him, "Please take half of all that you have brought." ⁶The angel took Tobit and Tobias on one side and said to them,

"Bless God, return thanks to him, proclaim his glory and render him thanks before all the living for all he has done for you. It is good to praise God and to exalt his Name, by making known in a worthy manner the story of God's deeds. Do not be slow in giving him thanks. ⁷It is good to hide the secrets of kings but to make known publicly the works of God. Do good, and evil will not harm you. ⁸It is a good thing to accompany prayer with fasting and almsgiving and justice. It is better to do a little with honour than much with injustice. It is better to give alms than to treasure up gold. ⁹Almsgiving preserves from death; it purifies from all sin. Those people who give alms and act justly will have a long life ¹⁰but sinners only harm themselves.

¹¹I will hide nothing from you. Yes, I have said that it is good to keep the secrets of kings but to make known publicly the glorious works of God. ¹²Tobit, when you and your daughter-in-law Sara prayed, I kept the remembrance of your prayer before the Holy One; when you, Tobit, buried the dead, ¹³I was with you in the same way; and when you did not hesitate to rise up and leave your meal in order to hide the dead man, your good deed did not go unnoticed because I was with you.

¹⁴Well, God sent me to cure you and to cure also Sara, your daughter-in-law. ¹⁵I am Raphael, one of the seven holy angels who present the prayers of holy people and who stand before the glory of God."

¹⁶They both trembled with fear. They threw themselves face downwards on the ground because they were seized with terror. ¹⁷But Raphael said to them, "Do not be afraid; be at peace! Bless God always, ¹⁸because I did not come on my own account but because God willed it. Bless him forever. ¹⁹All the time that I was visible to you I neither ate nor drank anything. I only appeared to do so. ²⁰Now bless and give thanks to God, because I am returning to the One who sent me. Write down in a book all that has happened."

²¹Then he rose up and disappeared. Tobit and Tobias got up, but Raphael was no longer visible. ²²They made known the great and wonderful works of God and how an angel of the Lord had appeared to them.

The song of Tobit

13 Tobit, in an ecstasy of joy, composed a prayer: "Blessed be God living and reigning for all ages.

²It is he who punishes and he who has mercy; who makes people go down to hell and rise up again.

No one can escape his hand.

³Give him thanks, sons of Israel, before all the nations.

Though he has dispersed you among them ⁴he now shows you his greatness.

Exalt him before all the living, because he is our God and Lord, our Father forever.

⁵He punishes us for our wrongdoing but again he will forgive us.

He will bring us together again from amongst all the nations among whom we have been dispersed.

⁶If you turn back to him with all your heart and soul, and live justly before him, then he will turn back to you and will no longer hide his face from you.

⁷See what he has done for you and return him thanks aloud.

Bless the Lord who alone is just and praise the King of ages.

love for our neighbour. However, remember this was written in a society very different from our own. In those days, men were not able to transform the economic laws for the good of all. All they could do was to share their resources with those who had less. Now, our love for our neighbour will be revealed in our efforts to achieve a more efficient and more just society which gives what is needed to everyone.

⁸I, in the land of my captivity, will return him thanks and show his strength and greatness to my sinful people.

Be converted you sinners and live justly before him, certain that he will be pleased with you and show you mercy.

⁹I will praise my God the King of heaven;
my soul, radiant with happiness, will proclaim his greatness.

¹⁰May all in Jerusalem give thanks to him.

¹¹Jerusalem, holy city, God will punish you because of the sins of your children but he will have pity once more on the children of the just.

Jerusalem, return thanks to the Lord in a worthy manner and bless the King of the ages,
in order that his Temple may be rebuilt in your midst with joy;

¹²that, there, God will gladden your exiles and show love to the unfortunate.

¹³Many nations will come from afar to celebrate the Name of the Lord God.

They will carry gifts in their hands, gifts for the King of heaven.

Generations after generations will manifest their joy and your name will be glorified forever.

¹⁴Jerusalem, cursed be all who hate you.
Blessed forever be those who love you.

¹⁵You will rejoice and be glad because the children of the just will be gathered again to praise the Lord of all ages.

¹⁶Blessed those who love you, Jerusalem, and rejoice in your peace.

Blessed also those who have sorrowed because of your calamities;

they will rejoice again on seeing your glory
and they will share your happiness forever.

May my soul bless God, the great King,
¹⁷because Jerusalem will be rebuilt.

Her gates will be built of sapphires and emeralds, her walls of precious stones, her towers and ramparts of pure gold.

her squares will be paved with mosaics of beryl, of ruby, of stone of Ophir.

¹⁸All her streets will cry out with joy and her inhabitants shout, "Alleluia."

They will praise God saying, "Blessed be God who has glorified you forever."

Last words of Tobit

14 ¹In this way Tobit ended his song of thanksgiving. Tobit died peacefully at the age of one hundred and twelve years and was buried with honour in Nineveh. ²He was sixty-two years old when he became blind. Eight years later he regained his sight. He lived happily, practised almsgiving, and continued to praise God and to proclaim his great works. ³When he was very old he called Tobias and said to him, "My son, you see that I have become old and that I am near to death. Take your children ⁴and go to Media because I believe in the word of God which Nahum prophesied about Nineveh. Everything that the prophets, sent by God, pronounced about Assyria and Nineveh will happen. No word will be forgotten but it will all come to pass in due time. Nineveh will be destroyed. You will be safer in Media, where there will be peace for some time, because I am certain and I believe that all that God has said will be fulfilled.

Our brothers and sisters who live in the land of Israel will be dispersed and led away into captivity. As a result the whole of the land of Israel will be deserted. Jerusalem and Samaria will be desolate. The House of God will be burnt down and left in ruins for some time. ⁵But God will again take pity on his people and they will return to their land. They will rebuild the Temple, though it will not be like the first one until better times come. When that time comes they will all return from captivity. They will rebuild Jerusalem in all its magnificence. In it they will rebuild the House of God in all its glory for all generations to come, just as the prophets have foretold.

⁶People of all nations will be converted and know the true God. They will bury their idols which led them into error ⁷and they will praise the God of Justice. All the Israelites saved at that time will remember the Lord in all truth. They will come together and go to Jerusalem. They will live securely forever in the land of Abraham which will be given back to them. Those who sincerely love God will rejoice. But sinners and the unjust will disappear from the earth.

⁸My son, leave Nineveh. Do not remain here.

⁹Now, my children, I give you this advice: serve God and do what is pleasing in his sight. Teach your children how to exercise justice and how to give alms. Teach them also to remember God and to bless his name sincerely at all times, with all their strength.

¹⁰The very day that you bury your mother

here beside me, do not stay overnight in this place. I know that the people here commit many injustices and practice great treachery and no one is ashamed of doing so. You see what Nadab did to Ahikar my nephew who had brought him up. He buried him alive. But God punished Nadab by exposing his injustice. He brought Ahikar into the light and sent Nadab down into eternal darkness because he had tried to kill him. Because he gave alms, Ahikar was delivered from the death planned for him by Nadab. Instead, Nadab fell into the trap and perished. ¹¹See how almsgiving and uprightness can save you and how wrongdoing leads to death. But I feel I am breathing my last." They laid him on his bed and he died. He was given an honourable burial.

¹²When Anna, his mother, died, Tobias buried her next to his father. Then Tobias with his wife and family made their way to Media and settled in Ecbatana near Ragouel, his father-in-law. ¹³He took great care of his parents-in-law in their old age and he buried them with honour in Ecbatana in Media. Tobias inherited Ragouel's fortune as well as that of his father, Tobit. ¹⁴Tobias died at the age of one hundred and twenty-seven years at Ecbatana in Media. ¹⁵But before he died he saw the downfall of Nineveh which Nebuchadnezzar destroyed. He saw the Ninevites and the Assyrians reduced to slavery and taken to Media. Thus, before he died, he was able to rejoice over the fate of Nineveh. He blessed the Lord God forever.

JUDITH

A power that destroys

1 ¹It was in the twelfth year of the reign of Nebuchadnezzar, king of the Assyrians, who ruled in the great city of Nineveh that, at the same time, Arphaxad, king of the Medes, ruled at Ecbatana. ²Arphaxad had built around Ecbatana ramparts of stone, with each stone cut to the size of one and a half metres wide and three metres long. The ramparts were thirty-five metres high and twenty-five metres wide. ³He built at the gates city towers which were fifty metres high and rested on foundations twenty metres wide. ⁴The gates themselves were thirty-five metres high and twenty metres wide, wide enough for his valiant warriors and foot soldiers to march through them in battle array. ⁵In those days, King Nebuchadnezzar made war on King Arphaxad in the Great Plain, that is, the plain near the territory of the Ragae.

⁶All the people who lived on the mountains, those who lived along the banks of the

The book of Judith is a short novel (see introduction to Esther).

There was a promise made by God to Abraham (Genesis 12:2-3); it is insisted upon more clearly in Leviticus 26 and Deuteronomy 28. According to this promise, God would defend his people when they were faithful to the Law, but he would deliver them to their enemies when they did not follow the Law.

The book of Judith (Judith means the Jewess) attempts to demonstrate that God keeps his promise.

God's people had returned from exile a short while back. They had rebuilt the capital, Jerusalem, had restored the Temple and the worship of God, and were resettling the entire country. In short, they were living a period of faithfulness to God, and according to his promise, God was to protect them.

rivers Euphrates, Tigris and Hydaspes, those on the plains of Arioch, king of the Elamites, and many other peoples joined the ranks of the Chaldeans to fight against the sons of Cheleoud.

⁷Nebuchadnezzar, king of the Assyrians, sent his messengers to all those living in Persia and in the West, to the inhabitants of Cilicia, Damascus, Lebanon and Anti-Lebanon, to those along the seacoast, ⁸to the people of Carmel, Gilead, Upper Galilee and the Great Plain of Esdraelon, ⁹to those in Samaria and its towns, and beyond the Jordan as far as Jerusalem, Bethany, Chelous, Kadesh, the River of Egypt, Tahpanhes, Raameses, and all the country of Goshen ¹⁰as far as the region beyond Tanis and Memphis, and to all the inhabitants of Egypt as far as the country of Ethiopia.

¹¹But the inhabitants of all these regions took no notice of the order of Nebuchadnezzar, king of the Assyrians, and did not join him in waging war. They no longer feared him because they considered him just like any other man. They sent back his messengers empty-handed and shamefaced. ¹²Nebuchadnezzar was greatly enraged against all these regions and swore by his throne and by his kingdom to punish all the districts of Cilicia, Damascus and Syria, and to put to the sword all who were in the lands of Moab, Ammon, the whole of Judea, and all those in Egypt as far as the coasts between the two seas. ¹³In the seventeenth year, Nebuchadnezzar went to battle with his army against King Arphaxad, and conquered him in the campaign. He drove back the army of Arphaxad with all his cavalry and chariots. ¹⁴Nebuchadnezzar occupied all the cities. Finally, he reached Ecbatana where he demolished its towers, pillaged the streets of the city and reduced its splendour to ruins. ¹⁵He pursued Arphaxad into the mountains of the Ragae, pierced him through with arrows and utterly destroyed him. ¹⁶Then he returned to Nineveh with a great crowd of followers and a considerable multitude of soldiers. He and his entire army stayed there amusing themselves and feasting for one hundred and twenty days.

o2 ¹On the twenty-second day of the first month in the eighteenth year of his reign, there was talk in the House of Nebuchadnezzar, king of the Assyrians, of punishing all those who had disobeyed the king's commands. ²He called together his ministers and his noblemen, and told them his secret plan. ³He proclaimed publicly the total destruction of the land and the punishment of all those who had disregarded his call.

⁴As soon as Nebuchadnezzar, king of the Assyrians, had made this decision, he summoned Holofernes, the chief general of his army who was second in command, and said to him. ⁵"So says the Great King, Lord of all the earth, you will set out from my presence, taking with you men of true courage, about one hundred and twenty foot soldiers and a great number of horses with about twelve thousand cavalymen. ⁶You will go to all the countries in the West and punish all the peoples, because they disregarded my own words. ⁷Tell them to submit themselves to me on land and water, lest in my anger I myself march against them. I will cover all the face of the earth with the footprints of my army, and I will give them over to my men to be plundered by them. ⁸The ravines will be filled with their wounded, rivers and torrents will be full of their dead. ⁹I will lead away their prisoners as captives to the uttermost parts of the earth. ¹⁰Go, then, and occupy in my name all their territories; if they surrender to you, keep them for me that I may punish them. ¹¹Show no pity to those who resist you. Hand them over to be massacred and plundered throughout all their lands. ¹²For, as truly as I live and by the power of my kingdom, I will carry out with my own hands what I have said. ¹³And you, do not disobey the words of your lord nor fail to carry them out exactly as I have instructed you. Do not change any of them."

¹⁴Holofernes went out from the presence of his lord and called together all the chiefs of staff, the generals and commanders of the army of Assyria. ¹⁵He gathered about a hundred and twenty thousand specially chosen men for the army as his lord had ordered him, and twelve thousand archers. ¹⁶He arranged them in battle positions. ¹⁷He took along camels, donkeys and mules to carry the baggage, and a great number of sheep, oxen, goats and many others for their food. ¹⁸He took a sufficient quantity of provisions for each man, and an abundant supply of gold and silver from the king's treasury.

¹⁹Then Holofernes set out on the march with all his army, with their chariots, cavalry and picked foot soldiers going ahead of King Nebuchadnezzar to cover all the lands to the West. ²⁰They were accompanied by a great crowd of people, so many were they that they were like locusts or the dust of the earth.

²¹ After marching for three days from Nineveh, Holofernes and his men reached the plain of Bectileth where they encamped before the city, near the mountains to the north of Upper Cilicia. ²² Then Holofernes took all his army, foot soldiers, cavalry and chariots, and marched into the mountain region. ²³ He utterly destroyed Put and Lud, and plundered all the land of Rassis and of Ishmael on the border of the desert to the south of the country of the Chaldeans. ²⁴ Then he followed the Euphrates, crossed Mesopotamia and destroyed all the cities high above the torrent of Abron until he reached the sea. ²⁵ He took possession of the land of Cilicia, and cut down all who opposed him, and arrived at the land of Japheth in the south toward Arabia. ²⁶ He surrounded all the children of Midian, burned their tents and destroyed their livestock. ²⁷ Then descending to the plain of Damascus at the time of the wheat harvest, he burned all their fields, scattered all their animals and killed the young ones, pillaged their villages, devastated their plains, and put all their young men to the sword.

²⁸ The fear and terror of him fell upon all the inhabitants of the seacoast, those in Tyre and Sidon, of Sur, Ocina and Jamnia. The people of Azotus and Ascalon also feared him.

3 ¹ They therefore sent messengers to Holofernes offering him terms of peace: ² "See, we consider ourselves as servants of Nebuchadnezzar, the great king, do with us as you will. ³ All our farms, our whole territory, all our wheatfields, our oxen and our sheepfolds lie before you – use them as you please. ⁴ See, our towns and all their inhabitants are yours, deal with them as you wish." ⁵ These men went to Holofernes and repeated these words.

⁹ Then he arrived opposite Esdraelion, near Dothan, facing the great chain of Judean hills. ¹⁰ He encamped between Geba Scythopolis, and remained there a month in order to reorganise the provisions of his army.

4 ¹ The children of Israel in Judea learned what had happened to the other nations at the hands of Holofernes, the chief general of Nebuchadnezzar, the king of the Assyrians, and how he had plundered the neighbouring villages and destroyed their sanctuaries. ² And they trembled with great fear because of him. They were anxious about Jerusalem and the Temple of the Lord their God, ³ since they had only recently returned from exile. The people of Judea had just come together and the new furnishings of the Altar and the Sanctuary had just been consecrated after being profaned. ⁴ They sent messengers to warn all the inhabitants of the territory of Samaria, Kona, Beth-horon, Belmain, Jericho, Choba and Aesora, and the valley of Salem. ⁵ They occupied all the summits of the mountains, fortified the ramparts of the towns and prepared stores of foodstuff and provisions for the war, since their field had just been harvested.

⁶ Joakim, the high priest, who was in Jerusalem in those days, wrote to the inhabitants of Bethulia and Betomesthaim opposite Esdraelion, at the entrance to the plain of Dothan. ⁷ He told them to seize and fortify the mountain passes because it was by them that Holofernes would enter Judea. It would be easy to stop there those who were advancing since the narrow passes allowed no more than two men to go forward at a time.

ual sacrifice, prayers and the voluntary gifts of the people. ¹⁵They put ashes on their turbans and cried out with all their strength to the Lord, asking him to watch over the whole house of Israel.

5 ¹It was reported to Holofernes that the people of Israel were prepared for war, that they had closed the mountain passes, fortified the ramparts on the summits of all the high mountains and placed blockades in the plains. ²Seething with anger, Holofernes called the leaders of the Moabites, the generals of Ammon and all the governors of the Seacoast, ³and said to them, "Tell me, sons of Canaan, who are these people living in the mountain region? Which towns do they inhabit? What is the strength of their army? In what does their power and strength consist? Who has been placed at their head as commander of their army? ⁴Why have they not appeared before me like everyone else in the West?"

⁵Achior, commander of the Ammonites, said to him, "May my Lord listen to the word spoken by your servant, for I will tell you the truth about these people from the mountain region whom you now encounter. ⁶These people descend from the Chaldeans. ⁷They settled first in Mesopotamia, for they did not wish to worship any longer the gods of their fathers who lived in Chaldea. ⁸They abandoned the religion of their ancestors, and worshipped the God of Heaven, a God whom they had come to recognize. Because of this their fathers drove them out and they fled to Mesopotamia where they dwelt for a long time. ⁹Then their God told them to leave the country where they had settled and go to the land of Canaan. They went to live there, and acquired an abundance of gold and silver and numerous herds of cattle.

¹⁰There was famine throughout the land of Canaan, so they went down into Egypt where they remained as long as there was food. Then they became so numerous that their race could not be counted. ¹¹But the king of Egypt rose up against them and tricked them into making bricks, and they were humiliated and made into slaves. ¹²They called upon their God who punished the whole of Egypt with such incurable plagues that the Egyptians drove them out. ¹³Then God dried up the Red Sea in front of them ¹⁴and he led them along the route of Sinai and Kadesh Barnea. The Israelites drove all the inhabitants into the desert; ¹⁵they inhabited the country of the Amorites and wiped out the Heshbonites. Then, having crossed the Jordan, they took possession of all the hill country, ¹⁶driving out the Canaanites, the Perizzites, the Jebusites, the Shechemites, and the Gergesites, and they lived there for a long time.

¹⁷As long as they did not offend God, they prospered, because their God who hates wrongdoing was on their side. ¹⁸But when they strayed from the path he had set for them, they were completely annihilated in many battles, and they were led off into captivity in a country not their own. The temple of their God was leveled to the ground and their cities were occupied by their enemies. ¹⁹Now that they have turned again to their God, they have returned from their exile from the various places in which they had been scattered. They have retaken Jerusalem where their Sanctuary is and they have settled in the mountain region because it has remained deserted. ²⁰And now, Sovereign Lord, we must find out if there is any wrongdoing in this people. ²¹If they are sinning against their God, then we shall march against them and we shall conquer. But if there is no sinfulness in their nation, then, my Lord, turn aside from them for fear that their Lord and God will cover them with his shield and the whole world will witness our downfall."

²²Now it happened that when Achior had finished speaking, all the people standing in a circle around the tent began criticizing and protesting. The officers of Holofernes and all the inhabitants of the seacoast and of Moab wanted to beat him black and blue. They said, ²³"We are not afraid of the children of Israel. Look, they are a people with no strength or energy to sustain a violent conflict. ²⁴Let us go forth, and they will be like bread for your whole army, O Lord Holofernes!"

6 ¹When the tumult among the men standing around the tent had died down, Holofernes, general in chief of the Assyrian army, said to Achior in the presence of all the foreigners and all the people of Moab, ²"Who are you, Achior, you and all the people bribed by Israel to prophesy against us as you have done today? Why do you counsel us not to make war on the race of Israel because their God will cover them with a shield? Who is God, if not Nebuchadnezzar. He will send out his army and wipe them off the face of the earth and their God will not save them. ³But we, the king's servants, will crush them as though they were just one man. They will not withstand the onslaught of our horses. ⁴We will burn the whole lot of them in their own homes. Their mountains will be soaked with their blood, their plains will be full of their dead. They will not be able to hold their ground before us. Most surely they will perish, as King Nebuchadnezzar, lord of all the earth, had foretold. He said it and the words he has uttered will not be in vain.

⁵ But you, Achior, an Ammonite mercenary who has today uttered these words to your shame, from now on you will not see my face until I avenge myself on this race who came from Egypt. ⁶ The sword of my soldiers and the lance of my officers will pierce your sides. When I return from battle, your body will be with all the dead of Israel. ⁷ My servants will lead you into the mountain region and will deposit you in one of the towns which are on the slopes, ⁸ so that you will share the same fate as the rest of them. ⁹ But if you believe that they will not be taken, then do not put on such a long face. I have spoken and not one of my words will be without effect."

¹⁴ The sons of Israel descended from the town and went up to Achior, and having untied him, they led him to Bethulia, and took him to the rulers of the town ¹⁵ who in those days were Uziah the son of Micah of the tribe of Simeon, Chabris the son of Gothoniell, and Charmis the son of Melchiel. ¹⁶ As they called for a meeting of all the elders of the town: the young people and the women also joined the assembly. They placed Achior in the midst of the assembled people and Uziah asked him what had happened. ¹⁷ In reply he told them about the council meeting of Holofernes and all that he himself had said to the leaders of the Assyrians. He also told them of the threatening words of Holofernes against Israel.

¹⁸ The people threw themselves down on the ground, worshipped God and called upon his help saying, ¹⁹ "Lord God of Heaven, take into consideration the insolence of the Assyrians and have pity on your humiliated people.

Look this day upon those who are consecrated to you." ²⁰ They encouraged Achior and congratulated him warmly. ²¹ Then Uziah led him from the assembly into his own house and gave a meal for the elders. All through the night the people called upon the God of Israel, begging him to come to their aid.

7 ¹ The next day Holofernes gave an order to the whole of his army and to those people who had come to his help to move camp in the direction of Bethulia, to occupy the mountain slopes and to wage war against the Israelites. ² All his valiant warriors moved that day; the forces of fighting men numbered one hundred and seventy thousand foot soldiers and twelve thousand cavalry, without counting the baggage and the men who looked after it as well as the crowd of people who accompanied them – a considerable crowd. ³ They camped in the valley near Bethulia, near the spring; they stretched out as wide as from Dothan to Belbain, and in length from Bethulia to Cyamon which faces Esdraclon.

⁴ When the Israelites saw how numerous they were, they were extremely afraid and said to one another, "Without doubt this crowd is going to devour all the country, neither the high mountains nor the ravines nor the hills will be able to put a stop to their progress." ⁵ Nonetheless each one seized his fighting equipment; they lighted fires on the tops of the towers and kept watch all that night.

⁶ The second day, Holofernes lined up all his cavalry in front of the Israelites in Bethulia. ⁷ He observed the approaches to their town, discovered the sources of the water supplies, seized them and stationed guards over them, then he returned to his army. ⁸ The leaders of the Edomites, the commanders of the Moabites and the generals of the Seacoast approached Holofernes and said, ⁹ "Let our Master listen to us, and your army will not suffer loss. ¹⁰ This people of Israel really do not put their trust in javelins but in the height of the mountains which they inhabit, for it is not easy to reach the summit of their mountains. ¹¹ Master, if you wish to save the lives of your men, do not fight against them in battle formation. ¹² Remain in your camp and keep safe all the men in your army but let us take possession of the spring which flows at the foot of the mountain, ¹³ because it is from there that the people of Bethulia draw all their water. They will be dying of thirst and so they will hand over their town. We and our people will scale the summits of the neighbouring mountains and set up outposts to prevent anyone from leaving the town. ¹⁴ The famine will destroy them; men, women and children will be lying dead in the streets of their town before ever the sword is raised against them. ¹⁵ So you will have punished them severely for having rebelled and for not having come out to meet you with offers of peace."

¹⁶ This advice pleased Holofernes and all his officers, and he agreed to do what they said. ¹⁷ The Moabites with five thousand Assyrians moved camp; they encamped in the valley and cut off the springs and the water supply from the Israelites. ¹⁸ The Edomites and the Ammonites climbed up and camped on the mountain near Dothan; they sent some of their men to the south and to the east facing Eggebel, near Chusi, which is on the torrent of Mochmur. The rest of the Assyrian army encamped in the plain, covering the whole countryside. The camp site covered by their tents and their baggage spread out wide for they were an enormous crowd.

The discouragement of the people

+ ¹⁹ Disheartened, the people of Israel called upon the Lord their God because their enemies had encircled them and had cut off all means of escape. ²⁰ All the Assyrian army, its foot soldiers, its chariots and horsemen surrounded them for thirty-four days. ²¹ The inhabitants of Bethulia saw the water jars becoming empty and the wells running dry so that drinking water had to be rationed every day. ²² The small children became weak with thirst; the women and the young collapsed in the streets and gateways of the town. ²³ Then everyone – men, women, young people and children – gathered and accused Uzziah and the leaders of the town.

They called out with loud cries and said before all the elders, ²⁴ "May God judge between you and us, for you are the cause of this misfortune by not engaging in peaceful negotiations with the Assyrians. ²⁵ And now there is no one who can bring us any help; God has delivered us into the hands of these pagans in such a way that we lie dying before them from great thirst and misery. ²⁶ You must call on the Assyrians and let the whole army of Holofernes pillage us. ²⁷ It is better for us to become their booty, for then we shall become slaves, but at least we shall live and not have to see our women, our older children and the little ones die before our eyes. ²⁸ We urge you by heaven and earth and by our God, the Lord of our fathers, who punishes us according to our sins and the sins of our fathers: make this decision this very day."

²⁹ Altogether they raised a great lamentation in the midst of the assembly, and they cried out with a loud voice to the Lord God.

³⁰ Then Uzziah said to them, "Have confidence, my brothers: hold out for five days more, during which time the Lord our God will show us his mercy for he will not abandon us forever. ³¹ If these days pass without his coming to our help, then we shall do what you say." ³² Then he dismissed the men, each to his post, and they went towards the ramparts and the towers of the town, and he sent back to their

+ When a community starts to look only at what is evil, its bad luck, it begins to lose faith in the future and forgets it has means for getting out of the situation.

God has delivered us into the hands of the Assyrians. The people of Bethulia declare their defeat beforehand because they only see the human side of the situation what is unpleasant and they do not remember God's promise (Lv 26 and Dt 28). They have prayed and done penance, and in spite of all that, God is deaf to their pleas. The conclusion is obvious: "We are lost."

In their discouragement, they only see their need and they do not measure the consequences of what they are doing. They do not think that to surrender to Holofernes is to disown God and to acknowledge Nebuchadnezzar as God. All they see is that it is better to live as slaves than to die.

"I do not get anything by asking: God will not listen to me," is what we usually hear disheartened people say as the people of Bethulia did. This discouragement is especially contagious when it comes from the father of the family.

homes the women and children. Now there was a great depression throughout the town.

8 ¹The news of what had happened came in those days to Judith, daughter of Merari, son of Joseph, of Oziel, of Eliah, of Ananias, of Gideon, of Raphain, of Ahitub, of Elijah, of Hilkiah, of Eliab, of Nathanael, of Salamiel, of Sarasadai, of Israel. ²Her husband was Manasseh, of the same tribe and family. He had died during the harvesting of the barley, ³as he was supervising the reapers who were binding the sheaves on the plain; he suffered sunstroke, took to his bed and died in Bethulia, his town. He was buried with his ancestors in the field which lies between Dothan and Balamon.

Judith: the Jewess who never wavered in her faith

■ ⁴As a widow, Judith remained in her house for three years and four months. ⁵She had built a room on the rooftop of the house where she lived. ⁶She covered herself in sackcloth, put on widow's garments and fasted all the days of her widowhood with the exception of the eves of the Sabbath, the Sabbath day, the eves of the new moons, the days of the new moons, and all the celebration of the people of Israel. ⁷She was exceedingly beautiful and very pleasing to look at. Manasseh, her husband, had left her gold, silver, servants, cattle and fields and she remained the owner of all this estate. ⁸No one could say anything evil of her because she greatly feared God.

⁹She heard of the threatening

words which the people had addressed to their leaders because they were downcast, suffering from the lack of water. Judith heard also all that Uziah had promised in reply, how he had sworn to hand over their city to the Assyrians at the end of five days. ¹⁰So she sent the maidservant who looked after her affairs, to call Charbis and Charmis, two elders of the town, to come and see her. ¹¹They came to her house and she said to them, "Listen to me, you elders of Bethulia, for the words which you have spoken in front of the people today are not right. You did wrong to take an oath between God and yourselves, and to say that you would hand over the town to our enemies if, within a certain number of days, the Lord does not come to your help. ¹²Who are you to put God to the test and take God's place when you answered the people? ¹³That is not the way to call for his mercy, but rather, one that leads to his wrath. ¹⁴For if you cannot probe the depths of the human heart nor know what a man is thinking, how can you understand the God who has made all things? Do you know his mind or understand his thoughts? No, my brothers, do not annoy the Lord our God. ¹⁵For if he does not wish to come to our help within these five days, he has the power to protect us for as many days as he wishes or else to annihilate us in front of our enemies.

■ The Lord achieves his plans through the humble; he reveals his plans to the little ones and the humble (Matthew 11:25-30). We can observe the Lord's way of doing things throughout the Bible: for example, his choosing David (1 Sam 16) and something similar in 1 Mac 3:18-22. In spite of her wealth, Judith is an insignificant woman before Holofernes' military power.

Who are you to put God to the test? The attitude of faithfulness to God stands out in Judith's speech to the leaders of the city. She reproaches them for wanting to put time limits on God to fulfill their human plans. Today many Christians do the same with their gifts when they wish to force God to grant them a specific favor.

If the enemies capture us... whole Judea will be taken. Those with problems must not only think of their own interest but also of other people's interests. Judith forces them to think about the rest of the nation and not only about their city, Bethulia. National solidarity compels them to resist. What would Judith say to so many people who never think of being in solidarity with the world of farmers and workers?

¹⁶As for yourselves, do not challenge the designs of the Lord our God, for God cannot give in to threats as a man does, nor can any decision be imposed upon him as it can on the sons of men. ¹⁷That is why, while waiting patiently for him to save us, let us beg him to come to our help. He will listen to our plea, if it pleases him. ¹⁸For it has not happened in our generation nor is there among us today any tribe or family or people or city that worships gods made by human hands, as happened in days past. ¹⁹It was for that reason that our fathers were handed over to be slain by the sword and pillaged, and that they suffered great disaster at the hands of their enemies. ²⁰But we do not recognize any other god than the One God, therefore let us hope that he will not look with contempt on us or on any of our race.

²¹If the enemies capture us, so in the same way, the whole of Judea will be taken; our Sanctuary will be pillaged and we will answer for its profanation with our blood. ²²God will make fall on our heads the murder of our brothers, the bondage of our country and the devastation of our heritage. Wherever among the nations we shall be slaves, we shall be maltreated by those to whom we shall belong. ²³Our enslavement will not be changed in our favour, but the Lord our God will turn it into dishonour. ²⁴Now, my brothers, let us show our fellow countrymen that their lives depend on ours: that the safety of the Sanctuary, the Temple and the Altar rests with us.

²⁵Much more, let us thank the Lord our God who is putting us to the test as he did our fathers. ²⁶Remember what he did with Abraham, all the trials to which he subjected Isaac and all those that happened to Jacob in Mesopotamia of Syria where he looked after the sheep of Laban, his mother's brother. ²⁷Is not God making us pass through the fire as he did the others to prove their hearts? The Lord is not punishing us, but he scourges those who draw near to him in order to admonish them."

²⁸Uzziah said to her, "All that you have said has been said with wisdom and no one can contradict your words. ²⁹In fact it is not just today that your wisdom is evident, but ever since your early days all the people have recognized your intelligence and the natural goodness of your heart. ³⁰But the people were suffering great thirst so they forced us to carry out what we have said, and they have charged us with an oath which we cannot break. ³¹Since you are a devout woman, pray for us that the Lord will send rain to fill our reservoirs and we shall no longer be exhausted."

³²Judith said to them, "Listen to me, I will do something which will be handed down from generation to generation of the children of our race. ³³Tonight you will stand at the gate of the town and I will go out with my maidservant and, by the end of the time which has been fixed for you to hand over the town to our enemies, the Lord will visit Israel through my hand. ³⁴But do not try to find out what I shall do for I will not tell you, until I have fulfilled what I will do."

³⁵Then Uzziah and the leaders said to her, "Go in peace and may the Lord our God go before you so that you may take vengeance upon our enemies." ³⁶Then, leaving Judith's room, they went back to their posts.

9 ¹Judith knelt and bowed her head to the ground, put ashes on her head and uncovered the sackcloth with which she was clothed. At precisely the same moment as incense was being offered in the House of God at Jerusalem, Judith invoked aloud the Lord God, she said, "Lord, God of my father Simeon, you placed a sword in his hand to punish the foreigners who did violence to a young girl. For they had abused her, uncovering her body to shame her and violating her womb to dishonour her. They did this though you said: This shall not be done. ²Because of this you handed over their leaders to be slain and their bed, reddened because of their deceit, was left red with their blood. You struck down the slaves with their leaders and the leaders themselves with their servants. ⁴You handed over their women to rape, their daughters to slavery and all their possessions to be shared among your favoured sons who were filled with horror at this defilement of their blood and invoked your help.

⁵O God, my God, listen to me, a widow! It is you who made all things past, what is present and what is yet to come. It is you who consider things present and to come. Those things which you decided have been realized. ⁶The things you have planned have presented themselves saying: Here we are. In truth, all your ways are prepared and your decision is known from the beginning of time.

⁷Therefore see what a great multitude these Assyrians make with their army, how they pride themselves on their horses and their cavalymen. They have placed great pride in the strength of their foot soldiers and their trust in their shields, javelins, and bows and arrows. ⁸But, they do not recognize that you, Lord, decide the outcome of wars. Lord is your name; wipe out their force with your power, and in your anger overthrow their superiority; for they intend to profane your Sanctuary, to defile your Tabernacle where your glorious Name resides, to overturn by force the horn of your Altar.

¹¹Truly your strength is not in number nor your power in strong men for you are a God of the humble, the defender of the little ones, the support of the weak, the protector of the abandoned, the saviour of those in despair.

¹²Yes, God of my fathers and God of the heritage of Israel, Ruler of the heavens and the earth, Creator of the waters, King of all creation, listen to my prayer.

¹³Give me tempting words to wound and kill those who have conceived cruel designs against your Covenant, your consecrated House, Mount Zion and the House which belongs to your sons.

¹⁴Make the nation and all the tribes know that you are God, all-powerful and strong, and that, apart from you, there is no other protector for the people of Israel."

The exploit of Judith

10 ¹When Judith had finished her prayer to the God of Israel, ²she rose from the ground, and after calling her maidservant, she went down into the house where she usually spent the sabbath days and the feasts. ³She took off the sackcloth and her widow's clothes in which she was dressed. She washed her whole body with water, anointed it with rich perfume, combed her hair and placed a jewelled band around it. She dressed herself in the beautiful garments she had been accustomed to wear when her husband, Manasseh, was living. ⁴She put sandals on her feet, put on her anklets, bracelets and rings, her earrings and all her jewels. She made herself extremely beautiful in order to attract the attention of the men who would see her.

⁵She gave the servant a skin of wine and a jar of oil, she filled a bag with flour made from barley and some small cakes made from dried figs and fine flour. She wrapped up all these things and put the maid in charge of them. ⁶Then they set out in the direction of the gate of the town of Bethulia where they found stationed Uzziah and the elders of the town, Chabris and Charmis.

⁷As soon as the men saw her, her face so transformed and her clothes so different, they were full of admiration for her beauty and said to her. ⁸"May the God of our fathers grant that you may find favour and that your undertakings may be successful for the glory of the sons of Israel and the exaltation of Jerusalem."

She adored God and said to them. ⁹"Command that the gate of the town be opened for me and I will go forth in order to accomplish what you have just said." They ordered the young men to open the gate as she had asked. ¹⁰They carried out the command and Judith went out with her maidservant.

The townsmen watched her until she reached the foot of the mountain and crossed the valley, then they lost sight of her. ¹¹Judith and the maid walked straight through the valley and a sentry for the Assyrians came to meet them. ¹²He stopped them and asked, "Who are you? Where have you come from? Where are you going?" She replied, "I am a daughter of the Hebrews; I am fleeing far from them because they are on the point of handing themselves over to be despoiled by you. ¹³I have come to present myself to Holofernes, the general-in-chief of your army, to speak to him in all sincerity. I will show him a way by which he can advance and become master of the whole mountain without losing a single man either from injury or loss of life."

¹⁴As soon as the men had heard her words and noticed her face (for she was strikingly beautiful) they said to her, ¹⁵"You have saved your life by hurrying to present yourself before our lord. Approach his tent; certain men from among us will accompany you until they have handed you over safely into his hands. ¹⁶When you stand before him, do not have any fear in your heart, but tell him what you have to say and he will treat you well."

²⁰Those who were sleeping near Holofernes and all his officers came out and led her into the tent. ²¹Holofernes was lying on his bed under hangings of purple and gold set with emerald and precious stones. ²²Having been warned about her, he moved towards the entrance of the tent, preceded by his silver lamps. ²³As Judith came before him and his officers, they all admired the beauty of her face. Throwing herself face downwards to the ground she bowed before him; the servants of Holofernes raised her up.

11 ¹Holofernes said to Judith, "Have confidence, woman, have no fear in your heart. I do not harm any person who has chosen to serve Nebuchadnezzar, king of all the earth. ²And, if those of your people who dwell on the mountain had not ignored me, I should not have raised my sword against them; but they have brought this upon themselves. ³Now, tell me why you have fled from their midst and have come to us. Are you doing this to save yourself? Have confidence, your life is safe tonight and also in the future. ⁴No one will harm you, you will be well-treated as are all the servants of my lord, King Nebuchadnezzar.

⁵Judith replied, "Listen to the words of your servant, so that I may speak freely in your presence and I will not lie to my lord tonight.

everything will be accomplished by the hand of God and my lord will not fail in his undertakings. ⁷For just as truly as Nebuchadnezzar is king of all the earth and his presence is felt, and he has sent you for the correction of others, it is thanks to your power that not only do men serve him but also wild beasts, animals and the birds of the air live for Nebuchadnezzar and all his house.

⁸We have heard of your wisdom and of your prudence of mind and it is said throughout the world that you alone are the bravest man in the kingdom, powerful because of your knowledge and outstanding in military strategy. ⁹We have heard about the discourse delivered in your council by Achior, and of its terms, because the men of Bethulia took him in and he reported to them all that he had said in your presence. ¹⁰Now all-powerful lord, do not dismiss what he said but keep it in mind because it is true. Our nation will never be punished nor the sword used against it unless its people sin against their God. ¹¹Yet my lord will not be driven back and fail. Death will overtake them, for they have fallen into the sin that arouses the anger of God every time they commit it. ¹²As a result of the shortage of food and water, they have decided to lay hands on their animals. They have resolved to eat those things which God in his laws forbade them to eat, including the first fruits of the harvest and the tithes of wine and oil which, after their consecration, had been put aside for the priests who minister before the face of our God in Jerusalem. ¹³They have decided to consume these things completely, although it is not lawful for any of the people even to touch them with their hands. ¹⁴They have sent messengers to Jerusalem – for those who dwell there have also done this – and they have charged these men to bring back this permission from the Council of the Elders. ¹⁵Now it will come to pass that when this permission arrives and the people will have acted upon it, on that same day they will be delivered over to you for their destruction. ¹⁶That is why I, your servant, having understood all this, have fled far from them. God has sent me to bring about along with you deeds that will strike terror throughout the whole world and cause those who hear them to talk. ¹⁷For your servant is a pious woman who serves God night and day. From now on I will remain near you, my lord. Each evening I will go out towards the ravine and I will pray to God and he will tell me when they have fallen into sin. ¹⁸Then I will report this to you, so that you will go forth with your whole army and there will be no man able to withstand you. ¹⁹Then I will lead you through Judaea until I arrive in Jerusalem where I will set up your tent. You will lead them like sheep without a shepherd and not one dog will growl at you. I have been given a premonition of these things. It has been revealed to me, and I have been sent to make it known to you."

²⁰Her people pleased Holofernes and all his officers. They admired her wisdom and said, ²¹"From one end of the earth to the other there is no woman like her for the beauty of her face and the wisdom of her words." ²²Holofernes said to her, "God has done well to send you ahead of this people to show them that the power is in my hands and that destruction is the fate of those who despised my lord. ²³You are beautiful to look at and prudent in your words: if you do as you have said, your God shall be my God and you will live in the house of King Nebuchadnezzar, and be famous throughout all the world."

12 ¹Then Holofernes had her brought into the place where his silver dishes were laid out and commanded them to serve her from his food and to give her his wine to drink. ²But Judith said, "I will not eat it for fear that it might be the occasion of my downfall. What I have brought with me is sufficient." ³Holofernes said to her, "When you have finished the things that you have brought, where will we be able to get the same kind of food to give you, for there is no one of your race here." ⁴Judith said to him, "As your soul lives my lord, your servant will not have finished what I have brought with me before the Lord will have carried out by my hand what he has decided to do."

⁵Then the officers of Holofernes led her to the tent and she slept until midnight. She arose at the morning watch ⁶and sent a message to Holofernes, "Will my lord command that his servant be allowed to go out to pray?" ⁷Holofernes ordered his bodyguards not to prevent her from doing so.

She remained in the camp three days. Each night she went to the ravine of Bethulia and bathed herself in the spring which was in the camp. ⁸When she returned to the tent she prayed to the Lord, the God of Israel, that he would guide her steps in the right path to bring about the release of her people; ⁹and now purified, once she had returned, she remained in the tent until she took her food towards evening.

In the tent of Holofernes

◆ ¹⁰Then on the fourth day, Holofernes gave a banquet for his personal servants without sending invitations to any of his officers. ¹¹He said to the eunuch Bagoas who looked after his affairs, "Go and persuade this Hebrew woman who is under your care to come and to eat and drink with us, ¹²for it would be a disgrace if we allowed such a woman to depart without having enjoyed her company. If we are not able to allure her, she will laugh at us."

¹³So Bagoas left Holofernes and entered Judith's tent, and said to her, "Will this beautiful slave not hesitate to come to my lord's tent to be honoured in his presence, merrily to drink wine with us and to become this very day like an Assyrian woman who dwells in the house of Nebuchadnezzar?" ¹⁴Judith said to him, "Who am I to go against the wishes of my Lord? All that pleases him I will hasten to do and that will be for me a joy until the day of my death."

¹⁵Then she arose; she dressed in her beautiful garments and all the finery of a woman. Her servant went and laid out on the ground, in front of Holofernes, the fleece which Judith had received from Bagoas for her daily use so that she could recline on it while she ate.

¹⁶So Judith entered the tent and ◆ Holofernes' attitude before Judith reveals a male-centered mentality which is frequently found among today's people. "One must take advantage of the situation and he who does not use the opportunity is not a man." "People are going to think I am not man enough" is what is said now. Holofernes says: she will laugh at us.

Our lifestyle must follow moral principles rather than making moral principles agree with our lifestyle.

The book praises Judith's shrewdness and courage. However, what the book wants to make clear is that the Lord never abandons his people if they are faithful to his law, even though they may be severely tested. Judith is a model of the true Jewish woman.

took her place. The heart of Holofernes was ravished by her beauty, his whole being was captivated and he had a passionate desire to possess her. Ever since the first day he had seen her he had been waiting for an occasion to seduce her. ¹⁷Holofernes said to her: "Drink and share our happiness." ¹⁸Judith said, "I will drink then, my lord, because today my life has become more precious to me than on any other day since my birth." ¹⁹She took what her servant had prepared for her and ate and drank in front of him. ²⁰Holofernes was bewitched by her and he drank a great quantity of wine, much more than he had ever drunk on any single day since his birth.

God works marvels

13 ¹When it was late, the servants hurried away quickly. Bagoas dismissed from the presence of his master those who were standing around, and closed the tent from the outside. All the men hurried to bed for they were tired from having drunk too much. ²So Judith was left alone in the tent with Holofernes who, sodden with wine, had collapsed onto the bed. ³Judith told her servant to stand outside the room and watch for her coming out because she would go out to pray, as she did each day. She also spoke to Bagoas in much the same way.

⁴Everyone left the tent of Holofernes, not one – small or great – remained in the room. Judith, then, stood by Holofernes' bed and prayed in her heart, "Lord God all-powerful, help me at this time in what I will do for the glory of Jerusalem." ⁵For now is the time to support the cause of your people and to ensure that my undertaking brings about the ruin of the enemies who are drawn up against us."

⁶Then she moved towards the bedpost which was near Holofernes' head and took down the sword and, ⁷approaching the bed, she seized the hair of his head saying, "O Lord God of Israel, give me strength, this very moment!" ⁸Then with all her strength she struck his neck twice and cut off his head. ⁹She then rolled his body from the bed and took off the hangings from the columns. Then she went out at once and gave the head of Holofernes to her servant ¹⁰who put it in the bag in which she carried the food. Then they went out together as they used to do for prayer. After they had crossed the camp, they passed round the edge of the ravine, climbed the mountain to Bethulia and reached the gates of the town.

¹¹Judith called from a distance to those who were keeping guard at the gates, "Open, open the gates! God, our God, is with us! He has once again done a miracle in Israel and exerted his power against our enemies, as he has done today." ¹²As soon as the townsfolk heard her voice, they called the elders and hurried down to the gates of the town. ¹³They all ran together, from the smallest to the greatest, for they were waiting for her return. They opened the gates and welcomed the two women; then, having lighted a fire so as to see them,

• Love of neighbour can never lead us to do something immoral even though we may wish to do it for our own people. Judith makes clear to the people that she did not do anything evil.

Praise God! Today, Judith's action would have been published in all newspapers praising Judith, but she would not have accepted the praise. Judith shows the people that it was the Lord, the Saviour and they thank him, praising Judith.

To convince the people that the Lord was the one at work, Judith's insignificance is pointed they gathered around the two. ¹⁴She said to them in a loud voice, "Praise God, praise him! Praise God who has not withheld his mercy from the House of Israel. This very night he has crushed our enemies by my hand."

¹⁵And, taking out the head of Holofernes from the bag, she showed it to them saying, "Here is the head of Holofernes, general-in-chief of the Assyrian army, and here are the hangings under which he was lying in his drunkenness. The Lord has struck him down by the hand of a woman. ¹⁶As truly as the Lord lives, it was my face that seduced him to his undoing, but the Lord has protected me. This man could not sin with me to disgrace or dishonour me." ¹⁷All the people were greatly amazed, so they bowed down and worshipped God, saying with one voice, "Blessed are you, our God, who today have crushed the enemies of your people."

Blessed are you among all women

+ ¹⁸Uzziah said to her,

"My daughter, may the Most High God bless you more than all women on earth.

And blessed be the Lord God, the Creator of heaven and earth, who has led you to behead the leader of our enemies.

¹⁹Never will people forget the confidence you have shown; they will always remember the power of God.

²⁰May God ensure your everlasting glory, and may he reward and bless you for you have risked your life when your race was humiliated.

You chose instead to do the best before God in order to prevent our downfall."

And all the people said, "Amen! Amen!"

14 ¹Judith said to them, "Listen, my brothers, take this head and hang it from the battlements of our rampart, ² then when dawn breaks and the sun rises over the earth, let each of you take his weapons and let all those able to fight go outside the town. And under the command of a captain, proceed as if you were about to go down into the plain in the direction of the Assyrian outposts, but you will not descend. ³ The Assyrian guards will seize their arms, and go towards their camp to awaken the generals of the Assyrian army. These officers will run to the tent of Holofernes but will not find him; fear will then come upon them and they will flee from you. ⁴ Then, you and all those who dwell in the land of Israel will follow them and strike them down as they go. ⁵ But, before you do this, call Achior the Ammonite so that he may see and recognize the one who despised the people of Israel, the man who sent him to you as to his death."

⁶ Achior was brought from the house of Uzziah. As soon as he arrived and saw the head of Holofernes in the hand of one of the people, he fainted and fell face down on the ground. ⁷ When they had lifted him up, he threw himself at the feet of Judith, bowed before her and said, "May you be blessed throughout Judea and among all the nations, who on hearing your name will be amazed. ⁸ But now, tell me all that you did during these days."

Standing in the midst of the people, Judith told him all that she had done from the day she set out until the moment in which she was now speaking to them. ⁹ When she had finished talking, the people cried out with great joy, and this was heard throughout the town. ¹⁰ When Achior saw all that the God of Israel had done, he immediately believed in him. He was cir-out: with only the help of a slave, she has destroyed and defeated the greatest army in the world at that time.

Every deed done for the benefit of others involves risking something. Judith risks her life. Today, many complain that nothing goes right, but very few are willing to take risks as Judith did.

than all women. Luke will remember these words and he will adapt them for Mary (Lk 1:42). With Luke we easily see in Judith's victory the image of another victory in which Mary, "crushed the head of the serpent" in perfectly welcoming the Son of God, as the Bible had announced (Gen 3:15). The hymn we refer to: You are the glory of Israel speaks more truly of Mary than of Judith.

cumcised and became a member of the community of Israel down to this day.

¹¹When the sun had risen and they had hung Holofernes' head on the rampart, all the men took their arms and went out in groups to the mountain slopes. ¹²As soon as the Assyrians saw them, they warned their commanders. These men, in turn, went to inform the generals, the captains and all their officers. ¹³Then, they all went to the tent of Holofernes and said to the steward in charge of his affairs, "Waken our Lord, for the slaves plan to come down and fight against us to their utter destruction." ¹⁴So Bagoas drew back the curtain and knocked, thinking that Holofernes was sleeping with Judith. ¹⁵As no one answered, he entered the room, and found Holofernes lying across the wooden footstool dead with his head cut off. ¹⁶He cried out with a loud voice and tore his clothes. ¹⁷He entered the tent where Judith had stayed but did not find her. Then he rushed out to the troops, shouting, ¹⁸"The slaves have deceived us! Only one Hebrew woman has put to shame the army of King Nebuchadnezzar, for Holofernes lies dead on the ground. ¹⁹When the officers of the Assyrian army heard these words, they were greatly distressed. They tore their garments and cried out with a loud voice in their camp.

15 ¹When those who were in the camp heard the cries, they were astounded. ²Terror and fear fell on them, they no longer controlled themselves but at the same moment they all broke rank and fled by way of the roads across the plain and the mountain. ³Those who were encamped in the mountains around Bethulia also began to flee. Then the men of Israel, all among them who were capable of fighting, fell on them. ⁴Uzziah sent messengers to Betomasthaim, Choba, Kona, and throughout the land of Israel, to announce what had happened and to invite them all to fall upon the enemy and destroy them. ⁵When the men of Israel heard this, they threw themselves on the enemy and pursued them as far as Choba. Even those from Jerusalem came, as well as those from all the mountainous region, because they were told what had happened in the camp of their enemies. Those from Gilead and from Galilee caught them on the flank and struck great blows against them until they reached Damascus and its surrounding territory. ⁶As for the inhabitants of Bethulia who remained behind, they rushed into the Assyrian camp, pillaged it and thereby greatly enriched themselves. ⁷Once they returned from the carnage, the Israelite men took possession of what remained. Also the people from the villages and farms in the mountains and on the plains seized great booty because there was plenty that they could get.

⁸Then the high priest Joakin and the council of the Elders of Israel in Jerusalem came to find out about all the good things which the Lord had done for Israel, and to see Judith and congratulate her. ⁹As soon as they had approached her they blessed her altogether and said,

"You are the pride and joy of Jerusalem! You are the glory of Israel. You are the honour of our people.

¹⁰You alone have accomplished all this. You have done great things for Israel and God has blessed your work. May the almighty Lord bless you forever."

And all the people said, "Amen!"

¹¹All the people pillaged the camp for thirty days. They gave Holofernes' tent to Judith, with all his silver, his beds, his drinking vessels and all his furniture. She took them, and after harnessing her mule, she prepared her chariots and piled up all these goods in them.

¹²All the Israelite women also ran out to see her, they blessed her and a number of them formed a choir in her honour. She took olive branches in her hand and gave some to the women who accompanied her. ¹³She and the women with her made crowns of olive leaves. Then she went ahead of the people, leading the women in dance. All the Israelite men followed, clad in their armour, carrying crowns and loudly chanting hymns. ¹⁴Then Judith intoned this hymn of thanksgiving and the entire people of Israel echoed this praise.

The song of Judith

16 ¹Judith said, "Sing a song to my God with tambourines.

sing in honour of God with cymbals.
Compose for him a psalm of praise.
Exalt and bless his Name!

²The Lord is truly a God who crushes war, who encamps in the midst of his people to snatch me from the hand of those who pursue me.

⁴The Assyrian came from the mountains of the north.

He came with the myriads of his army,
his soldiers have filled the torrents

⁴He wanted to burn my land, to kill the young men by the sword,
to destroy my children at the breast, to hand over my little ones to slaughter and to rape my young maidens.

⁵The Lord Almighty had driven them back by the hand of a woman.

⁶Their hero has not been overcome by young warriors:

he was not struck down by the sons of the Titans,

or laid low by any great giants.

But it is Judith, the daughter of Merari, who by the beauty of her face has defeated him.

For the relief of the oppressed in Israel

⁷she took off her widow's robes, anointed her face with perfume.

⁸put a jewelled band around her hair, and put on a linen dress in order to seduce him.

⁹Her sandals delighted his eyes,
her beauty captivated his soul,
and the scimitar cut through his neck.

¹⁰The Persians trembled with fear at her boldness, and the Medes were upset by her daring.

¹¹Then my oppressed people shouted for joy:

my weak ones cried out,

the enemy was terrified;

they raised their voices; the enemy took to flight.

¹²The children of young women pierced them through and struck them down like fugitives, and so the enemy perished in a battle arranged by God.

¹³I will sing to my God a new song:

Lord, you are great and glorious, wonderfully strong, invincible!

¹⁴May the whole of your creation serve you,

for you spoke and all things were,

you sent forth your spirit and all things came into being:

No one can resist your voice.

¹⁵For the mountains with the waters will be shaken to their foundations, the rocks will melt like wax before you,
but to those who fear you
you will always show mercy.

¹⁶The fragrance of any sacrifice is little to please you and the holocausts of fatted animals are as nothing before you, but he who fears the Lord is forever great.

¹⁷Woe to the nations which rise up against my people:

The Lord Almighty will punish them

in the day of judgment,

with fire and worms under their skin,

and they will keep on weeping, suffering forever."

¹⁸When they had arrived in Jerusalem, they worshipped God and, when the people had been purified, they presented their holocausts, free will offerings and gifts. ¹⁹Then Judith offered all of Holofernes' belongings which the people had given her and she dedicated to the Lord the hangings from his room which she herself had taken. ²⁰So the people remained in Jerusalem, rejoicing before the Sanctuary for three months and Judith stayed with them.

²¹After these days were over each one returned to his own house. Judith returned to Bethulia and devoted herself to her household. During her lifetime she was famous throughout the land. ²²Though many desired to marry her, she had had no relation with any man since the death and burial of Manasseh, her husband.

²³She spent her old age in the house of her husband. And she set her maidservant free. She died in Bethulia at the age of a hundred and five and was buried in the grave of Manasseh, her husband. ²⁴All Israel mourned for her for seven days. Before her death she had divided her property among the relatives of her husband, Manasseh, and those of her own family.

²⁵No one again threatened the people of Israel while Judith lived, nor for a very long time after her death.

BARUCH

The prayer of exiles

1 These are the words of the book written by Baruch, the son of Neriah, descended from Massiah, from Sedekiah, from Hasadiah, from Hilkiah. ²They were written in the fifth year, on the seventh day of the month, at the time when the Chaldeans had taken Jerusalem and burnt it.

³Baruch read the words of this book to Jeconiah, the son of Joachim, the king of Judah in the presence of all the people who had come together to hear it read. ⁴He read it in the hearing of the nobles and the king's sons, of the elders and all the people, from the smallest to the greatest – that is, all those who were living in Babylon near the River Sudi.

⁵Then the people wept and fasted and prayed before the Lord. ⁶They also collected money according to what each one could afford ⁷and this they sent to Jerusalem, to the priest Jehoiakim, son of Hilkiah, the son of Shallum, and to the other priests and people who dwelt in Jerusalem with him. ⁸This same Baruch had undertaken to carry back to Judea, on the tenth day of the month of Sivan, the sacred vessels which had been taken away from the Temple of the Lord. These were the silver vessels made by Zedekiah, son of Josiah, king of Judah, ⁹after Nebuchadnezzar, the king of Babylon, had carried off Jeconiah, the artisans, the nobles and the people of the land and had taken them captive to Babylon.

¹⁰The letter said: Look, we are sending you money; buy with it victims for the holocaust and for sin offerings and incense; prepare oblations and offer them on the Altar of the Lord our God. ¹¹Pray for the life of Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, and of Balthasar, his son, so that they may be successful in all that they do. ¹²Thus the Lord will give strength and light to our eyes. We will live under the protection of Nebuchadnezzar, King of Babylon, and of his son, Balthasar. We shall have a long life serving them and we shall find favour before them.

¹³Pray to the Lord our God for us also, for we have sinned against the Lord our God, even to this day the anger of the Lord and his fury have not been turned away from us. ¹⁴Finally, read this book which we are sending to you, so that you can read it publicly in the House of the Lord on the day of the Feast and on other suitable days.

¹⁵You will say: May everyone recognize the justice of our God but, on this day, shame and confusion befit the men of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem – ¹⁶our kings and princes, our priests, our prophets, and our fathers, ¹⁷because we have sinned before the Lord. ¹⁸We have disobeyed him and have not listened to the voice of the Lord our God, nor

The book of Baruch was among the last books of the Bible to be written. It was written during the last century before Christ, in one of the Jewish communities outside of Palestine.

It includes several texts which could be helpful to the dispersed Jews:

- a "prayer of the exiles" which intensified their longing for the Holy Land;
- a beautiful poem about wisdom (3:9-4:4);
- several texts inspired from the prophets of the exile;
- a "letter from Jeremiah," which is a controversial text against idols (Bar 6).

Because it included some paragraphs written in Jeremiah's style, it was attributed to Baruch, the prophet's secretary (see Jer 36).

have we followed the commandments which the Lord had put before us. ¹⁹ From the day that the Lord brought our fathers out of the land of Egypt until this day, we have disobeyed the Lord our God and we have rebelled against him instead of listening to his voice.

²⁰ Because of this, from the day on which the Lord brought our fathers out of the land of Egypt, so as to give them a land flowing with milk and honey, the evils and the curse which the Lord pronounced by Moses, his servant, have dogged our footsteps right down to the present day. ²¹ We did not listen to the voice of the Lord our God speaking through the words of the prophets whom he sent to us, but each one of us followed his perverted heart, serving false gods and doing what displeases the Lord our God.

2 ¹ That is why the Lord our God has carried out the word which he spoke against us, against the judges who have governed Israel, against our kings, our princes and the men of Israel and Judah.

² No one under the sky has ever seen the like of what happened in Jerusalem, according to what is written in the book of Moses. ³ For people among us came to eat their son's and daughter's flesh. ⁴ And he handed them over into the power of all the surrounding kingdoms, so that they were cursed and humiliated among the neighbouring peoples among whom the Lord had scattered them. ⁵ Submission and not command has been our lot, because we have sinned against the Lord our God and have not listened to his voice.

⁶ Just is the Lord our God, whereas shame and confusion befit us and our fathers right down to this day. ⁷ All those evils which the Lord prophesied concerning us have fallen upon us. ⁸ And we have not begged the Lord to make each of us turn away from the thoughts of our evil hearts. ⁹ Then the Lord kept watch over the evils and allowed them to come upon us, for the Lord is just in all that he has commanded us to do. ¹⁰ We have not listened to his voice nor followed the commands which the Lord has ordered us to keep.

¹¹ And now, Lord God of Israel, you who brought your people out of Egypt with a strong hand, with miracles and wonders and great power, you who stretched out your arm and made for yourself a name such as you have today, ¹² we have sinned. We have been godless and unjust, Lord, careless about all your commands. ¹³ May your fury be turned away from us, for there are very few of us left among the nations in which you have scattered us.

¹⁴ Hear our supplication and our prayer, O Lord, deliver us for your own honour and let us find favour with those who deported us.

¹⁵ Let all the earth know that you are the Lord our God, because Israel and its people bear your name. ¹⁶ Lord, look down from your holy dwelling place and think of us; Lord incline your ear and listen; ¹⁷ Lord open your eyes and consider: that it is not the dead, lying in the nether world, who will praise your glory and justice, ¹⁸ since their spirit has been taken from their breast. Grieving under his burden, and walking bowed down and exhausted, the man with eyes sore from weeping and who is hungry – these are they, who can give you glory and justice, O Lord.

¹⁹ For it is not on account of the credit of our fathers and of our kings that we pour out our cry for pity before you, O Lord our God.

²⁰ You have sent down on us your fury and your anger as you announced through your servants, the prophets, saying, ²¹ "Thus says the Lord: Bend your shoulders and serve the King of Babylon and you will dwell in the land that I gave to your fathers. ²² But if you do not listen to the voice of the Lord your God and serve the King of Babylon, ²³ I will bring to an end in the towns of Judah and in Jerusalem the song of joy and gladness, the song of the bridegroom and the bride, and the whole country will become a desert without inhabitants.

²⁴ We did not listen to your invitation to serve the King of Babylon and so you carried out what you had foretold by your servants, the prophets, that the bones of our kings and our fathers would be taken from their graves.

²⁵ See, they have been exposed to the heat of the day and the cold of the night; they died in cruel sufferings, by famine, by the sword and by plagues. ²⁶ And you have reduced the nation which bears your name to the state in which it is today because of the wickedness of the people of Judah.

²⁷ However, you have acted towards us, O Lord our God, indulgently and with great tenderness, ²⁸ as you foretold by your servant Moses, the day you ordered him to write down your Law in the presence of the children of Israel saying: ²⁹ If you do not listen to my voice, this great and vast multitude will be reduced to a small remnant among the nations where I shall scatter them; ³⁰ for I know well that they will not listen to me because they are a stiff-necked people. But in the land of their exile their hearts will be converted ³¹ and they will know that I am the Lord their God. ³² And I will give them a heart and listening ears, that they may praise me in the land of their exile and remember my name.³³ They will repent of their stiff-necked obstinacy and their evil deeds because they will remember what happened to their fathers who had sinned before the Lord.³⁴ And I will lead them into the land which I have promised by oath to their fathers, to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob and they will take possession of it. I will increase their number and they will no longer diminish.³⁵ I will make with them an everlasting covenant; I will be their God and they shall be my people. I will no longer drive my people Israel from the land which I have given to them.

3 ¹ Almighty Lord, God of Israel, a soul in anguish and a discouraged spirit cries out to you. ² Listen Lord, and have pity for we have sinned against you; ³ for you reign for ever while we perish for ever. ⁴ Lord, all-powerful God of Israel, listen then to the prayers of the dead of Israel. We are the sons of those who sinned against you, who did not listen to the voice of their God, and this is why disgrace has come upon us. ⁵ Do not remember any longer the wrongdoing of our fathers but remember, at this time, your power and your name; ⁶ for you are the Lord, our God and we will praise you, Lord. ⁷ That is why you have put your fear into our hearts and we call upon your name. And we will praise you in our exile for we have removed from our hearts all the wrong of our fathers who sinned against you. ⁸ We are here today in our exile where you have scattered us to be insulted, cursed and condemned for the wrongdoing of our fathers, who separated themselves from the Lord our God.

Who has found wisdom?

◆ ⁹ Listen, Israel, to the commands of life, give ear so as to learn prudence,

¹² You have abandoned the source of Wisdom.
¹³ If you had walked in the way of God, peace would be your dwelling place forever.

¹⁴ Learn where is Wisdom, where is Strength and Understanding, that you may know, at the same time, where are length of days and life,

¹⁶ Where are the leaders of the nations,
 those who commanded the beasts of the earth, ¹⁷ who played with the birds of the heavens, who piled up silver and gold – in which men put their trust – and who never tired of collecting it?

¹⁸ Amassing money was their only concern, their business beyond measure.
¹⁹ But they have disappeared,
 they went down to the dead and others have risen in their place.
²⁰ A younger generation is there on the earth and enjoys the light,
 but they have not known the ways of knowledge;

they have not seen his tracks nor have they met him, ²¹ and their sons after them did not leave their paths.

²² No one in Canaan has heard of Wisdom,
 no one has seen her in Teman.

²³ The sons of Agar, who seek knowledge of the earth,
 the traders of Madian and Teman,
 the tellers of fables and philosophers,
 they have not known the path of Wisdom,
 they have not discovered her ways.

²⁴ O Israel, how great is the house of God
 how vast his dominion!

²⁵ It is great and has no limits.
 It is lofty, wide and immeasurable.

²⁶ There were born the ancient and famous:
 giants
 of high stature and skillful in war.

²⁷ God did not choose them,
 he did not teach them the ways of Wisdom.

²⁸ and they perished because of their folly, because they lacked knowledge.

²⁹ Who has ascended to Heaven that he may lay hold of her and bring her down from the clouds?

◆ This poem is inspired by chapter 28 of Job. The author addresses believers who are very impressed by the culture and material wealth of the pagans among whom they live. He reminds them that man's authentic wisdom is not mere technical knowledge, nor is it the art of making money or pure human reflection. Wisdom consists in knowing what is God's plan in creating: this world? What does God ask of man?

For Jewish believers, true wisdom was found in God's words, in their "Law." In their turn, Christians know that the wisdom ruling the universe is none other than the one known in the words and the person of Jesus.

³⁰ Who has crossed seas and found her, and bought her with the purest of gold?

³¹ There is no one who knows her path, no one who thinks of her way.

³² But he who knows everything recognizes her.

He has found her in his own intellect.

He who created the earth, for all time, and has filled it with four-footed beings.

³³ He who sends the light, and it goes, who recalls it, and trembling it obeys.

³⁴ The stars have shone, full of joy, to keep their night watches.

He calls them and they answer, "Here we are."

They shine with joy for their Creator.

³⁵ It is He who is our God, no other can be compared with him.

³⁶ He has found the way of understanding and has given her to Jacob his servant and to Israel his well-beloved.

³⁷ Then Wisdom was seen on earth and lived among men.

4 ¹ She, herself, is the book of the commands of God, the law which endures forever.

All who hold fast to her will have life but those who abandon her will die.

² Come back, Jacob, and embrace her, walk towards brightness under her light.

³ Do not give up what is your glory or sell your privileges to any strange nation.

⁴ We are fortunate, O Israel, for we know what pleases the Lord!

Consolation for Jerusalem

⁵ Take courage, my people, you who maintain the memory of Israel. ⁶ You have been sold to the nations but not for your destruction; because you had aroused the anger of God, you were delivered to your enemies. ⁷ For you displeased your Creator in sacrificing to demons and not to God. ⁸ You have forgotten the Eternal God, the one who nourished you. You have filled Jerusalem with sadness, she who brought you up. ⁹ For she saw the anger of God fall on you and she said, "Listen, you neighbouring cities of Zion, God has sent me a great sorrow. ¹⁰ I have seen the captivity of my sons and daughters, which the Eternal one brought on them. ¹¹ I had nurtured them in joy; with tears and sadness I saw them leave. ¹² Let no one rejoice on seeing me a widow and abandoned by all. Because of the sins of my children, I am now alone because they have turned away from the law of God.

¹³ They have not remembered its precepts; nor have they walked in the ways of his commandments, and followed the discipline which leads to uprightness.

¹⁴ Let them come, the neighbours of Sion, and remember the captivity which the Eternal One laid on my sons and daughters.

¹⁵ For he caused a distant nation to come against them, a ruthless nation with an unknown language.

They had no respect for the old, and no pity for the infant; ¹⁶ they took away the only son of the widow, as well as her daughter, and left her alone.

¹⁷ But, as for myself, how can I help you?

¹⁸ He who caused these evils to come upon you will deliver you from the hands of your enemies.

¹⁹ Well, my children go on your way; as for me, I am left alone.

²⁰ I have taken off the garment of peace and put on again the sackcloth of penance and prayer. I will cry out to the Eternal One all the rest of my days.

²¹ Come, take courage, my children, cry out to God. He will deliver you from the violence of the enemy.

²² Because I hoped for your salvation from the Eternal One, joy has come to me from the Holy One, because of the mercy that will come to you soon from the Eternal One, our Saviour.

²³ In tears and mourning, I saw you leave, but in joy and gladness God will bring you back to me forever.

²⁴ As the neighbours of Sion have seen your captivity so they will soon see your salvation from God, when he manifests to you the great glory and the splendour of the Eternal God.

²⁵ Children, bear patiently this punishment which came on you from God. The enemy has persecuted you, but you will soon see his downfall and you will trample him underfoot.

²⁶ My well-beloved children have walked by difficult paths, carried off like a herd stolen by enemies. ²⁷ Take courage, my children, cry out to God, for he who sent you into exile will remember you.

²⁸ Thus, as you distanced yourself from God, return to him and seek him ten times more earnestly. ²⁹ For he who caused these evils to fall on you will bring you salvation and eternal joy.

³⁰ Take courage, Jerusalem. He who has named you will console you.

³¹ Cursed be those who did evil to you and rejoiced in your downfall. ³² Cursed be those cities in which your children were slaves, cursed the nation in which they had to live.

³³ Just as that nation rejoiced in your downfall and took pleasure in your destruction so will she be afflicted and destroyed.

³⁴ I will take from her the joy of being a numerous people; her pride will be turned into mourning.

■ ³⁵ A fire will descend on her from the Eternal One and burn for many days. She will be inhabited by demons for a long time.

³⁶ Jerusalem, look towards the East, and see the joy which is coming to you from God.

³⁷ Look, your sons who were scattered, are returning. They are assembling, coming together, from the East and from the West, at the voice of the Holy One, rejoicing in the glory of God.

5 ¹ Jerusalem, put off your garment of mourning and unhappiness, put on the splendour and glory of God forever.

² Wrap yourself in the mantle of holiness that comes from God, put on your head the crown of glory of the Eternal One.

³ For God will show your splendour to every being under Heaven.

⁴ He will call your name forever, "Peace in Justice" and "Glory in the Fear of the Lord".

⁵ Rise up, Jerusalem, stand on the heights. Look towards the East and see your children gathered together, from the setting of the sun to its rising, by the voice of the Holy One, rejoicing because God has remembered them.

⁶ They left you on foot, taken away by the enemy. God will lead them back, carried gloriously like royal princes.

⁷ For God has resolved to bring low every high mountain and the everlasting hills, to fill up the valleys and level out the ground, in order that Israel may walk in safety under the Glory of God.

⁸ Even the forests and the sweet-smelling trees will give shade to Israel at God's command. ⁹ For God will lead Israel with joy by the light of his Glory, escorting them with his mercy and justice.

The Letter of Jeremiah

o6 A copy of the letter which Jeremiah sent to those who were to be taken captive to Babylon by the king of the Babylo- nians, to let them know what God had ordered him.

¹ "Because of the sins you have committed against God, you will be led captive to Babylon by Nebuchadnezzar, king of the Babylonians. ² After your arrival in Babylon you will remain there for a number of years – a long time, for seven generations; but after that I shall bring you home in peace.

³ In Babylon you will see gods of silver, gold and wood, carried on men's shoulders and filling the people with fear. ⁴ Take care not to copy what foreigners do and let yourselves be terrified by them ⁵ when you see the crowds pressing in front and behind to adore them. Say rather to yourselves: 'Master, it is you we are to adore.' My angel is with you to take care of your lives.

⁷ Their tongues have been polished by a craftsman and even if they are of gold and silver, they are falsehood being unable to speak. ⁸ As for a maiden conscious of her appearance, these pagans make golden crowns for these gods. ⁹ Yet at times the priests steal that gold and silver from their gods for their own use and for the prostitutes in their temples.

¹⁰ They give clothes to these gods as if they were men, but they are only things of gold, silver and wood, which cannot defend themselves from rust or woodworm. ¹¹ So, after clothing them in purple, they wipe their faces because of the thick dust of the temple that covers them.

¹² The god has a sceptre like a governor of a province, but he cannot destroy the person who has wronged him. ¹³ He carries sword and axe in his right hand, but he is helpless both in war and against thieves. ¹⁴ This clearly proves they are not gods; have no fear of them.

¹⁵ A broken pot is useless for anyone. So are those gods enshrined in their temples. ¹⁶ Their eyes are full of the dust raised by those who enter. ¹⁷ Just as doors are carefully closed on a man who has offended the king or on a convict sentenced to death, in the same way the priests lock and bolt the doors of the temple for fear of thieves. ¹⁸ They light lamps, far more numerous than what they need for themselves, and yet, the god sees no one. ¹⁹ He is no more than any of the beams of the temple and some whisper that the inner part is gnawed by ter-

■ Following the laments of verses 5-35, note the ending filled with hope and joy (4:36-5:9) which resembles chapters 60-62 of Isaiah.

o This discourse also serves as a warning for us against exaggerated devotion to the saints and too much interest in religious images.

In the midst of so many considerations which may seem very long to us, note the judgment expressed in verses 27 and 37: a religion which shows no concern for orphans and widows is a false religion.

mites; worms out of the ground devour both the god and his clothes, but he feels nothing.²⁰ Their faces have become black because of the smoke of the temple.²¹ Owls alight on their heads and shoulders, swallows and other birds perch on them and cats prowl around them.²² This tells you they are no gods, so do not have fear of them.

²³If the rust on the gold that adorns them is not removed, they cannot shine. Yet, what does it matter? Even when they were cast they felt nothing.²⁴ They may be bought at a high price but there is not a breath of life in them.²⁵ As they are without feet, they are carried on men's shoulders, showing publicly their shame. What a confusion for their worshippers if the god falls! They must lift him up.²⁶ Once he has been stood up, he does not move. If tilted, he is helpless to straighten up. So you make offerings to these gods as you make to dead men.

²⁷The priests collect what has been offered for sacrifice, selling it, while the wives salt some of it but give nothing to the poor and helpless. Do you think these are true offerings? Even women giving birth or who are ritually unclean touch them.²⁸ See that they are not gods and do not have fear of them.

²⁹How can they be called gods? Women carry offerings to things made of silver, wood and gold.³⁰ The priests remain seated in the temple, their garments torn, head and beard shaved, and no covering on their heads.³¹ They roar and cry in the presence of their gods as do certain people during funeral meals.³² With the garments taken from the gods the priests clothe their wives and their children.³³ Whether they are treated well or shabbily, the gods can make no return, neither can they make or unmake a king.³⁴ They are incapable of bestowing riches or money. If someone fails to keep a vow, he is not called to account.³⁵ They can neither save a man from death nor rescue a helpless person from the clutch of the powerful.³⁶ They cannot restore sight to the blind or save someone in distress.³⁷ They will show no compassion to the widow nor do good to the orphan.

³⁸These pieces of wood plated with gold and silver are not more worthy than rocks hewn out of a mountain and their worshippers shall be humiliated.³⁹ How then can anyone believe they are gods? How can they be called gods?

⁴⁰The Chaldeans themselves have them put to shame. If they see someone who is dumb, unable to speak, they bring him before

Bel, entreating him to make him speak, as if the god could hear them!⁴¹ And yet these thinking people are unable to abandon gods that are completely devoid of sense.⁴² Women with cord round their waists sit in the street burning bran.⁴³ When one of them has been picked up by a passerby and has slept with him, she taunts her companion for not having been so highly regarded as herself and for failing to have her cord broken.⁴⁴ All that goes on anywhere near these gods is false. How can they be considered or declared to be gods?

⁴⁵They have been fashioned by craftsmen and goldsmiths; they are nothing more than what the artisans decided they were to be.⁴⁶ Those who made them haven't long to live; so how could the work of their hands be gods?⁴⁷ What they leave to their descendants is nothing more than illusion and shame.

⁴⁸For when war or other disasters come upon them, they discuss among themselves where they, with their gods, will hide.⁴⁹ How could anyone fail to be convinced that what cannot save from war and disaster is not a god?⁵⁰ Later on these pieces of wood plated with silver and gold will be known to be false. It will be plain to all kings and nations that they are not gods, but merely the handicraft of men and God does nothing through them.⁵¹ Is there anyone unconvinced that these are not gods?

⁵²They are incapable of establishing a king in a country or of sending rain to people.⁵³ They are unable to discern what is just or to rescue a person who has been wronged. They are as helpless as crows between the sky and the ground.⁵⁴ When fire breaks out in the temple of these wooden gods plated with silver and gold, the priests flee to safety but they are burnt with the beams in the midst of the flames.⁵⁵ They can neither resist a king or a hostile army.⁵⁶ How can it be admitted or believed that that they are gods?

⁵⁷These gods cannot escape either from thieves or brigands. These are more powerful and despoil them of their gold, their silver and their robes. Such gods are unable to defend themselves.

⁵⁸Better to be a king with a show of power, or even a household pot that is of some use to its owner than to be a false god; better even to be the door of a house that guards what is within, or a wooden column in a royal palace than to be a false god.⁵⁹ The sun, moon and stars that shine and serve us are obedient to God;⁶⁰ likewise the lightning that is beautiful to see, and the wind that blows over the country⁶¹ and the clouds passing over the earth at

God's command, fire sent from on high to consume mountain and forest – all do what is commanded. ⁶² But these wooden objects can in no way compare with them ⁶³ that is why it must not be either believed or said that these are gods, since they are powerless to administer justice or benefit mankind in any way. ⁶⁴ Since you know they are not gods, do not have fear of them.

⁶⁵ They can neither curse ⁶⁶ nor bless kings nor bring about signs in the heavens for the nations to see. They can neither shine like the sun nor give light like the moon. ⁶⁷ Animals are of more worth, since by taking cover they can look after themselves. ⁶⁸ So in no way whatever is it evident to us that these are gods; for that reason do not have fear of them.

⁶⁹ For like a scarecrow in a field of melons, these gods plated with silver and gold protect nothing. ⁷⁰ Again these wooden gods may be compared to a thorn bush in a garden where any bird can perch, or to corpse thrown into a dark place. ⁷¹ You know by the purple and scarlet robes rotting on them that they are not gods. They end up by being eaten away and become a disgrace to the country. ⁷² Better then a just man who has no idols, he will not be dishonoured.

INTRODUCTION

In the last centuries before Christ, Greek culture, spread by Alexander, had penetrated into the countries of the Middle East (see introduction to Maccabees). The Greeks had a new way of viewing the freedom of the individual, the nobility of spirit, the interest in scientific research, the meaning of physical beauty, etc.

The Jews' culture had been developing alongside the words of God and basically thanks to them. Nevertheless, they had to open up to another way of thinking: when a people sticks only to its national culture, without seeing anything beyond, within a short time, it suffocates. God's revelation to the Jews was not over, but it was necessary to present it in a new way to all people who neither thought nor spoke like the Jews.

The book of Wisdom is the first important effort to express the faith and wisdom of Israel, not only in Greek, but also in a form adapted to Greek culture.

Seek life; know God

1 Love justice, you who rule over the world. Be sincere with the Lord and seek him in simplicity of heart, ² for he reveals himself to those who do not challenge him and is found by those who do not distrust him.

³ Crooked thinking distances you from God, and his Omnipotence, put to the test, confounds the foolish.

⁴ Wisdom does not enter the wicked nor remain in a body that is slave to sin. ⁵ The Holy Spirit who instructs us shuns deceit; it keeps aloof from foolishness and is ill at ease when injustice is done.

⁶ Wisdom is a spirit, a friend to man, and will not leave the blasphemous unpunished, because God knows his innermost feelings, truly sees his thoughts and hears what he says.

⁷ For God's spirit has filled the whole world and he who holds together all things, knows each word that is spoken. ⁸ So whoever speaks unjustly will not escape; the irrefutable sentence will reach him. ⁹ The intentions of the unholy will be examined; what he has said will reach the Lord and his wickedness will be confounded.

¹⁰ Remember that a jealous ear hears everything; even whispers are recorded.

¹¹ Beware then, of empty complaints and keep your tongue from fault-finding, since your most secret word will have consequences; a lying tongue brings death to the soul. ¹² Do not bring about your own death and do not let the work of your hands destroy you.

¹³ God did not make death, nor does he rejoice in the destruction of the living. ¹⁴ Since he has created everything, all creatures of the universe are for good; there is no deadly poison in them and the netherworld has no dominion over the earth, ¹⁵ because justice is not submitted to death.

The godless say there is no other life

+ ¹⁶ It is the godless that consider death as a friend and call for it in every

o God is more present to us than we are to ourselves. We need not look very far for authentic wisdom: it appears as spirit coming from God that becomes present to us interiorly. But it is only revealed to the just.

How can we express the nearness of the inaccessible and holy God? Here, the author speaks of Providence, Wisdom, Justice, the Spirit of God. He speaks of them as if they were persons sent by God to look after us. In fact, it is a way of presenting God himself who, though he preserves his mystery, is close to people and to events.

God did not make death nor does he rejoice in the destruction of the living. He is a God who is a friend of humans and he wants them to live. His creation is good and at the service of man. Death does not come from God as is explained in 2:33. And so, we are asked to look confidently to the Lord: to think well of him is to deny all these false questions: Why does God allow evil, death, earthquakes and tragedies? God only wants life.

+ We were born by chance. The godless, that is, the wicked are the friends of death. They

It gives an answer to the anguishing question of evil, pain and death; it sketches a proof of the existence of God that will inspire Paul; it shows that God's mercy extends to all beings without exception.

The book of Wisdom was written in Egypt between 80 and 50 before Christ by one of the many Jews who were living in the Greek world.

Note especially the magnificent chapters 3-5 concerning the death of the just and the hope in eternal life and also the hymn to wisdom in chapter 7.

way. They have made a pact with it and they shall justly belong to it.

2 ¹ Led by mistaken reasons they think, "Life is short and sad and there is no cure for death. It was never heard that someone had come back from the netherworld.

² By chance we were born; when life is over, it will be as if we never existed. The breath in our nostrils is like a puff of smoke, and thought is no more than a spark resulting from the movement of the heart. ³ Put this out and the body turns to ashes and the spirit disperses like idle air.

⁴ In time our name will be forgotten, no one will remember what we did. ⁵ Life passes like the shadow of a cloud, disappearing like a mist chased by the sun and conquered by its heat. The duration of life resembles the passing of a shadow; from death there is no turning back, the seal is set: no one returns.

⁶ Come then and enjoy the good things; let us use creation with the zest of youth, ⁷ making the most of the choicest wines and perfumes without passing by any flower of spring. ⁸ Crown ourselves with rosebuds before they fade.

forget that God, in making us in his own image, did not create us to die. They think that everything ends with the grave and their only wisdom is to enjoy this life: let us enjoy the good things and use creation with the zest of youth.

Let us see the truth of what he says. Because the godless are the friends of death they, necessarily, come to persecute and even kill the good. For them, it is like a game to see to what point the righteous will remain firm, since they themselves believe in no ideal: they need to destroy others to convince themselves that they, alone, benefit from life.

If the righteous is the son of God, God will defend him. The words in 2:16-20 reveal the situation of Jesus on the cross. Matthew, in particular, will recall them in 27:43.

This is also verified in the lives of real believers, a scandal to a materialist who will enjoy in-

⁹ Let everyone take part in our orgy; let us post everywhere the signs of our joy, for that is our due, the lot assigned to us.

¹⁰ Let us oppress the upright man who is poor, and have no thought for the widow, or respect for the hair of old age whitened by years.

¹¹ Let our strength be our right, since it is proved that weakness is useless. ¹² Let us set a trap for the righteous for he annoys us and opposes our way of life; he reproaches us for our breaches of the Law and accuses us of being false to our up-bringing.

¹³ He claims knowledge of God and calls himself son of the Lord. ¹⁴ He has become a reproach to our way of thinking; even to meet him is burdensome to us. ¹⁵ He does not live like the rest and behaves strangely.

¹⁶ According to him we have low standards and he keeps aloof from us as if we were unclean. He emphasizes the happy end of the righteous and boasts of having God as father.

¹⁷ Let us see the truth of what he says and find out what his end will be. ¹⁸ If the righteous is a son of God, God will defend him and deliver him from his adversaries.

flitting suffering on those who make sacrifices for others. We have even seen comfortable "Christians" rejoicing over the death of those who speak of justice and who, by their own involvement, disturb the conscience of the satisfied.

The mentality of the godless who does not believe in the hereafter is, in some way, very much like that of the society in which we live. Let us set a trap for the righteous since he opposes our way of life. Secretly, we all admire the up-right, but in any institution, his presence disturbs us – in the unions just as in the factories – because we cannot buy his conscience.

He does not live like the rest and behaves strangely. When this was written the Jews were not well thought of by the pagans because of all the details of their lives that were different from the pagan customs. The same is true now as well, even though believers try not to be distinct,

¹⁹ Let us humble and torture him to prove his self control and test his patience. ²⁰ When we have condemned him to a shameful death, we may test his words."

²¹ This is the way they reason, but they are mistaken, blinded by their malice. ²² They do not know the mysteries of God or do they hope for the reward of a holy life; they do not believe that the blameless will be recompensed.

²³ Indeed God has created man to be immortal in the likeness of his own nature. ²⁴ but the envy of the devil has brought death to the world, and those who stand with him shall experience death.

The just will live with God

■ 3 ¹ The souls of the just are in the hands of God and no torment shall touch them.

² In the eyes of the unwise they are dead. Their going is held as a disaster; ³ it seems that they lose everything by departing from us, but they are in peace.

⁴ Though seemingly they have been punished, immortality was the soul of their hope. ⁵ After slight affliction come great blessings, for God has tried them and found them worthy to be with him; ⁶ after testing them as gold in the furnace, he has accepted them as a holocaust.

⁹ Those who trust in him will penetrate the truth, those who are faithful will live with him in love, for his grace and mercy are for his chosen ones.

¹⁰ The godless, instead, who have ignored the upright and deserted the Lord will be punished according to their purposes.

¹¹ Unhappy are those who put no value on wisdom and instruction, their hope is vain, their efforts useless, their work without profit; ¹² their wives are foolish, their children evil, their posterity cursed.

their integrity and their enthusiasm make them "strange."

Those who stand with death experience death. Those who do evil begin to experience death. There is a physical wearing down caused by vice (alcoholism, licentiousness), but there is an even greater deterioration of enthusiasm, happiness and trust. "He who sows in the flesh will reap from it corruption and death" (Gal 6:8). see also Rom. 6:21.

Those who stand with death. The serpent mentioned here is not any image of "evil" but rather it represents the enemy. We may speak of evil but we must also speak of the Evil One. And so, these verses prepare for what the Gospel will say. Jesus will come to personally confront the Enemy: from this will come the liberation of humanity over which death ruled (see Heb 2:14-15).

■ The souls of the just are in the hand of God. This is the great revelation of this book. In the previous books of the Bible, the soul only means the breath of man, that is to say, the life in him which disappears at death. Now, the soul means the person who does not die when the body does.

Their going is held as a disaster. Whether the just die at the hands of violent people, or they die as we all do, the end of their lives seems to contradict God's goodness: it is a scandal that death could overcome the just. (We know that the just are those who fulfil the hopes that God placed in them.) But it is only the body which dies. They are alive before God as Jesus will also state (Luke 20:38).

But they are in peace. They will forever enjoy what they have hoped for here on earth. That is to say, we only see one side of death, the companion or the relative who leaves us. The other side is their entrance into God's world.

At the time of judgment we will see that the just are the only ones who have been alive. The death of the friends of God brings peace to those who were at their side. Through their death the martyrs bring the triumph of the cause for which they lived.

A truly fruitful life

◆¹³ Happy the childless wife if she is blameless and has not been guilty of adultery; she will be found fruitful on the day of judgment.

¹⁴ And happy the impotent man who has done no evil or harboured resentful thoughts against the Lord. His fidelity will be richly rewarded with a special place in the Lord's heavenly sanctuary.

¹⁵ The toil of the righteous bears the choicest fruit; right discernment is a tree that does not wither.

¹⁶ But the children born of adultery die young and the offspring of an unlawful union disappear.

¹⁷ If they live long, they count for nothing and are finally despised in their old age. ¹⁸ If they die young, it is without hope, and they cannot comfort themselves with thinking of the Judgment.

¹⁹ Cruel is the fate of an evil race.

◆ Happy is the childless woman if she is blameless. In the Bible we always find praise of the fruitful life, of a couple having several children and raising them to be fully human (see Psalms 127 and 128). Here the question is renewed: what is a fruitful life? In Israel, being without children was seen as God's punishment and the Law excluded eunuchs (or castrated men) from religious worship. Yet, one of the prophets had taken an opposite view (see Is 56:4).

Better to be without child and to be virtuous. Here we have the revelation of another way of being fruitful: seeking perfection. We know of childless couples and of single women who channeled their capacity for love and surrender toward others and they succeeded in getting spiritual children and family. A fruitful life is one spent for others or for God. When these lines were written, there were Jews going to the desert to form religious communities of single men, in order to pray and to hurry the coming of the Saviour. Years later, Mary will dedicate her virginity to God and so, for Christians, she is the model of a virginity consecrated to God and with its own form of fruitfulness.

○ "Why did God take him? My husband was such a good man." This passage gives an opportune answer in a moving way. God gave some of us the grace to grow more quickly and to reach

4 ¹ Better to have no children and to be virtuous. People like this are highly considered by God and men. The memory of their life cannot end.

² When virtue is present we imitate it; when it is absent we long for it; it is crowned in the everlasting world for having triumphed in the blameless struggle.

³ The numerous race of the wicked is useless. Offspring of doubtful plants, they have no deep roots and cannot lay solid foundations.

○ ⁷ The upright, even if he dies before his time, will be at rest. ⁸ Honourable age does not depend on the length of days, nor is the number of years a true measure of life.

⁹ A man's gray hair is understanding, ripe old age is a spotless life.

¹⁰ The upright was pleasing to God, who loved him and, since he was

1. Sir 16, 3 3. Sir 23, 25 4. Ps 58, 10

in a few years the perfection that others only achieved after many years.

The just one was pleasing to God who loved him. The wife or the son whom God took did not belong to us. A strong bond of love between them and us had developed with countless circumstances and memories, but a stronger love united them to the Lord who had reserved them for himself.

Since he was living among sinners, God took him. (see Gen 5:24). This is another answer to the premature death of our children: Who knows what they would have done with their lives? God knows best what suits every one.

+ The prophets spoke of God's judgment on on many occasions, referring to a judgment on earth, in which God should repay the sinner nations and groups, and redress human history.

But now we learn of an individual judgment after death. This page does not stress on those who were proved in time of peace through their good or evil deeds. It underscores rather those who were faithful in times of persecution.

These words move us in the present years when so many believers cannot speak of justice without risking their work and even their life. Meanwhile the world calls happy those who can afford the drinks, drugs and false lights of consumerism.

living among sinners, he was taken up. ¹¹God removed him lest evil impair his understanding and treachery seduce his soul. ¹²For the fascination of evil darkens true values and restless desire undermines a simple heart.

¹³Though his life soon ended, he travelled far. ¹⁴Because his soul was precious to the Lord, he was quickly removed from the wickedness around him.

¹⁵People have seen but did not understand, and it does not occur to them that God's grace and mercy are with his chosen ones, his protection is for the holy.

¹⁶The just man who dies condemns the wicked man who survives.

The young life fulfilled early condemns the endless days of the wicked.

¹⁷They may see the death of the wise, but they will not understand God's design for him and why he has taken him to safety. ¹⁸They may see and sneer at him, but the Lord also will laugh at them when ¹⁹they have become a useless corpse, a loathsome and dead thing forever.

The Lord will dash them to the ground, voiceless, shaking them from their foundations; they will wither and suffer anguish; even their memory will fade.

²⁰They will come trembling to the reckoning of their sins and they will be confounded when confronted with their wickedness.

Judgment on the just and the godless

¹ Then the just will stand confident facing those who oppressed him, making light of his labours.

² Seeing him they will be seized with a terrible fear, amazed to find him unexpectedly saved.

Stricken with remorse
and distressed, ³ they will groan and say,

⁴ "He is the one we mocked,
the one we reproached, fools that we were!

We considered his life foolishness,
and his death, the supreme humiliation,

⁵ but see: he is counted among the sons of God and is given his lot with the holy angels!

⁶ How far have we wandered from the truth!
The light of the upright has not enlightened us nor has its sun risen for us.

⁷ We have trodden the paths of injustice and death travelling, more than enough,

On that day, we will not wear the mask we all have on earth, a mask which hides our hypocrisy and meanness. We will see ourselves in our nakedness and God the Father, the Lord and Knower of all, will reward or punish us. Then, the wicked will clearly see that their lives were empty: scarcely born, we have disappeared. Before God convicts them, they will judge themselves: their own sins will accuse them (4:20).

On the contrary, the upright will live forever; the Most High has them in his care. We could compare this with the judgment parable in Matthew 25:31, with this difference that Jesus distinguishes between those who looked after their neighbours and those who did not, whereas here, the persecutors and the persecuted face each other. All of them meet again after the time when the wicked triumphed over the just.

through the trackless deserts,
but we were unable to know the Lord's ways.

⁸ What good has been our pride?

What profit in the wealth we boasted about?

⁹ All that has passed away like a shadow,
like a fleeting rumour.

¹⁰ Like a ship cutting the sea, leaving no trace of its course,
and the mark of its keel – not seen in its wake;

¹¹ like a bird flying across the sky leaving no trace of its flight;

it beats the light air with its pinions, cleaving a way by the force of its wings
but without a sign of its passing;

¹² or like an arrow shot to its target, with the displaced air closing in on itself and no one knowing what way it passed.

¹³ It is the same for us: scarcely born we have disappeared.
What sign of virtue are we able to show,
spent as we are in our own wickedness?"

¹⁴ The hope of the godless is like chaff blown in the wind, like a thin frost melted in the storm,
like smoke dispersed by the wind;
it fades like the memory of a one-day guest.

¹⁵ But the upright live forever, their reward is with the Lord and the Most High has them in his care.

¹⁶ This is why they receive, from the hands of the Lord,
the kingdom of glory and the splendid diadem.
He will shelter them with his hand and his arm will be their shield.

¹⁷ God's zealous love will display his weapons

¹⁸ He will put on justice as his breastplate and right judgment as his helmet,

¹⁹ invincible holiness will be his shield,

²⁰ implacable anger will serve as his sword,
and the universe will march with him against the foolish.

²¹ Well aimed bolts of lightning will strike the target; the clouds will be a curved bow shooting arrows.

²² The hailstones of his fury will rain on them, the ocean will rage against them and the rivers engulf them without mercy. ²³ A powerful wind will rise against them and blow them away like straw. In this way lawlessness will bring the whole earth to ruin and evil-doing topple the thrones of the mighty.

■ Here begins the "discourse to the kings about wisdom." As we said in the introduction of Ecclesiastes, it was common to attribute the books of wisdom to Solomon. This can also be seen in this book: the author pretends to be Solomon and he puts the words about wisdom on Solomon's lips.

NO TRUE WISDOM WITHOUT RELIGIOUS TRUTH

6 ¹Listen, O kings, and understand; rulers of the most distant lands, take warning. ²Pay attention, you who rule the multitudes and boast of the numerous subjects of your pagan nations.

³For authority was given you by the Lord, your kingship is from the Most High who will examine your works and scrutinize your intentions.

⁴If as officials of his kingdom you have not judged justly or observed his law or walked the way God pointed out, ⁵he will oppose you swiftly and terribly; his sentence strikes the mighty suddenly.

⁶For the lowly there may be excuses and pardon, but the great will be severely punished.

⁷For the Lord of all makes no distinction, nor does he take account of greatness. Both great and lowly are his work and he watches over all ⁸but the powerful are to be judged more strictly.

⁹It is to you then, sovereigns, that I speak, that you may learn Wisdom and not stumble.

¹⁰For those who keep the holy laws in a holy way will be acknowledged holy, and those who accept the teaching will find in it their defense.

¹¹Welcome my words, desire them and they will instruct you.

¹²Wisdom is luminous and never tarnished; she willingly lets herself be seen by those who love her, and known by those who look for her. ¹³She comes first to meet those who long for her. ¹⁴Seek her in the morning and you will not be disappointed; you will find her sitting at your door.

¹⁵Meditating on Wisdom is the perfection of intelligence; whoever is on the watch for her will be free of any anxiety. ¹⁶She goes in search of those who are worthy of her, graciously meets them on the way and is present in their every thought.

¹⁷The beginning of Wisdom is a sincere desire for discipline; concern for discipline is love of her. ¹⁸and loving her means keeping her laws; ¹⁹the observance of her laws ensures incorruptibility, and incorruptibility brings us close to God.

²⁰In this way the desire for Wisdom leads to kingship.

²¹So then, sovereigns of nations, you who are fond of thrones and sceptres, honour Wisdom if you wish to reign forever.

²²What Wisdom is and how she came to be, I will tell you. I shall hide nothing from you but trace her from the beginning and clearly make her known.

²³I will not mislead you and hide the truth, for I am free of gnawing envy which has nothing in common with Wisdom.

²⁴A great number of wise men could bring about the salvation of the world and a sensible king makes for the stability of his people; ²⁵so learn from what I say and profit from it.

7 ¹I too am a mortal man like the rest, a descendant of the first human being formed from clay. My flesh was moulded in a mother's womb; ²her blood formed me for ten months from the seed of man, given in pleasure, the companion of sleep.

³Once born, I breathed the air common to everyone; I fell on the earth, the same for all; my first cry was like that of other infants.

⁴I was nourished, cared for and wrapped in swaddling clothes; ⁵indeed, no other king began life differently. ⁶For there is but one way into life for all and one way out of it.

I prayed and wisdom was given to me

◆ ⁷I prayed and understanding was given to me; I asked earnestly and the spirit of Wisdom came to me.

⁸I preferred her to sceptres and thrones and I considered wealth as nothing compared with her.

⁹I preferred her to any jewel of inestimable value since gold beside her is nothing but a few grains of sand, and silver but mud. ¹⁰I loved her more than wealth and beauty and even preferred her to light because her radiance never dies.

¹¹She brought with her all other good

◆ I shall hide nothing from you. Christians see their union with God as being more precious than their own lives. They try to share this wisdom with people around, and they help their neighbours and their families to grow more and more in friendship. It is not people who know more who are wiser, but rather those who best know how to share their knowledge with others, especially when what they share is God's friendship.

things, untold riches in her hands. ¹² I rejoiced at all that came with Wisdom without knowing she was their mother.

¹³ What I learned without self-interest I share freely and with no desire to conceal her value; ¹⁴ for she is an inexhaustible treasure for man and those who possess her have gained the friendship of God, commended to him by the fruits of her discipline.

¹⁵ May God grant me to speak with discernment and reflect in a way worthy of the gifts I have received for he is the guide of Wisdom and directs wise men. ¹⁶ For we are in God's hands, we ourselves, our words, our understanding and technical knowledge.

¹⁷ He in fact has given me true knowledge of what is, of the world and the properties of the elements, ¹⁸ the beginning, the end and the times in between, the alternation of the solstices and the succession of the seasons, ¹⁹ the revolution of the years and the position of the stars, ²⁰ the animal species and the ways of wild beasts, the power of spirits, human reasoning, the variety of plants and the medicinal properties of roots.

The reflection of eternal light

o ²¹ I have known everything we see and everything hidden, ²² because Wisdom, author of all, taught me.

²² In her is a spirit that is intelligent, unique, subtle, active, concise, pure and lucid. It cannot corrupt and loves what is good. Nothing can restrain it; ²³ it is beneficent, loving humankind, steadfast, dependable, calm, though almighty. It sees everything and penetrates all spirits, however intelligent, subtle and pure they may be.

²⁴ Wisdom, in fact, surpasses in mobility all that moves, and being so pure pervades and permeates all things.

²⁷ For being one, Wisdom can do all things, and remaining in herself unchanged, she enters holy souls, making them prophets and friends of God. ²⁸ for God only loves those who live with Wisdom.

²⁹ She is indeed more beautiful than the sun and surpasses all the constellations; she outrivals light, ³⁰ for light gives way to night, but evil cannot prevail against Wisdom.

8 ¹ Wisdom displays her strength from one end of the earth to the other, ordering all things rightly.

² I loved her and sought her from my youth; I strove to have her as my bride for I had fallen in love with her beauty.

³ Her nearness to God tells of her noble birth. Because the Lord of all has loved her, ⁴ she is instructed in God's knowledge and chooses his works.

⁵ If we desire riches in life, how much more shall we desire Wisdom who works everything? If the intellect is efficient, still more is she who makes everything. ⁶ If you admire justice, every virtue is the fruit of her labour, for she teaches temperance, prudence, justice, fortitude – all that serves man most in life.

⁷ If someone is eager for experience, she knows what took place in the past and forecasts the future. ⁸ She has the art of interpreta-

o Prv 8:22: what was said there can apply here as well. The true wisdom enabling man to lead his life comes from God: it is something from God himself. God, mysteriously present by our side, or better still, within us, gives us life and wisdom.

Nothing impure can enter it. Note the optimism found in this description. Because she is 'holy and pure' the wisdom of God penetrates everything, even what is impure and imperfect, enlightening our slow and limited spirit. The Jews of the time were learning from the Law that they had to remain "clean" and stay away from all that is "unclean": for example, when two people touched each other, the unclean person contaminated the other (see Lv 11:1; and Hg 2:11). Here, it is the wisdom of God that overcomes darkness and stupidity (see Eph 5:13).

Evil cannot prevail against wisdom. The Christian, rooted in God's word, brings light where darkness ruled: he must be present and active where problems of his country, work, his daily life are decided, without fear of becoming and renew the face of the world.

She transforms men into friends of God. It tion and knows how to solve riddles; she foresees signs and wonders, the end of ages and of eras.

⁹ This is why I decided to have her as companion for life, knowing she would be a wise counsellor and encourage me in times of worry and distress.

¹⁰ I thought, "With her I shall have glory among the nations and, although young, honour among the elderly; ¹¹ I shall be found penetrating in judgment and be admired by the powerful.

¹² If I am silent they will wait to hear me; if I speak, they will pay attention; though I speak at length they will put their hand on their lips.

¹³ Thanks to her I shall win immortality and to those who come after me I shall leave an everlasting memory.

¹⁴ I shall govern peoples, and nations will be subject to me. ¹⁵ Terrible sovereigns will cower when they hear of my name, but to my people I shall show myself kind; in battle courageous.

¹⁶ When I return home I shall take my rest with her, for there is nothing bitter in her company and no suffering in sharing life with her, only pleasure and joy."

¹⁷ Pondering over that, I understood that I would achieve immortality by being united to Wisdom; ¹⁸ I would have pure delight through friendship with her, inexhaustible riches in what she does, understanding by being familiar with her and renown in sharing her conversation. Then I set out to seek and possess her.

¹⁹ I had a pleasant personality even as a child and ²⁰ was good-natured or rather, being good, I had entered an undefiled body.

²¹ But knowing that I could only possess Wisdom if she were given me by God – it was a mark of intelligence to know who was the donor – I turned to the Lord and implored him, saying with all my heart:

Give me your wisdom

+ 9

¹ God of our fathers and Lord of mercy, whose word has created everything and ² who in Wisdom formed man to govern your creation, ³ to rule the world in holiness and justice, passing sentence with right judgment,

⁴ give me Wisdom that sits beside your throne and do not reject me from among your children.

⁵ For I am your servant, son of your handmaid, a weak and mortal man with little understanding of judgment and laws. ⁶ Even the most perfect among the sons of men counts for nothing, unless he has received Wisdom that comes from you.

⁷ You have chosen me as king for your people, as judge for your sons and daughters.

⁸ You have ordered me to build a temple on your holy mountain and an altar in the city where you live, in imitation of the holy Tent that was yours from the beginning.

⁹ With you is Wisdom that knows your works, that was present when you made the world and is aware of what is pleasing in your eyes and what is right according to your commandments.

¹⁰ Send her from the holy heavens, dispatch her from your holy throne to work beside me so that I may know what is pleasing to you.

¹¹ For she knows and understands everything; she will direct my undertakings with prudence and protect me with her power.

¹² Then my deeds will please you, I was said in 2:24 that the devil had corrupted creation by introducing death. Now, the Wisdom of God is correcting the ravage of death:

She is a pure emanation of the glory of God. Christians will see that these words refer to Christ present in the world. Wisdom, "the image of God's excellence, a reflection of his activity" is Christ, as Paul tells us in Col 1:15; Heb 1:3; and also John who calls Christ "the Word" of God (see John 1:1). Also see the introduction to Ephesians.

This prayer refers to the event related in 1 Kings 3:6: the dream in which Solomon asked God for wisdom.

+ The necessary condition to acquire wisdom consists in having a humble and simple heart. To those who cooperate with him, God grants uprightness, prudence and even the authority to lead God's people. Abraham and Moses were called to do great things.

shall judge your people in justice and be worthy of the throne of my father.

¹³ Indeed, what man could know the intentions of God? Who could divine the will of the Lord?

¹⁴ For human reasoning is timid, our notions misleading; ¹⁵ a perishable body is a burden for the soul and our tent of clay weighs down the active mind.

¹⁶ We are barely able to know about the things of earth and it is a struggle to understand what is close to us; who then may hope to understand heavenly things?

¹⁷ Who has ever known your will unless you had first given him Wisdom and sent down your holy spirit to him? ¹⁸ In this way you directed the human race on the right path; they learned who pleases you and were saved by Wisdom.

THE WISDOM OF GOD WORKS IN HISTORY

10 ¹ Wisdom protected the father of the world, the first man to be formed, who was created alone. ² She delivered him from his fault and gave him power to govern all things.

⁵ Again when the nations, united in evil, had been thrown into confusion, it was Wisdom who singled out a righteous man, keeping him blameless before God and steadfast despite his pity for his child.

⁶ It was she who, when the godless perished, saved the righteous man and let him flee from the fire pouring down on the Five Cities. ⁷ To this day the arid land covered in smoke witnesses to their perversity with plants bearing unripe fruit and a pillar of salt standing as a monument to an unbelieving woman.

⁸ For having ignored Wisdom, not only were they kept from knowing what was good, but their ruins were left as a monument to their own foolishness so that failure may never be forgotten.

⁹ But Wisdom rescued her servants from their trials. ¹⁰ Along straight paths she led the upright man fleeing from his brother's anger. She showed him God's kingdom and let him know the holy anger; she made him prosperous and successful in his

■ The Wisdom of God is at work in world history. When an event takes place, we do not, usually, judge its global value: it is history which enables us to appreciate it. When we look at the history of a people, like the Israelites, we see that God had a plan which developed step by step, even though the people were free and sometimes God. Many elements are involved in the realization of God's plan: sin, punishment, penance and forgiveness.

She made them prosperous in their toil. Divine Wisdom taught them the works which were to give fruits and be lasting; she showed the thousand ways which waste time. She taught them to live in the now and to discover in the present moment the resources and joys that God wanted to give them. In spite of the fact that, many times, they did not see beyond the path to be traveled that day, and their daily struggle against their own lies seemed useless, beforehand, wisdom had prepared their lives and one day they will understand how their labors were joined with the labours of many other brothers to build the Future City.

In verse 3, the reference is to Cain: in v 4 to Noah; in v 5 to Abraham; in v 6 to Lot; in v 10 to Jacob; in v 13 to Joseph and in v 16 to Moses.

toil. ¹¹ Wisdom stood by him against the greed of oppressors and made him rich.

¹² She protected him against his enemies and saved him from the traps they set for him; with Wisdom he triumphed in an arduous struggle, learning in this way that nothing is as strong as piety.

¹³ She did not abandon the righteous man when he was sold; still more she kept him free from sin. ¹⁴ She went down into the cistern with him; she did not leave him in his chains, but made him the ruler of a kingdom, giving him authority over his oppressors. She denounced as liars those who accused him falsely and gave him everlasting honour.

¹⁵ It was she who rescued an innocent and holy people from a nation of oppressors.

¹⁶ She entered the soul of God's servant and through him withstood terrible kings with signs and wonders.

¹⁷ To the holy people she gave the wages of their labour, leading them in a wonderful way, giving them shade during the day and the light of the stars at night.

¹⁸ She made them cross the Red Sea, but drowned their enemies ¹⁹ and later washed them ashore from the depth of the abyss.

²⁰ So the righteous looted the godless, singing hymns, Lord, to your holy Name, and one in heart they gave thanks for your saving hand. ²¹ Wisdom gives speech to the dumb and makes infants speak clearly.

◆11 ¹ Wisdom gave success to their actions through a holy prophet; ² they crossed an uninhabited wilderness and pitched camp in inaccessible places.

³ They stood up to their enemies and fought off the hostile. ⁴ When they were thirsty they called on you and you gave them water from the hard stone of a rocky cliff, a welcome relief for the parched.

⁵ The same creatures which you used to punish their enemies were of benefit to them in their trouble.

⁶ The first had an ever-flowing source of river water polluted with blood – ⁷ a stern response to the decree ordering the slaughtering of infants. Instead, against all hope, you gave your people water in abundance, ⁸ showing them by the thirst they suffered, how you had punished their enemies. ⁹ Their trials were no more than merciful reproofs. Through them, your own people learned how severely the wicked were judged and punished.

¹⁰ You tested them as does a father while you examined their enemies like a stern king.

¹¹ The enemies suffered at the time but they also suffered later. ¹² When they remembered the past, theirs was a double grief and groaning. ¹³ They came to see that it was the work of the Lord when they realized that their punishment benefited the others.

¹⁴ Long before, they had exposed Moses; they had rejected him in derision; but now they admired him because of what had happened and after they had suffered a thirst far different from that of the righteous.

¹⁵ Their wickedness and foolish ideas led them astray, even to worshipping snakes and other repugnant animals; this is why you sent them hordes of similar creatures, ¹⁶ teaching them that punishment takes the same form as the sin.

¹⁷ In fact, your almighty power that created the world from formless matter had no difficulty in sending them bears and savage lions, ¹⁸ or monsters freshly created, unknown and full of fury, breathing fire or noisily spitting smoke or flashing fearful sparks from their eyes, ¹⁹ creatures not only capable of destroying them at a single blow but whose mere appearance could make them die of fright.

◆God's love for his people reveals itself in that the very forces of nature serve to punish the Egyptians and to save the Hebrews. This is shown with seven examples: animals, locusts and snakes, hail and manna, darkness and light, the firstborn, the sea (16-19).

The creature which you used to punish their enemies were of benefit to them in their trouble. This can be a lesson concerning the forces ruling our world today. Organization, speed, technology, science, emancipation: all this is instrumental in the liberation of man if used with wisdom. But all this can turn against man when it is used without considering the goal God established for the world.

How God corrects his children

²⁰ Even without this, they could have dropped dead at a single breath if pursued by your justice, or been dispersed by the breath of your might; but you ordered all with measure, number and weight.

²¹ You are able to show your power at any time and who could resist the strength of your arm? ²² For the entire world lies before you, just enough to tip the scales, a drop of morning dew on the ground.

²³ But because you are almighty, you are merciful to all; you overlook sins and give your children time to repent. ²⁴ You love everything that exists and hate nothing that you have made; had you hated anything you would not have formed it.

²⁵ How could anything endure if you did not will it? And how could anything last that you had not willed? ²⁶ You have compassion on all because all is yours, O Lord, lover of life.

12 ¹ In fact your immortal spirit is in all.

² And so by degrees you correct those who sin, you admonish them, reminding them how they have strayed, so that turning away from evil they may trust in you, Lord.

³ So it happened with those who once lived in your holy land. ⁴ You hated them because of their detestable practices, their sorcery and unholy worship. ⁵ They were used to the pitiless murder of children, the feasts at which they ate human flesh and blood and even bowels, while they fulfilled secret rituals.

⁶ Because these parents murdered their defenceless children you wished our ancestors to destroy them, ⁷ and the land dearest to you became the home of God's children who were worthy of it.

⁸ But you even showed mercy to these sinners because they were human beings. You sent hornets ahead of your army to gradually destroy them.

⁹ You could have given over the wicked to the righteous in battle, or destroyed them in one blow by means of savage beasts or with a harsh command; ¹⁰ but in punishing them gradually you gave them time to repent. Nevertheless you were aware of their evil nature, their innate malice and how fixed they were in their ways, ¹¹ for it was a cursed race from the beginning.

In any case, it was not through fear of anyone that you left their sins unpunished.

¹² For who dares say to you, "What have you done?" Who would reject your sentence? Who would reproach you for destroying the nations you formed? Who will rise against you in defense of the guilty?

¹³ For there is no God other than you who care for everyone and who may ask you to justify your judgments; ¹⁴ there is no other king or sovereign who could confront you and support those you punish.

¹⁵ You are just and you rule all with justice; had you condemned those who should not be punished, you would have denied your power.

¹⁶ Your strength is the source of your justice and because you are the Lord of all, you can be merciful to everyone.

¹⁷ To those who doubt your sovereign power you show your strength and you confound the insolence of those who ignore it.

¹⁸ But you, the Lord of strength, you judge with prudence and govern us with great patience because you are able to do anything at the time you want.

¹⁹ In this way you have taught your people that a righteous person must love his human fellows; you have also given your people cause for hope by prompting them to repent of their sin.

²⁰ For if you have been careful and patient in punishing the enemies of your people when they deserved to die, and have given them a time and a place to turn from their wickedness.

o You ordered all with measure, number and weight. Because God's power is absolute, it is not a manifestation of violence: beauty, harmony and goodness are never lacking in all that comes from God.

The passage from 11:5 to 15:19 is a long parenthesis contrasting God's ways, as a friend and master of man with the foolishness of the worship of idols.

+ The materialist ignores God. The proud believe they can achieve anything on their own.

²¹ with what strict attention have you not judged your people, you who bound yourself to our fathers with oaths and covenants full of magnificent promise.

²² Yes, you punish us, but you punish our enemies far more severely to teach us when we judge others, to remember your kindness, and when we are judged to count on your mercy.

²³ Those who lived foolishly and wickedly, you tormented with their own abominations.
